May 12.—PRESIDENT Garcia announced this morning he would invite Rep. Cornelio T. Villareal, Liberal Party president, to accompany him in his forthcoming state visit to the United States.

The President's announcement coincided with a reported administration propose to expand the Council of State and name opposition leaders to the President's highest advisory body.

The Chief Executive confirmed previous reports that he had in mind Villareal, Sen. Claro M. Recto, president of the Nacionalist-Citizens Party, and former Sen. Jose P. Laurel for the Council of State posts.

In making the announcement, the President said he feels there should be a "bipartisan approach to our national problems."

Informed of the President's proposal, Villareal said he would not comment on it because he had not yet received any formal invitation. However, he indicated willingness to consider the matter and consult LP leaders on the advisability of joining both the Council of State and the presidential trip to the United States.

Likewise, Recto gave the assurance he would consult his party's directorate to consider the President's proposal.

At his press conference this morning, the President also:

1. Announced he would get into, the bottom of the explosive dispute over the closing of public streams and rivers by big fishpond owners. The President said he would soon make an on-the-spot investigation of these troubled waters.
2. Denounced rival cliques in the Bureaus of Internal Revenue and Customs which, he said, are concerned more with enriching themselves than in collecting bigger revenues.

It was for this reason that the President called for public support to administration bill that would place key officials of these revenue collection agencies "at the pleasure" of the President.

This morning President Garcia received from Bernardo P. Abrera, general manager of the National Shipyards and Steel Corporation, the "Feasibility and Economic Justification Report" submitted to the Export-Import Bank by Kopper's Company in connection with a pending NASSCO loan application to finance the proposed integrated steel plant at Iligan.

The American consulting engineers' firm recommended to the Export-Import Bank that the 300,000-ton integrated steel plant at Iligan is justified both economically and technically.

The Export-Import Bank had required the NASSCO to secure a favorable report from reputable American consulting engineers before approving its application for a loan.

The firm was commissioned by the Philippine Government to review the work performed in the Iligan integrated steel plant.

The firm alluded to the NASSCO general manager in its report stating that “it has, indeed, been a pleasure to work so closely with Mr. Abrera and it can be said that seldom in our experience have we been able to initiate a project with such a wealth of information available in the early stages.”

Abrera was accompanied by Messrs. Frank Senior, J. Marshall Orris and Richard C. Andres of Kopper’s Company, and Jacques V. Louire and Theodore Wutscher of the Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corporation.

President Garcia also conferred with Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno, Public Works Secretary Floreneio Moreno, Walter Shriro V. Kaspar, Julian Carmona, H. W. Hagedron, V. E. del Rosario, and Miguel Norel regarding the contract awarded by the Cabinet to the Guttenthofnungshute (GHH) of Germany for the manufacture of oxygen top-blown converters for the Iligan steel plant at a cost of about $2,699,700.

The President also received Richard Perkins, vice-chairman of the National City Bank of New York who was accompanied by Richard Henry, manager of the local branch of the bank.

Members of the board of directors of the Filipino Economic Defense League took their oaths of office today before President Garcia. ‘They were Mateo Herrera, president; Lorenzo Valdez, executive vice-president; Alberto Bordallo, treasurer; Irineo Dellosa, secretary; Florentine Garcia, Macario Cruz, and Danilo Sotto, directors; and Dionisio Reyes, legal counsel. Also received by President Garcia was a delegation of the Araw Na Tenants Association, composed of residents in the Hacienda De Guia in Tondo, which requested that the price of the lots be lowered and the sale of lots to non-bona-fide tenants be cancelled.

The tenants alleged that the estate was acquired by the Government at a cost of f 3.50 a square meter but is being sold from ₱11 to ₱25 a square meter.

The President had breakfast with Congress newspapermen before whom he signed the nominations of Serafin Salvador as undersecretary of General Services and of Hermogenes Concepcion, Jr., as city fiscal of Manila.

IN order to retain public confidence in the Armed Forces President Garcia today directed National Defense Secretary Jesus B. Vargas to crack down firmly but justly on cases of abuses and disturbances of the peace by Armed Forces elements.

In a telephone conversation with the defense chief, the President commended Vargas for the latter’s stern treatment of Armed Forces personnel involved recently in a near clash with civil officers in Basilan City, Zamboanga del Sur.

The President issued this directive to arrest Armed Forces abuses and unbecoming conduct in the face of an apparent upsurge of cases of this nature. He told Vargas that “more than one-half of the success of the Armed Forces mission to keep down dissidence and maintain peace and order depends on the esteem, in which our soldiers are held by the civilian population.”

The President added: “Once the civilian population loses faith in the Armed Forces, we will be in very real danger of back-sliding to the situation of eight or 10 years ago.”

For these reasons, the President told Vargas, it was essential that the strictest discipline must be maintained in the ranks of the Armed Forces. The President said the full force of both military and civil laws must be applied on offenders. He added that other cases of violations of the articles of war, like malversation, falsification, estafa, and other crimes should be dealt with sternly and without delay.

The President said further it was a matter of justice to the large majority of the Armed Forces who are carrying out their duties “efficiently conscientiously” that the few whose much-publicized misdeeds tend to put the entire organization into disrepute, be dealt with firmly and swiftly.

Secretary Vargas said that he was in full agreement with the President’s directive to punish Armed Forces excesses “mercilessly” and pledged to implement it to the letter.

THE President this day inquired by telephone from NAWASA General Manager Susano R. Negado about the alleged water shortage in Manila and suburbs due to a reported shortage by 40 million gallons of water a day.

The President asked Negado what steps the NAWASA had taken to meet the situation and insure a steady water supply for the people.

Manager Negado assured the President that although there was a drop in the water supply, the situation was not acute. Negado added that he had already ordered the construction of additional artesian wells in neighboring areas like Forbes Park, Paranaque, and the different housing projects of the government in order to lessen the load of the water lines to Manila. He assured that the people of Manila and the suburbs would not have to fear for their water supply.

PRESIDENT Garcia signed today a proclamation designating the period from June 1 to July 15, 1958, for the tenth annual fund campaign of the Community Chest of Greater Manila.

Present on the occasion were former Education Secretary Teodoro Evangelista, SWA Administrator Amparo Villamor, Judge Natividad Almeda Lopez, A. B. Isip, Mrs. Estela Faust, and Mrs. Pacita Peredo.

The President called upon all residents, firms, and organizations in Manila, Quezon, and Pasay cities, and the municipalities of Navotas, Malabon, Caloocan, San Juan, Mandaluyong, Makati, and Parahaque to support the campaign.

May 13.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning received ranking members of the Airline Pilots Association of the Philippines who requested his help in order to get dollar allocations for their insurance.

Rep. Bartolome Cabangbang of Bohol, who accompanied the group, explained that no local insurance firm is willing- to underwrite the loss of license insurance of Filipino airline pilots and that only the Johnson and Company of Chicago, Illinois, issues policies of this kind.

The Bohol solon further explained that in case ALPOP members lose their license owing to physical disability, they would get their benefits in dollars.

During the conference, President Garcia developed a slight headache. On advice of his physician, the rest of his morning appointments were cancelled.

Members of the pilots’ association who saw the President were Capts. Nilo de Guia, J. Ballesteros, E. Sanches, C. Villareal, R. Tomacruz, M. Cuevas, P. Dangoy, F. Garcia, B. Nario, Jr., R. Nera, and V. Fernandez. Major Arturo Sevilla, presidential adviser on aviation, was present at the “conference.

Earlier in the morning, President Garcia received Gov. Juan Frivaldo of Sorsogon, and Reps. Leon Guinto, Jr., and Manuel Enverga of Quezon, Fausto Dugenio of Misamis Oriental, Wenceslao R. Lagumbay of Laguna, Antonio de Pio of Cebu, Salvador Encinas of Sorsogon, Isidro Kintanar and Reynaldo Honrado of Surigao, Nicanor Yhiquez of Leyte, Lorenzo Teves of Negros Oriental, and Emilio Espinosa of Masbate.

In the afternoon, the President felt better after resting.

May 14.—PRESIDENT Garcia has recovered from an indisposition which had forced him to cancel his engagements the other day.

The President, during a conference with airline pilots last Tuesday, developed a slight headache upon listening to his callers' request for dollar allocations.

The President stayed in his Quezon City residence the whole day today. It was learned he was resting and occasionally turned to state papers needing his attention. Although he was reported ready to preside over the Cabinet meeting, it was learned that he remained in his residence.

PRESIDENT Garcia named today Vice-President Diosdado Macapagal and two minority leaders to the Council of State.

Named with Macapagal, titular head of the Liberal Party, were Sen. Claro M. Recto, president of the Nationalist-Citizens Party, and Rep. Cornelio T. Villareal of Capiz, LP president.

The seat in the Council of State is the first position to be given to Macapagal in the various government bodies.

At the same time, President Garcia called the council to its first meeting Tuesday noon. He said it would be "organizational" in nature.

However, Malacañang said the President may take up with the council "matters relating to his forthcoming trip to the United States."

The President also appointed former Sen. Jose P. Laurel to the body.

In re-creating the Council of State, the President named the following as its members: Vice-President Macapagal, the Senate president, the Speaker of the House, the Senate president pro tempore, the Speaker pro tempore of the House, the majority floor leaders of both Chambers, members of the Cabinet with portfolios, the chairman of the National Economic Council, the president of the governors and city mayors league, former President Sergio Osmeña, Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, president of the first Philippine Republic, Laurel, president of the wartime republic, Sen. Recto, and Rep. Villareal.

Members of the old Council of State not reappointed were Sen. Lorenzo M. Tañada, former Gov. Juan O. Chioco, Alfonso Ponce Enrile, and Vicente Noble.

A Malacañang spokesman said the Council of State will advise the President on "matters of public policy." He said the President will from time to time call the body to a meeting to take up such matters.

The President named minority members to the Council of State upon the suggestion of the Council of Leaders at their meeting last Saturday.

Sen. Recto last Sunday said he was willing to join the Council of State, but he must consult the national directorate of his party.

Malacañang identified the Cabinet members with portfolio who are members of the Council of State. They are the secretaries of finance, foreign affairs, justice, agriculture, public works, education, labor, defense, health, commerce, general services, and the executive secretary.

PRESIDENT Garcia will formally launch the sale of Philippine development bonds abroad during his state visit in the United States when he will “start the ball rolling” for the disposal of $200 million on the American market.

The $200 million set aside for sale in the American market will be redeemable in 20 years. The sale was approved at the Cabinet meeting this afternoon.

Today’s Cabinet meeting was presided by Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, in the absence of President Garcia, who was still resting owing to a headache developed the previous day.

Upon recommendation of Secretary Hernandez, the proceeds from the sale of the $200 million bonds in the U.S. will be used in procuring capital goods and raw materials to develop self-liquidating projects in the Philippines which will either earn dollars or save dollars.

The Cabinet this afternoon also:

1. Approved the sale of 5,000 government shares in the PEMCO (Philippine Electrical Manufacturing Corporation), at the close of the present fiscal year, which will be worth anywhere between ₱120 and ₱130 a share, at public bidding; and
2. Approved in principle the purchase of machinery and equipment for the cottage industry pilot plant utilizing coconut by-products in the manufacture of coirmats, carpets, rugs, and others, for ₱622. The machinery and equipment will be purchased from either England or West Germany or procured as reparations items.

The President received reassurance that all legal and justified claims he might present in behalf of the Philippines during his visit to the United States in June would be given the “most careful and sympathetic consideration” by the American people.

The reassurance was given by Acting Senate Majority Floor Leader Mike Mansfield in a recent speech delivered on the floor of the U. S. Senate. The Senator said: “I am sure the American people will be ready to extend to President Garcia whatever assistance his country needs, consistent with our domestic and international commitments.”

Calling President Garcia a friend, ally, and patriot, Sen. Mansfield said he was certain that the Philippine Chief Executive will find everyone here willing to cooperate and help the Filipino people, especially because under President Garcia’s leadership they are carrying out an austerity program that is proving both effective and salutary.”

May 15.— AT A BREAKFAST conference this morning with Senate reporters at his house in Quezon City, President Garcia said he would govern the country “by remote control” during his stay in the U.S.

He said “it was a natural course of action to take” since Macapagal “cannot be trusted,” being a member of the opposition.

President Garcia said he will transmit to Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo definite instructions as to the manner of running the government.

He noted that Macapagal, who should logically act for him during his absence, is in a peculiar situation because he belongs to the opposition party.

Besides, the President observed, the Vice-President has been attacking the Administration and his policies while Ca a “thank-you tour” of the country.

President Garcia stressed the need for securing development loans from the United States on strictly business terms by pointing out to the many power projects which the government must establish to boost its economy.

He observed that by 1960, Manila and its environs will suffer from power shortage if multi-purpose power projects are not established.

He said the Marikina project and a new one, the Angat power project which is capable of 230,000-kilowatt power, should be set up by that time.

In his talk with Senate reporters, the Chief Executive also hinted that former Senator Francisco Delgado will be named ambassador to the United Nations, vice acting Secretary of Foreign Affairs Felixberto M. Serrano.

Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez later confirmed the projected designation of Delgado as in accordance with an agreement reached between President Garcia and the Council of Leaders.

The President also told the newsmen:

1. He would not press for the $800 million omnibus claims of the Philippines against the United States Government in view of the recession period in America. However, he indicated that exploratory talks might be initiated on the matter.

2. No Filipino citizens are fighting on the side of the Indonesian rebels as charged by certain quarters in the Sukarno government. President Garcia pointed out that the foreign office records will show that no passports have been issued to Filipinos during the past months for travel to Indonesia.

3. Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez had been chosen by his colleagues in the Cabinet to preside at the meeting of the body during the absence of the President.

4. He would call a special session of Congress only if both chambers could give assurances they would agree on certain fundamental points regarding some proposed amendments to the Constitution.

5. His proposal to revamp both the Bureaus of Customs and Internal Revenue by a congressional declaration that certain positions could be held only at the President’s discretion “is within constitutional limits.”

The President said the government’s policy of non-intervention in the Indonesia civil war v/as being consistently followed.

With regard to Indonesian government claims that some Filipinos are fighting with the rebels, President Garcia explained it was possible certain Filipinos who have been residents of Singapore, Malaya, and other places but who are already British subjects have enlisted with the rebel government.

Delgado’s nomination, it was pointed out, was with the sanction of Nacionalista Party leaders. The former senator has been a resident commissioner to Washington and member of the US War Damage Commission.

After his breakfast with Senate newspapermen, the President received Justice Secretary Jesus G. Barrera and discussed with him the legality of some of the administration measures which Malacañang referred to Congress.

Barrera headed a three-man committee which studied the constitutionality of several measures, including the plan to reclassify the top positions in the Bureaus of Customs and Internal Revenue as “highly technical and confidential in nature. The other two members are Judge Salvador Esguerra and Prof. Enrique M. Fernando.

The Barrera committee, it was learned, upheld the legality of the administration measures.

Barrera also discussed with the President appointments to the judiciary to fill up many vacancies in the bench.

The President stayed in his Quezon City residence where he went over various state papers.

At the same time, the President reiterated his invitation to the Liberal Party president to join him in his state visit to the United States.

Rep. Villareal was reported to have accepted President Garcia’s invitation to join the latter’s entourage on a state visit to the United States next month.

It was learned that Villareal also indicated his willingness to join the Council of State to which he and two other minority leaders, Vice-President Diosdado Macapagal, titular head of the Liberal Party, and Senator Claro M. Recto, president of the Nationalist-Citizens Party, had been appointed.

PRESIDENT Garcia issued an executive order this day creating his Council of State to advise him “on such matters of public policy as he may from time to time lay before it.”

The council, as constituted by the order, is composed of the following and such other persons as the President may appoint from time to time:

1. The Vice-President
2. The President of the Senate
3. The Speaker of the House of Representatives
4. The Members of the Cabinet with portfolios
5. The President Protempore of the Senate.
6. The Speaker Protempore of the House of Representatives
8. The Majority Floor Leader of the House of Representatives

President's Month in Review: May 16-31, 1958

OFFICIAL MONTH IN REVIEW

May 16.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning pointed out the important role that rural banks are playing in the rural areas and said that his administration is cognizant of their help in the increasing economic development of the country.

The Chief Executive made these remarks after administering the oath of office to the newly-elected members of the Board of Directors of the Rural Banks Association of the Philippines in ceremonies held at Malacañang.

The rural banks are especially important in the rural areas because of their role in implementing the retail trade nationalization, financing small farmers, and boosting cottage industries, President Garcia said.

The President expressed his desire to help in a small measure the rural banks when he stated that he favors the amendment of Republic Act 720, better known as the Rural Bank Act, in order to remedy the difficulties encountered by rural banks in extending more liberal loans to farmers and homesteaders to enable them to develop their lands.

Following the ceremony, the President held his regular weekly press conference. Then he proceeded to his study where he received some callers.

Justice Secretary Barrera conferred with the President on the appointment of judges to fill up existing vacancies in the judiciary. Present at the conference were Executive Secretary Juan C. PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon announced he will extend his "house-cleaning" campaign to the Bureau of Internal Revenue as he prepared to suspend more officials and employees of the Bureau of Customs on charges of corruption.

He told his weekly press conference: "The drive is on. It will spread wherever it is necessary. The Bureau of Internal Revenue is on the deck."

The President said the suspension of 26 customs officials and employees yesterday was a positive result of the investigation being undertaken by the team under Calinawan.

He said that Calinawan had assured him that as a result of the inquiry into customs anomalies, collection figures are expected to pick up. "This will be seen sometime next month," the President added.

The President also announced he has accepted a compromise bill on the reorganization of the BIR and the Bureau of Customs by limiting confidential positions "only to the commissioners and deputy commissioners,

In accepting the compromise bill, the President said, "It will achieve the same purpose."

DURING the press conference the President accepted "with regret" the resignation of Teodoro F. Valencia from the Board of Review for Moving Pictures.

The President thanked Valencia "for your great work as executive secretary, member, and chairman of the Board of Review for Moving-Pictures since 1946, positions which you held without compensation."

"It is with regret that I accede to your request to be relieved of further service in a position that you have occupied with great credit for more than 12 years under four administrations," the President said in his letter accepting the resignation of Valencia.

Valencia, who was the chairman of the board until his resignation, expressed his inability to accept his reappointment to the board because of the pressure of his work in the newspapers and radio.

May 17.—PRESIDENT Garcia repaired to this summer resort for a weekend rest today after a tight whole-day schedule of inaugurating projects in Pangasinan calculated to boost his economic program.

Before he left for Pangasinan this morning, President Garcia signed the appointments of Judges Edmundo Piccio and Juan Lanting to vacancies in the Court of Appeals.

He also appointed 19 nominees to courts of first instance and shifted 20 judges to other districts,

The President submitted the appointments to the Commission on Appointments for confirmation.

In Pangasinan the President plugged for the success of the administration's program of food self-sufficiency when he inaugurated the ₱17 million Agno River irrigation system and cold storage plants in the towns of San Manuel and Urdaneta.

The Agno River irrigation system is the largest single system of its kind in the Philippines. It will serve nine towns; namely, San Manuel, Asingan, Binalonan, Urdaneta, Villasis, Manaoag, Mapandan, Malasiqui, and Sta. Barbara.

President Garcia and his party arrived in Pangasinan at 11 a.m. They were met at the border at barrio Carmen, Rosales, by a big delegation of Pangasinan officials and residents.

After the inauguration of the barrio road, President Garcia inaugurated the refrigeration plant in Urdaneta. He had his lunch at the Sta. Barbara nursery in the town of Sta. Barbara.

IN the afternoon, before proceeding to the Agno River irrigation system, the President inaugurated the ICA-NAWASA artesian well in barrio Minien, Sta. Barbara, and also a feeder road in that barrio, a project realized with the helps of barrio folks.

In the town of Binalonan, on his way to San Miguel, the President was stopped by a big crowd and was offered garlands.

After inaugurating the Agno River irrigation system, the President tried his hand at planting rice in a barrio in San Manuel where he waded into the muddy rice field together with Pangasinan Gov. Conrado Estrella and some farmers.

After a merienda, the President motored to Baguio. He was accompanied by Press Secretary Guillermo V. Sison and Assistant Executive Secretary Sofronio Quimson.

He wired instructions to Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo in Manila, directing the certification.

Waking up refreshed by the salubrious Baguio air, President Garcia invited newsmen who had joined his Pangasinan-Baguio trip, to have breakfast with him. He also held an informal press conference.

The President told newsmen of his high hopes that the country would be self-sufficient in rice next year because the Administration's intensive food production campaign will fill the country's annual shortage of two million cavans of palay.

Early this morning, the President heard mass at the Guest House. After the mass the President had breakfast with reporters.

Then he received Reps. Lamberto Macias of Negros Oriental, Aguedo Agbayani of Pangasinan, and Ramon P. Mitra of Mt. Province; Baguio City Mayor Alfonso Tabora; and Brig. Gen. Marcos Soliman, PMA superintendent.

Seventeen nations, including the Philippines, are attending the demonstration which will last for five days.

Admiral Felix Stump, US commander-in-chief for the Pacific area, and Lieut. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, Armed Forces chief of staff, accompanied the military leaders.

PRESIDENT Garcia announced today he was ready to use Navy personnel to prevent paralyzation of the Bureau of Customs as a result of the suspension of several officials and employees of that office.

He made the announcement after reading reports that Lt. Cmdr. Marcelino Calinawan, head of a presidential team investigating corruption in the bureau, was ready to recommend the suspension of 37 other customs officials and employees allegedly linked to irregularities.

President Garcia said he had been informed that the suspension of the 26 officials and employees had not adversely affected the functions of the customs bureau. However, he expressed fear that the relief of more may cripple customs work.

In order to prevent such a situation, the President said he was ready to employ personnel from the Navy and the Department of Finance to carry on the functions of the customs office on an emergency basis.

Commenting on reports that Rolando Geotina, suspended head of the customs inter-audit service, had threatened to make an "expose" of the Calinawan team, President Garcia said, "Let him come out with the charges."

The President viewed Geotina's threat as a "counter-offensive" to harass Calinawan's group in its investigations. He indicated that he was satisfied with the progress of the inquiry so far.

The Chief Executive also called upon civic-spirited citizens to come out and cooperate with the Malacañang investigators.

He asserted that he was determined to rid the customs bureau of grafters who had cheated the government of considerable revenues.

President Garcia also reiterated he was planning to extend the probe from the Bureau of Customs to the Bureau of Internal Revenue and other offices where investigation is warranted.

May 19.—PRESIDENT Garcia resumed his speech-writing at the Guest House and did not receive any callers during the day.

His Press Secretary said the President was working on a speech he will deliver at Fordham University, where he is scheduled to be conferred an honorary degree.

May 20.—PRESIDENT Garcia was assured today by Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez at the enactment of administration measures now pending in Congress. The assurance was made at a conference held at the residence of President Garcia in Quezon City.

At the same time, Speaker Romualdez belied newspaper reports about a Malacañang-Congress controversy when he informed the Chief Executive that 90 per cent of the administration measures were already approved and the rest were still being discussed with good chances of being approved.

After the conference, the President sent to Congress a batch of legislative measures which he certified as urgent, among them a bill promoting the development of the coconut industry and creating a coconut bank, a bill granting life pension and franking privileges to former Presidents of the Philippines or their widows, a bill granting death compensation to the family of the late Sen. Manuel Briones, the dual citizenship bill, and the ratification of the conventions adopted and entered into by the Philippine delegation to the Geneva Labor Conference.

The President also received Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno, Reps. Natalio Castillo of Bohol, Leon Guinto, Jr., of Quezon, and Benjamin T. Ligot of Cagayan before going to Malacañang to induct Jose S. Rodriguez, well-known banker, insurance executive, and businessman, as chairman of the Board of Directors of the National Development Company.

THIS noon the President administered the oath of office to Jose S. Rodriguez as chairman of the Board of Directors of the National Development Company in a simple ceremony held at Malacañang.

After his induction, Rodriguez said that he will continue the sound policy laid down by his predecessors and implement to the best of his ability the economic program of President Garcia for the industrial development of the country.

He emphasized the fact that the state firm plays an important role in the national economy, especially the development of the NDC ramie textile mill in Davao City and the cotton-growing project in Cotabato.

He pleaded for the cooperation and loyalty of NDC officials and personnel and urged them to give him constructive suggestions in order to improve public service and insure the success of all NDC activities, projects, and programs designed to remedy the economic situation of the Philippines.

THE Council of State at its organizational meeting this afternoon since the inauguration of President Garcia, unanimously adopted a resolution endorsing the President's state visit to the United States for the purpose of seeking development loans to strengthen the country's economy.

The resolution was drafted by former President Sergio Osmeña, Sr., and was sponsored in the Council by Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr. Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano read the resolution.

The reconstituted Council was attended among others by the Liberal Party president, Rep. Cornelio T. Villareal, and the Nacionalista-Citizens Party president, Sen. Claro M. Recto. Vice-President Macapagal who was made a member of the Council by an executive order of the President, was not present because he was on a tour of Southern Philippines. General Emilio Aguinaldo, who is also a Council member, was not present owing to illness. Secretary Alejandro Almendras of General Services and House Majority Floorleader Jose M. Aldeguer were not present because they were both out of town.

The Council of State approved the implementation of projects to be financed from bond issues amounting to ₱80,249,400. These projects are broken down as follows: highways ₱14,357,000; irrigation, ₱39,800,000; river control, ₱3,650,000; NAWASA waterworks, ₱12,420,00; and portworks ₱10,022,400.

In this connection, the Council decided that in deciding matters, like the floating of bonds to finance government projects, the Council of State should first approve the policy, then the projects are referred to the National Economic Council and the Monetary Board for screening, and finally these projects are returned to the Council of State for decision before being acted upon by the President.

At the same time, the Council approved, as recommended by the President, the membership of a reconstituted screening committee which will go over such projects as follows: Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno, as chairman; with Senate Majority Floorleader Cipriano P. Primicias, House Speaker Protempore Constancio Castaheda, Budget Commissioner Dominador R. Aytona, Finance Secretary and Monetary Board Chairman Jaime Hernandez, NEC Chairman Jose Locsin, LP President Cornelio T. Villareal,

The inclusion of Rep. Villareal and Sen. Recto in the screening committee was sponsored by Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez and seconded by Dr. Jose P. Laurel, Sr.

Since the meeting of the Council of State was organizational in nature, Sen. Recto, at the start of the meeting moved that the Council of State meet every first Tuesday of the month without prejudice to the President's calling the Council to a meeting in case there are urgent matters to be taken up. The motion, which was seconded by Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, was approved unanimously.

The meeting was presided over by President Garcia, who started the proceedings by thanking the members of the reconstituted Council of State in accepting their appointments and for their being present. He said he was especially happy over the fact that LP President Villareal and NCP President Recto were present so that they could exchange views with the members of the highest advisory body to the government and with the President.

The President also expressed gratification over the fact that other members of the Council of State were men who enjoyed the highest prestige in the country in view of the services that they had rendered to the country like those who had been past Presidents of the Philippines.

The Council meeting started with a luncheon at 12:30 p.m. at the Malacañang banquet hall. The luncheon was immediately followed by the meeting which lasted up to about 3 p.m.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon inducted into office former Rep. Serafin Salvador of Rizal as undersecretary of the newly-created Department of General Services in a ceremony held at the Malacañang reception hall.

The appointment of Salvador to that new department fills the two top positions of the DGS. Former Davao Gov. Alejandro Almendras had been sworn in by the Chief Executive as DGS secretary on May 8.

Salvador has been in the government service for more than 20 years, having started as legal assistant in the Bureau of Prisons in 1936. Subsequently, he was a member of the legal staff of the Department of Justice and later represented the second district of his province in Congress.

Among those present at this afternoon's ceremony were Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, Acting Labor Secretary Agapito Braganza, Rizal Gov. Isidro Rodriguez, RFC Governor Bobby Benedict, Miss Helen Z. May 21.—UPON instructions of President Garcia antitoxins were airlifted today to Aurora, Zamboanga, for an indigent patient suffering from tetanus at a hospital in that town.

The president's directive was given to PCAC Vice-Chairman Tirso Joson following receipt of a telegram from the Aurora town mayor who said that no medicine could be obtained in that locality for the tetanus victim, Jesus Catan.

Joson immediately secured the needed medicine from the Bureau of Hospitals and had it rushed to the Aurora hospital.

THIS afternoon President Garcia submitted for confirmation by the commission on Appointments the nomination of Brig. Gen Manuel Cabal, chief of the Constabulary, as major general and vice-chief of staff of the Armed Forces.

The President also nominated three colonels as brigadier generals. They are Cols. Isagani Campo of the IV Infantry Division, Ramon Aguirre of the Veterans Affairs Division, and Benjamin Molina of the 4th Military Area.

The President today cancelled all scheduled callers in order to devote his time to clearing his desk of pending state papers, particularly important bills which needed certification to Congress.

He spent the day with Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo and Assistant Legislative Secretary Vicente Logarta in his residence on Bohol Avenue,

Among those certified as urgent was House Bill No 1727, providing for the extension of the southern line of the Manila Railroad to Matnog, Sorsogon at a cost of ₱15 million.

The President also certified bills seeking to amend the charter of Pasay City and recreate the City of Legaspi.

Other nominations signed today by the Chief Executive were those of local officials including judges and fiscals.

Pajo and Logarta helped the President sort out the different measures which President Garcia certified today as “urgent” to Congress.

President Garcia signed several appointments as he stayed at his Quezon City residence the whole day.

Several solons had tried to see the President but most of them were reported barred from seeing him. .

PRESIDENT Garcia this evening signed two bills passed during the current session of the Congress. They are:

(1) House Bill No. 481, amending the Tariff and Customs Code so as not to require fishing vessels from 10 to 150 gross tons to employ a full complement of deck and engine officers. They shall only be required to carry one licensed navigator and one licensed engineer regardless of grade

(2) House Bill No. 1090, increasing the participation of the Philippines in the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development from $15 to $50 million.

These two measures had been certified by the President to Congress as urgent.

May 22.—PRESIDENT Garcia, on the last day of the 100-day session of Congress, today invited the members of the House, irrespective of party affiliation, to a breakfast get-together in the Malacañang social hall.

Some 70 tired but still enthusiastic solons responded to the President’s invitation. There were three Liberal solons who attended the breakfast “pow-wow.”

At the breakfast conference, the President plugged for administration bills which were earlier reported to have been pigeon-holed by Senate-House conflict.

The President said he was interested in the passage of the reclamation bill and the measure authorizing him to reorganize the graft-ridden Bureaus of Internal Revenue and Customs.

The House members were headed by Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez and Speaker Protempore Constancio E. Castañeda.

Acting Majority Floor Leader Justiniano S. Montano, in expressing his thanks to the President on behalf of his colleagues, said that they will reciprocate the Palace hospitality with a midnight snack at a downtown eatery.

It was learned that the President will meet the solons at the Jai Alai shortly after the end of the regular session.

After breakfast, the President held separate conferences with the congressmen on problems in their respective districts.

Those who saw the President after the breakfast were Reps. Inocencio Ferrer, Vicente Gustilo, Apolinario Apacible, Benjamin Ligot, Salipada Pendatun, Lamberto Macias, Lucas Paredes, and Marcelino Veloso.

IN the afternoon, the President inducted into office Nicolas L. Cuenco as commissioner of public highways. Cuenca succeeded Rodolfo Maslog, who has been named chairman of the Reparations Commission.

PRESIDENT Garcia today directed Francisco H. Calinawan, chairman of the Committee on Sulu Affairs and presidential performance officer, to confer immediately with department secretaries and other government officials concerned and discuss with them the solutions to the various problems confronting the people of the Sulu Archipelago.

The President told Calinawan to submit to the Cabinet at its next meeting the proposed solutions to the Sulu problems for final approval and implementation.

Calinawan who had been sent by the President a few days ago to survey the situation in the South, reported that there was food shortage in that area which had been worsened by long, drought. He said that rice was selling at ₱1.60 a ganta at Sitangkai, and cassava, at five times its normal price.

Other problems found by Calinawan in his survey trip are:

(1) There is deficiency in water supply. More than one-half of the artesian wells are not working and the others have either dried up or are giving salty water. Drinking water in Sitangkai is selling at 10 centavos a gallon.

(2) Farmers, particularly in Tawi-Tawi and Jolo Islands, cannot raise sufficient food crops owing to the presence of an estimated 400,000 wild hogs. Farmers are clamoring for barbed wire fences as an aid from the government.

(3) Educational facilities are utterly deficient. Forty thousand elementary pupils have only 5,000 desks and 300 blackboards. Textbooks and schoolhouses are inadequate.

(4) The 150,000 inhabitants of Siasi, Bongao, Simunul, Sibutu, and Sitangkai districts do not have doctors, nurses, and midwives to attend to the health needs of the people.

Calinawan reported that the peace-and-order situation in the South was not as bad as pictured in previous reports. He added that the fishing industry had a bright future in Sulu and that, if this industry could be developed there, the Philippines would increase its fish supply.

The President had sent Calinawan to make a survey of the situation in Sulu before formally launching his new program of social amelioration in that part of the country.

May 23.—PRESIDENT Garcia today listed eight administration measures, topped by the 1958-1959 budget and the public works bill for the agenda of Congress at its special session which opens at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

He signed today a proclamation formally recalling the Legislature to a special session to take up the important measures left unacted upon when Congress adjourned its 100-day regular session at midnight Thursday night.

At his weekly press conference in the afternoon, the President said that, although he had given Congress an unspecified period for the special session, the number of days not to exceed the 30-day constitutional limitation, he expects the legislature to wind up its unfinished business in a week's time.

Aside from the budget and public works bill, among those lined up by the President for legislative implementation in the special session are the bills on the proposed reorganization of the Bureaus of Customs and Internal Revenue and the controversial Dewey Boulevard reclamation project.

President Garcia was asked to comment at the press conference on the accomplishment of Congress during its regular session.

He paused for a second and said, "I wish to defer my appraisal until after the close of the special session."

Pressed on the point, he commented, "So far, Congress has approved the nickel, science, and food production bill."

The President decided to call Congress to a special session after it adjourned at midnight Thursday without having passed the budget and public works measure.

The President had announced he was opposed to calling Congress back for a special session unless he could be assured of the passage of an amendment to the Constitution to synchronize elections every four years.

Today, he said he would take up his plan to amend the Constitution after the special session.

At his press conference, President Garcia defended the right of Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona to follow up the general appropriations bill.

He took up the cudgels for Aytona against the attacks hurled Thursday night by Sen. Gil J. Puyat, who accused the budget commissioner of interfering in the work of Congress.

It was learned that the Senate-House conference committees were about to sign the compromise measure when Puyat fulminated against Aytona and broke up the meeting without the agreement being finalized.

In defending Aytona the President said that the budget commissioner has often been consulted by senators and representatives on the proposed budget.

He said Aytona's presence in the legislature was justified under the circumstances.

President Garcia sailed with the First Lady and a group of Manila newspapermen late in the evening on board the yacht Sta. Maria for Talibon, Bohol, where the President and Mrs. Garcia will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary.

The First Family will celebrate the wedding anniversary on Monday to make it coincide with the town fiesta of the President's town, Talibon.

Inducted by the President in the presence of high ranking government officials, relatives, and friends were: Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, National Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas; Acting Commerce Secretary Pedro C. The 1958 Cerebral Palsy Fund Drive officials were headed by John P. Feeley, chairman of the Elks Cerebral Palsy project and Director of the Board, and H. B. Reyes, chairman of the 1958 fund campaign.

May 24.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia renewed their marriage vows in a simple ceremony held before an improvised altar aboard the yacht Sta. Maria early this morning on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary.

Present at the simple rites were a few close relatives and friends, including Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, who had gone to the Navy yacht basin on Dewey Boulevard to see the couple off for Bohol to attend the town fiesta of Talibon, the President's hometown.

The ceremony was officiated by Father Gerald Trienikenes, the same priest who had married the couple in Opon, Cebu, the hometown of Mrs. Garcia, exactly 25 years ago. The priest remembered that the ceremony of May 25, 1933, was also held on a Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Campos were best man and matron of honor, respectively. Rep. Maximino Noel of Cebu and Mrs. Providencia Vizarra stood as sponsors. They took the place of Sen. Mariano J. Cuenco and Mrs. Asuncion Alonzo.

The ceremony started at 1:10 a.m. when the wedding procession emerged from the presidential cabin and marched around the dining saloon to a simple altar set up against the cabin wall. The President wore a cutaway, the same suit he wore on his inauguration, while the First Lady wore a white terno. The ceremony lasted about 15 minutes. Father Trienikenes was assisted by Capt. Juan Tugade, Army chaplain.

The President decided to hold the ceremony only about 5:30 yesterday afternoon on learning that the priest, who had married them years ago happened to be in Manila, putting his papers in order and preparing to return to his native Holland after spending 33 years of missionary work in this country. Also at this morning's ceremony was Father Luis Boeren, present parish priest of Opon. Jing Ramos, seven-year old nephew of the First Lady, was ring-bearer.

Following the ceremony, the First Lady cut a simple wedding cake hurriedly ordered by Palace assistants from a Manila bakery as soon as they learned of the President's decision to hold an impromptu ceremony. Mrs. Avelina Mayuga sang Ave Maria by Santiago, accompanied by a four-man string band of the Presidential Guard Battalion.

The yacht Sta. Maria shoved off for Bohol shortly after 2 p.m. Among those present at the ceremony were Speaker Romualdez, Representatives Bartolome Cabangbang and Ramon Mitra, and Secretaries Jesus Vargas and Jaime Hernandez.

FOREIGN Affairs Secretary and Mrs. Felixberto M. Serrano headed the well-wishers of President and Mrs. Carlos P. Garcia this day on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary.

Secretary and Mrs. Serrano in their congratulatory telegram said that both the President and Mrs. Garcia "in sharing the travails and reaping together the fruits of success of a political life, have produced a living example in Philippine life of how a husband and wife should contribute their respective lot not only for their common benefit and happiness but also for their country and people."

The foreign affairs secretary's telegram congratulated the President and Mrs. Garcia for the devotion and affection which they have both manifested to each other during the long period of their marriage.

Other officials and Malacañang newsmen have also congratulated the President and the First Lady on their silver wedding anniversary.

May 25.—THE President and his family arrived in Talibon at 12:30 p.m. aboard the yacht Santa Maria, following a 33 hour trip from Manila. The arrival was delayed a few hours, for the yacht had to slow down as it gingerly traversed the approaches off Talibon which abound in treacherous reefs larking below sea surface.

The yacht dropped anchor about a mile off Talibon harbor. The presidential party was conveyed ashore on the ship's motor launch.

The people of the quiet little fishing town of Talibon on the northern coast of Bohol turned out en masse, complete with fireworks, brass bands, and parade, to welcome the presidential party. They were glad their favorite son, "Caloy," had returned once again to his hometown on the eve of its fiesta as he had been doing every year for many years in the past.

From the wharf, the President and his family headed a long procession to the church, where a Te Deum was sung, officiated by Father Marcelino de Castro, parish priest.

Then the presidential party repaired to the guest house nearby, where the presidential family were billeted during their two-day stay there.

PRESIDENT Garcia administered oaths of office to Felix Marfori and Patricio Ceniza as judges of the courts of first instance of Samar and Misamis Occidental, respectively, in ceremonies held in Talibon today.

Present at the ceremony were provincial and municipal officials headed by Gov. Esteban Bernido, Rep. Maximino Garcia, and Mayor Lazaro Evardo of Talibon. The induction was held at the town's guest house shortly after the President's arrival here.

Judge Marfori has been in the government service for 33 years and was fiscal in Palawan, Zambales, Bataan, Mt. Province, La Union, Negros Oriental, and for 12 years in Bohol before his appointment as judge.

Judge Ceniza, likewise, has been in the government for 34 years, 17 years as provincial fiscal and another 17 years as judge. He has been assigned to some 20 provinces all over the country.

May 26.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia today reenacted the veil and cord JKT ceremony in Talibon in connection with the celebration of their Silver wedding anniversary.

Like the simple rites held aboard the yacht Sta. Maria at the Navy yacht basin early last Saturday morning when the President and the First Lady only exchanged marriage vows, this morning's ceremony held at the town church was as simple with only close relatives and friends in attendance.

It was explained the veil and cord rites were held separately from the rest of the ceremony because such was the case 25 years ago. The marriage had been solemnized in Opon, Cebu, and during those days no veil and cord ceremonies were held in the afternoon when the wedding took place. Cord and veil rites were held the following morning in Talibon, a few hours' trip from Opon by sailboat.

The ceremony this morning was officiated by Moris. Manuel Mascarifias, Bishop of Tagbilaran. Emilio Quiachon and Mrs. Fortuna Garcia, close relatives, stood as sponsors. Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Campos were veil sponsors while Rep. and Mrs. Maximino Garcia were cord sponsors. The same cord used 25 years ago was brought over from Opon and used at this morning rites.

The President and the First Lady received holy communion during the pontifical mass held in connection with the ceremony. All through the ceremony, both celebrants appeared very solemn and in deep thought, as they relived the happy event which took place a quarter of a century ago.

Following the church rites, at Talibon, the parish priest honored the celebrants with breakfast at the Convent. The church rites lasted from 8 to 9 a.m.

A rare wedding gift was presented by the Constabulary today to President Garcia and the First Lady with the news that the PC had captured Leonardo "Putik" Manecio, most wanted Cavite outlaw.

News of Manecio's capture was read to the President by Maj. Jose Estrella, junior aide, a few minutes after he and Mrs. Garcia had reenacted at the Talibon church the veil and cord ceremony in connection with the celebration of their silver wedding anniversary.

IN the afternoon, the President held a series of conferences with local officials who called on him at the guest house in Talibon and consulted him on problems of their respective municipalities.

The President and his family then regrouped late this afternoon to join the fiesta procession in honor of the patron saint, the Holy Trinity.

Then the party boarded a launch which conveyed them to the yacht anchored off Talibon. The yacht pulled out for the return trip to Manila about 8 p.m.

The yacht Sta. Maria pulled out of the Talibon coast about 8 p.m. with the President, Mrs. Garcia, Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Campos, and newsmen.

The Chief Executive is returning to Manila to stave off the revolt brewing in Congress over the agenda he had set for the special session

May 27.—PRESIDENT Garcia administered the oath of office to Marciano Camacho, Sr., as justice of the peace of Inabanga, Bohol, at a ceremony held in Talibon, shortly before he embarked for the return trip to Manila last night.

The President, the First Lady, and their children, Linda and Nanding, joined the religious procession in honor of the Blessed Trinity, patrons of the President's native town. They joined the procession which went through Talibon's principal streets and wound back to church some 45 minutes later. All through the procession, security officers were alert owing to numerous firecrackers thrown from houses and exploding near the images of the patrons close behind which the President and his family were following.

Commodore Jose Francisco took personal command of the yacht as it pulled out of dangerous Talibon waters at 8 p.m. yesterday. Unknown to the passengers aboard, a full complement of the ship was mobilized and ordered on post as Sta. Maria spent almost three hours zigzagging and playing hide and seek with numerous reefs and shoals scattered all over the place.

At one point during the tense passage, the yacht's escort ship which was also doing its own plotting of the course flashed an urgent warning that the yacht was heading straight for a shoal. There was tension on the Sta. Maria's bridge as officers rechecked their computations and calculations. Satisfied that they were on the right course, Commodore Francisco ordered no change but ordered the ship slowed down to creeping speed.

The most dangerous part of the passage came shortly before 10 p.m. when the Sta. Maria was about to enter a "channel" only about 600 yards wide formed by rock formation almost all of which were below sea surface. The ship's officers found the channel under heavy rain which blotted out the "pips" of rock formation from the radarscope. The commodore ordered the ship completely stopped, weighed anchor, and waited almost one hour for the rain to lift over the channel.

It was 11:30 p.m. when the yacht was pronounced out of the danger area. Breathing a sigh of relief, Francisco explained it was easier to negotiate the area during daytime because although the reefs were below the water the sea appeared darker where they were; and one could steer the ship around them visually. He further said he would recommend to the President the installation of lights, markers, and other aides of navigation in the area to encourage shipping in the northern coast of Bohol.

THE President spent the day working on state papers he brought along during the trip, including records of prisoners recommended for executive clemency by the Board of Pardons and Parole.

At lunch this noon, the First Lady ordered a bottle of whisky opened and served when she learned that it was Major Jose Estrella's 35th birthday. Passengers on board held an impromptu program, and there was group singing wishing the President's military aide happy birthday.

The yacht docked at 5: 30 a.m. at the Navy yacht basin, but the President did not land immediately.

He received on board a few callers who reported to him the state of affairs in Congress and in various offices of the government while the Chief Executive was on his "second honeymoon."

Upon returning to Malacañang at 9 o'clock in the morning, the President named Adriano Gardella and James R. Paton as consuls ad honorem of the Philippines in Genoa, Italy, and Glasgow, Scotland, respectively.

The President also received a big delegation of workers affiliated with the National Textile Workers Union, led by their president, Leovigildo de Castro, and Eulogio Lerum, president of the National Labor Union.

The workers presented a resolution urging the government to reconsider its decision to sell the NDC textile mills to private parties.

The President explained that the Cabinet decision was prompted by an administration policy to withdraw gradually from business in cases where private businessmen are willing to take over.

The President said that the Cabinet believed that now is the most opportune time for the sale of the mills in order to insure an easier adjustment of the laborers who might be laid off, although a great majority of them would be retained by the firm which would purchase the mills.

The President said he would refer their petition to the Cabinet at its meeting today.

At 5 o'clock President Garcia suspended the Cabinet meeting to receive the credentials of Air Marshal Prince Rangsiyakorn Abakorn as the new ambassador of Thailand to the Philippines.

After their- meeting, the President and the members of his Cabinet previewed a television show of the Chief Executive entitled A Challenge in Asia, which will be shown in the United States shortly.

The President and the Cabinet at their meeting this day took a long look at the problems confronting the Sulu Archipelago and decided to adopt a long-range program for a permanent solution, and at the same time approved measures to provide for the immediate needs of the people in that area.

The President and the Cabinet heard a long report submitted by the Presidential Committee on Sulu Affairs, headed by Francisco M. Calinawan, chairman. With the aid of charts, Calinawan outlined before the Cabinet the pressing problems of the Sulu Archipelago as follows: (1) peace and order; (2) socio-economic-cultural, (3) education; and (4) health and sanitation.

The President and the Cabinet, realizing the enormity of the problems facing the Sulu Archipelago, decided that the Presidential Committee on Sulu Affairs, which had made a survey of the Sulu situation during the past several days, will be responsible in doing the spadework and will present all the important problems in the South, together with its recommendations to a Cabinet committee which will study further the report before final approval and implementation. The President and the Cabinet believed that the problems were so important and ramified that they need a thorough study for a permanent solution. They adopted measures' to be carried out immediately to meet the needs of the people in the South,

Regarding peace and order, the President directed Integration Commissioner Madki Alonto to organize the sultans, datus, and panglimas into a strong civic organization which will work intensively for the collection of loose firearms which are a menace to the peace and order situation in that area. Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas was also directed by the President to intensify further the work of the Armed Forces in the maintenance of peace and order.

In this connection, the President said that the Sulu task force which he had recently created, headed by Col. Flaviano Olivares, would contribute its share in the maintenance of peace and order by minimizing smuggling in that area.

Regarding the improvement of the health of the people, President Garcia directed Health Undersecretary Rafael Tumbokon and Social Welfare Administrator Amparo Villamor to conduct a special training of personnel to be composed of doctors, nurses, and midwives who are natives to be sent to that area in order that they can become more effective in ministering to the health needs of the people. Secretary Vargas informed the President that it was planned by the Army to install a mobile hospital in the area to provide more health facilities for the people of that region.

Owing to the report that water supply in the area was deficient because 29 artesian wells out of 69 in Jolo, Tapul, Siasi, and Bongao were not functioning, the President directed Secretary Vaigas, as chairman of the NAWASA board, to order the immediate repair of these wells and to build some more as needed to insure good and sufficient water supply.

In order to promote the administration of justice in that area, President Garcia directed Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera to assign one judge of the court of first instance in Jolo and to appoint eight additional justices of the peace in that area.

In order to step up food production in* the South, the President directed Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez to study ways of disposing of thousands of wild hogs infesting Jolo and Tawi-Tawi which are a great obstacle to agricultural production. Secretary Rodriguez will study ways of eradicating these wild hogs or converting them into food in order that the farms would not be destroyed and thus enable production of more crops. The President also directed Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez, as chairman of the NAMARCO, to study ways to provide the farmers in Jolo and Tawi-Tawi with 600 meters of hog wire fence to fence four hectares. This will enable the farmers to produce cassava and palay.

The President also directed Secretary Vargas to provide more prefabricated school buildings for Sulu barrio schools. These prefabs will be erected by the people living in the barrios.

The Cabinet also approved the purchase of 20,000 metric tons of Burmese rice, 25 per cent broken, at $119 to $120 per metric ton, on a government-to-government basis.

This is in addition to the 30,000 metric tons of Burmese rice which is scheduled to arrive here on the first or second week of June. The purchases have been negotiated by Mayor Arsenio II Lacson of Manila,

The offer for the additional 20,000 metric tons was contained in a letter sent to the President by Chan Kee Hwa, who urged immediate action on the offer as six countries were trying to purchase the same stocks. The purchase price, although two to three dollars higher than that of the original 30,000 metric tons, was still considered reasonable.

May 29—AT THEIR meeting today, President Garcia and the Council of Leaders agreed to pass during the current special session of Congress three tax measures and four other bills recommended by the President.

The President conferred with the Council of Leaders during breakfast which started at 8 o'clock and lasted until 10:15 a.m. at the President's workshop in Quezon City.

Those present at the meeting were Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr., Senate President Protempore Fernando Lopez, Senate Majority Floor Leader Cipriano Primicias, Speaker Daniel Romualdez, Speaker Protempore Constancio Castañeda, and Reps. Jose J. Roy of Tarlac, Justiniano S. Montano of Cavite, and Salipada Pendatun of Cotabato. Also present was Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo.

PRESIDENT Garcia today directed Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo to work for an early consideration in the U. S. Senate of a House bill which would- allow orphans of Philippine Scouts or of Filipino U. S. Navy men to study in the Philippines under the provisions of U. S. Public Law 634 of the 84th Congress, which provides for educational assistance benefits to war orphans of U. S. veterans.

The presidential directive was sent by wire to Ambassador Romulo after a conference President Garcia had with Rep. Salipada Pendatun of Cotabato in the President's residence in Quezon City.

The Cotabato solon informed President Garcia that the bill had been approved by the U. S. House of Representatives without any objection in the last session of the current U. S. Congress and is now pending in the Senate Labor Committee headed by Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama.

The measure, the President was further informed, has the backing of the American Legion at the urging of its Philippine chapter. It will give about 2,000 eligible war orphans in the Philippines the opportunity to study in local educational institutions.

The President was told that Public Law 634 provides for educational benefits to war orphans of U. S. veterans at the rate of $110 a month for a period of 36 months with the proviso, however, that the educational benefits may be enjoyed only in the United States.

Rep. Pendatun told President Garcia that only six per cent of the eligible Filipino war orphans have applied for the educational benefits provided for by Public Law 634 owing to the said proviso.

President Garcia was also told that the exchange regulations of the Central Bank are an obstacle to Filipino war orphans who would like to avail themselves of, the said educational benefits.

Filipino war orphans need dollars for travel and subsistence expenses in the United States while awaiting the release of dollars by the U. S. Veterans Administration for their allowances and are often stymied by the Central Bank regulations, according to Rep. Pendatun.

After the breakfast conference with leaders of Congress, President Garcia received Rep. Tobias Fornier of Antique, Wenceslao Lagumbay of Laguna, and Faustino Tobia of Ilocos Sur.

After conferring with the Council of Leaders, the President and the First Lady motored to Funeraria Naciohal to view the remains of the late Felix Gatmaitan, a prominent political leader from Tondo.

The President was accompanied by Press Secretary Guillermo V. Sison and Major Jose Estrella, aide.

PRESIDENT Garcia this day designated Ambassador Salvador P. Lopez as permanent representative of this country to the UNESCO in Paris in order to effect a more effective presentation of the policies of the Philippine Government in that body,

The President also issued today an executive order designating Reps. Benedicto Padilla and Francisco Sumulong of Rizal as members of the Pinaglabanan commemorative commission, replacing the late Rep. Eulogio Rodriguez, Jr., and former Rep. Serafin Salvador in that body.

The new executive order which amended a previous order issued on August 15, 1957, creating the commission, also named the secretary of public works and the commissioner of public highways as additional members of the commission.

THE President granted executive clemency today to 42 prisoners on the occasion of his silver wedding anniversary. Pardon of these prisoners had been recommended by the Board of Pardons and Parole.

The President extended another reprieve to three prisoners scheduled for execution tomorrow, as he needed more time to study their petitions for pardon or commutation of their death sentences.

The condemned men are Jose Villaroya, Manuel Daet, and Enrique Arejola. They had been meted the death penalty by the court of first instance of Camarines Sur for the murder of a couple in the municipality of Tinambac some seven years ago.

Of the 42 prisoners extended clemency today, seven were granted absolute pardons, two special absolute, 27 conditional, and six commutation of sentences.

IN the evening, the President received Col. Flaviano Olivares, head of the Presidential Law Enforcement Unit for the Southern Philippines, which was recently created to crack down on the smuggling in the South.

The President directed Olivares to go after big-time smugglers. He pointed out that he would not be satisfied if the Administration's campaign would merely bag small-time smugglers.

It was learned that Gen. Arellano wanted to take up with the President the proposed revamp of the Armed Forces.

However, as the President was leaving for his Quezon City residence, he asked Arellano to return at some other date.

Earlier in the afternoon, the President inducted Numeriano Estenzo as judge of the court of first instance of Leyte, Ormoc City, and Tacloban City. The judge was sworn in at Malacañang in the presence of Reps. Manuel Zosa and Ramon Durano of Cebu.

After the induction of Judge Estenzo, the President received more callers, including Sens. Quintin Paredes, Alejo Mabanag, and Eulogio Balao; Reps. Vicente Gustilo of Negros Occidental and Felix Fuentebella of Camarines Sur; Gov. Salvador Lluch of Lanao; and acting Gov. Jack Arroyo of Camarines Sur.

May 30.—CHARLES O'CONNOR, chairman of the board of Reichhold Chemicals, Inc., paid a courtesy call on President Garcia at Malacañang this morning and offered the facilities of his company, the world's largest producer of synthetic resins, to the Chief Executive during his coming trip to the United States.

O'Connor was accompanied by Meneleo Carlos, president of Resins, Inc., Manila affiliate of Reichhold Chemicals, who informed the President of the start of operations of his firm.

Carlos told President Garcia that Resins, Inc., has been producing alkyd, plywood adhesives, and textile resins since the latter part of March. He said the plant has a normal capacity of 1,000 tons of resin a month.

O'Connor informed the President that the American people were anxiously awaiting his arrival in the United States and predicted that he would receive a rousing welcome there. He said the American people would be very happy to roll out the red carpet for the Chief Executive of a country which has been openly friendly to the United States.

O'Connor also said that his firm, which is one of the world's leading producers of industrial chemicals, was very happy to be associated in the economic development of the country through its affiliation with Resins, Inc., in Manila. Reichhold Chemicals, with head offices in White Plains, New York, has 13 plants in the United States and 24 plants in 18 countries all over the world. O'Connor himself had just come from Japan, where he had opened the third plant of Japan Reichhold Chemicals.

The firm rose to its present eminence in the chemical industry after starting in a garage in Detroit in 1925. Its shares of stock went on the open market in March this year at $25 and are quoted today at $32.58, on a par value of $1 each.

President Garcia told O'Connor and Carlos the business relationship between Reichhold Chemicals and Resins, Inc., with the American firm furnishing experience and know-how to a 100 per cent Filipino corporation, was an example of a tangible and concrete way in which American enterprise could assist and cooperate in Philippine economic development.

Carlos said his newly-established company was producing an essential ingredient in the plywood and wood, surface coating, textile, paper, leather finishing, and printing ink industries.

He said it would help save a considerable part of the $4 million expended by the country annually for the importation of resins.

The President also received Paul Wood, president of the International Harvester Company (Philippines), who called to bid goodbye before going to the United States to prepare for the visit of the President to Chicago.

President Garcia accepted the invitation of the City of Chicago and while there will be guest of the International Harvester Company. Mr. Wood was accompanied by Antonio Arizabal, former press secretary.

Eugenio Santos took his oath of office before President Garcia as chairman of the Board of Directors of the Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office. Present at the ceremony was Mayor Roberto Monroy of Navotas, Rizal, who is a PCSO board member.

Alumni of the Philippine Law School led by UE President Francisco Dalupan, PNB Vice-President Conrado Sevilla, Justice Juan Lanting, and Ricardo Lacson also saw the President. Other members of the group were Judge Minerva Inocencio-Piguing, Fiscal Demetrio Vinzon, Pastor Gonzalez, Eleuterio Gustilo, Venancio Benetua, and Protacio Amonoy.

Other callers were Speaker Protempore Constancio Castaneda, Defense Undersecretary Mariano Yenko, and Col. Joaquin Sanchez, director of the Veterans Memorial Hospital.

PRESIDENT Garcia administered the oaths of office to Judge Juan L. Lanting, as associate justice of the Court of Appeals, and to former Cagayan Gov. Jose Carag, as chairman of the Commission on Elections, in ceremonies held at Malacañang this afternoon.

The President also inducted this afternoon:

(1) Montano Tejam and Anacleto Francisco, as commissioner and assistant commissioner, respectively, of the Tariff Commission;

(2) Peregrino Quinto, as chairman of the Board of Directors of the Philippine Tobacco Administration;

(3) Raymundo Villacete, as judge of the court of first instance of Romblon;

(4) UNESCO commissioners Geronima T. Pecson, chairman; and Emiliano Ramirez, Manuel Gallego, Mariano de los Santos, Arsenio Manuel,

Joaquin Maranon, Leoncio Monson, Patrocinio Valenzuela, Severino Velasco, and Alberto Javier, members;

(5) Newly-elected officers of the Society for Public Administration of the Philippines, an organization composed of government officials.

Officers of the Society for Public Administration who took their oath were Faustino Sy-Changeo, president; Vicente Valdellon, vice-president; Independencia Drilon, secretary; Ligaya Jorge, treasurer; and Primitivo de Leon, Carlos Ramos, Lester Shepherd, and Jesus Garilao, members.

Justice Lanting has been in the government service for about 40 years, having started as clerk in the Bureau of Supply. He was subsequently law clerk of the pre-war Executive Bureau, chief public defender, Department of Labor: director, Bureau of Labor; undersecretary of labor; and judge of the Court of Industrial Relations for about 11 years before his elevation to the Court of Appeals. He replaces Justice Sotero Rodas, who retired last year from the Court of Appeals.

Carag, the new chairman of the Commission on Elections, had been justice of the peace in Tuguegarao, Cagayan; provincial fiscal of the same province; judge of the court of first instance of Nueva Ecija, and governor of Cagayan. He was also law professor, having graduated cum laude from the University of the Philippines and placing second in the bar examinations in 1922.

Then he received several callers, including James Buckley of the San Jose Oil Company and Engineer Zosimo Falcon of the CEPOC, who was accompanied by Capt. Pablo Magaro.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon called upon the leaders of Congress to “show their leadership” and make good their commitment, to pass four administration tax measures in both Chambers during the current special session.

He made the statement in commenting on reports that the Senate had junked the four tax measures which the Council of Leaders, in a conference with the President yesterday, had agreed to push through the legislative mill during the current special session.

Visibly disturbed by the overwhelming opposition in the Senate to the tax measures, the President told newsmen at his regular press conference today, “It’s their (Congress leaders) turn to show their leadership.”

At the same time, the President said he had given up his fight for the approval of the Dewey Boulevard reclamation bill in view of the reluctance of Congress leaders to enact the measure during the special session.

He said Congress leaders reacting sharply to what he called “outside talks” on the measure, had decided to “freeze” the bill until the regular session next year.

The President indicated he was not pressing for the approval of the measure in view of the opposition of the Council of Leaders to its immediate passage.

Until press time this evening the President had not made up his mind whether he would meet again with the members of the Council of Leaders tomorrow.

The President also told newsmen he was not going to submit to Congress the re-nomination of Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez.

He said that the Council of Leaders had assured him the Commission on Appointments will not meet during the special session.

The President also said he was still studying a plan to re-convene Congress anew to take up proposed amendments to the Constitution.

However, he refused to elaborate on this plan until sentiment has crystalized in Congress on the proposal to synchronize elections every four years,

Meanwhile, the President announced during his press conference that the Philippines may shortly take steps to sound out other countries in the South on a plan to enlist their cooperation in the Administration’s drive to curb smuggling of goods in and out of the country.

He made the announcement after he was informed that some countries in the South had legalized the smuggling of goods to and from the Philippines.

The President pointed out that he had sounded out Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano on the feasibility of exchanging diplomatic notes with these countries in order to insure their cooperation in the government’s drive to stop smuggling.

At the same time, the President said that he had directed Col. Flaviano Olivarez, chief of the President’s law enforcement unit for the southern islands, to “identify the members of the syndicate” engaged in the smuggling of low-quality copra out of the Philippines.

Olivarez, in his progress report to the President yesterday, said that a ring of smugglers allegedly exported illegally ₱4 million worth of low-quality copra annually in exchange for banned articles.

The President also disclosed that he expected Huk Supremo Jesus Lava to “turn up and give himself up to the government.”

May 31.—THE PRESIDENT received at his Quezon City residence this morning, former President Sergio Osmeña, Sr., who called to pay his respects. The Grand Old Man of Cebu arrived in Manila to attend the meeting of the Council of State on Tuesday.

In the evening, the President resumed working on his speeches which he will deliver during his state visit to the United States.

PRESIDENT Garcia today directed Lt. Cdr. Marcelino Calinawan, presidential graft-buster in the Customs, to go deeper in the investigation of the paring oil barter export and the importation of textiles, particularly yarn and remnants.

The President gave this directive during a conference this afternoon in his residence in Quezon City when Calinawan made his periodic progress report on his Customs investigation work.

Calinawan informed the President in the course of his report that several more Customs officials and employees would soon be recommended by him for suspension. He added that where warranted, criminal charges would be filed against several of the 26 Customs officials and employees already suspended and against whom administrative charges had been filed. He said the first criminal charge was set to be filed on Wednesday.

The Customs graft-buster informed President Garcia that his men had recently discovered the anomalous exportation of coconut oil through a barter license for paring oil.

He explained that a certain company had acquired a barter license of $1,080,000 to export 6,000 long tons of paring oil. Actually, the company had already shipped 5,000 long tons of oil. In the last shipment of 270 long tons intercepted by Calinawan's men, it was found out after an examination made by the Institute of Science and Technology of a sample taken from the shipment, that it was coconut oil, not paring oil.

President Garcia was told that coconut oil cost $50 more per ton than paring oil in export value. Besides, coconut oil is prohibited from being bartered. Calinawan said that such anomalous transaction was a source of loss in millions of dollars in the country's dollar reserves. It was indicated that other offices might be involved in the further investigation of this case.

With regard to the importation of yarn, Calinawan explained that the country's yearly yarn requirement was nine million pounds, but that local production was 14 million pounds. He added that importers got allocations amounting to some $12 million a year. He further said that although yarn cost $1.10 a pound in the United States, it was being purchased at $0.66 a pound in Japan. This, the investigator said, was another source of drain on the country's dollars.

Calinawan said that in some importation of remnants, clothing materials in bolts were received. He stated that remnants were taxed 15 per cent ad valorem, while clothing materials coming in bolts were taxed from 80 per cent to 240 per cent ad valorem. This fraudulent importation would result in millions of pesos loss in government revenue, Calinawan said.

President Garcia lauded Calinawan and his men for their untiring efforts in unearthing anomalies in the Bureau of Customs. He expressed the hope that there would be no let-down in their efforts.

President's Month in Review: June 1-15, 1958

OFFICIAL MONTH IN REVIEW

He closeted himself almost the whole day at his Bohol Avenue residence to work on the speeches he will deliver during his visit.

It was learned that President Garcia will deliver no less than 32 speeches during the 15 days that he will be in the United States,

The Chief Executive will speak at Washington, D.C., Chicago, New York, Phoenix (Arizona), Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Honolulu.

As usual, the President started his Sunday by hearing mass at his residence. Mrs. Garcia and members of the household heard mass with the President.

The couple then had breakfast together, after which the President read the Sunday papers.

After lunch with the First Lady, the President had a brief siesta. Later in the afternoon, he resumed work on his speeches.

June 2.—PRESIDENT Garcia received a very limited number of callers today in order to devote his time to clearing the deck of various pending matters preparatory to his departure for the United States next week.

Spending the day at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City, the President also resumed work on speeches he will deliver during his 15-day state visit to the U. S.

The President this morning had a conference with Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez on the latest developments on the current special session of Congress. The President also received Don Andres Soriano, who called to pay his respects prior to the latter's departure for abroad.

About 11 a.m., the President conferred with Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, who brought over a pile of pending papers from Malacañang for presidential action.

After a brief rest in the afternoon, the President repaired to his study where he went over drafts of his speeches. He had requested Dr. Jose Locsin, chairman, of the National Economic Council, to represent him in the ceremony launching this year's Community Chest fund drive to be held at the Malacañang Social hall at 5 p.m. today.

At 8:30 in the evening, the President and Mrs. Garcia motored to the residence of Sen. Quintin Paredes in New Manila, Quezon City, where a despedida dinner was given in their honor.

PRESIDENT Garcia stated today in a message that there could be no better demonstration of citizen awareness to community needs, and of the strength and cohesiveness of community spirit, than a community chest.

The President's message was read by NEC Chairman Jose C. Locsin, who represented the Chief Executive at the ceremonies marking the formal launching of the tenth annual fund campaign of the Community Chest of Greater Manila at the Malacañang social hall this afternoon.

Commending the officials of the fund drive, the President said that their efforts to pool together “your resources of experience, intelligence, and interest of the human welfare is indeed reassuring in these troubled times.”

The President recalled that last year the Community Chest had raised over ₱400,000 which were distributed to 18 welfare agencies, providing various types of social assistance and services to over a million persons.

This, the President said, almost equaled the number of persons assisted by public welfare agency. “It can therefore be truly said that the people have shared equally with their government, in difficult but satisfying task of furthering the common welfare,” he added.

In concluding his message, the President said he was confident that the leadership of this year’s campaign would be successful and that he had faith that the people would share “their blessings and give generously to this noble cause.”

Present during the ceremony was Mrs. Leonila D. Garcia, who presented a ₱1,000 check as the President’s contribution to the drive.

Other speakers at the program were Gregorio Licaros, associate general chairman of the 1958 Community Chest fund campaign, and Judge Natividad Almeda Lopez, who received reports from various committee heads regarding the progress of the drive.

June 3.—PRESIDENT Garcia today closed the door to a devaluation of the Philippine peso despite an economic situation compelling him to seek a nine-figure development loan in dollars from the United States.

The Chief Executive said his trip is intended to serve two purposes: to improve further Philippine-American relations and to strengthen the Philippine economy.

With respect to the first objective, President Garcia pointed out that a reiteration of Philippine adherence to the principles for which both the Philippines and the U S. stand should improve further their relations in view of the world situation.

He did not go into details, but he apparently was referring to recent American reverses in Latin America, Africa, the Middle East, and Asia in the diplomatic and economic contest between the Western and communist camps.

On the second objective, the President said he has ready all projects he plans to finance with the development loan he will seek in Washington, complete with a payment plan.

He did not give any figure, but Washington dispatches have placed the loan amount at $400 million.

The President admitted that the amount he would seek would not be enough to carry out the projects he envisions, but it would help get these projects under way.

In taking a position against devaluation of the Philippine peso, the President noted that the present pegging of the peso at ₱2 to $1 has both its advantages and disadvantages.

On the other hand, he warned, devaluation would likely hit hardest the fixed-income group of the nation, those whose earnings come from nothing more but salaries and wages, in the form of “skyrocketing prices” of their needs.

The Chief Executive made these other points in answer to questions from the BWAP members:

1. There is need to update the five-year economic plan submitted by RFC Chairman Eduardo Z. Romualdez, former presiding officer of the National Economic Council, to provide for two of his administration’s principal objectives: self-sufficiency in food and maximum availability of local building materials. Sen. Pacita Madrigal Gonzalez had earlier urged the President and the Cabinet to approve the five-year plan so that the President could “achieve more easily” the US loan he will seek.

2. Congress will pass a foreign investments bill, which should help him in his loan mission in Washington.

3. His administration aims to develop the mining industry, which he said should be the premier industry of the country considering its mineral wealth.

4. Vicente Sinco had been expected to resign his membership on the Central Bank monetary board with his appointment as president of the University of the Philippines. He did not, but anyway his term with the board is “about to expire.”

President Garcia today invited business editors to a breakfast conference at his residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City. He invited the business editors to sound them out on the reaction of the business community to his state visit to the United States this month. However, he found out that the business editors could not give him a full assessment of the attitude of the business community toward his trip.

Instead, the President’s guests pumped him with questions on varied subjects which touched more on political issues than on the current problems of the local economy.

At noon, he motored to Malacañang where he presided over the monthly meeting of the Council of State.

As he entered the room, the President found out that the Liberal members, Vice-President Diosdado Macapagal and Rep. Cornelio T. Villa-real, were not present.

However, Sen. Claro M. Recto, president of the Nationalist-Citizens Party, attended the meeting.

Sen. Recto had called for a monthly meeting of the Council of State to be held on the first Tuesday of every month.

However, in view of the trip of the President to the United States, the council decided to hold its next meeting as soon as President Garcia returns,

The Council of State this noon approved the financing of vital projects through bond issues amounting to ₱68,307,000.00.

The projects included the construction of highways, irrigation systems, river control, reconstruction of Pier No. 5, and dredging of Manila harbor, including shore reclamation and the purchase of necessary materials and equipment.

Approval of these projects had been recommended by the National Economic Council in a resolution it had adopted at its 104th meeting last May 29. This same resolution also included the sum of ₱12,420,000 for projects of the National Waterworks and Sewerage Authority but consideration of this item had been deferred by the Council of State pending clarification by the NAWASA chairman that these particular projects were self-liquidating. It was pointed out that the law authorizing the issuance and sale of bond issues allows only 30 per cent of the proceeds of such sales for non-self-liquidating projects.

The Council of State also approved the financing from bond issues projects worth ₱104,225,000 previously submitted for consideration by the Department of Public Works and Communications and which had been referred to a screening committee at the first Council meeting last May 20.

The department had submitted for consideration a total financing proposal amounting to ₱190,735,113 but the screening committee had deferred action on building and air navigation projects, with the exception of the Bureau of Prisons building which it considered urgent.

Senate Majority Floorleader Cipriano Primicias, ranking member of the screening committee, explained to the Council that his committee was recommending only projects requiring priority consideration; such as, feeder roads, waterworks, pre-fabricated school buildings, artesian wells, portworks, and the construction of the Cabanatuan line and the southern line of the Manila Railroad Company. He said that the committee would submit the other items for consideration in succeeding meetings of the Council.

Sen. Primicias was reporting on behalf of Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno, committee chairman, who had left for the United States.

The original recommendation of the committee was only for ₱99,225,000 worth of projects. However, the President during the meeting decided to include ₱5 million for communal irrigation projects, saying that due emphasis should be given to undertakings that would boost the nation's program of increased food production. He also said that this amount would be allocated to provinces which are not benefited by the national irrigation building program.

These projects totalling ₱104,225,000 will be referred to the National Economic Council, the Monetary Board of the Central Bank, and the Department of Finance, as required by law. Then they would be returned to the Council of State for further consideration before they are finally submitted to the President for action.

Toward the close of the meeting, the Council of State unanimously passed a resolution wishing the President "bon voyage and all the success in your forthcoming mission to the United States."

The Council also agreed that their meeting next would be held on the call of the President after his arrival from abroad.

Present at the meeting which was held at Malacañang from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. were Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr., Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, Senate President Protempore Fernando Lopez, Speaker Protempore Constancio Castaneda, Senate Majority Floorleader Cipriano Primicias, Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera, Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, General Services Secretary Alejandro Almendras, Public Works Undersecretary Marciano Bautista, Labor Undersecretary Agapito Braganza, Health Undersecretary Rafael Tumbokon, Education Undersecretary Martin Aguilar, Jr., Defense Undersecretary Mariano Yenko, Jr., Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, NEC Chairman Jose C. Locsin, Gov. Isidro Rodriguez, chairman of the Governors and City Mayors League, Sen. Claro M. Recto, former President Sergio Osmeña, Sr., former Sen. Jose P. Laurel, Sr.

June 4.—THIS morning, the President received Press Secretary Guillermo V. Sison and six Manila newspapermen who left tonight for the United States to await his arrival in Washington.

The newsmen will "cover" the President's trip to the different key cities of the United States.

The newsmen were Primitivo Mijares of the Chronicle, Silvino Caparas of the Mirror, Gelacio Tecechian of the Herald, Vicente Martinez of the Evening News, Amante Bigornia of the Bulletin, and Mabini R. Centeno of the Liwayway.

Celestino M. Vega of the Bagong Buhay is also scheduled to leave next week to catch up with the newsmen in Washington. However, Vega was not present at the breakfast which the President gave the US-bound newsmen at his residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City.

After his breakfast with the newsmen, the President went to Malacañang where he signed House Bill No. 777 into law. The bill seeks to authorize the Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office to hold one lottery for the benefit of the Blood Bank.

Later, the President received the provincial and city jail wardens who had just concluded their in-service training at the Bureau of Prisons.

The wardens were called to further training in view of the numerous cases of jailbreaks in Manila and in the provinces.

The wardens, who had organized into the Wardens Association of the Philippines (WAP) were headed by their president, Capt. Severino David of the Manila Police, and accompanied to the President by acting Director of Prisons Eriberto Misa, Jr.

The President also conferred for three hours with Secretary of Foreign Affairs Felixberto M. Serrano, who briefed President Garcia on the international situation.

It was learned that Serrano reported on the Indonesian situation and the Philippine position on the West Irian question to prepare President Garcia for a press conference at the National Press Club in Washington.

Serrano saw the President at the latter's residence.

THE President today designated Legislative Secretary Jose C. Nable to take charge of the Office of the Press Secretary during the absence abroad of Press Secretary Guillermo V. Sison.

Secretary Nable's designation is in addition to his present duties as Legislative Secretary to the President.

As Legislative Secretary under the late President Magsaysay, Nable had for three years been Magsaysay's chief liaison officer in the Senate and the House, entrusted with the task of lobbying for major administration bills.

Retained in the same position by President Garcia last year, Nable had been chief information officer of the Nacionalista Party during the last hectic election campaign, the President's spokesman and coordinator of press and radio.

Before his entrance to the government service in 1954, Nable had been political writer of the Chronicle, onetime president of the Congressional Press Club, and an active member of the National Press Club.

Nable is married to the former Dolores II. Tinio of Nueva Ecija and has four children. He is an alumnus of the Ateneo de Manila and the De La Salle College.

PRESIDENT Garcia stated today that the widespread support and encouragement being extended to him from almost all sectors of the population on his forthcoming trip to the United States had made him all the more confident and more optimistic as to the outcome of his mission.

In a brief extemporaneous speech before some 900 members of the Inter-Chamber and Trade Organizations which honored him with a testimonial luncheon at Manila Hotel's fiesta pavilion this noon, the President gave two main objectives of his state visit to the U. S. which starts next week.

The objectives are (1) to further improve the friendly relations between the Philippines and the United States and (2) to ask the American people to help this country attain economic stability and make it a real, substantial, and effective democracy in this part of the world.

The President reiterated his confidence that these twin objectives would be received with sympathetic understanding by the American people. He gave a brief resume of PI-US relations which had existed for many years and added that he was certain that the Americans would appreciate the efforts of this country to establish economic security and provide its people with "a fair share of the good things of life."

In introducing the President, Fernando E. V. Sison, president of the Philippine Chamber of Industries and acting chairman of the Inter-Chamber and Trade Organizations, assured the President on behalf of the 14 principal trade chambers constituting the organization, that the people, especially those in the business and industrial communities, were backing him up 100 per cent.

Sison said: "We realize that Your Excellency's forthcoming state visit to the United States as guest of the American people carries with it great significance as well as responsibilities. We realize, too, that your visit is not only social and political in nature and that you have a more serious and important mission relative to the solution of our present economic problems.

"For this very delicate and monumental job, we wish to assure you, Mr. President, that your people, especially those in the business communities, are backing you 100 per cent. We all realize that with the success of your mission, the whole nation will not only reap the benefits that would be derived but perhaps we will witness a more speedy recovery from the economic stagnation in which we find ourselves at present.

"We have full faith and confidence in your ability to present our problems forcefully and convincingly to the government and people of the United States."

The President, in turn, thanked the large gathering of business executives for their manifestations of faith and confidence. He said that it had made him feel all the more strengthened and confident of the successful outcome of his mission.

This executive order, which repeals Executive Order No. 169, dated October 15, 1938, authorizes the creation of efficiency boards for AFP General Headquarters Philippine Army, Philippine Constabulary, Philippine Air Force, and Philippine Navy.

THIS afternoon the President sounded a general appeal for all rice growers to exert extra efforts to increase their yearly produce so that this country could attain self-sufficiency in this staple commodity as soon as possible.

In an inspired extemporaneous speech delivered before agriculturists and rice farmers gathered at the Malacañang Park this afternoon to witness the awarding of prizes to winners in the First Nation-Wide-100-Cavan-Per-Hectare Rice Contest, the President pointed out that a farmer has to produce only one more cavan per hectare per year to make this country self-sufficient in this staple food.

The President explained that the Philippines produces 174 million cavans of rice a year and that the annual requirement of the population is 176 million cavans. Inasmuch as there are approximately two million hectares planted to rice in this country, all that the average farmer has to do is to produce one cavan more per hectare per year and this country would be self-sufficient, he said,

The Chief Executive congratulated the winners of the contest saving that if the average rice farmer in this country were as careful and as industrious as they were, the Philippines would be exporting rice instead of importing from other countries.

He also pointed out that according to foreign experts who had visited all the countries in the Far East, the Philippines has the climate and soil more favorable to rice growing than those of many neighboring countries. However, these countries, such as Japan, Vietnam, and Cambodia, produce five to six times more per hectare than the Philippines, he said.

The President expressed the hope that with the campaign for increased production launched 037 the government, the Philippines would be self-sufficient next year and would be exporting the commodity to other countries after 1959.

At the conference were Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, chairman of the PNB board of directors; Arsenio Jison, PNB president; Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez; Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona; Fortunate de Leon; and Conrado Sevilla.

Later this morning the President expressed the hope that the Regional Conference on Public Administration will provide the groundwork for the organization of a regional body of public administrators whose leadership may well secure for the peoples of Asia and the Far East the most efficient and competent public administration.

The President was the principal speaker at the opening session of the conference held this morning at the Hall of Flags of the Department of Foreign Affairs. Present at the occasion were members of the diplomatic corps, high government officials led by Foreign Affairs Undersecretary Juan Alcazaren, UP President Vicente Sinco, NEC Chairman Jose Locsin, and Sen. Alejo Mabanag.

The President stated that all are agreed that the welfare of the people was the sole purpose of all governments and that in fulfilling this mission the success of a government depended upon the quality of its public administration.

He enjoined the delegates to exert every effort to “increase the performance output of government workers, to insure the positive contribution of each individual and group task to the achievement of major objectives, and to instill in every employee and official a professional spirit of service to the public.”

PRESIDENT Garcia said this afternoon he will carry out his proposed reorganization of the Bureaus of Customs and Internal Revenue; even if Congress failed to pass his pet measure calling for express authority to do so.

At the same time, the President flayed Congress for “unnecessary legislating out” six employees by suppressing their salary items in the 1959 budget.

He pointed out that Congress action has prompted him to seek other remedies to “put back these employees into the service.”

He said he will proceed with the current investigation of venalities in the two bureaus to improve collections and efficiency of employees in the different Philippine ports and provinces.

1. Indicted the Liberals for allegedly turning back on an opportunity to serve the country by rejecting his invitation to let Rep. Cornelio Villa-real, LP president, join in his state visit to the United States;
2. Endorsed the plan to adopt the multiple currency system in an effort to expand foreign trade without necessarily straining the dollar reserves of the country;
3. Announced he will govern the country through the radiophone during the course of his state visit to the United States;
4. Denied a charged levelled by Vice-President Macapagal that the use of proceeds from bond issue would generate inflation; and
5. Squelched reports he had taken any side in the Lacson-Aguilar affair on the zoo controversy.

Commenting on the Liberal Party rejection of his invitation to the LP president to join him in his trip, President Garcia stressed that he had given the opposition an opportunity to serve the interest of the country.

“However,” he said “the Liberals refuse to serve the people.”

The President then pledged to take the issue to the people. “Let the people decide,” he said challengingly.

He also took issue with Vice-President Macapagal, titular LP head, who had charged that the use of the proceeds of bonds issues may generate an inflation of the country.

He explained that he was taking extra precaution in the use of proceeds of the bond issues which he said was “within bounds.”

At the same time, the President said he has no plans of harnessing the services of the Vice-President while he is on a state visit to Washington.

He told the newsmen he will govern the country through the use of a radiophone.

He said that he had designated Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez to preside the Cabinet meetings during his absence. He chose Hernandez as the later is the “most senior” member of the Cabinet.

The President also endorsed the plan of adopting the multiple currency system. The system, which has been recommended favorably by the National Economic Council, would pave the way for the expansion of the country’s foreign trade, he said.

President Garcia pointed out that he had proposed the adoption of the “soft currency” as an alternative measure in the event the Cabinet decision outlawing barter trade is implemented by Congress.

However, the President said Congress has “sat down” on his plan to scrap barter trade.

He said “it was still premature for him. to assess the accomplishment of the legislature.” He held the press conference while Congress was still winding up its special session.

“Many things can happen within the next six hours,” the President pointed out.

President Garcia said that he was not taking sides in the current conflict between Mayor Lacson and Fr. Osmundo Aguilar over the transfer of the latter's zoo.

He denied reports that he had expressed his sympathy for Fr. Aguilar, who had been ordered by the city mayor to move his zoo from Manila.

The President also told the press conference the Philippines will be able to tide over its present rice shortage with the series of importation of the cereals which had been authorized by the Cabinet.

He said he is confident that the country will not face any "serious rice shortage this year."

PRESIDENT Garcia after the press conference unveiled a historical marker in the Malacañang room where United States President Dwight D. Eisenhower, then a major in the U. S. Army, drafted the National Defense Act of the Commonwealth of the Philippines and held offices as chief of the Military Affairs Division of the Office of the President of the Philippines.

The President, in unveiling the plaque, said: "Here, in this very room, the man who was destined for the Presidency of the greatest country in the world patterned the defense of our country."

United States Ambassador to the Philippines Charles E. Bohlen, who delivered a short response, expressed the most sincere appreciation of the U.S. Government and people for the historical marker, and assured that President Eisenhower would be most grateful for the honor extended to him by the Philippine Government.

President Eisenhower was in the Philippines from October 26, 1935, to December 13, 1939, as a member of the U.S. Military Mission to the Commonwealth of the Philippines headed by Major General Douglas Mac-Arthur. In 1938, Major Eisenhower was designated by President Manuel L. Quezon as chief of the Military Affairs Division of the Office of the President of the Philippines. It was during Major Eisenhower's tour of duty in the Philippines that he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

The inscription on the historical marker follows: "Lt. Col. Dwight D. Eisenhower, member of the United States Military Mission to the Commonwealth of the Philippines headed by Maj. Gen. Douglas Mac-Arthur (26 October 1935-13 December 1939), drafted in this room the National Defense Act of the Commonwealth of the Philippines. Here also he held office as Chief of the Military Affairs Division of the office of the President to which position he was designated by President Manuel L. Quezon in 1938. Colonel Eisenhower is regarded as one of the architects of the national defense of the Republic of the Philippines which follows the fundamental policies he helped formulate. Because of his concern for the Filipino soldier and for the well-being of the Philippines, he is admired and loved by all."

In his brief speech the President also said: "We should be proud of the fact that we have in this great man (President Eisenhower) a friend and a benefactor and at one time participated in the building up of our young and struggling Republic."

Present at the unveiling ceremony were ranking officials of the Philippines and representatives of the United States Government headed by Ambassador Bohlen. In a speech delivered at the turn-over ceremony of the newly reconstructed Anda Monument at the traffic circle on Bonifacio Drive in Port Area, the President said Governor-General Anda had fought against abuses, oppression, and corruption whether perpetrated by white, brown, or black man.

The President added: "He lost the love of his fellow countrymen because he did not want to lose the love of his God, who is the source of eternal justice, of truth, and of the right. But let Simon de Anda know that if he had lost the love of his own countrymen, the Filipino people for whom he had fought and died, will forever treasure his name as one of the greatest benefactors of their country."

Calinawan had started the probe when he found out that two shipments of the Aguilar Enterprises were not paring oil but coconut oil, which commands a higher price in the world market.

Effective remedial measures to check further exportation of coconut oil in the guise of paring oil were also discussed at the conference.

President Garcia also inquired from Commissioner Capapas about certain readjustments of customs personnel, in view of the suspension of 27 employees.

Reassignment of qualified customs personnel with a view to effecting a better and efficient administration was also agreed upon by the conferees.

THIS afternoon President Garcia assured the nation’s athletes that their appeal for more training facilities in preparation for future international athletic meets would receive enthusiastic response from the people.

In his brief remarks before members of the Philippine delegation to the last Asian Games recently held in Tokyo, the President said that the splendid performance of the delegation showed that the Filipino athlete, if given adequate training, is equal to any in the world.

The President congratulated the members of the 170-man delegation who called on him at Malacañang this afternoon to pay their respects following their triumphant return from. Tokyo. He said that through the victories and honors they had copped in the Third Asiad, the Philippines had grown in stature in the eyes of the world.

The delegation composed of men and women who represented the Philippines in about 12 events, was accompanied to Malacañang by Antonio de las Alas, president of the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation, who thanked the President for his support and encouragement which, he said, had spurred the athletes to do their best at the Tokyo meet.

De las Alas also presented the President with a commemorative Asiad medal as a token of the latter's share of the honors garnered by the delegation at the meet. The First Lady and her daughter Linda, who assisted the President in receiving the athletes, were also presented with commemorative pins.

De las Alas took occasion to call the attention of the President to the inadequate training Filipino athletes were receiving owing to limited facilities. The President replied that he would drum up public support so that local athletes would be properly trained before they are dispatched to future international meets.

Earlier this afternoon the President received a delegation composed of about 300 students who sought his assistance in their desire to seek admission to the U.S.T. College of Medicine after graduating from the pre-med courses at the U.S.T. and the Letran College. The students said that the U.S.T. had refused to accept them in view of an order from the Bureau of Private Schools to limit the U.S.T.'s enrollment in its medical college to only 1,000 students this year.

The President explained that the government had imposed such limitation because the laboratory facilities at the U.S.T. at present could accommodate only 1,000 students. He said that medicine requires plenty of laboratory work as an important part of the curriculum and hence a medical institution could only take in such number of students as its facilities could accommodate.

The President this afternoon administered the oath of office to officers of the Philippine Council of Industrial Editors (PCIE) in ceremonies held at Malacañang.

Upon his return to his residence in Quezon City, the President conferred with Judge Salvador Esquerra, his legal adviser, on a number of bills which Congress approved at its regular and special sessions.

Malacañang said the President wanted to act on a number of bills before leaving for the United States.

After his conference with Judge Esquerra, the President called for Daniel Salcedo and Education Undersecretary Martin Aguilar on the issue raised by some 300 medical students who were turned down by private schools.

President Garcia directed Director Daniel Salcedo of private schools to look into the facilities of the University of Santo Tomas with the view to finding out whether the institution could possibly accommodate some 300 students more who had been denied admission in its college of medicine this year.

In issuing the directive, the President reiterated that the encouragement of the youth to attain higher education had always been the policy of his administration. He indicated his willingness to extend all possible government assistance so that educational institutions could obtain the necessary equipment to accommodate the maximum number of students.

The President issued the directive to Director Salcedo in the course of a conference with U.S.T. officials at his "workshop" on Bohol Avenue in Quezon City this morning. He had called the conference after he received yesterday afternoon about 300 pre-medic graduates from U.S.T. and Letran College who complained that the U.S.T. had refused to admit them in view of an order from the Bureau of Private Schools limiting the enrolment of the U.S.T. College of Medicine to only 1,000 students this year.

Education authorities said that the limitation was imposed because the laboratory facilities of the University could only accommodate at present 1,000 students.

The conferees agreed in principle that the U.S.T. College of Medicine will admit this school year the same number of students as last year, which was 1,200.

Present at the conference which lasted from 11 to 11:30 a.m. were Education Undersecretary Martki Aguilar; Daniel Salcedo, director of the Bureau of Private Schools; Fr. In the afternoon, the President motored to Malacañang to preside over his regular weekly Cabinet meeting.

President Garcia today issued an executive order providing instructions to be followed in the conduct of public affairs during the time that he is outside the Philippines.

The Chief Executive signed the order this morning in preparation for his state visit to the United States next week.

At the regular Cabinet weekly meeting this afternoon President Garcia directed his department secretaries to adopt retrenchment measures in their respective departments to avoid possible deficits as a result of the failure of Congress to pass the Administration's tax measures.

The President instructed his secretaries to assign representatives of different agencies and offices under their departments to assist the Budget Commission in determining which items in their budgets should be cut so as to avoid the possible disruption of essential operations in these agencies.

The Chief Executive explained that retrenchment measures were necessary, as the budget recommended for enactment for the coming fiscal year had been predicated on the passage of the recommended tax bills; so a drastic reduction in actual expenditures under the new budget is necessary to avoid deficits.

The President also disclosed at the Cabinet meeting that steps were being taken to intensify tax collections under existing laws as a means of boosting revenues. He said that if this new campaign succeeds, it is possible to relax budgetary cuts or even completely restore them later on.

The Chief Executive, however, pointed out that the results of the new campaign for intensified tax collection would not be known until after three or four months.

It was decided at the Cabinet meeting that the Budget Commission would hold a series of conferences with representatives of the various departments in order to determine which items in their departments could be dropped temporarily without disrupting essential operations.

The Cabinet meeting which was devoted mainly to routine matters lasted from 5 to 7 p.m. It was the last meeting of the President with his Cabinet secretaries prior to his departure for the United States on Sunday.

The President today issued a proclamation declaring Thursday, June 19 of this year, as special public holiday in observance of the 97th birthday of Dr. Jose Rizal.

The Chief Executive proclaimed Bessang Pass Day to commemorate the anniversary of the fall of Bessang Pass which "has become a shining symbol of the courage and heroism of the Filipino soldiery and the loyalty and patriotism of our civilian population during World War II."

He called upon public officials and citizens of the Philippines to celebrate the day by holding appropriate programs "in honor of our fighting men who fought in the Battle of Bessang Pass."

The President also was informed today by the committee in charge that the turn-over ceremonies of the remains of Jose Panganiban which was scheduled for tomorrow had been postponed until the President's return from the United States. The Chief Executive had been scheduled to officiate in the rites.

U. S. Congressman Bernard Kearney of New York said this evening that President Garcia would be received enthusiastically in the United States.

The U. S. solon made this statement during a courtesy call on the President at Malacañang following his arrival in the country recently for a three-day observation in the veterans' hospital in Quezon City. Kearney is a member of the committee on veterans' affairs. He is traveling with his wife.

Congressman Kearney added that he was glad to know of the Chief Executive's projected state visit, as "it would afford a chance for the Americans to meet the leader of a people whose fight for democracy is known throughout the world."

The President was informed by Kearney that the management of the veterans' hospital was satisfactory.

The Kearneys were accompanied to Malacañang by Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas and Counsellor George Abbot of the U. S. Embassy.

June 12.—PRESIDENT Garcia said today that the proclamation of the first Philippine Republic exactly 60 years ago marked the consecration of Philippine-American friendship,

Addressing a huge crowd from the balcony of General Emilio Aguinaldo's residence in Kawit, Cavite, where the first Philippine independence had been proclaimed 60 years ago, -the President said that PI-US friendship had since been tested by two world wars and that it would continue as long as that friendship was dedicated to the cause of freedom and world peace.

The President called Gen. Aguinaldo and the revolutionary veterans under him an effective link in PI-US "relations and added that, with this group behind his administration, he felt confident that his forthcoming mission to the United States to ask assistance for the development of the nation's economy would succeed.

The Chief Executive was guest speaker at the ceremonies held in Kawit this morning in commemoration of the 60th anniversary of the first Philippine Republic. He spoke extemporaneously before hundreds of revolution veterans and ranking Filipino and American officials who had motored to Cavite to witness the rites.

The President was introduced by former Sen, Francisco Delgado, adviser of the Association of Veterans of the Revolution, under whose auspices the ceremonies were held. Other features of the affair were the public display of the first Filipino flag, the reading of the original document proclaiming Philippine Independence in 1898, invocation by Bishop Isabel de los Reyes of the Philippine Independent Church, and a one-minute silent prayer for the speedy recovery of Gen. Aguinaldo from his present ailment.

President Garcia arrived in Kawit for the ceremonies about 9:40 a.m. after a half-hour motor ride from his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City. He was welcomed by a large delegation of revolutionary veterans bearing revolutionary flags and by provincial and municipal officials headed by Gov. Delfin Montane.

Because of a heavy rain which developed on his arrival the President went direct to the Aguinaldo residence, where he was presented with a picture of the U.S.S. Olympia, the flagship of Admiral George Dewey. The framed picture was presented by Rear Admiral Edgar A. Cruise, commander of U. S. naval forces in the Philippines.

Gen. Aguinaldo attended the rites on a wheelchair. He had been conveyed to Kawit by car early this morning from the De Ocampo clinic in Manila, where he had been confined for several weeks following an attack.

The President started his 10-minute speech by saying that the present generation of Filipinos would be committing a crime of ingratitude if they were to forget Independence Day of 1898.

"It was on that day when the Philippine Republic proclaimed a flag of its own and a nationality of its own under the leadership of a man imbued with a high sense of responsibility, General Emilio Aguinaldo," the President said.

FROM Kawit, the President motored to the S.S. President Wilson docked at Pier 7 in Manila, where he was honored with a send-off luncheon by the Manila Rotary Club and the American President Lines.

The President delivered an extemporaneous after luncheon speech on board the S.S. President Wilson.

President Garcia said in his speech that he was going to the United-States to seek strength for the country's economy in order to be able "to establish here a real, effective, and substantial democracy" where every Filipino could have an ample share of the good things in life.

The President also said that the growth of the economy of the Philippines was something that could stand very well in comparison with other countries in Asia. He said that compared to other Asian countries which gained their independence after World War II, the Philippines is well advanced in the road to progress.

The Chief Executive was introduced by Manila Rotary Club President Francisco Delgado, who said that "his (the President's) success in his mission to the United States will be our success—the success of the nation."

The President reiterated that one of the primary aims of his administration was economic stability. He expressed the hope that he would be received with understanding in the United States.

Tracing the development of the friendly relations between the Philippines and the United States, the President recalled that the coming of Admiral Dewey in 1898 marked the beginning of Philippine-American friendship. "In spite of our situation in 1946, the American people, true to their promise as embodied in the Tydings-McDuffie Law, granted us our independence," the President said.

After his speech, the President was presented by the Rotarians with a fountain pen "which you could use in your trip to the United States." The gift was handed to the President by Rotary President Delgado. The Rotarians and their guests sang "For He Is a Jolly Good Fellow" in honor of the President.

The President arrived on board the S.S. President Wilson about 12:30 p.m. He was met by the Rotarians headed by Delgado and officials of the American President Lines led by Stanley P. Healey, director of the local APL branch, and Capt. Joseph Cox of the S.S. President Wilson. The President then shook hands and exchanged greetings with the Rotarians and their guests before proceeding to the dining room where the luncheon was held.

Before the luncheon, Delgado read a message from the San Francisco, (California) Rotary Club, inviting the President to be the guest of the club during his state visit to the United States.

At the presidential table with the President were Secretary of Finance Jaime Hernandez, Healey, Delgado, Capt. THE President today informed Sen. Mariano Jesus Cuenco that the purchase of the Hacienda Gutierrez in Davao by the People's Homesite and Housing Corporation has been under two separate investigations conducted independently by the General Auditing Office and the PCAC for the past four weeks.

In a telegram to Sen. Cuenco the President also said that the payment for the hacienda had been previously ordered suspended pending the result of the two investigations. The President's wire to Sen. Cuenco was sent early this morning.

Sen. Cuenco had sent a wire to the President on June 11 requesting the latter to suspend the payment of the hacienda, saying that the PHHC acquired the estate at a price far above the market value. The PHHC acquired the hacienda at a total cost of ₱913,000 and, according to Sen. Cuenco, the government would lose more than ₱500,000 in the transaction.

After breakfast at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City, the President motored to the yacht Sta. Maria to work on bills passed during the last regular session of congress. He was assisted by Executive Juan C. Pajo and Assistant Legislative Secretary Vicente Logarta.

The President signed 25 bills approved by Congress during its regular and special sessions, and vetoed two bills at a conference held with Executive Secretary Pajo aboard the presidential yacht.

The vetoed bills were House Bill No. 1412, entitled "An Act Transferring to the Bureau of Fisheries all the functions heretofore exercised by the Bureau of Customs over fishing vessels and their crew operating in the territorial waters of the Philippines,” and House Bill No. 1353, entitled “An Act to provide for the construction of a concrete building to house the Land Registration Commission out of the contributions of the Assurance Fund.”

In the afternoon the President returned to Malacañang for his regular weekly press conference.

President Garcia administered the oath of office to Judge Edmundo Piccio as Associate Justice of the Court of Appeals in ceremonies held, at Malacañang this afternoon.

Present at the induction were Justice Secretary Jesus G. Barrera; Mrs. Consuelo Delgado Piccio, wife of the new appointee; and their children, Mamerto and Edmundo, Jr.

Justice Piccio has been in the government service for about 31 years. He was assistant provincial fiscal, provincial fiscal, district attorney, and later judge-at-large for 12 years up to his appointment to the appellate court. He replaces Justice Florentine Saguin, retired.

President Garcia announced today he will start his retrenchment program by cutting down on expenses on supplies and materials.

At his weekly press conference, the Chief Executive stressed that he will lay off government personnel only as a last recourse to “balance the budget.”

The President launched his retrenchment program following the failure of Congress to approve the tax measures which he recommended to support an expanded budget for the year 1958-59.

He said he will not fill vacant positions and new items in the proposed budget.

He pointed out that his program may slow down the economic development of the country, but said he has to “balance the budget.”

However, the President said, despite the retrenchment program, he will proceed with the construction of schools in order to accommodate the students who were turned out when the schools opened last Monday.

“The building of schoolhouses should be given priority,” he said. He added that the education of the youth is a “constitutional mandate.”

Although President Garcia admitted having conferred with the Senate President, he denied having received the so-called “White Paper” amidst agitation from Congress to have the document bared to the public.

The “White Paper” allegedly contained cases of venalities in various offices in the government.

THE official list of the members to constitute the President’s party was released by Malacañang tonight. The members of the party are President and Mrs. Garcia, Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno, Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, Budget Commissioner Dominador R. Aytona, Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno, RFC Chairman Eduardo Z. Romualdez, Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Campos, and Col. Emilio Borromeo, senior aide.

The presidential party will depart from Balabag International Airport at 11 a.m. Sunday, June 15. The party is taking a chartered Pan American World Airways plane to Honolulu. From Honolulu the party will be taken to Washington aboard Columbine III, the presidential plane of President Eisenhower.

June 14.— PRESIDENT Garcia stayed aboard the presidential yacht Santa Maria in the Manila Bay the whole day today as he prepared to clear his desk of pending state matters before leaving today for the United States.

He was reported to have refused callers aboard the ship.

He went over pending measures, including the budget which he had to sign despite the fact that Congress had failed to approve the corresponding tax measures he recommended to support it.

Aboard the boat, the President also conferred with Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo. It was learned that he gave the secretary final instructions in his new chore as “caretaker” of the government while President. Garcia is aboard.

He had designated Secretary Pajo as his “trustee” who will implement his decisions.

At noontime, the President debarked from the yacht and motored to the Manila Hotel, where he attended the last send-off party for him in the Fiesta Pavillion.

The popular banquet was tendered by officials and representatives of civic organizations to climax the round of “despidida” parties for the Chief Executive.

In an extemporaneous address the President said he was confident he would not come home empty-handed.

He anchored his optimism to the long-standing ties of friendship between the Philippines and the United States.”

From the Manila Hotel, the President returned to the yacht where he again went over pending bills.

He returned late last night to his private residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City.

The President, on the eve of his departure for his state visit to the U. S., expressed deep appreciation for the numerous messages he had been receiving in Malacañang for the past few weeks from various elements all over the country wishing him godspeed and success in his mission.

The President said that the widespread endorsement, given him by his people had encouraged and strengthened him in carrying out the twin purposes of his trip, that is, to further enhance the friendly relations existing between the Philippines and the United States, and to seek assistance for the promotion of the economic stability of this country.

Messages of encouragement had been pouring in Malacañang in the form of resolutions from provincial boards, mayors’ leagues, municipal councils, barrio councils, and business and civic organizations, as well as telegrams and letters from individual officials and private citizens from all over the country.

THE President this day directed the Philippine Air Force to airlift four persons who were in serious conditions in the provinces for medical treatment in Manila.

Three of the patients were rushed to the North General Hospital while Gloria Cabusa of Tuguegarao, Cagayan, who was suffering from paralysis, was taken to the National Orthopedic Hospital.

Ignacio Halog was evacuated from the Dona Gregoria Hospital at Agoo, La Union, and brought to Manila. He is suffering from severe brain concussion.

Mayor Ayuste, of Burdeos, Quezon, was evacuated by helicopter from his hometown and brought to Manila after he began emitting blood through the nose and mouth.

Ely Ruba, of Cajidiocan, Romblon, was taken unconscious to the North General Hospital after he was evacuated by a PAF Albatross. He is suffering from H-fever.

President Garcia, today also signed into law three more bills passed during the last regular session of Congress and vetoed two more.

The vetoed bills were H. P. No. 2008, providing for the creation of a Water Pollution Control Committee which the President believed could be created by executive order; and H. B. 241 (S. B. 112), providing for the retirement of judges.

The President also signed today into law all the bills passed during the special session of Congress, except the Public Works bill which he intends to act upon on his return from the United States, The President has until July 7 to act on bills passed during the special session of Congress.

No exact figure as to the amount of the budget approved by the President is available at press time, as the President had vetoed some portions of the appropriations measure.

June 15.—THE PRESIDENT held last-minute conferences with his top aides this morning before he left for the Manila International Airport to board the plane which would take him to Hawaii.

He conferred the longest with Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, whom he had designated to look after the affairs of the government in his absence.

As a matter of fact, his conference with Pajo did not break up until about 11 a.m. when the Pan American stratoclipper, which had been chartered for the flight to Hawaii, was about to taxi out to the runway.

He carried a running conversation with Pajo on the way to the MIA, at the MIA, and while his plane was reviving up.

Earlier, the President and his family heard mass at the Malacañang chapel said by Col. Nicolas Ortega, chief of the AFP chaplain corps. The presidential family also received Holy Communion.

After the conference with his aides, the President in a gray suit, boarded the No. 1 car with Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Speaker Daniel Romualdez, Chief Justice Ricardo Paras, and Secretary Pajo. The car led a motorcade of about 150 vehicles to the MIA.

At the MIA, the President was given a 21-gun salute and ruffles and flourishes by a composite battalion of the Armed Forces. He inspected the honor guard from a command car.

In brief parting remarks before thousands of well-wishers who turned up at the airport shortly before noon today, the President said: "I seek in the United States the means to establish on firmer foundations the well-being and economic security of our people. And God willing, we shall return with glad tidings. Adios! Hasta la vuelta!"

Thousands of people from all walks of life stood patiently under the blistering heat of the noonday sun to see the President off. Vehicular traffic was jammed and people had to leave their vehicles several, hundred meters from the airport and walk the rest of the way. The airfield and its environs were filled with pushing and jostling humanity.

After security officers had succeeded in extricating him from the huge, jostling throng which surged toward him to shake his hand and wish him godspeed and safe return, the President ascended the plane's ramp at 10:45 a.m. In response to the clamour of the noisy, placard-bearing crowd, the President and the First Lady had to re-emerge: from the plane's door to wave a second time to the cheering throng.

One of the placards read: "We're Liberals, Mr. President, but we are behind you."

The plane, named Clipper Mandarin, taxied out to the MIA runway at 11 a.m. and was airborne a few minutes later. A squadron of Philippine Air Force jet planes escorted the President's plane as it headed west.

At the MIA, the 5,000-odd people who had come to bid the President off rushed for the exits.

PRESIDENT Garcia termed this year's observance of Public Administration Week as a significant event because it "enables us not only to take stock of what we have already accomplished in the government service but also to look ahead and plan for further improvement."

In a message before he left for the United States this noon the President said that the justification of any government is its unswerving pursuance of the people's welfare, and that public administration is the instrument to achieve this.

"In our case," he added, "our primary objective is the acceleration of the social and economic development of the Philippines."

The President said his administration was pledged to achieve the people's welfare through well-defined programs, effective modern methods of realizing carefully-wrought plans, and maximum employment of the most efficient and highly trained human resources of the nation.

The President expressed hope that the active, observance of Public Administration Week by all government, employees, along with the meetings being held by the first Asian Regional Conference in Public Administration, would result in the adoption of concrete practical programs serving as patterns of dynamic government action for all the countries in our region.

"Surely," the President added, "we can and should make use of the best in public administration to advance the welfare of our respective peoples."

The President's message is in connection with the observance of Public Administration Week from June 15 to 21 this year. The observance coincides with the holding of the current First Asian Regional Conference in the Philippines.

June 17.—PRESIDENT Garcia, on the third day of his 18-day state visit to the United States, took off from the Hickman Air Force Base in Honolulu at 5 o'clock this morning (11 a.m. Monday, Honolulu time).

The President and the members of his party, including the First Lady, their daughter, Linda, and son-in-law, Fernando Campos, boarded President Eisenhower's personal plane Columbine III.

The Columbine III, said to be President Eisenhower's newest plane, was sent to Honolulu to fetch President Garcia's party.

The President spent the night at the Makapala home of Admiral and Mrs. Felix B. Stump in Honolulu. Admiral Stump is the commander-in-chief of US forces in the Pacific.

A 21-gun salute was fired for President Garcia as the Columbine III, President Eisenhower's personal plane, taxied to the receiving platform.

President Garcia told newsmen he was deeply touched by the enthusiastic receptions accorded him from Honolulu to the US capital.

After a brief respite of the Blair House, the President paid homage to the American war dead by laying wreaths at the tombs of the unknown American soldiers at the Arlington National Cemetery.

The President and the First Lady were accompanied by General John Van Houten, commanding general of the military district of Washington.

The presidential party arrived at the memorial gate at 3 p.m. (Washington time). They were met by a liaison officer, who escorted the motorcade to the east entrance to the tombs of the unknown soldiers on Roosevelt Drive. A 21-gun salute was fired while the party was enroute.

President Garcia also visited the Mount Vernon home of George Washington. He placed a wreath at the tomb of the first US President.

He went into the different rooms of the Washington residence and posed for news photographers in the music room.

President Garcia also went to the Philippine embassy. He greeted all the members of the embassy staff numbering about 40, and other Filipino officials and guests who jam-packed the chancery halls.

He first stopped at the press and media chart room where he saw, indicated on a giant map of the US, the newspapers which had published stories on his state visit to America.

He read "editorials," welcoming him published in today's issues of the New York Times, Washington Post, Washington Daily News, and Washington Evening Star and commented: "These are encouraging editorials which show the warmth and friendship of the American people."

He chuckled at one news feature released by the "NEA" which carried the headline "Protocol and Poetry."

President Garcia was greatly impressed by the radio and television coverage of his visit by over 560 affiliated stations and was amazed at the report of the Motion Pictures Association of America that some 300 theaters had exhibited a re-edited version of Challenge in Asia, a documentary on the Philippines and his work.

THE Cabinet today took steps to boost the national economy and help relieve unemployment as it adopted a resolution enjoining all government offices and agencies to encourage in every way possible the use of locally-produced materials and to avail of the services of the NAMARCO in the procurement and supply of these materials.

At its regular weekly meeting at Malacañang this noon, the first held after President Garcia's departure for the United States, the Cabinet approved the draft of a memorandum-circular addressed to heads of departments, bureaus, offices, agencies, and instrumentalities of the government, including government-owned and controlled corporations, to utilize as much as possible locally-produced supplies and equipment.

The Cabinet also:

- (1) Authorized the Bureau of Internal Revenue to accept the compromise settlement offer of the Manila Railroad Company to pay 10 per cent of its franchise tax liability aggregating P2,231,238.31 as of June 30, 1955;
- (2) Accepted the invitation of the Chinese Government to send to Taiwan a delegation of Philippine leaders in agriculture, commerce, and industry to promote cooperation and trade between this country and China;
- (3) Recommended to the NAMARCO the allocation of P100,000 from its P1 million revolving fund previously authorized by the Cabinet, to reliable private entities or persons who can produce articles needed by the NAMARCO, as a means of encouraging and promoting the growth of cottage industries;
- (4) Deferred action on a request of A. V. Rocha for renewal of his contract with the National Development Company as booking agent for the “Doña” vessels for another period of two years, until the return of the President from the United States;
- (5) Designated Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez to study the petition of shell fishermen for the lifting of the ban on the exportation of sea shells; and
- (6) Assigned Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez to look into the proposed purchase by the PHILCOA of a tract of land in Ligao, Albay, to be utilized as research center on the kadang-kadang disease of coconuts, and for coconut seedling banks.

In condoning 90 per cent of the back taxes of the MRR, the Cabinet took into account that the railroad was rendering valuable service in providing cheap means of transportation to the masses, particularly the small farmers who had to transport their produce to distant markets. It also wanted to give the company a chance to rehabilitate itself and expand and improve its facilities for the comfort of its patrons made up mainly of the common people. The final amount to be paid by the MRR as back taxes was left for the auditor general to determine.

The Philippine delegation to Taiwan, as approved by the Cabinet, will be composed of 12 officials from government and private organizations, as follows: Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez as chairman; Marcelo S. Balatbat, acting president of the chamber of commerce, as vice-chairman; and Director Eugenio Cruz and Pedro Rodrigo of the Bureau of Plant industry, Conrado Ramirez and Rafael Ledesma of the Chamber of Agriculture and Natural Resources, Ben Medrano and Dalmacio Suaco of the Chamber of Industries, Antonio Locsin of the Bureau of Public Works, Alejandro Dawa of the Commission of National Integration, Severino Yap of the NARRA, and Col. Romeo Espino of the EDCOR, as members.

The delegation which is scheduled to leave this month will stay in Taiwan for two weeks with expenses defrayed by the inviting government. They will visit various sections of the islands and observe agricultural and natural conditions there.

The P100,000 proposed allocation to encourage and promote home industries was left for final action by the NAMARCO board in view of the limitation imposed by law that the revolving fund may be used only for public enterprises. Secretary Hernaez, chairman of the NAMARCO board, was asked to look into this limitation and find out whether some means could be devised to channel the fund direct to reliable private entities as a means of facilitating the development of home industries.

Renewal of the NDC contract with A. V. Rocha as booking agent for the government-owned “Doña” vessels had been recommended favorably by the NDC board of directors. The board pointed out it was not good business policy to change agencies very often as it would confuse regular shippers and customers, especially in foreign ports. The Cabinet, however, deferred decision on the matter until the President's return from his state visit to the United States.

Regarding the petition of shell fishermen to lift the ban on the exportation of sea shells, it was pointed out that the price of the article had gone down since the imposition of the ban as local factories were not as yet ready to absorb all the local supply. As a result, the petitioners alleged, thousands of families all over the country had been deprived of a decent means of livelihood.

The Cabinet decided to have Secretary Hernaez study the question further in view of a counter-petition of local manufacturers which utilize the shells as raw materials. The commerce secretary was asked particularly to look into the number of people that would benefit or would suffer by the lifting of the ban, and to submit his report and recommendations at the Cabinet meeting next week.

Another matter taken up at the meeting this noon was the proposal of the PHILCOA to purchase a property in Ligao, Albay, which shall be used as experimental center on kadang-kadang disease. Agriculture Secretary Rodriguez was directed to inquire into the suitability of the property for the purpose, the reasonableness of the proposed price which is P546.29 per hectare and whether or not the area of the property, which is 128.1397 hectares, was sufficient or insufficient to serve as an experimental station.

The Cabinet meeting today was presided by Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, the senior member of that body, in accordance with the executive order issued by the President before he left for the United States. The meeting lasted from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

June 19.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning, (Wednesday afternoon, June 18, in Washington, D. C.) received at the Blair House a token presentation of hand tools and farm implements from the Kiwanis Club of the United States.

The presentation was made by William J. Wescott, president of the Strathomoor Club of Detroit, Michigan, who was accompanied by Jose Skagerberg, past president of the same club.

The letter of presentation said: "As a small gesture of friendship of the people of the United States to your people, the Strathomoor Kiwanis Club of Detroit would like to present you with a token gift. This gift which consists of hand tools to be used by small farmers of the Philippines, will be shipped to you at a later date. With this token of friendship comes our congratulations for the fine spirit which your people have shown in their desire to maintain independence which they have so notably achieved."

Replying to the Kiwanis president during the simple presentation affair, President Garcia said: "It is so kind of you to make this token donation. I am sure that the small farmers of my country will receive these gifts with appreciation. Please extend to the Kiwanis Club members the gratitude of the Filipino people and my own. I am sure these tools and implements will help our small farmers in their work.

"One of our deepest concern is for the amelioration of the masses. We need more schools, better education, and higher income, and all these can start from the small farms if properly developed. We are especially grateful for this donation because it comes from a private group."

Westcott then said that the donation came from only one club but added that "I can assure you that all 4,500 of these clubs will soon make similar donations and this amount to thousands of dollars worth of farm tools and equipment."

"For all its vaunted terrors, it is in fact that one engagement which the official visitor can least afford to miss," he said.

The President said he is not a stranger to the ways of American press. He explained:

"We have in the Philippines a press that has faithfully patterned its principles and its practice upon your own, a press that is fully as free and untrammelled as yours, in certain ways even more so, as every Filipino politician has reason to know and sometimes to rue. In Manila, there is a National Press Club with an organization and facilities that favorably compare with yours and counts with the membership of many newspapermen whose ability, energy, and dedication would entitle them to stand proudly with their peers anywhere in the world,"

In his NPC address, the President likewise recalled that today is Rizal Day.

"It is fitting that I should invoke his name today," he said, "because Rizal was a sworn foe of oppression and tyranny, vice, and corruption in his time, just as Thomas Paine was the implacable enemy of these evils in America more than a century earlier."

New York is the third American city President Garcia has visited in his current tour.

“I am happy to be here in the city of wonders,” President Garcia said upon arrival at the city’s La Guardia airport.

This prompted President Garcia to remark to commissioner Richard C. Patterson, Jr., of the city’s Department of Commerce and Public Events, who represented Mayor Robert F. Wagner: “(The welcome) is so warm I feel it in spite of the weather.”

Patterson also extended to President Garcia the best wishes of West Germany President Theodor Heuss who is also visiting New York.

President Garcia drove off in a black limousine bearing the Philippine and American flags on his way to the Waldorf-Astoria, where he would stay during his three-day New York visit.

Sunday morning (afternoon, Manila time), the President heard high mass celebrated by Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, at the St. Patrick’s cathedral.

This was followed by a luncheon given by Cardinal Spellman for President Garcia and his party.

He marvelled at the “vigor and vitality” of Catholics in America and praised his host as a “friend of the Philippines.”

He conferred with Harold E. Helm, chairman of the board of Chemical Corn Exchange Bank, at a breakfast conference at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, where the Philippine President is billeted in New York City.

June 24.—PRESIDENT Garcia today went through the last day of a hectic three-day schedule in New York and was booked to take off sometime tomorrow night, which is Wednesday morning in New York, for a visit to Phoenix, Arizona.

American newsmen who covered the gruelling pace of the President's schedule, observed that he "seems tireless" and was bouncy and spright at his numerous public appearances.

In a policy speech before the Council of Foreign Relations, the President spurned neutralism and said the Philippines is "committed" to the side of freedom.

Press dispatches from New York said that President Garcia's visit to that city was well played up by the Manhattan papers.

The New York World Telegram had a three-column story on President Garcia's colorful "ticker-tape" parade under the head, "Thousands Cheer Garcia in Parade up Broadway."

New York papers also carried editorials greeting President Garcia on his visit to that city.

Press dispatches from New York also carried reams and reams of reports on President Garcia's stay in Manhattan, including an interesting sidelight wherein Filipino newsmen covering the Chief Executive were said to have been "lost" while following President Garcia in the "ticker-tape" parade along Broadway.

The newsmen, following a ceremonial car, found out that they were trailing West Germany President Theodore Heuss, who was leaving the city.

This morning, he is scheduled to attend a breakfast in his honor in the Hansen Suite of the Waldorf-Astoria, where he is staying, to be tendered by Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo.

MALACANANG announced today that the Executive Office would recommend to Congress the amendment or repeal of the law requiring all mail matters to bear additional five-centavo anti-tuberculosis fund campaign stamps for the period from August 19 to September 30 of every year.

The announcement was made in view of widespread agitations over Republic Act No. 1635 passed by Congress last year to boost the Anti-TB fund drive. The main basis of opposition was that it would impede the transmission of mails during that period, especially in localities where the law is not known.

In view of the undesirable effects of its operation which possibly had not been foreseen by its authors, the executive department would recommend re-study of the law at the next regular session of Congress or at the next special session if there be any.

June 25.—THIS DAY President Garcia visited the United Nations headquarters and recalled that he was at the place four years ago.

He was received at the UN headquarters by Dr. Ralph Bunche, undersecretary in charge of special political affairs.

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, who was scheduled to receive the visiting Chief Executive, was still in the Middle East.

President Garcia was met at the entrance of the UN headquarters by Jehan de Noue, UN protocol chief. Dr. Bunche was assisted by Sir Humphrey Trevelyan.

During his tour of the different conference rooms and assemblies of the UN, the President pledged the support of 23 million Filipinos to the United Nations.

He recalled that he visited the UN four years ago when he was Vice-President and concurrently secretary of foreign affairs.

With President Garcia were Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine delegate to the UN; Minister Octavio Maloles, acting chief of the mission to the UN; and Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas.

Dr. Bunche told the President that the Philippines, as a charter member of the organization, has contributed greatly to the UN.

“You probably don’t know that we are the second largest milk-producing state the US,” Harriman told the President. “You honor us by drinking our product.”

However, Romulo quipped that it was milk which put down Pierre Mendes-France as premier of France.

President Garcia this evening closed a four-day gruelling tour of New York City, where he was lavishly banqueted and where he spoke on the foreign and economic policies of the country.

Phoenix will be the fourth key US city which President Garcia will visit in the course of an 11-day tour of America.

President Garcia appealed to the large group of American businessmen to invest in the Philippines and help strengthen the economy of this country.

He previously held a series of conferences with US businessmen as he switched from his loan-haggling mission to inviting foreign capital to the Philippines.

The President who emplaned from New York at 9:30 this evening (9:30 a.m. Wednesday, New York time), is scheduled to arrive at 3:15 a.m. tomorrow in Phoenix.

He will stay at Phoenix for two days. He said he was interested in seeing the irrigation systems in Phoenix, a place which has the same climate as the Philippines.

ARIZONA GOVERNOR Ernest W. McFarland declared June 26 as Philippine Day in his state as a fitting tribute to the Filipino people on the occasion of President Garcia’s visit.

The Arizona Philippine Day proclamation was contained in a scroll which will be presented to President Garcia by Gov. McFarland upon the former’s arrival at the Phoenix airport tomorrow.

THE Cabinet at its regular meeting today approved the acquisition from the United States of 60,000 metric tons of milled non-glutinous California pearl rice through barter with refractory chrome ore.

In a cable received last week, Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo reported that arrangements had been concluded for Masinloc Mining Company to supply the United States Department of Agriculture with 135,745 long tons of refractory chrome at $28.50 per long ton, delivering F.O.B. to Baltimore or Philadelphia, in exchange for 30,000 metric tons of California rice which will be sold to the NARIC at $150 per metric ton, C. & F. Manila.

Ambassador Romulo further reported that an additional 30,000 tons of California rice was available under the same terms and conditions.

The Cabinet confirmed the arrangements concluded by Ambassador Romulo for 30,000 tons of rice and approved the acquisition of the additional 30,000 tons which the Ambassador said was available.

President Garcia had previously directed Romulo in Washington to make arrangements for the barter under U. S. Public Law No. 480 in his desire to help out local mining companies threatened with closure in view of their inability to barter their produce of chrome. The President had expressed grave concern over the hundreds of laborers who might be laid off as a result of the closure.

By the barter arrangements, the President had hoped to help the laborers and at the same time obtain rice for the country to fill up an expected shortage of the staple commodity this year.

HEALTH UNDERSECRETARY Tranquilino Elicaño reported to the Cabinet that no outbreak of cholera and dysentery had been reported in any part of the country although diarrhea is in its seasonal prevalence.

Undersecretary Elicaño said that his department had intensified the campaign against cholera and gastro-intestinal diseases as a precautionary measure, with vaccine production accelerated. The Department of Health in the meantime had requested assistance from the ICA and UNICEF for additional vaccine to meet a widespread demand. Elicaño emphasized that there was no cause for alarm.

The meeting which lasted from 4 to 6 p.m. was presided over by Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez. It was the second meeting of the body since the President's departure for the United States about 10 days ago.

The meeting opened with Legislative Secretary Jose C. Nable, concurrently officer-in-charge of the Press Office, briefing the members of the Cabinet on cables received from the President and members of his party from the United States.

The Cabinet in the course of the meeting denied the request of the municipal council of Antipolo, Rizal, for the Manila Railroad to donate about 10 kilometers of roads owned by the company either to the municipality of Antipolo or to the province of Rizal. In denying the request, the Cabinet found that the Manila Railroad was not well off financially and could not afford to donate any of its properties.

The Cabinet likewise denied a proposal to expropriate an 18,755-square meter lot in San Pedro, Laguna for distribution to tenants after the government had paid a reasonable price for the property.

The denial of the proposal was on the recommendation of Justice Secretary Jesus G. Barrera, who considered it of doubtful constitutionality.

Shortly after 6 p.m. the Cabinet members were joined by governors and city mayors of nearby provinces and cities, representatives of various civic and veterans organizations as well as of newspapers and radio and discussed preparations for the reception of the President and members of his party when they return here on July 3.

The meeting was presided by Executive Secretary Pajo, chairman of the July Fourth Sub-Committee on Presidential Reception.

Among those present were Governors Isidro Rodriguez of Rizal, Delfin Montano of Cavite, Rafael Lazatin of Pampanga, Dominador Chipeco of Laguna, and Tomas Martin of Bulacan.

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY Juan C. Pajo this morning administered the oath of office to Ladislao Yap as director of the Wage and Position Classification Office in a simple ceremony held at Malacañang.

Secretary Pajo also inducted Aurelio M. de Leon, who was designated acting assistant chief of the Motor Vehicles Office.

The Indonesian training vessel arrived this morning for a five-day goodwill mission and training cruise.

In the course of an inspection of Malacañang offices, Secretary Pajo announced that he was studying the possibility of moving the Budget Commission out of the Malacañang compound.

The Executive Secretary found Malacañang offices too crowded and dark. He also announced his plan to transfer his office to the ground floor of the Executive Building for easier accessibility to the public.

Among the offices inspected by Secretary Pajo were that of the Vice-President and that where the then Lt. Col. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who as member of the United States Military Mission to the Commonwealth of the Philippines, had drafted the National Defense Act.

June 26.—PRESIDENT Garcia arrived by plane at 4:15 a.m. today at Phoenix, Arizona, and was reported to have received the “warmest” reception throughout his tour of the United States.

Reports reaching Manila said Phoenix was sweltering under a 110-degree Fahrenheit temperature when the President and his party deplaned at the Sky Harbor airport.

It was a sudden change of temperature for President Garcia and his entourage after they had enjoyed the late spring weather in New York.

From the airport the President proceeded directly to the Arizona State College in Tempe, where he received his second doctorate degree of his American tour.

He received his first honorary degree at Fordham University where he was conferred a doctorate of laws.

At the Arizona college, the President listened to a 450-word eulogy read by Dr. Brady Gammage, president of the institution, who described President Garcia’s rise in the political scene in the Philippines.

He said that President Garcia’s biography sounded like a typical American success story.

Visibly heartened by Dr. Gammage’s remarks, President Garcia flashed a wide grin and shook Gammage’s hand in acknowledgement of the apparently flattering remarks of the college president.

President Garcia was reported to have received a standing ovation from the college faculty and 300 spectators when he was awarded the degree.

After receiving the honorary degree, the President explained in his address that his tour of the United States has a three-fold purpose. He said he wanted to foster friendship for his country, seek financial support for the Philippine economy, and discuss American interests in the country.

“The Pacific Ocean,” the President said, “no longer affords the protection it did even as recently as 10 years ago . . . Asia is now your next door neighbor.”

From the Arizona college, the President sped to Hotel Westward Ho, where he attended a civic dinner sponsored by the Phoenix Press Club and the Executive Club.

In his after-dinner speech the President told some 500 persons who attended the occasion that his country was pledged to “shoulder our just share in the defense of freedom and the defense of peace.”

He said he visited Arizona, because he wanted to learn things which “will be most useful to me in administering the affairs of my country.”

He had previously said he would inspect the irrigation system of the state, as Arizona compares with the Philippines in climate and soil conditions.

On hand to greet the President in Phoenix were Gov. McFarland, Mayor Jack Williams, and Major General Frank E. Frazier, adjutant general of the state.

President Garcia likewise met Mateo Mangosing, a Phoenix businessman from the Philippines, who presented a bouquet to the President on behalf of the Filipinos living in the state.

There were about 50 Filipinos who attended the civic dinner at Hotel Westward Ho.

The President, after a night in Phoenix, viewed a film on the agricultural development of the state prepared by the Salt River Project. He was scheduled to tour the different phases of the project.

PRESIDENT Garcia today expressed deep appreciation over the numerous messages of congratulations he had been receiving from Manila and other places, adding that whatever successes he might have achieved in his state visit to the United States belonged to his country and people.

In a cable addressed to Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo at Malacañang today, the President said that the many messages of good wishes he had received throughout his tour of American cities had given him an added source of strength and encouragement.

The President’s cable was in reply to a resolution unanimously passed during the regular meeting of the Cabinet last night felicitating him for a “highly successful mission.” The resolution had been transmitted by wire by Legislative Secretary Jose C. Nable through the Philippine Embassy in Washington, D. C.

EXECUTIVE Secretary Juan C. Pajo administered the oath of office to Gerardo Rodriguez as member of the board of directors of the Philippine Tobacco Institute in a ceremony held at Malacañang this morning.

Secretary Pajo also received D. C. Mandeville, member of the United Kingdom’s Scientific and Technical Adviser Group on Colombo Plan, who called at Malacañang this afternoon to pay his respects following his recent arrival in Manila. Mr. Mandeville was accompanied by British Ambassador George Clutton.

June 27.—PRESIDENT Garcia landed this morning (Thursday afternoon, West Coast time) in Los Angeles and received one of the most impressive receptions during the whole course of his tour of the United States.

The President, the First Lady, and the members of his official entourage alighted from a four-engine US Air Force plane as a 30-piece band struck the notes of military marches. They were met by more than 200 Filipinos.

Manibog, reports said, comes from Laoag, Ilocos Norte.

Heading the official welcomers was Mayor Norris Poulson of Los Angeles, but the first to greet the Chief Executive was Vincent Bello, president of the Filipino community in Los Angeles.

As he landed, the President faced a battery of newsreel and television cameras.

In a brief talk the President said his tour of the US cities had "brought closer my country and the United States."

As he went through the Filipino line, the President kissed a Filipino infant held by Mrs. Camy Santos, who said she was a niece of Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo.

From the airport, the President motored to the Perino's where he attended a private luncheon given by Jesse W. Tapp, chairman of the board of the Bank of America.

In the afternoon, the President received officials of the West Coast Division of the United States Industries, Inc., who presented the Chief Executive with a $30,000-engine lathe as gift to the Philippines.

At the dinner, the President asked the United States to reassess "your responsibilities in Asia."

He warned that communist political, cultural, and economic infiltration has been intensified in Asia at a time when many countries in the East are experiencing a deep sense of frustration and a growing estrangement from the West.

PRESIDENT Garcia invaded Hollywood this afternoon (Early Friday morning in Los Angeles) and had brushes with the known stars in the movie colony.

"We are very honored by your presence," Miss McGuire told President Garcia. The movie actress informed the President that the story of the film revolves around a man who has 17 children and two wives.

"He must be quite a man," the President remarked.

At the luncheon, several American movie stars, including Zsa Zsa Gabor, delighted the members of the presidential entourage.

Among other stars who attended the luncheon were Irene Dunne, Ann Blyth, Jeff Chandler, Joan Fontaine, Jeanette McDonald, Shirley Maclaine, Dorothy Malone, Virginia Mayo, Walter Pidgeon, Ginger Rogers, Ronald Reagan, Esther Williams, Cornell Wilde, and Fess Parker.

After a tour of Hollywood, the President enplaned for San Francisco, the last city on his schedule before flying out of the US mainland on his way home.

A MAJOR American industrial corporation, U. S. Industries, Inc., gave the program of industrialization and agricultural mechanization of the Philippines a substantial boost today with the gift of a $30,000 engine lathe to President Garcia for use in the Republic.

The President is currently in Los Angeles as part of a ten-day state visit to this country.

Three Los Angeles Area Division and Clearing Machine Corporation Division of U. S. Industries, Inc., presented the heavy duty lathe to the President, bringing the parent corporation's total of gifts to the Philippines to more than $80,000. Earlier this week John I. Snyder, president and chairman of the board of USI, presented President Garcia with 8,500 agricultural hand tools valued at $50,000.

The complex lathe was given by Axelson Manufacturing Company, Los Angeles, Southern Pipe and Casing Company, Azusa, Western Design and Manufacturing Company, Montebello and Santa Barbara, and Clearing Machine Corporation, Chicago and Hamilton, Ohio, on behalf of USI Philippine subsidiary, Koppel (Philippines), Inc. The engine lathe made by Clearing Machine Corp. was presented by John Billera, senior vice-president of USI.

The Axelson heavy duty engine lathe, model 16-B, features an 18-1/2" swing-over bed, direct drive motor, two speed tailstock spindle traverse, automatic hydraulic brake and rigid four-bearing spindle mounting.

The lathe will be put to work in the machine shops of the Philippines National Shipyards and Steel Corporation. It will be shipped from the west coast to the Philippines sometime within the next week.

In making the presentation before 300 business executives, civic and consular officials, and members of the press, Billera declared that the equipment was being given through President Garcia as an expression of friendship to the people of the Philippine Republic.

U. S. Industries, he added, through its Philippine subsidiary, has been actively involved since 1904 in the agricultural and mechanization programs of the Philippines and expressed belief that both of these programs would go forward under President Garcia's able administration at an even greater pace in the future.

These gifts, significant in the fact that private enterprise is supplementing the government's extensive foreign aid program, were designed specifically for the needs of the Philippines.

June 28.—PRESIDENT Garcia and the members of his party landed at the San Francisco airport at 5:14 p.m. Friday (8:14 a.m., Manila Time, Saturday).

Touched by the number of Filipinos who came to greet him, President Garcia said, “My countrymen, I love you all,” in Tagalog.

A 21-gun salute also boomed officially to welcome the President.

“I bring the blessings and good wishes of the folks at home. I am overwhelmed by this reception given me and the members of my party,” he said.

Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco introduced the President to the crowd as “one of the great heroes of all time.” He said President Garcia represents a great land which has “staunch and unswerving principles that America stands for.”

Although President Garcia wanted to greet all the Filipinos by shaking their hands, he failed to do so as he was requested to leave the line so that he could keep abreast with his schedule.

Boholanos were also among those in the Filipino crowd. They claimed they had campaigned for President Garcia in Bohol.

In the evening, he was honored with a dinner at the Peacock Court of the Hotel.

The President followed another hectic schedule in San Francisco this day.

He attended a luncheon in his honor given by R. G. Follis, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of California. Mrs. Garcia, on the other hand, was feted by Mrs. R. Stanley Dollar at the latter’s residence.

June 29.—INDEFATIGABLE President Garcia spent his last evening (Sunday morning here) on the American mainland greeting Filipinos and Americans in two parties given him in San Francisco.

Some 500 dignitaries and members of the Philippine community in San Francisco queued to shake the President’s hand during a late afternoon party tendered for him by Consul General and Mrs. Nicanor Roxas in the mural room of the St. Francis Hotel.

The only formal ceremony at the reception was the presentation by the President to three Californians of legion of honor certificates for their part in furnishing the Philippines farm implements in 1953.

Those honored were Jack Block and Maurice Perstein of the San Francisco Lions Club, and Manuel Insigne, publisher of the Bataan News in Sacramento.

The other affair the President attended Saturday evening (Sunday morning here) was a dinner given in his honor by the Press and Union League Club at the club's building on Post Street.

In effect the President said that the Philippines with its unique half-century of partnership with the United States can help win Asia for the West.

"We showed," President Garcia told his audience, "that American traditions can grow and flourish on Asian soil."

He drew an ovation when he ended his speech with: "I will carry (home) with me the picture of an America anxious to be understood, always willing to hear, wanting nothing for herself, generous to a fault; sometimes mistaken but never wavering in its fight for freedom.

June 30.—PRESIDENT Garcia landed in Honolulu at 12:47 o'clock this afternoon (Manila time) after an 11-day triumphant mission to the United States.

Yesterday, at 8 a.m. (San Francisco time) the President heard mass at the St. Mary's Cathedral and had breakfast with R. Stanley Dollar in the Argonaut Room of the Mark Hopkins Hotel.

He left the hotel for the San Francisco International Airport a few hours later at 11:54 a.m. Sunday (2:54 a.m. Monday, Manila time) and boarded the plane which took him to Honolulu and another rousing welcome.

President Garcia's military transport plane landed at the Hicham Air Force base outside of Honolulu city where the President was given a warm Hawaiian welcome by several hundred of his countrymen, some of whom had flown from neighboring islands to greet their Chief Executive.

The airport reception was featured by the presence of grass-skirted hula dancers who delighted the President and members of his entourage, including the First Lady and their daughter, Linda, with the hula-hula dance.

The Filipino crowd was headed by Consul General Juan C. Dionisio.

The military leaders who met the President were led by Admiral Felix B. Stump, commander-in-chief of the American Forces in the Pacific.

The President met the members of the press of Honolulu to whom he recounted what he considered an "accomplished mission" to the United States.

The President will stay in Honolulu for three days. He was scheduled to take off for Manila on Tuesday (Wednesday, Manila time).

President's Month in Review: July 1-15, 1958

OFFICIAL MONTH IN REVIEW

July 1.—PRESIDENT Garcia's last day in Leyte was a hectic one. Debarking in Tacloban City from the presidential yacht Sta. Maria at 8 a.m. today, the President had breakfast at the residence of Leyte Gov. Bernardo Torres, laid a cornerstone at the proposed Redemptorist church in Tacloban, inaugurated the 100-bed capacity Leyte Provincial Hospital, inaugurated the puericulture center of the city, inaugurated in Tigbao-Cebuanos in Leyte, inspected the Leyte Trade School, and laid the cornerstone of the Tacloban TB pavilion.

It was already dusk when the President re-boarded the Sta. Maria for the home trip to Manila. He had been in Leyte for the past three days, appealing for "a full term" in Malacañang and inaugurating various public works projects.

At the Tacloban wharf the President was given a warm send-off by the people. Among those who saw him off were Gov. Torres and Speaker Protempore Daniel Z. Romualdez.

In his speeches in this city the President emphasized the fact that the Administration was carrying out successfully every program of the late President Magsaysay, especially the rural development program. He cited the irrigation systems, barrio schoolhouses, feeder roads, and artesian wells already constructed or being constructed by the Nacionalista administration.

In Tigbao barrio the President awarded the Presidential Golden Heart medal to Mrs. Enriquita C. Jocson, who donated more than one hectare of her land for the site of the community schoolhouse.

The President also gave presidential medals of merit to Donato Ripilda and his heirs, who donated the barrio Tagburo school site, Pedro Buclatan, who donated barrio Anibong school site, and Segundo Indik, who donated another barrio school site.

The President motored from one place to another in Tacloban the whole day, as he was kept busy by his tight schedule. The people applauded him in his speeches. From the Redemptorist church, where he laid the cornerstone of the future home of the Mother of Perpetual Help in Tacloban, the President went to inaugurate the Leyte Provincial Hospital which cost, ₱300,000.

Earlier in the morning President Garcia received delegations on board the Sta. Maria. Delegations included Liberal leaders from barrio Guindapunan and Carigara who pledged to support his election as President. LP leaders were accompanied by Councilor Reginaldo Pascual of Tacloban.

July 2.—PRESIDENT Garcia today expressed personal indignation over the manner the triplets were evicted from the Maternity Hospital in Cebu. He directed Acting Health Secretary Rafael Tumbokon to take immediate steps to reinstate the triplets in the hospital and to send a Department of Health investigator to check and report on circumstances surrounding the eviction of the triplets.

The President also instructed Social Welfare Administrator Amparo Villamor to send immediately material aid to the family of the triplets.

The presidential yacht Sta. Maria was tossed, swayed, and rocked by big waves the whole morning. Instead of arriving in Manila at 10 p.m. today, the yacht will arrive about 1 a.m. because its course was altered to avoid huge waves and strong winds. Every passenger, including newsmen, stayed in bed the whole morning to avoid dizziness. The President stayed in his bedroom after hearing mass and eating breakfast with the First Lady.

The President and the First Lady ate lunch at 2 p.m. after the big waves had calmed down a little. After lunch the President rested in his bedroom and went over state papers. Weather along the way of the Sta. Maria has been cloudy with slight rains, strong winds, and big waves.

July 3.—PRESIDENT Garcia returned to Malacañang at 2 o'clock this morning with a large entourage who were badly shaken by huge waves which lashed the presidential yacht Santa Maria at the China Sea before it entered Manila Bay.

It was an eventful trip, and President Garcia who had appeared unperturbed after taking two tablets to fight seasickness said, "It is part of the game."

After a few hours of sleep, the President motored to Camp Murphy where he had breakfast given in his honor by Army officers and their ladies at the officers' club.

Addressing officers and men of the Armed Forces on the occasion of the annual testimonial parade and review given in honor of their commander-in-chief at Camp Murphy this morning, the President said, "Our proud history has entitled us to the claim of guardianship over democratic institutions. That claim and duty of guardianship must be fulfilled even at the price of personal sacrifice so as to insure the integrity and purity of the ballot.

"If those who are in power must face defeat, let it be; but nothing must be done to tarnish the sanctity of the free man's vote," the President said.

Speaking in a voice that rang loud and clear to the men who stood in formation before him on the parade ground, the President stressed:

"Friends and countrymen, on the eve of the national commemoration of the attainment of our independence, and at this historic hour, let me make this solemn pledge that as long as I am Chief Executive of our Republic and Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces, I will not tolerate nor countenance any pollution of the ballot, any frustration or perversion of the popular will as expressed through the vote, or any illicit, or unconstitutional interference of the military in the conduct of elections."

The ceremonies started promptly at 9 a.m. with the presentation of the award of the Philippine Legion of Honor (Chief Commander) to Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo "as the foremost military leader during the darkest hour of the Philippines' fight for freedom against the then existing Spanish regime, culminating in the establishment of the erstwhile Philippine Republic."

The award was pinned on the 87-year old revolutionary general by the President. He was assisted by Secretary Balao and General Arellano.

Then, boarding one of the staff cars, the President inspected two regiments which stood stiffly at attention at one end of the parade ground. The regiments were made up of battalions from the Philippine Military Academy, the Constabulary, ground forces, Navy, Air Force, artillery, the school for reserve commission, and the Presidential Guards Battalion under the command of Lt. Col. Romeo Honasan.

The parade started about 9:30 a.m. Enthusiastic applauses were received by each unit representing the different major services as they marched smartly past the reviewing stand. A squadron of PAF Mustang planes flew in formation over the parade ground.

With the President on the reviewing stand were Mrs. Leonila D. Garcia, the First Lady, members of the Cabinet, chiefs of foreign missions and members of their staffs, senators and congressmen, and top military officials of the Philippines and foreign countries.

The Chief Executive and the First Lady were back at Malacañang about 10:15 a.m.

THE President this afternoon stressed the great importance of schools and colleges to the future of the country, emphasizing that "our schools and colleges be brought up to the highest degree of efficiency of which our wisdom and our means are capable."

The President said the efficiency of our educational institutions would shape and determine the progress that could be attained by the Filipino people. He said: "If our schools are fifth-rate, they can only produce fifth-rate citizens; and if we have fifth-rate citizens, we can build only a fifth-rate nation."

The Chief Executive said: "If our people give me the necessary time to lead in the accomplishment of this vast and important task, I shall embrace the opportunity with energy, determination, and decision."

The President made these remarks at the formal inauguration and blessing of the University of the East Ramon Magsaysay Memorial Medical Center and the Science Building on Aurora Boulevard with President Garcia and Mrs. Luz Banzon-Magsaysay as co-sponsors. Mrs. Garcia, U.E. President and Mrs. Francisco Dalupan, and the U. E. Board of Trustees present were in attendance.

The U.E. Ramon Magsaysay Memorial Medical Center (College of Medicine) is a non-stock and non-profit institution named after the late President.

In his speech, President Garcia praised the U. E. founders of the college for their boldness and vision in their search for educational improvement. He said that by its inauguration, the institution announced its intention to pioneer in at least two important phases of education: the abolition of the profit motive and the limitation of enrollment.

With regard to the solution of the many shortcomings of the country's educational effort in general, the President said he was seriously thinking of the feasibility of creating a body of scholars and educators to conduct a thorough and comprehensive study of Philippine education as a whole and to "recommend to the Government such improvements and the means to those improvements as it may find wise and necessary."

The President expressed the hope that if the U. E. Ramon Magsaysay Memorial Medical Center succeed, it would "open to the schools and colleges of this country a new vista of service to the youth and to the Republic as the late President Magsaysay, whose honored name this medical college bears, envisioned it in his lifetime."

President Garcia congratulated President Dalupan and the U. E. Board of Trustees and the faculty for boldly embarking on this great pioneering adventure in Philippine medical education. The President felicitated Mrs. Magsaysay, who, because of her consent to the use by the college of the late President's name, "there has been added one more fitting memorial to our late President, my great predecessor, and the moral force of his name has been aligned with the cause of educational progress."

President and Mrs. Garcia were fetched from Malacañang by U. E. President and Mrs. Dalupan about 4:00 p.m. They rode together in the presidential car to the UERMMC. The President was given a 21-gun salute and full military honors. The program was held in one of the auditoriums of the medical college.

President and Mrs. Garcia returned to Malacañang about 5:30 a.m.

July 4.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning ordered all government relief agencies to extend immediate succor to the fire victims in Cabadbaran, Agusan.

The President, through Executive Secretary Fortunato de Leon, directed Social Welfare Administrator Amparo Villamor, the Philippine National Red Cross, the Department of Health, and the relief units of the Armed Forces to mobilize their units in giving immediate relief to the sufferers of the Cabadbaran fire.

The President took this action immediately upon receipt of a telegram from Gov. Felixberto Dagani of Agusan, who informed the Chief Executive of the fire and requested relief.

According to Dagani, Cabadbaran was hit by the biggest fire in its history, with the whole commercial district razed to the ground. At the time of the sending of the telegram (8:26 a.m.), the fire was still raging.

PRESIDENT Garcia and President Eisenhower exchanged messages of felicitations on the occasion of the anniversary celebrations of the independence of their respective countries today, July 4.

In a message addressed to President Garcia received at Malacañang early this morning, President Eisenhower said: "It gives me pleasure to extend to Your Excellency and to the people of the Philippines the congratulations and sincere good wishes of the people of the United States on the national anniversary of the Republic of the Philippines."

President Garcia also received similar congratulatory messages from heads of state all over the world. Among such messages were those from Emperor Hirohito of Japan, Queen Juliana of the Netherlands, King Baudouin of Belgium, King Bhumibol of Thailand, King Adolf Gustaf of Sweden; Presidents Izhak Benzvi of Israel, Rajendra Prasad of India, Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico, Hans Streuli of Switzerland, Theodor Heuss of Germany, Iskander Mirza of Pakistan, and Pedro Eugenio Aramburu of Argentina; Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek of Nationalist China; and Giovanni Gronchi of Italy.

Meanwhile, Ambassador Felixberto Serrano wired from New York informing the President that the Philippine mission and the Filipino community in that city were cooperating to celebrate Independence Day with appropriate ceremonies.

UPON the recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Parole, President Garcia this day granted 50 conditional pardons, two absolute pardons and two commutations of sentence.

THE President presented the posthumous award of the Quezon Service Cross on the late President Ramon Magsaysay in ceremonies held at the Malacañang social hall this evening in connection with the observance of the 11th anniversary of the Republic of the Philippines.

The award was presented to Mrs. Luz B. Magsaysay, widow of the late President, in the presence of officers and members of the 11th civic assembly of women, Cabinet members, members of the diplomatic corps and their ladies, and representatives of various civic organizations gathered at Malacañang to witness this year's awarding of presidential medals of merit under the sponsorship of the CAWP.

Attired in black terno, Mrs. Magsaysay stood misty-eyed, apparently trying hard to fight back her tears, as the citation reviewing the achievements of Ramon Magsaysay, "soldier, statesman, patriot, protector of the poor, implacable foe of Communism, and leader of his people," was read before the assemblage. However, after the medal had been placed around her neck, the former First Lady broke down and wept silently.

Recipients of the presidential medals of merit were Mrs. Luisa Fernandez de Lichauco for home arts, Mrs. Flora Amoranto Ylagan and Dr. Ricardo C. Lacson for education, Richard T. Ely and Justice Secretary Pedro Tuason for public service, and the family of Dr. Jose de Jesus for exemplary family. The medals were pinned on the awardees by the President.

The presentation ceremonies started about 6 p.m. with Miss Helen Z. Benitez, CAWP president, presenting the awardees, on behalf of Mrs. Minerva Inocencio Piguing, chairman of the CAWP awards committee. Also present was Mrs. Leonila D. Garcia, the First Lady.

In a brief extemporaneous speech delivered during the ceremonies, the President congratulated the officers and members of CAWP, whom he called the "quintessence of Filipina womanhood" for their valuable participation in the nation's affairs. He said that their contribution had been instrumental in making of this country what it is today.

PRESIDENT Garcia and Mrs. Garcia gave an Independence Day state dinner at 8 o'clock this evening at Malacañang.

The affair was attended by leaders of Congress and the judiciary, heads of diplomatic missions, members of the Cabinet and the Council of State and their ladies, top brass of the Philippine and the American Armed Forces, and prominent citizens and other high government dignitaries.

MALACAÑANG announced today the appointment of Dean Feliciano Jover Ledesma as a member of the National Board of Education to take the place of the late Jess Paredes, who died in an airplane crash with the late President Magsaysay.

July 5.—PRESIDENT Garcia woke up late this morning after his midnight caucus with some 35 solons who wanted to do away with provincial conventions and make the present congressmen automatically the official candidates of the Nacionalista Party in their respective districts.

The President engaged the solons in some political debates on the matter and finally told the solons bluntly he could not subscribe to their views which scuttle the rules and regulations of the party.

It was a tough night for the President, as he was forced to commit himself on his choice of a running mate. The solons had asked the President to pick Speaker Jose B. Laurel, Jr., as his running mate. After vacillating for some time, the President finally said “you can have the green light” to campaign for the Garcia-Laurel team.

PRESIDENT Garcia at the Cabinet meeting this day signed an executive order implementing Reorganization Plan No. 77, creating the Forest Products Research Institute.

This plan provides for an objective organization to study and recommend the effective utilization of all forest products and their by-products and to give encouragement for the development of wood and lumber industries.

The Government Survey and Reorganization Commission said that the creation of this institute was one milestone toward the implementation of the Administration’s economic development program.

As organized, the Forest Products Research Institute will have one director and one assistant director. It will also have five divisions; namely, administrative services, chemical investigations, industrial investigations, wood technology, and wood preservation.

The implementation of this reorganization plan abolishes the forest products laboratory and the forest products research section of the Bureau of Forestry and transfers their functions together with the appropriate personnel, appropriations, property, equipment, and records to the FPRI. There will be no lay-off of personnel as a result of this reorganization.

Upon strong representations of Philippine Charity Sweepstakes General Manager Eugenio E. Santos, the President and the Cabinet approved the petition of PCSO employees for higher salaries, provided that these salary increases conform with the rates set down by the Wage and Position Classification Office.

The President and the Cabinet observed that the PCSO was an agency of the government exercising the regular functions of a government office and therefore it should follow the WAPCO standard of salaries.

Manager Santos explained to the President and the Cabinet that his employees deserved the increases given to them because of the good work they were performing, resulting in greatly increased sales of sweepstakes tickets. Santos said that although his employees now numbered 347 as against 370 in 1953, they produced better results.

Santos pointed out that whereas the sales in 1953 amounted to only ₱9,662,757, the sales in 1957 jumped to ₱28 million, and that while the aids given in 1953 were only ₱3,043,768, the aids given in 1957 amounted to ₱8,829,000.

He also said that in 1953 the sweepstakes office had a deficit of ₱250,936, but in 1957, it had a surplus of ₱706,188f.

President Garcia directed that a cable be sent to President Eisenhower expressing the Filipino people's "deepest appreciation for signing the legislation handing back valuable historical documents and records seized during the Philippine Insurrection in 1898."

In his message the President said that President Eisenhower's signing of the bill on the eve of the anniversary of Philippine independence "will be cherished by the Filipino people, especially by our historians and scholars who are now provided with a veritable source of historical materials."

President Garcia added, "This is indeed another manifestation of the cordial and close relations existing between our two countries."

LATE in the afternoon the President received callers after working on state papers.

The callers who were received individually by the President were Sens. Edmundo Cea, Francisco Delgado, and Quintin Paredes, and Govs. Juan Frivaldo and Valeriano Gatuslao of Sorsogon and Negros Occidental, respectively.

Then the President received a group of labor leaders who presented a resolution pledging their support to his election bid. They also requested the Chief Executive to order the insular treasurer to resume payment of backpay claims of the labor battalion of the pre-war Civilian Emergency Administration.

Headed by Pablo Manlapit of the National Employees Workers Union and chairman of the United Labor Political Action Committee, the labor leaders informed the President that backpay payments to the CEA battalion had been suspended last year owing to an investigation which was conducted because of an alleged anomaly.

The labor leaders were composed of Alejandro Salazar, general president, International Labor and Marine Union; Hugo Retaga, president of the National Workers Brotherhood; Ildefonso K. Romey, president of the Union de Tabacos, Inc.; Filomeno Prudon, president of the Binangonan Labor Union; Arcadio Roxas, president of the PLAW; Pedro Advincula, president of the Gen. Log Workers Union; Eduardo Donato, president of the Union de Tabaqueros de Filipinas; Teodoro Pineda, Mechanical Technical Stev. Union; Juan D. Gandionco, lawyers.

The President expressed his gratitude to the labor leaders for their support to his election bid.

Regarding the request of the labor leaders to resume the payment of backpay claims of the CEA labor battalion, the President told them that he would study the matter seriously.

A group of Aklan municipal mayors also presented a resolution pledging their support to the President's election bid. The town mayors were Batan Mayor Mariano Pador, Lizo Mayor Catalino Prado, Malinaw Mayor Sancho Jncierto, Tangdan Mayor Augusto Gaboy, Balete Mayor Apolinar Cleofe, and Makato Mayor Jose Legazpi.

Mayor Cristino Jimenez of Dasol, Pangasinan, accompanied prominent political leaders of his municipality who pledged their support to the President's election bid.

Other individual callers were Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez and ex-Governor Gulamu Rasul of Sulu.

July 6.—PRESIDENT Garcia, before enplaning for Baguio this morning, received Health Secretary Paulino Garcia, who submitted a report on the fruitful results of the work of the Philippine delegation to the Tenth World Health Assembly in Geneva and, afterwards, in the United States.

In his report to the President, Secretary Garcia said that the Philippine delegation got from the World Health Assembly approval of the program of assistance for the Philippines for the fiscal year 1958, estimated at $249,441, to be financed from the WHO, regular budget, the U. S. technical assistance funds, and the UNICEF.

This assistance program consists of aids for tuberculosis control, leprosy control, influenza center, bilharziasis pilot project, midwifery training, maternal and child health, mental health, environmental sanitation, and the institute of Hygiene, U. P.

Secretary Garcia told the President that, as directed by the Chief Executive, he proceeded to the United States where he and Dr. Regala looked into the exchange visitors program and the ICA health-assisted programs, and made technical observations and consultations.

Secretary Garcia said that he had talked with Filipino doctors in Mount Vernon Hospital and Lawrence Hospital in Westchester County, New York, whom he found happy in their work and satisfied with their placements. The directors of the two hospitals spoke well of the Filipino doctors and held them in high regard, according to the health secretary.

In Chicago the health secretary said he had met with Consul Abrera and with the executive directors of the American Hospitals Association and the American Medical Association. He had been given assurance that remuneration of Filipino nurses under the exchange visitors program would be increased.

Secretary Garcia said that he had extended an official invitation to Dr. Leroy Burney, the surgeon-general of the U. S. Public Health Service, and to Dr. Eugene Campbell, ICA health director in Washington, D. C., to come to the Philippines to observe on the spot the implementation of the mutual programs.

Garcia also observed the work and research being done in cancer control and in mental health at the National Institute of Health in Bethesda, Maryland, and conferred with directors of the respective institutes on the over-all phases of activities in these fields.

The President congratulated Secretary Garcia for the good work he had done in his mission abroad.

IN the afternoon the President inducted Col. Marcos G. Soliman, superintendent of the Philippine Military Academy, as ad interim brigadier general in the Armed Forces at ceremonies at the Guest House.

Soliman's appointment was one of the three ad interim appointments signed by the President in Manila this morning before enplaning for Baguio City. The other two were those, of Col. Climaco Piniyoy, commander of the IV Military Area, and Col. Pedro Q. Molina, chief of the Philippine Air Force, as brigadier generals.

Present at the ceremonies were Rep. Ramon Mitra of Mountain Province; Baguio City officials, headed by Mayor Alfonso Tabora; Maj. Gen. Joseph Harper, chief of JUSMAG; Maj. Gen. John Ackerman, commander of the U. S. 13th Air Force; Col. Jose Maristela, PC provincial commander of Mountain Province; Col. Harold Beck, commander of Camp John Hay; and ranking officials of Baguio City.

General Soliman has been in the Army for 27 years. He graduated from the P. C. Academy in 1933. He later graduated from the U. S. Infantry School in Fort Benning, Georgia, and from the U. S. Command and General Staff School in Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

The President arrived at the Loakan airport in Baguio aboard the Pagasa at 12:10 p.m. He was met by city officials headed by Mayor Tabora and a delegation from the Baguio police department headed by Col. Francisco Paraan, chief of police. The delegation submitted to the President a resolution signifying their willingness to forego the benefits of the new law prescribing a five-day a week office schedule, for the good of service. The President thanked the Baguio policemen for their dedication to public service.

From the airport the President motored to the Guest House.

In the evening, the President motored to the Baguio Country Club, where he spoke at the installation of the Baguio Rotary Club officers.

PRESIDENT Garcia last night paraded the economic achievements of the Magsaysay administration and marshalled facts and figures to refute the charge of “rank mismanagement in the fiscal, financial, and trade fields” which former Speaker Jose Yulo had levelled at the ruling Nacionalista Party.

In what political observers considered his “fightingest” speech yet, the President took Yulo, Liberal Party presidential aspirant, to task for “misrepresenting the economic situation by erring either on the side of exaggeration or understatement.”

President Garcia delivered the speech shortly after he had installed officers of the Baguio Rotary Club at the Baguio Country Club in Baguio City this evening.

It was the first major speech on economics he had delivered since succeeding the late President Magsaysay last March 17.

It was also a rejoinder to a scathing attack on NP economic policies Yulo launched before the Manila Rotary Club on June 27.

Among others, Yulo had charged the NP with exhausting the country’s dollar reserves, with foisting on the people “fantastically unbalanced budgets,” and with rank mismanagement in the fiscal, financial, and trade fields.

President Garcia said: “The Liberal charge is not only unfounded and unproved; it is also gratuitous and ridiculous. It is, as I have said, a desperate attempt to convert defense into offense, a last ditch try to make the red herring ‘trick work.’”

The President told the Rotarians that Yulo, in hurling those charges at the NP, recited “half-truths and inaccurate figures or no figures at all to support premeditated and self-serving fuminations.”

He said the presidential aspirant twisted and tortured economic data “for political effect” and in so doing, “sacrifice the national welfare to personal ambition.”

The President cited facts and figures which he said were “of public record” to throw back Yulo’s charges to the LPs themselves. (See Historical Papers and Documents, pp. 4059-4066, for the full text of the President’s speech.)

July 7.—THE President had breakfast at 7:30 a.m. with Miguel Velasco, Malacañang financial assistant, who consulted him on the implementation of the new budget, particularly in the office of the President.

Sen. Edmundo Cea gave the President a favorable report on the latest political developments in the Bicol region. He said he was working for the complete solidification of Bicol political leaders to rally behind the President.

Other callers this morning included a delegation of the Citizens Committee for Garcia headed by Florendo Aquino and Rep. Ramon Mitra of Mt. Province.

Shortly after 10 a.m., the Chief Executive motored to the Baguio Cathedral, where he heard mass. After the mass he motored around the city.

Returning to the Guest House shortly before noon, the President received Gov. Marcos Malupa of Batanes, who reassured him that except for four or five congressmen, there was really no “revolt” in Congress. Malupa reported that Reps. Angel Castaño and Augusto Francisco of Manila and himself had canvassed 40 alleged rebels. Malupa also reported that governors and city mayors from the First Military Area and the Bicol bloc were scheduled to meet at the Manila Hotel tomorrow. Also invited to the meeting were Govs. Leon Guinto, Sr., of Quezon, Mariano Tajonera of Mindoro Oriental, and Francisco Infantado of Mindoro Occidental. “Among the last callers was Gov. Bernardo Gapuz of La Union, who appraised the Chief Executive on the latest political developments in his province. After having his lunch at 2 p.m., the President stayed in his bedroom the whole afternoon and evening.

PRESIDENT Garcia woke up this afternoon after a short nap feeling slightly indisposed; so he postponed his scheduled return to Manila for tomorrow noon.

The President was scheduled to go down by car at 4 p.m. today to board the plane at San Fernando, La Union, as the Loakan airfield in Baguio is closed in the afternoon owing to the weather. He expects to take off at Loakan before noon tomorrow and fly direct from Baguio to Manila.

The President received several delegations which called on him at the Guest House this morning. The first of these delegations was composed of some 50 Igorot farmers from nearby Trinidad and Tublay towns who requested the early adjudication of titles to the public lands they were cultivating.

Two delegations called to pledge their support. They were the Benguet Balatoc Workers Union delagation headed by Vicente Osemña and the Romblon provincial and municipal officials delagation who told the President they would support him whoever would be his running mate in the coming election.

Accompanied by Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno, the Romblon group included Gov. Manuel Solidum, Board Members Francisco Benedicto and Vicente Tanciangco, and Mayors Isidro Mallorca of Romblon, Pablo Bargete of Badajos, Francisco Fernando of Odiongan, Li Umali of Cajidiocan, Elias Baranda of San Fernando, Teofisto Nepomuceno of Magdiwang, Dionisio Fetalvero of Jones, Gaudencio Molina of Sta. Fe, and Vidal Tolieria of Corcuera.

July 8.—THIS morning President Garcia did not receive any caller at the Guest House in Baguio. He spent the whole morning in conference with Miguel D. Velasco, Malacañang financial assistant, on the implementation of the new budget. He also conferred with Executive Secretary Fortunato de Leon, who consulted him on pending matters.

Shortly before 12 noon, after an early lunch, the President motored to the Loakan airfield where he boarded the plane Pag-asa for the return trip to Manila. He took off at the Baguio airport under a heavy rain, and landed at Nichols Field one hour later.

ALIGHTING from the presidential plane Pag-asa at 12:20 p.m. from his two-day stay in Baguio, the President saw Col. Molina, who headed a large group of top ranking airforce officers who welcomed him at the air base. He decided to swear in the air force chief right at the base canteen where he sought shelter from a slight drizzle.

Col. Molina was one of three ad interim brigadier-generals whose appointments were signed by the President last Saturday morning shortly before he enplaned for the Pines City. The other two were Cols. Climaco Pintoy, commander of the IV MA, and Marcos Soliman, superintendent of the PMA. The latter was sworn in at the Guest House in Baguio Saturday afternoon.

July 9.—THIS morning the President inducted six mayors of Tarlac who formally affiliated with the Nacionalista Party and pledged to support his candidacy. The six mayors were among 15 mayors of Tarlac who called on the President and collectively pledged their loyalty to the Administration.

The six mayors, who were DP's before their affiliation, were Felipe Obillo of Moncada, Pedro Pascasin of Pura, Silvestre Sabado of Anao, Florencio Molioc of Sta. Ignacia, Esteban Mangabat of Ramos, and Amado Roldan of San Clemente.

Taken up by the Tarlac mayors with the President were their respective local problems, including the boundary dispute between Tarlac and Pangasinan which involved six barrios between San Clemente, Tarlac, and Mangatarem, Pangasinan. The President instructed Executive Secretary Fortunato de Leon to look into the dispute and work out a solution as soon as possible.

Aside from the six newly affiliated mayors, others who saw the President were Mayors Hipolito Castaneda of Tarlac, chairman of the Mayors' League, Enrique Sison of Bamban, Francisco V. Nogoy of Capas, Eufonio Subara of Gerona, Patrocinio Garrido of Victoria, Eliodoro Castro of Paniqui, Dioscoro Felix of San Manuel, Rosendo Tomas of Mayantoc, Benigno Aquino, Jr., of Concepcion, and Vice-Mayor Jaime Vigilin of Camiling.

In the evening, callers of the President were delegations headed by Rep. Salvador Encinas of Sorsogon and Rep. Constancio Castaneda and Governor Arsenio Luyag of Tarlac.

Executive Secretary Fortunato de Leon this morning inducted the officers of the Department of Public Services Union in Manila. The officers were headed by Bernabe Juguilon, president; Hipolito Santos, 1st vice-president; Nicasio Masangkay, 2nd vice-president; Bernabe Aguado, secretary; Anastacio Soriano, assistant secretary; Hermogenes Vigos, treasurer; Benjamin Padilla, assistant treasurer; and Genaro Galvez, auditor. The union officers were accompanied by former Bataan Rep. Medina Lacson de Leon and Mariano de Joya, Jr.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon paid tribute to the youth of the land whose determination to do their best for the government will redound to the betterment, of the Filipino people.

The President made the remarks before officers and members of the League of Young Professionals who pledged to support his re-election. The young professionals also informed the President that they realized "the necessity of active participation in all phases of national endeavor—economic, political, and social."

The league was formed by young professionals all over the country, with the purpose of actively being "instrumental in the betterment of our people and in the moulding of our nation's destiny."

Thanking the young professionals for their pledge of support, the President paid tribute to their active spirit and recalled that the history of the country was replete with the heroism and patriotism of young people.

In a resolution submitted to the President, the young professionals said that "we are convinced that the man who can truly live up to the role demanded by the imperatives of our time is President Carlos P. Garcia, whose integrity as a man, devotion as a public servant, and greatness as a leader, have already been tested."

They pledged "to exert all efforts to the end that President Carlos P. Garcia be elected by the Filipino people as the fourth President of the Philippine Republic and to support his administration and policies in the interim."

The officers of the league included Santiago F. Dumlao, Jr., Juanito R. Remullo, Augusto E. Villarin, Pablito J. Enano, Teodoro G. Bonifacio, Mariano C. Ereso, Jr., Ernesto T. Duran, and Teodelo Fra, Arriola.

THIS afternoon the President ordered Vicente G. Bunuan, chief of the Sugar Quota Office, to release immediately out of the "A" sugar, which is for export, the amounts necessary to meet requirements of local sugar consumption.

The President took this step in order to flood the market with enough sugar stocks and bring the price of this commodity to normal levels.

He issued the order during a 30-minute conference which he had with Bunuan in the President's anteroom this afternoon.

PRESIDENT Garcia, in a conference with Gregorio S. Licaros, chief of the Import Control Division of the Central Bank, directed the Monetary Board to study immediately the lifting of the suspension by the Monetary Board of the granting of dollar allocations to Filipino exclusive distributors.

The President's directive followed the complaint last night of Benjamin R. Medrano, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the Philippines, that the Monetary Board had not implemented the President's directive of May 8, giving dollar allocations to exclusive distributors.

The President said he wanted a report on the Monetary Board's study of this matter at the earliest possible time.

MALACAÑANG announced today that, a satisfactory understanding for the solution of the problem of the American film, industry in the Philippines has been arrived at.

The announcement was made after an early morning conference among the President, Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, and Leo Hochstetter, representative of the Motion Picture Export Association of America.

It was agreed at the conference that: (1) the sum of $1,800,000 representing part of the profits of U.S. films here will be allowed to be remitted to the United States; and (2) the matter of levying back taxes on American movie films will be submitted to the proper court for final determination as to the legality of the action.

RECENT news reports stated that the President, in his speech before the Rotary Club of Baguio on July 6, claimed that the international reserve in 1950 was $130 million. Evidently, this is a misinterpretation of the following statement:

"In 1950, the fiscal authorities of the Liberal Administration did not consider $130,600,000 as 'dangerously low.' For the $260,000,000" which they fixed as a safe level, $130,000,000 would consist of funds borrowed from abroad. Our position today is certainly sounder and better than this, for our international reserves are nearly $200,000,000 of which only $15,200,000 consists of borrowed foreign fund."

For purposes of clarification, this statement does not mean- that the international reserve as of 1950 was $130 million. The above paragraph was intended to point to the fact that the Liberal administration recognized that to carry on the development program of the country, balance of payments deficits would have to be incurred so that after 1953, the international reserve would have to be depleted to $130 million unless foreign assistance were availed of. This recognition was expressly stated by the 1950 Report of the Philippine Economic Survey Mission of which Mr. Yulo was the Chairman. This report stated:

"... Within the framework of assumptions made, the international reserve after 1953 would be reduced from the present level to about $130.6 million. The Commission believes that the international reserve should be maintained at the present level of $260 million in order not to impair confidence in the value of the peso. The country, therefore, would need a foreign assistance to carry out this program to the extent of $130.million."

Despite heavy outlays for industrialization, the international reserve as of July 2, 1957, amounted to $198.11 million, which is definitely better than the $130 million anticipated by the Liberal Administration if the development program were to be pursued vigorously. Of this, only $15 million represents repurchase obligations with the International Monetary Fund which is much lower than the $130 million proposed to be availed of from foreign sources as loans, grants, and assistance in the Yulo Report. Hence, if we were to incur a total foreign obligation of $130 million, the international reserve level will be about $300 million which exceeds the $260 million considered as a safe level in the Yulo Report by $40 million.

July 10.—THIS morning the President received NP ward leaders from Pasay City who informed him they would rally solidly behind him to insure his victory in the November elections.

Headed by Francisco Victor, president of the NP directorate in that city, the ward leaders recalled that the defeat of the NP mayoralty candidate in Pasay last election was due to the lack of unity of the NP's who had put up no less than three strong candidates for the post.

The 14 ward leaders who were at Malacañang this morning included former Acting Mayor Adolfo Santos, Nena Herrera, and Francisco Jalbuna.

The President also received Msgr. Egidio Vagnozzi, papal nuncio, who delivered a message from His Holiness Pope Pius XII extending the Holy Father's "cordial good wishes for your personal health and well-being and for the peace and prosperity of the people of the Philippines."

The President was deeply touched by the papal message and said he would keep it among his most treasured, collections. It was in reply to a previous message sent to the Vatican recently by the President through Commerce Secretary Oscar Ledesma.

Mons. Vagnozzi also presented the President with a book entitled: "First Asian Meeting of the Apostolate of the Laity," a report of the apostolate congress held in Manila in December 1955. The Chief Executive thanked the Nuncio for the gift and promised he would read the book.

About 10 a.m., the President received Mayor Teopisto Cordova of Bacolod City, who reiterated his pledge of loyalty and at the same time denied reports he had committed himself to support an LP presidential aspirant. The Bacolod mayor explained he had met the LP presidential bet at the airport during the latter's recent visit to Bacolod simply because he was a member of the Lions Club which had invited the aspirant to that city.

Aurelio Montinola and Gerald Wilkinson, president and vice-president of the Republic Cement Corporation, respectively, also called to invite the Chief Executive to inaugurate their new cement plant in the latter part of this month.

FOLLOWING up his order last evening to flood the market with "A" sugar in order to keep sugar prices at normal levels, President Garcia at the Cabinet meeting today took steps to insure that this sugar would not fall into the hands of combines and hoarders and that it be placed within the reach of all the people.

To achieve this end, the President created a committee composed of Justice Secretary Pedro! Tuason as chairman, with Commerce Secretary Oscar Ledesma, Defense Secretary Eulogio Balao, and National Economic Council Presiding Officer Eduardo Z. Romualdez, as members.

The President charged the committee with studying ways and means of insuring that the "A" sugar which was to be dumped into the local markets, found its way direct to the consuming public and not hoarded by speculators.

The President said that it was necessary to take precautions in safeguarding this sugar from falling into the hands of combines or hoarders, because otherwise it would not accomplish the purpose for which it was intended.

He discussed at length with the Cabinet the sugar situation. He reviewed the steps already taken by the government in seeing to it that there were enough, sugar stocks in the market.

The Chief Executive recalled that the 220,000 tons of sugar for domestic consumption had been augmented three times recently, first by 10,000 tons, then by 25,000 tons, and still later by 25,000 tons. He said that with his order last night, an additional 30,000 tons of sugar would be dumped into the market to make an all-time high of 310,000 tons of sugar for local consumption during the present year.

It was believed that the increase in local sugar prices was artificially generated. It was also held possible that other causes could be the hoarding of the commodity or the smuggling of sugar out of the country.

With the President's order to increase the local supply of sugar by an additional 30,000 tons and with the precautionary measures to be taken by the government, the price of sugar can be expected to return to normal levels.

The President and the Cabinet took another step in implementing the Administration's land reform program and in removing one of the causes of social unrest in Central Luzon when they approved the purchase of the 2,255-hectare Hacienda De Leon in Talayera, Nueva Ecija, at ₱2,746,000. The hacienda has 450 tenants with 1,929 dependents cultivating it.

After, the purchase of the hacienda by the Land Tenure Administration, and after adding interests at 6 per cent per annum, including cost of survey, subdivision, and registration, the hacienda will be sold to the tenants at an estimated cost of ₱3,077 per hectare, payable in 25 equal annual installments of ₱123 annually.

The President and the Cabinet finally approved the purchase of the hacienda after a lengthy discussion of the merits of the purchase and after hearing Land Tenure Administration Administrator Manuel Castaneda and Commissioner Julian C. de Vera clear up some doubts regarding the vital information surrounding the purchase.

The President called Castañeda and De Vera in view of a complaint filed regarding alleged unreasonable price of the hacienda. After hearing the explanation regarding the cost price of the hacienda, its productivity, and the manner of its sale to the tenants, the President and the Cabinet gave their approval to its purchase.

The President and the Cabinet were informed that out of the 2,255 hectares, 1,805 hectares were irrigated ricelands, 101 hectares were unirrigated ricelands, 301 hectares were cornland, 29 hectares were wasteland, and 19 hectares were eroded by a river.

Upon learning that some portions of the hacienda were unirrigated and that some were not riceland, the President made it clear to Chairman Castañeda that in the distribution of the land to the tenants, the selling price should be proportionately adjusted in accordance with the nature and productivity of the land being sold to each tenant.

NARIC Chairman Juan O. Chioco, who is from Nueva Ecija himself and who was consulted on the purchase of the land, said that the expropriation of the hacienda was a forward step in eliminating one of the causes of social unrest in Central Luzon, because this hacienda was formerly a Huk territory. He said that its purchase was a wise move of the government and that it would contribute to the maintenance of peace in Central Luzon.

The President and the Cabinet approved a recommendation submitted by a Cabinet committee concurring with a previous recommendation of the National Economic Council and the Cabinet regarding the approval of the establishment of an incandescent lamps factory proposed by the Philips Electrical Lamps, Inc.

Among the reasons given by the Cabinet committee in stamping its approval were that the establishment of the company would result in benefits that would accrue to the consumers in particular and to the country in general, in terms of better quality lamps at lower prices to be brought about by competitive forces.

The committee was composed of NEC Presiding Officer Eduardo Z. Romualdez as chairman, with Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno, Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, Commerce Secretary Oscar Ledesma, and Acting OEC Administrator Juan Concon, as members.

The Cabinet meeting presided over by President Garcia was held at the Council of State room. It lasted from 10:45 a.m. to 1:45 p.m.

MALACAÑANG explained today that President Garcia had vetoed the National Development Authority bill because it required congressional approval of corporate budgets which tend to reduce the effectiveness of government corporations as instruments for economic and social betterment.

In his veto message to Congress the President pointed out that the provision in the measure that the budgets of the proposed NDA and of the corporations under it shall be effective only after their approval by Congress, would give rise to serious adverse repercussions and implications. Operations of government corporations under the NDA would be paralyzed beginning July 1, 1957, he said.

“This requirement is not necessary for Congress to exercise broad powers of control over government corporations to make for efficient administration of the corporations,” the Chief Executive said. “Congress has the power to investigate the operations of government agencies, including the corporation. Moreover, the financial statements of the corporations are appended to the budget submitted by the Chief Executive to the Congress.”

The President also expressed objection to the bill (S. B. 560—H. B. 6459) because it did not adequately meet the twin objectives set forth by the late President Magsaysay; namely, (1) to serve as a central implementing arm for economic development and (2) to supervise government corporations.

He said that the proposed NDA was “confined primarily and mostly to the supervision and coordination of government corporations, and, even at that, only of those corporations that may be placed under the Authority.” According to the President, the bill contained no other provision on how the NDA shall serve as an effective central implementing agency for economic plans, policies, and projects.

PRESIDENT Garcia designated Gregorio Rasalan as acting deputy commissioner of civil service, Malacañang announced this day.

Rasalan, who holds the degrees of Bachelor of Arts (1918) and Bachelor of Laws (1923) from the University of the Philippines, was the chief of the Investigation and Law Division of the Bureau of Civil Service until his designation.

His designation was recommended by Civil Service Commissioner Amado del Rosario. He replaces Ruben Ledesma, who was transferred to the Central Bank.

July 11.—PRESIDENT Garcia today expressed confidence that the NP arbitration committee would be able to solve all party local conflicts.

At a breakfast conference this morning with Nacionalista councilors and Vice-Mayor. Jesus Marcos Roces of Manila, the President said that the arbitration committee headed by Senator Jose P. Laurel, Sr., “has a very good batting average, and I am sure it will be able to solve all the local conflicts.”

The President also said that he was referring to the NP executive and arbitration committees all the protests and conflicts brought before him. He made it clear that he never intervened nor did he take a hand in any local conflict in Manila or anywhere else. He said that all local conventions must be held in accordance with the rules and regulations of the party.

The President made the announcement when he was told by some of the councilors of their problems in their respective districts. Three of the councilors informed the President about their intention of running for Congress under the NP banner. The three councilors were Fausto Alberto of the first district, Hermenegildo Gonzaga of the second district, and Gonzalo Santos Rivera of the fourth district.

The Manila councilors assured the President that they were going to work for the victory of whoever is nominated by the coming NP national Convention. Most of them expressed the belief that the President would win the nomination.

During the conference, which lasted from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m., the councilors also:

- (1) Unanimously expressed their stand against the appointment of the additional eight councilors of Manila, calling it “a waste of public funds.”
- (2) Suggested the establishment of a cooperative in the City Hall to handle the distribution and sale of NAMARCO goods to the employees and laborers of the City Hall;
- (3) Requested national aid for the establishment of more playgrounds in the city; and
- (4) Requested the early release of the RFC loan for the construction of the City Hall annex.

The President said that he would refer the establishment of the cooperative to the NAMARCO officials for study and action. He also said that he would talk to RFC officials about the loan for the City Hall annex.

Present at the breakfast conference were Vice-Mayor Roces, Councilors; Gonzaga, Eriberto Remigio, Alberto, Antonio Barredo, Leonardo Garcia, Angel Linao, Rivera, Pablo Dio Cruz, and Apolonio Gener, and Municipal Board Secretary Paredes Tinoco.

After the breakfast conference, the President received callers. Among the callers were Gov. Salvador Lluch of Lanao and his delegation, Rep. Alberto Ubay and former Gov. Felipe Azcuna of Zamboanga del Norte, and the Ilocos Norte delegation of NP leaders composed of former Gov. Damaso Samonte, former Rep. Ramon Campos, former Rep. Vicente Lazo, NP Provincial Chapter President Abraham Leaño, Dr. Rizalino de Peralta, official NP candidate for Congress in the second district of Ilocos Norte, and Carlitos V. David, national vice-coordinator of the Garcia for President Movement.

At 12:30 p.m. the President motored to the Manila Hotel, where he addressed the members of the Manila Rotary Club. The President was guest of honor at the inaugural luncheon-meeting of the Rotary Club of Manila at the Winter Garden of the Manila Hotel. His speech lasted about 15 minutes.

Fetohed from Malacañang by Juan J. Carlos, Rotary outgoing president, and Joaquin B. Preysler, incoming vice-president, and accompanied by Mrs. Leonila D. Garcia, the Chief Executive arrived at the Manila Hotel promptly at 12:30 p.m. The President and the First Lady were greeted with a prolonged standing ovation as they entered the Rotary meeting hall.

The inaugural program started about 1 p.m. with the National Anthem played by the Philippine Army band under Col. Laureano Cariño.

President Garcia was introduced by Francisco (Paco) Delgado, Rotary president. The Chief Executive finished speaking about 2 p.m.

In his speech before the Rotary Club of Manila at the Manila Hotel, the President cited facts and figures to defend the actions of the Nacionalista Administration in contrast to that of the Liberals.

President Garcia scored the previous Liberal administration for failing to solve substantially the country's economic and budgetary problems during its eight years of administering the nation's affairs.

Replying to the charges made by former speaker Jose Yulo, Liberal Party presidential aspirant, in another Rotary Club speech, President Garcia denounced the Liberals for “all the fallacies foisted upon the people concerning the budget, public indebtedness, and American aid.”

The Chief Executive pointed out that the previous Liberal government, “from 1946 to 1953, foisted annual budgets upon the people with fantastic deficits”.

In contrast to these, he explained, the Nationalista budgets from 1954 to 1956 have always shown surpluses.

Regarding loans, the President said the “past Liberal administration record borders on recklessness” with a total of ₱208.2 million borrowed to spend on ordinary operations of the government and some ₱152 million “illegally” taken from the fiduciary trust, special, and sinking funds of the government.

On the other hand, the President stressed, the Nacionalista administration has been able to pay off ₱157,915,000 of the Liberal government’s budgetary loans “and return all the pilfered funds” from the government coffers.

PRESIDENT Garcia received a 500-man delegation from the Philippine Veterans Legion which marched to Malacañang this afternoon to express their gratitude for his “deep and abiding concern for the welfare of the country’s veterans.”

In a resolution written on laminated wood and unanimously approved by the national directorate, the PVL thanked the President for the sympathetic attitude he had shown in their behalf, particularly his approval of four bills passed during the last session of Congress in which veterans were interested.

The four bills which were signed into laws were (1) that providing for the establishment of a Veterans Claims Commission, (2) that increasing the monthly pensions of permanently disabled vets from ₱50 to ₱100, (3) that creating a Reparations Commission and setting up policies to be followed in the disposition of war indemnities from Japan, and (4) that outlawing the Communist Party in the Philippines.

The President said that having fought the Japanese invaders himself during the dark days of the Occupation, he knew the sacrifices the veterans had undergone in defense of their homeland. They could, therefore, always count on him to advance their interest and welfare, he said.

The PVL delegation which staged a gratitude rally at Malacañang this afternoon included Francisco Ofemaria, national commander; Jose Arañas, national vice-commander for Luzon; Conrado J. Norada, national vice-commander for the Visayas; Peregrino Andres, national vice-commander for Mindanao; Tomas Nufable, national adjutant; Filomeno Padilla, national treasurer; Dominador Realon, national inspector; and Dante Nagtalon, national judge advocate.

Among the callers at Malacañang in the evening were 11 regional supervisors of the Social Welfare Administration who called to pay their respects, Ambassador Chen Chih-mai of Nationalist China, Rep. Celestino Juan and Gov. Amado Aleta of Nueva Ecija, and other political leaders from nearby provinces.

July 12.—THE President this morning had a breakfast conference with Manila officials headed by Mayor Arsenio H. Lacson with whom he discussed public improvements in the city.

Discussed extensively by the President with the city officials was the exchange of lands between the National Government and the City Government. The exchange involves the City’s land near the Manila Hotel and a government land in Intramuros. It was agreed at the meeting to expedite the exchange of the lands.

The land near the Manila Hotel will be used by the National Government for the building of a Manila Hotel annex, while the land in Intramuros will be utilized by the City Government for the construction of a PI million city high school.

Also taken up during the conference which lasted from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m., was the establishment of additional playgrounds and recreational centers in Manila. The President agreed with the city officials that there was a necessity for additional playgrounds and recreational centers, and assured them of national aid.

Political matters were not taken up during the conference. With Mayor Lacson at the meeting were Rep. Joaquin Roces, Vice-Mayor Jesus Marcos Roes, and Jose W. Diokno, the city mayor's legal counsel.

AFTER the conference the President ordered Commissioner of Customs Eleuterio Capapas to release immediately the rice imported by the NARIC from Thailand in order to peg down the price of rice in the areas where this prime commodity is short. The Chief Executive ordered the immediate release of the rice during his conference with NARIC General Manager Vicente Concepcion at Malacañang. Concepcion said that the rice which arrived last July 8 was being held by the Bureau of Customs because of Republic Act No. 2017, which requires the NARIC to pay duty and tax for all rice imported by the government corporation. Concepcion informed the President that the rice imported by the NARIC from Thailand was 2,710 metric tons or 27,000 sacks.

The President ordered Capapas to release the rice and settle later with the NARIC about the payment of duties. The Chief Executive called Concepcion to Malacañang and inquired into the status of the imported rice.

After his conference with Concepcion, the President received Defense Secretary Eulogio Balao, Sen. Edmundo Cea, Defense Undersecretary Jose M. Crisol, and Gov. Jose Dinglasan of Capiz.

Gov. Nicanor Maronilla Seva of Albay was also an early caller of the President. He called on the Chief Executive before the breakfast conference.

IN the afternoon the President received some 50 governors and city mayors who presented him with a scroll endorsing his candidacy. Mayor Sergio Osmeña, Jr., who has been reported as supporting the Liberal Party presidential candidate, Jose Yulo, reiterated that he was with the governors and mayors for President Garcia.

After meeting the governors and mayors, the President presided over his weekly press conference. He inducted the new officers of the Malacañang Press Association; namely, Silvino Caparas, Daily Mirror, president; Celestino M. Vega, Bagong Buhay, vice-president; Mabini Rey Centeno, Liwayway, secretary; Richard Po, Great China Press, treasurer; and Jesus Ortiz, Vox de Manila, sergeant-at-arms.

He said he was optimistic he would get 60 per cent of the delegates' votes.

The President likewise dismissed as speculations that Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez would also seek the presidential nomination.

He blamed the report on intriguers. However, President Garcia refused to name those intriguers within the NP.

Answering Sen. Pelaez' blast that the NP would break up if he won the nomination, the President said that the Misamis solon could not speak for the party. "If that is his view," the President said, "he is entitled to his own opinion."

Asked about the charges Lacson aired in his weekly radio broadcast against Yulo, LP presidential bet, the President said he was familiar with the ₱2 million loan the former speaker allegedly secured without sufficient collaterals.

He said he believed the loan was anomalous and recalled he picked it up in the campaign in 1953 as an issue against Yulo, then the LP vice-presidential candidate. However, he refused to say whether he would do anything about the loan.

The President told newsmen he was not familiar with Lacson's charges on the tax liabilities of the LP presidential standard bearer.

On the matter of his vice-presidential running mate, the President reiterated he was leaving the choice of the vice-presidential candidate to the convention.

After the press conference, the President received delegations from Ilocos Sur, headed by former Gov. Perfecto Faypon, and from Batangas, accompanied by Rep. Apolinario Apacible.

The Ilocos Sur delegation included Board Member Faustino Tobia and Mayors Godofredo S. Reyes of Sta. Maria, Nicolas Bello of Santa, and Juan Ines of Sinait. The Batangas group included Mayors Leon. Sangalang of Lemery, Pedro Diokno of San Luis, Gregorio Brotonii of Aguinaldo, Olimpio Sayo of Calatagan, Quirino Lejano of Lian, and Conrado Maeatangay of Calaca.

The President also received a delegation of 50 NP provincial governors and city mayors who presented him with a resolution, unanimously approved at their convention, pledging to work for his nomination in the convention.

Mayor Osmeña of Cebu City, president of the governors and mayors league, presented to the President a scroll signed by the governors and mayors.

Elated by the pledge, the President expressed optimism he would win the convention with their support.

A Malacañang spokesman pointed out that the governors have many delegates who could swing the convention in favor of the President.

Osmeña, in presenting the scroll, told the President that not all the governors signed the resolution because of their inability to attend the convention.

The provincial executives also explained that governors who were not at the convention had previously pledged their support to the President.

PRESIDENT Garcia today directed Defense Secretary Eulogio Balao to investigate immediately the alleged hazing of Cadet Juanito Rimando, who is now confined at V. Luna General Hospital.

The alleged hazing of Plebe Rimando was brought before the attention of the President by the cadet's mother, Mrs. Maria R. Rimando, who said "I was promised by the officers of the PMA that they would take action against the guilty cadet, but I don't know if they have already investigated and taken action against the cadets mentioned by my son to have participated in the hazing."

Mrs. Rimando told the President that her son was hazed by upper classmen on June 15, 1957, and as a result he was operated on last June 17 at the PMA hospital. Cadet Rimando, was later transferred to the V. Luna General Hospital, where he is still confined. Mrs. Rimando said she "finds no progress" in her son's recovery. The President talked to Mrs. Rimando for about 15 minutes.

July 13.—NACIONALISTA political leaders from all six provinces of the Bicol region converged upon Naga City today to give President Garcia a rousing welcome and to reassure him of their solid support in the forthcoming NP convention as well as in the November polls.

Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, who accompanied the President to Naga this morning, said he had been authorized to inform the Chief Executive that all 128 delegates of the Bicol bloc to the NP convention would support his nomination and work for his election.

Secretary Hernandez explained that his fellow Bicolanos were subordinating whatever local differences and divergence of views they might have on other political questions in order to put up a solid front behind the candidacy of President Garcia.

“The provinces of Camarines Norte, Camarines Sur, Albay, Sorsogon, Catanduanes, and Masbate have a total of 128 delegates to the NP convention, and we are giving it all to President Garcia,” Hernandez said. “If we had more delegates, we would give more to the President.”

In an informal interview with newspapermen who were with the presidential party in Camarines Sur, Sen. Pedro Sabido this noon also said he was quite certain that neither Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr., nor Senator Jose P. Laurel, Sr., would submit their names for nomination against the President.

“Why should we put up a candidate other than President Garcia and place our opponents on equal footing with us? Sen. Sabido asked. He explained that it would be more advantageous for the NP’s to have an incumbent president as their standard bearer.

Practically all NP senators, congressmen, governors, mayors, and other political leaders in all six Bicol provinces were on hand to receive the President on his visit to Naga today. Accompanied by Sens. Sabido and Pacita Madrigal-Gonzalez; Reps. Felix Fuentebella of Camarines Sur, Justino Nuyda of Catanduanes, and Angel M. Castaño of Manila; and Gov. Bernardo Torres of Leyte, the President landed at the Pili airport near Naga at 8:15 a.m. aboard the presidential plane Dagohoy, formerly the Laong-Laan, used by the late President Quirino.

Among his welcomers at the airport were mayors’ delegations from Camarines Norte headed by Rep. Fernando Pajarillo, from Camarines Sur headed by Gov. Juan Trivino and Ambassador Jose Fuentebella, from Albay led by Gov. Nicanor Maronilla-Seva, and from Sorsogon headed by Gov. Juan Frivaldo and Rep. Salvador Encinas.

After acknowledging the cheers of his welcomers, the President was whisked in an open car to Naga City, some 12 kilometers away, at the head of a three-kilometer long motorcade of cars, jeeps, and buses. In Naga city he heard a Te Deum at the Nueva Caceres cathedral. Then he had breakfast at the residence of Ambassador Fuentebella, where he conferred with Bicol political leaders.

In a mammoth rally held later at the city plaza, the President thanked the people of Bicolandia for their pledge of support as well as for the lavish reception accorded him and members of his party. “I fervently hope I shall continue to deserve this Bicol hospitality showered upon me today,” he said.

The President expressed regret for his inability to prolong his visit in the locality because of pressing engagements in Manila. He, however, promised to return and visit other towns in the Bicol region which, he said, had always stood by the NP administration in the past.

It rained hard during most of the President’s brief stay in Naga, but at 10 a.m., the time the public rally was scheduled, the rains stopped. It resumed pouring again after the President had spoken.

There were fireworks display during the rally. A huge plastic baloon with the inscription, “Long Live President Garcia,” was released amidst cheers of Mabuhay from the mammoth crowd gathered at the plaza despite inclement weather.

After luncheon at the University of Nueva Caceres, the President took off at the Pili airport for the return trip to Manila under a driving rain. The presidential plane had to leave as early as possible in order to head off a fast-approaching typhoon.

The President was back in Malacañang about 3:30 p.m.

He conferred this afternoon with provincial governors and city mayors headed by Mayor Sergio Osmeña, Jr., at Malacañang.

PRESIDENT Garcia extended a 30-day reprieve to three prisoners who are scheduled to burn Monday (July 15), Malacañang announced this day.

The three prisoners are Bautista Ragandan, Hilario Mendova, and Alfredo Mendova, on whom the death penalty had been imposed for the crime of robbery with double murder.

The President in his order said that the report and recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Parole on the petition for commutation to life imprisonment of the death penalty imposed upon said prisoners had just been received in Malacañang and some time was needed for a thorough and careful consideration of the merits of the petition.

The 30-day reprieve expires on August 13, 1957.

July 14.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia today stayed aboard the yacht Santa Maria with a rowdy group of guests—newspapermen and their ladies.

“We shall have another affair like this,” President Garcia said in brief remarks to the reporters. “And it will be after the elections.”

The Santa Maria was converted into a floating casino as the hosts and their guests played dice and mahjong. The President played chess with several newsmen and beat all of them.

The President and the First Lady, who were in high spirits, danced to the tune of Calypso music furnished by an Army band while the boat rocked and rolled as it was lashed by huge waves outside the breakwater.

A number of newspapermen and most of the ladies got seasick, forcing Commodore Jose Francisco, Navy chief, to order the yacht to return to Pier 5.

Mrs. Garcia left the boat at 3 o’clock in the afternoon in order to catch up with an engagement, while the President stayed aboard the boat with the newsmen until sundown.

July 15.—THE President this morning took steps to encourage the cotton industry by approving the lease of a government land in Mindanao to the Cotton Plantation, Inc., a corporation 80 per cent Filipino, through the National Development Company.

NDC General Manager Jose Panganiban, who recommended approval of the lease, said that the terms of the lease would be similar to that which had been granted to the Philippine Packing Corporation.

Panganiban pointed out that one of the provisions of the contract of lease provides for profit sharing between the corporation and the government.

The President approved the lease at a breakfast this morning with Jose Fernandez, Cielito Zamora, Romeo Villongco, and Harry Stonehill, board members of the Cotton Plantation Corporation. After the breakfast, the President proceeded to his study to receive his callers.

Gov. Rafael Lazatin of Pampanga accompanied Candaba Mayor Godofredo Gatus, who requested aid for public works improvements in his town.

Also present were Mrs. Constancia Maglalang and Jose Tecson, head teacher and teacher of the Sta. Ana Primary School and the Candaba Elementary School, respectively, who requested prefab schoolhouses in their respective localities.

Then the President received Sultan Batu Ali, a political leader from Dansalan City. Accompanied by former Mayor Cesar Bendigo of Sta. Cruz, Davao, the sultan denied reports that he had pledged his support to a Liberal Party presidential candidate. Batu Ali reiterated his pledge to support President Garcia's election bid.

Then the President proceeded to his private chamber, where he conferred with defense and AFP officials.

PRESIDENT Garcia today directed the AFP judge advocate general to review the report of Philippine Military Academy authorities which had investigated the alleged brutal hazing of the 4th Class Cadet Juanito Rimando.

Giving his directive through the AFP general staff, the President directed the JAGO to submit its recommendations within 48 hours.

The President issued his directive after receiving the report of the PMA board of officers which was submitted by PMA Superintendent Brig. Gen. Marcos Soliman. General Soliman was accompanied to Malacañang by Defense Secretary Eulogio Balao, Defense Undersecretary Jose M. Crisol, and AFP Chief of Staff Lieut. Gen. Alfonso Arellano.

At the conference with defense and AFP officials this morning, the President recalled that certain improvements in the PMA administration had been undertaken by the late President Magsaysay during whose time a hazing case reached the late Chief Executive. President Garcia ordered that farther efforts be exerted to correct whatever defects may yet be found in that military institution.

The PMA authorities investigating the hazing case recommended the dismissal of nine cadets, the suspension for one year of seven, and disciplinary action for three.

Recommended for dismissal were Second Class Cadets Jesus N. Alcordo, Rudy B. Enojas, Primitivo V. Lara, Diosdado Cunanan, Bernabe Orena, Jose S. Capa; and Third Class Cadets Eduardo Enriquez, Oscar Florendo, and Ursc D. Bello.

THIS evening President Garcia received a delegation representing local producers and importers who protested against a resolution of the Monetary Board of the Central Bank reducing their regular foreign exchange allocations for the current semester.

The delegation informed the President that the reduction of their dollar quotas had caught them by surprise, as Resolution No. 950 of the MB was passed last June 28 without warning nor prior hearing. They expressed fear that it might result in the paralyzation of industries affected and the laying off of thousands of workers.

Jesus Cabarrus, president of the Base Metals Association, who acted as spokesman, said that 44 private producer and importer firms were affected by the MB ruling. He said that the withdrawal of exchange allocations would keep producer firms from importing much-needed machinery, spare parts, and supplies for their factories.

The President said he would confer with members of the MB sometime tomorrow and find out their reasons for adopting the resolution. He said he would decide on the protest as soon as he had heard the side of the board.

The disputed MB resolution provided that “regular foreign exchange allocations for the second semester of 1957, of quota holding firms which have been granted barter permits by the No-Dollar Import Office, Department of Commerce and Industry, shall be reduced to the extent of the amount of such barter permits granted during the first semester of 1957.” The resolution was published in a circular issued by the Central Bank last July 3.

Cabarrus said that the new ruling would automatically reduce the importation of much-needed machinery replacements from the United States. Since barter could only be made with Japan, which does not have the required machinery, the curtailment of the importation would impair the “operation of the firms, he said. Among those affected are mining, lumber, abaca, copra, and importer firms,

Other members of the delegation which called at Malacañang this evening were Jose Cuyugan, general manager of the Philippine Iron Mines; P. B. Dionisio, Ramon Bagatsing, and Dominador Ramos, vice-president, treasurer, and director, respectively, of the Producers and Exporters Association; and Sebastian Ugarte, secretary-treasurer of the Base Metals Association.

Among those present were National Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, Press Secretary Guillermo V. Sison, Assistant Executive Secretary Nicanor Jimenez, Mr. and Mrs. Fernando C. Campos, Mrs. Pat I. Nievera, Mrs. Florencio Moreno, Major Porfirio Garcia, Capt. Roso Sabalones, Silvino Caparas of the Daily Mirror, Gelacio Tecechian of the Philippines Herald, Mabini R. Also present were some of those who helped in the preparation of the President's trip, including Legislative Secretary Jose C. Nable, Lt. Col. Romeo Honasan, Mariano Logarta, and Maj. Jose Angeles.

THE President this morning directed Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano to wire the Philippine Consulate in San Francisco and inquire further about the killing of the late Lydia Cruz de Vera.

The President also directed that help be extended so that the custody and guardianship of the murdered woman's child, Francisco de Vera Jr., about two years old, now under the care and custody of the Government Youth Center Institution at San Francisco, can be obtained.

The President gave this directive to Secretary Serrano upon receipt this morning of the letter of Mr. and Mrs. Luciano T. Cruz, parents of the murdered lady. According to the letter, the late Lydia had been allegedly murdered by her husband, Francisco de Vera, in the midnight of June 4, 1958, by stabbing her with a kitchen knife and afterwards hitting her head several times with a hammer at 1410 Ingalls Street, in San Francisco.

The letter said that the parents had wired the consulate in San Francisco requesting the consul general "to intercede in our behalf with the U. S. authorities concerned regarding the heinous killing of our daughter, as we cannot afford to go to the U. S."

THE President today said that the trip of Vice-Mayor Jesus Marcos Roces of Manila and some newspapermen to Red China was tolerated but not under government auspices.

The President made this remark when asked to comment on the trip of Vice-Mayor Roces and some newspapermen.

The President said that Vice-Mayor Roces' party was composed of well-seasoned newspapermen who are competent observers. He added that the members of the party carried ordinary passports and that they were going on the trip as private citizens.

July 14.—THE President today conferred with Undersecretary of Agriculture Jose M. Trinidad (not the Trinidad charged by a Malacañang prober) to turn over all records of a controversial cattle importation case last year allegedly linking a director in the Department of Agriculture.

The President told Trinidad to bring all the records and papers on the actuation of Director Laureano Marquez of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

In a four-hour conference this morning at the President's residence in Quezon City, the President and Rodriguez decided to submit the issue to the NP executive committee, ruling body of the majority party.

IN the evening, the President gave a testimonial dinner at Malacañang for U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen for his "valuable assistance" in connection with President Garcia's recent state visit to Washington.

July 15.—PRESIDENT Garcia received callers this morning which consisted mostly of congressmen who requested assistance for public works improvements and for repairs of public buildings which had been damaged by the recent typhoon in their respective districts.

Rep. Vicente Gustilo accompanied Occidental Negros Gov. Valeriano Gatuslao, who discussed with the Chief Executive a proposed hydro-electric project in their province.

The Negros officials informed the President that the multi-million peso Hilabangan-Kabangkalan River project would greatly enhance the economic development of Negros Occidental as sugar centrals in that area would be able to use electricity for the manufacture of unlimited by-products of sugar.

Rep. Wenceslao R. Lagumbay requested assistance for a proposed irrigation project in Laguna.

Rep. Canuto Enerio of Zamboanga del Sur accompanied Basilan City Mayor Leroy Brown, who consulted the President on matters affecting peace and order in Basilan City.

Rep. Rogaciano Mercado of Bulacan requested assistance for the repair of a school building which was destroyed by the recent typhoon.

Individual callers were Sen. Arturo Tolentino, Reps. Tobias Fornier of Antique, Nicanor Yñiguez and Marcelino Veloso of Leyte, Valeriano Yancha of Samar, Isidro Kintanar, Antonio de Pio, and Manuel Zosa of Cebu, Jose Legaspi of Aklan, Jose Laurel IV of Batangas, Godofredo Reyes of Ilocos Sur, Jose R. Nuguid of Bataan, and Jose Roy of Tarlac.

The President received callers at Malacañang until 12:30 p.m.

THE President this day created the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance and Efficiency "in order to achieve higher efficiency and competence in the administration of government."

The PCAPE was created through Executive Order No. 306, which also abolished the Presidential Complaints and Action Committee created in 1954. The records, property, and equipment of the PCAC were ordered transferred to the new PCAPE.

In creating the PCAPE, the President said that it was necessary for the Office of the President to keep itself constantly informed as to the actual status, progress, and/or problems of governmental activity for the early realization of national development plans and prompt solution of administration problems.

The President pointed out the necessity for direct communication and organized liaison with government offices, agencies, and instrumentalities to enable the Office of the President to effectively supervise and coordinate their performance of the duties and tasks duly assigned them.

The PCAPE would serve as a clearing house or a central agency for all investigations to be undertaken by the different departments. The President will sign soon another executive order formalizing his directive that all department secretaries initiate investigations in their respective departments whenever necessary.

President Garcia is expected to name shortly retired Court of Appeals Justice Buenaventura Ocampo as PCAPE chairman, Capt. Francisco Calinawan as performance officer, and Maximo Maceren as chief of research and analysis.

The PCAPE will be the executive instrumentality in the Office of the President to render the necessary services so that the administration can keep itself informed of actual conditions of the country and prove itself efficaciously responsive to the needs of the people.

The PCAPE will be headed by a technical assistant who will be known as chairman. He will be designated by the President. The new committee will be composed of personnel who may be assigned or detailed from departments, bureaus, offices, agencies, and instrumentalities of the government upon recommendation of the chairman. Technical advisers of the President may be called upon by the chairman to assist in the study of and/or give their advice on matters within the scope of their respective fields.

The PCAPE will be directly under, and responsible to, the President. The chairman of the new committee is empowered to request the proper law-enforcement or service agencies to detail such personnel as may be necessary to expedite the investigation, fact-finding, or action on the complaints or requests filed with the Office of the President.

The President directed all departments, bureaus, offices, agencies, and instrumentalities of the government, including the government-owned or controlled corporations, to cooperate with and assist the PCAPE in effecting prompt and successful accomplishment of its assigned duties.

THIS evening the President called the Council of Leaders to an emergency conference at Malacañang.

A palace spokesman said the President took up with the Council of Leaders the composition of the National Science Board, an important body which will take charge of providing incentives for scientific researches.

It was indicated that the President also took up with Congress leaders the controversial "White Paper".

Present at the conference were Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Senate President Protempore Fernando Lopez, and Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez. Other members of the council were either abroad or indisposed.

Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo was also present at the conference.

Malacañang said the President decided to call the Council of Leaders in view of the forthcoming world trip of Senate President Rodriguez on July 28.

BEFORE meeting the Council of Leaders, the President conferred with the directors of the Manila Railroad Company and discussed the improvements and the progress of the railroad firm.

The MRR officials were Juan J. Carlos, board chairman; Feliciano Santiago, general manager; Francisco Medrano, general manager of the Manila Port Service, and J.P. Castro, MRR engineer.

The President told the railroad board he would discuss with the officials of the Budget Commission the early release of P4 million appropriated in this year's budget for the initial phase of the MRR's extension of its service to the Cagayan Valley.

July 16.—THIS morning, the President received Rep. Jose J. Roy of Tarlac at breakfast. Roy's visit raised speculations that the Tarlac solon may eventually be named as governor of the Central Bank. He was the author of the Central Bank charter.

The President also received Assistant Executive Secretary Sofronio Quimson and went over with him the names of prisoners recommended for pardon.

The President also conferred with Judge Salvador Esguerra, Malacañang legal adviser, and decided to suspend Undersecretary of Finance Jose P. Trinidad on the basis of charges preferred by Calinawan.

President Garcia suspended today from office Jose P. Trinidad, as undersecretary of finance, pending investigation of the administrative complaint of grave misconduct in office and conduct prejudicial to the best interest of the public service.

At the same time, President Garcia created a committee composed of Justice Secretary Jesus G. Barrera as chairman, Solicitor General Edilberto Barot and Jose W. Diokno as members, to investigate the charges against Trinidad. The administrative complaint against Trinidad had been filed by Commander Marcelino E. Calinawan, Jr., chairman of the President's Fact-Finding Committee investigating anomalies in the Bureau of Customs.

The suspension of Trinidad as undersecretary of finance also automatically relieved him as Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The investigating committee was granted by the President all the powers under the provisions of sections 71 and 580 of the Revised Administrative Code, including the power to summon witnesses, administer oath, and take testimony or evidence relevant to the investigation.

After the termination of the investigation, the committee will submit its report and recommendations to the President.

At the Cabinet meeting this evening, President Garcia ordered all offices concerned which have anything to do with barter not to act on any application for barter until a final decision has been made by the Cabinet on the new ruling promulgated by Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez.

The President wanted to discuss the Hernaez order at the Cabinet meeting, but owing to the absence of Secretary Hernaez, action was postponed until the next Cabinet meeting.

Civil Service Commissioner Amado del Rosario, upon request of the Cabinet, appeared before the Cabinet and was questioned as to whether or not his office would be prepared to handle all expected cases which would be referred to it as a result of the all-out campaign against graft and corruption.

The President told Del Rosario that he had directed all Cabinet members to initiate investigations of anomalies in their respective departments and it was expected that as a result of these investigations there would be plenty of cases to be submitted to the Bureau of Civil Service for decision.

Del Rosario said that as of July 15, 1958, there were 319 administrative cases and eight legal opinions and queries pending decision in his bureau. Del Rosario said that it might be necessary to increase the legal staff of the Bureau of Civil Service to enable it to meet the situation.

The President emphasized to Del Rosario the need for expediting action and decision on cases submitted to the Bureau.

Labor Secretary Angel Castaño and Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas cleared up with the President the labor employment in public works projects. It was made clear that in all public works projects only civilian labor would be employed. However, in projects of the Armed Forces which are designed to contribute to the socio-economic development program of the administration, trainees would be employed as part of their military training.

Malacañang said by way of clarification that the designation of Horacio Ilagan as a BIR investigator did not mean that Ilagan had the same category as Commander Marcelino E. Calinawan, chief of the Malacañang Customs Fact-Finding Committee.

Ilagan is a member of the CIS team and his designation was made in order to validate his court appearance in connection with the investigation work that he is doing.

The President when informed about a news report that the new credits pledged by the United States to the Philippines were in exchange for the establishment of nuclear and bomber facilities, said, "That story is absolutely false and has no foundation in fact."

PRESIDENT Garcia this evening cut short his regular meeting to join his wife, Mrs. Leonila D. Garcia, in receiving a big crowd of well-wishers on the eve of her 52nd birthday anniversary.

After adjourning the Cabinet meeting shortly after 7 o'clock, the President went down to the Malacañang social hall where he and his wife received Cabinet members, members of Congress, Boholanos, and Cebuanos who gave an "asalto" for the First Lady. The Cabinet members and solons brought their ladies.

Visibly in a festive mood, the President performed a traditional role in Mrs. Garcia's birthday celebration. He danced the kuaratsa, a native dance, with Mrs. Ida Pendatun.

July 17.—THIS MORNING President Garcia heard mass with Mrs. Garcia, who was celebrating her birthday, daughter Linda, and son-in-law Fernando Campos at the Malacañang chapel.

After mass the President joined his family, relatives, and close friends at breakfast. Then he started receiving callers, among them Andres Soriano, Jr., Daniel Me. Gomez, T. F. Beckwith, Australian manager of the Overseas Department of the English, Scottish, and Australian Bank, Ltd., and R. M. Denas, New South Wales manager of the same bank.

Other callers were Govs. Felixberto Dagani of Agusan, Serafin Teves of Negros Oriental, Dominador Chipeco of Laguna, Amado Aleta of Nueva Ecija, Bienvenido Ebarle of Zamboanga del Sur, Rafael Lazatin of Pampanga, and acting governor Mrs. Nancy Q. Sison of Pangasinan.

At about 12:30 p.m., the President excused himself from other callers and devoted ten minutes to writing an endearing note wishing Mrs. Garcia "Many Happy Returns of the Day." After writing the note, President Garcia proceeded to the Malacañang family dining hall, where he gave Mrs. Garcia the note together with a bracelet as a gift.

He had his lunch with Mrs. Garcia, daughter Linda, and a number of well-wishers, including Mrs. Jose B. Laurel, Jr., Mrs. Ester Aldeguer, and other members of the Congressional Ladies Club.

THE League of Governors of the First Military Area extended today its congratulation to President Garcia for the success of his mission to the United States.

At the same time, the "IMA Bloc" reiterated its pledge of unconditional loyalty and support to his administration.

The resolution containing the pledge was signed by Pampanga Gov. Rafael Lazatin, chairman of the bloc, and read by Baguio City Mayor Alfonso Tabora. Members of the bloc present were Pangasinan acting Gov. Nancy Q. Sison, Nueva Ecija Gov. Amado Aleta, Zambales Gov. Manuel Barreto, Tarlac Gov. Arsenio Lugay, Bulacan Gov. Tomas Martin, La Union Gov. Bernardo Gapus, and Board Member Faustino Vigo representing Bataan Gov. Emilio Naval.

The resolution underscored the fact that in his mission to the United States, at the invitation of President Eisenhower, President Garcia was able not only to secure economic loans but also to win for his country the admiration and friendship of the American people.

PRESIDENT Garcia today pursued his campaign of general “house cleaning” as he directed all government offices and agencies, including government-owned and controlled corporations, to intensify the drive against venalities in any form in the public service.

“All cases against officials and employees involving any form of graft and corruption should be promptly investigated and disposed of in accordance with existing laws and regulations,” the President said in a memorandum-circular sent out today to all departments of the government.

In the circular which was signed by Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, by authority of the President, the various offices were directed to form investigating committees whenever necessary and practicable. He instructed them to advise the Office of the President from time to time on the progress of the investigations.

July 18.—THIS morning the President received a plaque of appreciation from the Manila Lions Club “for his able, outstanding, and distinguished representation of the Filipino people during his state visit to the United States and for which he won for himself and his country immeasurable prestige and goodwill.”

During the call President Garcia accepted the invitation of Lopez to speak before the Manila Lions Club on September 24 to launch the program of the club on good government.

The Chief Executive received the Manila Lions after the call of the members of the Board of Regents of the University of the Philippines headed by UP President Vicente Sinco.

The UP regents brought to the attention of the President the pressing problems facing the state university, especially the cut in the UP budget amounting to P1 million as proposed by the Budget Commission in line with the retrenchment policy of the government.

Sinco and Education Secretary Manuel Lim opposed the cut, alleging that it would affect the standard of teaching in the university. Sinco stated that in view of the proposed budgetary slash, the state university would be forced to lay off some teachers and professors.

In the light of this allegation, President Garcia said that he would re-examine the UP case upon the arrival of Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona.

The state university, according to Sinco, was also facing the loss of a Rockefeller Foundation grant owing to the budgetary slash. Sinco added that the problem of giving the proper salary to the head of the Institute of Economic Development is giving the UP authorities a big problem in view of the lack of funds.

Other UP regents present at the conference were Arturo Garcia, Aurelio Periquet, F. Tamesis, Gumersindo Garcia, Ernesto Sibala, Modesto Farolan, Vitaliano Bernardo, and Rep. Manuel Enverga.

PRESIDENT Garcia today suspended from office Laureano S. Marquez as director of the Bureau of Animal Industry pending the investigation of the charges against him “for dereliction of duty and conduct prejudicial to the best interest of the public service in connection with the irregular importation of cattle.”

The suspension of Director Marquez was signed by Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, by authority of the President. In separate communications, Secretary Pajo also informed Justice Secretary Jesus G. Barrera, Solicitor General Edilberto Barot, and Jose M. Diokno that their committee, created under Administrative Order No. 273, had been authorized to investigate the administrative charges against Director Marquez. Secretary Barrera is the chairman of the investigating committee.

Director Marquez was suspended and would be investigated on the strength of charges recommended by Agriculture Undersecretary Jose M. Trinidad based on the findings by the secretary of national defense, who submitted a report on the importation of cattle as gathered from the findings of Capt. Carlos J. Albert of the Navy.

In his memorandum to the President, Judge Salvador V. Esguerra, Malacañang legal adviser, said that "as the presence of these animals (imported cattle) may cause havoc on our livestock industry affecting the national economy and peace and order, and there are signs of irregularities in said importations committed by the personnel involved, not only indicating incompetence and violation of regulations but also giving rise to suspicion of collusion and financial gain on their part, to the detriment of the government, the defense secretary recommends that the matter be investigated."

Judge Esguerra also reported to the President that there were at least three large-scale importations of animals from abroad within the last three years which are highly controversial with possible dire consequences to the country.

THIS afternoon the President inducted Col. Nicanor Jimenez as acting chief of the National Intelligence Coordinating Agency in a simple ceremony at Malacañang.

Colonel Jimenez, who was assistant executive secretary until his designation as acting Chief of the NICA, replaced Brig. Gen. Pelagio Cruz, who had been appointed Philippine Constabulary chief.

AT his regular press conference this afternoon, the President said he had summarily dismissed for "lack of merit" charges of negligence preferred against a top customs official by Lt. Cmdr. Marcelino Calinawan, presidential racket-buster.

In dismissing the charges, the President virtually handed Calinawan his first rebuff in his investigation of customs venalities.

The President also announced he had ordered Marquez' suspension pending his investigation on the administrative charges filed by Calinawan.

At his press conference, the President also:

1. Announced he had ordered an inquiry into reports that another shipment of cattle was on its way from Australia to the Philippines;
2. Disagreed with Dr. Vicente G. Sinco, president of the University of the Philippines, on the latter's view that Congress does not need presidential summons to meet on constitutional matters;

3. Indicated he will order the investigation of the Central Bank if charges are filed with Malacañang;
4. Favored the retention of Judge Salvador Esguerra at Malacañang as presidential legal adviser;
5. Said he was retaining Internal Revenue Commissioner Jose Aranas at Malacañang to study plans of revising the taxation system;
6. Favored gradual decontrol;
7. Supported Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez's view that the Department of Commerce has exclusive authority to promulgate rules and regulations on barter, adding, however, that such powers are subject to presidential supervision.

July 19.—PRESIDENT Garcia today conferred with political and military advisers on the international situation. During the conference which was held at the President's Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City, the Chief Executive discussed with his advisers the political and military aspects of the international situation, particularly in the critical area in the Middle East. They analyzed reports of developments up to this day received by the Department of Foreign Affairs from its diplomatic listening posts in Washington, London, and Paris.

Present at the conference which was held from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon were Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, Maj. Gen. Manuel Cabal, Brig. Gen. Pelagio Cruz, and Col. Nicanor Jimenez.

After the conference, the President did not receive any caller the rest of the day. He devoted most of his time conferring with Executive Secretary Pajo, who brought along pending papers from Malacañang which needed presidential action. The Chief Executive also conferred with Press Secretary Guillermo V. Sison who briefed him on various matters.

Meanwhile, Secretary Pajo received a request from Mayor Arsenio H. Lacson of Manila for the NAMARCO to distribute the latest shipment of Burma rice. Lacson expressed fear that if the rice were distributed through the NARIC, it might confuse the buyers with the Thailand rice which is of inferior quality and which the NARIC had procured for local distribution.

Secretary Pajo promised the mayor, who had helped in the negotiations for the acquisition of the Burma rice, to take up his proposal with the President.

Meanwhile, Malacañang announced the ad interim appointment of Tiburcio Serevo as assistant forestry director and the reappointment of Isidro Retizos as member of the board of directors of the People's Homesite and Housing Corporation.

PRESIDENT Garcia today took positive steps in implementing the Administration's program of filling the basic and immediate needs of the people by scientific and technological methods when he named six career men to the newly-created National Science Development Board.

Created under the Science Act of 1958, the National Science Development Board is charged with integrating, coordinating, and intensifying scientific and technological research with a view to hastening the country's economic development program.

NSDB members who took their oaths of office before Chairman Paulino Garcia this afternoon at the National Health Institute building on Padre Faura, included Casimiro del Rosario, NSDB vice-chairman; Joaquin Maraño, commissioner of the Institute of Science and Technology; Canuto Manuel, NIST deputy commissioner; Col. Florencio Medina, commissioner, Philippine Atomic Energy Commission; and Pedro Afable and PAEC deputy commissioner, members.

Among the aims of the newly created NSDB is to survey the scientific, engineering, and technological resources of the country and formulate a comprehensive program for the development and maximum utilization of such resources in the solution of the country's problems.

It also aims to encourage and facilitate the active participation of domestic and foreign sectors in furnishing financial, technical, and other forms of assistance for scientific and technological activities.

In the evening the President received retired Justice Buenaventura Ocampo and Capt. Francisco Calinawan, chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, of the Presidential Commission on Administration, Performance, and Efficiency (PCAPE), who called on the President to consult him on the organization of the new body.

Mrs. Amparo P. Villamor, social welfare administrator, also called and reported to President Garcia that material and financial assistance were extended to victims of the three destructive typhoons that swept the country during the last two weeks.

Food supplies and housing materials were given to victims of the freak tornado that wrought havoc on the towns of Antipolo, Angono, Tanay, and Teresa in nearby Rizal province, she told the President. She added that a complete report of their work in the disaster areas had already been prepared and that it will be submitted to him soon.

Senator Lorenzo Sumulong and his brother Rep. Francisco Sumulong, called on the President to request that additional assistance be given to victims of the freak tornado that swept through four towns of Rizal and destroyed a number of houses there.

Cal Crawford, president of the Philippine Packing Corporation, paid a courtesy call on President Garcia this evening. He returned from the United States this morning and is proceeding to Del Monte, Bukidnon, tomorrow.

PRESIDENT Garcia broke his silence over the Middle East crisis this evening and defined the Philippine position towards the situation.

The President said the Philippines will "take such appropriate steps and support such measures in the United Nations as are suitable and adequate to the exigencies of the situation, to the end that peace may be restored in the area and the peaceful processes of a regime of law and order upheld."

President Garcia said instructions had been sent the Philippine mission in the UN to work for and support measures "calculated to promote this end."

THE President this evening called upon the nation to undertake a "moral rejuvenation" and help the Administration solve its problems of "setting our house in order."

In an address before the members of the Harvard and Yale Alumni Associations at the Club Filipino, the President said that "7,000 years of history in all times and climes have already demonstrated that the indestructible foundations of any nation, whether it is a republic, an empire, or a monarchy, are the laws of morality based on the eternal ten commandments."

The President said that the two most important problems confronting his administration are economic instability and corruption in the government.

"We are actually engaged in the thankless task of general house-cleaning in the government," he said.

He said that while “education on one hand confers privileges and opportunities for the holder thereof, on the other, it imposes certain duties and obligations which must be discharged to the satisfaction of the state and nation “After all,” he added, “the life of a nation is what the people make of it.”

The President was the guest speaker of the alumni of both Harvard and Yale universities held at the Club Filipino.

The dinner was also attended by Chief Justice Ricardo Paras, Sen. Lorenzo Tañada, former Sen. Francisco Delgado, and Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo.

July 22.—PRESIDENT Garcia today stated that he has accepted the resignation of Horacio Ilagan as head of a presidential probe committee investigating anomalies in the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The presidential action was divulged when he was asked by newspapermen to comment on the Ilagan statement published in a morning daily.

Meanwhile, President Garcia announced that he was going to attend the meeting of the executive committee of the Nacionalista Party scheduled for tomorrow at the Manila Hotel.

One of the callers of the President was Ambassador Francisco Delgado who was given last minute instructions before leaving for his post as chief of the Philippine delegation to the United Nations.

THE President today further pursued his drive against graft and corruption when he named Malacañang technical assistants to serve in several executive departments to assist in expediting pending cases of irregularities in the government.

In implementing the President’s order, Col. Mamerto Montemayor immediately assigned six men to the Department of Education, five to the Department of Justice, and one with the Calinawan customs probe committee.

Those detailed with the Department of Justice include Teodosio Diño, Cesar de la Calzada, Primo Cabrera, Rosendo Bondal, and Juan Carbonell.

The following were assigned to the Department of Education: Felix Magdales, Sinfronio Barranco, Felipe Azcuña, Jose Gaffud, Pedro Ravelo, and Wilfredo Panotes. Jose Beltran was detailed with the Calinawan probe committee.

Col. Montemayor said that more Malacañang technical assistants would be named to various departments where investigations of irregularities are being conducted.

Headed by Sen. Emmanuel Pelaez, the MSPA members formally handed a letter to the President requesting him to relieve Ladrera on “the basis of the decision of the Supreme Court, dated September 7, 1955, finding Ladrera guilty of immorality and disqualifying him from taking his oath as a lawyer.”

Together with the letter were an MSPA board resolution asking the ouster of Ladrera and photostat documents containing the Supreme Court decision on the Ladrera case.

Among MSPA members present, were General Services Secretary Alejandro Almendras, Reps. Canuto Enerio of Zainboanga del Sur and Cesar Fortich of Bukidnon, and NARRA Manager Remedios Fortich.

Upon receiving the letter, the President assured the MSPA members that he would act on the case immediately after studying it.

July 23.—THIS morning the President signed the appointments of members of the Music Promotion Foundation. Named were Antonio J. Molina, Felipe P. de Leon, Corazon S. Maceda, and Manuel Barredo.

Valencia, son-in-law of former President Sergio Osmeña, succeeded Dr. Paulino J. Garcia, who was appointed chairman of the newly-created National Science Development Board.

The President later motored to the Manila Hotel to address the opening plenary session of the Commission on Asian and Far Eastern Affairs of the International Chamber of Commerce and Regional Businessmen’s Conference at the Fiesta Pavilion.

President Garcia in his speech exhorted policy-makers of highly-industrialized countries to reconsider some of their restrictive and protective trade policies so that developing Asian nations could achieve their economic objectives at a much faster pace.

He said the vulnerability of Asian economies to inflationary dangers and their heavy dependence on foreign supplies for primary needs has been compounded by these restrictions which retard Asian progress and slow down world trade.

PRESIDENT Garcia, stirred anew by the revival of the controversy on the “white paper,” today attended the Nationalista Party caucus at the Sunburst Room of the Manila Hotel.

Like a visiting fireman, the President aired his views on various intramural conflicts which had plagued the administration party, and successfully patched up the petty controversies.

Talking to newsmen after a four-hour political huddle with his colleagues in the administration party, the President said he had endorsed the “white paper” to the Department of Justice.

The Chief Executive did not consider the “memorandum” submitted to him as the “white paper.” The Senate leader always referred to the document as the controversial sheets which contained names of alleged influence peddlers close to Malacañang.

From the NP caucus at the Manila Hotel, the President motored to Nagtahan to visit the shrine of Apolinario Mabini in connection with the Mabini Day celebration this day.

IN the afternoon, the President also inducted retired Justice Buenaventura Ocampo of the Court of Appeals as chairman of the Presidential Commission on Administration Performance Efficiency.

THE CABINET this evening virtually junked Secretary of Commerce Pedro Hernaez's controversial set of rules which in effect would relax restrictions on barter trade.

Meeting at a two-hour session, the President and the Cabinet repudiated Hernaez's stand on the situation of Republic Act No. 1410, otherwise known as the "No-Dollar Import Law." Barter trade has been authorized by this law.

President Garcia said the intention of Congress in enacting the "No-Dollar Import Law" was to benefit producers. His view was shared by all the other Cabinet members except Hernaez.

Hernaez expressed the belief that the law intended to benefit not only the producers but also the financiers who have a hand in the industry.

The President espoused the view which was openly supported by Secretary of Labor Angel Castaño, Secretary of Justice Jesus G. Barrera, and Secretary of Education Manuel Lim.

Castaño, in backing up the President's opinion, recalled that he was a member of Congress when Act No. 1410 was passed.

He pointed out that the intention of Congress at that time was to help producers reap from their yield by way of barter trade arrangements.

Before presiding at his regular Cabinet meeting, the President introduced the new members of his advisory body; namely, Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia, Dr. Paulino J. Garcia, chairman of the newly-created National Science Development Board, and retired Justice Buenaventura Ocampo, chairman of the Presidential Commission on Administration Performance Efficiency.

Lim said that the pamphlet will be used by his department in connection with the national self-sufficiency and food production campaign.

The President likewise signed a proclamation calling a national conference of representatives of employers and of labor organizations from October 16 to 18.

Malacañang said that the conference will be held for the consideration and adoption of voluntary codes of principles in regard to labor-management relations for the promotion of industrial peace. The conference was recommended by Secretary Castaño.

July 24.—THIS morning President Garcia had a breakfast conference with Nacionalista Party leaders with whom he discussed party matters.

Present at the conference were Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Speaker Daniel Romualdez, Senator Lorenzo Sumulong, Rep. Jose Aldeguer, and Rep. Francisco Sumulong. The conference was held behind close doors at the President's residence in Quezon City.

The President also conferred with Justice Secretary Jesus G. Barrera on matters affecting the investigations of alleged anomalies being evaluated and probed by the Barrera committee.

After the two conferences shortly before noon, the President motored to Malacañang where he received callers.

THIS noon the President was informed by Quezon Gov. Leon Guinto, Sr., of the prevalence of cadang-cadang in the plantations of three municipalities in his province. He informed the President that the coconut infestation came from Bicolandia.

President Garcia told Gov. Guinto that the National Science Development Board will be charged with the scientific study of cadang-cadang as well as the abaca mosaic.

Vice-Mayor Osmundo R. Waga of Cagayan de Oro City called on the President to ask for financial aid for the improvement and repair of different public buildings in the city. He was accompanied by Fernando Pacana, Jr.

Gov. Diego Ty-Deling of Misamis Occidental also conferred with President Garcia to take up the construction of a dam to protect the communal irrigation system of Oroquieta.

Ty-Deling said that the system is destroyed yearly by floods, preventing the small farmers from planting twice.

Gov. Jose L. Dinglasan of Capiz also called on the President to discuss local matters. He was able to secure the appointment of Alejandro del Castillo as ad interim assistant provincial fiscal of Capiz.

Other callers were Mayor Lorenzo Formoso of Vigan, Ilocos Sur, former Gov. Perfecto Faypon, and Reps. Faustino Tobia and Godofredo Reyes of Ilocos Sur.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon underscored the need of tapping science and "technical manpower" to stabilize the country's shaky economy.

Addressing the Chemical Society of the Philippines at the Malacañang social hall, the President said:

"Science controls the factors of civilization, sustains industries, generates wealth, health, peace, and security. Paradoxically," he added, "it can also bring havoc and desolation."

The President addressed the Chemistry Society of the Philippines after he was awarded the Grand Cross of the organization "in recognition of the distinguished service he has rendered to the nation in the promotion of science and technology."

The President stressed that the country cannot "afford to lag behind" in the forward trend of modern science "when significant events of global import are happening abroad, many of which are within the realms of scientific discoveries resulting from the work of scientist in their laboratories."

He said the Administration is determined to tap scientific and technical know-how to exploit efficiently the country's bountiful natural resources.

The President said that science will play a decisive factor in the administration's campaign for self-sufficiency.

He recalled that he had organized the National Science Development Board in an effort to stress the need of scientific research and technical know-how to solve the country's mounting problems.

The citation for the award as read by Dr. Jose J. Mirasol, stated that the President was given the Grand Cross for "implementing effectively the constitutional mandate on the promotion of scientific research and inventions in the Philippines."

From the Malacañang social hall where the President addressed the Chemical Society of the Philippines, President Garcia and the First Lady repaired to the state dining room where they previewed a documentary film taken during their recent state visit to the United States.

July 25.—PRESIDENT Garcia today conferred with members of the Rice and Corn Production Council on the all-out efforts being exerted by government agencies to increase the rice and corn production in the country.

The President inquired about the short range program of the council whose objective is to increase the yield of 300,000 hectares of selected irrigated rice fields by 20 more cavans per hectare.

The President was informed by council members that an increase in rice yield is expected through the use of certified seeds, pest control measures, and use of fertilizer.

In this connection, ACCFA Administrator Ernesto Jimenez, who is a council member, underscored the need for the additional release of the total amount of P20 million provided for under Republic Act No. 1609 for subsidized fertilizer in order to boost the food production campaign.

With regard to the corn production campaign, council members reported that 50,000 hectares have been selected for the purpose.

The President was also informed that 50,000 cavans of certified rice seeds had already been sent to 49 provinces for distribution to 44,001 selected farmers who will participate in the experiment, using the Margate system of planting in order to insure a bigger yield.

The President also received the members of the Jose Rizal Centennial Commission who requested the release of P2.5 million for the early construction of a national theatre.

The Commission members who called on President Garcia were Education Secretary Manuel Lim, Teodoro Evangelista, Mrs. Nini Quezon-Avanceña, Arsenio Luz, A. B. Isip, Elias Ablaza, Gabriel Daza, Angel Tesoro, and Mrs. Rosita Peña.

The President also received Commodore Jose Francisco, Jesus Cabarrus, and Sebastian Ugarte.

This afternoon the President entered the Malacañang press conference room at 5 o'clock sharp, but found it empty of newsmen.

The President opened his press conference by reading a prepared statement announcing Sison's appointment as career minister to London. He did not announce Sison's successor.

After the press conference, the President was cornered by businessmen and kibitzers who had “crashed” the press conference in an effort to seek an audience with the Chief Executive.

July 26.—THE PRESIDENT this morning underscored the responsibility of Filipino women in the changing world and traced the rise of juvenile delinquency to the neglect of mothers in the care of children during the first seven years.

The Chief Executive was the keynote speaker at the fourth biennial convention of the League of Women Voters of the Philippines held on the occasion of its 21st anniversary at the Rizal Hall of the UP Institute of Public Administration.

The need for mothers to dedicate all their time during the first seven years of their children to their care and upbringing, instead of devoting it to work outside their homes was also stressed by the President.

The President, however, recognized the fact that modern women had become breadwinners of the family. But they should take care of the education of children before entering the school, by the employment of tutors, he stated.

He counselled the delegates to spend at least as much of their waking hours for their families and homes as they spend for civic and social work.

In outlining the responsibilities of women, the President cited their contributions to the establishment of a democracy in the Philippines, especially in the election of men to guide the destiny of the nation.

He urged women voters to make the fullest use of the democratic processes to elect men who can guide the nation to its chosen goal, as the elective officials are the reflection of the quality of the electors.

President Garcia today directed Commander Marcelino Calinawan, head of the presidential customs probe committee, to verify reports that only about 300 of the 890 new and necessary industries were actually using the tax-free raw and construction materials imported by them.

The President made this directive upon being informed that not all the materials being imported tax-free for the new and necessary industries were actually being used for the purpose.

Calinawan said that according to reports the government was losing many millions of pesos yearly from the uncollected taxes on these materials which had been imported without tax payment because they had been declared intended for new industries but were in fact channeled to some other purpose.

The Chief Executive told Calinawan to make a thorough study of this matter and report his findings at the earliest possible time.

President Garcia had no comment to make on Dr. Jose P. Laurel’s resignation from the 33-man Executive Committee of the Nacionalista Party.

EXECUTIVE Secretary Juan C. Pajo rocked Malacañang this afternoon with his resignation from all of his government positions—as a Cabinet member and as chairman of the board of directors of the Philippine National Bank.

Pajo’s decision to resign from the government was an offshoot of the “white paper” controversy which he said has generated a whispering campaign of “character assassination.”

Secretary Pajo, who was scheduled to read a prepared speech before a Manila Red Cross convention this morning, set it aside and spoke extemporaneously on his decision to quit the government.

This evening, President Garcia summoned his executive secretary to his private residence in Quezon City. He conferred with Pajo and asked him to continue in office.

“I have full and absolute confidence in his integrity,” the President said in a statement released by Malacañang announcing his decision to retain his executive secretary.

The President was voted unanimously as Veteran of the Year for “his determination to straighten out guerrilla records and claims by implementing Republic Act 1889; for his brilliant presentation of Philippine problems before the United States Congress; for his untiring efforts in the solution of the socioeconomic problems of the country; and for his masterful handling of foreign relations of the Philippines.”

The citation was read by Maj. Federico Salcedo, Convet national adjutant, in the presence of Lorenzo B. Cabrera, national commander, and about 100 members of the organization.

At the same time, President Garcia was made a life member of the veteran group.

Another group of veterans belonging to the Philippine Veterans Legion also saw the President to request the use of an unused portion of the lot at the back of the Veterans Memorial Building as site of a building to house all veterans' organizations in the Philippines.

The PVL delegation was composed of Dominador Realon, Ernesto Villanis, Mrs. Josefa Capistrano, Jimmy Piopongco, and Vicente K. Cal.

The group reiterated the request of the UP Board of Regents not to slash the UP budget and to fill any vacancy in the Board of Regents with an alumnus with extensive training and experience in technological education, mentioning the name of Hermenegildo R. Reyes for the position.

Other UP alumni present were Dean Patrocinio Valenzuela, Alberto Benipayo, Estelito Mendoza, Felipe P. de Leon, and Alfonso Castro, who were accompanied by Dr. Enrique Virata, Dr. Antonio Isidro, and Federico Mangahas.

PRESIDENT Garcia discussed today with Princess Tarhata Kiram, Jolo Mayor Armad Sali, and prominent residents of Jolo ways of improving the peace and order situation in Sulu.

Perfecto Balili, chairman of the sub-committee on local governments of the presidential committee on Sulu affairs, presented to the President a master plan for the local governments of Sulu during the conference, which calls for a new approach to the Sulu problem based on sympathy and understanding.

Balili pointed out that an iron fist policy would not restore peace and order in the province, citing the ineffective Spanish and American campaigns and the campaign of the government to pacify the Sulu muslims.

The master plan submitted by Balili was supported by muslim leaders at the conference, and Balili stated it would constitute the basis for the success of the socio-economic program of the government in Sulu.

It was agreed at the conference to utilize the services of Princess Tarhata Kiram and of sultans, datus, and imams in order to improve the peace and order situation in Sulu and to reinvigorate the collection of unlicensed firearms.

Balili lauded before President Garcia the cooperation and support that his sub-committee got from Princess Tarhata Kiram in surveying the conditions obtaining in the province and in formulating the solution to the peace and order problem.

July 29.—PRESIDENT Garcia discussed today with Commissioner Manuel Castañeda of the Land Tenure Administration and Rep. Augusto Francisco of Manila ways and means of implementing the land-for-the landless policy of the Administration.

The Manila solon recommended to President Garcia the purchase by the Land Tenure Administration of two big tracts of land in Sta. Ana for distribution and resale to bona fide residents or for construction of low-cost tenement houses.

The President directed Castañeda to study further the matter and submit his recommendations as soon as possible.

Rep. Francisco specifically wanted the LTA to purchase a big lot in barrio Kapampangan, Sta. Ana, owned by Ventura Marcos, who is willing to sell it to the government on condition that the payment of his real estate loan with the Philippine National Bank be assumed by the government. Worth about ₱400,000, the lot has about 250 residents who will stand to benefit in case it is purchased by the government and resold to its occupants.

Rep. Francisco also recommended to the President the resale and distribution of another big lot now owned by the government on Suter and Tejeron Streets, Sta. Ana.

This lot, according to the Manila solon, was owned by Mrs. Maria B. Castro, better known as Madame X, and forfeited to the government by virtue of the declaration of forfeiture made by the treasurer of the City of Manila.

Other callers of President Garcia were Majority Floor Leader Jose Aldeguer, Reps. Lorenzo Teves of Negros Oriental, Valeriano Yancha of Samar, Leon Guinto, Jr., of Quezon, Isidro Kintanar of Cebu, Wenceslao Lagumbay of Laguna, Inocencio Ferrer of Negros Occidental, Salvador Encinas of Sorsogon, Faustino Tobia and Godofredo Reyes of Ilocos Sur, Jose Legaspi of Aklan, Felipe Garduque of Cagayan, Canuto Enerio of Zamboanga del Sur, Vicente Peralta of Sorsogon, and Luciano Millan of Pangasinan.

The first caller on the President was Rep. Francisco Nepomuceno (L, Pampanga), who requested 90,000 for the reconstruction of the Pampanga School of Arts and Trades, which was completely burned to the ground in a fire of undetermined origin last July 7.

THE President pursued his campaign to rid the government of erring officials as he ordered the dismissal of a justice of the peace who had been found guilty of immorality in an administrative investigation.

Ordered dismissed was Basilio Roque, justice of the peace of Talugtug, Nueva Ecija, who had been found guilty of having illicit relations with a married woman. His dismissal had been recommended by Justice Secretary Jesus G. Barrera and the district judge of Nueva Ecija who investigated the charge.

The President, in his Administrative Order No. 275, ordering Roque's separation from the service and released by Malacañang today, said: "As a public official charged with the dispensation of justice, the respondent (Roque) should be morally upright to command the respect of the community. By his immoral conduct he ceased to be worthy of his exalted position which he thereby forfeited."

IN the evening the President effected the reassignment of two top Philippine diplomats in a move believed to be the prelude to a major reshuffle in the foreign service.

The President took this act shortly after a 45-minute conference with Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano, a point which indicated his willingness to go along with Serrano's plan to "assign the right man in the place where he will be most effective."

The President today named:

1. Ambassador to Bangkok Manuel Adeva as envoy to Japan, vice Felino Neri, who had resigned;
2. Ambassador to New Delhi Melquiades Gamboa as deputy delegate to the United Nations, vice Minister Octavio Maloles.
3. Former Press Secretary Guillermo V. Sison as career minister to be assigned to the embassy in London.

The President also designated Serrano as chairman of the Philippine delegation to the 13th UN General Assembly which will open on September 13.

In designating Serrano as such, the President pointed out that it is customary for UN member-countries to send their foreign ministers to the opening session of the General Assembly

Serrano will head the Philippine UN delegation in the opening session and stay in New York for another two weeks in view of the "critical matters" the Assembly was expected to take up.

The President approved the composition of the delegation to UN as recommended by Serrano and the Congress. The delegation is composed of: Serrano as chairman, Ambassador Delgado as vice-chairman; Senators Lorenzo Sumulong, Arturo Tolentino, and Pacita Madrigal Gonzales; and Reps. Jose Aldeguez and Cornelio Villareal as delegates.

July 30.—THE CABINET today suspended the U. S. rice-chrome ore barter until plans have been evolved to eliminate the use of dollars in the transaction.

Action was spurred by reports that the deal will need the use of $2,113 million for freight and handling charges.

It was explained that the Cabinet, in authorizing the Masinloc Mines to barter 135,000 metric tons of refractory chrome ore with 30,000 long tons of California rice, made it a condition that local dollar reserves would not be touched.

After suspending the barter deal, the Cabinet designated Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez to find ways and means of pushing through the transaction without sacrificing the Central Bank's dollar reserves.

Malacañang pointed out that the Cabinet decided to approve the barter plan in an effort to help the Masinloc Mines, Inc., to trade its refractory ore.

The mining firm claimed that it was facing closure unless it could trade its ore through the barter system.

The Cabinet also approved the sending of a Philippine delegation to the "Federacion Internacional de Abogados" conference in Los Angeles, California, in September.

To represent the Philippines are two members from the Women Lawyers Circle (Wiloci) and two from the Women Lawyers Association of the Philippines (WLAP).

The Government will not defray the expenses of the Philippine delegates, although the Administration will give each member $200 for miscellaneous expenses abroad.

In approving the sending of a delegation to the conference, the Cabinet was informed that the presiding officer of the meeting this year will be chosen from the local representatives.

This evening President Garcia signed a special proclamation appealing to all officials, employees, and laborers of government offices and private establishments to donate one day's pay to the fund drive for the construction of a national cultural shrine.

Immediately after signing the proclamation, President Garcia handed to FEU President Teodoro Evangelista, national fund campaign chairman, a check in the amount of ₱80.65, representing his one day's pay.

The occasion was made special by the attendance of Dr. Leoncio Lopez-Rizal, a nephew of the “pride of the Malay race,” and member of the Jose Rizal National Centennial Commission, who also gave the equivalent of his one day’s salary.

The fund drive immediately got off to a-rolling start with a total of ₱1,128.93 in collections, as the President, members of the Cabinet, members of the Jose Rizal National Centennial Commission, the National Fund Campaign Committee of the Commission, and the officials of the “Kabataang Maka-Rizal” gave their contributions.

The fund campaign committee has set ₱10 million as their goal and the money will be used to construct a national cultural shrine housing a national theater, a national museum, a national library, and an improved Rizal monument.

Education Secretary Manuel Lim, chairman of the Jose Rizal National Centennial Commission, opened the ceremonies with a short speech.

FEU President Evangelista accepted the contributions on behalf of the Commission and said the slogan of the committee is “Rizal gave a lifetime for the country; let us give one day’s pay for Rizal.”

Evangelista also expressed to President Garcia the appreciation of the committee for his wholehearted support and assured the President that, with his continued backing, they would succeed in covering their goal of ₱10 million by the end of 1961.

President and Mrs. Garcia today ordered a wreath to be sent to the tomb of the late President Manuel L. Quezon at the North Cemetery on the occasion of the death anniversary of the late President tomorrow.

President Garcia also ordered Malacañang guards to be mounted at the Quezon Tomb from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow.

August 1.—THIS morning the President and the First Lady received Holy Communion at a special mass at the Malacañang chapel, said in commemoration of the death anniversary of the late President Quezon. Also at the mass were Mrs. Linda Campos, the President's daughter, and Major Ciriaco Jocson, presidential aide.

President Garcia after consultation with his Cabinet decided to remove the objectionable features of the controversial new rules and regulations recently promulgated by the Department of Commerce in the implementation of Republic Act No. 1410, otherwise known as the No-Dollar Import Law.

The President at a special Cabinet meeting today constituted a committee to consolidate the general policies and principles agreed upon during the meeting and to submit its report at the next regular meeting on Wednesday for inclusion, into the barter rules. The committee is composed of Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez, and Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera.

Among the conclusions reached at the meeting were: (1) only bona-fide producers may export under the barter law; (2) products saleable for dollars may not be bartered; and (3) barter may be transacted only on the straight exchange basis not on the triangular basis which is not permitted under Republic Act No. 1410.

The President explained he had called the special meeting for the sole purpose of settling the controversy generated by the issuance of the new barter regulations. He underscored the importance of properly implementing the barter law saying it might favorably or adversely affect the economy of the country.

During the meeting which lasted about four hours, the discussions and exchange of views centered mainly on ways and means of faithfully implementing the law. While the department secretaries admitted that barter was not good for the economy, they were agreed that it, was the duty of the executive branch of the government to implement the law.

The Cabinet decided to limit barter transactions to producers following the interpretation offered by Justice Secretary Barrera that the barter law intended to benefit the producers only. It was also believed that the extension of barter privileges to traders or financiers might give rise to anomalous transactions.

Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, who was the first asked by the President to give his views on the question, emphasized that the proposed barter rules would mean more loss in dollar reserves. He said that while the enforcement of the old regulations meant a loss of $16.9 million per semester, the proposed new rules would mean a loss of $35.4 million per semester.

Secretary Hernandez explained that the new rules had included products that could be sold in dollars. This would mean much loss in our dollar reserves, he said. Secretary Hernandez was assisted in his explanations by Acting Governor Andres Castillo of the Central Bank, who had been asked to appear before the meeting.

Justice Secretary Barrera contended that the old barter rules were more in keeping with the provisions of the barter law than the new one. He expressed the belief that the new rules were "very much beyond" the provisions of the law.

Other Cabinet members who actively participated in the discussions were Education Secretary Manuel Lim, Foreign Secretary Felixberto Serrano, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, and NEC Chairman Jose Locsin.

Labor Secretary Angel Castaño suggested that importation through barter should consist mainly of raw materials for new and necessary industries in order to generate employment and at the same time help the new industries which are encountering difficulties in importing much-needed raw materials owing to lack of dollars. The suggestion was, however, ruled out as not in keeping with the law.

Lt. Comdr. Marcelino Calinawan, who was also invited to appear before the meeting, agreed that the new rules would give more opportunities for irregular transactions.

The Cabinet meeting lasted from 9:35 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The President adjourned the meeting when he found that his secretaries were looking tired and hungry. "Although I can stand hunger longer than you do, I have no right to impose it on you," he said.

During the Cabinet meeting, the President signed an executive order transferring the seat of government of the municipality of Taguig, Rizal, from its present site at barrio Santa Ana to barrio Tuktukan of the same municipality.

PRESIDENT Garcia today cautioned against rash agitation to lift trade controls which he said had pushed other countries to currency devaluation and eventual bankruptcy.

He issued the warning at his regular press conference as he frowned upon mounting agitations to lift controls which had been blamed as the cause of venalities and the present economic ills.

At the time, the President allayed fears of devaluation and branded reports of possible demonetization of the peso as “speculative.”

He said the question of devaluation will be resolved after the country had finally lifted gradually present controls.

At the press conference, the President:

1. Denied knowledge of any agreement to recall Ambassador Jose Fuentebella from Jakarta after one month of stay in that embassy;
2. Said that former Senator Jose P. Laurel quit the executive committee of the Nacionalista Party in keeping with his promise to retire from public life;
3. Believed that the Philippines will receive the effects of U.S. dollar aids before the year's end;
4. Left to the Catholics the decision to build the statue of Christ on Corregidor Island; and
5. Indicated he may ask ex-Governor Juan O. Chioco of the National Rice and Com Corporation on his offer to buy rice at less than $10 per ton than the price the government paid for the Burmese cereal.

Before opening his press conference, the President introduced his new press secretary, Jose C. Nable, whom he had inducted earlier in the afternoon. I hope Nable would be able to maintain as good if not better relations,” the President said, “between Malacañang and the press.”

Nable was inducted before a large crowd at a simple ceremony at the Malacañang reception hall.

President Garcia discussed extensively the problem of controls and reiterated he was in favor of gradual lifting of trade restrictions.

He cautioned against “jumping immediately” on plans to lift controls. He recalled that Britain devalued its currency in order to lift its controls but later on found the necessity of restoring the restrictions when it was on the brink of bankruptcy.

The Chief Executive favored gradual decontrols, saying that the presidential incentives committee which he had created recently had advocated this course of action after what he said “months of dispassionate and painstaking study of the matter.”

When informed that legislators headed by House Majority Floor Leader Jose D. Aldeguer had started the move to lift controls, President Garcia said “it's up to Congress to rescind the laws on these restrictions.”

“I could not just eliminate the controls by signing an executive order,” the President said.

At the same time, the President branded as “speculative” ‘reports of a possible devaluation of the peso.

“There will be no devaluation,” the President stressed. However, he said the question of devaluation will “be settled definitely after we have gradually decontrolled.”

The President also indicated that dollar aids may be received by the country before the end of the year.

He said that Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno returned recently and submitted a report on the “spade-work” undertaken by fiscal officials of the government in Washington to implement the Garcia-Eisenhower agreement.

He expressed optimism that dollar aids will be released before the end of the current year to finance the “initial requirements of the country.”

President Garcia said he plans to convene the Council of State after the other members of his party who were left in the United States have returned.

August 2.— PRESIDENT Garcia today stayed at his residence on Bohol Avenue in Quezon City and went over a pile of pending state papers he had brought over from Malacañang. He received a very limited number of callers.

This morning the President received a delegation of Leyte officials who called to consult him on pressing problems in their province. The delegation was accompanied by Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez and Gov. Ildefonso Cinco.

In the afternoon, the President received another delegation composed of cartoonists from different newspapers in Manila who requested him to pose for a caricature. Gatbonton of the Manila Chronicle informed the President that the late President Magsaysay had posed for the group in Malacañang and that they would like to add President Garcia’s caricature in their collection of prominent men.

After posing for some 15 minutes, the President autographed each of the caricatures. Said he of one of them, “That’s how I will look when I am 65.”

Others in the group were Demetrio Diego of the Manila Times; Issac Tolentino, Pedro Coniconde, Jr., and Mike Gallardo of the Philippines Herald; Malang of the Manila Chronicle; Gene Cabrera of the Philippines Free Press; Larry Alcala of Kislap-Graphic, and Rafael Asuncion of the Walter Thompson Advertising Agency. Also with the delegation was Luis Lasa, a Filipino cartoonist in Spain.

Shortly after 5 p.m., the President boarded his car to attend a merienda engagement in Parañaque, Rizal.

PRESIDENT Garcia conferred with a number of city and provincial executives who called on him at Malacañang this afternoon to air their views and suggestions, regarding the political situations in their respective localities and requested him to transmit those suggestions to the executive committee of the Nacionalista Party.

At an impromptu press conference following his meeting with the city and provincial officials, the President did not reveal the views and suggestions aired.

August 2.—PRESIDENT Garcia, who has been kept busy by crowds of delegates and other callers who visited him the whole week after his first ballot victory, slipped out of Malacañang early this morning.

The President is planning to stay aboard the ship until Sunday. He may extend his cruise until Monday, as he plans to shy away from the Nacionalista Party executive committee meeting to give that body “a free hand” in choosing his running mate. President Garcia has refrained from throwing his support behind any of the vice-presidential aspirants.

President Garcia said he wanted to stay alone. He has previously told his aides to cut down on callers but many visitors trooped to Malacañang just the same. Most of them claimed they were delegates to the NP convention which had endorsed his nomination on the first ballot.

The President decided to board the Alert, as his hideout in Fort Wm. McKinley has been too well-known for him to seek refuge from callers.

Before motoring to the wharf, the President directed Executive Secretary Fortunato de Leon to accept the resignation of Defense Undersecretary Jose M. Crisol and sign it.

He likewise directed Lieut. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, AFP chief of staff, SWA Administrator Amparo Villamor, and Technical Assistant Sofronio Quimson to proceed to Pangasinan to check up on the progress of the reconstruction and relief work in the flooded areas.

On board the Alert, the President conferred with Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno on matters affecting the Central Bank. After Cuaderno left, President Garcia held a breakfast conference with a group headed by former Sen. Felixberto Verano which included Aproniano Borres and Guillermo Anton.

At 11 a.m. the President received Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona and discussed with the latter routine matters involving the budget.

He then received Rep. Manuel Zosa of Cebu and Gov. Juan Trivifio of Camarines Sur, after which he worked on pending state papers.

Up to late at night, the President was still on board the Alert. Malacañang could not say whether or not he was spending the night on board the Navy ship.

August 3.—THE PRESIDENT stayed aboard the Navy ship Alert for the second consecutive day today, cruising around Manila Bay.

The President was reported to have relaxed the whole day, napping and playing chess aboard the Alert.

President Garcia used the Alert, as the presidential yacht Santa Maria is under repairs after it had been used by newsmen and their ladies a few days before the convention.

A brief report reaching Malacañang said that the President received the report of a presidential team which had enplaned for Mabini, Pangasinan, this day to survey the progress of relief and reconstruction operations in the flooded areas.

The report was submitted to the President by Lieut. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, AFP chief of staff, Social Welfare Administrator Amparo Villamor, and Technical Assistant Sofronio Quimson.

The President had ordered the trio to fly to Mabini early this morning to check on the relief brought to the flooded areas.

Malacañang also said the President had lunch aboard the RPS Ifugao, one of the Navy cruisers. It was not known why the President transferred to the light cruiser for lunch.

However, after his lunch, the President was reported to have returned to the Alert, where he took a short nap and then played chess with an ill .Identified playmate.

President Garcia may return to Malacañang tomorrow evening, although there were reports that he may stay aboard the Alert till Monday afternoon and let the N.P executive committee choose his running mate.

While aboard the Alert this day, the President was reported to have listened to the progress of the Liberal Party convention proceedings through a radio set.

August 4.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning heard mass aboard the RPS Ifugao, anchored a short distance from the Navy headquarters, where he had been staying since Saturday to study state papers.

After breakfast he read the Sunday papers and received a few callers. Among the callers were Gov. Amado Aleta of Nueva Ecija, who discussed problems affecting his province, and GSIS General Manager Rodolfo Andal, who took up GSIS matters.

Mrs. Leonila D. Garcia and a few members of the President's family went aboard the RPS Ifugao, where they ate lunch with the President. About 2 p.m., Mrs. Garcia and her companions returned to Malacañang.

Legislative Secretary Jose C. Nable, Gov. Juan Pajo of Bohol, and Assistant Press Secretary Guillermo V. Sison also boarded the ship and conferred with the President. The President gave his order summoning heads of several government agencies to attend the Cabinet meeting on Wednesday.

Among the office chiefs summoned to the Cabinet meeting were Ernesto Jimenez, acting ACCFA administrator; Juan O. Chioco, NARIC chairman; Benjamin F. Estrella, NAMARCO general manager; Manuel Castaneda, land tenure administrator; and Fernando Santiago, Agricultural Tenancy Commission chairman.

The President said that he would like to know from these officials their progress in implementing the government's objective of attending to the primary needs of the people. He added that if these officials had problems in carrying out their work, the President and the Cabinet members would discuss the problems and seek their solution.

The Chief Executive said that he wanted to know personally from Jimenez and Chioco the present rice and corn situation, and the working agreement between these two agencies regarding their previous difficulties.

President Garcia would like to be informed how the ACCFA head was implementing a recent presidential order on the improvement of the mechanics of fertilizer distribution and increased allocations of fertilizers to meet the requirements of farmers.

With regard to the NAMARCO, the President would like to have a report on the present sugar situation and to know if this agency was supplying the local retailers with enough prime commodities needed by the consuming public.

President Garcia said that he was interested in receiving a progress report of the Land Tenure Administration as to the number of landed estates already bought and subdivided and the number of tenants who have been benefited.

He would like also to be informed by the Agricultural Tenancy Commission on the progress it was making in the promotion of better relationships between the landowners and the tenants.

Mrs. Amparo Villamor, social welfare administrator, and a member of the Cabinet will also report on the work of her office in helping ameliorate the living conditions of the people.

The Chief Executive said that he wanted the heads of various government agencies to apprise him and the Cabinet of what they were doing and to present their problems so that these could be solved. He added that he wanted to know these reports so that he could vigorously implement the government policy of attending to the people's needs more effectively.

ON learning about former Speaker Eugenio Perez's death, the President sent the following message of condolence:

"I join the Filipino people in mourning the death of former Speaker Eugenio Perez. Fondly called 'The Manong', he was an outstanding leader of his party. In my long years of association with him, I found him both a worthy opponent in politics and a sincere friend. Mrs. Garcia and I extend our heartfelt condolences to Mrs. Perez and her family and pray to the Almighty for his eternal repose."

IN the afternoon, the President worked on state papers. He is expected to be back to Malacañang tomorrow morning.

August 5.— AT a luncheon this noon tendered by Speaker Jose B. Laurel Jr., at the Filipinas Hotel after his proclamation as the Nacionalista official vice-presidential candidate, President Garcia reiterated his appeal for NP unity in order to insure the party's victory in the coming elections.

At the same time, the Chief Executive expressed his appreciation over the results of the NP national convention and the deliberations of the NP executive committee in reposing their confidence in him and in Speaker Laurel.

"I am sure of one thing—the masses of our people have faith and confidence in the Nacionalista Party, and we shall not fail the people who have already pronounced a favorable judgment on the Nacionalista Party, as shown in public manifestations, especially in the 18 provinces I have visited recently," the President said.

Among those present at the luncheon were Sens. Jose P. Laurel, Sr., Pacita M. Gonzalez, Manuel C. Briones, Pedro Sabido, Cipriano Primicias, Jose C. Locsin, Roseller T. UPON arriving at Malacañang early this morning from RPS Ifugao, the President started receiving callers, among them Secretaries Oscar Ledesma, Eulogio Balao, and Florencio Moreno; Ambassador Serrano, CB Governor Miguel Cuaderno, Sen. Roseller T. Lim, and Gov. Valeriano Gatuslao.

Then he proceeded to the Malacañang lawn where he reassured about 1,000 recognized and unrecognized guerrillas belonging to the Talbac Regiment that the Veterans Commission as provided for in R. A. 1889 would be created soon. Screening of guerrilla applications for veterans benefits would also start soon, he said.

At the study room, the President received members of the Batangas Lawyers Association, led by Mario Gutierrez, who requested him to be their guest speaker at the induction of their officers.

Soon after this, Speaker Jose B. Laurel, Jr., arrived with Speaker Protempore Daniel Z. Romualdez, to inform officially the President of Speaker Laurel's selection as official vice-presidential candidate of the Nacionalista Party.

THE President today accepted "with the utmost regret" Press Secretary J. V. Cruz's resignation, "effective upon the appointment of your successor."

In submitting his resignation, Secretary Cruz said that as he had been nominated and confirmed as the official candidate of the Nacionalista Party for the lone congressional seat of Bataan, "I will have to begin campaigning for your victory and mine, and that of our party's entire ticket in the coming November elections."

Cruz said that it had been a pleasure and a privilege for him to have served with President Garcia, "not only as your press secretary since your succession to the Presidency but long before that, at the various SEATO conferences which I had attended as a member of the Philippine delegation under your wise guidance and leadership."

He expressed confidence that the people would renew their faith and confidence in President Garcia's stewardship of their affairs at the November elections. He expressed the hope that he would have the "opportunity to continue serving you as a member of congress."

President Garcia praised J. V. for having discharged the responsibilities and functions of his office with high distinction. The President said that this fact had been recognized early "during your tenure by the most appropriate and severest possible judge of your work, the National Press Club, when it unanimously recommended to the late President Magsaysay that your position be raised to Cabinet rank, and the late President readily acceded."

The President gave assurance that he would contribute in every way he could to J. V.'s election to Congress, "not only because of your obvious qualifications to serve in that august body but because I will need, assuming my own re-election, your continued service and support."

The President thanked J. V. for his pledge of assistance, and he expressed high hopes that "our cause will meet with the enthusiastic endorsement and approval of an overwhelming majority of our people."

August 6.—PRESIDENT Garcia received numerous callers the whole morning today.

Gomez said that President Garcia proved he was a true friend of labor.

PRESIDENT Garcia today granted another 30-day reprieve to death convict Crispin Verzo, who was scheduled to burn on the electric chair tomorrow.

Verzo, who had been sentenced to death for planting a time bomb in a Philippine Air Lines plane, had been previously given a 30-day stay of execution by the President. The first reprieve expires today.

The President, in granting another reprieve, said that "some time was considered still necessary for a thorough and careful study of the merits of the petitions for executive clemency filed in behalf of prisoner Crispin Verzo."

IN the afternoon, the President conferred for several minutes with Speaker Jose B. Laurel, Jr., the Nacionalista Party's vice-presidential candidate, and later presided over a press conference.

Speaker Laurel was grilled by Palace newsmen on the Batangas electoral reaction in the coming polls. He declared that "no Batangueño can say Sen. Claro M. Recto will lose in Batangas."

However, he added that his election as President Garcia's running mate has greatly improved the chances of candidates in that province.

"Senator Recto is not the only Batangueño. I am a Batangueño and so is my father," Speaker Laurel said.

It was one of the most well-attended press conferences, with a number of "rah-rah" boys from several Garcia-for-President clubs present to furnish the line for the President to follow.

President Garcia also announced he was naming Assistant Press Secretary Guillermo V. Sison as acting press secretary to replace Secretary J. V. Cruz, who resigned the other day.

"We are deeply grateful to the Nacionalista Party for its overwhelming manifestation of confidence in choosing us to be its standard bearers in the coming national elections.

"Drawing strength from this mandate of our Party, we are determined to push onward to victory our campaign for the entire Nacionalista Party ticket. We will go to the people whose will is sovereign in a democracy—in the barrios, on the farms, in the factories, and everywhere else—and remind them of this truth: That the Nacionalista Party Administration has been faithfully implementing the program of government as initiated by our beloved late President Ramon Magsaysay.

“We will ask them to reaffirm their faith in the Nacionalista Party because it has proved itself the genuine guardian of Magsaysay’s ideals for good government. For it is through the Nacionalista Party that the people can realize the fulfillment of the late leader’s dream of improving their lot.

“We are confident that with the aid of Divine Providence and the solid support of our Party and the people, all Nacionalista candidates will be given an impressive verdict of victory at the November polls.

“We also would like to take this opportunity to convey our gratitude to the press, radio, and television for their splendid cooperation in the holding of a democratic convention as well as an honest and orderly nomination.”

IN the evening the President received a delegation of five provincial governors who suggested the inclusion of provincial governors in the NP senatorial ticket and in the Cabinet.

The governors who called on the President were Juan Alberto of Catanduanes, Alejandro Almendras of Davao, Francisco Infantado of Mindoro Oriental, Juan Triviho of Camarines Sur, and Diego Ty-Deling of Misamis Occidental.

The President assured the governors that he would transmit their request to the Nacionalista Party executive committee.

The President also received the San Juan, Rizal, councilors headed by Vice-Mayor Sofronio Veloso. The councilors and Vice-Mayor Veloso pledged their support to the President’s election bid. They also invited the Chief Executive to inaugurate the San Juan GPM (Garcia-for-President-Movement) headquarters where Vice-Mayor Veloso is the coordinator.

Other callers of the President included Rep. Reynaldo Honrado of Surigao and his delegation, Rep. Lamberto Macias of Negros Oriental and his delegation, and Gov. Manuel Solidum of Romblon and Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno.

August 7.—THIS morning the President had breakfast with political leaders from Lanao with whom he discussed local problems like public improvements and the province’s political situation.

Present at the breakfast were Sen. Domocao Alonto, Lanao Gov. Salvador Lluch, Mardki Alonto and Laurentino Badolles, a congressional aspirant. Also present at the breakfast was Olimpio Villacorta, former Liberal Party stalwart of Lanao, who pledged his support to the entire Nacionalista Party ticket in the coming elections.

The Lanao leaders reiterated their pledge of support for all the Nacionalista official candidates in the coming elections. They assured the President that the Nacionalista Party will win in Lanao.

After the breakfast, the President proceeded to the Council of State room, where he presided over the regular Cabinet meeting.

PRESIDENT Garcia and his Cabinet in a 4-hour meeting this day attended by six heads of government agencies:

- (1) Discussed ways to pull down the prices of essential commodities and provide incentives for better production; and
- (2) Received a progress report on what the government has already accomplished in providing lands and homes for the landless and the homeless, and in promoting better relations between tenants and landowners,

The need for lowering the price of rice and maintaining it at the authorized ₱.85 level and the necessity of providing incentives to producers in order to increase rice production and thereby assure its steady local supply, were resolved by adopting the following measures:

(1) Aside from the expected arrival of some 40,000 tons of rice at about the end of August, the President and the Cabinet approved an additional importation of 20,635 tons. This will cover up the expected shortage of rice caused by pests and typhoons which hit the Bicol region, Visayas, Mindanao, and Central Luzon, including the poor second rice crop in Central Luzon.

NARIC Chairman Juan O. Chioco explained to the Cabinet that the first NARIC importation of 39,365 tons of rice this year had already been exhausted and the expected 40,000 tons was due to arrive at the end of this month. He, however, stressed that in view of the anticipated rice shortage, there was still necessity to import the additional 20,635 tons in order to cover the 100,000 tons of rice importation originally intended for this year as approved by the late President Magsaysay.

The President and the Cabinet agreed that with these steps, together with the harvest of upland and other early palay varieties in September, the price of rice would gradually drop to a normal ₱.85 per ganta of Macan ordinario and remain steady until the year's end. It was believed by the Cabinet that these measures could solve the immediate rice problem.

However, the President and the Cabinet adopted a measure designed to solve the rice problem on a long-range basis by means of increasing the production of this staple commodity.

Upon the suggestion of Acting ACCFA Administrator Ernesto Jimenez, the President and the Cabinet approved that the NARIC buy all palay, Macan No. 2, at prices ranging from ₱10 to ₱10.50 a cavan. This was calculated to give an incentive to rice producers to increase their volume of production. The President at the same time said that he would soon create a committee to study ways of giving further incentives to producers. It was believed that the ultimate solution to the shortage in the production of staple crops, was production and that this could only be realized when the proper incentives were given to producers.

The President, through Jimenez, thanked all FACOMA members for their cooperation with the government in selling to the NARIC through the CCE all their palay which amounted to some 500,000 cavans.

Regarding the corn situation, Chioco said that the price of corn in consuming areas was now ₱.50 to ₱.55 a ganta of grits. This price is considered normal.

The lowering of the price of corn grits from ₱70 per ganta during the months of May, June, and July to the present level was, according to Chioco, brought about by the NARIC sale of corn grits direct to the consumer at not more than ₱40 a ganta, as originally ordered by the late President Magsaysay. Chioco added that the harvest of corn in Davao, Cotabato, and Pagadian (Zamboanga del Sur) had already started.

However, Chioco called the attention of the Cabinet that as a result of its selling of corn at ₱40 a ganta, the NARIC had, as of June 31, suffered a total loss of ₱1,182,000.

(2) Regarding sugar, NAMARCO General Manager Benjamin F. Estrella reported that the NAMARCO, upon a previous order of President Garcia, had procured sugar for distribution to the public. He said that the NAMARCO had enough golden brown sugar stocks that would last until the end of September, to be sold at from ₱.30 to ₱.35 a kilo.

Estrella explained that the price of sugar could not go down immediately because sugar distributors had first to dispose of their old sugar stocks which had been procured at a higher price. He said the new and lower prices would be felt in a week or so.

In order to control more effectively the price of sugar, Estrella recommended that the government take an active participation in the procurement and distribution of sugar. He said that as the milling season would be around October and November, action should begin immediately with regard to the procurement of this commodity.

(3) Regarding the lowering of the cost of other essential commodities, the President and the Cabinet approved that NAMARCO officials hold a conference with Monetary Board officials in order to thresh out differences as to the interpretation of the NAMARCO law allotting $20 million to the NAMARCO for the importation of controlled goods, in addition to the $14 million for decontrolled items.

It was explained by Estrella that his office was facing difficulty in getting additional dollar allocations from the Central Bank because amounts already drawn by the NAMARCO against its $14 million allotment for decontrolled items were being charged against the $20 million as allowed by the NAMARCO law. Estrella said that in view of this difficulty in get the full dollar allocations for the NAMARCO, his office could not import enough prime commodities to flood the market and bring down prices to reasonable levels.

Estrella, however, pointed out that if the NAMARCO could also utilize its $34 million total allocation for the importation of goods it would have sufficient stocks to stabilize prices.

President Garcia and his Cabinet heard PHHC General Manager Vicente Orosa report on the progress of the government's low-cost housing projects; Land Tenure Administration Chairman Manuel E. Castañeda, on the number of landed estates already acquired and distributed to landless tenants; and Agricultural Tenancy Commissioner Fernando Santiago, on the progress his office was making in promoting more harmonious relations between tenants and landowners.

Secretary Orosa informed the President and the Cabinet that the government's low-cost housing projects have been progressing at appreciable speed with eight projects in Manila and Quezon City fully completed; Project 7, Area B, in Quezon City, 60 per cent completed; Tagaytay City project, 30 per cent completed; Tacloban City project, 30 per cent completed; the Iloilo, Bacolod, and Roxas cities projects, five per cent completed; and Project 8 in Quezon City, about to be started.

Orosa said that in the Government's desire to provide the lowest possible rentals to its low income employees, reductions in rentals have been effected in some projects. He added that an additional area was being acquired in Novaliches in order to accommodate more squatters from Manila who are due for resettlement.

Orosa said that in the eight low-cost housing projects already finished, some 9,335 families had already been settled.

Land Tenure Administration Chairman Castañeda reported that out of 536 petitions for acquisition of landed estates, 42 estates involving more or less 26,095 hectares of agricultural land and 1,514,741 square meters of residential properties have been programmed. The total number of tenants to be benefited is 11,782 with about 59,420 dependents. Of these 42 estates programmed, 12 have already been acquired and/or fully negotiated. There are 15 estates under expropriation in court and 15 are pending final negotiations.

Castañeda said that his office had already subdivided and/or still subdividing the following estates: Fabie estate, Tibaguin estate, Buenavista estate (partial), Juanito estate, Valdez estate, Lichauco estate, Dimson area (Dinalupihan estate), and Tucop area (also Dinalupihan estate).

He added that distribution of the lands subdivided had been accelerated by enhancing investigations of conflicts of claims among tenants.

Castañeda pointed out that a total of ₱2,126,478.92 had been collected by his office, representing an increase of ₱546,050.68 over the amount collected by its predecessor for a like period representing the fiscal year 1954-55, and half of fiscal year 1955-56.

He also said that the LTA had already screened about 8,000 house owners or occupants of lands in Tondo Foreshore and about 2,000 occupants are to be screened. He added that the LTA had executed deeds of sale or agreements to sell in favor of 2,369. tenants, virtually making them owners of the land they actually till or occupy.

Commissioner Santiago, reporting on the tenant-landowner relations, informed the Cabinet that for the six months of the fiscal year 1957 alone, 1,844 cases involving 6,001 tenants had been handled. Some 1,647 or 89 per cent of these involving 5,518 tenants had been settled.

Regarding the enforcement of the security of tenure and crop sharing provisions of Republic Act 1199, Santiago said that a great majority of tenancy conflicts handled by the Commission involved these two issues. He said that the tenants who were victims of illegal sharing arrangements and whose cases were mediated by the ATC last fiscal year, 13 per cent were able to secure as additional shares from 25 per cent to 55 per cent of the net yield, 68 per cent received as additional shares from 10 per cent to 24 per cent of the net yield, and 19 per cent received below 10 per cent of the net yield.

These tenants who secured these additional shares will enjoy these benefits every harvest time henceforth, he added.

Santiago also reported that the ATC was able to secure the reinstatement or compensation of 78 per cent of 281 out of 381 tenants who complained during the past six months that they had been illegally ejected.

The President was pleased with the reports of Orosa, Castañeda, and Santiago. He urged them to exert more efforts in completing the program of their respective offices for the benefit of the majority of the masses of the people.

The President presided over the Cabinet meeting which was held at the Council of State room from 10:30 a.m. to past 3 p.m.

THE President today endorsed to the Commissioner of Civil Service for immediate appropriate action the findings and recommendations of the special committee designated "to look into alleged inefficiency, incompetence, and negligence at the Philippine General Hospital."

In a report to the President, the committee recommended the following with the full concurrence of Health Secretary Paulino Garcia:

- (1) That Dr. Polleno Cespon, adjunct resident on duty in pediatrics, be required to resign immediately;
- (2) That Miss Clarita Rubica, staff nurse in Ward 9, be required to resign immediately;
- (3) That Miss Juanita Sereho, staff nurse in Ward 9, be fined an amount equivalent to one-month salary or suspension for two months without pay with the warning that repetition by her of the same or similar offense shall be cause for dismissal;
- (4) That Dr. Juanita Esguerra-Arcilla, physician on duty, be suspended for one month without pay and warned that repetition by her of the same or similar offense shall be dealt with more drastically;
- (5) That Manuel Silao, interne on duty in pediatrics, be suspended for one month and warned that repetition by him of the same or similar offense shall be dealt with more severely; and
- (6) That Dr. Salud Buquir, ambulance surgeon on duty in the admitting section, be reprimanded for her failure to demonstrate such solicitous and humanitarian interest for the relief of the patient's suffering.

The finding and recommendations of the committee were made following an investigation of the case of 13-year child Rosalinda Angeles for which the committee had been instructed to submit a report, within five days. Child Rosalinda was admitted at the PGH on July 23, 1957, and died owing to alleged negligence on the part of the hospital staff.

The committee reported to the President that Dr. Salud Buquir did what was expected of her as ambulance surgeon but should have shown more interest and concern by administering a medication that might have relieved Rosalinda's symptom.

The committee said that Manuel Silao, who was only a fifth-year medical student, arrogated to himself almost full responsibility for the patient while he was not matured or experienced enough to do so.

Miss Rubica was found by the committee grossly negligent in the performance of her duty to the patient, inefficient in her work as a nurse, and showed acts of indifference and discourtesy unbecoming of her position as staff nurse.

The committee said that Dr. Cespon was grossly negligent in the discharge of his duties in regard to child Rosalinda and in the supervision he was to exercise on Silao. The committee also said that Dr. Cespon did not have adequate experience to have assumed the responsibility he did in the case of Rosalinda.

The committee was of the opinion that Miss Sereño violated established procedures in the PGH pertaining to her duties and responsibilities and that she was wanting in the concern and solicitude which one in her position was expected to give to the child patient.

Dr. Esguerra-Arcilla did not display proper diligence and care of her responsibility according to the committee.

The report was submitted to the President during the Cabinet meeting by Health Secretary Garcia, who said that the committee was already at work on the second phase of the probe: Fundamental causes of public dissatisfaction regarding conditions and services in the PGH. Secretary Garcia said that a report on the second phase of the investigation would be submitted within two weeks.

The committee is composed of Dr. Arsenio Regala, special assistant in the Office of the Secretary of Health, chairman, and Dr. Gumersindo Garcia, Dr. Ricardo Alfonso, Dr. Antonio Rodriguez, Dr. Manuel Arambulo, Dr. Trinidad Gomez, and Isabelo Zapanta, members.

The proclamation was signed in the presence of Manolo Elizalde, general chairman of the campaign, and ranking officials of the society, among them Drs. Jose Capistrano, Fernando Duran, and Miguel Cañizares, and Antonio Bengzon, Mrs. Norberto Amoranto, and Pedro Lopez.

PRESIDENT Garcia today directed acting ACCFA Administrator Ernesto T. Jimenez to implement fully and immediately the provisions of the Fertilizer Law and speed up the distribution of fertilizers to all farmers in order to step up production of staple crops and find a more permanent solution to the lowering of their prices.

President Garcia issued this directive as a follow-up to the measures already discussed and approved at the Cabinet meeting yesterday in seeking a solution to the lowering of prices of prime commodities and increasing production. He gave the order after a conference today with Commerce Secretary Oscar Ledesma; Jose Ma, Gomez, president of the Federation of Sugar Cane Planters Association; and Carlos Ledesma, president of the San Carlos Planters Association.

Upon learning of the immediate requirements for fertilizers estimated to exceed the ₱7 ½ million previously released on his authority, the President asked Budget Commissioner Dominador R. Aytona to seek ways and means for the release of an additional outlay of P8 million before September this year, to cover the deficiency. Under R. A. 1609, the ACCFA is charged with the distribution of subsidized fertilizers to farmers applying for them.

The President recently ordered the release of ₱7 ½ million for the purchase of fertilizers to be sold at half the procurement cost. The President told the ACCFA executive to do everything within his means to hasten the shipment to the Philippines of some 10,000 metric tons of fertilizers ordered from abroad so that they could be distributed soon to the farmers.

He also directed the National Power Corporation to increase the rate of shipment of fertilizers earmarked for the ACCFA from the Maria Cristina plant of the corporation.

Numerous representatives of farming groups, including the rice and sugar growers, have asked the President and ACCFA officials for earlier distribution of the subsidized fertilizers to catch up with the weather conditions now existing, which are favorable for planting. It was learned from ACCFA Administrator Jimenez that agreements had already been made with representatives of sugar planters with regard to the allocation of fertilizers to sugar people and the manner of distribution.

It was further learned that practically all sugar planters are members of associations affiliated with the ACCFA.

PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia in the afternoon witnessed the field demonstrations and the "Philippine Constabulary in Review" at Camp Crame presented by the PC on the occasion of its 56th organization day.

The President and the First Lady, accompanied by AFP Chief of Staff Lieut. Gen. Diosdado Rodriguez, and other top brass of the AFP and the PC were among those present at the demonstrations and programs.

The President returned to Malacañang about 7 p.m.

AN accident victim, who was seriously injured when the jeep he was riding fell off a cliff near the NARRA Maramag settlement project in Bukidnon, is now in the care of expert hands at the National Orthopedic Hospital after being airlifted to Manila by the order of President Garcia.

The victim, Victorino Mangalindan, NARRA field auditor, was with three others who were not seriously injured. Mangalindan was airlifted by an Air Force plane which took off for Bukidnon at 4:30 this morning. The plane came back about seven hours later and the patient was whisked by a PAF ambulance to the NOH.

The President ordered the airlifting of Mangalindan and the three others yesterday upon being informed of the matter by Acting NARRA General Manager Jorge Alba and NARRA Board Chairman Remedios Fortich. The plane was not able to get to Bukidnon on the same day because of bad weather. The plane passed by Virac, Catanduanes, for another emergency patient also by order of the President.

August 9.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning paid homage to the late former Speaker Eugenio Perez. He and Mrs. Leonila D. Garcia motored to the Legislative Building, where joint Senate-House necrological services were held in honor of the departed former Speaker. The President was greeted by Speaker Protempore Daniel Z. Romualdez upon arrival at the Capitol at exactly 9:05. He immediately proceeded to the session hall of the House of Representatives, where the remains of the former Speaker was lying in state.

After the necrological program, the President and the First Lady condoled with the family of the late Speaker Perez. Then they returned to Malacañang.

The President also received Rep. Manuel Enverga of Quezon, Dr. Generoso Nadres, and Mayor Ricardo Macasaet of Infanta, who accompanied two Liberal leaders, Mayor Felix Oria of Candelaria and former Mayor Eligio Manalo, who took their oath as Nacionalistas.

PRESIDENT Garcia this day directed Benjamin Estrella, NAMARCO general manager, to stop the importation of printed textiles, upon the representations of P. L. Lim, spokesman of the Philippine Textile Mills Association.

A delegation of the PTMA called on the President to complain against the NAMARCO importation, alleging that there was no increase in the price of cotton printed textile.

In his directive to Estrella, the President said that NAMARCO should spend its dollars to import other essential goods and not to prejudice local textile production.

The President announced his determination to give his all-out support to the local raw cotton industry as a step to save dollars and ease unemployment.

Other members of the PTMA group were Jesus Yujuico, Martin Tinio, Felix Lirag, Antonio Assad, and C. B. Lim.

The President said that he would announce shortly the members of the committee he would create to study ways and means of giving incentives to producers, including agriculturists and manufacturers, in order to increase the country's production of prime commodities and eventually reduce prices. The Chief Executive said that he had several persons in mind for this committee but was weighing very carefully the qualifications of each prospective member, adding that he wanted to be sure the committee would not in any way reflect political color and detract from the high objectives of the committee.

The President said that the committee would be composed of representatives of the different segments of the country's economy, including consumers. He added that once the committee was formed, it would be authorized to call on technical men to assist it in its deliberations.

The creation of the committee was first announced by the President last June 22 when he vetoed Senate Bill No. 167. In that veto, the President said that he was desirous of seeing to it that the country's producers and manufacturers be provided positive and practical incentives in order to increase the production of the major crops. He believed that the permanent solution to the stabilization of prices of prime needs lay in the production of enough of these commodities.

THE President this morning told 53 PC provincial commanders and members of the PC general staff to be "good referees" during the coming elections so as not to give the impression that they favored any political party. The Chief Executive made this remark in the course of a courtesy call made by the Constabulary officers led by Col. Ricardo Papa, PC deputy chief; Col. Santiago Concepcion, C-1 chief; Lt. Col. Manuel Yan, C-2 chief; Col. Lucas Cauton, C-3 chief; Col. Fortunato Racelis, C-4 chief; and Col. Angel Magallanes, deputy area commander for PC affairs, 2nd MA. Brig. Gen. Manuel C. Cabal, PC chief, could not accompany the PC officers because he was kept in bed owing to an indisposition.

President Garcia expressed confidence that Constabulary officers would be able to resist any political pressure which might be exerted by those who might want "to gain advantage over opponents."

However, the President counselled the officers to handle the situation with tact and to avoid incidents that might destroy the prestige of the Constabulary.

"The role of the Constabulary in the coming elections is to uphold the law, keep peace and order, maintain free, orderly, and clean elections, and maintain its impartiality," the President said.

THIS noon the President ordered the Social Welfare Administration to extend immediate assistance to some 20 families rendered homeless by a fire which broke in the commercial center of Cagayan de Oro City about 10 a.m. today.

The President gave the order following receipt of a message from City Mayor Justiniano Borja of Cagayan de Oro, who estimated the damage caused by the conflagration at ₱200,000. Two messages were received in Malacañang from the city mayor; the first at 11:30 a.m. when he reported that the fire was still raging and the second at 2:30 p.m. when he said that the conflagration had been put under control.

The President also ordered the Philippine Airforce to have a plane ready to ferry relief supplies from the SWA and the PNR. Social Welfare Administrator Amparo S. Villamor said she was releasing ₱1,000 for the local purchase of relief goods in the disaster area for immediate distribution to sufferers. This was to augment the assistance already extended the fire victims by government social workers in the area.

AT noon President Garcia had a luncheon conference with members of Congress, headed by Speaker Jose B. Laurel, Jr., NP vice-presidential candidate.

The President and the congressmen discussed plans for the carrying out of an effective campaign in the provinces once the entire Nacionalista senatorial line-up is decided.

Tobias Fornier of Antique, Francisco Ortega of La Union, Ismael Veloso of Davao, Jose Aldeguer of Iloilo, and Justino Nuyda of Albay. Also present were Budget Commissioner Dominador R. Aytona and Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno.

It was agreed during the conference that American movies would pay the taxes for the year 1956. It was also agreed that the question of paying back taxes by the American movies be submitted to the tax court for final decision.

The President conferred with Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Internal Revenue Collector Jose Arañas, Leo Hochstetter of the American Movie Exporters Association, and R. Ogermann, lawyer for the association.

MALACANANG announced today that the initial shipment of 150,000 Magsaysay mourning stamps was finally released by the commissioner of customs after President Garcia had intervened in the matter.

President Garcia this morning upon reading newspaper reports that customs officials allegedly refused to release the stamps unless customs duties were paid, directed Acting Press Secretary Guillermo V. Sison to tell Customs Commissioner Eleuterio Capapas that the President was paying from his personal funds the customs duties due on these stamps amounting to ₱237.

Malacañang Financial Assistant Miguel D. Velasco sent an employee of his office to the Manila International Airport with the money to pay for the customs duties.

It was however found out that the Bureau of Posts had been able to get an exemption from the payment of such duties from the office of the Auditor General. However, President Garcia was asked to pay only ₱2.05 for customs stamps instead of ₱237 for customs duties. The Magsaysay stamps were then released.

August 10.—PRESIDENT Garcia today fired his first broadside against his political counterpart, without mentioning his name, when he told, the people of Tarlac:

“Do not trust so called economists who have used their knowledge in economics to enrich themselves and not their country and their countrymen.

“Let us trust and elect those who are doing everything in their power to bring about the economic development of our country, those who are giving lands to the landless and homes to the homeless and who are eradicating the tenancy system in our country.”

Although the President did not mention names, his audience knew to whom his tirade was directed, and the people applauded.

The President made these remarks in the course of his speaking trips to nine towns of Tarlac jointly with Speaker Jose B. Laurel, Jr., when the two of them, as the Nacionalista official presidential and vice-presidential tandem, opened their first salvo and brought the case of the Nacionalista candidates direct to the common people and barrio folks of Tarlac.

In his speech at the inauguration of the ₱4,700,000-Magsaysay Irrigation Dam at Mayantoc, Tarlac, the President emphasized that the completion of this project which would irrigate 10,500 hectares, would contribute to the overall production of the country's staple crops in connection with the government's long range program of pulling down the prices of these commodities.

In speaking at the towns of Bamban, Santa Ignacia, Mayantoc, Camiling, Moncada, Paniqui, Pura, Gesona, and Tarlac, President Garcia and Speaker Laurel took turns in explaining to the people that it was the Nacionalista Party and the present administration which has faithfully implemented the late President Magsaysay's program of uplifting the lot of the masses of the people.

President Garcia and Speaker Laurel said the Administration has constructed irrigation systems, highways and feeder roads, pre-fabricated school-houses, bridges, and artesian wells; has quadrupled the rural health facilities for the common people; has given lands to the landless and homes to the homeless; has given peace and order to the country; has given social justice to those who need it; and has restored the people's faith in their government.

They stressed to the people that this gigantic task was only one-fourth completed at the death of the late President Magsaysay and that only the Nacionalista candidates should be entrusted in completing the work. They pledged that, if elected president and vice-president, they would bring to a successful conclusion the Magsaysay program of good government to the people.

The Garcia-Laurel tandem was royally welcomed in all the towns visited by them. "People rushed to the streets to meet them and shake their hands, while girls tossed flowers on their way. In Mayantoc, President Garcia and Speaker Laurel were borne on the shoulders of the townspeople from the entrance of the town to the town kiosk, where the tandem addressed the cheering crowd.

In his speech in Mayantoc, President Garcia said that the act of the townspeople was symbolic of the people's support of the Nacionalista administration which would be surely shown in the coming November polls. The people shouted their approval.

After delivering his speech at the Magsaysay Irrigation Dam, President Garcia, accompanied by Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno, Gov. Arsenio Lugay, Reps. Jose J. Roy and Constancio Castañeda, Social Welfare Administrator Amparo Villamor, Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez, and other officials, walked to one of the water gates of the dam and pulled a lever which let the water flow into the different canals of the system.

The President arrived, at Bamban, Tarlac, about 9:25 a.m. He was on the go the whole day, as he and Speaker Laurel visited the eight other towns and made their speeches. The other officials who accompanied them were Govs. Juan Frivaldo of Sorsogon, Juan Alberto of Catanduanes, Rafael Lazatin of Pampanga, Alejo Santos of Bulacan, and Manuel Barretto of Zambales.

In their speeches. President Garcia and Speaker Laurel praised the work of Reps. Castañeda, and Roy in the Congress, calling them truly dedicated servants of the people.

PRESIDENT Garcia today lashed at “men or parties” who wish to perpetuate the tenancy class in the country, and reiterated his vigorous determination to push through the “land for the landless and home for the homeless” program initiated by the late President Magsaysay.

“Far from being an accomplishment, the purchase of the De Leon Estate is only a big step forward in the objective of the administration to have every tenant own the farm he is tilling,” the President said.

“Toward this end,” he added, “the Administration is seeking through negotiated sale or through expropriation proceedings to acquire other landed estates.”

The President said that in Nueva Ecija alone there are six other estates already acquired or due for payment as follows: Lichauco, 58 hectares, in Cabanatuan City; Del Rosario, 667 hectares, in Cabanatuan City; Tuala, 838 hectares, in Guimba; Halili, 235 hectares, in Cabanatuan City; Uson, 26 hectares (for homesite purposes), in Jaen; and Juanito, 673 hectares, in Cuyapo.

The President warned against those who were trying to perpetuate the tenancy class in the country. He added that he was happy to have been an instrument in helping eradicate the tenancy system here. “I wish more of our countrymen will become home owners, home builders, and home defenders,” the President said.

Comparing a tenant to a bird in a cage, the President said that no matter how well fed a bird was, it could never be happy and contented in the cage because it wanted to be free,

The President acknowledged that Doha Sisang Vda. de Leon, owner of the estate, acceded to the acquisition of the estate as a sincere gesture of cooperation with the government in its “land for the landless” program.

Alejandro Clemente, spokesman of the De Leon estate tenants, in his brief remarks told his fellow tenants gathered at the Social Hall to vote for the re-election of President Garcia so that he could pursue the “land for the landless” program and give other landless tenants a chance to have their own farms.

Manuel de Leon, son of Dona Sisang, in his brief remarks said that the De Leon family had agreed to the sale of their estate in their wish to cooperate with the government in accomplishing its land reform program. He expressed the wish that the tenants would continue cultivating their new parcels of land industriously.

Mrs. Amado Q. Aleta, in representation of her husband, the governor of Nueva Ecija, expressed her thanks for the acquisition of the estate. She met with applause when she asked the tenants to vote for President Garcia in the coming elections.

Luis V. de Leon, another son of Dona Sisang, signed the sales document in the name of the owners of the estate, while Manuel Castaneda, head of the Land Tenure Administration, signed in the name of the government.

President Garcia handed over to Manuel de Leon, a treasury warrant W the amount of ₱1,374,000 as one-half payment of the total price, the rest to be paid in land certificates cashable after five years. The hacienda has an area of 2,255 hectares.

At the average price of ₱1,213.72 a hectare the government paid for the land, the tenants will have to pay an annual installment of ₱96.57 a hectare for 25 years, which payment can be easily made by the tenants if they set aside 25 per cent of their regular harvests. There are about 500 tenants with some 2,000 dependents who will be benefited by this purchase.

After the subdivision of the land, each tenant is expected to be given four hectares of land which he will own.

Among those present at the ceremony were Sen. Pacita M. Gonzalez, Rep. Emilio Cortez, Executive Secretary Fortunato de Leon, Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, Rep. Enrique J. Corpuz, former Press Secretary J. V. Cruz, LTA Commissioners Numeriano Fabie and Juan Vera, and Mrs. Amado Aleta, wife of Nueva Ecija governor.

AT their meeting today President Garcia and his Cabinet adopted measures to insure the early remittance of the 85 per cent of export proceeds to the dollar reserves in order to strengthen the dollar position of the country.

At the same time, the President appointed a committee composed of Commerce Secretary Oscar Ledesma, as chairman, and Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez and RFC Chairman Eduardo Z. Romualdez, as members, to look into ways to hasten the bringing in of commodities being imported under the 15 per cent privilege granted by the No-Dollar Import Law.

This measure was believed necessary in view of the fact that according to reports some $25 million worth of these import commodities had not arrived yet. It was pointed out that if these commodities were delivered here as they should have been, there would be less drain on the dollar reserves for additional importation of these commodities and that the prices of these goods would considerably go down.

After considering the recommendations of the Philippine Bankers Association, presented to the Cabinet by Alfonso Calalang, association president, and Jose D. Fernandez, also of the association, Commerce Secretary Oscar Ledesma, Finance Secretary Hernandez, and Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, the President and the Cabinet approved supplementary rules governing barter under R. A. 1410. These regulations are designed to insure the prompt remittance of the 85 per cent of export dollar proceeds to the Central Bank.

One of the rules adopted was that proposed by Commissioner Aytona, who recommended that the exporter of any commodity will be granted his barter permit for 15 per cent only upon certification by the Central Bank that the full dollar proceeds from the exportation of the applicant had been remitted to the C. B.

It was believed that this regulation would insure that the dollar proceeds of all exports from the Philippines would be promptly remitted to the Central Bank and thus strengthen the dollar position of the country.

1. Notwithstanding contrary provisions in existing regulations, all barter transactions shall be based on back-to-back letters of credit which shall be in accordance with the following conditions:

a. The export of goods must be covered by an export letter of credit from the foreign importer and such letter of credit must specifically provide for drawings at sight in dollars against shipping documents.

b. The import letter of credit that may be opened by the domestic producer-exporter must have as its beneficiary the same party opening the export letter of credit and negotiations under the import letter of credit shall be restricted to the country of destination of the Philippine products exported and to commodities originating from the country of destination of the corresponding Philippine exports, "originating" to mean that the commodities to be exported are covered by a certificate of origin duly signed by a consular officer as having originated from the country of the port of embarkation.

2. No import letter of credit may be issued by Philippine banks under Barter Permits issued by the NDIO until satisfactory evidence is presented that the full proceeds of the export corresponding to such credit have been actually credited to the negotiating Philippine bank.

3. The No-Dollar Import Office shall issue two types of barter permits: Type A for minor exports, surplus goods in excess of quotas set in the Laurel-Langley Agreement, and low-quality marginal-cost commodities; and Type B for fifteen per cent of major exports.

Type A permits shall be sub-divided into Type A-1 for minor ex-, ports, Type A-2 for surplus goods in excess of quotas set in the Laurel-Langley Agreement, and Type A-3 for low-quality marginal-cost goods. No Type A-2 permit shall be issued for any commodity before the U.S. quota for said commodity has been filled.

The No-Dollar Import Office shall attach to every Type A barter permit it issues specific documents evidencing the prior shipment and the receipt of proceeds by the negotiating bank of the exportation of commodities on the basis- of which the barter permit is issued. Type B permits shall be issued only to the same parties who have made the export shipments, during the six months immediately preceding, on which the barter permit is based.

Shipments made to countries without exchange controls and to free ports shall be counted as part of the base on which Type B permits are given.

4. Barter permits shall be valid only:

a. For exports, 60 days after date of permit.

b. For imports, 90 days after negotiation of the corresponding export. If the corresponding export under the permit is not made within 60 days of issue, the barter permit lapses completely and becomes invalid.

If the collateral import under the permit is not made within 90 days after the negotiation of the corresponding export, the right to import shall lapse and the agent banks holding the foreign exchange corresponding to the export previously made shall within 24 hours sell such exchange to the Central Bank.

5. Agent banks negotiating exports under barter permits shall make a segregation in their accounts of the proceeds of exports under NDIO barter permits and shall, when reporting to the Central Bank, clearly distinguish their free foreign balance from foreign bances acquired under barter exports.

6. Agent banks may open letters of credit under barter permits only upon prior certification by the Central Bank as to price accuracy.

7. The No-Dollar Import Office shall submit to the Central Bank at the end of each week a report of all barter permits issued during the week.

8. The previous Cabinet decision limiting the issuance of barter permits to producers of the commodities sought to be bartered shall be strictly enforced.

9. These supplementary rules and regulations shall govern all barter transactions, including those already approved but not yet consummated.

10. That no extension of existing barter permit which has expired shall be granted.

THE President and the Cabinet approved a proposal of the World War II Veterans Enterprises, Inc., to undertake the sale and distribution of specific items of goods coming from the $20 million reparations goods earmarked, for the veterans, at a profit of not more than 15 per cent in order to provide more benefits in the form of civic projects and to create job opportunities for war veterans war widows, and orphans.

Under the plan, the corporation will pay in cash for the reparations goods coming from Japan. Then it will sell and distribute these goods to consumers, thus transforming the goods into cash, to be turned over to a bank designated by the Philippine Government, as a trust fund, as envisioned in the new enactment of Congress. The corporation will undertake the sale of these goods at a gross profit about 15 per cent.

The corporation proposes to utilize this expected profit as follows:

(1) Set aside a certain sum to be determined and agreed upon later, for the expenses of a veterans mission to Washington, D.C., to work for more benefits for veterans, war widows, and orphans;

(2) Set aside a sum to be determined and agreed upon later, to be spent in the unification of all veterans organizations in the Philippines and in the establishment of an adequate headquarters complete with the necessary working personnel for the purpose; and

(3) Set aside an amount for investment in deep sea fishing, fish canning, and other allied dollar-producing industries which will employ exclusively veterans, war widows, and orphans.

The corporation will file a performance bond to guarantee the faithful performance of its obligation.

The corporation, with Maj. Gen. Calixto Duque (Ret.) as president and general manager, has the support of the following organizations: the CONVETS, the PVL, the Cold Star Mothers and War Widows, the Marking's Guerrillas, the United Disabled Veterans Association of the Philippines, the USAFIP, the Philippine Association of War Widows, the Parents and Orphans, and the Banal Guerrillas Organization.

The corporation claims that it has the support of veterans organizations comprising at least 95 per cent of all veterans of the country.

The physical examination provided for in Section 663(c) of the Revised Administrative Code as a prerequisite for permanent appointment should be waived with respect to those who are leaving or have already left the service on account of old age, physical incapacity, or death, but whose appointments have remained temporary for failure to undergo the prescribed physical examination.

(b) Temporary teachers are entitled to retirement insurance benefits without the necessity of permanent appointment.

(c) Substitute teachers are not eligible to insurance membership.

(b) Casual or emergency employees without fixed items are not eligible to retirement insurance.

(c) Retiring employees, whether classified or unclassified, who left the service or were separated therefrom on account of old age prior to June 16, 1956, may be entitled to retirement insurance benefits if the period they were actually out of the service does not exceed one year from the date of their separation to June 16, 1956, the date of approval of Republic Act No. 1573.

President Garcia presided over the Cabinet meeting which was held at the Council of State room. The meeting lasted from 11 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

PRESIDENT Garcia formally opened the 1957 Anti-TB National Fund and Educational Campaign by contributing ₱1,000 in a ceremony held at Malacañang's social hall this afternoon.

In opening the drive, the President called upon every citizen and resident of this country "to intensify their united crusade against the White Plague, giving the enemy no quarters until every man, woman, and child need not shudder with dread from the spectre of tuberculosis." (See Historical Papers and Documents in the next issue of the Official Gazette for the text of the President's speech.)

After the President handed his check to Manuel Elizalde, general chairman of this year's drive, other donors came forward with their contributions in amounts ranging from ₱100 to ₱10,000. Donors consisted of government and business firms as well as civic-spirited private citizens. Total collections at the ceremony amounted to ₱79,500.

The kick-off ceremony attended by members of the Cabinet, senators, representatives, members of the diplomatic corps and their ladies, and representatives of various civic organizations, started at 5:30 p.m. It began with an overture by the PC band with Lt. Col. Antonino Buenaventura, conducting.

The President's speech lasted about five minutes. Among those with him on the speaker's platform were the First Lady; Dona Julia de Ortigas, Gen. Basilio Valdes, and Dr. Miguel Canizares, president, vice-president, and executive vice-president, respectively, of the the Philippine Tuberculosis Society; and Miss Conchita Sunico, vice-chairman of this year's campaign.

Following the ceremony which lasted until 6: 30 p.m., the President repaired to his study where he received several callers, including Reps. Cesar Fortich of Bukidnon and Enrique Corpus of Zambales.

August 15.—THIS morning the President told a large group of housing project residents that negotiations with a view to selling outright the lots in join PHHC-ICA projects to their respective occupants are now in progress.

The President made this statement at the Malacañang study room this morning when the residents of the joint PHHC-ICA housing projects called to request the President to grant them the outright sale of the lots which they are occupying, in these projects. Rep. Serafin Salvador of Rizal acted as spokesman of the group.

The President said that he is not against the outright sale of the lots to occupants because such action would be in consonance with the policy of the Administration. He pointed out that those housing projects which were undertaken solely by the PHHC would amount to an outright sale because titles to these would eventually be issued to occupants.

Referring to the joint PHHC-ICA housing projects, the President said that he knows of no provision in the agreement of these two entities regarding the sale of lots to their respective occupants: He said that PHHC and the ICA authorities were exerting efforts to find means of effecting the outright sale of the lots in the joint projects to occupants.

Earlier, the President received governors and congressmen who requested assistance for public improvements. They discussed with the Chief Executive political developments in their respective localities.

The President also received Sen. Quintin Paredes and Rep. Lucas Paredes of Abra. They discussed the political situation in Abra.

PRESIDENT Garcia today directed Acting Education Secretary Martin Aguilar, Jr., to take immediate steps in order that the Iloilo Normal School teachers would be paid their salaries for the month of July.

The President gave this directive upon receiving news reports that teachers of the Iloilo Normal School had not received their salaries for July because the treasury warrant covering the amount for the operation and maintenance of the school had been wrongly credited to the city treasurer of Iloilo instead of to the provincial treasurer.

According to Santiago Villaluna, president of the Iloilo Normal School Teachers Association, the treasury warrant had been transmitted to the city treasurer through the Philippine National Bank, but the salaries of the teachers had not been paid because the city treasurer would not transfer the money to the provincial treasurer without an express authorization from his superiors in Manila.

The President told Secretary Aguilar to take the necessary steps and see to it that these salaries of the teachers were paid immediately.

THE President also directed the Department of Foreign Affairs to wire immediately Minister Jose D. Ingles in Hamburg, West Germany, to get in touch with Catalina Zandueta, soprano, who had appealed to the President for financial aid to further her mission of "selling" the Philippines to Europe.

Miss Zandueta made her appeal in Munchen, Germany.

The President told the department to direct Minister Ingles to submit his findings and recommendations on Miss Zandueta's case as soon as possible.

In the evening President Garcia; Administered the oath of office to Ildefonso J. Remolona as member of the board of the Social Security Commission in a ceremony held at Malacañang.

President's Week in Review: August 10-16, 1958

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

August 10. —PRESIDENT Garcia today instructed the subcommittee created to draw plans for the projected revamp of the Bureau of Customs to devise measures designed to eradicate permanently the commission of venalities in that important revenue-collecting agency of the government.

After going over the third progress report submitted by Lt. Cmdr. Marcelino Calinawan, chairman of the presidential fact-finding committee on customs, under which the revamp Subcommittee will operate, the President expressed his desire to have the Bureau of Customs returned to normal operation as soon as possible.

The Chief Executive instructed the committee to expedite the final phases of its work so that the bureau could proceed effectively in the implementation of the Administration's program of intensified tax-collection. He expects to see the bureau transformed into an efficient, graft-free, and smooth-working entity after its reorganization.

The President yesterday had issued an administrative order creating a sub-committee on performance and procedure under the presidential fact-finding committee on customs, for the purpose of instituting organizational and procedural reforms in the bureau. The subcommittee had been created to start the machinery for permanent beneficial reforms.

Regarding the drawing up of plans for the shifting of personnel in connection with the reorganization, the President told the committee; to see to it that only qualified men were assigned to handle specific jobs. He added, however, that care should be exercised so that no injustice might be perpetrated on officials and employees who had rendered long, efficient, and faithful service to the bureau.

Meanwhile, Malacañang clarified reports that Col. Vicente Novales had been relieved as chief of police of Quezon City. According to an announcement issued tonight by the Press Office, Col. Novales was only on detail in Malacañang and that he was still the chief of police of the Bibiano M. Viña, chief of the traffic division of the Q. C. police department, was only designated to act in the absence of Col. Novales, the announcement said.

Malacañang also announced that President Garcia was still waiting for the report of the Cabinet committee constituted to study and consolidate the conclusions reached by the Cabinet at its meeting two weeks ago on the proposed liberalized rules and regulations on barter recently promulgated by the Department of Commerce and Industry.

The committee composed of Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez, and Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera had been instructed to submit its report at a special Cabinet meeting to be called by the President for the purpose.

The President as of this evening cannot as yet tell when he will convoke the projected special meeting of his advisory body, as the committee was not yet ready to render its report.

THE President spent a quiet Sunday today at his workshop on Bohol Avenue in Quezon City going over some important state documents. He did not receive any visitor the whole day except Health Secretary and Mrs. Elpidio Valencia, who paid him a brief social call in the morning.

The President started the day by hearing mass. Also at the mass were Maj. Jose Estrella, military aide, and members of the household.

After breakfast, the President repaired to his private study where he spent some time reading the Sunday papers brought over to him from Malacañang. Then he started going over some state documents he had sent for from his bedroom in the Palace.

After a brief rest in the afternoon, the President resumed studying state papers. Among the documents was the latest progress report of the presidential fact-finding committee on customs which enumerated, among other things, the criminal, civil, and administrative charges currently being handled or caused to be handled by the probe body.

August 11.—THIS morning the President assured a delegation of cattle breeders that the Administration will push through its plan of improving the quality of cattle in the country.

The cattle breeders presented to the Chief Executive a resolution approved by the Santa Gertrudis Cattle Breeders Association of the Philippines expressing the gratitude of the association to the Administration for its cattle dispersal program.

The resolution stated that the Administration has been dedicated to the uplift of the livestock industry in the Philippines through increased production and better breed.

The President also received the members of the Taylor University basketball quintet who are currently playing a series of games in the country. The players were Jack Stowell, Tink Van Patton, Roger Jenkinson, Norman Cook, Don Ulrich, Jack Mount, Ed Beck, Jack King, and Bud Schaeffer. They were accompanied by PAAF Secretary-Treasurer Serafin Aquino and Dr. T. V. Chung.

Members of the Bachelors' Club also saw President Garcia to invite him and his family to their Silver Ball on August 31 at the Sky Room. The president told them that he was himself a member of the club during his first two terms in Congress.

With the Bachelors' Club group were Dr. Herminio Velarde, Manuel Collantes, Pete Vasquez, Robert Hinchman, and Ramon V. Mitra and Bachelorettes Soma Aldeguer and Joji Felix.

Other callers were Judges Primitivo Gonzalez and Jose Manguiat, Felipe Jose and Mariano Angeles, former Governor Conrado Marapao, Pat Senador, Tomas Marquez, T. Landio, and Sesinando Famoso.

PRESIDENT Garcia reiterated today his stand against devaluation of the peso and expressed himself in favor of a policy for gradual decontrol.

The President's latest statement was embodied in a cablegram sent today to Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno, RFC Chairman Eduardo Romualdez, and Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, who are now in Washington on official business.

Paying high compliment to members of Congress, President Garcia said that "the present studies conducted by the ways and means committee of the House of Representatives at the instance of Speaker Daniel Romualdez and House Majority Floor Leader Jose Aldeguer are efforts to determine how much decontrol can be adopted and when."

He added: "I have confidence in the sound opinion of Congressman Roy who is a conservative economist."

President Garcia also instructed Cuaderno, Romualdez, and Aytona to inform officials in Washington to disregard the speculation on devaluation. The Chief Executive said he would: be firm on this point until necessarily compelled to do otherwise.

A Cuaderno-Romualdez-Aytona cablegram to the President had expressed deep concern over reports from Manila speculating on "an impending devaluation." In their cablegram to the President they had underscored the fact that such speculation would undermine the people's faith in the peso and credit and that this would have a serious consequence. They also expressed their stand against devaluation of the peso stating that “devaluation at this time is not only unnecessary but would be disastrous.”

According to Cuaderno, Romualdez, and Aytona, “no nation wants controls but if we aim to industrialize and as long as our country’s ability to sell our products is hampered by restrictive trade policies of industrialized countries, it would not only be injudicious for us to remove controls at this time but it would also render devaluation inevitable. We cannot remain mere suppliers of raw materials to highly developed countries. The solution lies in a determined effort to combat inflation.”

THE President took steps today to facilitate the investigations currently being conducted by the presidential fact-finding committee on customs as he issued an administrative order enlarging the powers of the probe body.

In the presidential order released by Malacañang this evening, the President granted additional powers to the committee, including the power to summon witnesses, administer oaths, and take testimony or evidence relevant to its investigations.

The President also authorized the body “to call upon any department, bureau, office, agency, or instrumentality of the government, including government-owned or controlled corporations, for such assistance or information as it may require in the performance of its functions, and it shall have access to any books, documents, papers, or records, subject to the limitations provided by law.”

Lt. Comdr. Marcelino Calinawan, chairman of the probe body, had informed the Chief Executive in his third progress report that the fact-finding efforts of his committee were often hampered by various regulations in its search for records and documents, particularly those involving private firms’ importations and exportations.

With the granting of additional powers, the committee may now compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of documents essential to its investigative work.

The President, previously, had expressed his desire to have the probe body complete its work as soon as possible so that the Bureau of Customs could return to normal operation and proceed effectively with the implementation of the Administration’s program of intensified tax collection.

EXECUTIVE Secretary Juan C. Pajo this afternoon inducted into office former Congressmen Vicente Logarta of Cebu and Agripino Escareal of Samar as legislative secretary and legislative liaison, respectively, in ceremonies held at Malacañang.

Logarta takes the place of Jose C. Nable, who had recently been appointed Press Secretary, while Escareal takes over the position vacated by Logarta.

Among those present at the ceremony were Speaker Daniel Romualdez, Senator Decoroso Rosales, Press Secretary Nable, some congressmen, and newspapermen.

August 12.—PRESIDENT Garcia today discussed with two Muslim leaders the economic development of the province of Sulu, which envisions the establishment of home industries, fish canning, and pearl buttons factories.

Following the conference, the President directed the Commission on National Integration and other government agencies, including the Department of Commerce and Industry, to undertake a joint study of a long range planning on the economic development of Sulu.

Present at the conference were National Integration Commissioner Madki Alonto and Rep. Salipada Pendatun of Cotabato. President Garcia pointed out the need to launch the program immediately.

The Cotabato solon expressed the fear that banditry will be a major problem of the government agencies unless steps are initiated to give the People of Sulu a chance to improve economically.

He said that the pearl button and fishing industries are mostly in the hands of alien merchants who dictate the prices and added that the establishment of factories will help the people of Sulu materially.

Earlier, President Garcia administered the oath of office to Mrs. Consuelo (Chito) Madrigal-Vasquez as acting member of the Board of Directors of the Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office in the presence of Sen. Pacita Madrigal-Gonzalez and Dr. Luis Vasquez.

Sen. Gonzalez submitted a report on the recently concluded United Nations seminar on urbanization in Asia held in Tokyo which proposes to levy heavy taxes on all lands not cultivated either through the neglect or indifference of the owners.

Other presidential callers included Sen. Francisco Rodrigo and Reps Wenceslao R. Lagumbay of Laguna, Caudencio Abordo of Palawan, Vicente Gustilo of Negros Occidental, Natalio Castillo of Bohol, Faustino Tobia of Ilocos Sur, Cesar Fortich of Bukidnon, Luis Hora of Mt. Province, Francisco Ortega of La Union, Ramon Durano of Cebu, Felix Garduque of Cayan, Marcelino Veloso of Leyte, Salvador Encinas of Sorsogon, and Jose Leido of Mindoro Oriental.

The President was interrogated by a panel of newsmen and economists at the Kislap Graphic forum aired over DZFM from the Manila Overseas Press Club this evening.

President Garcia also:

1. Reiterated his stand against devaluation;
2. Said that he welcomes a merger between the Liberal Party and the Progressive Party because it will preserve the two-party system in the Philippines;
3. Declared that the Philippines is assured of at least $125 million from the United States as a result of his mission; and
4. Stated that he was not going to run for reelection in 1961.

Asked whether he might reconsider his decision not to run for reelection, the President said that every citizen should be ready to be drafted for an elective position, and that if the people need his services, he might change his mind.

Explaining his stand on the projected LP-PPP coalition, President Garcia stated that two responsible parties would be more effective and more beneficial than a multiplicity of parties, as was shown in the last elections.

The Chief Executive said that the question of decontrol was under study by Malacañang. A special committee, he stated, is considering the merits of decontrol and the safeguards to be taken should it be adopted.

He said that the credit line from the United States has not been translated into cash since procedural details are being worked out by the American and Philippine panels.

The Philippine team working out this problem, headed by RFC Chairman Eduardo Romualdez, Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, and Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno, is returning within next week to report on the progress of their work.

August 13.—THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE was the keynote speaker at the opening ceremonies of the Sixth National Catholic Educational Convention held at the gymnasium of the University of Santo Tomas this morning.

In his speech the President stressed that the Philippines is definitely committed to the side of freedom in the great struggle between atheistic communism and the freedom-loving peoples of the world.

Over a thousand delegates to the four-day convention heard President Garcia reiterate his stand against communism. "I have been criticized by some quarters here as 'talking big' for saying this," he said. "But gentlemen, of one thing I am certain, and that is that the vast majority of our people are opposed to communism as a matter of principle.

"And the reason is not hard to seek. We are fundamentally a religious people. We can have no share in an ideology that denies the existence of God and the natural rights of man."

President Garcia arrived at the UST campus at 10 a.m. accompanied by Archbishop Juan Sison of Nueva Segovia, president of the Catholic Welfare Organization; Msgr. Osmundo Calip, national director of The Sentinel; and Father Mariano Gaviola, CWO assistant secretary general.

Upon arrival he received full honors rendered by an honor guard formed by the UST model ROTC company in their colorful dress regalia.

The President's speech lasted about 20 minutes. He was introduced by Fr. Anselmo Bustos, chairman of the CWO committee on arrangements. From the U.S.T. gymnasium, the President motored back to Malacañang where he stayed the whole morning without receiving any visitor.

IN the afternoon, he cancelled a scheduled conference with Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano on the protest lodged by the Chinese community on the raids conducted by the constabulary-revenue-customs-agents.

The Chinese community claimed that the raids were intended to harass Sino establishments in Manila.

A Malacañang source said the President may confer with Secretary Serrano today on the CRC raids.

The President then presided over the Cabinet meeting. The meeting which opened at shortly after four o'clock lasted until 8:30 o'clock in the evening.

IN the Cabinet this evening the President impatiently brushed aside government red tape and adopted three emergency measures to rescue some 2,000 Filipino Muslims stranded in Colombo.

"Lives and not dollars and cents are involved in the case of over 2,000 Filipino Muslim pilgrims now stranded in Colombo."

This was the unanimous opinion of an aroused Cabinet that discussed the fate of the pilgrims who are now threatened with death by disease and starvation. Taking cognizance of their plight, President Garcia ordered that:

(1) The amount of $190,000 representing charter charges be deposited with Consul General Eduardo Rosal in Hongkong with the pledge that this sum will be turned over to the owners of the Lorraine upon the arrival here of the pilgrims;

(2) A mercy mission to Colombo be organized and dispatched immediately to minister to the sick and protect the health of the others; and

(3) Foreign Affairs Secretary Serrano open through the American Embassy in Ceylon negotiations with the Panamanian Government on a government-to-government level and make them compel the ship owners to bring the pilgrims to the Philippines at once.

In last week's meeting the Cabinet offered to deposit the money representing the ship's hire with Consul General Rosal in Hongkong payable upon the arrival here of the pilgrims, but this offer was rejected by the Pan-Pacific Transport Co., owners of the vessel.

In a counter proposal, the ship owners demanded that a letter of credit be opened whereby half of the amount will be collectible immediately and the other half after the discharge of the last pilgrim in the Philippines.

This was turned down by President Garcia, who said this proposal was against the integrity of the Philippines since it implied a lack of faith and confidence in our government on the part of the ship owners.

President Garcia also named the following Cabinet members to organize the mercy mission: Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, National Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia, Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez, SWA Administrator Amparo Villamor, and National Integration Commissioner Madki Alonto.

The mercy mission will be composed of doctors, nurses, and social workers who will take with them medicines and food to be distributed among the pilgrims. They will also take preventive measures to stop the spread of diseases on board the vessel and will care for the passengers during the voyage to the Philippines.

Foreign Affairs Secretary Serrano said negotiations with the Panamanian Government could be conducted through the American Embassy which has charge of Panamanian affairs in the Far East. The Lorraine is of Panamanian registry.

Meanwhile, in a cable received today by representatives of the ship's charterers from the Pan-Pacific Transport Co., it was reported that pilgrims on board the Lorraine had assaulted the ship's master and chief officer. The latter was hospitalized with fractured ribs.

According to the latest report, the pilgrims are subsisting partly on local charity and that disease has broken on board the ship with eight deaths reported. The situation has been described as "desperate."

The Lorraine was contracted by Justino Co, Ibrahim Ali, and Monti Sumbuat through its owners, the Pan-Pacific Transport Co. in Hongkong, to carry 2,000 Muslim pilgrims from the Philippines to Mecca and back.

The contract specified that payment was to be made in U. S. dollars on or before July 30. However, the Central Bank refused to furnish the charterers with the necessary dollars.

When the Lorraine docked at Colombo on July 30, the captain was ordered by the ship owners to hold the ship there indefinitely until payment of the amount stipulated in the contract was made.

It will be recalled that a similar incident involving Muslim pilgrims occurred in 1951 and that the Philippine Government was hard put to repatriate them.

To discourage the recurrence of similar incidents in the future, the Cabinet has ordered that a full-scale investigation of the matter be made and that the maximum punishment under our laws be meted out to the person or persons responsible.

August 14.— PRESIDENT Garcia directed today Assistant Executive Secretary Sofronio Quimson to confer with NARIC officials and find ways and means for the state firm to purchase the corn harvest in Cotabato.

The presidential directive was issued in the wake of a report submitted by Mayor Hilario de Pedro of Koronadal, Cotabato, member of the ACCFA Board of Governors, that there is a bumper crop in his province.

De Pedro reported that alien merchants are buying corn at 0.08 a kilo which is hardly enough to pay the cost of production. He suggested that NARIC buy the corn at 0.10 a kilo in order to give Cotabato farmers enough incentive to continue planting corn.

At the same time, the Koronadal mayor urged the construction of the Palian River irrigation system project in order to boost the food production campaign in Cotabato.

The Department of Public Works, according to Mayor De Pedro had already surveyed the site of the project which will be financed out of bond issues at a cost of 2.64 million and will service about 5,000 hectares.

With the construction of the irrigation project, De Pedro stated, Cotabato can produce twice as much rice as any Central Luzon province.

The President also received Gov. Jose Dinglasan of Capiz and approved the release of funds for the construction of permanent bridges in Lison, Dumalag, Talaba, Sapián, and Anghuon, Pan-ay.

Other presidential callers included Govs. Jose Briones of Roxas, Jose R. Earlier, President Garcia discussed Central Bank and Monetary Board matters with Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez and Auditor General Pedro Gimenez.

The President this day ordered PHHC Chair man Socorro Ladrera to explain within five days his side on the immorality charge hurled against him by the Mindanao-Sulu-Palawan Association.

The President's order came after receiving the charge which was formally handed him during a call sometime last month by Sen. Emmanuel Pelaez who, together with some members of the MSPA, urged Ladrera's ouster.

The President's order to Ladrera was contained in an official communication which was delivered to the PHHC chairman today.

PRESIDENT Garcia today issued a proclamation designating the period from November 15 to December 31, 1958 for the national fund campaign for the Girl Scouts of the Philippines in places "outside Greater Manila."

The proclamation stated that the GSP, since its charter in 1942, had consistently served the nation through its program of character building and citizenship training "thereby meriting the moral encouragement of our people.

In signing the proclamation, the President called upon all citizens and residents of the Philippines outside Greater Manila to support the drives so that the GSP might be assured of adequate funds with which to carry out its work.

Malacañang informed today the provincial commander of Bataan and the municipal treasurer of Mariveles that Vice-Mayor Benito Reyes of that town is the legal mayor pending the preventive suspension of Mayor Jose S. Advincula.

Assistant Executive Secretary Sofronio Quimson sent a wire to the two Bataan officials by authority of the President following a report in a morning newspaper which said that there were two mayors in Mariveles.

Mayor Advincula had been suspended by Bataan Gov. Emilio Ma. Naval for 30 days since July 22, 1958. Secretary Quimson said that after the preventive suspension is over, Mayor Advincula could take over as mayor of Mariveles from Vice-Mayor Reyes.

THIS evening President Garcia expressed his satisfaction over the decision of the Pan-Pacific Transport Co. of Hongkong, operators of the Lorraine, to allow the return to the Philippines of over 2,000 Filipino Muslim pilgrims on board the ship.

This information was relayed to the President by Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, who had received a wire to, this effect from Philippine Consul General Eduardo Rosal in Hongkong.

The wire said the vessel's operators have agreed to the first proposal of the Cabinet which was that payment of the ship's hire of $190,000 will be deposited with Rosal and that the money will be turned over to them as soon as the ship arrives in the Philippines.

Meanwhile, the committee formed by President Garcia during last night's Cabinet meeting met this afternoon to coordinate their efforts for the organization of a mercy mission to attend to the pilgrims' needs.

Commissioner Madki Alonto of National Integration, a member of the committee, reported to the President this evening that a team consisting of five doctors, four nurses, four social workers, and two Constabulary officers had been formed and were ready to leave for Colombo on short notice.

He also said that the necessary medicines, food, money, and clothing were already packed and ready for shipment aboard a chartered Convair of the Philippine Air Lines.

To avoid the recurrence of another Lorraine incident, Commissioner Alonto recommended to President Garcia that future pilgrimages to Mecca should be conducted under strict government supervision and that their number should be limited to not more than 1,000 each year.

THIS evening the President granted a 30-day reprieve to four condemned prisoners scheduled to die on the electric chair at 3 p.m. today for the killing and wounding of rival gangsters in Tondo four years ago,

The prisoners are Soriano Alcaraz, Carlos Espino, Manuel Soriano, and Jose Halili, members of the Tondo grease gun gang. They meted out the death penalties by the Supreme Court on April 30.

In granting the reprieve, the President said he needed more time to study the petitions for commutation of the death sentence filed in behalf of the prisoners.

August 15.—PRESIDENT Garcia directed today officials of the National Rice and Corn Corporation to resume its corn procurement activities in a move to stop speculation in the cereal. He also directed the Philippine National Bank to extend a credit line of ₱5 million to the NARIC to enable the state firm to continue buying corn.

These presidential directives, issued at a conference this morning with Assistant Executive Secretary Sofronio C. Quimson, came in the wake of a report submitted by ACCFA Governor Hilario de Pedro that alien speculators were taking advantage of an unexpected bumper crop in Cotabato to corner the cereal and force down the purchase price to ₱0.08 a kilo.

The directive to the NARIC specifically stated that it should procure corn directly from producers and not from middlemen.

Secretary Quimson informed President Garcia that NARIC officials had to stop procuring corn owing to lack of funds and had requested the release of the unused balance of its capitalization fund or the extension of a new credit line from the Philippine National Bank.

Ricardo Ledesma, president of the Davao Fibers Producers Cooperative Marketing Association, also called on President Garcia to present the problems facing the ramie industry.

The President encouraged the use of the savings of the people in the financing of productive enterprises and activities for the effective prosecution of the country’s investment program and in order to speed up our economic and industrial development.

President Garcia also called upon all banks and financial institutions in the country and upon all industrialists, businessmen, farmers, and the people to lend their cooperative assistance in making the campaign successful.

PRESIDENT Garcia at his press conference today defended Juan Con-con, administrator of the Office of Economic Coordination, against charges that a steel factory in which he and his wife are stockholders had been “favored” with dollar allocation of about $1 million.

In defending Concon, who is a member of his Cabinet, President Garcia called the steel firm a “modest” one and asked, “Is there anything wrong for a Cabinet member to invest in some stocks for his future?”

The President said that Justice Secretary Jesus G. Barrera’s negative findings on the “white paper” had substantiated the Chief Executive’s claim that the charges in the controversial document were based on rumors and gossips.

However, he told a press conference that he had not been officially notified of Barrera’s findings in his inquiry into the charges contained in the “white paper.”

Commenting on Barrera’s findings, the President told his press conference today that he has “always maintained there is no such thing as a “white paper.”

He recalled that when he received the memorandum from Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, he did not consider the document as a “paper paper” as the charges were “based mainly from “gossips and hearsay talks.”

The Chief Executive said he referred the document to the Department of Justice for further inquiry in an effort to quiet down his detractors who had charged him with “sitting down” on the alleged explosive document.

Barrera said he had assigned agents to follow up the leads and the transactions mentioned in the “white paper” but failed to get evidence to justify the elevation of the cases in court.

He refused to identify the persons who were cleared in his investigation.

August 16.—AFTER breakfast this morning with Drs. Antonio Guytingco and Alejandro Gaerlan, his physicians, the President spent some time working on state papers brought over to his residence by Leoncio Piquero, an assistant in the office of the executive secretary.

DURING a conference at the President's workshop on Bohol Avenue in Quezon City this afternoon, the President instructed Secretary Juan C. Pajo to prepare an administrative order directing the NBI to go after all forms of racketeering involving the unauthorized use of the President's name and those of the members of his official and personal family.

The President, during the conference, expressed his desire to have the N.B.I. look into cases of scheming persons who sought to acquire positions and other concessions from government and private offices through the use of his forged signature.

The President had also ordered the recovery of Malacañang stationery that might be in the possession of unauthorized individuals.

Except for Secretary Pajo, the President did not receive any caller at his workshop the whole day.

President Garcia left the school about 11 a.m. and proceeded to the Moonlit Terrace, where he addressed the delegates of the Fifth Annual Constitutional Convention of the Philippine Trade Unions Council (PTUC).

In his speech the President cited several labor laws which he said are “among the revolutionary innovations that today are helping build a strong Philippine nation.”

The pieces of labor legislation he enumerated were the Social Security Act, the 40-hour Labor Law, the National Apprenticeship Act, and the Industrial Peace Act of 1953 known as the Magna Charta of Labor.

The last law, the Chief Executive pointed out “has hastened the growth of trade unionism in the Philippines and has to that degree strengthened and given substance to democracy as an ideology and as a way of life.”

President Garcia made these statements before 300 delegates of the Philippine Trade Unions Council held at the Moonlit Terrace on Azcarraga, corner Rizal Avenue, this noon.

In paying tribute to labor's role in reorganizing society, the President looked back on the history of the Philippine labor movement and traced unionism from its establishment here by the late Isabelo de los Reyes in 1902 to the present year.

Negado also informed the President of his observations in various wells construction systems in Japan, some of which could be adopted here.

The Chief Executive was particularly impressed by Negado's description of the so-called Manchurian system, otherwise known as the horizontal wells which could be adopted in certain sections of Central Luzon and Mindanao provinces, and in other localities where there are no surface water sources.

Shortly before 10 a.m., the President motored to Malacañang to receive scheduled callers.

THIS afternoon President Garcia ordered Acting NBI Director Jose Lukban to investigate the ambush-killing of Vigan Mayor I Lorenzo Formoso this noon.

Report of the ambush was brought to the President at Malacañang by Rep. Faustino Tobia of Ilocos Sur. Tobia showed to President Garcia the wire he had just received informing him about the tragic incident.

According to sketchy reports received by Tobia, the ambush took place along the national highway less than a kilometer from the headquarters of the provincial constabulary detachment.

President Garcia also set the ball rolling for the 1958 Anti-TB Educational and Fund Campaign by presenting his personal contribution of ₱1,000 to Eugenio J. Puyat, general chairman of the campaign.

August 19.—PRESIDENT Garcia said today that he was backing the raids being conducted by the joint Constabulary-Revenue-Customs teams against economic saboteurs as long as they are made within the law.

The President at the same time served a stern warning to the raiding teams that any "misbehavior" on the part of their members in the course of their work would be dealt with severely.

The statement was made following a conference at Malacañang with Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, AFP chief of staff, and Brig. Gen. Pelagio Cruz, PC chief. The conference lasted from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

In the course of the conference Gen. Cruz informed the President that intelligence reports had been used to insure the success of the raids. Gen. Cruz denied the reported surprise night raids allegedly conducted by the teams, saying that owners of establishments often requested that searches be conducted after business hours to avoid embarrassment to the owners and that such searches often lasted until late into the night.

During the conference the President also took up with the AFP officials his plan to reconstitute the National Security Council this week. He said he had assigned Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo and Judge Salvador Esguerra, Malacañang legal adviser, to work on the matter.

Other matters taken up included the ambush-killing of Mayor Lorenzo Formoso of Vigan, Ilocos Sur. The President reiterated his directive to have the guilty parties prosecuted without delay.

Speaking before a large crowd that gathered before the grandstand immediately after the civic and military parade, the President exhorted the people that out of respect to the memory of the late President Quezon and as a response to the challenge of his example, “to make of our Republic for which he died, forever a land of social justice and equal opportunity, of enlightened nationalism, of honest public services, and of responsible freedom.”

President Garcia was greeted upon his arrival at the grandstand with a 21-gun salute and was met by an honor guard platoon representing different units of the AFP.

More than 5,000 persons participated in the two-hour long parade which included elements from the Armed Forces, selected ROTC and PMT units, Manila and suburban police and fire-fighting forces, Boy and Girl scouts, Quezon city government officials and employees, and students and teachers from different public and private schools in the locality.

As the parade wound its way along Highway 54, several jet planes of the Philippine Air Force swooped down and roared overhead in close formation.

Color was added to the parade by the participation of 13 well-decorated floats put by the University of the Philippines and by government and private hospitals and offices located in Quezon City.

President Garcia was introduced by Quezon City Mayor Norberto Amoranto who spoke in Tagalog. The program was cut short after President Garcia’s speech by a strong rain that sent the crowd scampering for shelter.

After the Quezon Day ceremonies, the President returned to Malacañang for a brief rest.

In the evening, President Garcia attended a command performance of the plays, Sabina and The Ladies and the Senator, two presentations of the Arena Theater held in the social hall of Malacañang.

August 20.—PRESIDENT Garcia today appointed Feliciano de Gala as chairman and general manager of the Philippine Coconut Administration vice Benjamin Salvosa, whose four-year term had expired last August 16.

The President also signed the appointments of Jesus Borromeo as provincial fiscal of Bohol and the transfer of Provincial Fiscal Pio Ferandos from Zamboanga del Norte to Cebu.

Earlier in the morning, the President and the First Lady motored to the Balagbag Air Terminal where they saw off their only daughter, Linda, and her husband, Fernando Campos, who flew to the United States at 8 a.m.

Expected to stay in the U. S. for about a year, the couple will take up residence in Boston, Massachusetts. Fernando will take graduate studies at Harvard University, while Linda will enroll at Radcliffe University to take some cultural courses.

Then the President motored to his residence in Quezon City, where he discussed with General Services Secretary Alejandro Almendras the details of the Chief Executive’s projected trip to Davao, to inaugurate the expanded airport in Davao City.

At noon, the President was luncheon guest at the Casino Español of Alfonso Calalang, who is leaving soon on an observation trip upon the invitation of the English government.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon took up the long-drawn issue on U. S. bases in the Philippines at a conference with Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano in Malacañang.

President Garcia and Serrano defined the Philippine position in an effort to find a “suitable basis” for the reopening of the recessed discussions on the U. S. bases in the country.

The conference lasted more than an hour and indicated that the two reviewed the subjects taken up at the stalemated talks and the points which had derailed the negotiations.

The President, it was learned, saw the “need” to start exploratory talks along diplomatic channels in order to find a basis to resume the recessed panel discussions.

It was learned that discussions centered on the controversial barter rules drawn up by a three-man Cabinet committee recently designated to rewrite the regulations promulgated last June by Commerce Secretary Hernaez.

The Cabinet this evening completely banned the entry of non-essential and luxury items which had previously been allowed to land as gifts or “personal effects of returning residents.”

The Cabinet in a four-hour meeting decided to scrap a section in the controversial barter rules and regulations which had allowed the entry of these items.

The Cabinet took up the controversial barter rules after the President had disbanded a three-man committee for its failure to draw up an acceptable draft of regulations in two weeks’ time.

In going over the barter rules, the President and the Cabinet decided to junk section 3-A of the Department of Commerce regulations which reads:

“Commodities classified by the Central Bank of the Philippines as unclassified items and luxury items may be allowed to be imported,” provided they are strictly commodities for personal use or commodities sent as gifts or brought in by returning residents and provided further they are not in commercial quantities.”

The President in junking this section, indicated that this provision had been resorted to by returning residents to circumvent the ban against their importation.

It was also indicated that the provision does not only cover goods brought in by producers in the course of barter trade but provided a loophole to go about the ban against the entry of these commodities,

A Malacañang spokesman indicated that the Cabinet virtually urged against the congressional currents which had agitated for the elimination of controls.

At the same time, the Cabinet decided to limit barter trade through straight transactions and voted definitely against a triangular or three-way barter transactions.

President Garcia had “frozen” all applications for barter until the Cabinet had rewritten the barter rules and regulations promulgated by the Department of Commerce.

Meanwhile, the Cabinet also authorized the government-owned or government-controlled corporations to give contributions to charity organizations.

The Cabinet action was prompted by an opposition raised by the auditor general who questioned the contribution given by government corporations to government authorized fund campaigns.

Auditor General Pedro Gimenez questioned the contributions given to the 10th World Boy Scouts Jamboree fund, as illegal.

However, Gimenez pointed out that, if authorized by the Cabinet, these contributions could be legalized.

The Cabinet, acting on Gimenez's opposition, authorized the government corporations to give certain percentage of their profits to charitable organizations or government-authorized fund drives.

August 21.—PRESIDENT Garcia after more than 10 hours session with his Cabinet which lasted until 4 o'clock this morning approved the draft of a set of rules and regulations on the implementation of the barter provisions of Republic Act No. 1410.

In approving the draft which was the result of continuous discussions among the members of the Cabinet from 6 p.m. yesterday to 3:30 a.m. today, the President said that the implementation of the barter law would have an effect on the general economy of the country. He said he had to hear the views of his department secretaries, particularly those who had something to do with the nation's economy, before formulating a decision on the important issue.

Among the salient points which the President sought to make clear in the approved rules and regulations were that:

1. Only bona fide producers or producers' cooperatives, or producers associations may engage in barter;
2. Only straight barter, not triangular barter, can be allowed;
3. The Philippines shall not have barter transactions with free ports and communist countries.

The first two points had been agreed upon in view of the general opinion among the members of the Cabinet that the barter law intended to benefit only bona fide producers, not traders or financiers, and that the law permitted only straight barter, not triangular barter.

The decision not to barter with free ports and communist countries was on the insistent recommendation of Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas for reasons of security.

1. "Products under quota, as listed under the Laurel-Langley agreement, or those having preferential tariff rate, in the United States may be bartered to the extent that they exceed the quotas or cannot be sold profitably in the United States market at current U. S. prices, except in the case of sugar where the domestic requirements must be met."
2. "Commodities imported under barter be in the name of the producer-exporter and shall be subject to the corresponding taxes and duties. In no case shall commodities banned from import or classified as U. I. (unclassified items) by the Central Bank, or in violation of the Anti-Dumping Law, shall be allowed to be imported under barter. Collateral imports which may be brought in from any country by the same producer-importer shall be composed of at least 70 per cent machinery, equipment, and/or essential commodities, 20 per cent semi-essentials and 10 per cent non-essentials."
3. "All barter agreements shall be covered by non-negotiable back-to-back letters of credit under rules customarily prescribed for such transactions by the Central Bank; except in the case of machinery and heavy equipment, the excess in value of exports over imports, or vice versa, shall not vary by more than 10 per cent during any 60-day period of time."

Amendments to the proposed rules and regulations recently promulgated by Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez were based mainly on a draft prepared by Secretary Barrera which the Justice Secretary believed, embodied a “happy compromise” between the views of Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez and Secretary Hernaez.

In drafting the rules, the President and the Cabinet sought to plug possible loopholes in the proper implementation of the barter law. They paid particular attention avoiding situations permitting collusion between the importers and exporters and the waiting away of Philippine dollars abroad.

Among those who participated actively in the discussions were Education Secretary Manuel Lim, Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, Secretary Barrera, Secretary Hernaez, Secretary Hernandez, Secretary Vargas, NEC Chairman Jose Locsin, and Commissioner Sofronio Quimson. All members of the Cabinet voted and explained their stand on all important provisions of the barter rules.

The following provision in the regulations proposed by Secretary Hernaez which is not found in the present barter rules was completely eliminated in the approved draft:

“Commodities classified by the Central Bank of the Philippines as UP or unclassified items and luxury items, may be allowed to be imported (through barter) provided that they are strictly commodities for personal use or commodities sent as gifts or brought in by returning residents, and provided further that they are not in commercial quantity.”

The new set of rules will take effect upon publication in the Official Gazette. The draft is now with Secretary Barrera, who had been designated to put it in final form before it is signed by the secretary of commerce.

The President adjourned the meeting shortly before 4 a.m. by thanking the members of his advisory body for their “splendid cooperation.”

Except for a light snack yesterday afternoon, members of the Cabinet went on with the meeting without supper. Although tired and hungry, they filed out of the Council of State room in Malacañang looking cheerful and, perhaps, feeling glad that the controversial barter rules and regulations had been finally settled.

IN VIEW of the marathon Cabinet meeting which broke up at 4 a.m., today, President Garcia cancelled all his appointments this morning.

This afternoon, President and Mrs. Garcia received Italian Ambassador and Mrs. Benedetto d’Acunzo, who came to pay a farewell call. The couple are leaving soon for Quito, Ecuador, the Ambassador’s new assignment.

After receiving Ambassador and Mrs. d’acunzo, President Garcia signed the letters of credence of Mrs. Trinidad F. Legarda as ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to Vietnam; Jose Alejandrino as ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to Pakistan; and Octavio L. Maloles as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Mexico.

Other callers of the President were Ramon Sytanco of Naga City and General Services Secretary Alejandro Almendras.

Malacañang released today the names of 16 prisoners granted conditional pardon by President Garcia on the occasion of the 80th birthday of the late President Quezon last August 19.

August 22.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning directed Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez to start immediately a campaign against locusts in Negros Occidental.

The President issued the directive at a conference with Rep. Vicente Gustilo, who received a wire from Acting Gov. Armando Gustilo of Negros Occidental

The President also received four checks totaling ₱80,000 from Arsenio Jison, president of the Philippine National Bank; Rodolfo Andal, general manager of the Government Service Insurance System; Andres Castillo, acting governor of the Central Bank; and Dr. Wenceslao Pascual and Roberto Benedicto, governors of the Development Bank of the Philippines. The amount represents the contributions of these government entities to the Peace and Amelioration Fund drive.

High officials of the Land Tenure Administration called on President Garcia to request additional funds for LTA activities and discuss policies regarding acquisition of agricultural and urban lands within Manila.

Headed by Chairman Manuel E. Castañeda, the LTA group was composed of Commissioners Numeriano Fabie and Julian de Vera and Finance Officer Amadeo Alinea.

Greater emphasis on nationalism in the orientation of economic policies was urged by officials of the National Economic Protectionism Association in the course of a courtesy call on President Garcia.

Daniel Me. Gomez, NEPA president, presented a memorial to President Garcia urging an indirect government subsidy to the movement and a reduction in the importation of non-essential commodities.

The memorial also urged the approval of a congressional charter for the NEPA and making every government-owned corporation a sustaining NEPA member.

Other NEPA officials who saw President Garcia were Toribio Teodoro, Sergio Bayan, Gabriel A. Daza, Julian La O, Jr., Ramon C. Ordoveza, and Arturo Jacinto.

Consul General Eduardo Rosal called on President Garcia to report that the ship Lorraine carrying about 2,400 Muslim pilgrims from Mecca was proceeding to Singapore to pick up medicines sent by Commissioner Madki Alonto of National Integration.

Rosal informed President Garcia that the ship-owners had told him that about 10 Muslims were dying everyday on board the ship owing to malnutrition.

Other presidential callers were House Majority Floor Leader Jose Aldeguer, Don Gil Garcia, Dr. and Mrs. Fernando Escaño, Russell Moran, Ben Salvosa, Sen. Quintin Paredes, Jesus Yujuico, and Juiji G. Kasai, director of the Philippine Society of Japan.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon justified anew the morality of Economic Coordinator Juan Concon's investments in a steel mill in Bohol which, he said, is a "development enterprise that will put on a competitive basis the price of GI sheets."

His first defense of Concon in last week's regular press conference stirred a mild political tempest as Liberal Party leaders headed by Vice-President Diosdado Macapagal questioned the "morality" of the Cabinet member's investment in the steel mill.

The Chief Executive pointed that if any member of the Cabinet is asked to make an investment, he can properly do so, especially if it is for development enterprise like the Southern Industrial Projects, Inc.

"I doubt," President Garcia went on, "if there is anybody in this government who has not been approached in one way or another to invest in this or that industrial venture. I really don't see any immorality for anybody responding to a call for investments if there is."

However, the President said Concon has not assumed direction or part of the management of the corporation, although the Cabinet member's wife is temporarily acting as president of the firm.

Asked if he was aware of Executive Order No. 103 issued in 1913 banning Cabinet members or heads of bureaus from participating "directly or indirectly" in a business venture, the President answered in the negative.

"Be that as it may," he pointed out, "Concon has bought some shares in a new industrial venture that had not yet anything to do with the government because it had yet to be organized. This is a corporation which has just been formed; even the officers are not yet in permanent status and it has no contracts yet with the government."

The President also denied that Concon's participation in the steel corporation constituted "influence peddling."

He said the OEC administrator did not have anything to do in the processing of new necessary industries.

At the same time, the President justified the organization of the steel mill, saying that there is a need for such development enterprise.

"I also believed that the two organized steel corporations were after all processing steel by just adding corrugations. I don't believe," he added, "they can meet the needs of the southern half of the Philippines at this time."

The President further pointed out that even for economic reason, "since Bohol is nearer to Iligan where the government integrated steel industry would be established, it would be logical for the steel factory to be established there."

He expressed the belief that there is no overcrowding in the steel industry and "I want to add that we must put on a competitive basis the price of GI sheets."

He said that the distribution of GI sheets is monopolized by two companies and that the distributors were even aliens and are profiting by ₱1.33 per sheet.

"That is not competition," he said, "if we have enough steel industries, we could bring the price down to competitive level for the general good of the people."

Asked if there were safeguards to prevent Cabinet members with private investments to prevent them from abusing their prerogatives, the President replied, "their conscience."

"It is only the feeling of decency guided by his own conscience," he said, "that really would prevent him from making undue advantage in wielding his power."

The President sent today a message of congratulations to Mrs. Josefina Phodaca-Ambrosio, member of the Philippine delegation to the International Federation of Women Lawyers, for her unanimous election as president of the organization at its current convention in Los Angeles, California.

A similar message was sent today by Col. Mamerto Montemayor on behalf of all technical assistants in Malacañang. Mrs. Ambrosio is at present one of the technical assistants in the Office of the President.

August 23.—THIS MORNING, the President did not receive any visitors. He stayed in his bedroom reading the morning papers. Later, he went over some pending state papers.

THIS afternoon the President further expanded his house-cleaning drive as he directed the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency (Pcape) to wage an all-out war against “economic saboteurs” in government corporations.

The President instructed PCAPE officials to look into reported cases of anomalies in the National Marketing Corporation, the National Rice and Corn Corporation, the Land Tenure Administration, the People’s Homesite and Housing Corporation, the Bureau of Immigration, the Central Bank, and other government entities which had something to do with the nation’s economy.

Said the President during a two-hour conference with PCAPE officials at Malacañang this afternoon: “Investigate these government agencies. Get all the facts. I do not care whether the offenders are my relatives, friends, or political supporters. You and I are only doing our duty as expected of us by the people.”

The President also reiterated his full support of the raids being conducted by the constabulary-revenue-customs teams as long as they are made properly. He said he was awaiting the progress report on these raids which is being prepared by Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez and Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas.

Present at the conference at Malacañang this afternoon were Justice Buenaventura Ocampo, PCAPE chairman; Capt. Francisco Calinawan, vice-chairman; Maj. Federico Salcedo, special assistant on communications; Maximo Mecerén, special assistant on research and analysis; and Maj. Teodulo Natividad.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon formally accepted on behalf of the Philippine Government agricultural tools and farm implements worth ₱200,000 from N. A. Fittinghoff, president of the Koppel (Philippines) Inc., in turnover ceremonies held in Pier 9, South Harbor.

These tools and implements were donated to the farmers of the Philippines by the United States Industries, Inc., mother company of Koppel (Philippines) Inc.

In accepting the farm implements, President Garcia said “the material value of this donation, impressive as it is, pales beside the value count of the spirit with which it has been given, for these tools represent the goodwill and warm-heartedness that the United States feels towards the Filipinos.”

Five farmers from Cainta, Rizal, representatives of agricultural workers all over the country, were special guests at the turnover ceremonies. They were Igmidio de Guzman, Ambrosio Cruz, Florencio Legaspi, Pedro Javier, and Victor Leble.

Easily the most expensive among the implements donated was an Axelson heavy-duty engine lathe which is valued at ₱80,000. It will be installed at the machine shop of the NASSCO on Engineer Island, where it will be of greatest use in our industrial projects.

Agricultural implements worth ₱120,000 consisting of 1,500 plows, 1,000 wheelbarrows, 4,000 spades, 1,000 corn-grinders, and 1,000 handsaws were also presented to the Government of the Philippines by the United States Industries, Inc.

The token presentation of these farm tools and implements had been made during the recent state visit of President Garcia to the United States by John I. Snyder, Jr., president and chairman of the board of the United States Industries, Inc.

Among those present at the turnover ceremonies were U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, ICA Director Paul D. Summers, Agricultural Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez, Education Secretary Manuel Lim. SWA Administrator Amparo Villamor, Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia, and ACCFA Administrator Ernesto T. Jimenez.

Distribution of these tools and implements to Filipino farmers will be made through the ACCFA.

The President motored to Pier 9, South Harbor, at 5 o'clock this afternoon, to accept the turnover of 8,500 agricultural tools and implements.

President's Month in Review: August 16-31, 1958

August 16.—THE President was in bad humor this morning after reading newspaper reports that he was heading for a “showdown” with Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez.

“This is no longer objective reporting,” the President was reported to have told Acting Press-Secretary Guillermo V. Sison whom he summoned to the Palace after reading the newspaper account.

The President told Sison to issue a denial to the story and later called Legislative Secretary Jose C. Nable to do something about it.

President Garcia told his early callers today he had never been at loggerheads with the Senate President and described their conference in Malacañang last Thursday as “cordial and devoted to drafting campaign plans.”

It was learned that the President had summoned the Senate Leader, who is concurrently president of the Nacionalista Party, on becoming the general campaign manager in the coming political drive. However, Rodriguez was reported to have said that his designation would depend on the senatorial candidates who have to ratify the President's choice.

President Garcia later conferred with his running mate, Speaker Jose B. Laurel, Jr., for almost two hours. The conference was held behind closed doors.

However, a Malacañang spokesman told newsmen last night the President and the Speaker discussed campaign plans and decided to devote more time in campaigning in Tagalog provinces.

Laurel conceded that the President may lose in these areas unless a concentrated campaign was waged.

Sison disclosed part of the subjects taken up in the conference and said that if these matters were kept under wraps again, newsmen may speculate on another Garcia-Laurel “showdown.”

After the President's conference with Laurel, he received Lirio Tongson, vice-chairman of the board of directors of the UNICEF.

AT noon the President swore in former Director of Labor Agapito Burgos as member of the Nacionalista Party, before ranking political leaders of the Cagayan Valley who witnessed the ceremony at the President's study room.

Burgos, who had launched his candidacy for Congress in the first district of Cagayan, announced his withdrawal from the race in order to dedicate his time in campaigning for the entire Nacionalista ticket.

He also expressed the hope that his withdrawal from the Cagayan congressional race would help solidify the North and boost the leadership of Secretary Eulogio Balao in Cagayan.

Burgos rose from the ranks and served as director of labor under the late Presidents Quirino and Magsaysay. He said he retired from the government service when the Department of Labor was reorganized.

Sponsors of the new Nacionalista were Secretary Balao, Gov. Ramon Caro of Isabela, former Gov. Vicente Formoso of Cagayan, Rep. Delfin Albano of Isabela, and ex-Rep. Domingo Siason of Cagayan.

The President also received Rep. Ismael Veloso and Gov. Alejandro Almendras, both of Davao, in separate conferences. Earlier in the morning he received Gov. Valeriano Gatuslao of Occidental Negros and Isidro Rodriguez of Rizal.

Then the President received a delegation of sanitary inspectors, led by their president, Carlos E. Cabantac, who promised to support the Administration's rural health program. The sanitary inspectors are at present holding their fifth national convention at the San Lazaro Hospital compound.

August 11.—UPON the recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Parole, President Garcia before leaving for Baguio this morning granted 22 conditional pardons, four absolute pardons, one special absolute pardon, and two commutation of sentences.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon was guest speaker at the graduation ceremonies of the Harvard Second Advanced Management Program in the Far East, held at the St. Louis College auditorium in Baguio City.

Conducted by faculty members from the Harvard University's Graduate School of Business Administration, the advance course which lasted eight weeks had been attended by businessmen from seven Asian countries; namely, Burma, India, Indonesia, Japan, Pakistan, Thailand, and the Philippines.

The President's speech lasted about 40 minutes. He was introduced to the cosmopolitan gathering by Pablo R. Suarez, Jr., one of the graduates from the Philippines.

Other speakers were Mons. William Brasseur, vicar apostolic of Mt. Province, who gave the invocation; Faustino R. Lozada, president of the graduating class; and Dr. Harry L. Hansen, dean of the Advanced Management Program, both of whom delivered welcome addresses; Ramon V. del Rosario, chairman of the program's executive committee; and Amir Chiney, from Pakistan.

The President arrived in Baguio about 2:15 p.m. after more than six hours' motor trip from Manila. The presidential car had to proceed slowly along the highway the whole morning, sometimes, at not more than 20 miles an hour, owing to heavy blinding rains.

Originally intending to take a plane for Baguio, the Chief Executive finally decided to take a car on the insistence of Col. Urbano Caldoza, Civil Aeronautics Administrator, because of the inclement weather.

At Marilao, Bulacan, at 9:10 a.m., the presidential car figured in a near mishap when a jeepney with a Manila license plate, running at a fast clip from the opposite direction, suddenly swerved and smashed into a security car driving a few feet ahead of the presidential car.

The accident was attributed to a mechanical defect of the jeepney, as its front left wheel flew off, hitting the presidential car. The Chief Executive alighted from his car and proceeded only after ascertaining that no one in the jeepney was hurt.

AT exactly 12 noon, while going through a barrio in Moncada, Tarlac, a two-year-old child suddenly emerged from one of the houses and raced across the street. The slow moving traffic jeep from the IMA which had offered to lead the presidential motorcade through Tarlac province, had to ram into a fence on the opposite side of the street to avoid the child.

The President again alighted and in no time found himself surrounded by barrio folks who were pleasantly surprised to find the head of the nation suddenly in their midst. He talked to the people and expressed gratification over the fact that the child, except for light bruises for having stumbled on the street, was otherwise unhurt.

Finally arriving in Baguio early in the afternoon, the President proceeded direct to the St. Louis College auditorium for the graduation ceremonies. Without having his lunch, he stayed at the auditorium until the graduation rites ended at 4:30 p.m. The President saw the program through. He shook hands with each of the 108 graduates, along with the Harvardian faculty members who conducted the advanced business course.

The President arrived at the Guest House at 5:30 p.m. and, after a brief rest, received several callers.

August 18.—PRESIDENT Garcia had a heavy schedule of callers at the Guest House today. The President started the morning by hearing mass at the Guest House. Following breakfast the President started receiving callers.

A big delegation of La Union mayors and political leaders, accompanied by Rep. Francisco Ortega, called on the President to reiterate their pledge of loyalty “in order to erase any misunderstanding about their stand in the forthcoming national elections.”

Top officers of the Philippine Military Academy also called to pay their respects. They were accompanied by Col. Oscar Rialp, acting PMA superintendent. In the course of their call, the PMA officers discussed with the President new policies being adopted by the Academy to further improve that military institution. The President expressed his belief that the traditional hazing had no longer a place in modern education, particularly because in the Philippine Military Academy the cadets are being subjected to rigid mental and physical examinations prior to their admission. He said that the practice of hazing was already outdated.

A delegation headed by Rep. Luis Hora of Mountain Province called on the President and requested improvements for their respective barrios in the suburbs of Baguio.

Another delegation from the barrios of Hillside and Dagsian, accompanied by Rep. Ramon Mitra and Mayor Alfonso Tabora, saw the Chief Executive. The group thanked the President for giving them their school building and feeder roads.

The President had luncheon with Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, who consulted him on problems of his office.

IN the afternoon, the Chief Executive received Mons. William Brassour, vicar apostolate of Mountain Province, who accompanied a delegation from the PACDAL Catholic Council which paid their respects.

The President is expected to return to Manila tomorrow morning to fulfill a speaking engagement with the PTUC at 11 a.m. at the National Press Club Building.

August 19.—PRESIDENT Garcia stayed awake in Baguio all of last night and caught up with his sleep aboard the presidential train that brought him and a group of newsmen to Manila this morning.

Mansion House sources said the President stayed late into the night with Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona and discussed contingent fund allocations to flood-stricken areas.

Just before dawn, the President switched from state papers to chess. He played with Col. Nicanor Jimenez until four o'clock in the morning.

After drinking a cup of coffee, the President motored to Damortis where a presidential train awaited to take him to Manila.

President Garcia had planned to fly to Manila but was advised against doing so owing to the inclement weather.

President Garcia gave a brief press conference aboard the presidential train and later repaired to his suite where he slept throughout the way to Manila.

After a brief rest in Malacañang, the President motored to the National Press Club where he addressed the Philippine Trade Union Council.

He went down to the third floor of the NPC and joined newsmen at the bar. He offered drinks to newsmen and paid the chits.

From the NPC, the President returned to Malacañang.

After a few minutes' rest, the President motored to Quezon City where he led the nation in observing the 79th birthday of the late President Quezon.

He read a prepared speech which started in the national language and later switched to English.

"The whole nation offers to his (Quezon's) memory the most beautiful flowers of a thousand fragrance culled from the very heart of the people's Garden of Love and Gratitude.

"It was his cherished dream to send the sunbeams of contentment and happiness into every hut and heart.

"But I would like to add that in our preoccupation for charting the course of our Ship of State amidst the Sargasso Sea of international relations

"He dipped his insight into the mechanics of the human heart and the dynamics of the human soul"

He delivered his first address before the Philippine Trade Union Council at the National Press Club Building at 11 a.m.

In the afternoon the President was the principal speaker in Quezon City which celebrated President Quezon's birthday anniversary.

August 20.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning received the pledge of the officials and members of the Moslem Pilgrimage Association of the Philippines to support his candidacy.

Sheik Abdul Racman Pacasum, president of the association, transmitted the pledge to the President in the course of his call on the Chief Executive.

Pacasum also informed the President that the association would conduct a pilgrimage to Mecca sometime early next year. For the last three years there had been no pilgrimage to Mecca. Pacasum added.

Officials of the President Magsaysay's Rural Organization accompanied former PPP organizers in Mindoro Oriental who were sworn in as Nacionalista members by the President, Socorro Veloria, provincial coordinator and organizer-at-large of the Progressive Party of the Philippines (MPM), told the President that she had been convinced that there could be no other candidate better fitted for the presidency than the present incumbent.

The other new Nacionalistas were Roberto Tenorio, Ofelia Acedillo, and Serenidad Acedillo. They were accompanied by Tereso Dumon, Capt. Sofronio Tagaro, and Jose Sarte, a lawyer.

After receiving Speaker Jose B. Laurel, Jr., NP vice-presidential candidate, and Sen. Francisco Delgado in the Malacañang music room, the President went down to the social hall to receive a big delegation of Caviteños led by Mayor Benigno Guinto of Bacoor, president of the Cavite Mayors' League, Mayor Isaac Tolentino of Tagaytay City, and Mayor Fidel Dones of Cavite City.

THE President today signed a proclamation declaring Friday, August 30, 1957, a special public holiday only in the province of Bulacan.

Marcelo H. del Pilar, who used the nom de plume Plaridel in his struggles in Spain to obtain reforms for the Philippines during the Spanish regime, was born in Bulacan, Bulacan, on August 30, 1850.

The Samahang Bulacan requested the President to sign the proclamation to give the people of Bulacan the opportunity to celebrate Del Pilar's birthday with fitting ceremonies.

PRESIDENT Garcia received the credentials of Ministers Ty Kim Sour of Cambodia and Phouvong Phimmasone of Laos in separate ceremonies held at Malacañang this afternoon.

The ceremonies marked the formal opening of the first diplomatic relations between the Philippines and those states, in line with the Administration's policy of establishing closer economic, cultural, and diplomatic ties between this country and its neighbors in the Far East.

Laos and Cambodia are the last sovereign states in this part of the world with which the Philippines has heretofore not established diplomatic relations. Phouvong who is concurrently ambassador to Vietnam and Ty, who is concurrently minister to Thailand, are accredited here as non-resident ministers of their respective countries. Their Philippine counterpart is Minister Mariano Espeleta, Philippine minister to Vietnam, who had been also accredited as non-resident envoy to Laos and Cambodia.

In presenting their credentials, the new envoys pledged to devote their utmost efforts to the accomplishments of their mission; namely, the furtherance of friendly relations between the Philippines and their countries.

The President in his response welcomed the new diplomats on behalf of the Filipino people and assured them of full cooperation on the part of the Philippine Government in the accomplishment of their missions.

The credential-presentation ceremony for the Cambodian minister started about 4 p.m. Then followed that for the Laoan minister at 5 p.m. Each of the ceremonies which were held at Malacañang's ceremonial hall lasted not more than 15 minutes.

Present at the rites were Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Assistant Executive Secretary Mariano Yenke, Jr., Ministers Tonias de Castro and Juan Arreglado, Counsellors Benito Bautista and Jose Ma. Espino, Manuel Zamora and Jose Estrada, protocol officers of Malacañang and the foreign office, respectively, and Pedro Angara, assistant protocol officer.

IN the evening the President received a large delegation of political leaders from Surigao which presented him with a resolution informing him that all the Nacionalista factions in their province were united in support of his candidacy.

In the course of the call, Ex-Gov. Pedro E. Escuyos, a Liberal, was inducted into the NP by the President. The delegation included Gov. Bernardino Almeda, Ex-Govs. Fernando Silvosa and Vicente Pimentel, and former Sen. Felixberto Verano.

Another delegation from Ilocos Norte headed by Dr. Rial Peralta also called in the evening. The group included Ex-Gov. Damaso Samonte and Mayors Vicente Hernando of San Nicolas, Esmeraldo Agabin of Badoe, Conrado Llaguno of Paoay, and Apolinario Madarila of Pinili.

Other delegation this evening were those from Laguna headed by Gov. Dominador Chipeco and Rep. Wenceslao Lagumbay and from Lopez, Quezon, led by Mayor Gregorio Yumul.

August 22.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning held a three-and-a-half hour conference with government and private financial and business experts to study means for laying the groundwork of implementing legislation passed by the Congress designed to bolster the country's economy.

Among the matters discussed were the exploitation of the nickel and iron deposits in Surigao, the development of NASSCO's steel mill project in Iligan, and the implementation of the Reparations Law.

As the conference was preliminary in nature, no details were revealed. However, the President stressed that he discussed with his conferees means to exploit the country's mineral resources and the expansion of the NASSCO steel mill plant with a view to accelerating the country's economic development through the generation of allied industries and providing jobs to thousands of the unemployed.

With regard to the Surigao mines which are reputed to be one of the most extensive in the world, it was pointed out that the Surigao mainland reserve alone is approximately 56,900 hectares while Nonoc Island has 4,321 hectares with a potential ore reserve for iron alone of about one billion tons or more. The other islands within the entire reserves are still unexplored.

In the exploration of about 336 hectares of the mainland area, the blocked-ore reserve estimates ran to 17 million tons positive and 50 million tons probable. A previous preliminary estimate of minable iron ore in the same area covering 10,000 hectares was 430 million tons, which included 275 million tons within easy hauling distance to the nearest harbor.

The nickel-bearing ore reserves in Nonoc Island have been estimated to date at 29 million metric tons of ferruginous laterite and serpentine containing 1.38 per cent nickel.

The President said that the implementation of the law providing for the establishment of a giant steel mill in Iligan City would start the establishment of other allied factories engaged in the manufacture of steel or which would use steel products.

The five-year expansion program of the NASSCO is divided into three phases with a goal to produce 200,000 tons of pig iron and to be converted to about 186,000 tons of steel.

The President said that the expansion of the steel mill in Iligan would contribute greatly to the development and growth of allied industries.

It was also pointed out at the conference that the development of the Surigao iron and nickel mines, together with the expansion of the NASSCO steel plant, would provide job opportunities to thousands of the unemployed.

The President also discussed ways and means of effectively implementing the Reparations Agreement with Japan.

The President said that he had asked the opinion and advice of government and private experts in economics and finance in his desire to speed up the implementation of the country's economic development program.

Those who were present at the conference were Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno, Sr.; RFC Chairman Eduardo Z. Romualdez; Alfonso Calalang, president of the Philippine Bankers Association; Monetary Board Member Vicente G. Sinco; Andres Soriano, Sr.; Andres Soriano, Jr.; Sebastian Ugarte; and Miguel Noel, a lawyer.

PRESIDENT Garcia at the Cabinet meeting this day signed a proclamation declaring Saturday, August 31, as a special public holiday throughout the Philippines to celebrate the 50th birthday anniversary of the late President Magsaysay.

The President and the Cabinet members also approved a tentative program to celebrate fittingly the occasion.

As submitted by Education Secretary Martin Aguilar, Jr., chairman of the committee in charge of the Magsaysay Day celebration, the observance starts at 7:30 a.m., Saturday, August 31, with a field mass to be said by Manila Archbishop Rufino Santos at the tomb of the late President at the North Cemetery.

After the mass, the official portrait of the late President will be unveiled. President Garcia will lead government officials, the family of the late President, admirers, and friends, in attending the ceremony which will also be featured by the laying of a wreath.

Lt. Col Nicolas Ortega, chief of Army chaplains, will be in charge of religious rites while Defense Secretary Eulogio Balao will take charge of the wreath-laying.

At 12 noon, Saturday, a one-minute silence will be observed throughout the country in prayer for the late President. Sirens will be sounded all over the country to mark the start of the one-minute silence observance.

At 4 p.m. a Magsaysay youth rally will be held on the Luneta with President Garcia as the guest speaker. The rally will be featured by the conferring of awards on the medical students and the NARRA Consultative Council of Students volunteers, by Health Secretary Paulino Garcia and Mrs. Remedios Fortich, respectively.

Other numbers of the rally will include an invocation by Mons. Vicente Reyes, welcome address by Ignacio Debuque, Jr. (in charge of the affair), opening remarks by Rafael M. Sales, and introduction of the President by Secretary Aguilar.

During the rally a tape recording of the late President's last speech will be rebroadcast.

In the evening, at six o'clock, a popular band concert will be held on the Luneta with the PC, the AFP, and other bands assisting.

UPON representation of Commerce Secretary Oscar Ledesma and Carlos Quirino, in charge of the No-Dollar Import Office, the President and the Cabinet approved some revisions in the supplementary rules and regulations governing barter under Republic Act 1410, which had been approved by the Cabinet in its last meeting on August 14.

Features of the revised supplementary rules are that the rules should not be made retroactive in nature, and that the period for the validity of barter permits for exports was increased from 60 days to 90 days after the date of the permit.

Only Rules Nos. 4, 9, and 10 have been revised to read as follows:

a. For exports, ninety (90) days after date of permit.

b. For imports, ninety (90) days after negotiation of the corresponding export. If the corresponding export under the permit is not made within ninety (90) days of issue, the barter permit lapses completely and becomes invalid.

If the collateral import under the permit is not made within ninety (90) days after the negotiation of the corresponding export, the right to import shall lapse and the agent banks holding the foreign exchange corresponding to the export previously made shall within 24 hours sell such exchange to the Central Bank.

“9. These supplementary rules and regulations shall apply to all barter permits which may hereafter be granted.

PRESIDENT Garcia and the Cabinet approved in principle the immediate settlement of gratuities to retiring employees of the Manila Railroad Co. as soon as the gratuities were due.

A hitch developed in the payment of the gratuities of these employees because of the fact that the MRR had failed to pay to the GSIS its corresponding share of premiums for the retirement of employees. Upon explanation of Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona that these employees had religiously paid their premiums, the President said that it was unfair for the government to withhold the payment of gratuities to these employees because of the MRR's default.

The President said that the government should meet its obligation to the employees and that arrangements should be made in the settlement of the MRR's deficit payments to the GSIS.

The President appointed a committee, with Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez as chairman and Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona and OEC Administrator Juan Concon as members, to study the mechanics of the payment of gratuities to the employees and the manner the MRR could make up for its defaulted payments incurred during the last administration.

UPON representation of Health Secretary Paulino Garcia, the President and the Cabinet agreed that the appointments of some 100 physicians already approved for position at the National Mental Hospital be subject to a screening of a committee which had been created for the purpose before these new appointments are made effective.

Secretary Garcia informed the President that before he left for his recent trip abroad, he had created a screening committee which had gone over more than 3,000 applicants for 280 openings' available at the National Mental Hospital.

He said that the prospective appointees to these positions had to be screened for their suitability for their specialized kind of job in order that they could perform their duties effectively.

The Health Secretary, however, said that during his absence some 100 applicants who had not undergone the necessary screening to determine their technical suitability for the job had been appointed.

He added that it was not fair that those who had undergone the screening and had been certified to as suitable should not receive the proper consideration they were entitled to. This, he remarked, was not fair to the patients, either.

The President said that in justice to the 3,000 applicants who had undergone the screening tests and in order that those to be finally appointed to the National Mental Hospital would be really competent for their technical work, the 100 new appointees should be screened by the committee.

Secretary Garcia said that those who would pass the test would be given permanent appointments.

THE Cabinet granted to Antonio V. Arizabal, Jr., metallurgical engineer of the Iligan Steel Mills, an extension of his leave of absence without pay to enable him to pursue advance courses and research in metallurgical engineering in the United States. Young Arizabal graduated with an M.S. in metallurgical engineering last June with one of the highest scholastic records from Carnegie Institute of Technology Graduate School in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He is at present working for his Ph. D. in metallurgical engineering in Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Iligan Steel with a capital of ₱50 million has recently entered into a series of contracts with European and American firms for the establishment here of the most modern integrated steel plant. The multi-million peso steel mill will process Philippine iron ores to supply billet requirements of the five rolling and blooming mills now operating in the country.

A STEADY increase in profits in the operation of government corporations since 1954 was reported by Juan Concon, acting administrator of the Office of Economic Coordination, at the Cabinet meeting.

Concon reported that the fiscal year ending in June 1957 alone gave a net increase of ₱4,847,824.93 over that of the preceding fiscal year. He attributed the favorable trend in the results of corporate operations to the following factors:

- (1) Improved methods of operations;
- (2) Scientific and efficient management;
- (3) Rigid economy through effective budgetary control;
- (4) Effective implementation and coordination of economic measures; and
- (5) Increase in the volume of business and proportionate decrease in the total cost of production and other operating expenses.

The administrator pointed out, however, that the comparison was only for 12 corporations instead of 17 in the preceding fiscal year, as five corporations had been transferred to the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources on January 16, 1957. Corporations transferred were the Abaca Corporation of the Philippines, the Philippine Coconut Administration, the Philippine Sugar Institute, the Philippine Tobacco Administration, and the National Resettlement and Rehabilitation Administration.

A statement of statistical data on the combined results of financial operations of corporations in the OEC group for eight fiscal years under the past and present administration was also presented by Concon.

Concon noted that the fiscal year 1953-54 belonged to both the past and the present administrations, that is, the first half from July 1, 1953, to December 31, 1953, belonged to the former administration, and the second half from January 1 to June 30, 1954, to the present administration.

“So it can be safely stated that the big loss of more than P17 million was incurred during the last year of the past administration on account mainly of mismanagement,” Concon added.

President Garcia presided over the Cabinet meeting which was held at the Council of State room from 12 noon to 2:30 p.m. Before the President's arrival, Justice Secretary Pedro Tuason presided over the meeting.

THE President issued Executive Order No. 263, creating the Pinaglabanan Commemorative Commission charged with the erection of an appropriate monument or memorial to commemorate the first battle for the emancipation of the Filipino people which took place in San Juan del Monte, Rizal, in August 1896.

In issuing the executive order, the President entrusted the commission with soliciting voluntary contributions from the public, selecting the site of the monument or memorial, and supervising its construction and erection.

The President pointed out in his executive order that a campaign to enlist public support in the project had already been launched on the initiative of "The Spirit of 1896," a patriotic organization many of whose members had given up their lives for the freedom of the Philippines. He added, however, that the perpetuation of the memory of the Battle of Pinaglabanan was the concern not only of any locality or entity but of the entire nation. [See Executive Order No. 203, p.—for the composition of the Pinaglabanan Commemorative Commission.]

The Provincial Treasurer and the Provincial Auditor of Rizal shall act as treasurer and auditor ex officio, respectively, of the Commission,

THE First Lady today was given a warm reception in Bulacan where she officiated in the inauguration of five government projects.

The projects inaugurated were the following:

- (1) The Longos pre-fabricated schoolhouse in Calumpit and the Calum-pit-Iba-Hagonoy feeder roads;
- (2) The Pihagtulayan and the Paombong elementary schools;
- (3) The NAWASA pumping stations at barrios Concepcion and Sabang-Baliuag;
- (4) The SWA administered Bulacan Boys' Welfare Home at Pinaod, San Ildefonso; and
- (5) The Rural Health Center at Pulong Buhangin, Sta. Maria.

Traveling under a heavy rain, the First Lady's car plowed over muddy barrio roads while school children and barrio folks stood by the roadside cheering the First Lady's party.

At the inauguration of the Iba-Calumpit-Hagonoy barrio road, the First Lady braved a drizzle. She cut the ceremonial ribbon under umbrellas held for her by barrio folks.

In her brief speeches the First Lady expressed gratitude for the warm welcome afforded her. She said she would continue to support the Administration's rural uplift program.

Mrs. Garcia was accompanied to Bulacan by Sen. Pacita M. Gonzalez, Social Welfare Administrator Amparo Villamor, Mrs. Eulogio Balao, and Mrs. Dolores Gaerlan. She was fetched from Malacañang by Mrs. Alejo Santos, wife of the Bulacan governor.

Arriving at the Bulacan provincial capitol in Malolos at 9:30 a.m., the First Lady was greeted by Bulacan Governor Alejo Santos, Rep. Rogaciano Mercado, and other provincial and municipal officials. They escorted the First Lady to the sites of all projects she inaugurated.

The First Lady was back at Malacañang about 8 p.m.

"President Garcia believes that it is the privilege of every qualified Filipino to run for public office. The President will not in any manner stand in the way of Col. Mondoñedo to seek an elective position. After the colonel has filed his certificate of candidacy, his retirement is a matter of course, unless he has committed anomalies while in the military service."

August 22.—COMPLAINING of slight indisposition, the President cancelled his appointments this morning, including the scheduled induction of four new Cabinet members at 10 o'clock. His physician said he was suffering from a bad cold.

However, he had breakfast with other leaders, and after a brief exchange of views with them, the President motored out of Malacañang to an undisclosed place. It was learned he went to his hideout at Fort McKinley.

THIS afternoon, feeling somewhat better, the President administered the oaths of office to Ambassador Felixberto Serrano as acting secretary of foreign affairs, Rep. Angel M. Castaño as ad interim secretary of labor, Assistant Executive Secretary Mariano Yenke, Jr., as ad interim undersecretary of national defense, and Col. Nicanor Jimenez as ad interim assistant executive secretary.

The ceremonies which were held at the social hall in Malacañang were witnessed by senators and representatives; ranking officials of the Departments of Foreign Affairs, Labor, and Defense; and labor leaders, relatives, friends, and admirers of the new appointees.

In inducting Ambassador Serrano to the premier Cabinet portfolio, the President expressed confidence that Serrano would "conduct the affairs of the nation in such a way as will give glory and honor to the Filipino people." Serrano succeeds Raul Manglapus, who had been holding the foreign affairs secretaryship in an acting capacity since March when the then Vice-President and concurrently Secretary of Foreign Affairs Garcia assumed the Presidency on the death of President Magsaysay.

On the induction of Rep. Castaño to the labor portfolio, the President pointed out that the role of labor had grown in importance in the economic security of the country. He said that the Philippines was trying to establish an example to Asian countries in ideal labor-management relations, and expressed hope that Castaño's leadership would be instrumental in bringing labor and management to work "not against one another but with one another to enrich the economy of the nation and the Filipino people." Castaño succeeds Eleuterio Adevos, resigned.

Regarding the appointments of Assistant Executive Secretary Yenke to the undersecretaryship of defense and Col. Jimenez to the assistant executive secretaryship, the Chief Executive, likewise, expressed confidence that the two men with their long and distinguished military service behind them, would be assets to the offices to which they were just inducted. Yenke succeeds Jose M. Crisol, resigned, while Jimenez takes the post vacated by Yenke in Malacañang.

Despite the inclement weather, hundreds of people trooped to Malacañang and jam-packed the spacious social hall to witness the ceremonies. First to be inducted was Ambassador Serrano at 4:35 p.m. Then he was followed by Rep. Castaño, Secretary Yenke, and Col. Jimenez. The induction rites ended about 5 p.m. with the President's brief remarks.

Among those present were Speaker Protempore Daniel Z. Romualdez, House Majority Floor Leader Arturo W. Tolentino. Sen. Jose P. Laurel, Defense Secretary Eulogio Balao, Gov. Ifeliciano Leviste of Batangas, Brig. Gen. Manuel Cabal, Counselor Tomas de Castro of the Department of Foreign Affairs, and labor leaders.

IN the afternoon President Garcia received Archbishop Rufino J. Santos, who brought to the President's attention a petition of the professors and employees of the University of Santo Tomas requesting the suspension of the application of the Social Security Act to the U.S.T.

According to the petition, the U.S.T. professors and employees prefer their own social security system because it is more beneficial to them than that of the government.

The President told the Archbishop that this matter had been discussed in the Cabinet meeting on August 21 and it was the consensus that there was nothing in the law which would empower the President to postpone the effectivity of the Social Security Act. The President, however, said that an opinion was voiced in the Cabinet that it might be possible for a private corporation to choose between the retirement system of the government or the corporation's own system, depending on which is more beneficial to the employees.

The Chief Executive told Archbishop Santos that this opinion was referred to Justice Secretary Pedro Tuason for a more careful study.

The President and the Archbishop Conferred for about 30 minutes in the music room immediately after the Chief Executive had officiated at the induction ceremonies at the social hall.

August 23.—PHYSICIANS of the V. Luna General Hospital pronounced TM President Garcia “fit as a fiddle” for the exigencies of the political campaign after a thorough check-up this morning.

President Garcia spent a great part of his day at the V. Luna General Hospital checking up on the progress of the recovery of patients he had sent for treatment there. At the same time, he had a thorough physical check-up preparatory to his taking to the field to campaign.

The President was heartened to know that the patients, most of them emergency cases, whom he had sent to the V. Luna General Hospital for treatment were fast regaining their health.

Upon reading in a local magazine an article on the condition of a ten-year old schoolboy, Delfin Bayan, whom he had ordered treated at the VLGH, President Garcia decided to visit the boy, including all the other patients whom he had sent to the hospital.

President Garcia was surprised to see little Delfin, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Maria Bayan, and his uncle, Carlos Pascua, very much improved in health, able to walk and speak, and able to see with his left eye which had been damaged. Delfin greeted the President, saying, “Mr. President, I thank you for sending me to the hospital for treatment. I am well now.”

Delfin, a 10-year old schoolboy from barrio Tangil, Laoag, Ilocos Norte, had suffered from grenade shrapnels inbedded in his skull, with his left eyesight affected. First taken to the North General Hospital, he was later on transferred to the VLGH by order of the President for observation and possible brain surgery.

Lt. Col. Melchor M. Javier, one of the leading brain surgeons of the hospital, who had attended to the boy, said that nature had taken its course in relieving Delfin of his illness, adding that for the present there was no need for a brain surgery. However, the boy is still under further observation and treatment in order that he would recover completely. The boy's mother and uncle thanked the President.

While in the hospital, the President decided to have a medical check-up and was given a thorough looking over by Army physicians under the supervision of Col. Luis Martinez, VLGH commanding officer.

After being given X-Ray tests and electro-cardiography, the Army physicians, in consultation with the presidential physicians. Drs. Luis Gaerlsn and Antonio Guytingco, gave the Chief Executive a clean bill of health.

Acting Press Secretary Guillermo V. Sison said that according to the President's physicians, the President “is fit as a fiddle and is ready for the exigencies of the campaign.”

The President underwent medical examination from 9: 45 a.m. to 11 a.m. From the examination room, the President walked up to the second floor of the hospital and proceeded to Ward I, where he visited Second Lieutenants Augusto Flores and Jesus de la Cruz, who had been victims of two ambushes in Sulu last August 17.

Flores had been shot through the thigh while De la Cruz had suffered gunshot wound in the chest. The two lieutenants figured in two separate ambushes, the first in sitio Baono in Panamau District, while the second in barrio Pantao, Biloan, Sulu.

The President congratulated the two officers who are on the way to recovery, for their bravery and directed that good care be given to them.

From there the President proceeded to the Surgical Ward for officers, where the Chief Executive greeted the patients and wished them good luck and fast recovery. Among those in the ward was Cadet Juanito Rimando, who had been one of the hazing victims at the Philippine Military Academy.

From there, the President proceeded to Ward II, where patients requiring brain surgery and orthopedic treatment were confined. While in the ward, the President went from one bed to another, greeting each patients and inquiring into the progress of the recovery of each. He was pleasantly surprised to find in this ward several of the patients whom he had ordered brought to the hospital for emergency treatment.

Among these was four-year old Aniceto Manalo, whom the President had ordered brought to the hospital, for surgery to remove a stone in his bladder. The President was happy to know that the operation was over and the little boy was well on the way to recovery.

The President wondered at the skill of the VLGH surgeons and physicians who had treated these patients who are now on the way to health, although they were in an almost hopeless condition at the time they were brought to the hospital.

The Chief Executive spent about an hour visiting the patients in the wards, leaving the hospital at 12:30 p.m.

The President was accompanied from Malacañang by Acting Press Secretary Guillermo V. Sison and Drs. Guytingco and Gaerlan. The President later on was joined at the VLGH by Defense Undersecretary Mariano Yenka, Jr., and Assistant Executive Secretary Nicanor Jimenez.

From the hospital, the President motored to the residence of Lieut. Gen. Jesus Vargas (ret.) where he ate his lunch about 1:30 p.m.

EXECUTIVE Secretary Fortunato de Leon this morning inducted into office Primitivo Ballesteros and Mariano Ledesma as acting director and assistant director, respectively, of the Bureau of Printing.

Ballesteros replaces Director Mateo Ferrer, who retired recently. Present during the ceremony which was held at Secretary De Leon's office at Malacañang were relatives and division chiefs of the Bureau of Printing, including Mrs. Ballesteros, Superintendent of Works Cristino de Guzman, Composing Division Chief Zoilo Nasal, Administrative Officer Eutropio Floresca, and Power Plant Chief Nicasio Ramos.

President Garcia received the credentials of Minister Lincoln Hoon Kim of Korea in a simple but impressive ceremony held at the Malacañang Ceremonial Hall this afternoon upon his return from the V. Luna General Hospital.

After presenting his credentials, Minister Kim pledged to maintain and strengthen the close and friendly relations existing between the Philippines and Korea. These close ties of friendship are based on the common dedication of the two peoples to the ideals of freedom, independence, and democracy, he said.

The Korean minister recalled the part played by Filipino soldiers during the communist aggression in Korea and pointed out that because of developments of recent history, the peoples of the Philippines and Korea play a most vital role in preserving freedom and democracy in Asia.

The new envoy stated that the national unification of Korea, which is the prime objective of the United Nations' effort in Korea, is the most pressing task to be accomplished with the continued positive support of the free world alliance, of which the Philippines is an important member. He added that the economic rehabilitation of Korea to cure the ills of communist aggression is the next important task.

In his response the President said that the close ties linking both peoples must be maintained and solidified further if they are to play a vital role in the preservation of democracy in Asia.

Present at the ceremony were Acting Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, Executive Secretary Fortunato de Leon, Sens. Cipriano Primicias and Alejo Mabanag, Ministers Juan Arreglado and Tomas de Castro, and Counselor Jose Ma. Espino

President Garcia today received from Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona a report on the comparative statements of annual expenditures of the office of the President during 3 ½ years under the Liberal Party administration, from fiscal years 1951 to 1954, and those of the Nacionalista Party administration from 1954 to 1957.

In submitting his report to the President, Aytona said that he would like the people to know that the Office of the President during the Liberal administration spent in 3 ½ years for such items as travel abroad, discretionary fund, Belo fund, and salaries for miscellaneous and emergency employees and laborers the total sum of ₱3,224,799.99 as against ₱1,949,932.09 spent during the Nacionalista administration. Aytona emphasized that the previous administration spent ₱1,274.867.90 more than the present administration has spent.

In his itemized report to the President, Aytona revealed that during the 3 ½ fiscal years of the Liberal administration, the total spent for travel abroad was ₱390,923.25 as compared to ₱213,067.13 spent by the Nacionalista administration.

The other items were compared as follows: Discretionary fund, ₱998,763.23 (LP) as against ₱534,778.67 (NP); Belo fund, ₱1,637,417.20 (LP) as against ₱1,102,966.29 (NP); and salaries for miscellaneous and emergency employees and laborers, ₱191,696.31 (LP) as against ₱99,120 (NP).

Aytona said that among these four items, the expenditures for the Belo fund was the biggest item in which the Liberal Party administration had exceeded the Nacionalista administration by ₱534,450.91.

IN the evening the President administered the oath of office to Gonzalo Gonzalez as member of the Social Security Commission at a simple ceremony held at the Malacañang ceremonial hall.

The appointment of Gonzalez to that body completes the membership of the commission. Other ISSC members are GSIS General Manager Rodolfo Andal, chairman, Labor Secretary Angel Castano, Health Secretary Paulino Garcia, Social Welfare Administrator Amparo Villamor, Ildefonso Remolina, representing labor, and Leopoldo Rovira, Jr., representing management. Gonzalez represents business interests.

Present at the ceremony were SSC Chairman Andal and Sens. Cipriano Primicias and Pedro Sabido.

Earlier, the President received Sens. Cipriano Primicias and Alejo Mabanag, who accompanied political leaders from Ilocos Norte, including Sarat Mayor Gabriel Reyes, former Congressman Vicente Lazo, and former Gov. Bamaso Samonte.

Then the President received Bulacan Gov. Alejo Santos, Rep. Rogaciano Mercado, and Board Member Tomas Martin, who headed a large delegation composed of town mayors and political leaders from that province. Aside from reiterating their pledge to support the President's election bid, the delegation requested assistance for public improvements in Bulacan.

August 24.—PRESIDENT Garcia expressed optimism over the victory of the Nacionalista Party in the coming election, saying that the people would support the NP straight ticket because of the achievements the party has accomplished the last three years of administration.

In six speeches delivered since his arrival in Negros Occidental today, the President said the foremost accomplishment of the NP were the restoration of peace and order and the people's faith in the government. He said these were important because without peace and order and the people's faith in the government, all other programs of good government which the NP sought to undertake would have been impossible of implementation.

The President recalled the late President Magsaysay's promise to stamp out lawlessness when he ran under the NP banner in 1953. On assumption of office, President Magsaysay in no time fulfilled the promise and later proceeded to carry out the NP program of building artesian wells, barrio roads, prefab schoolhouses, and other projects designed to uplift conditions in outlying areas, he said.

He added, however, that the NP program was only one-fourth finished when RM died last March. He expressed the belief that the Filipino people would retain the NP in power in order to let it continue the program started by President Magsaysay.

The President received a royal welcome upon his arrival in Bacolod. Everywhere he went, people turned out en masse, cheering and waving "We are for Garcia" placards.

Landing at the Bacolod airport at 10 a.m. aboard PAF plane Dagohoy, the President met hundreds representing all towns of the province. He was met by Sen. Jose C. Locsin, Gov. Valeriano Gatuslao, and other local officials.

The President mounted the platform at the airfield and thanked the people for the spontaneous reception. He was introduced by Mayor Teofilo Cordova of Bacolod City. Speaker Laurel, who was with the party also spoke and defended himself from charges leveled against him and the Nacionalista Party.

Then the President and the Speaker headed a long motorcade to Bacolod City. All along the way, people from all walks of life lined the streets and cheered heartily as the presidential car passed by. Entering the city, the presidential party was forced to stop owing to large crowd in front of the Negros Occidental High School. The crowd refused to disperse until the President climbed on the hood of one of the escorting jeeps and said a few words to the enthusiastic welcomers.

At the city hall, the President had a brief conference with city officials. Then he proceeded to the University of Negros Occidental, where he and the Speaker addressed the student body in an open auditorium under the heat of the noonday sun.

About 1 p.m. the President and the Speaker again addressed a gathering of local officials who gave a luncheon in their honor at the University Club. About 3 p.m. the President and his party boarded a car and started the scheduled tour of northern municipalities of the province. The next stop was Talisay where people awaited him patiently for hours. The President and the Speaker addressed a huge crowd from a gaily decorated platform erected at the entrance of the Talisay market.

In his last speech delivered last night at the Bacolod plaza, the President said that he was seeking re-election not for power nor for wealth but because of his desire to complete the economic development program initiated by the late President Magsaysay.

He appealed to the Bacolod electorate to vote the straight Nacionalista ticket on the basis of the achievements of the Nacionalista administration like the re-establishment of peace and order and the restoration of the people's faith and confidence in the government.

He also said that one of the issues was whether or not the people wanted to preserve the democracy which the Nacionalistas had retrieved in 1953 after it had been lost in the maladministration of the Liberal regime.

Arriving at Tagbilaran, Bohol, at 10:45 this morning, the President was accorder a rousing welcome at the airport in spite of his wish for a quiet homecoming. People lined up both sides of the road from the airport to Tagbilaran and cheered him lustily.

August 28.—THIS morning the President continued his conferences with his financial and economic advisers in his determination to strengthen further the country's economy. He met separately with RFC Chairman Eduardo Z. Romualdez and Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno, Sr.

In his conferences the President took up with his advisers such matters as the needs of local industries, the rice problem, prices of prime commodities, and reparations. No details were given.

Romualdez and Cuaderno also briefed the President on the forthcoming annual conference of the International Monetary Fund to be held in Washington, D. C., on September 21 to 28, 1957, which they will both attend.

The Philippine delegation to the conference is composed of Miguel Cuaderno, Sr., governor; Eduardo Z. Romualdez, alternate governor; Commissioner Dominador Aytona, Felix de la Costa, Vicente G. Si Calalang, and H. B. Reyes, as members.

The President conferred separately with Romualdez and Cuaderno up to a few minutes before 12 noon. After the conference, the President met with General Emilio Aguinaldo and then proceeded to the Council of State room to preside over the Cabinet meeting.

This step was taken as a means to lower immediately the price of rice pending the arrival of the 500,000 cavans of rice on September 15 and an additional 400,000 cavans of rice toward the end of the month. This latter importation was approved today by the Cabinet in addition to the September 15 shipment in order to insure enough supply of rice and to stabilize its price.

The President and his Cabinet spent a greater part of their meeting tackling the rice problem. Aside from deciding on the sale of the special and fancy rice varieties at not higher than ₱6.95 a ganta as an immediate remedial measure and approving the additional 20,000 tons (400,000 cavans), the President and the Cabinet directed:

(1) The FACOMAs, through the ACCFA, to step up their milling of palay and to sell all their available rice to the NARIC so that this agency would have more stocks to sell to the public; and

(2) The NEC Presiding Officer Eduardo Z. Romualdez to make arrangements for the expeditious arrival in the Philippines of the 10,000 metric tons of rice already ordered from the United States.

The President said that in his trips to the provinces, he received complaints about the soaring price of rice. For this reason, he said, he had summoned to the Cabinet meeting NARIC Chairman Juan O. Chioco and NARIC General Manager Vicente Concepcion, together with acting ACCFA Administrator Ernesto Jimenez and NAMARCO General Manager Benjamin F. Estrella, in order to adopt practical measures of easing up the rice situation.

Chairman Chioco said that with the arrival of the 900,000 eavans of imported rice during the month of September and the forthcoming harvest, the country would soon have enough rice stocks to enable the NARIC to maintain the sale of this commodity at ₱0.85 a ganta.

The President turned down Chioco's resignation as NARIC chairman and instead authorized him to leave immediately in order to insure the early arrival of the additional 400,000 eavans of rice expected at the end of September.

The President said that this additional importation is necessary because September is a critical period and that it is imperative that the government has enough rice stocks in order to insure the sale of this staple food at authorized levels.

Acting ACCFA Administrator Jimenez informed the President and the Cabinet that the FACOMAs had sold to the NARIC 21,000 cavans of rice which had already been distributed. The President said that the FACOMAs should intensify their milling of palay, if possible, on a 24-hour basis so that they could sell more rice to the NARIC, which in turn would sell it to the consuming public.

The Chief Executive told Romualdez to make representations for the speedy shipment to the Philippines of the 10,000 metric tons of rice which had been ordered sometime ago from the United States. The arrival of these additional rice stocks, the President said, would further normalize the rice situation here.

Romualdez said that this U.S. rice is expected to come in two months. By that time, rice harvests will be in full swing throughout the Philippines.

The President's directive for the NARIC to sell special and fancy varieties of rice at not more than ₱0.95 a ganta was made after consultation with Chairman Chioco, Commerce Secretary Oscar Ledesma, and NAMARCO General Manager Estrella. It was agreed during the discussion that if losses would be suffered by the government as a result of the sale of these fancy rice varieties, the NARIC and the NAMARCO should share in the losses. The President directed Chioco and Estrella to work out the details regarding this matter,

UPON recommendation of Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, the Cabinet approved the request of Acting Education Secretary Martin Aguilar, Jr., for the creation of 206 additional extension teaching positions for elementary schools in various school divisions throughout the country. This will accommodate more school children who could not be admitted before. The money for this purpose was taken from the savings in the appropriations for extension classes.

The recommendation for the filling up of these additional positions had been taken up in a previous conference among Commissioner Aytona, Secretary Aguilar, and the director of public schools.

UPON recommendation of Health Secretary Paulino J. Garcia, the Cabinet approved the Philippine participation in the eighth session of the World Health Organization Regional Committee for the Western Pacific to be held in Kowloon, Hongkong, from September 5 to 11, 1957.

The Philippine representatives to the conference are Dr. Jesus A. Nolasco, officer in charge of the Bureau of Health, and Dr. Antonio Ejercito, project director of the Malaria Control Division, Public Health Research Laboratories.

Dr. Nolasco was likewise designated Philippine representative to the Travel Study Tour in Public Health Administration of the WHO for two weeks, one week in Taipeh and one week in Japan, immediately following the close of the eighth session of the WHO in Hongkong.

President Garcia presided over the Cabinet meeting from 12 noon to 2:30 p.m. The Cabinet meeting was held at the Council of State room.

Owing to other important conferences which the President attended prior to the Cabinet meeting, Justice Secretary Pedro Tuason presided over the meeting until the President's arrival.

The Cabinet meeting was attended for the first time by the newly appointed members, Foreign Secretary Felixberto Serrano and Labor Secretary Angel Castaño.

THE President at the Cabinet meeting approved the official program to be held on the 50th birthday anniversary of the late President Magsaysay on August 31.

Mrs. Luz Banzon Magsaysay accepted the invitation of the committee headed by Education Secretary Martin Aguilar, Jr., to be present at the ceremonies to be held in honor of her late husband. The Magsaysay children will also be in attendance.

IN the afternoon the President inducted Lieut. Gen. Jesus Vargas (Ret.) as ad interim secretary of national defense in an but impressive ceremony at the reception hall of Malacañang.

Gen. Vargas replaced Eulogio Balao, who resigned to run for the Senate under the NP ticket. The President inducted Vargas at 3:15 p.m., a few minutes after the regular Cabinet meeting had been adjourned.

Among those present at the induction were Senator Jose P. Laurel, Sr., Balao, Justice of the Court of Appeals and former National Defense Secretary Sotero Cabahug, AFP Chief of Staff Lieut. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, top brass of the Armed Forces and other ranking AFP officers and their ladies, and close relatives of Secretary Vargas.

August 29.— AT breakfast this morning President Garcia took further steps to implement the economic development of the country during a long conference with the Fiscal Policy Council which lasted from 7:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The President, with the unanimous endorsement of the members of the Council, decided that the nickel deposits on Nonoc Island in Surigao, the development of which had been long planned, should be fully exploited under the terms provided in the enabling legislation recently passed by Congress.

The President directed the director of mines to take up immediately with the National Economic Council the laying down of the conditions to be complied with by bidders who wish to participate in the exploitation of these mines. It was stipulated that these conditions should be acceptable to the Philippine Government.

The Council believed that from the nickel deposits on Nonoc Island alone, the country's foreign exchange position would be considerably strengthened, considering that aside from the initial outlay estimated at $100 million, the products from this extractive industry would yield a considerable amount to augment the country's international reserves.

The Fiscal Policy Council, which was created by Executive Order No. 236, met for the first time this morning. With the President as chairman, the members are: Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Budget Commissioner Dominador Ayiona, NEC Presiding Officer Eduardo Z. Romualdez, and Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno, Sr.

The Council considered the recommendations made by the screening committee for the Council of State on bond issues for the fiscal year 1957-58 intended for the country's economic development. It was decided that the broad categories included in the listing made should be considered after a system of priorities have been adopted.

The categories included bond issues for irrigation, main highways, secondary and feeder roads, pre-fabricated school buildings, artesian wells, hospitals, airports, portworks, river controls, telecommunications, waterworks, and public buildings.

Among the points approved by the Council were:

(1) Authorizing the Manila Railroad to proceed with its expansion plans by releasing through bond issues ₱1,500,000 for the Plaridel, Bulacan, to Cabanatuan railway line. The Council also authorized the MRR to spend ₱100,000 to start the survey of the extension of the Sorsogon railway line.

It was believed that with the expansion of the MRR lines, more areas of the country would be brought under development and products in these regions could be easily transported to where they were needed.

(2) The release of I needed amounts from bond issues to support the accelerated acquisition by the Land Tenure Administration of landed estates. The President said that the Administration's land tenure program should be stepped up in order that more landed estates could be acquired, subdivided, and sold to the tenants; at cost,

(3) The Council gave financial support to the NARRA in order to enable more landless settlers to acquire and own lands and homes and to become independent farmers. It was stressed that the full programming should be undertaken jointly by the NARRA and the NEC to insure the widest possible results.

(4) Continuing the late President's program of providing pure drinking water to all the people, more water systems in the provinces are to be constructed with funds amounting to about ₱8 million. The construction of artesian wells in all barrios will be prosecuted.

(5) The work on reforestation will be intensified in order to conserve the forests and, aside from providing employment to more people, to prevent erosion and floods.

(6) The manufacture of more pre-fabricated school buildings should be accelerated. For this purpose, the sum of ₱1,500,000 was released in addition to an equal amount already spent for the purpose. The Chief of Staff of the Armed Forces was asked by the President to increase the output of pre-fab schoolhouses for distribution to more areas needing them.

THIS morning the President administered the oath of office to Madki Alonto as acting chairman of the Commission on National Integration, at the Malacañang social hall.

After the ceremony, the President lauded the objectives of Republic Act 1888, which created the Commission, in helping in the upliftment of the non-Christian tribes of the country.

Manahan, who learned of the plight of these three women during his stumping tour in the South, appealed to the President to help them.

President Garcia lost no time in directing the health secretary to have the health officer in Dipolog, Zamboanga, examine these women. He directed that should it be necessary for these women to be confined and treated at the National Mental Hospital, he would immediately send a plane to fetch them,

The President expressed his thanks to Manahan for calling his attention to this case which needed the government's help.

The President said: "Continuing with as much enthusiasm and vigor the policy initiated by the late President Magsaysay in extending the government's help to our unfortunate countrymen, I have always immediately acted in giving succor to those who are in distress, especially the oppressed and the sick. I thank Mr. Manahan for calling my attention to the case of these three unfortunate women. Steps have already been taken to help them."

In another directive, President Garcia this day told Acting Education Secretary Martin Aguilar, Jr., to attend immediately to the case of the 106 public school teachers of Jaro, Leyte, who claimed that they had not been paid their salaries in July.

The teachers, through their president, Sofronio Marmita, wrote the President saying that, because of their financial difficulties, some of them had applied for salary loans from the Government Service Insurance System.

The President told Secretary Aguilar to act on this case with dispatch and to see to it that the teachers receive their salaries beginning July. He said that arrangements should be made so that henceforth they would receive their salaries regularly. The Chief Executive told Aguilar to report the result of this directive.

IN the evening the President led the nation in the observance of the 61st anniversary of the Battle of Pinaglabanan. Judge Guillermo Guevarra was master of ceremonies.

In his speech this afternoon President Garcia pledged to harness all the resources of his administration to promote the happiness of the people, saying that the "government has no business to exist if it cannot enhance the general welfare."

He spoke before the monument erected to the memory of the heroes of the battle.

The President recalled that the first shots against Spain and later against the United States were fired at San Juan.

After extolling the heroes of Pinaglabanan, the President called attention to "thousands of other heroes who have made this country what it is today."

He said he referred to farmers, laborers, teachers, social workers, and thousands of other civil servants who have all dedicated their lives to the service of their people.

"These heroes never carried guns, nor took to a bloody battlefield, though history records that they too were ready to pick a bolo if need be in defense of their country," the President said.

He then pointed out that the "challenge of Pinaglabanan rings much clearer today" and that the opportunities for sacrifice and heroism that sparked our heroes sixty-one years ago to deeds of valor are all about us."

"To make this country strong, we must stand together," he said. "All of us should be ready to give up something of ourselves for our country."

The President's speech lasted for about 20 minutes. He was introduced by San Juan Mayor Nicanor Ibuna, (See the next issue of the Gazette for the complete text of the President's speech.)

Daruca, who was suffering from "intracranial hematoma secondary to trauma, was admitted at the V. Luna General Hospital on the request of his wife, after having been brought to Manila on a Philippine Air Lines plane.

Pescador who was also brought here on a PAL plane was considered an emergency case by the Cagayan provincial doctor, as the case needed the removal of a foreign body in the trachea. She is now confined at the North General Hospital.

Edquilang and Talibong were brought to the city from Bukidnon on a mercy plane of the Philippine Air Force. They were victims of a car accident. They were admitted to the National Orthopedic Hospital on the request of the chief of the Bukidnon provincial hospital.

THE President also directed that President Magsaysay's favorite portrait be hung among the portraits of past presidents on the walls of the reception hall of Malacañang Palace, on the eve of Magsaysay's birthday.

The portrait is a new copy recently made of the one presented as a gift by Mrs. Vicky Quirino-Gonzalez, daughter of the late President Quirino, when Magsaysay was still secretary of national defense. It was President Magsaysay's favorite picture hung in Mrs. Magsaysay's bedroom during their stay in Malacañang.

Recently, President Garcia had ordered a new copy made by Garcia-Llamas, the famous Filipino painter who did the original which was returned to Mrs. Magsaysay, it being a personal property of the family.

The copy was delivered to Malacañang today in time for the observance of the late President's 50th birthday.

Accompanied by Minister Horace Smith of the U. S. Embassy, Ambassador Bohlen during his brief call at Malacañang this afternoon, informed the Chief Executive that the stamps were to be the first of a series to be issued by the U. S. Department of Post in memory of the great Filipino leader.

Following the call, the President repaired to the state dining hall where he gave his regular weekly press conference. Then he resumed receiving callers which included a delegation headed by Mayor Sergio Osmeña, Jr., of Cebu City.

AT the press conference, the President said, "I would like to take up with you this afternoon the following points:

"(1) I have been in constant conference with my financial and economic advisers regarding what points in the Administration's economic program can be immediately implemented to bolster our economy and quicken the country's economic development.

"Following my meeting with the Fiscal Policy Council yesterday I told Mines Director Gozon to discuss with the National Economic Council the laying down of the conditions to be complied with in the bidding for the exploitation of the nickel deposits on Nonoc Island in Surigao, which would be acceptable to the government.

"I am glad to inform you that today the NEC Presiding Officer, Eduardo Z. Romualdez, said that Mines Director Gozon would submit on Tuesday all the needed papers preparatory to the opening of bids for the exploitation of these mines. It is needless to say that the development of these mines will provide employment to thousands of our countrymen and bolster tremendously our dollar reserves.

"We will exert all efforts in seeing to it that work on these mines can be started at the earliest possible time. The initial outlay needed for the exploitation of these mines is estimated at $100 million.

"(2) As I announced about two months ago, I am organizing very soon a committee which will study ways and means of providing incentives to producers. I believe that in order to increase production in our country, the Government should provide real and substantial incentives to our producers. Only through increased production can we solve on a permanent basis the high cost of essential commodities. I believe that incentives which do not go directly to producers but to middlemen and speculators, are not the right kind of incentives which will produce the desired results.

"I have been going over a list of prospective members of this committee representing all the segments of our country's economy. I have been extra careful that the committee is not influenced in one's way or another by political considerations, in order that it can accomplish successfully the task assigned to it. I expect that in a day or so I shall be able to release the membership of this important committee.

"(3) This morning I had a most cordial conference with Justice Undersecretary Jesus Barrera, during which I asked him to defer his resignation until the paramount questions involved in the bases talks between the Philippines and the United States, in which he has played a very important role, would have been fully resolved.

"Undersecretary Barrera said that he would defer his resignation and abide by my wishes and decision.

"(4) In the interest of contributing to the holding of clean and free elections, I ordered today the director of telecommunications to reduce press rates from three centavos to two centavos during the period from November 5 to 19, 1957. I believe that one effective means of preventing frauds in elections is to make the results public as fast and as complete as possible and also to report fully news which are conducive to the holding of free elections. This can be achieved in the present rates are reduced for very obvious reasons. The observance of these reduced press rates is only experimental in nature, but if the experiment proves to be a success, I shall order its continuance.

"(5) As you know, there have been adverse reports in certain U.S. magazines and newspapers concerning our activities in the recent convention. These criticisms are completely false and groundless.

"I resent any suggestion that the Filipinos cannot do a magnificent job in self-government. It is my declared purpose to make this a clean and model election. I am asking your cooperation to this end.

“In countries like the United States, for example, the constant check on the functioning of representative government is a free and informed press. Happily, we have such a press here in the Philippines. I am not sure that some of our critics in other parts of the world are fully aware of this fact.

“Not only to make this plain, but also to provide the additional safeguards of the democratic process that a free press can offer, I wish to extend an invitation that may be unusual from the point of view of governments but that is, in my judgment, right and wise.

“Will those of you who represent non-Philippine newspapers and news agencies kindly extend to your principals, and through them, to other newspapers and agencies, our cordial invitation to “cover,” as you say, this election to the extent of their capacity? We will extend to them every facility within our power to get the facts and to report them promptly. They can be assured of a warm and friendly welcome in this country and an understanding of the fact that their job is to present the news, fairly and freely.

“We do not shun the spotlight of close scrutiny. We want an election that will be an honor to our country, and, when we have it, we want it reported.”

Upon arriving at the North Cemetery, the President inspected the honor guard and then proceeded to the pew where Mrs. Luz Banzon Magsaysay was seated, and greeted her. In the next pew were seated the Magsaysay children, Ramon, Jr., Milagros, and Teresita.

After the mass the President offered a wreath at the Magsaysay tomb. He was followed by Sens. Cipriano Primicias and Emmanuel Pelaez who represented the Senate; Speaker Jose B. Laurel, Jr., in representation of the House of Representatives; Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano; and Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, AFP chief of staff, in representation of the Armed Forces. Other wreaths were offered by other high government officials and friends of the late President. After the mass, taps were sounded.

THE President then motored to the Nichols Airbase Officers’ Club where he ate his breakfast. After breakfast the President, on behalf of the Philippine Government, received from Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, aircrafts for the PAF at turnover ceremonies held at the Manila Domestic Air Terminal.

In his speech the President stressed the need for a coordinated and integrated US-PI air defense effort in the Philippines and in this part of the world.

He expressed the hope that this latest increment in the program of modernization of the PAF “may also serve as a deterrent to communist resurgence in our country and as a prop to the defense of our institutions and our way of life.”

At the same time, he pointed out the triple significance of the occasion because it showed that the United States was concerned over the safety of the Filipino people; that she believed in our innate capacity to resist aggression; and that, despite the smallness of the Philippines, the United States considered her a partner in a common cause to help preserve the free world by further strengthening its defense against communism.

The President expressed confidence in the ability of the PAF officers and men to make effective use of the new equipment and facilities. He added that as a tangible manifestation of his confidence, he had authorized the immediate release of ₱200,000 for the housing project of officers and enlisted men at the Basa Air Base.

In his speech Ambassador Bohlen said that the aircraft turnover gave substance to the US-PI Mutual Defense Treaty. He stressed the ever-increasing role that air power played in the modern world in the preservation of peace.

The planes transferred consisted of 30 F-88F Sabrejets, four SA—16A Albatross, and eight T—6G Advance Trainer aircraft.

Among those present at the ceremonies were Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, Senator Pacita M. Gonzalez, Justice Sotero Cabahug, Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, Rep. Numeriano Babao; Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, AFP chief of staff; Brig. Gen. Diosdado Rodriguez, AFP deputy chief of staff; Brig. Generals Pelagio Cruz and Leoncio Tan; Maj. Gen. Joseph Harper, JUSMAG chief; Maj. Gen. John Ackerman, commanding general of the US 13th Air Force; and Rear Admiral Edgar Cruise.

PRESIDENT Garcia appealed this noon for support to the senatorial slate of the Nacionalista Party at the national convention of the Democratic Labor Party at a Plaza Santa Cruz restaurant.

In appealing for labor support, the President stated that by comparison with the senatorial ticket of the opposition parties, the NP line-up was formidable. He pointed out that the Nacionalista senatorial candidates were men who had rendered long and distinguished public service.

The DLP, headed by former Labor Secretary Jose Figueras, is supporting the entire Nacionalista ticket.

Speaker Jose B. Laurel, Jr., NP candidate for vice-president, and Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr., also spoke. They were introduced by Figueras and Rep. Arturo M. Tolentino, respectively.

IN the afternoon the President swore in as a Nacionalista Diosdado Reyes Delima, who had already been proclaimed as the Liberal Party congressional candidate for the third district of Bohol.

Delima was formerly a provincial board member of Bohol. He was accompanied to Malacañang by Bohol Governor Juan Pajo, Lorenzo Piquero, secretary of the Bohol provincial board, and Mayor Maximino Garcia of Talibon.

The President also signed the ad interim appointment of Domingo Cordoba as justice of the peace of Hinundayan, Leyte.

Mrs. De Castro is suffering from stones in the kidneys. She was airlifted this morning to Manila and was taken by an Army ambulance to the North General Hospital, where she will be confined and treated.

Upon recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Parole, President Garcia today granted four conditional pardons and two absolute pardons, and commuted the j sentence of one.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon reiterated his determination to push through the numerous projects launched by the late President Magsaysay, particularly “the redemption of our fellowmen in the barrios, the achievement of their prosperity and self respect, and the restoration of their human dignity.”

Speaking at the Magsaysay youth memorial rally held at the Independence Grandstand on the Luneta this afternoon to commemorate the 50th birthday of the departed leader, the President said: "We carry on, with his memory guiding and prodding us onward to push through the great- reform he had traced out for the redemption of our fellowmen in the barrios, that they may at last regain in full measure the substance of their Christian heritage."

Present at the rally were Mrs. Luz B. Magsaysay, widow of the late President; her children, Teresita, Milagros, and Ramon, Jr.; and Genaro Magsaysay, brother of the departed Chief Executive. Also present were members of the Cabinet, other high ranking government officials and large student delegations from various colleges and universities in Manila and suburbs.

The memorial rites were featured with the replay of a recorded speech last delivered by President Magsaysay at the commencement exercises in San Carlos University in Cebu City last March 16. For 10 minutes, the mass assemblage of students listened with rapt attention to the voice coming through the public address system, as President Magsaysay, in his extemporaneous speech, underscored the role of the youth in his program of rural improvement.

Mrs. Magsaysay, who sat misty-eyed throughout the program, was seen to have passed a handkerchief over her eyes several times while listening to the voice of her late husband. However, she could not help laughing when, at one point of the recorded speech, President Magsaysay was talking about his grey hairs and adding, "They are not only greying but falling."

The program started at 5:15 p.m. upon the arrival of President Garcia at the Independence Grandstand. The Magsaysays arrived a few minutes earlier in a Malacañang No. 1-C car with motorcycle escorts. Mrs. Magsaysay wore a black terno with a cattleya orchid on her left breast. Her children Teresita and Milagros were also in black dresses, while Ramon, Jr., wore a white suit with black tie and shoes.

Other speakers were Ignacio Debuque, Jr., who gave a welcome address, Rafael M. Salas, who delivered the opening remarks, and Education Secretary Martin Aguilar, Jr., who introduced the President.

Another feature of the program was the presentation of a presidential plaque to members of the Consultative Council of Students Summer Work Camps for "outstanding and unselfish services rendered to NARRA settlers in Wao Lanao, and Maramag, Bukidnon, Another presidential plaque was awarded to the Medical Students Rural Volunteers headed by Dr. Narciso Monfort, for services rendered to people in the rural areas while performing duties as assistants to rural health officers last summer.

During the presentation of the awards, Debuque, who was master of ceremonies, disclosed that the student work camps last summer had been approved by the late President Magsaysay on the eve of the latter's departure for Cebu City on March 16, and later ratified and given full support by President Garcia.

President Garcia returned to Malacañang about 6 p.m.

After hearing mass, President Garcia went over the itinerary for his Mindanao trip and studied reports submitted by the members of his Cabinet for topics to bring before the people during his speaking engagements there. He also read the Sunday morning newspapers.

The President took his customary afternoon nap after lunch. Then he repaired to his study where he went over some state papers.

After a light supper, the President retired early in anticipation of his departure tomorrow morning for Davao in a Philippine Air Lines Viscount plane to inaugurate the Davao airfield.

THE President said today he favored the putting up of a PHHC housing project in Sorsogon, but that he would wait for the findings of Sen. Mariano Jesus Cuenco on the project.

The President also laid down conditions for the final approval of the Sorsogon project, among which were the selection of a most suitable site by impartial survey and the favorable endorsement by the Cabinet and the GSIS. The proposed PHHC project in Sorsogon is not a finished transaction but is still in the process of study and negotiation.

The President made the statement after receiving the report on the project from Justice Buenaventura Ocampo, chairman of the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance and Efficiency (PCAPE).

Earlier, PCAPE Vice-Chairman Francisco Calinawan led a PCAPE survey team that looked into the necessity and advisability of the Sorsogon PHHC project.

Calinawan reported that while the tentative site selected was ideal from the point of view of engineering and housing, the price could still be reduced to the satisfaction of all parties. The tentative site chosen by the PHHC is a lot belonging to Jose Ma. Simo.

Other s considered as probable sites for the project are those of Mrs. Carmen Vda. de Vera, Alfredo Heelzl, and Jose Berenguer, all of Sorsogon, Sorsogon.

Cited as reasons for putting up the project were to spur progress in the province, to provide a pilot model community, and to introduce to the people of Sorsogon good standards of housing within the facilities of the province.

PRESIDENT Garcia commuted today to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed on three prisoners who had been convicted for the murder of a Camarines Sur couple.

The prisoners are Manuel Daet, Jose Villaroya, and Enrique Arejola. They had been meted out the death penalty by the Camarines Sur Court of First Instance for killing Felix Refugio and Victoria Toy, husband and wife, in the same province.

The convicts had been previously granted four 30-day reprieves by the President in view of a resolution filed by public officials, teachers, and residents of Tinambac, Camarines Sur, alleging the innocence of the trio. The President had ordered a thorough investigation by the Constabulary and the last reprieve was to have expired next week.

Pending the investigation, an inmate in the New Bilibid Prisons in Muntinlupa, one Jose Tariman, had confessed that he shot to death Felix Refugio and that one Solomon Tobale killed Victoria Toy. Tariman definitely cleared the three condemned men.

The Constabulary was directed to redouble its investigations and although the evidence thus far uncovered tended to rebut to a certain degree the findings of the court in convicting the trio, it did not create sufficient moral certainty in the mind of the President on the innocence of the accused.

Press Secretary Jose C. Nable said that the President was more inclined to commute to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed on the trio. Meanwhile, the investigations being conducted by the Constabulary would continue. The probe would be directed mainly on the circumstances of the killing and the credibility of the confession of Tariman.

August 25.—THIS MORNING President Garcia inaugurated the ₱1.5 million Davao airport and said its opening has enlarged the horizons of trade, commerce, and communications in this country to embrace nearly all points in the South.

The President also told the crowd that his pre-election promise to them about putting up a low-cost housing project for low-salaried group in Davao was about to be fulfilled.

He informed the people that he has approved a PNB loan of ₱5 million to the NARIC for price support of rice and corn in order to give stability to the prices of these staple crops and encourage farmers to produce more.

He urged Mindanao farmers to diversify their crops and plant income-producing crops like cotton and rubber. However, he told them to give priority to food crops so that the country will attain economic self-sufficiency.

The President was accorded a thunderous applause when he told the people that the province and the city of Davao will always have his continued support and sympathy.

The enthusiastic crowd broke through police lines and rushed to the PAL Viscount plane to get a closer glimpse of the President and his party. The plane landed shortly before 10 a.m. after a little more than two hours, flight.

Upon his arrival, President Garcia escorted by Brig. Gen. Isagani Campo, IVMA commander, reviewed the military guard of honor composed of ROTC cadets from different colleges in the city.

The new airport was blessed by Davao Bishop Clovis Thibault, who also delivered the invocation.

From the church the party proceeded to the Boy Scouts building where a popular luncheon was held honoring the President and his entourage.

After lunch the President took a brief rest aboard the yacht Sta. Maria. At three p.m. he motored to Dalia, Toril, in the city for an on-the-spot inspection of the ramie degumming factory there.

President Garcia held another conference at 6 p.m. with national, provincial, city, and municipal officials, most of whom sought his help and intervention in the solution of local problems.

He then granted a ten-minute audience to members of the Davao chapter of the Philippine Veterans Legion, the Davao Public School Teachers Association, the Pangasinan-Ilocano community, and representatives of the different FACOMAs in Davao.

At 8 p.m. the President and Mrs. Garcia went to the residence of General Services Secretary Alejandro Almendras to attend a dinner given in their honor.

After the formal reception and ball at the Boy Scouts auditorium, President and Mrs. Garcia spent the night aboard the yacht Sta. Maria.

Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo today inducted into office Gen. Leoncio S. Tan as general manager of the National Rice and Corn Corporation (NARIC) in a ceremony held at Malacañang.

Secretary Pajo also administered the oath of office to Constancio Leuterio as one of the Malacañang technical assistants.

August 26.—PRESIDENT Garcia arrived in Ozamis City this morning from Davao City on the second leg of a five-day tour of Mindanao to assess the economic development of the region.

He and other members of his party, including the First Lady, were welcomed at the Labo airfield by Ozamis Mayor Angel Medina, Gov. Diego Ty-Deling of Zamboanga del Norte, Gov. Bienvenido Ebarle, and Mrs. Remedios Fortich, NARRA administrator.

In the afternoon, President Garcia made side trips to Clarin, Tudela, Jimenez, and Aloran towns. He then proceeded to Plaridel where he inaugurated the ₱200.00 Cabalayan bridge.

The President and his party were cheered along the route by school children and people waving flags and carrying placards.

At one point, the presidential motorcade was stopped by a "human roadblock" formed by barrio residents who insisted on shaking the President's hand. The barrio folks then asked him for a new school building.

From Plaridel, the President motored to Oroquieta and had supper in the residence of Oroquieta Mayor Malcolm Enerio. He addressed another rally at the town plaza.

President Garcia returned to Ozamis City late in the evening. He was scheduled to spend the night in the residence of Mayor Medina and to enplane for Butuan City in the morning.

August 27.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning told public officials of Misamis Oriental that the first objective of his administration is to encourage production so that self-sufficiency in food, clothing, and shelter will be a reality in the Philippines.

Addressing national, provincial, and municipal officials in conference held in the office of highway district engineer in Cagayan de Oro City, the President reiterated that Mindanao is a land of promise. He said he believed Mindanao will be the center of economic prosperity of the country.

He traced the progress of the Philippines since independence was granted and declared that no new nation has had more difficult time adjusting itself to new status, because in 1946 the Philippines was still reeling from the effects of World War II and its national economy was unsettled.

In an hour-long speech in Visayan, the President said that in a short span of 12 years since independence was granted we have raised ourselves from the rubble and debris of war to our present position as a dignified and respected member of the family of free nations.

He instructed the mayors of Misamis Oriental to encourage farmers to discard old ways and try new scientific methods of planting rice for increased production in order to end the importation of this commodity amounting to two million cavans annually. He told them to emphasize to the farmers the importance and need for increased food production.

From the Oroquieta rally last night President Garcia motored to Jimenez where he spent the night in the residence of NARRA Administrator Remedios Fortich. Early this morning the presidential party returned to Ozamis City and had breakfast at the residence of Nicolas Capistrano before enplaning for Cagayan de Oro.

Arriving at Lumbia airfield at 9: 50 a.m., President was greeted with a 21-gun salute. He also reviewed military guard of honor escorted by Brig. Gen. Ramon Aguirre, IV Military Area commander.

From the airfield the presidential party proceeded to St. Augustine's Cathedral in the city for the Te Deum sang by Rev. Fr. Rafael De Rivera, S.J.

The President then conferred with local officials from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. after which he proceeded to Camp Evangelista where he was honored at lunch given by provincial and city government officials.

After lunch the President gave a press conference attended by local correspondents and newsmen. At 4: 30 p.m. the presidential party went to the residence of Mayor Justiniano Borja to attend a cocktail party.

In the evening President Garcia was conferred an honorary degree of Doctor of Humannities by Xavier University in a ceremony held in the school auditorium. He was later honored at a formal dinner given by Xavier University at the Cagayan de Oro Casino.

The President was the principal speaker at a well attended public meeting held in Cagayan de Oro public square this evening. After the meeting the President boarded the yacht Santa Maria and left for Butuan City.

August 28.—AT A CONFERENCE held this morning President Garcia told national, provincial, and municipal officials that the principal purpose of his Mindanao trip was to give impetus to the Administration's food production campaign in order to achieve self-sufficiency in food, clothing, and shelter.

He also called for support and cooperation of every Filipino in the current all-out drive of the Administration to cleanse the government of graft and corruption.

The President assured the officials that he will attend to the important needs of Agusan, among them the construction of a hydroelectric plant and a modern airfield capable of handling jet traffic.

Speaking in Visayan upon the insistent request of the crowd, the President said that the national political fight was over when independence was granted in 1946. "Now the country's main problem is economic in nature and the solution lies in economic self-sufficiency," he stated.

"Our country is blessed with rich and abundant natural resources and there is no reason why we cannot cut down imports by realizing the goal of self-sufficiency in food, shelter, and clothing," he added.

"The primary need of the country," he continued, "is to establish a sound national economy so that the advantages will extend not only to a privileged few or to those favored by fortune but will also include even the lowest citizen of our country; that's why I have dedicated my administration to the realization of this objective."

He called upon all officials to disseminate the gospel of economic self-sufficiency and decried the fact that the farmers are not following modern and scientific methods of planting rice and corn in order to increase their production.

He assured them that if these methods are adopted the production will rise and self-sufficiency in food will be realized.

The President also urged Agusan farmers to try planting rubber, as the province has been found to be suitable for the growth of rubber trees.

He said that less than 15 per cent of the requirements of the three big rubber companies in the Philippines is supplied by locally grown rubber although they are willing and ready to buy all the local production. He added that the supply is short; so the rubber companies have to import rubber from other countries.

AFTER the rally held last night at Cagayan de Oro, the President boarded the Sta. Maria which sailed for Butuan City. The vessel was met at Butuan Bay by well decorated boats bearing welcome signs and posters, and escorted in a colorful fluvial parade to the city wharf. The vessel arrived at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

From the wharf, the presidential party motored to St. Joseph church where a Te Deum was sung by Fr. Gerard Cruijssen. The President then held a conference with officials at the PTA building in the Butuan City Elementary School which lasted till noon.

The President was honored at a luncheon given by local officials at the city gymnasium. After a short rest, President Garcia inaugurated the Butuan City Maternity Hospital and School of Midwifery, then he proceeded to the residence of Mayor Pizarro for merienda.

Supper was served at the residence of Rep. Sanchez, after which a rally was held at Guingona Park with the President as principal speaker. After the rally, President Garcia slept on board the Santa Maria.

August 29.—PRESIDENT Garcia left Butuan City for the return trip to Manila at 9:20 this morning aboard the Sta. Maria. Contrary to previous plans, the President decided to take the yacht for Manila to enable him to rest after a rigorous four-day tour which took him to Davao City, Misamis Occidental, Cagayan de Oro City, and Butuan City.

Before leaving, President Garcia held a last-minute shipboard conference with Gov. Felixberto Dagani, Rep. Guillermo Sanchez, and City Mayor Zacarias Pizarro on requests of different municipalities to take up with the Chief Executive means to expedite realization plans for the development of Agusan province.

A large crowd gathered at Butuan City wharf to see President Garcia and party off, among them Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez, who stayed behind to follow up the President's intensified food production campaign, and Gen. Ramon Aguirre, IV MA commander.

Lt. Commander Manuel Mandapat, skipper of the Sta. Maria, experienced difficulty maneuvering the yacht on Agusan River in order to turn around and face seaward because of low tide.

As the yacht steamed down Agusan River seawards, the President chatted with newsmen in the party and then took a rest. After lunch, the President stayed in his cabin for a nap, after which he conversed with party members on general topics. Shortly after partaking of light supper, President Garcia retired to his cabin for much-needed rest.

Earlier this morning the President and Mrs. Garcia heard mass said by Fr. Juan Tugade on board the yacht. After the mass, they went to the residence of Gov. and Mrs. Felixberto Dagani where they had breakfast.

August 30.—PRESIDENT Garcia woke up late this morning and came out from his cabin looking fresh and good as new. After a late breakfast, the President engaged Captain Heracleo Alano in a couple of chess games.

After lunch, newspapermen on board the ship had a press conference with the President, after which he retired to his cabin for an afternoon nap.

After an early dinner, President Garcia entered his cabin to go over some pending state papers. Rough choppy seas kept the ship rolling but President Garcia appeared unaffected.

"I join our people in happily commemorating today the 51st birthday anniversary of our late beloved leader, Ramon Magsaysay.

"No other Filipino indeed had identified himself closer to the aspirations of our common masses than our departed President. It is no wonder then that his memory continues to be cherished with the deepest affection and esteem, by our countrymen. As we remember him for having saved our nation from communism, we should likewise be thankful that he championed democracy in this land by his every word and act and thus assured for us those blessings which only freedom can give.

"We have dedicated our best efforts in carrying on the good work started by President Magsaysay. On the occasion of his birthday, let us pause and resolve to bring to fuller realization what he envisioned for our people during his term when he laid with his own hands a firm foundation for the greater progress and prosperity of our Republic."

Also present were Don Exequiel Magsaysay, Rep. Genaro Magsaysay, and Ramon Magsaysay, Jr., father, brother and son, respectively, of the late President. Mrs. Luz B. Magsaysay and daughter, Milagros, are abroad.

Shortly before 10 a.m., the President boarded his car and motored to the North Cemetery where he laid a wreath at the tomb of the late President Magsaysay. He was accompanied by Magsaysay relatives, government officials, and Magsaysay admirers.

After laying the wreath, the President tarried for a while before the tomb and offered a prayer for his predecessor. Then he watched Vice-President and Mrs. Macapagal as they took their turn to lay a wreath on the mausoleum.

From the cemetery, the President proceeded to the Department of Foreign Affairs on Padre Faura, where he accepted the remains of Jose Maria Panganiban which had been brought over to the Philippines from Spain by Dr. Domingo Abello, member of the Philippine National Historical Society.

In his acceptance oration delivered during the solemn rites, the President expressed the hope that the young men and women of the Philippines today would note the example of the Filipino hero "whose ideals are worthy of emulation."

Addressing himself to the patriot, the President concluded: "Welcome home, young intrepid spirit, and touch the kindred spirits amongst your people and infuse into them the internal incorruptibility of character, which is the crying need of our public; service and free enterprise."

During the call, the President reiterated his congratulations to the awardees. He said that the awards were well deserved.

Then the President proceeded to his study where he received numerous palace callers.

President Garcia today directed Brig. Gen. Pelagio Cruz, head of the Philippine Constabulary, to dispatch more troops to Ilocos Sur in order to ease the tension in that province created by the killing of Vigan Mayor Lorenzo Formoso.

At the same time, President Garcia also directed that all the Constabulary troops previously stationed in Ilocos Sur be immediately transferred. This is because of a report that the troops had been stationed in the province too long and had learned to take sides in local political controversies.

The presidential directives were issued at a conference he held at Malacañang with Gov. Pedro Singson Reyes of Ilocos Sur.

The President approved the proposal of Gov. Singson Reyes to intensify the campaign for the collection of loose firearms in Ilocos Sur in which, according to the provincial executive, condition "is even worse than in Cavite."

President Garcia decried the fact that many residents of the province did not avail themselves of the opportunity granted by an expired law to turn in their unlicensed arms, adding that the arms collection campaign would be continued relentlessly.

A delegation of the Bontoc Peninsula Cattle Raisers' Association led by their president, Teodorico Valerio, submitted recommendations to President Garcia on ways and means to enhance the production of beef and other food products in the peninsula.

President Garcia, while approving in principle the suggestions of the cattle raisers, instructed Dr. Anacleto Coronel, acting director of animal industry, to study the suggestions and submit his recommendations.

The cattle raisers proposed the establishment of a dairy farm in the peninsula with the aid of the government in buying the necessary machinery from reparations, promising to furnish milking cows to keep the dairy farm going.

To improve the breed of cows in the area, the cattle raisers also suggested the establishment of a stock farm or breeding station in Bondoc, stocking it with breeds like the Red Scindhis and Sahiwals.

The President also received leaders of the Boy Scout movement in Pangasinan; Board Chairman Gonzalo Gonzalez and Director Rodolfo Andal, Mrs. Amparo Villamor, Angel Castaho, and Ildefonso Remolena of the Social Security Commission.

PRESIDENT Garcia approved today the 22-man membership of the National Security Council and paved the way for its initial meeting on Thursday at 10 a.m. in Camp Murphy's general staff conference room.

Alfonso Arellano, Director of the National Intelligence Coordinating Agency Col. Nicanor Jimenez, and Civil Defense Administrator Alfredo Eugenio.

This is the first time that the Press Secretary to the President is made a regular member of the Council.

In approving the increased membership of the opposition in the Council, President Garcia said that national security is the concern of all Filipinos and national unity is essential.

The newly-created National Security Council was reconstituted under authority of Executive Order No. 330, series of 1950, An alternative plan, Reorganization Plan 38-A, was: not implemented when President Garcia was informed that this plan would exclude minority representation in the Council, making the composition of the Council purely a party affair.

The old Council was composed of the following members: President, Vice-President, Senate President, Speaker of the House of Representatives, head of all departments in the Executive branch (11 members), chairman of the Senate Committee on Army, Navy, and Military Pensions, chairman of the House Committee on National Defense, minority floor leaders in the Senate and in the House, commanding general of the Armed Forces of the Philippines, and the chairman of the Philippine Veterans Board.

Francisco Calinawan, vice-chairman of the PCAPE, who submitted his report on his investigations of the NARIC, the NAMARCO agencies, and the office of the NAFCO (National Abaca and other Fibers Corporation) in Davao. Calinawan also informed President Garcia about the social unrest due to unsettled land disputes prevailing in Davao.

Alexander D. Calhoun, vice-president of the First National City Bank of New York, paid a courtesy call on the President. He was accompanied by Richard M. Henry, manager of the Philippine branch of the bank. Calhoun is making a brief stop-over in Manila on his way to attend a conference of the World Bank and International Monetary Fund in New Delhi.

PRESIDENT Garcia was today assured by the Department of Foreign Affairs that four-year old Francisco de Vera, Jr., son of Lydia Cruz de Vera, who was reportedly murdered by her husband last June 4, 1958, in San Francisco, was coming to the Philippines by the middle of September to become the ward of his grandfather, Luciano Cruz.

The assurance was transmitted to the Chief Executive by the department after a cablegram was received from the Philippine consulate general which had been instructed to make a report on the case, particularly on the request of the parents of Lydia to be awarded custody of their grandson.

It will be recalled that President Garcia had instructed Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano to look into the plight of the boy after rep-presentations were made by the child's grandfather who sought the boy's custody after Lydia's death.

The Philippine consulate general reported that San Francisco Juvenile Judge Melvin Cronin had, meanwhile temporarily released the boy to an uncle who resides in San Francisco.

The nine rules contained in the executive order are aimed at carrying out more effectively the provisions of R. A. Act No. 1787 creating the commission.

The executive order was drafted in order to have an appropriate and orderly procedure for the transaction of business and the performance of the duties and functions entrusted to the commission by law.

September 2.—THE APPOINTMENT of a professional administrator with Cabinet rank who would be given charge of a housing program designed to give houses to the low income group, as well as of existing housing agencies like the People's Homesite and Housing Corporation and the Home Financing Commission, was urged by two United Nations housing experts at a conference with President Garcia held at Malacañang this morning.

The two UN housing exeptrts were commissioned by the Philippine Government, through the PHHC, to look into the housing problem in the Philippines. Their preliminary report will soon be prepared in final form and submitted to the President, through the Department of Foreign Affairs.

Accompanied by Sen. Pactita M. Gonzalez, the UN housing experts, Otto Koenigsberger and Charles Abramk stated that although the Government is committed to a housing program for low-income families, the program as now operated, is ignoring requirements of those mostly in need of shelter.

The UN experts urged the adoption of a realistic housing program that will draw upon a minimum of imports in the building of houses, provide job opportunities to the unemployed, spur the development of domestic industries, and help deflate land, rent, and building costs with a minimum of public expenditure.

Of paramount importance, the experts informed the President, would be the use of lumber, bamboo, and nipa which can be locally procured.

President Garcia was informed that the most critical aspect of the program is the land policy and recommend that land must be acquired in large tracts at low costs in suburban areas, improved with roads and utilities, and then re-sold at not more than ₱0.50 a square meter to low-income families in subdivided plots.

Abrams pointed out that the acute housing shortage in the cities is having serious impacts in the political, social, and economic life of the nation, aside from intensifying the illegal appropriation of land, both private and public, by squatters, impairing property rights and deterring essential public improvements.

He also pointed out to President Garcia that the social by-products of the housing shortage are also revealing themselves in slum life, overcrowding and make-shift living, in juvenile delinquency, and in increased fire and health hazards. The situation is particularly serious in Manila, Davao, and Cebu.

The President also conferred with Sen. Gonzalez and Francisco Rodrigo on the fishpond controversy in Bulacan which is endangering the peace and order situation in the province. Both solons are members of the Senate committee on social justice, community development, and welfare.

President Garcia agreed in principle to a plan submitted by Sen. Rodrigo to form a fishermen's cooperative subject to a detailed workable program to be studied by the Bulacan solon.

Rodrigo bared that one of the objectives of his plan is to band the fishermen so that they can in the end own the fishponds.

The President later received Madame Nozie Tlaber, a member of the Turkish Parliament, with whom he discussed the Cyprus and Middle East situations. The Turkish parliamentarist called on the President accompanied by Mesdames Roberto Benedicto and Hilarion Henares.

The President announced that henceforth he will receive members of Congress on Tuesday morning and afternoon, in response to the request of congressmen.

Other callers were Rep. Leon Guinto, Jr., of Quezon, who urged the reappointment of Santiago Gahcayco as a member of the PHILCOA board of directors; Reps. Ramon Durano of Cebu, Cesar Fortich of Bukidnon, Gaudencio Abordo of Palawan, Marcelino Veloso of Leyte, Filomeno Kin-tanar of Cebu, Apolinario Apacible of Batangas, Benjamin Ligot and Felipe Garduque of Cagayan, Emilio Cortez of Pampanga, and Luciano Millan of Pangasinan.

PRESIDENT Garcia mobilized this morning all government relief agencies to extend immediate assistance to fire victims of Catubig, Samar.

The President's order was given after receiving a telegram from Catubig Mayor Fidel Robis, who reported that an estimated ₱5 million fire broke out early this morning in that northern Samar town, rendering about 3,000 persons homeless.

The President also ordered the Constabulary to maintain peace and order in the fire-stricken area.

The Social Welfare Administration had airlifted considerable amounts of food and clothing while units of the Department of Health were alerted for any epidemic which may break out owing to congestion of fire victims temporarily housed in public buildings.

Malacañang announced today the following appointments:

- (1) Antonio Yacapin as acting director of the Bureau of Records and Management under the Department of General Services;
- (2) Gabriel Daza and Cesar Sevilla as members of the board of directors of the National Power Corporation; and September 3.—THIS morning, the President limited his callers to Sen. Lorenzo Sumulong, who is leaving on Saturday for the United Nations General Assembly session in New York City.

The President briefed Sen. Sumulong and gave him last-minute instructions preparatory to the latter's departure for the UN assembly meeting.

Sen. Sumulong was with Ambassador Melquiades Gamboa, deputy chief of the Philippine mission and alternate delegate to the UN.

Ambassador Gamboa is leaving Friday for New York City, where he will take over his new position in the PI mission.

President Garcia also received Clarence Young, vice-president of the Pan American Airways, and John Oppenheimer, local manager of the airline company.

RELIEF of congestion in the National Mental Hospital as soon as possible and restrictions on the annual Philippine Muslim pilgrimage to Mecca to avert troubles and deaths among pilgrims, was agreed upon by President Garcia and the Cabinet in today's Cabinet meeting.

Malacañang also announced that the person or persons who took advantage of the Muslim pilgrims will be tracked down by the government prosecutors.

The President and the Cabinet were highly critical of the manner Muslim visits to their holy city were being conducted by certain politicians and businessmen.

The Cabinet received a report that 16 pilgrims died aboard the s.s. Lorraine, which had been chartered for the trip, owing to insanitary conditions, lack of food, exposure, and overcrowding on board. One was a woman in the family way. Some pilgrims died in Mecca.

Future visits to the Mecca will be closely supervised by the government, according to the decision of the Cabinet.

President Garcia took steps to remedy the congestion in the National Mental Hospital at Mandaluyong by distributing the patients among unused spaces in the PC barracks, in unoccupied government buildings, and the quarantine or detention station.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon formally accepted the credentials of the Italian ambassador to the Philippines Alberto de Clementi, in ceremonies held in the ceremonial hall of Malacañang.

The President expressed to Ambassador de Clementi the warm affection and high esteem of the Filipino nation for the Republic of Italy and assured him of the cooperation and support of the Philippine Government for the successful accomplishment of his mission here.

Ambassador de Clementi cited political, religious, and cultural affinities; the common aspiration for peace and common faith in democracy, in justice, and in the respect for liberty and for the dignity of man that exist between the Philippines and Italy as the reasons that bind these countries spiritually.

Arriving at Malacañang at exactly 5 p.m., Ambassador de Clementi and Minister Jose Estrada, chief of protocol of the Department of Foreign Affairs, were met at the Palace front door by Col. Emilio Borromeo, senior presidential aide.

Also on hand was an honor guard made up of a unit from the presidential guard battalion. After acknowledging raffles and flourishes offered by his honor guard, Ambassador de Clementi, escorted by Estrada and Borromeo, went up the Palace stairs towards the ceremonial hall.

De Clementi succeeds former Italian Ambassador to the Philippines Benedetto d'Acunzo who has been transferred to Quito Ecuador.

It was indicated that the President took up the Philippine position on the worsening Formosa situation.

Much significance was attached to the conference, as the President had expressed a position diametrically oppose to the stand previously taken by the late President Magsaysay.

Significantly, the conference was held on the eve of the scheduled first meeting of the newly-reconstituted National Security Council at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in Camp Murphy.

Malacañang announced today the appointment of Dr. Emeterio Roa as commissioner and acting administrator of the Social Security System.

Dr. Roa's appointment was signed by Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo this morning. He succeeds Capt. Rodolfo P. Andal, who had asked to be relieved of his duties with the SSS so that he could devote his full time to the Government Service Insurance System.

Secretary Pajo this morning also administered the oath of office to Col. Vicente Tiongson as finance officer in Malacañang, vice Col. Miguel D. Velasco who had been returned to the Armed Forces. Col. Tiongson was, before his new assignment, comptroller of the AFP. He has been in the service for 22 years.

Meanwhile, President Garcia received a wire from former President Sergio Osmeña, Sr., in Cebu who thanked him for having been appointed to the National Security Council. The Grand Old Man, however, expressed regret for his inability to attend the first NSC meeting at Camp Murphy tomorrow owing to engagements in Cebu but promised to attend all subsequent meets of the newly-created body.

September 4.—SHORTLY before 10 o'clock this morning, the President motored to Camp Murphy where he met for the first time with the National Security Council. All scheduled calls on the President this morning were cancelled.

The Presidents' arrival at Camp Murphy was announced by the booming of a 21-gun salute. He was greeted by Defense Secretary Vargas, host Cabinet member.

The eight-hour marathon conference was held behind locked doors in the air-conditioned "war room" on the second floor of the main building of Camp Murphy. The meeting was declared open at 10:18 a.m., immediately upon the arrival of the President.

As soon as the conference opened, platoons of military policemen cordoned off the conference area. Civilians and other unauthorized persons were prevented from entering hallways leading to the main hall of the building.

The conference drove on as official took turns at briefing the members of the council on the various aspects of the national security that bear on the Formosa crises.

The conference broke up for a recess at 1:30 p.m. and returned to the conference room at 4 p.m. Most of the latter portion of the discussion was devoted to the manner the conference communique would be worded.

In a carefully-worded official statement made following the eight-hour conference of the National Security Council, President Garcia expressed deep concern for peace in the Pacific.

He avoided categorical stand on whether the Philippines has taken the position of “involvement” or “non-involvement” in the present localized war in the Formosa area, should the United States get committed through military action.

President Garcia, however, upon advice of the 22-member Security Council, placed the country squarely behind the United States by reiterating the policy adopted by Congress in 1955 which supported the policy of the then President Magsaysay in full support of the stand declared by President Eisenhower when the Chinese Reds threatened Formosa through the other outlying islands of the Matsus and the Pescadores.

“President Carlos P. Garcia, in line with the advice of the National Security Council reached after a careful review of the general situation, issued the following statement:

“That recalling the concurrent Resolution No. 24 of the Congress, adopted on March 9, 1955, the President reiterated the Philippines’ readiness to comply with its treaty obligations, particularly those in the Phil-U.S. Mutual Defense Pact. He lauded the efforts of the U.S. to deter communist aggression.

“The President expressed deep concern for the peace of the Pacific area. He declared, however, that the current hostilities in Quemoy and Matsus do not presently appear to be a cause for alarm.

“The President nevertheless said that the country should continue to be in a state of vigilance and the government shall prevent any attempt by unscrupulous persons to exploit the situation at the expense of the people.”

September 5.—PRESIDENT Garcia inducted into office this morning Dr. Emeterio Roa as administrator of the Social Security System.

Present at the oath-taking ceremony were SSC Chairman Gonzalo W. Gonzalez, Labor Secretary Angel Castafio, Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia, Social Welfare Administrator Amparo P. Villamor, GSIS Manager Andal, and Commissioner Ildefonso Remolona.

President Garcia also received Chairman Rodolfo Maslog and Commissioners Juan Alberto and Alejo Santos of the Reparations Commission

They submitted to the President a set of proposed rules of procedure of the Reparations Commission for the programming, scheduling procurement, shipping, servicing, utilization, and payment of reparations goods in accordance with the provisions of Republic Act 1789.

Among other matters they took up with President Garcia were the implementation of the Marikina River multi-purpose project and the expansion of the facilities of the Government Telephone System.

Accompanying the reparations commissioners were Director Jose Alfonso of the Bureau of Telecommunications and Gregorio Abad executive secretary of the commission.

Members of the National Science Development Board and the Philippine Atomic Energy Commission, headed by Chairman Paulino Garcia called on President Garcia to request for the early approval and release of ₱1.4 million needed by the two science bodies for their initial operations.

Chairman Garcia also informed the President about the many offers of assistance received by the Atomic Energy Commission from foreign countries but which they could not take advantage of because of lack of funds.

He also informed President Garcia that research studies on the eradication of kadang-kadang being undertaken by the technical staff of the science board is being hampered by inadequate finances

Dr. Garcia was accompanied by Dr Casimiro del Rosario, Commissioner Joaquin Marañon, Commissioner Pedro Afable, Lt. Cmdr Marcelino Calmawan, and Dr. Marcelino V. Bernardo, members of the NSDB and PAEC, and Manuel C. Herrera, Dominador O Reyes, Antonio Habana III, and Ramon A. D. Hermano, members of the staff

President Garcia received three tenant-farmers who complained to the President about a projected move by large hacienda owners in Nueva Ecija for the mass ejection of tenants because of the introduction of mechanized farming methods.

They also requested the President to order the Land Tenure Administration to expedite the purchase of the Hacienda Capitan Berong Guimba, Nueva Ecija, to solve the tenancy unrest problem there.

The farmers were Gregorio Alcantara of Guimba, Federico Baliwa of Nampicuan, and Donado Bilog of Cuyapo in Nueva Ecija.

They were accompanied by Jeremias Montemayor Roman Santiago, and Norberto Arcangel, officers of the Federation of Free Farmers.

The President received callers at his study from 9 a.m to 1 p.m.

Acting on the protests of the Tenants Association of Sapang Palay Estate, President Garcia announced today that he will order a re-examination of the controversial purchase by the People's Homesite and Housing Corporation of 752 hectares of the said estate for a homesite project.

The President gave the assurance to Rep. Rogaciano Mercado of Bulacan and Aurelio Agapito, head of the tenant's association.

The re-examination will be conducted with the view to finding out if the 752 hectares purchased by the PHHC from the Philippine Suburban Development Corporation is fit only for agricultural purposes but not for homesites.

The Bulacan solon apprised President Garcia of the objections of the tenants who had previously petitioned the Land Tenure Administration to purchase the estate for subdivision and resale to its tenants.

In giving the assurance to Rep. Mercado and Mr. Agapito, President Garcia stated that he will see to it that the area shall be distributed to tenants if the land is found suitable only for farming purposes.

The President signed today the appointment papers of Juan Locsin, Braulio Alfaro, Dr. Genaro Bomediano, and Jose Mercado as members of the board of administrators of the Philippine Coconut Administration, and of Arturo Miranda, Jr., as member of the board of directors of the Agricultural Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration.

At the same time, President Garcia signed the reappointment papers of Maximo Calalang as member of the board of directors of the National Rice and Corn Corporation and of Arcadio Matela as ACCFA director.

PRESIDENT Garcia today declared that the Philippines will go to war only if provoked by direct military or naval attacks on her territory.

The President stressed this point at his regular press conference as he explained that the United States involvement in the Formosa crisis will not automatically draw the Philippines into the conflict.

He evaded persistent newsmen's questions for a clarification of a Malacañang communique issued after an eight-hour National Security Council meeting Thursday.

President Garcia said the communique which newsmen claimed was a "vague and ambiguous" was "clear enough and self-explanatory."

However, the President said that if the U. S. naval and military bases in the Philippines are attacked by foreign forces, the country will have to resort to punitive measures to repel what he called a "transgression of our sovereignty."

In discounting possibility of automatic involvement of the Philippines in the Formosa crisis by the United States; the President said the country is "not necessarily" drawn into the war if the vessels of the U.S. Seventh Fleet are attacked by Communist planes or warships.

The President also took occasion to reiterate his previous stand of non-involvement in the Formosa crisis which he enunciated in an interview with newsmen in Butuan City last week.

At the press conference the President reiterated that the Formosa situation is "not alarming and appealed to the press and the radio against stirring war jitters.

He said the war scares would be taken advantage of by unscrupulous persons in an effort to dislocate local economy by padding the prices of prime commodities.

Although he considered the Formosa crisis "not alarming" the President said the Philippines has been placed in a "state of constant vigilance."

He gave the impression at his press conference that the Philippines is prepared to cope with any emergency.

He observed that newspapers had conflicting interpretations of the communique and jokingly stated he wanted the "debate to go on."

However, the President reacted sharply to reports that U.S. pressure had been made to bear on him for a reversal of the PI position as he had announced in Butuan City.

Recalling his closed-door conference with US Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, the President pointed out that it was customary to honor ambassadors' request for appointment as they represent their respective heads of state.

President Garcia emphasized that the Philippines will stand by its treaty commitments in the PI-US Mutual Defense Pact. But he discounted automatic involvement of the Philippines even if the American forces are drawn into a shooting war with the Chinese Communists off Formosa.

The President explained that if the US bases in the country are attacked, he could as Chief Executive of the country, direct implementation of punitive measures to repel the aggression.

He declared that even if the attacks were concentrated on the US military and naval bases, the Philippines would have to react immediately to repel the aggression. He pointed out that in such a situation, the President would not have to wait for Congress to declare war.

THIS evening President Garcia conferred upon Felixberto Gonzales the Golden Heart Presidential Award in a ceremony at the Malacañang ceremonial hall.

A native of Bulacan, Gonzales was given the award for his “meritorious and distinguished services to the social and economic well-being of the people of Zamboanga who adopted him as one of their own.”

The citation stated that Gonzales was recognized for his philanthropic deeds and “Christian virtue of solicitude and love for his fellow-men as evidenced by his monetary and material aid and labor for the construction, improvement, and beautification of numerous civic centers, hospitals, and churches in his adopted community of Zamboanga.”

President Garcia today was awarded a plaque of appreciation by the Plywood Manufacturers’ Association of the Philippines (PMAP) in a ceremony held in the music room of Malacañang.

The award was given to President Garcia “for ably espousing the cause of the plywood industry of the Philippines during his state visit to the United States and for outstanding and distinguished contribution to industrial progress in the Philippines.”

The plaque was presented to the President by N. N. Kosloff, president of the PMAP. Those who witnessed the ceremony were Manuel Diaz (vice-president), R. Garcia (treasurer), M. Tinio (secretary), Mrs. E. C. Tinsoy (executive secretary), and Bill Murphy, Hector Jose Mon-fort, Benny Lim, John Gotauco, and Mrs. Allan A. O’Gorman, directors.

President Garcia also received Division Superintendent of Schools for Davao Jose A. Tuazon. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter.

September 6.—THIS morning President Garcia discussed with Gov. Leon Fernandez the peace and order condition obtaining in Sulu and issued directives aimed at improving the situation.

Fernandez alleged that a contributory factor in the worsening of the peace and order situation in his province was the ban imposed against the use of vessels above 30 tons in trading with Borneo. Fernandez pointed out that many of the vessels in his province were affected by the ban, thereby aggravating the situation of Sulu traders. He explained that the ban had thrown many persons out of work and forced them to resort to desperate measures to feed their families.

The President directed Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas to lift the ban on the use of vessels above 30 tons to engage in trading with Borneo, unless there were strong reasons to continue the ban.

The President discussed with the Sulu governor ways of providing the people with a means of livelihood; such as, the establishment of canneries or the promotion of cottage industries among the Muslim population. He said he would take this up with the department secretaries concerned.

The President also directed Vargas to provide high-powered arms to the Sulu police force to enable it to cope with the worsening peace and order situation obtaining in the area.

The Sulu executive said that with pistols alone, the police force of Sulu were helpless to improve the situation. He added that lawless elements in his province were better armed than the police force and were able to purchase high-powered arms from other provinces.

At another conference, President Garcia assured Rep. Lorenzo Teves of Negros Oriental that he will order the Philippine National Bank to release immediately the sum of ₱5 million to enable the NARIC to purchase corn.

President Garcia also had a conference with Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez on party matters. In the course of this conference, Speaker Romualdez took the opportunity to invite the President, to be guest of honor at the annual observance of the landing of the U.S. forces of liberation in Leyte on October 20. The celebration will be held in Tacloban City.

Other callers at the Bohol Avenue residence of the President in Quezon City this morning were Rep. Salipada Pendatun and Sen. Roseller T. Lim, who called to report on his recent trip abroad.

THIS afternoon President Garcia issued a stern warning against profiteers who take advantage of the war scare to jack up prices to the detriment of the consuming public. The President expressed concern over reports of steadily rising prices, particularly of prime commodities. He said that if this did not stop, the government would be forced to take appropriate measures in order to protect the masses from unscrupulous merchants.

The President reiterated that although the situation in Quemoy and Matsu was rather serious, there was as yet no cause for alarm. He appealed to the general public to refrain from spreading unfounded rumors so as not to unduly alarm the people and cause the skyrocketing of prices and unnecessary hardships to our people.

President's Week in Review: September 7-13, 1958

September 7.—EARLY this morning, President and Mrs. Garcia heard mass celebrated before an improvised altar in the President's residence in Quezon City.

After mass the President repaired to his study room and went over pending state papers.

He took a brief siesta after lunch and then continued to clear his desk of important papers in preparation for his departure this evening by boat for Cebu.

President Garcia had an early dinner and then motored to the Philippine Navy landing on Dewey Boulevard to board the presidential yacht

PRESIDENT Garcia was informed this evening of the establishment in favor of the Philippines by seven United States private banks of new credit lines amounting to $77.5 million.

The new accommodations were in addition to the $125 million loan obtained by the President himself during his June state visit to the US.

Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona and Eduardo Z. Romualdez, chairman of the Development Bank of the Philippines, informed the President of the establishment of the new credit lines.

Aytona and Romualdez, who arrived from the US earlier in the morning, made the report to the Chief Executive on board the yacht Santa Maria as President Garcia prepared to sail for Cebu.

President Garcia sailed this evening for Cebu to attend the celebration of the 80th birth anniversary of former President Sergio Osmeña, Sr., tomorrow.

The officials stressed that the credit lines were established by the President himself while he was on his state visit to the United States and that they were formalized by the President's financial experts who remained there last June.

The new $77.5 million credit line, it was explained, will be utilized for the importation of raw materials to feed local industrial plants.

Aytona and Romualdez told the President the credit lines, secured as short-term loans, were granted by four private banks in New York and three others in California.

It was understood that the Philippine Government settled for a short-term payment of the loans since they would be utilized only for the importation of raw materials for local industrial plants.

The $125 million loan obtained by the Chief Executive during his state visit will be utilized for the importation of capital goods. They are long-term loans.

September 8.—PRESIDENT Garcia today hailed current moves for diplomatic talks between the United States and Communist China to settle the crisis which had threatened the peace in Formosa and the whole world.

Commenting on the U.S. acceptance of China's offer to settle the Formosa dispute along diplomatic levels, President Garcia said, "It is better to settle the case on the conference table than shooting it out."

The President met newsmen briefly on board the presidential yacht which is taking the Chief Executive to Cebu where he will personally felicitate former President Sergio Osmeña on the occasion of the latter's 80th birthday anniversary tomorrow.

President Garcia expressed the belief that overtures on the peace talks considerably eased the tension on the Formosa question that threatened the peace of the world.

At the same time, the President said the mission of Eduardo Z. Romualdez, chairman of the Development Bank of the Philippines, and Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona in the United States was "fairly successful."

He disclosed that the $77.5 million loan secured by the missioners from seven US banks would help conserve the Central Bank's dollar reserves.

The President said he was calling the Council of State to a meeting this month to assess the economic needs of the country.

President Garcia likewise disclosed a plan to create a committee composed of heads of different chambers of commerce, industry, and agriculture to aid the government in planning the utilization of the new dollar loans.

The yacht Santa Maria sought sanctuary near the Maestre de Campo Island off Mindoro and Marinduque, some 150 nautical miles from Manila, when bigwaves and strong winds shook the vessel violently.

The vessel stopped off Maestre Island at 10 a.m. today and resumed voyage at 3 p.m. after the weather had improved slightly.

However, the trip was still turbulent with high winds buffeting the presidential yacht. Most of the passengers on board were forced to stay in their respective cabins.

The President told newsmen he was taking the turbulent voyage "stoically." He expressed apprehension that his scheduled arrival at 9 a.m. in Cebu might be disrupted.

On board the yacht with the President were the First Lady, Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia, and Reps. Sergio Osmeña, Jr., Bartolome Cabangbang, and Maximino Noel.

September 9.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia were given a rousing welcome upon arrival in Cebu shortly after high noon today.

A crowd estimated at 20,000 braved inclement weather to have a glimpse of the Chief Executive, who visited Cebu for the first time since his election.

Heading the fluvial parade were Gov. Jose Briones and City Mayor Ramon Duterte, who, together with other high government officials, boarded the presidential yacht when it arrived midway between Opon and Cebu City.

The President's morning schedule was entirely: cancelled because of the late arrival of the Sta. Maria, which sought shelter somewhere in Tablas Straits because of swells.

Upon arrival at the Cebu dock, the President immediately inspected an honor guard consisting of a battalion of soldiers, while at a distance an artillery battery fired a 21-gun salute marking the President's arrival.

The President immediately boarded No. 1 car which headed a motorcade that traveled to the residence of former President and Mrs. Sergio Osmeña amidst applause of residents who lined the way.

After greeting the former President who is celebrating his 80th birthday, the Chief Executive and party partook of a luncheon at the Osmeña residence. The President took a brief rest at the yacht, after which he had a press conference with newsmen covering his trip.

He proceeded to the residence of Gov. Briones, who gave cocktails in his honor. During cocktails, the President received numerous resolutions from various provincial and municipal officials.

After cocktails, the President proceeded to the Casino Espanol where dinner was served, climaxing the birthday celebration of former President Osmeña.

The President was expected to board the yacht at 11 o'clock this evening.

September 10.—PRESIDENT Garcia continued to be disturbed by reports of spiralling prices of prime commodities in the face of the Formosa war scare.

The President is sailing toward Manila aboard the yacht Sta. Maria which left Cebu early this morning. He went to the southern city to felicitate personally former President Sergio Osmeña, Sr., on the latter's 80th birth anniversary yesterday.

President Garcia, in a brief talk with newsmen, reiterated that he would not hesitate to wield his constitutional powers to arrest the artificial skyrocketing of the prices of prime commodities.

The President was particularly disturbed by reports that unscrupulous merchants are exploiting the misery of their country by jacking up the prices of prime commodities.

President Garcia's return voyage to Manila seems to be favored by relatively good weather. His trip to Cebu on board the same yacht was a turbulent one.

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Garcia, was expected to arrive in Manila early tomorrow morning.

September 11.—PRESIDENT Garcia returned today to Manila after an exciting four-day trip to Cebu aboard the presidential yacht Santa Maria through rough weather and choppy seas which gave most of the passengers a dizzy spell throughout the hectic voyage.

Upon his arrival the President conferred with Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, and Brig. Gen. Pelagio Cruz, chief of the Constabulary, on the burning of the Constabulary headquarters. The conference was held at the President's suite aboard the yacht.

The President was visibly disturbed by the reports which reached him while he was sailing towards Manila on the burning of Camp Crame headquarters; so he immediately directed his naval aide, Lt. Melchor Fronda, to summon Secretary Vargas to a morning conference aboard the yacht.

IN the afternoon, the President received Admiral Harry D. Felt, commander-in-chief of the United States forces in the Pacific.

Although the President had previously told newsmen that he would discuss the Formosa situation with the US admiral, Malacañang called Felt's visit as a "courtesy call."

Shortly after he had conferred behind closed doors with Admiral Felt, President Garcia said it is “unlikely” that the crisis off Formosa may spread to the Philippines as he reiterated his appeal to the people to be calm and not be unduly alarmed by threatened Chinese communist invasion of Quemoy and the Matsu Islands.

It was indicated that, during the 30-minute conference, the President and the US admiral reviewed the Formosa situation.

President Garcia, it was learned, was briefed by Admiral Felt on US and Formosa preparations to check the threatened communist “push” to Taiwan.

During the Cabinet meeting, the President directed the Social Security System and the Government Service Insurance System to make available ₱10 million to replenish the common bond fund in the treasury. The SSS will make available ₱5 million while the GSIS will supply the balance.

President Garcia also created a three-man committee to coordinate in the strict enforcement of three laws against profiteering and hoarding.

According to Secretary of Justice Jesus G. Barrera, these laws are the charters of the NAMARCO and the National Rice and Corn Corporation and the price tagging law.

Secretary Barrera had informed the President that these laws, if enforced strictly, would be able to combat the practice of unscrupulous traders of jacking up their prices.

Named to the three-man committee were Secretary Barrera, chairman; and Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez and Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, members.

Barrera pointed out that he will circularize all government fiscals to join the campaign against profiteering and hoarding.

At the same meeting, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo was asked to send a circular to provincial governors and city and municipal mayors to help in the Administration campaign to go after unscrupulous traders who had taken advantage of the Formosa crisis to jack up their prices.

In the early part of the Cabinet discussion, Secretary Hernaez and Col. Flaviano Olivares, chief of staff of the Constabulary, reported that there is no actual scarcity in prime commodities.

However, the two officials confirmed reports of soaring prices which they minimized as “not appreciable.” They said that prices of small items have increased from ₱0.5 to ₱0.15.

They pointed out that the “artificial shortage” was due to large-scale hoarding on account of the brewing crisis in Formosa area which is near the Philippines.

Alarmed by the upward trend in the prices of essential commodities, the President reiterated that the Formosa situation is not serious and is unlikely to spread to the Philippines.

He pointed out that if the danger of Philippine involvement into the conflict comes, he would make the announcement to warn the people properly.

The report of Secretary Hernaez and Col. Olivares jived with the findings of the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance and Efficiency (PCAPE) which branded the spiraling of prices as “unjustified.”

Justice Ocampo met Central Bank Deputy Governor Andres Castillo and representatives of the NAMARCO and the NARIC.

Acting Manager Juan Noble of the NAMARCO told the Cabinet this evening that the government marketing agency had sufficient stocks. He pointed out that more canned foods and other essential consumers goods will be distributed shortly.

At the same time, the President ordered the release of 200,000 bags of illegally imported flour which had been impounded in the customs area for distribution through the NAMARCO agencies.

He indicated that the flooding of, the market with essential and critical items would help stabilize the prices of these goods.

Malacañang said these 200,000 bags of flour were impounded by the Bureau of Customs upon the representation of the Central Bank for having been landed without the necessary importation papers.

Aside from the three laws cited by Barrera, President Garcia recalled that, in Manila, city authorities can enforce the provision of the public market code.

The code was cited recently by Mayor Arsenio H. Lacson in his own drive to check the spiralling of prices.

Lacson had threatened to cancel the licenses of traders who would unduly pad their prices. He had poised cancellation of permits of stallholders in city markets for increasing the prices of the goods.

The President also signed during the Cabinet meeting the appointments of Narciso Reyes, as Philippine minister to Rangoon, and Vicente Albano Pads, as Philippine information officer in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. Pacis replaced Reyes, who is now Philippine minister to Rangoon.

September 12.—PRESIDENT Garcia received today visiting U. S. Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker at the Malacañang study room.

Secretary Brucker arrived at 10 a.m. at Malacañang and was given full military honors by the Presidential Guard Battalion.

The President also met the members of his fiscal policy board and received from Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno a verbal report on the status of the negotiations for more U. S. development loans.

Other members present were Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, and Chairman Eduardo Z. Romualdez of the Development Bank of the Philippines.

THIS AFTERNOON President Garcia said the Philippines will “react militarily” if Formosa is attacked by the Chinese communists.

At his regular press conference, the President endorsed U. S. President Eisenhower's view that if Formosa falls the next communist target would be the Philippines.

The President also:

1. Disclosed that the United States Government has to secure the permission of the Philippine Government first before it could launch nuclear weapons from its bases in the country;
2. Hinted that the Philippines will not "actively participate" in an action to repel a communist invasion of Quemoy and the Matsu islands;
3. Bared that, in his 30-minute conference with U. S. Secretary of the Army Wilbur Brucker, he learned that the United States would defend Quemoy and the Matsu Islands from any communist invasion;
4. Called President Eisenhower's address on the Formosa crisis "frank, highly courageous, and realistic appraisal of the Formosa situation in its implications to Southeast Asia;"
5. Underscored the Philippine position against the recognition of Communist China even if the United States in its projected talks on the ambassadorial level in Warsaw would do so to preserve the peace in the Far East;
6. Refused to comment on Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano's statement in San Francisco that the Philippines would stand side by side with the United States "in the hour of peril."

President Garcia opened his regular press conference by reading a prepared statement endorsing President Eisenhower's assessment of the Formosa situation.

He said that President Eisenhower had set forth "once again, in clear and unmistakable terms, the position of the United States on this raging controversy, and gives reassurance of his country's readiness to stand by her commitments to her allies and friends in the free world."

President Garcia said President Eisenhower "reasserted the determination of the great American people to maintain a lasting and just and honorable peace even at the risk of war."

He said "this is very heart-warming, indeed, to all peace and freedom-loving peoples of the world."

The President stressed, however, that the Philippines would react "actively" in the event of a communist attack on Formosa.

He echoed President Eisenhower's views that after the fall of Formosa, the Philippines would be the next in line for conquest.

IN THE EVENING, the President motored to the Institute of Science building on Herran Street where he opened the science exhibition of the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization.

He made a brief extemporaneous address on science development which he said had advanced the happiness of mankind.

The President in his speech stressed the importance of science development which he said had "advanced the happiness of mankind."

Speaking extemporaneously, the President said that developments in the fields of science must be directed for useful purposes, as he hinted that the race on the exploitation of atoms have been pursued in preparation for war.

President Garcia expressed the appreciation of the Philippines to the Unesco for bringing the exhibits to the country.

From the Institute of Science building, the President motored to the residence of Rep. Bartolome Cabangbang of Bohol in Makati where he felicitated the solon on his birthday.

September 13.—THIS MORNING President Garcia gave last-minute instructions to Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, chief of staff of the Armed Forces of the Philippines, who is leaving tomorrow for Bangkok to attend the 9th SEATO Military Advisers' meeting.

The instructions to Gen. Arellano, who heads the Philippine panel, were given at a closed door conference held at the Quezon City residence of President Garcia. Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas was present at the conference which lasted for about 90 minutes.

IN THE AFTERNOON, the President had a conference with his financial advisers; namely, Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, Chairman Eduardo Z. Romualdez of the Development Bank, and Governor Miguel Cuaderno of the Central Bank. Also present at the conference which lasted from 5:30 to 8 p.m. was Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo.

THIS EVENING the President ordered the prosecution in court of a customs broker and an American firm for having allegedly cheated the government of taxes due on several shipments amounting to more than ₱100,000.

During the meeting, Calinawan informed the President that he had filed administrative charges against 18 customs officials with Secretary of Finance Jaime Hernandez.

Calinawan said Hernandez had already served the 18 customs officials with copies of the charges and had asked them to submit their explanation "within 72 hours."

The customs prober pointed out that suspension of some of the 18 customs officials will be ordered Wednesday unless they could satisfactorily explain the -charges filed against them.

At his conference with the President, Calinawan recommended the prosecution in court of Narciso Q. Gabriel, operator of the Gabriel Brokerage, and the officials of the American Wire and Cable Company, Inc.

He explained to the Chief Executive that Gabriel had allegedly worked out the exemption of shipments for the Superior Provisions, Inc., without the knowledge of the firm owner, August H. Kuritze.

It was indicated that Gabriel got a refund for several shipments of the Superior Provisions, Inc., amounting to ₱69,000, allegedly without the knowledge of the firm owner.

Calinawan said he will file 14 cases of estafa through falsification of public documents against Gabriel.

In recommending the prosecution of the officials of the American Wire and Cable Company, Inc., Calinawan pointed out that the firm which enjoys tax-free privileges had allegedly imported finished products and sold them locally.

The prober averred that the tax exemption of the firm was issued on the basis of its importation of raw materials in its manufacture of wires and cables.

Calinawan, however, could not immediately estimate the amount the government lost from this anomalous transaction. Asked by newsmen, Calinawan retorted: "I shudder to think of the amount."

The customs prober indicated that several finance officials may be implicated in these transactions. He was still studying the complicity of a top finance official in these cases. This official, he said, has something to do with the grant of tax exemptions to incoming shipments.

Administratively charged by Calinawan with venalities in the performance of their work in the Bureau of Customs are:

Exequel Omila, acting chief, cash division; Isidro Balaoro, appraiser, Emiliano Belulia, examiner; Pantaleon Gotladera, examiner; Emiliana Peralta, examiner; Jose P. Coletto, examiner, Dumaguete; Juan Ramirez, customs inspector; Rafael Poblete, customs inspector; Luis Sibunga, clerk, cash division; Crispin Vere, liquidator, liquidation division; Felix Abadanis y Aguirre, liquidator, liquidation division; Vicente Salvador, customs guard; Napoleon Herrera, customs guard; Leopoldo Huerto, customs guard; Modesto Guerrero, customs guard; Alejandro Dola, assistant customs warehouseman; and Jose M. Kierulf, inspector, hull and boiler.

With the exception of the two groups of morning and afternoon callers, the President did not receive any visitor the whole day. After having his breakfast at Malacañang early this morning, he boarded his car and motored to his Quezon City residence, taking along a pile of important state papers.

He spent the night in Quezon City.

Arañas, who submitted his first report since he was detailed to Malacañang to assist in the preparation of legislative measures to be submitted to Congress, recommended the amendment or repeal of several provisions of the national internal revenue code and other tax laws.

The President was informed by Arañas on the latter's proposals to tap new sources of revenue andV, redistribute the burden of taxation equitably on the basis of ability to pay.

Arañas also proposed the conversion of the Bureau of Internal Revenue into a Commission in accordance with the recommendation of the Government Survey and Reorganization Commission.

Arañas proposed amendments to the tax exemption law in order to do away with "ghost" factories which imported goods during the last three years for resale to third parties and not for its actual use.

IN THE AFTERNOON, the President received Jesus Cabarrus, president of the Philippine Base Metals Association.

J. Antonio Araneta, former BIR collector, also saw the President.

Retired Brig. Gen. Leoncio Tan, newly-named general manager of the National Rice and Com Corporation, was the last caller to see the President early in the evening.

THE PRESIDENT directed the suspension of the order laying off and reducing the salaries of, some personnel of the Bureau of Printing after some 100 members of the Bureau of Printing Employees Association saw him in Malacañang this afternoon.

In a directive addressed to Acting Secretary Serafin Salvador of General Services and Director Mariano Ledesma of the Bureau of Printing, President Garcia called the two officials to a conference for the purpose of finding out the justification for such laying off or salary reductions, purportedly in the implementation of Executive Order No. 290.

The President also expressed a desire to have a representative of the employees at the conference so that the side of the employees could be properly presented. The conference has been scheduled at Malacañang at 9 a.m. on Wednesday.

Through their spokesmen, Pacifico Advincula, president of the association, the printing employees requested the intervention of the President on the following: (1) that unjustified dismissal of employees be stopped; (2) that there should be no reduction in their salaries; (3) that there should be no changes in the classification of employees; and (4) that the modified plantilla of the Bureau of Printing as prepared by the WAPCO be implemented.

The President was informed that last July 1, 47 employees had been dismissed allegedly because their items had been eliminated from the plantilla. However, after subsequent representations made with the Department of General Services, 30 of the 47 dismissed employees had been reinstated while new men had been hired to replace the rest.

The President was also told that some of those dismissed had been in the service for periods ranging from two to 10 years.

Advincula said also that 18 other employees were slated to be laid off tomorrow (Sept. 16) and that their replacements had already been informed to report for work.

The President was also informed by Advincula that the order dismissing these employees had been signed by Secretary Alejandro Almendras of the Department of General Services before he left for London.

The President in turn assured these employees that he would see to it that no dismissal would be made without justification.

September 16.—IMMEDIATE repair of the Sayre Highway in Mindanao to help small farmers in bringing their bountiful corn crop to market was urged this day by three Mindanao solons at a conference in Malacañang with President Garcia.

Sen. Emmanuel Pelaez informed the President that the Sayre Highway is actually in a deplorable state, especially in Bukidnon where it is “no better than logging roads.”

Reps. Cesar Fortich of Bukidnon and Fausto Dugenio of Misamis Oriental supported Sen. Pelaez’ statement.

Sen. Pelaez also informed the President that the release of the maintenance funds of the highway should be expedited as well as the release of the amount of ₱100,000 provided for by law for the construction of a permanent bridge to replace the ferry at Carmen, Cotabato.

The Senator informed President Garcia that the immediate repair of the highway would help the small farmers in transporting to market their corn crops. Practically all the countryside had been planted to corn and the harvest is good, Pelaez said.

Pelaez also took the opportunity to inform the President that a portion of the Agusan-Davao road is impassable, forcing the residents of about seven or eight towns to walk the distance to get another bus at the other end of the road in order to reach the capital of Agusan.

Pelaez urged the cancellation of the contract and asked that the Bureau of Public Highways take over the work.

Brig. Gen. Alfredo Santos, acting chief of staff of the Armed Forces of the Philippines, paid a courtesy call on the President. Santos is acting as AFP head during the absence of Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, AFP chief of staff, and Maj. Gen. Manuel Cabal, vice-chief of staff, who are in Bangkok attending the SEATO military advisers’ confab.

Other callers of President Garcia consisted mostly of congressmen who consulted him on problems of their respective localities. They included Reps. Vicente Peralta of Sorsogon, Justiniano Montano of Cavite, Manuel Enverga and Leon Guinto, Jr., of Quezon, Leonardo Perez of Nueva Vizcaya, Agaton Ursua of Camarines Sur, Jacobo Gonzales of Laguna, Benjamin Ligot and Felipe Garduque of Cagayan, Eladio Balite of Samar, Francisco Sumulong of Rizal, and Luciano* Millan of Pangasinan.

PRESIDENT Garcia and House leaders this evening agreed to enforce the controversial tax census law.

The President, after a long conference with House scions headed by Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, “is of the opinion that the law should be implemented within the means provided for by Congress.”

Deadline for the submission of the tax census papers with the Bureau of Internal Revenue falls on Monday, September 22.

The President, in deciding to enforce the law, admitted that it contained certain defects.

However, he expressed the belief that the defects can be cured by presidential action.

The President stressed that he would “study seriously” the defects and bring about the necessary remedies.

Present at the conference were, in addition to Speaker Romualdez, Reps. Eladio Balite, Lamberto Macis, Natalio P. Castillo, Faustino Tobia, Godofredo Reyes, Bartolome Cabangbang, Lorenzo Teves, Domitilo Abordo, Mar-celino Veloso, Sergio Osmeña, Jr., Isidro Kintanar, Salipada Pendatum, Leonardo Perez, Luciano Millan, Emilio Cortez, Jacobo Gonzales, Justiniano S. Montano, Francisco Sumulong, Benjamin T. Ligot, Vicente L. Peralta, and Ricardo Yap Ladrado.

The President pointed out that one of the widely-criticized statements in the tax census form was the requirement to report the bank deposits of persons who had reached 18 years or over.

The Cebu solon charged that the BIR had required a census of the property of the taxpayers.

The President had agreed in principle to the proposal of Speaker Romualdez for the creation of a “secretariat” in the Nacionalista Party to direct the affairs of the political organization throughout the year.

He indicated that the creation of a “secretariat” will strengthen the political organization and attend to the intramural rifts which have weakened the group as a result of political jealousies and to the handling of political patronage.

September 17.—PRESIDENT Garcia discussed this morning with high government officials and labor leaders the reclassification and promotion in salaries of the personnel of the Bureau of Printing.

Present at the conference held at the Quezon City residence of the Chief Executive were Undersecretary Serafin Salvador of General Services, Printing Director Mariano Ledesma, Eulogio Lerum, and Pacifico Advincula, president of the Bureau of Printing Employees Association.

The conferees discussed the readjustments made under Executive Order No. 290, which implements the Government Reorganization Act, and referred the matter to the Budget Commission for the reclassification of positions in the bureau.

The President called Salvador and Ledesma to a conference after he had received last Friday some 100 BPEA members who asked for the reinstatement of 17 dismissed employees and for the implementation of the WAPCO modified plantilla for the bureau.

PRESIDENT Garcia this evening ordered a “blanket” extension by 30 days of the deadline for the filing of tax census forms following numerous requests and protests from various sectors of the economy.

The President, during a conference with Secretary of Finance Jaime Hernandez and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Melecio Domingo, also decided to “do away with three extraneous matters” required in the forms but “which were not specifically called for in Republic Act 2070, the tax census law.”

It was decided that in future forms to be printed, the requirements on bank deposits in item No. 11, and the columns titled “fair market value” and “acquisition cost” in item Nos. 6 and 7 will be deleted.

However, for those who have already secured forms, these requirements should only be considered “optional” which the filer may or may not fill.

Upon recommendation of Domingo, the President decided to allow a general extension in the deadline for filing.

Original deadline for filing was set on September 22, 1958. The extended deadline has now been set for October 21, 1958.

The President called to conference Hernandez and Domingo shortly before presiding over the weekly Cabinet meeting purposely to thresh out criticisms and protests against the tax census forms issued by the BIR for the implementation of the tax census law.

AT the regular Cabinet meeting this afternoon, the President directed the National Marketing Corporation to release 166,000 bags of impounded flour and release all its stocks of canned foods as a counter-measure to arrest the spiralling of prices.

The President was disturbed by reports of the unabated upswing of prices of prime commodities brought about by unscrupulous merchants who are taking advantage of the Formosa crisis.

The Cabinet, at the same time, also approved the allocation of ₱5 million from the reparations to finance the acquisition of pre-fabricated houses to accommodate the increasing school population.

The Cabinet action was spurred by the recurrent school crisis at the opening of the school term every year due to lack of school buildings.

September 18.—PRESIDENT Garcia was informed today by acting Vigan Mayor Atilano Nolasco that civic-minded citizens and politicians of different party affiliations agreed to bring about the restoration of peace and order in Vigan.

Mayor Nolasco, accompanied by Reps. Faustino Tobia and Godofredo Reyes of Ilocos Sur, pledged the support of the members of the municipal council to the peace and order campaign ordered by President Garcia immediately after the killing of Mayor Vicente Formoso.

President Garcia impressed upon the Ilocos Sur politicians the need to restore peace and order in the province so as “not to desecrate the memory of the late President Elpidio Quirino.”

While he lamented the deterioration of the peace and order situation in Ilocos Sur due to the killing of Mayor Formoso, President Garcia expressed his determination to press his pacification campaign.

Other members of the Vigan municipal council who pledged support to the Garcia pacification campaign in Ilocos Sur were Librado Espiritu, Pedro Colcol, Susano Ancheta, Francisco Averia, Florencio Arcano, and Juan Florentino.

The President also conferred with Mines Director Benjamin Gozon and expressed his satisfaction that the survey of the mineral deposits in the islands of Nonoc and Dinagat has been completed.

Gozon informed President Garcia that in both islands the survey disclosed that there is about one billion tons of mineral ore, and preliminary findings seem to show that there are about one billion tons of mineral ore in the province of Surigao.

In view of the Gozon report, President Garcia expressed his determination to push through the integrated steel industry project in order to avoid the exportation of ore to Japan for processing.

The President also discussed with Gov. Felixberto Dagani of Agusan the exploitation of hydroelectric power in the province, and then directed the National Power Corporation officials to study the sites of a hydroelectric plant either in Agay or in Paypay.

In a directive to NPC officials President Garcia stated that the lumber industry in Agusan is increasingly in need of hydroelectric power.

Baguio City Mayor Alfonso Taliora complained to President Garcia that the Central Bank is demanding that Baguio pay ₱96,000 representing the amortization and interests of a bond issue amounting to ₱640,000 for the improvement of the city's waterworks system.

Tabora informed President Garcia that Baguio had only received the amount of ₱100,000 for the improvement of its waterworks system which was later disposed of by the City Engineer without the knowledge and consent of the Mayor or the Municipal Council.

Other presidential callers this morning included Guillermo Jurado, PRO of the Reparations Commission who reported to President Garcia on his trip to Japan, and Governors Jose Espino of Nueva Vizcaya and Fernando Veloso of Samar.

The President today directed the Department of Foreign Affairs to conduct a formal inquiry into the reported incident featuring the unauthorized landing of a Chinese Nationalist plane in Poro Point, La Union.

IN THE AFTERNOON, the President received Albertus Taapken, vice-president and manager of the international banking department of the Crocker-Anglo National Bank in San Francisco, California, and G. Scott Runyan, assistant vice-president of the international banking department of the same bank. This bank is one of the seven banking institutions which have granted a $77.5 million credit line to the Philippines.

Taapken and Runyan arrived in the Philippines last Sunday. They will stay here for two weeks. Taapken is on his way to attend the International Monetary Fund conference in New Delhi, India, while Runyan will visit other Asian countries. They were accompanied to Malacañang by Chairman Eduardo Z. Romualdez of the Development Bank of the Philippines.

Among the topics taken up was the proposed arrangements for the deferred payment of capital goods amounting to $15 million which the United States Industries, Inc., and Caterpillar Overseas, C.A., will jointly extend to the Philippines.

Preliminary talks on this subject between the President and officials of the U.S. Industries, Inc., and Caterpillar Overseas, C.A., were stated during the President's state visit to America last June.

They showed the President plans for the construction and establishment of a new international airport which they said will be capable of handling jet aircraft which will be coming in within a year or two.

Baldwin told President Garcia that, this airfield will have a total area of 2,500 hectares and will be the largest in the world when completed.

Idlewild International Airport in New York, Baldwin said, has an area of 2,000 hectares.

According to their plan, the airport will be located some 15 kilometers away from Nichols Field.

Other afternoon callers were Senator Arturo M. Tolentino, who saw the President for final instructions prior to his departure on Monday for the United Nations General Assembly meeting; and Telecommunications Director Jose Alfonso, who conferred with the President on plans for the expansion of the bureau with equipment from Japanese reparations.

President Garcia and Eduardo Z. Romualdez this afternoon considered seriously a proposal to intensify financing of agricultural and industrial enterprises through the Development Bank of the Philippines, in line with the Administration's objective for increased production both in the agricultural and the industrial fields.

Press Secretary Jose C. Nable said that this step would tie up the development program of financing to loans obtained from the United States, particularly those from capital goods secured through credit sources in the U. S.

President Garcia and Romualdez discussed in particular ways and means of encouraging further the mining industry in the Philippines and other industries needing raw materials locally obtainable.

September 19.— CONSTABULARY protection was extended today to the family of Lorenzo Formoso, murdered mayor of Vigan, Ilocos Sur, by President Garcia immediately after he was informed by Rep. Faustino Tobia of Ilocos Sur that a rival political group had hired goons to liquidate leaders of the Formoso faction.

The Ilocos Sur solon who accompanied the widow and two daughters of the slain town executive to Malacañang also informed President Garcia that the goons had threatened his life as well as that of Lorenzo Formoso, Jr., son of the slain mayor.

Mrs. Lourdes I. Formoso, widow of the murdered mayor, and her daughters Letty and Lilia stated before President Garcia that Lorenzo, Jr., was ordered to leave Vigan or face liquidation.

National Integration Commissioner Madki Alonto, together with Hadji Ibrahim Ali, saw President Garcia and reiterated his recommendation that in future pilgrimages to Mecca closer government control and supervision should be instituted.

Alonto informed President Garcia that there were only 16 registered deaths on board the pilgrimage ship; most of those who died were either old, sickly, or too young.

THE CIVIL SERVICE Board of Appeals was reconstituted this morning with the induction of Justice Undersecretary Enrique A. Fernandez as the third member of the three-man body.

Fernandez took his oath of office before Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, chairman of the board. He replaces Sen. Ambrosio Padilla whose term of office expired on February 8, 1958.

As reconstituted, the Civil Service Board of Appeals is now composed of Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, chairman, and Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo and Justice Undersecretary Enrique A. Fernandez, members.

Immediately after the oath-taking, Chairman Aytona announced that the board will commence full operations and meet every Friday to clear up the backlog of pending cases arising from the failure of the board to meet since early this year.

AT his regular press conference this afternoon, the President expressed optimism on the possible settlement of the Formosa question and frowned upon a congressional agitation for a special session to take up the fluctuating tension north of the Philippines.

He said "calling Congress to a special session now is unnecessary and it would merely add to the war jitters."

The President also:

1. Refused to comment on the reported Russian and Chinese Communist warnings against the Philippines on the use of U.S. bases here in the defense of Quemoy and Matsu Islands;
2. Branded as "academic" discussions on the possible launching of nuclear weapons in U.S. bases in the Philippines;
3. Indicated that the Philippines will comply with its obligation of providing for a token force in the event the United Nations approves a plan to establish a UN peace force to police troubled spots in the world;
4. Denied reports that the Philippine delegation to the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization military advisers conference has sponsored a plan to include the Formosa straits within the SEATO area; and
5. Shied away from questions on the unexpected landing in Poro Point, La Union, of a damaged Chinese Nationalist warplane.

The President supported the U.S. proposal for a "ceasefire" in Formosa even as Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano was reported as preparing to sponsor the move before the UN General Assembly meeting Monday.

Serrano, reports said, will take up the U.S. proposal which was first broached by U.S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles before the UN assembly meeting.

The President pointed out that it was "routinary" for countries to observe a ceasefire agreement pending talks for the settlement of their conflicts, and indicated that the Philippines will also support the move to sidetrack the Formosa question from UN discussion until the move to pletion of the Warsaw peace talks.

September 20.- ALTHOUGH the President had wanted to rest during weekends, he found out this afternoon that several callers were waiting for him at the receiving room of his private residence in Quezon City.

This afternoon the President received a delegation from Davao headed by Gov. Vicente Duterte, who took up problems confronting his province.

Duterte told the President that he had come a long way from the southern Mindanao province and could not wait until an appointment was fixed for his audience with the Chief Executive.

Gov. Duterte had sought financial aid from the Chief Executive for the National Trade School in Davao City. He said that unless Malacañang helped the institution, the trade school may be closed for lack of funds.

With Duterte were Mayors Osqaldo Barol of Lupon and Gregorio Dujan of Panabo.

After the Davao delegation, the President received Sen. Eulogio Balao, who returned the other day from a ten-day trip to Japan.

The Cagayan Senator reported to the President on his trip to Tokyo. He recommended a plan to extend the Manila Railroad line from Manila to Cagayan by procuring the necessary materials from the reparations items.

The President said he will submit the Balao plan to the Reparations Commission and to the board of directors of the Manila Railroad Company.

Constancio Soria, Quezon City electrician, this evening called on the President. Although Malacañang did not reveal the subject matter taken up at the conference, it was learned that the caller had- urged President Garcia to go ahead with the latter's plan of reorganizing the Quezon City administration.

Soria, who is from Bohol, is one of the aspirants for the naayoralty of Quezon City.

Rep. Bartolome C. Cabangbang, President Garcia's "hatchet man," had strongly recommended the appointment of Carlitos V. David to the city mayoralty in the event Mayor Norberto Amorarto is relieved. David was national vice-chairman of the Garcia-for-President-Movement in the last elections.

PRESIDENT Garcia was informed by the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency (PCAPE) that exchange controls as now administered by the Central Bank, can never stop the drain on the country's dollar reserves.

A report submitted to the President in Malacañang this evening said that "there is too much discretion being exercised by persons who are not subject to the restraints of public opinion and who can therefore afford to be capricious or arbitrary for their own interest.

"As long as controls are continued to protect the dollar reserves, import and export anomalies such as are happening now are too lucrative to be resisted by even normally honest men," the report claimed.

September 21.—PRESIDENT Garcia did not receive any caller the whole day today. He spent the day at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City.

Waking up early this morning, the President heard mass said at the living room of his residence. With him at the mass were Maj. Jose Estrella, military aide, and members of the household help.

After a light breakfast, the President spent some time strolling around the lawn, engaging in conversation some gardeners he found tending flower plants in the premises.

About 10 a.m., the President repaired to his study where he read the Sunday papers. He also went over some state papers he had brought over from Malacañang the day before.

The President had lunch about 1 p.m. After a brief siesta, he again repaired to his study where he continued poring over state papers.

September 22.—THIS MORNING President Garcia explored the possibility of expanding the plywood industry and, as a complementary measure, the establishment of glue factories in the Philippines at a conference with American plywood manufacturers.

The President received Harold R. Jones and Russell Jones of Oregon, and Alfredo Ferrer and Mrs. Rosario Valdez, with whom he discussed the problems of the local plywood industry.

The Chief Executive stressed the importance of developing the local plywood industry as a means of giving job opportunities to the labor force.

The President was assured by Mr. Jones that there is a ready market for Philippine plywood in the United States. Mr. Jones pointed out that the local plywood industry could expand its production by two or three times and could still be absorbed by the American market.

Mr. Jones decried the exportation of Philippine logs to Japan where it is processed and then sent as finished product to the American market where it competes with locally produced plywood.

The President assured members of the Philippine Contractors Association who called on him this morning in Malacañang that the government is not contemplating to import Japanese engineers and contractors to undertake the extension of the MRR line to Cagayan.

PCA members, led by Eduardo Escobar, PCA president, had expressed fear that Japanese technical men might be employed in the project, following a recent conference between President Garcia and Sen. Eulogio Balao on this subject.

According to Escobar, Filipino engineers possess the technical know-how but that they lack the equipment to do the job. He added that the equipment could be procured from Japan as part of the reparations payments to the Philippines.

President Garcia, in turn, told them that he and Sen. Balao merely discussed plans for the financing of the project and that nothing was mentioned about how the construction would be carried out.

Other members of the PCA delegation were Perfecto Mahalac, Pedro Valdez, Domingo Poblete, Maximo Dimson, Lorenzo Viedad, Graciano Borja, and Placido Urbanes.

President Garcia also received an invitation to be the guest speaker at the opening of the Labor-Management Congress on October 16. The invitation was extended to Malacañang by Labor Secretary Angel Castaño.

The President was informed that some 2,000 delegates, including 17 from Asian countries, England, and the United States, are expected to attend the congress.

Members of the executive council of the Labor-Management Congress who called on President Garcia this morning included Director Bernardino R. Abes of the Bureau of Labor Relations, secretary-general of the council; Teofilo Reyes, Sr.; Juan Tan; Jose Hernandez; Zosimo Resurreccion; H. B. Reyes; Dean Conrado Benitez; and Enrique Cruz, council secretary.

Officers of two technological associations, the United Technological Organizations of the Philippines (UTOP) and the Chamber of Technology, called on President Garcia to pledge their support and to offer their services to the Administration.

Among those in the UTOP delegation were Otillo Arellano, president, Jones Castro, Werner Fischer, Crisostomo Alma Jose, Vivencio Araos, Carlos Arguelles, Dr. Joaquin Marafion, Manuel Felizardo, Fernando Ocampo, Cesar Concio, Manuel Aycardo, Benjamin Salonga, and Andres Hizon.

Newly-elected officers of the Chamber of Technology who paid a courtesy call on President Garcia were Filemon Rodriguez, president; Arturo Tongco, vice-president; George Adamson, treasurer; Sergio Bayan, Manuel Felizardo, Florencio Tamesis, Eduardo Taylor, Benito Legarda, Sr., and Felix Maramba, directors; and Gabino Mendoza, executive secretary.

President Garcia also thanked members of the Women's Party of the Philippines who came to offer their services in the government's campaign to stop the spiralling prices of prime commodities.

Miss Inocencia Revilla, president of the organization, told the President that the women are most concerned about increasing prices of goods because any rise in the price of commodities adversely affects the home budget.

A delegation of homesteaders led by Buenaventura de Guzman called on President Garcia and requested his help for the opening of public land in the Zambales-Bataan-Pampanga junction area for agricultural purposes.

Spokesmen of the group were Leandro Canlas, president of the association, and Jose Huerta, director.

Other callers were Rev. Fr. Felix Perez, Mrs. Lourdes C. Raymundo, and Francisco P. Nuguid in connection with the coming fiesta of the district of San Miguel, Manila; Fernando Fuentes, Alfonso Fallarme, Crispin Veloso, Pablo Garcia, Bonaparte Garcia, and Ubaldo C. Lalin.

PRESIDENT Garcia accepted the credentials of Dr. Anton Mayr-Harting as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of Austria to the Philippines in a ceremony held in Malacañang this afternoon.

In presenting his credentials, Dr. Mayr-Harting expressed confidence that he would find in the Philippine Chief Executive “a helpful friend at my efforts to intensify and to deepen the good relations already existing between Austria and the Philippines.”

The Austrian minister also conveyed his “most sincere wishes for Your Excellency’s welfare and happiness as well as for the prosperity of the Philippines.”

The President, in accepting the credentials, said that with the accreditation of the new envoy, the ties that link the Philippines and Austria would be given added strength.

Dr. Mayr-Harting is resident minister of Austria to Thailand and concurrently non-resident minister to the Philippines.

Born in Vienna on February 12, 1904, he obtained his LI. D. degree at the University of Prague in 1928. He started service with the ministry of foreign affairs in Prague in 1935. He was named vice-consul and assigned to Czechoslovakian consulate general in Istanbul in 1937, resigned from the ministry of foreign affairs in 1938, rendered military service from 1942 to 1945, reentered the foreign service of his government in 1946, was named secretary of legation in 1948 as Austrian consul at Johannesburg from 1950 to 1955, and then counsellor, second class, in 1957.

Accompanied by honorary Austrian Consul Hans Steiner and Minister Jose Estrada, protocol officer of the Department of Foreign Affairs, Minister Mayr-Harting was rendered full military honors on his arrival at Malacañang at 5 p.m. by an honor guard formed by a unit of the Presidential Guard Battalion.

After acknowledging the raffles and flourishes offered by his honor guard, the Austrian minister was led up the Palace stairs to the ceremonial hall for the presentation. Present at the ceremonies were Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, Foreign Affairs Undersecretary Juan Alcazaren, and Ministers Benito Bautista and Enrique Garcia.

IN THE EVENING President Garcia emphatically declared that he cannot suspend the effectivity of the tax census law, much as he would want to, because there is no specific provision in the Constitution granting him that power.

The President issued this statement to clarify certain reports which tend to show that he refused to hold in abeyance the implementation of this much-discussed law.

He expressed his personal inclination to have the implementation of the tax census act suspended this year until January of next year.

He said the holding of a census in October and another three months later would inconvenience a large segment of our people, as the period of time in-between is apparently very short.

President Garcia recalled that during his conference last week with congressmen, the conferees were of the opinion that the President had no power to suspend the effectivity of this law. In that meeting the conferees stressed that only data contained in the tax census act should be required of persons filing a tax census report.

As a result, he continued, the questions requiring the revelation of bank deposits, the cost of acquisition of properties, and their fair market value have been omitted.

President Garcia said it would not be fair to require persons to answer questions that are optional in character. He pointed out that such tax census reports will be filed as sworn statements.

The President, however, qualified his statement by intimating that he would go over decided cases in the hope of finding a precedent which could be used as a basis for ordering the suspension of the tax census law until certain defects could be ironed out by the Congress.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the Philippines this evening presented to President Garcia a memorandum which embodies six recommendations aimed at giving Filipinos a more active participation in business.

Led by their president, Marcelo S. Balatbat, CCP directors reiterated their endorsement of the "Filipino first" policy of the National Economic Council in the allocation of foreign exchange to implement the policies of the government to encourage Filipinos to engage in enterprises and industries vital to the economic growth, stability, and security of the country.

The CCF directors also reiterated their previous recommendation for the immediate implementation of the policy of the Central Bank to give special foreign exchange support to bona fide Filipino importers who can secure exclusive distributorship contracts with foreign manufacturers and suppliers.

Another recommendation submitted by the CCF directors was to the effect that, in the purchase of equipment and materials above $10,000 not manufactured in the country, the calls for bids should be on C & F prices instead of F.O.B bodega.

The CCP directors pointed out the fact that present bids allow only importers with big dollar allocations to participate in these government transaction. Under their proposal, the CCP directors stated that small businessmen would be placed on an equal footing with the big ones.

Another recommendation submitted to President Garcia would exempt all Filipino importers with less than $10,000 quota allocations per semester from the requirement of the Central Bank to put up a marginal deposit equivalent to 100 per cent on semi-essential and 200 per cent on non-essential imports.

Other CCP directors who saw President Garcia were Ramon V. del Rosario, Jose Y. Orosa, Education Secretary Manuel Lim, H. R. Reyes, Ben Medrano, Martiniano G. Abad, and Efren V. Mendoza.

September 23.—PRESIDENT Garcia will study the possibility of authorizing the release of funds under the ₱25 million bond issue sold to the Government Service Insurance System and the Social Security System to complete the construction of six new operating rooms for the Philippine General Hospital.

The Chief Executive discussed this morning with Rep. Ricardo Y. Ladrado of Iloilo the problems of the hospital, especially the congestion of patients due to lack of wards.

Under Republic Act 1900, better known as the Bond Issue Act, the sum of ₱700,000 was appropriated for the construction of the six operating rooms. However, only the sum of ₱400,000 was released.

Owing to lack of funds, the construction of the operating rooms was suspended, according to the Iloilo solon who was directed by Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez to go to the hospital on a fact-finding mission in view of numerous complaints against the personnel and facilities of the hospital.

President Garcia was informed that the hospital has actually two makeshift operating rooms; so operations are sometimes postponed except for major ones.

The Iloilo Solon also informed the President that the PGH with a 940-bed capacity should have at least eight operating rooms, pointing out that the North General Hospital with only a 450-bed capacity has eight operating rooms.

The President also directed F. F. Santiago, general manager of the Manila Railroad Company, to suspend the bidding for the sale of a tract of land owned by the state firm in San Mateo, Rizal.

Upon hearing that there are about 1,000 houses in the area facing demolition in case the land is sold to bidders for subdivision purposes, President Garcia directed Santiago to make necessary plans for the sale of the lot to present occupants.

Other callers were Reps. Natalio Castillo and Maximino Garcia of Bohol, Laurentino Badelles of Lanao, Manuel Agudo of Batanes, Luciano Millan of Pangasinan, Marcelino Veloso of Leyte, Justiniano Montano of Cavite, Apolinario Apacible of Batangas, Felipe Garduque of Cagayan, and Manuel Enverga of Quezon.

The President this day directed Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo to submit at the earliest date the list of one-peso-a-year men in Malacañang for the purpose of weeding out undesirable appointees.

Press Secretary Jose C. Nable quoted the President as seriously bent on eliminating those appointees who would make use of their positions for purely personal and commercial motives.

President Garcia, however, qualified his position in favor of retaining those appointees who have helped the government in the study of administration problems, naming in particular several prominent citizens.

The latest presidential directive is in line with President Garcia's campaign against influence peddling and graft and corruption in the government ranks, Secretary Nable said.

THIS EVENING the President had another marathon conference with members of Congress who saw him at his private residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, to discuss party matters but mostly on the political patronage, "pork barrel" funds, and alleged discourtesy of government officials to the solons.

A Malacañang spokesman who reported on the proceedings early this evening said the solons griped against the officials of the backpay division of the national treasurer's office for allegedly ignoring members of Congress who follow up papers for their clients.

Irate solons, who unburdened their grievances for being given the run-around in the backpay division, urged the President to mobilize the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency to conduct an inquiry into the procedure followed by the office.

What incensed the solons was the fact that their disappointed clients switched to "fixers" in the office, who, they charged could get the check in record time.

Amused by the solon's gripes, the President said he will refer their complaint to National Treasurer Vicente Gella.

Until press time, the President was still in conference with the solons. They recessed at 9 o'clock this evening to join the President at the dining table.

Officials of the Philippine Producers' Co-operative Marketing Association, Inc., accompanied by Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez and Reps. Vicente Gustilo and Agustin Gatuslao saw President Garcia and submitted a memorandum applying for allocation of irrigation sets from Japanese reparations. They also submitted a proposal to barter sugar fertilizer.

Jose Gaston, PHILPROCUM president, informed President Garcia that the irrigation sets will be used on lowland rice and corn fields to which the sugar planters are now earnestly directing their attention in preparation for the time when the sugar industry may not be so profitable.

Earlier, the President received Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno, Games and Amusement Board Chairman Manuel Nieto, Jr., and J. V. Pickering and C. A. Larsen, director and Philippine general manager, respectively, of the Standard-Vacuum Oil Co.

PRESIDENT Garcia today pictured a rosy future for local industries and pledged government support to the fiscal needs of such industries.

In a fighting extemporaneous speech before a large gathering of the Manila Lions Club in the Manila Hotel, the President also underscored the unprecedented record of the Administration in ridding the Bureau of Customs of grafters.

President Garcia asked his audience which consisted of businessmen to look at the industrial situation realistically and accept both the good and the bad sides of the problem.

He gave importance to the increase of new industries from 150 in 1950 to around 900 this year which is a healthy sign of progress towards achieving self-sufficiency in this country.

While admitting the existence of a low-dollar reserve in the Central Bank, President Garcia pointed out that this should not be a cause for alarm. The greater number of industries in the country today makes it imperative for the government to support them with the necessary dollars for the purchase of raw materials and spare parts.

It is the government's moral obligation to support such industries; so this fiscal backing will be continued by the government, President Garcia assured.

As a Filipino, President Garcia said, we should be proud that in such a short time we have been able to go very far in our industrialization.

The Chief Executive assailed administration critics for distorting the true situation obtaining in the government's program for industrialization.

Earlier in his speech President Garcia explained the functions and bared the excellent record of the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance and Efficiency (PCAPE). He said that the PCAPE would be the machinery which will check up on the implementation of administration programs.

He revealed that as of September 19, 1958, a total of 57 cases have been reported and acted upon by the PCAPE in its investigation of the Bureau of Customs.

President Garcia however was quick to emphasize that the accused would be given their day in court and that care will be exerted to the utmost in order to prevent any possible injustice committed against any one of the accused.

The President took time to lash back at the administration critics for their unjust claim of whitewash of the investigations. This country observes the democratic principles, President Garcia said, and there is the legislative department to make the laws, the executive department to execute such laws, and finally the judiciary to interpret them.

Because of this system of government, the President said, the accused must be granted every opportunity to defend himself. To rush such things may be tantamount to establishing a dictatorial form of government in this country.

THE EARLY RELEASE of more than ₱19,408,000 for the operation and maintenance of the Department of Education was urged by Secretary of Education Manuel Lim on President Garcia and the Cabinet during the Cabinet meeting today.

In a memorandum submitted during the meeting for the consideration of the President and the members of the Cabinet, Secretary Lim pointed out that if the amount will not be released, all public school teachers and other school personnel may not receive their salaries for one month, several vocational schools will be closed, and several projects of the department will stop operations.

Secretary Lim said the following amounts are urgently needed;

- (1) ₱9,971,550 for the payment of one month's salary of all teachers and other school personnel;
- (2) ₱3,000,000 for the payment of gratuity of retirees under Republic Act No. 1616;
- (3) ₱1,050,000 for the improvement and current operating expenses of four vocational schools which were formerly financed partly from local funds, now completely withdrawn by the local government;
- (4) ₱925,000 for the operation and maintenance of six general high schools converted to vocational schools effective this fiscal year;
- (5) ₱885,000 for operation and maintenance of schools not included in the first two items;
- (6) ₱3,425,000 for the establishment of new vocational schools because of insistent demands from public officials, parents, and civic organizations; and
- (7) ₱123,000 for the operation and maintenance of deworming, malnutrition, and health education units of the Medical and Dental Services.

Other projects of the Department of Education which are being hampered owing to lack of funds, according to Secretary Lim, included the purchase of books; the acquisition, preservation, and exchange of specimens by the National Museum with other countries; and the supervision of private educational institutions by the Bureau of Public Schools. Secretary Lim said that if the travel allotment for the Bureau of Private Schools is not released this year, the supervision of private educational institutions, which is imperative for the purpose of maintaining a higher standard of education, will be adversely affected.

In his memorandum, Secretary Lim called the attention of the President and the Cabinet to the possibility of all public school teachers and school personnel not receiving their one month's salary if the amount of ₱9,971,550 is not made available during the current fiscal year.

In his request for the early release of ₱1,050,000 for four vocational schools, Secretary Lim said that the amount now available for their operations will not be sufficient to allow normal operation up to the end of the current fiscal year.

The President and the Cabinet this evening approved in principle the proposal on the Batjak, Inc., to construct five processing plants for producing coconut oil in the Philippines.

The Cabinet also approved the request of the Motor Vehicles Office to purchase nine police model sedans as well as the requisition for cars made by Iloilo and Albay provinces.

1. Verification of the financial and industrial standing of Arnold Otto Meyer, West German supplier of the machines;
2. Recommendation for approval by the Secretary of Justice;
3. Technical specifications of the machinery to be installed in the mills be furnished by the Cabinet;
4. Assurance that the supply of spare parts for these machines will be steady and that payment for them will be made in the same manner as payment for the machines;
5. Capitalization of the Batjak, Inc., be increased from ₱1 million to 20 million; and
6. No dollars should be involved in the shipment of machinery from West Germany to the Philippines.

James Keister and Tereso Dumon, officers of Batjak, Inc., appeared before the Cabinet and explained the prospects of a ready market for the oil produced by the mills and the chances of Philippine oil against the oil cartels already established in Europe.

The two key men of the corporation assured the Cabinet that their German contact, Arnold Otto Meyer, had promised to buy all the oil they could produce and that their corporation is free to sell the oil in other areas of the world where the price may be better.

Sites for the five oil processing mills proposed to be constructed by Batjak, Inc., are Siain, Quezon; Iligan City; Medina, Misamis Oriental; Davao City; and Tacloban City.

No dollars will be involved in the purchase of the machines, Keister and Dumon told the Cabinet, as payment will be made in copra over a period of twelve months.

They said their West German supplier offered to finance initially the purchase and shipment of machinery in advance of receipt of the copra payment so that it will be possible for the plants to be producing and earning foreign exchange before the time full payment is required.

Machinery for each mill will cost $750,000 and the five mills proposed will cost a total of $3,754,500. However, they said, they expect to produce $75 million annually in foreign exchange as soon as the mills start operation.

Authority of the Cabinet for the MVO to purchase nine police sedans for the enforcement of traffic regulations in nine regional districts is necessary in view of a Cabinet ruling that all purchases over ₱10,000 will have to be approved by the Cabinet.

Acting General Services Secretary Serafin Salvador said that the ceiling price of cars be raised because of the general rise in prices.

For special purposes, such as the use by law enforcement agencies, the ceiling be set at ₱12,000 while proposed purchases of cars for other offices remain ₱10,000.

In approving the request of the MVO and that of the provinces of Iloilo and Albay as exceptions to rule, the Cabinet ruled that it was not yet ready to effect any change in the ceiling of ₱10,000 established in 1957.

The President created today a special committee to plan, supervise, and direct an information and education radio program specially beamed for the rural areas.

National Defense Undersecretary Mariano Yenko and Bernardo G. Silverio were appointed chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, while Carlos F. Nivera, former editor of the Philippines Herald, was named executive director of the new committee.

The contemplated radio program will be conducted through the radio facilities donated by the people of the United States through the Committee for American Relief Everywhere (CARE).

During President Garcia’s recent state visit to the United States he succeeded in arousing interest among private individuals and civic organizations to assist the Philippines in combatting communist expansion through extensive radio information and education campaign.

As a result, the American people donated an initial 1,000 transistor radios specially constructed for barrio use. CARE will continue to receive contributions for more radios until all of the Philippines’ 19,000 barrios will have at least one radio receiving set each.

As conceived by President Garcia, the committee will be composed of the following: undersecretary of national defense, chairman Bernardo G. Silverio, vice-chairman; Carlos F. Nivera, executive director; and the director of public schools, the presidential assistant on community development or his authorized representative, the manager of Station DZFM or his authorized representative, and the chairman of the Radio Control Board, members.

The Philippine representative of CARE will serve with the committee in a consultative capacity.

The committee shall be responsible to the President and shall submit a report periodically or as often as required by him.

Committee members shall serve without compensation, and expenses incurred in carrying out the programs shall be paid from funds to be provided in consultation with the budget commissioner.

September 25.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning directed the government agencies concerned to look into the complaint filed by the municipal council of Jose Panganiban, Camarines Norte, through Mayor Marciano C. Linis against the application of Fernando Gaité for the lease of about 2,000 hectares of land for pasture purposes.

Mayor Linis denounced Gaité for “pulling a fast one” over 800 families, some of whose declared and titled property planted to coconuts and bananas, are included in the application.

Linis told President Garcia that the application covers the entire barrio of Dahican and expressed fear that it may lead to bloodshed.

President Garcia authorized the release of ₱50,000 for the completion of the Jose Panganiban breakwater in his conference with Mayor Linis.

Mayor Telesforo Unas of Maragondon, Cavite, also conferred with President Garcia regarding the availability of funds for the construction of a new municipal building. President Garcia directed Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona to release the amount of ₱59,000, as provided for by Republic Act 1900 for the purpose.

The President today directed the Immigration Commission to submit a report on the case of Dr. Robert Fox, an American anthropologist, who appealed for an extension of his stay in the country.

Press Secretary Jose C. Nable said the presidential directives was spurred by the editorial of a metropolitan newspaper.

Fox first came to the Philippines on a scientific assignment and is now acting chief of the division of anthropology of the national museum.

THIS AFTERNOON President Garcia received Takoma Utsunomiya, member of the Japanese House of Representatives and secretary-general of the Liberal Democratic Party.

Utsunomiya was accompanied to Malacañang by Satoshi Kinaso, press officer of the Japanese Embassy, and Lucio Ong, liaison officer. Utsunomiya presented the President and the First Lady with gifts.

Delegates of the American College of Chest Physicians also paid a courtesy call on the President. The delegation was led by Dr. Burgess Gordon, immediate past president of the International College of Chest Physicians; Dr. M. G. Flipsey, vice-president of the ACCP; and Dr. Andrew Banyai, chairman of the ACCP council on international affairs.

They were accompanied by Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia and Dr. Fidel Nepomuceno, chief of the TB division, Department of Health.

“86 Sea View Blvd., Piedmont
“San Francisco, California

“We would like you to know that Mrs. Garcia and I were both deeply grieved to hear of the sudden passing of your beloved husband, especially because only recently we had the rare pleasure of meeting with both of you in the States. There can be no doubt that in the passing of Mr. Dollar the United States has lost one of its financial giants who until his death was contributing immensely to the economic progress of your great country. Please know that we sincerely share your loss and we fervently hope that this expression of our deepest sympathies will somehow assuage your present grief. With our kindest personal regards,

“PRESIDENT AND MRS. GARCIA.”

The food production campaign launched by President Garcia is a tremendous success in Nueva Ecija where a bountiful rice harvest estimated conservatively at more than 9 million cavans or an average of 35 cavans per hectare is expected this year, according to a report submitted today to President Garcia by Gov. Amado Aleta.

This unprecedented production, Gov. Aleta added, will create a problem in his province in view of a surplus of about 700,000 cavans of rice and 400,000 cavans of corn from the first and second crops this year.

Aleta urged that the NARIC purchase the surplus rice and corn to alleviate the plight of small farmers. The President promised to study the matter.

Aleta informed President Garcia that there is practically no buyer for corn in his province.

The Chief Executive was also informed that the increased production in Nueva Ecija is due to the adoption of modern farm practices; like the use of certified seeds, the adoption of the masagana system of planting rice, and the control of insects, pests, and diseases.

At the same time, Gov. Aleta presented to President Garcia resolutions approved by the Provincial Board and the Mayors' League urging the appointment of Conrado Sevilla, executive vice-president of the Philippine National Bank, for president of the PNB to replace Arsenio Jison.

September 26.—THIS morning President Garcia declared that the Philippines is strongly committed in its adherence to the World Health Organization.

He said that the new WHO building in Manila is an “eloquent symbol of our desire and our wish to participate actively in all efforts and activities for the benefit of mankind.”

The President spoke at the opening ceremonies of the ninth session of the WHO Western Pacific regional committee. He also formally opened the new WHO building on Isaac Peral corner Taft Avenue. President Garcia also said:

“The signal achievements in the field of health that this country has made are due not only to the great vigor of our people and of our government but to the World Health Organization as well. As a coordinating and assisting agency in international health work, the WHO has ignited the spark that led to the effective development of national health planning and action. That vital spark lit the flame which has now illumined our country.”

“In the overall tally,” the President continued, “our people have become healthier, taller, heavier, more resistant to disease, and more aware of the same health habits which are so necessary in the tremendous job of nation-building.”

Following the President’s speech, health officials of 15 countries and representatives of various medical and scientific organizations started a week-long review and examination of the progress of health in the Western Pacific.

THIS afternoon President Garcia defended the appointment of “Belo Boys” and one-peso-a-year Malacañang assistants as he debunked Mayor Arsenio H. Lacson’s expose Thursday night as “full of inaccuracies and fallacies and does not merit any comment.”

At his press conference the President announced he had authorized his press secretary to make public the list of “Belo Boys” and one-peso-a-year technical assistants.

President Garcia said, “I can stand comparison with any other administration” by way of commented on the appointments of one-peso-a-year advisers.

At his press conference, the President:

1. Refused to comment on the move within the Nacionalista Party to expel Mariano Jesus Cuenco;
2. Considered the Nationalist plane landing incident on Poro Point, La Union, a “closed matter.”
3. Believed Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano was misquoted in New York when he disclosed his secret formula to solve 2,700 overstaying Chinese visitors in the country;
4. Renewed his warning against profiteers and hoarders who had taken advantage of the Formosa crisis to increase the prices of prime commodities; and
5. Indicated he may return Jose Arahaz as commissioner of the bureau of internal revenue after the latter is through with his work in Malacañang.

President Garcia virtually took issue with Mayer Lacson as he debunked the latter’s charges that Malacañang has employed numerous Belo Boys to dissipate government funds. He said he has authorized Press Secretary Nable to release the records of the Belo Boys and the “one-peso a-year advisers and technical assistants.”

The President pointed out that the practice started since Quezon’s time. He recalled that in other regimes, Malacañang allocated ₱500,000 as Belo fund to subsidize these technical advisers.

He said that other administrations had oversubscribed their appropriations by disbursing ₱700,000 to pay these technical advisers or “Belo Boys.”

The President pointed out that during his first year as President, he has not exceeded the amount of ₱162,000 appropriated for the payment of the salaries of the so-called “Belo Boys.”

He said he has asked Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo to give him the list of one-peso-a-year assistants in order that he could start his purge of the “undersirables” from the list of Malacañang technical advisers.

Asked to comment on Senator Cuenco’s charge that most of the Malacañang technical assistants are Boholanos, the President said: “That is bunk.”

The President, however, refused to comment on the move within the Nacionalista Party to expel Cuenco.

Before starting his press conference, the President read a prepared statement reiterating his warning against profiteers and hoarders who had taken advantage of the Formosa crisis.

He said he has mobilized all government agencies concerned to apprehend and punish anybody found victimizing the consumers by taking advantage of the war scare. “The increase in the prices of prime commodities,” he added, “is unreasonable and my administration has taken the necessary steps to stop it.”

He, however, said the Chinese community has cooperated in the government campaign to bring down the prices of essential goods.

The President had “no comment” on the reported move in the Department of Foreign Affairs for the recall of Chinese Ambassador Chen Chihmai. Ambassador Chen’s recall was indicated by foreign sources following the refusal of the envoy to report to the Department of Foreign Affairs on the unauthorized landing of a Chinese Nationalist plane in Poro Point, La Union, recently.

Commenting on Serrano’s statement on the Chinese temporary visitors, the President expressed the belief that his foreign affairs secretary had been “misquoted.”

Foreign Affairs Press Officer Ramon V. Mitra said the basis for the attack against Serrano was “wrong.”

He said the secretary did not announce his “formula” at the United Nations. He said it was bared in answer to newsmen’s queries.

The President told newsmen he considered the case of the unauthorized landing of the Chinese Nationalist plane in Poro Point closed.

“Although the situation in Formosa is serious, there is no cause for alarm. At the present time, there is no indication that the situation there will spread into a general war that will directly affect the Philippines.

“In this connection, I like to reiterate my warning to unscrupulous businessmen and speculators that the Administration will take strong measures to protect the public. I have mobilized all government agencies concerned to apprehend and punish anybody found victimizing the consumers by taking advantage of the war scare. The increase in the prices of prime commodities is unreasonable and my administration has taken the necessary steps to stop it.

THE PRESIDENT signed today the following appointments:

- (1) Judge Rafael Amparo as Associate Justice of the Court of Appeals;
- (2) Roberto Villanueva as ad interim member of the Monetary Board, vice President Sinco, whose term will expire on December 23, 1958.
- (3) Gaudencio Antonino as ad interim member of the Monetary Board vice Secretary Amando Dalisay, whose term will expire on December 23, 1960.

The President also recommended to the Philippine National Bank Board of Directors the appointment of Eduardo Romualdez as President of the Philippine National Bank, effective October 1, 1958, vice resigned President Arsenio Jisou.

The successor of Romualdez in the Development Bank of the Philippines will be announced in a few days.

Gaudencio Antonino, new member of the Monetary Board of the CB was the recipient of the "Lumberman of the Year" award from the Business Writers' Association of the Philippines in 1954 and the "Special Outstanding Award for Contribution to Exportation and Production" in 1956.

E. Antonino, Inc., and the USAFIP NL, Greater Manila Chapter.

Antonino is also a member and director of several business organizations.

Roberto Villanueva, who replaces U. P. President Vicente Sinco, was twice president of the Philippine Chamber of Industries, elected in 1952 in Australia International President of the JAYCEES, and twice delegate of the Philippines to the International Monetary Fund Conference.

IN A SPECIAL MEETING called at 4 o'clock this afternoon, the Cabinet rallied behind Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona's call for reduced expenditures to achieve a sound and balanced government budget.

All Cabinet members, with the exception of Education Secretary Manuel Lim and National Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, expressed the belief that their offices could continue operations and achieve the maximum social and economic objectives of the Administration.

Secretary Lim reiterated to the Cabinet his previous request for the early release of more than ₱19,408,000 for the operation and maintenance of the Department of Education.

He pointed out that if the amount will not be released, all public school teachers and other school personnel may not receive their salaries for one month, several vocational schools will close, and several projects of the department will stop operations.

On the other hand, Secretary Vargas said he will have to make a further study of his department's original budget and the new allotment before he can state definitely whether the revised appropriation will be sufficient to enable his department to carry on its operations.

He admitted that the present tense situation in the Far East will have some effect on his final decision.

Secretary Vargas also said he will ask for the release of ₱2 million allocated to the Veterans' Memorial Hospital and not scheduled in the proposed program of expenditures for this fiscal year, to permit the hospitalization in the VMH of veterans with injuries or disabilities not sustained in combat.

This afternoon's special Cabinet meeting was called to determine the best means of using the limited resources of the government in order to achieve best the social and economic objectives of the government.

Commissioner Aytona told the Cabinet that the government expects an estimated income of only ₱806.4 million which is ₱151.8 million less than the ₱958.2 million originally estimated in the 1958-1959 fiscal year budget;

The decrease in the estimated income was attributed mainly to two factors; namely, (1) the failure of Congress to enact special tax measures recommended by the President in the 1959 budget and (2) the downward trend in expected revenues due to unfavorable business climate that limits the expansion of domestic and foreign trade.

He also said that if all the authorized appropriations of ₱1,292.6 million were to be programmed for expenditure this fiscal year in the face of an estimated income of only ₱806.4 million, there would be a deficit of ₱486.2 million.

Aytona submitted for the consideration of the Cabinet a proposed program of expenditures for the 1958-59 fiscal year that would limit expenditures to ₱806.2 million.

September 27.—THIS morning, the President, like a thoughtful brother, motored to the residence of his brother, ex-Minister Cosme Garcia, to felicitate personally the latter on the occasion of his birthday.

From his brother's residence, the President returned to his private house on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, where he received the representatives of the various intelligence agencies.

President Garcia this morning received various proposals to insure a more systematic coordination of efforts among the various intelligence and investigative agencies of the government.

The proposals were presented to the President by ranking members of the various intelligence agencies headed by Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas and AFP Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano. The proposals were aimed at minimizing unnecessary duplication of functions and efforts among the agencies.

The meeting which was held at the President's residence in Quezon City, was attended by NICA Director Nicanor T. Jimenez, PC Chief Brig. Gen. Pelagio Cruz, Philippine Navy Chief Commodore Jose Francisco, PAF Chief Brig. Gen. Pedro Q. Molina, NBI Chief Major Jose T. Lucban, Captain (PN) Carlos Albert, G-2 of the AFP, Lt. Col. Romeo Honasan of the Presidential Guard Battalion, and Lt. Col. Manuel Yan of the intelligence division of the PC.

THIS AFTERNOON President Garcia told a special press conference of college editors that the dissemination of truth should be the first objective of every real writer and journalist.

The press conference was held at the President's residence in Quezon City and was attended by college editors from all over the country.

The President urged the students to seek the truth because in the market of opinions, he pointed out, only those that are true will endure. Those that do not come up to this standard, he continued, will perish in the mass of forgotten things.

President Garcia decried the present trend in journalism whereby selling the paper has become a matter of greater importance than imparting the truth.

He blamed this tendency on newspapermen who go into sensationalism by sacrificing truth and slanting.

The President approved a proposal to increase the membership of the Consultative Council of Students to provide regional representation. The CCS will call a meeting in Manila of student leaders late next month. Possible legislation affecting the welfare of the students will be taken up at the meeting.

The President regretted the inability of the present administration to fulfill a promise made by the late President Magsaysay to construct a Student Youth Center building owing to lack of funds.

He said, however, that he will try to make arrangements whereby their headquarters will be accommodated in a room in some public building.

After President Garcia's brief remarks, he entertained questions put to him by the college editors. The questions asked ranged from the reasons for the low dollar reserves of the country, the "white paper," and the Administration's determined campaign against graft and corruption in the government.

PRESIDENT Garcia said in his Manila Hotel Speech that he will urge the Monetary Board to relax current exchange controls on the importation of vital drugs and medical equipment.

The President took cognizance of the inadequacy of the supply of drugs due to the lack of dollar allocations with which to import and stock-pile them for emergency.

He said, "I will urge the Monetary Board to widen decontrol of vital drug items and allocate more dollars for essential drugs and equipment which will insure medical sufficiency in times of emergency."

President Garcia also announced that he was supporting whole-heartedly a revitalized health program proposed earlier by the Department of Health.

The President expressed the hope that the health program will get underway immediately.

"The Office of the President is duly prepared to extend whatever assistance may be necessary to get this program into high gear," he said.

President Garcia said that the revitalization program "may be considered as the basic health program of this administration."

The health program involves the adoption of improved policies governing health department operations, minimization of politics, and expansion of present facilities.

The President stressed, however, that the health plan is not the sole undertaking of the government. It also involves action on the part of private entities, he said.

The declaration of Philippine-Australian Day is in connection with the arrival in Manila of 1,300 Australian tourists tomorrow. The Australian tourists are scheduled to arrive on board the SS Orsuva, which is one of a number of large Pacific area tourist ships regularly scheduled to call at Manila.

The President recalled that the first Philippine-Australian Day was proclaimed last year during the visit in Manila of 1,200 Australian tourists. In his proclamation, declaring the Philippine-Australian Day, the President said that it is in the highest interest of both the Philippines and Australia and of the Pacific area as a whole that there be increasing intimate relations, mutual understanding, and lasting cooperation between Filipinos and Australians.

September 30.—THIS morning President Garcia received Sen. Pacita M. Gonzalez, who returned from an on-the-spot survey of conditions in the tobacco-growing regions of the North.

Sen. Gonzalez told the President that the farmers have complained against dishonest FACOMA officials who take advantage of farmers by down-grading their produce and buying them at low prices and then upgrading the same leaves and selling them at higher prices to the ACCFA.

Udarbe was accompanied to Malacañang by Rep. Felipe Garduque of Cagayan and Mayor Isaac Villegas of Alcala, Cagayan. Rep. Garduque told the President that Udarbe had cooperated with the Nacionalistas in the last presidential elections.

Rep. Jacobo Gonzales of Laguna requested President Garcia to order the release of P100,000 for the establishment of a school of fishery in Los Baños, Laguna, as authorized by R. A. No. 1879.

Rep. Gonzales said the school will have the responsibility of undertaking researches on fresh water resources. He claimed that the depletion of fish in Laguna Lake is now causing untold hardships on the people depending on fishing in the lake as their main source of livelihood.

Rep. Delfin Albano of Isabela secured presidential authority for the release of one million pesos from funds of the Philippine Tobacco Administration for the purchase of native cigar fillers.

President Garcia was informed by Rep. Dominador Tan of Leyte and Mayor Esteban C. Conejos of Ormoc City about the great need for the establishment of a hospital in that city. The President's help was also sought in securing funds for the repair of the road leading to the wharf in Ormoc City.

The President this day issued a directive to correct alleged malpractices in the grading of Virginia leaf tobacco by FACOMA officials in several Northern Luzon provinces, including Ilocos Sur, Ilocos Norte, Cagayan, Isabela, La Union, and Pangasinan.

The presidential order, transmitted through Assistant Executive Secretary Mariano R. Logarta directed acting ACCFA Administrator Arcadio G. Matela and acting BIR Commissioner Melecio Domingo to have representatives of their offices present in all stages of classification and purchase of tobacco leaves.

The President's action came in the wake of representations made by Sen. Pacita M. Gonzalez, chairman of the Senate committee on social justice, community development, and welfare, in behalf of more than two million tobacco farmers.

Sen. Gonzalez informed President Garcia that tobacco growers in the North, especially in the Ilocos provinces, have filed formal complaints with her committee regarding the following alleged malpractices of FACOMA officials: (1) improper grading of their produce, (2) not paying them the corresponding price, and (3) not paying them on time.

The woman senator told the President that tobacco growers have not been able to take advantage of the so-called "tobacco boom" because of these irregularities being committed by FACOMA officials.

To prevent FACOMA officials from “under-grading” the produce of small tobacco farmers, Sen Gonzalez proposed to the President the assignment of impartial tobacco experts from the ACCFA and the BIR to each of the 72 tobacco-purchasing stations of the FACOMAs.

President Garcia said he will study the proposal of Ilocos Sur Gov. Pedro Singson Reyes, as relayed by Sen. Gonzales, for the placing of samples of different grades of tobacco in the FACOMA warehouses to serve as guides and standards to both farmers and FACOMA appraisers.

Acting Administrator Arcadio Matela of the ACCFA, who accompanied Sen. Gonzalez, told President Garcia that he will leave for Ilocos Sur tomorrow to implement as early as possible the orders of the President.

President Garcia today assured the agricultural industry of the country representation in the Monetary Board during the oath-taking ceremonies of Gaudencio Antonino and Roberto Villanueva as members of the Monetary Board. They replaced President Vicente Sinco of the University of the Philippines and Undersecretary of Agriculture Amando Dalisay.

President Garcia said he was glad that the appointments of Antonino and Villanueva met with the approval of commercial and industrial circles.

He expressed the hope that the actuations of the new board members would reflect the needs and opinions of commercial and industrial circles.

The President gave assurance that on the first available opportunity he would appoint a Monetary Board member to represent the agricultural industry of the country.

President Garcia said he will seriously consider the request of the Agricultural Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration (ACCFA) for an additional ₱10 million outlay with which to finance certain credit operations after he was briefed today on the lending operations of the government agriculture financing agency by officials of the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency, headed by Chairman Buenaventura Ocampo.

The President emphasized that it is the small farmers who need help most and that their application for short-term crop loans should be attended to with promptness and dispatch.

The President was told that in view of the increase in the number of FACOMAs and in their total membership, there has been a corresponding rise in the demand for crop loans.

To accommodate the growing number of applicants for loans, ACCFA deems it necessary to request an additional amount of ₱10 million to augment the original ₱100 million capital made available for loans.

The President said he will endorse to ACCFA the following recommendations of the PCAPE for the improvement of their lending services: (1) faster processing of loan applications, (2) supervision in the use of these loans to make sure that they are not misapplied, and (3) maintenance of an efficient field force to supervise the cooperative activities of FACOMAs and dovetail them with the ACCFA credit assistance program.

In the PCAPE group that briefed the President, besides Justice Ocampo, were Capt. Francisco H. Calinawan, PCAPE vice-chairman; Maximo Maceren, special assistant on research and analysis; Maj. Federico Salcedo, special assistant on communications and liaison; Johnny Planas, economic analyst; and Judge Tirso Joson and Maj. Teodulo Natividad, technical assistants.

This afternoon the President assured senators and representatives that he would direct Chairman Paulino J. Garcia of the National Science Development Board to coordinate scientific efforts for the early discovery of a remedy against cadang-cadang and mosaic diseases plaguing the coconut and abaca plantations of the country.

The President gave his assurance following a report by Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez that cadang-cadang has spread to Samar. Speaker Romualdez expressed fears that unless preventive measures are taken, the disease will spread to Mindanao and other Visayan provinces.

At his meeting with the lawmakers in his residence in Quezon City, the President also received a report from Speaker Romualdez that several intra-party squabbles among the Nacionalistas in Albay had already been patched up. The Speaker returned from a trip to Albay this morning.

Present at the meeting were Speaker Romualdez, Sens. Eulogio Balao and Pacita M. Gonzalez, Speaker Protempore Constancio Castañeda, Reps. Eniilio Cortez of Pampanga, Jacobo Gonzales of Laguna, Gaudencio Abordo of Palawan, Ricardo Y. Ladrado of Iloilo, Jose Legaspi of Aklan, Aguedo Agbayani of Pangasinan, Natalio Castillo of Bohol, and Pedro Trono of Iloilo. The conference lasted from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m.

PRESIDENT Garcia, addressed as “Champion of Democracy” and “a Friend of the Press” addressed the Fourth Estate this evening as principal speaker at the third annual journalism awards sponsored by the Standard Vacuum Oil Company at the National Press Club.

The President flayed the press for what he charged as “too much regimentation” in the distribution of news and information compared with the past ’10s and ’20s when newsmen were observed to have stood by their convictions.

President Garcia stressed that, the “highest mission” of the press is to “record the truth,” regardless of whether it may hurt what he called as “dictators or mighty men of the country.”

Commenting on Senator Recto’s speech, the President observed that the Batangas solon deserved award for being one of the most faithful historians of the press.

President Garcia arrived on the dot at 8 o’clock, while Senator Recto was five minutes ahead of time.

President Garcia delivered an extemporaneous address, saying he came with the impression that he was invited to hand the awards and not as a principal speaker.

October 1.—PRESIDENT Garcia received a first-hand military estimate of the Quemoy-Matsu situation from Vice-Admiral Wallace M. Beakley, former commanding officer of the U. S. Seventh Fleet, at a breakfast conference this morning in his Bohol Avenue home in Quezon City.

Admiral Beakley is in the Philippines en route to the Pentagon in Washington, D.C., to assume his new position as deputy chief of naval operations in the defense department. He paid a courtesy call on the President.

Others present at the two-hour long breakfast conference were U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, Lieut. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, AFP chief of staff; Commodore Jose Francisco, PN flag officer in command; and Capt. J. A. Myers, naval attache of the U. S. Embassy.

After the conference, President Garcia retired to his private study with Secretaries Vargas and Pajo and Gen. Arellano.

Secretary Vargas reported to the President the measures he had taken to implement the retrenchment policy of the Administration in the Armed Forces.

Ambassador Fuentebella denied newspaper reports claiming that he had returned to the country to submit his resignation to the President.

Instead, he said, President Garcia had told a press conference that he (the President) did not know of any so-called agreement whereby Ambassador Fuentebella would be allowed to resign.

Ambassador Fuentebella reported to President Garcia on the situation obtaining in Indonesia and other Southeast Asian countries with which he was in constant communication.

President Garcia today approved the retirement of Miguel Y. Garcia as Malacañang supervisor of buildings and grounds.

The President's approval was given following receipt of a letter from Engineer Garcia, who requested that he be allowed to retire because he is already 60 years and has more than thirty-six years of continuous service in the government.

Engineer Garcia will continue to serve as chairman of the National Planning Commission.

In his letter to the President, Engineer Garcia expressed his gratitude and submitted his recommendations filling the vacancies created by his retirement. His recommendations follow: Ramon Llave as superintendent of buildings and grounds; Timoteo Manzanero to take the place of Llave; and Architect Domingo Chacon to take the place of Manzanero. The recommendations were approved by the President.

THE CABINET at its meeting this afternoon approved the program of expenditures for the general fund for the current fiscal year, as submitted by Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, which recommends to Congress the enactment of special revenue measures to cover expected deficits in the budget.

President Garcia was informed that the estimated income for the current fiscal year will amount to ₱806.4 million, which is ₱151.8 million less than the ₱958.2 million originally estimated.

The expected decrease in income, according to Commissioner Aytona, can be attributed mainly to the following factors: (1) the failure of Congress to enact special tax measures recommended by the President in the 1959 budget and (2) the downward trend in expected revenues due to unfavorable business climate that limits the expansion of domestic and foreign trade.

The decision of the Cabinet, however, is without prejudice for the department heads to submit modifications with financial arrangements to support the modifications. The departments which cannot fully meet the plan of reduced expenditures are the Department of National Defense, Education, and Health.

The Cabinet meeting was presided over by Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo in the absence of President Garcia, who was in conference with the Monetary Board members.

In the case of the Department of Education, it was explained that some services of the offices under the department will be hampered if the appropriations will be reduced.

With respect to the Department of National Defense, Undersecretary Mariano Yenke informed the Cabinet members that more than 2,000 disabled veterans receiving disability pensions will be affected if the retrenchment policy would be enforced.

PRESIDENT Garcia today agreed in principle to meet every month with the members of the Monetary Board for consultations.

The Chief Executive, in his meeting this evening with the Monetary Board members, Governor Miguel Cuaderno, and Deputy Governor Andres Castillo of the Central Bank, reviewed the present policies of the Central Bank with a view to improving the system of dollar allocations.

The conference also agreed to further study plans for giving aid to small businessmen.

Another subject taken up during the conference was the implementation of the Philippine Overseas Shipping Act in pursuance of present plans to expand the Philippine merchant marine fleet.

It was understood that a revised policy of granting dollar allocations and the plans to aid small businessmen will be submitted to President Garcia at the next conference.

Members of the Monetary Board who attended the conference were Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Eduardo Z. Romualdez, Jimmy Velasquez, Roberto Villanueva, and Gaudencio Antonino.

The President also met this evening Economic Coordinator Juan Concon and directed him to leave shortly for the United States to assist NASSCO General Manager Bernardo Abrera in the final stages of negotiations for a loan to be used in the purchase of machinery for an integrated steel mill proposed to be set up here by the NASSCO.

Abrera is now in Washington, D.C., finalizing details of a projected $74 million loan with the Export-Import Bank for the purchase of said steel mill in line with NASSCO's program of expansion.

The President also conferred with Aniceto Crisostomo and Ramon T. Jimenez, directors of NASSCO, who requested his help in expediting the delivery of ₱5 million worth of machinery and equipment ordered by the government corporation from Japan.

President Garcia approved the sending of a three-man team to be headed by Leonardo Estrada, acting general manager of the firm, to undertake inspection and accept delivery of the machines and equipment.

The NASSCO officials informed the President that these machinery and equipment ordered from Japan will be used in the expansion of the firm's steel mill in Iligan City and in their smelting plant in Jose Panganiban, Camarines Norte.

October 2.—THIS morning the President received Hon. Inche Abdul Aziz bin Ishok, minister of agriculture of the Federation of Malaya, who paid a courtesy call.

Minister Ishok is in the Philippines on his way to Tokyo to attend the Food and Agriculture Organization conference. He expressed a desire to observe community development projects in nearby towns around Manila.

Ishok was accompanied by Agriculture Undersecretary Amando Dalisay, Salvador F. Cunanan, executive assistant of the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources, and Pedro Angara Aragon of the Department of Foreign Affairs.

They requested authority from the President to enable them to increase charges on water consumption in their municipality to augment local income. Sen. Emmanuel Pelaez accompanied the municipal officials to Malacañang.

Mayors Francisco Abarientos of Talisayan and Carlos Magapayag of El Salvador, Misamis Oriental, asked financial aid from the President to finance the construction of certain projects and public improvements in their respective municipalities.

Mayor Gregorio Dujali of Panabo, Davao, requested the appropriation of ₱18,000 for the construction of the town's municipal building and police station.

Mayor Ramon de los Cientos of Bansalan, Davao, asked for the release of a portion of the Apo National Park for agricultural purposes to enable the occupants to acquire the land they are now cultivating.

Vice-Mayor Manuel B. Suaybaguio of Tagum, Davao, presented a request for the appropriation of ₱30,000 for a proposed irrigation project to help the farmers in his town. He also asked for the release of 10,000 for the construction of the Tipaz-Magugpo road.

Two Quezon province mayors, Leon S. Ruiden of Gen. Nakar and Francisco P. Enriquez of Atimonan, sought President Garcia's assistance in securing the release of money from the President's contingent funds for the repair of school buildings in their respective municipalities which were damaged by typhoon Kit.

Opon Mayor Mariano Dimataga and Ladislao Tolentino, highway district engineer of Cebu, requested government financial assistance for the construction of a ₱175,000 road leading to the proposed auxiliary international airport in Opon.

Mayor Elpidio O. Cucio of Cabanatuan City and Norberto L. Cajucom informed the President of the mandamus filed with the court of first instance in Nueva Ecija by Dr. Emiliano Perez, chief of the provincial hospital, against the mayor, municipal board, and treasurer of Cabanatuan City.

They told President Garcia that the hospital chief brought action against them in an effort to collect the seven per cent of the city's gross income for the maintenance of the hospital as provided for by R. A. 1939.

According to Cucio, Dr. Perez is trying to collect ₱24,983.12 for the 1957-58 fiscal year and ₱35,000 for the current year. He said this will result in the deprivation of vital services which are badly needed.

Cucio asked for financial assistance for the construction of a new and bigger city jail to prevent a repetition of a recent jailbreak. He claimed provincial officials have refused to take in city prisoners. As a result, he added, the city jail, which can accommodate only six prisoners, now is packed with 34 inmates.

PRESIDENT Garcia today transmitted to the Department of Public Works for comment the project study of two Italian engineers on the reclamation of the Candaba swamps.

Gov. Rafael Lazatin of Pampanga presented to President Garcia the report of Umberto Romano, chief of the technical service of the Conzorzio Della Grande Bonificazione Renana, and Giancarlo Jovi, of their study.

The report envisions the reclamation of the Candaba swamps through the construction of a drainage system and the installation of five pumping plants in strategic places.

The President was informed that the project, proposed to cost $15,650,000 will reclaim 61,000 hectares that can be planted to rice, sugarcane, corn, and fruit crops with an estimated annual production of about ₱17 million.

To finance the project, Gov. Lazatin urged President Garcia to utilize the blocked currency of the foreign film industries.

Designed to bring the swampy lands of the Candaba Plain under cultivation, the reclamation as proposed by the two Italian engineers will be undertaken through the control of the waters coming down the mountains overlooking the plain which now constitutes a natural basin.

Meanwhile, Gov. Arsenio Lugay of Tarlac informed President Garcia that the IMA bloc of governors and city mayors endorsed the plan to construct a super-highway from Quezon City to Binalonan, Pangasinan in order to relieve the traffic congestion along the Manila North Road.

Other presidential callers were former Speaker Jose B. Laurel, Jr., and Gov. Manuel Barretto of Zambales.

PRESIDENT Garcia was briefed today on conditions obtaining in the customs area and received several recommendations to expedite release of cargoes and facilitate collection of customs duties.

The report was submitted to the President by members of the subcommittee on performance and procedures under the presidential fact-finding committee on customs headed by Lt. Cmdr. Marcelino Calinawan.

The President was also informed that as of June 30, 1958, the Bureau of Customs has accounts receivable amounting to over ₱13 million. Of this amount, over ₱7 million is owed by different government agencies and offices while private sectors have a standing account of more than ₱5 million.

Maj. Zoilo M. Estrella, acting chairman of the presidential committee in the absence of Lt. Cmdr. Calanawan, told President Garcia that this amount is increasing every month. He said they have taken initial measures to check this, and among them is the introduction of the "immediate payment" system.

Under this system, importers pay the required customs duties on articles as soon as the customs appraiser has fixed the amount.

President Garcia was told by the members of the sub-committee that a new system of examining cargoes was implemented yesterday and that legitimate brokers and importers were "very happy" about it.

Ordinarily, the delay in the release of goods is due mainly to delays incurred in the examination of cargoes. Formerly, four separate groups of examiners went over the cargoes independently of each other usually resulting in delays of from three to five days.

It was explained that new members of these four groups are combined into one team and the examination and subsequent release of articles take only a few hours.

President Garcia expressed satisfaction in their work, particularly when he was informed that the reforms they had instituted met with the fierce opposition of fixers, pseudo-brokers, importers engaged in clandestine operations, and other persons profiting from the delay in the release of shipments. Among those present at the briefing were Augusto L. Sevilla, chairman of the sub-committee on performance and procedures; Jose Bondoc Oscar Sarte, Felipe Rey Hipolito, Renato Mendoza, Nicanor Papa, members; Col. Vicente Novales, technical assistant on security; and Lt. Clemente E Antonio, PRO.

This plan does not in any way reflect against the ability of any chief of any government corporation but rather it is intended to step up implementation of President Garcia's program, particularly along lines of self-sufficiency.

The President directed Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo to look into the possible submission of monthly reports on accomplishments of government corporations instead of the annual reports submitted at the close of each fiscal year.

October 3.—PRESIDENT Garcia directed today Customs Commissioner Eleuterio Capapas and Customs Collector Isidro Ang-angco to prepare a manual outlining procedures to be followed by the Bureau of Customs.

The manual will be a compilation of rules and regulations promulgated by the Bureau of Customs in connection with the importation and exportation of goods, the examination and appraisal of incoming and outgoing cargoes, the payment of customs duties due on these articles, and other functions of the bureau.

This was one of the recommendations submitted to the President by the sub-committee on performance and procedure of the presidential fact-finding committee on customs following a briefing held yesterday in Malacañang.

The President's instructions for the preparation of a customs manual will fill a long-felt need in the bureau and will speed up operations and at the same time eliminate opportunities for the commission of graft, particularly, with regard to the processing of cargoes for release.

President Garcia observed that the Philippines is one of the few countries in the world without a compiled set of customs rules.

He said the manual will benefit not only the local business public but also foreign countries having trade relations with the Philippines.

They also discussed the acceptance of surety bonds instead of cash bonds, as is being practiced now, in the case of violations of customs regulations.

It was agreed during the conference that surety bonds will be accepted provided the bonds are put up by an established and reliable bonding company.

Among those present at the discussions on reforms to be instituted in the Bureau of Customs were Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez, Commissioner Capapas, Collector Ang-angco, Administrator Carlos Quirino of the No-Dollar Import Office, and Bayani Bautista, member of the legal staff of the Bureau of Customs.

President Garcia received on behalf of the Philippine Government invitations to participate in two international trade fairs. The first was extended to the President by Frank L. Gilbert, vice-president of the Seattle World Trade Fair, and the other by Harold B. Say, adviser on international trade of the Oregon State Centennial Exposition and International Trade Fair.

Accompanying Gilbert and Say during their call on President Garcia this morning were Mrs. Lilian Porter Say, Commerce Undersecretary Perfecto E. Laguio, Hilarion Henares, Sr., president of the Home Industries Association of the Philippines, Salvador F. Peña, vice-president of the Philippine Tourist and Travel Association, and J. V. Garcia.

Mrs. Say is Washington correspondent of the Oregon Journal and is representing the Washington Evening Star and the Baltimore Sun in their tour.

Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez assured President Garcia of a bumper harvest in rice and corn during this crop year and said he is expecting a surplus in these staple cereals.

The President expressed satisfaction over the enthusiastic response of the people to his call for increased food production and lauded Rodriguez for the excellent work done by fieldmen of the DANR in connection with the Administration's food production campaign.

Rodriguez also received final instructions from President Garcia preparatory to his departure early tomorrow morning for a 10-day visit to Australia to observe agricultural techniques being practiced there.

Rodriguez had accepted an invitation extended to him by the Australian Government to study and observe agricultural techniques being practiced in that country.

President Garcia also received President Vicente Sinco of the University of the Philippines, who came to Malacañang for final instructions prior to his departure tonight for Seattle to attend a conference among member countries of the Colombo Plan.

After the conference, Sinco will visit outstanding American schools and universities before returning to the Philippines.

Mayor Godofredo Rilloraza of San Fernando, La Union, requested the appropriation of ₱100,000 from the President's contingent funds for the construction of a new market, as the old one was razed to the ground; during the recent ₱3 million fire that hit the town.

He also sought President Garcia's favorable endorsement of his request for a ₱200,000 budgetary loan from the Central Bank to tide the municipal government over until the completion of the new market.

Rilloraza said revenues from the market constituted two-thirds of the town's income and now that, that source has been temporarily cut off, the municipality might not be able to meet its expenses.

PRESIDENT Garcia today said the invasion of Quemoy and Matsu does not constitute a threat to the security of the Philippines.

At his regular press conference this afternoon, the President virtually expressed his support behind the "revised" United States policy on Formosa seeking the Chinese Nationalist evacuation of the offshore islands off the China mainland in exchange for a ceasefire.

The President pointed out that Quemoy and Matsu are closer to the Chinese mainland than to Formosa and indicated that the Philippines would only feel the threat to its security if Taiwan itself is invaded by the Chinese communists.

President Garcia did not, however, comment on the reported new drift in the United States outlook on the Formosa crisis.

He said the U.S. policy is still "muddled," adding that it "would be premature" for him to make his comment until the United States' stand is more clearly defined.

1. Disclosed that the Nacionalista leaders had deferred action on the move to oust Sen. Mariano Jesus Cuenco from the NP until after the return of Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez from a world tour;
2. Reiterated his desire to retire from politics after his four-year term in Malacañang but expressed his gratitude to those who had wished him to run for re-election;
3. Indicated that his administration has no new plans for Ambassador Jose Fuentebella, who was reported to have agreed to retire after a month's stint in Jakarta;
4. Said the reclamation of the Candaba swamps would boost the Administration's program of increased food production; and
5. Stressed that the administration has "accomplished something" in its campaign against grafter in the Bureau of Customs.

October 4.—THIS MORNING President Garcia instructed National Treasurer Vicente Gella to go after "fixers" and "percenters" frequenting the National Treasury office, particularly the back-pay division.

The President called Gella to a conference in his Quezon City residence following receipt of numerous reports from different sources about the alleged activities of “fixers” and “percenters” in the National Treasury.

Gella informed President Garcia that the redemption of back-pay certificates under R. A. No. 304 had to be suspended temporarily for lack of available cash in the backpay sinking fund.

He said they have taken steps to procure cash by negotiating assets of the backpay sinking fund, among them, bonds of the Philippine Long Distance Telephone Company amounting to ₱1,275,000, which matter is now pending consideration by the Social Security Commission.

President Garcia is now considering two recommendations submitted by Gella so that the redemption of backpay certificates under R. A. 304 can be resumed; namely,

(1) That the appropriation of ₱21 million in the current annual budget for the redemption of backpay under R. A. 304 be programmed for release this fiscal year and

(2) That the appropriation of ₱3.8 million in the current annual budget for the backpay sinking fund under R. A. 897 be also released immediately. This amount could be utilized in the redemptions of backpay under R.A. 304 by simply transferring the investments in the form of real estate loans under R. A. 304 into investments under R. A. 897.

After his conference with Gella, President Garcia left with Education Secretary Manuel Lim and motored to the Manila Hotel to address the third national seminar of the Association of Spanish Professors of the Philippines.

THE PRESIDENT affirmed the value of the Castilian language from the practical and utilitarian points of view in his speech before the “Tercer Cursillo Nacional de Adiestramiento de Profesores y Maestros de Espanol” this noon at the Manila Hotel.

He said that Spanish has its political use and commercial utility and that it serves as a pathway to an inspiring past to the trenchant thoughts of our great propagandists of the 19th century and to the noble and lofty thoughts and sentiments of noted Filipino poets and patriots like Guerrero, Apostol, and Rizal whom he quoted in his speech.

The President urged the teachers to make it their aim to teach their students not only to talk in Spanish but, through it, to think and become masters of the two-fold Logos, the thought and the word, the creative and the revelatory.

The President was introduced by Judge Lourdes Paredes of the Pangasinan court of first instance, who acted as master of ceremonies.

The affair was attended by members of the diplomatic corps, officials of the Department of Education, and heads of schools and colleges.

PRESIDENT Garcia directed today Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera to report before the Cabinet meeting on Wednesday on the reported problems besetting provincial and city fiscals.

Presidential action on this matter was spurred by the editorial of a metropolitan newspaper which reported the drop in the number of anti-dummy cases acted on in the courts of justice.

In his conference with provincial and city fiscals recently, Secretary Barrera, as chairman of the anti-dummy board, underscored two important points.

He asked the fiscals to notify the anti-dummy board before deciding to drop any one case. This procedure, according to Barrera, would give the board an opportunity to submit new evidence.

The second point underscored by Secretary Barrera was the importance of closer coordination with the fiscals, particularly by keeping tab on the number of cases pending action in the courts.

President's Week in Review: October 5-11, 1958

October 5.— PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia heard mass early this morning at the San Miguel Pro-Cathedral on the occasion of the annual feast of San Miguel district.

The President and the First Lady are the leading parishioners of San Miguel Pro-Cathedral, which is only a few blocks from Malacañang. The Chief Executive and the First Lady arrived at the church about 8 a.m. from their residence in Quezon City.

After the mass, President and Mrs. Garcia had breakfast with Bishop Hernando Antiporda of Manila at the San Miguel Pro-Cathedral convent.

From the church, the President and the First Lady returned to their Quezon City home where the President worked on pending important state papers until lunch time.

After a brief rest in the afternoon, the President went back to work on state papers. He received no callers and spent the whole day working on state papers.

October 6.—PRESIDENT Garcia today went to Nueva Ecija to look into the progress of the food production campaign in that province. Impressed by the good results he saw in the “granary” of Central Luzon, he expressed his determination to push through with more vigor the campaign.

He inspected the experimental hybrid rice field of the Central Luzon Agricultural College, the Maligaya experimental station at Muñoz, and the Gabaldon farm in Guimba.

The President lauded the CLAC faculty for its efforts in extending to the rural areas the most modern and scientific methods of farming. In his extemporaneous speech before the CLAC student body, the President reiterated the three major goals of his administration; namely, self-sufficiency in food, clothing, and shelter.

The President said that through the industrialization program initiated by the Nacionalista administration, the country has been able to save annually the amount of about ₱200 million in textile alone. He said that the annual importation of textiles would be further reduced with the establishment of ramie processing plants and the planting of cotton to supply the needs of local textile mills.

With regard to the importation of steel products for construction purposes, President Garcia said that the establishment of an integrated steel mill in Mindanao and the exploitation of the local iron ore resources would reduce the annual importation of steel products amounting to about ₱115 million.

The President urged the CLAC student body to redouble their efforts to produce more rice in order to stop the annual drain on the local dollar reserves caused by the importation of the cereal which annually averages about ₱2 million.

The Chief Executive also spoke before trainees at the Maligaya Experimental station. These trainees are taking courses under Republic Act 2080, which appropriates ₱20 million for increasing rice production.

In his visit to the CLAC, as well as to the Maligaya rice fields and the Gabaldon farm, the President saw the increased yield which, according to the rice planters was due to the use of selected seeds, irrigation, and fertilizers.

The President was accompanied in his inspection trip by Agriculture Undersecretary Amando Dalisay, Cabanatuan City Mayor Elpidio Cucio, NARIC Board Chairman Juan O. Chioco, Rep. Eugenio Baltao, Mayor Dario Santos of Muñoz, and Mayor Nicetas Viesca of San Antonio, president of the Nueva Ecija mayors' league.

From the Gabaldon farm the President motored to Manila to keep his dinner engagement with newspaper publishers and editors at 8:30 at his Quezon City residence.

October 7.—THE President promised today to look into the reports that “fixers” and “percenters” are still plying their trade in the National Treasury office.

At an impromptu caucus with congressmen, President Garcia was informed by several solons that there are people who are still “fixing” and expediting the payment of back pay claims in the back pay division.

Some solons mentioned the names of relatives of a high ranking official in the National Treasury, as well as that of several officials and employees who facilitate the payment of claims.

The solons vigorously condemned the activities of the “fixers” who “demand a commission as high as 40 per cent.”

President Garcia reminded the congressmen that he had instructed National Treasurer Vicente Gella to go after the “fixers” at a conference held at his Quezon City residence last Saturday.

The President this morning administered the oath of office to Francisco Dalupan, president of the University of the East, as acting member of the National Economic Council.

The ceremony took place in the Malacañang reception hall and was witnessed by Central Bank Deputy Governor Andres Castillo, Reps. Lucas Paredes of Abra, Natalio Castillo of Bohol, and Jose Albert of Catanduanes; and H. B. Reyes and Lino Gutierrez, NEC members.

After the ceremony, President Garcia received Sens. Quintin Paredes and Eulogio Balao and Rep. Benjamin T. Ligot of Cagayan and discussed with them party matters affecting Northern Luzon.

The President also received Sen. Pacita Madrigal-Gonzalez, Reps. Marcelino Veloso of Leyte, Pedro Trono of Iloilo, and Luis Hora of Mountain Province.

UNANIMOUS indorsement of the proposed state visit of President Garcia to Japan was voiced by members of the Council of State in their monthly meeting today.

President Garcia said he will soon make public his decision on this matter after hearing the indorsements expressed by ranking members of the Council, especially former President Sergio Osmeña, Vice-President Diosdado Macapagal, Acting Senate President Fernando Lopez, and Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez.

President Garcia said the proposed state visit to Japan, if and when accepted finally, would underscore two purposes: (1) to reciprocate the state visit to the Philippines last December of Japanese Prime Minister Nabusuke Kishi and (2) to foster friendly relations with neighboring Asian countries.

President Garcia informed the Council members that the Japanese Government was committed to shoulder the expenses by members of the official party.

The possibility that other matters would be discussed in the course of the projected state visit, such as the finalization of the Marikina multi-purpose project and the extension of the railroad lines north and south of Manila, was voiced by President Garcia.

He, however, emphasized that the state visit was primarily intended as a goodwill mission to Japan.

President Garcia also took time to explain to Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez that the Filipino people had chosen to forget the atrocities committed by the Japanese occupation troops. The President mentioned as evidence of the people's choice the ratification of the Japanese Peace Treaty and the approval of the Reparations Act.

President Garcia recalled that he was one of those Philippine officials who were made to suffer during the Japanese occupation, but said that the proposed trip would open a new chapter of friendship between the Philippines and Japan.

President Garcia was assured by Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas that there is no cause for alarm in spite of the tension in the Formosa straits.

The assurance was made when Speaker Protempore Constancio Castañeda questioned the advisability of making the trip in the immediate future in view of the tension in the Formosa area.

Vice-President Macapagal voiced his support of the trip, stating he was "not opposed to goodwill trips by President Garcia." He inquired if the trip would entail expenses on the part of the Philippine Government.

President Garcia gave assurance that in case he accepted the Japanese invitation, the Japanese Government would shoulder the expenses of the official entourage of the Philippine President.

Members of the Council who were present at the meeting presided over by President Garcia were Vice-President Macapagal, former President Sergio Osmeña, Senate President Protempore Fernando Lopez, Speaker Protempore Constancio Castaneda, acting Senate Majority Floor Leader Quintin Peredes, acting House Majority Floor Leader Justiniano Montano, Labor Secretary Angel Castano, LP President Cornelio Villareal, Foreign Affairs Undersecretary Juan Alcazaren, Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Justice Secretary Jesus Bariera, NEC Chairman Jose Locsin, Agriculture Undersecretary Amando Dalisay, Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez, Public Works Undersecretary Marciano Bautista, Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, General Services Undersecretary Serafin Salvador, Budget Deputy Commissioner Faustino Sy-Changco, and Press Secretary Jose C. Nable.

IN the evening the President received several members of the USAFIP-NL who requested executive clemency for Lt. Sabino Flores, who had been convicted of being responsible for a murder in Santo Tomas, La Union, in September 1944.

The members of the delegation included Fr. Osmundo Calip, chaplain of the organization, Danny Kalipano, Tancredo M. Guray, Maj. Ambrosio Pena, Diego Sipon, Jose M. Lizardo, Dr. Alejandro Dario, Dr. Trajano V. Bernardo, Mrs. Sabino Flores, and Mrs. T. M. Guray. The delegation was accompanied by Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, AFP chiefs of staff.

Economic Coordinator Juan Concon saw the President for final instructions prior to his departure for the United States to assist NASSCO General Manager Bernardo Abrera in the final negotiations for a loan for the purchase of integrated steel mill machinery for the NASSCO.

Another caller of the President was Harold L. Armstrong, a representative of several West German manufacturers, who also paid a courtesy call. Armstrong was accompanied by German Ambassador F. L. von Furstenbergh.

PRESIDENT Garcia today required the justice of the peace of Culaba, Leyte, to resign because of an immorality charge against him.

The presidential directive contained in an administrative order was in line with President Garcia's avowed policy of eliminating from the government service officials and employees who are unfit to hold public office.

Secretary of Justice Jesus Barrera recommended to the President that Avila be dismissed from the service or be required to resign. Secretary Barrera found the justice of the peace guilty of the charge.

Avila had been previously recommended for exoneration with a warning by the district judge who investigated the case, but Secretary Barrera said that the respondent's illicit relation with a woman who was not his wife was borne out not only by oral evidence but also by documentary proofs.

The Chief Executive gave the justice of the peace four days from the receipt of the administrative order within which to submit his resignation.

October 8.—PRESIDENT Garcia this day decided to push through his plan to expand the Philippine merchant marine fleet.

The Chief Executive made the decision after the Cabinet, at its regular weekly meeting, approved in principle to implement the provisions of Republic Act No. 1407, otherwise known as the Philippine Overseas Shipping Act of 1955.

The details of the financing plan of the shipbuilding program will be worked out later.

The President expressed his determination to give Filipino shipping firms more participation in the overseas shipping business, adding that the expansion of the Philippine merchant marine fleet would mean a bigger share in freight for the local companies.

A bigger number of Filipino bottoms, the President said, would also mean a bigger slash on dollars spent for freight, thus conserving the Philippine dollar reserves.

He cited statistics which showed that the Philippines spent in freight for imports and exports the amount of $436 million in one year alone.

The participation of vessels of Philippine registry amounted only to $17 million, the President added.

The President told the Cabinet that Filipino shipping firms are trying to avail this year of the government subsidy provided for by the said act owing to the long and tedious task of preparing plans and specifications and working out other details.

The subsidy granted by the Philippine Government to local shipping firms in the construction of ocean-going vessels is among the highest in the world, according to the President.

The act provides that loans not exceeding 75 per cent of the construction cost of ocean-going vessels will be granted to local shipping firms. All the loans shall be self-liquidating within a period not to exceed 20 years, bearing an interest at the rate of not more than four and one-half per cent per annum.

THE President informed the Cabinet today that he will recommend to Congress next year the enactment of an administration bill giving price support to certain high grades of tobacco leaf.

The President said that this will be one of the several measures he will recommend to Congress to protect small tobacco farmers from being exploited by unscrupulous individuals and groups.

He told the Cabinet that the Administration is decided on protecting the interests of the small tobacco farmers. He said the price support under the proposed legislation should be given only to certain high grades of tobacco. Lower grade tobacco not specified in the projected legislation will not be entitled to the price support.

The Chief Executive also underscored the need for more scientific ways of grading tobacco. He expressed concern over reports that unscrupulous individuals and FACOMA officials downgrade tobacco when they buy the tobacco leaves from the farmers and upgrade the same tobacco when they resell it to the ACCFA. Measures had already been taken by the Administration to check the practice, the President said.

President Garcia said that defective grading of tobacco will adversely affect the future of the tobacco industry. He reminded the Cabinet that he had previously instructed the ACCFA and the BIR to send representatives to witness the grading of tobacco in all phases.

He informed the Cabinet of existing plans to use low-grade tobacco for the manufacture of tobacco by-products. National Science Development Board Chairman Paulino Garcia said he would direct scientists in his office to conduct researches on tobacco by-products.

Dr. Garcia said that there were discrepancies in the reports of NSDB and ACCFA researchers on the curing of tobacco leaf which leads to defective grading.

The Cabinet also discussed the proposed importation by Yuhangco Co., Inc., of $2,000,000 worth of Virginia leaf tobacco on a no-dollar remittance basis. The proceeds from the proposed importation of 2,000,000 kilos of Virginia leaf tobacco will be invested in local agricultural enterprise.

The pros and cons on the proposed importation were thoroughly discussed by the cabinet. All the members expressed their individual opinions on the matter. President Garcia said that he will take into account the opinions of the Cabinet members when he finally decides on the proposed importation.

THIS AFTERNOON President Garcia sailed for Mindanao on a mission to seek all-out support of people in the southern regions for the stepped-up food production campaign of his administration.

The President boarded the yacht Santa Maria which lifted anchor at the Philippine Navy landing at 3:15 p.m. He was accompanied by Manila newsmen.

President Garcia's first port of call will be Ozamis City, where he was expected Friday morning. From there, he will proceed to Pagadian, Zamboanga del Sur.

He will also visit Cotabato, Zamboanga City, and Dipolog in Zamboanga del Norte. He is expected to be back in Manila in the afternoon of October 15.

Earlier in the morning, the President called Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo to his office to brief him on the items in the agenda of the Cabinet meeting.

The President met his Cabinet at 10 a.m. instead of at 4 p.m. in order to enable him to leave for his Mindanao trip early in the afternoon.

Following the Cabinet meeting, the President took an afternoon nap. On waking up, he proceeded to the PN landing on Dewey Boulevard to board the yacht for the southern voyage.

October 9.—THIS morning the President held a conference with Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia and Public Works Secretary Marciano Bautista. He discussed with them the needs of Mindanao, especially those pertaining to health and public works.

In his conference with Secretary Valencia inside the presidential cabin, the President inquired into the health conditions in the provinces of Mindanao. He expressed deep concern about the sanitation, prevention of diseases, and installation of water systems in the major towns of the island.

The President told Secretary Valencia that water is the key solution to the health problems of Mindanao. He said that if the Mindanao people are assured of clean and steady water supply, health problems could be overcome.

Secretary Valencia informed the Chief Executive that a large stock of assorted medicine is on board the presidential yacht for distribution to the different hospitals and health centers in the cities and towns to be visited by the President.

The site for the proposed National Hospital branch in Mindanao was also taken up at the conference. Secretary Valencia recommended that the hospital be constructed either in Davao or in one of the two Misamis provinces. The site will probably be decided by the President during his current Mindanao inspection trip.

President Garcia also expressed concern over the imperative need for the early construction of public works projects in Mindanao. Public works projects like the Maria Cristina Hydro-electric Power Plant and the NASSCO Steel Mills in Mindanao will hasten the industrial and agricultural development of the island, the President pointed out.

Secretary Bautista assured the President that his department has recommended the channeling of more funds and personnel to Mindanao to speed up the construction of several public works projects. Bautista recommended to the Chief Executive the creation of another regional engineer's office for Mindanao to expedite the completion of public works projects and divide the voluminous work and other details involved in constructions.

PRESIDENT Garcia and members of his party received with deep sorrow news of the death of Pope Pius XII this morning.

The President, immediately upon receiving a flash from Press Secretary Jose C. Nable on the death of Pius XII, stopped his conference with Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia and Acting Public Works Secretary Marciano Bautista and, stepping out of his cabin, personally announced the demise of the Pope to the members of the presidential party.

The Chief Executive then requested Fr. Juan Tugade, navy chaplain, to say a prayer for the late Pope and invited all the members of the party to join the prayer. After the prayer, the President dictated a message on the death of the late "Pope of Peace" which was immediately transmitted to Malacañang.

At dinner, the President chatted informally with newspapermen and other members of his party. He retired to his cabin early in anticipation of the heavy schedule facing him tomorrow.

October 10.—PRESIDENT Garcia today mounted his administration's drive for economic self-sufficiency by urging local farmers to increase rice production.

The President is in Zamboanga del Norte in the course of a seven-day tour of four Mindanao provinces to drum up support of farmers of the region of his stepped-up rice production program.

In addresses delivered in Molave, Zamboanga del Norte, and in Tangub and Bonifacio municipalities, he stressed the need for increasing farm yields per hectare.

The President said that increase in the country's production of rice will mean a halt in the drain of the country's dollar reserves as occasioned by the yearly importation of the cereal.

IN AN INTERVIEW with newsmen this afternoon, the President took time out to defend himself from a Senate Blue Ribbon Committee charge that his election was linked to land purchases made by the PHHC.

The President branded the charge as "far-fetched." He advised the committee to look into the dates of the purchases to determine the truth.

President Garcia is scheduled to proceed to Pagadian tonight where he will board a waiting Navy LST for Cotabato.

THE PRESIDENT ordered the flying of the Philippine flag at half mast in all government buildings today in deference to the passing away of Pope Pius XII as head of state.

The presidential order was relayed to all department heads by Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo. The presidential order was also transmitted to all provincial governors, municipal mayors, and provincial commanders.

October 11.—PRESIDENT Garcia resumed this morning his all-out campaign for increased food production started during his last visit to Mindanao a couple of months ago.

Arriving at Ozamis City at 8 a.m., the President inaugurated the Malaubang Bridge at the outskirts of the city, then motored to Pagadian stopping briefly at the towns of Tangub, Bonifacio, Liloan, and Tambulig to say a few words in response to the insistent demands of local officials and townspeople.

In his speeches, President Garcia stressed the need for the Philippines' achieving self-sufficiency in food, clothing, and shelter and said this is the most important aim of his administration. Saying these three are man's most elementary needs, he decried our present inability to achieve these goals in spite of favorable local conditions.

Despite assurances made by Agriculture Secretary Rodriguez that we will have surpluses in rice and corn this year, the President urged the people of Mindanao to concentrate on planting staple food crops before turning to money crops like cotton, rubber, sugar, etc.

President Garcia told the people that cotton has been raised successfully in Cotabato and that now they are planning to increase plantings there.

The President said the establishment of textile mills in the Philippines has proved to be a great boon to the country as textile imports have dropped from ₱300 million last year to ₱100 million this year, most of it having been spent for the purchase of raw materials.

Regarding shelter, the President said virgin forests in Mindanao can amply supply the country's building requirements for generations to come.

He revealed that the Bureau of Mines statistics put iron ore deposits in Tinaga and Nunop towns of Surigao alone at close to 1.2 billion metric tons which will last us for more than 300 years.

He assured the municipal officials and townspeople of his willingness to assist them in the construction of their pet projects but recommended that they put up first projects that will be a source of revenue for the town and the people.

Early this morning the President and Mrs. Garcia heard a requiem mass for Pope Pius XII celebrated by Fr. Juan Tugade, navy chaplain, before an improvised altar set up on board the Sta. Maria:

Among those who were present at the mass were Health Secretary Valencia, Public Works Secretary Marciano Bautista, Education Undersecretary Daniel Salcedo, and other members of the presidential party, including newspapermen.

The presidential yacht was met at the mouth of Panguil Bay by gaily decorated launches and motor bancas that escorted the Sta. Maria to Ozamis City in a colorful fluvial parade.

On hand at the wharf to meet the President and his party were Misamis Occidental Governor Diego Ty-Deling, Ozamis City Mayor Angel Medina, National Integration Commissioner Madki Alonto, Assistant Executive Secretary Enrique C. Quema, and others.

After luncheon at the Molave High School, President Garcia delivered a brief speech on the urgent need for attaining economic self-sufficiency.

The party arrived at Pagadian shortly after 4 p.m. Then the President held a public rally in the town square until 6 p.m.

In his speech before Pagadian people he talked on the same theme and urged them to do their utmost to achieve the Administration's aims.

After the rally the President and his party proceeded to the residence of Zamboanga del Sur Governor Bienvenido Ebarle for merienda cena and then to Pagadian Central School for conference and open forum with municipal, provincial, and national officials.

The conference lasted until midnight after which the President and his party boarded a Philippine Navy LST for Parang, Cotabato.

President's Week in Review: October 12-18, 1958

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

October 12.—PRESIDENT Garcia called his countrymen “spoiled children of nature” and blamed this fact as the reason for our failure to grow and produce enough rice for our needs.

Addressing a capacity crowd at a public meeting held on the campus of the Cotabato High School this morning, the President said life in our country is so easy that our people pay more attention to raising money crops and neglect food crops.

He called upon the people to do first thing first. He said that since food is one of the three elementary requirements of man, we should pay more attention and concentrate more effort on the raising of food crops.

Speaking about the need to achieve self-sufficiency in food, clothing, and shelter, the President admitted his partiality for Mindanao because, he said, Mindanao is the key to the attainment of this primary aim of the Administration.

Citing figures, he said the average rice production in the Philippines is only 27 cavanese per hectare which is the lowest among Southeast Asian countries. If the present yield can be increased by only one cavan per hectare, we will be self-sufficient in rice, he said.

President Garcia pointed out the possibility of the Philippines exporting rice and said that Japan is ready and willing to purchase all the rice we can export.

He urged the adoption of modern farming methods and techniques for increased rice production.

President Garcia reminded the audience of the potentialities of Cotabato, particularly with regard to the planting of cotton and rubber. He said that cotton grown in Cotabato has proved to be better than cotton imported from the United States.

Approximately 1,500 hectares in Cotabato are now planted to cotton.

The President also announced that three large rubber companies in the Philippines are eager to purchase all the rubber we can produce.

October 13.—IN A SPEECH delivered today in Katipunan, Zamboanga del Norte, the President urged the farmers to avail themselves of the services and facilities of the Department of Public Works and Communications and the office of the Presidential Assistant on Community Development, especially in the construction of feeder roads connecting interior barrios, to highways.

Explaining the work of the PACD to a large, crowd composed of national, provincial, and local officials of Zamboanga del Norte and the townspeople of Katipunan at the inauguration of the ₱750,000 Dicayo bridge in Katipunan, the President, said feeder roads will enable them to take their products to the nearest market cheaper, faster, and easier.

He told the people that his administration has placed emphasis on road-building in Mindanao in order to open new lands for settlement and accelerate the economic development of the island.

President Garcia said the new Dicayo bridge is only one of the major constructions being undertaken by the Administration in Zamboanga del Norte and other parts of Mindanao. He expressed the hope that, before the end of his term, all towns will be connected with each other by roads.

President Garcia declared that the Administration has planned a road-building program this year in Mindanao of more than 800 kilometers with an estimated cost of ₱100 million. Of this amount, ₱25 million will come from ICA assistance and the rest will be furnished by the government.

Acting Public Works Secretary Marciano Bautista, who delivered the opening remarks, said that Mindanao needs a total of over 27,000 kilometers of roads and that this has been programmed for a period of 10 years.

It is estimated that, when completed, the government will have spent over ₱540 million.

President Garcia was introduced by Gov. Romulo Garrovillo of Zamboanga del Norte.

Among those who assisted in the ribbon-cutting ceremony were Secretary Bautista, Highways Commissioner Nicolas Cuenca, Gov. Garrovillo, Rep. Alberto Ubay, and Katipunan Councilor Remedies Carpio.

After the program, the President and his party proceeded to the town hall of Katipunan for lunch after which they returned to Dipolog for a brief rest.

At the luncheon at the Katipunan town hall, Foreign Affairs Undersecretary Juan Alcazaren arrived with Central Bank Deputy Governor Andres Castillo. They said they had received a telegram from President Garcia instructing them to go to Dipolog for a conference.

In Dipolog President Garcia took a brief rest in the residence of Gov. Garrovillo and at 5 p.m. went to Rep. Ubay's house for cocktails.

October 14.—PRESIDENT Garcia announced today that local industries may apply through local banks for development and investment loans from Japanese banks under the Japanese Reparations Agreement, following a four-hour conference this morning on board the S.S. Sta. Maria.

Present at the closed-door conference held inside the presidential cabin of the yacht were Foreign Affairs Undersecretary Juan Alcazaren, Reparations Commissioner Rodolfo Maslog, Deputy Central Bank Governor Andres Castillo, Minister Enrique Garcia, and Manuel Marquez, president of the Trust and Commercial Bank.

President Garcia has instructed them to meet with him in Dipolog, Zamboanga del Norte, but the meeting was postponed until today owing to the heavy schedule of the President.

Under the reparations agreement, the Philippines will receive $250 million in loans for investment purposes.

President Garcia called for the conference at 9 a.m. after breakfast and was closeted with the officials until 1 p.m. when they broke up for lunch.

After luncheon the President gave a press conference after which he retired to his cabin for his usual afternoon rest.

Upon waking up, President Garcia took light merienda then worked on state papers he took along with him until supper. After supper he went over pending state papers again.

THE PRESIDENT today let loose another blast at the Senate Blue Ribbon Committee by saying that the Senate body cannot choose confidential men for him.

“Not even the Senate Blue Ribbon Committee can decide for me the men I should repose my confidence in,” the President said.

The presidential outburst came by way of comment on reports that a group of former officials and employees of the defunct Presidential Complaints and Action Committee had complained to the Senate body on their supposed unjust dismissal.

President Garcia stressed that the PCAC was an office directly under the Office of the President and that he had a free hand to choose men for positions of confidence.

PRESIDENT Garcia sent the following message to United States President Dwight D. Eisenhower on the occasion of the latter’s 68th birthday anniversary today:

“Please accept my warmest greetings and most sincere wishes on your 68th Birthday Anniversary. May God Grant You Long and Healthy Life.

“PRESIDENT GARCIA”

October 15.—PRESIDENT Garcia today expressed satisfaction over his Mindanao trip saying that his intensive campaign for increased food production had brought very encouraging results.

The President made this statement soon after the Sta. Maria had docked at the Philippine Navy landing on Dewey Boulevard at 4 o’clock this afternoon.

During the eight-day trip the presidential party covered the provinces of Cotabato, Zamboanga del Sur, and Zamboanga del Norte.

The President was able to verify reports about a bumper crop in rice and corn during his trip. He was also able to hear at first hand the gripes and complaints of the people in these provinces of Mindanao.

The President’s talks with the people of the provinces he visited and with Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia and Acting Public Works Secretary Marciano Bautista could be the basis for accelerated implementation of the health and public works projects in Mindanao.

The proposed National Mental Hospital branch in Mindanao and the highways and roads programmed for construction are among those which may be implemented soon as a result of the President’s inspection trip.

Aside from calling upon the people to plant and produce more in order to achieve economic self-sufficiency, particularly in our staple foods, President Garcia also urged Mindanao farmers to plant cotton and rubber.

Rubber and cotton, the President said, have a ready market in the Philippines and the dollars spent annually on these two items could be applied for the expansion of existing industries or for the establishment of new ones.

President Garcia delivered 12 speeches during his four-day stay in Mindanao. He inaugurated two bridges and the 220-kilometer long Cotabato-Marbel highway.

THE President held a closed-door conference with Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano on board the Sta. Maria immediately after the presidential yacht had docked at the Philippine Navy landing at 4 o’clock this afternoon.

Secretary Serrano reported to the President on the result of his mission to the United States.

Arriving at the mouth of Manila Bay at 8 o'clock this morning, President Garcia instructed Lt. Comdr. Manuel Mandapat, skipper of the Sta. Maria, to drop anchor at Sisiman Bay off Mariveles so that he could continue his conference with government officials on board the yacht.

Among those who took part in this morning's conference were Foreign Affairs Undersecretary Juan Alcazaren, Central Bank Deputy Governor Andres Castillo, Reparations Commissioner Rodolfo Maslog, and Minister Enrique Garcia.

They continued their discussions on the application of the $250 million investment loans from Japan under the reparations agreement and the procedures to be followed.

After lunch President Garcia retired to his cabin for a rest and woke up just as the yacht was entering the breakwater.

After his conference with Secretary Serrano, President Garcia motored to his Bohol Avenue residence and there worked until late this evening on state papers that had piled up during his absence.

October 16—PRESIDENT Garcia today opened the three-day second Labor-Management Congress with the ominous warning that "the only reasonable and permanent solution to mass unemployment is increased productive capacity."

The President delivered his speech before some 2,500 labor and management representatives who had converged at the University of the East auditorium for the inaugural ceremonies.

Of government policies in the economic and social fields, the President said, "I should be the last to claim that any existing policy is infallible or sacrosanct . . ."

"They define for us the framework, the limits of action. But within that framework . . . we must be flexible without being lax, receptive to new ideas but not capricious," he added.

Unemployment, the President said, is caused by the fact that "our rate of economic development has not caught up with the accelerated pace of population growth."

He said this problem could be solved by full and effective utilization of the available resources—both natural and human.

President Garcia averred that this could be achieved "by the application of science and technology to socio-economic problems as well as the development of a modern outlook."

He issued a call for the development of an "intellectual attitude capable of sustaining purposeful and efficient effort, a desire to achieve that makes man shape his environment according to his needs."

The President said this would involve the development of a "high degree of self-reliance, not only individual but also national self-reliance."

He clearly illustrated this fact by pointing to an "alien minority" which had gained "notable success in the economic field" through the exercise of such "intangible qualities."

The Chief Executive said the policy of the government, begun in 1954, is to achieve industrialization and the "modernization of Philippine economy and society."

He declared that the government has taken positive steps “to encourage and assist private industry to the extent that the percentage increases in our gross national product . . . are considered short of phenomenal for an underdeveloped country.”

However, he warned that the government could not risk further direct participation in the country’s economic life “without impairing the freedom of private enterprise.”

He explained that once the government assumed responsibility for economic development, it must necessarily demand an effective authority to exercise or fulfill that responsibility.

“We have elected to conduct our development efforts along the lines of a private enterprise system,” he said. “So far we have no reason to think or feel that our choice has not been made wisely.”

He pointed out, however, that the system, as the mainstay of Philippine economic development, was “on trial.”

“If necessity warrants,” he continued, “the government should be in a position to enlarge the public sector and become more active than ever before in the economic field.”

President Garcia arrived at the U.E. at 9:15 a.m., and after reviewing a guard of honor composed of U.E. model cadets, was escorted to the auditorium stage by members of the L-M advisory council.

With the President on the stage were the First Lady, Speaker Daniel Romualdez, Archbishop of Manila Rufino J. Santos, Labor Secretary Angel Castaño, UE President Francisco Dalupan, Labor Undersecretary Agapito Braganza, and members of Congress and the diplomatic corps.

After the President was seated, the Constabulary Band struck up the official congress march, Magtutungan, especially composed for the occasion by Prof. Felipe Padilla de Leon.

Mrs. Leonila Garcia, assisted by Mrs. Castaño, then released from a cardboard cage two be-ribboned ceremonial doves, symbolic of industrial peace.

PRESIDENT Garcia was requested this day by Rep. Felipe Garduque of Cagayan to defer his decision on the controversial Virginia leaf tobacco to enable a sub-committee of the Committee on Codification of Laws, Census, and Statistics to compile the necessary data for submission to the Chief Executive.

Garduque, who heads the sub-committee, informed President Garcia that it will need a few more days to hear the testimonies of interested parties in order to reflect and compile all the data necessary for it to arrive at a correct conclusion.

He also informed President Garcia that in conducting hearings during the recess of Congress on the correct statistical data about the total supply of Virginia leaf tobacco now existing in the Philippines, including a conservative estimate of production during this year, the sub-committee has heard the testimonies of government officials.

Earlier in the morning, President and Mrs. Garcia heard mass at the Malacañang Chapel on the occasion of the birthday anniversary of their only daughter, Mrs. Linda Garcia-Campos.

Relatives of the presidential family and the parents and brothers of Fernando Campos, Linda’s husband, also heard the mass.

Mrs. Campos is now in Cambridge, Massachusetts, with her husband who is taking post graduate studies for a master’s degree in Harvard. Breakfast was served at the family dining hall after the mass.

Alan H. Temple and Harold Whitman, executive vice-president and vice-president, respectively, of the First National City Bank of New York, called on President Garcia earlier this afternoon. They were accompanied in their courtesy call by Richard M. Henry, manager of the Manila branch of the First National City Bank of New York.

Temple and Whitman came from New Delhi, where they attended the recently concluded International Monetary Fund conference. They are in Manila on a brief stop-over on their way back to the United States.

President Garcia and the First Lady later this evening called by overseas telephone their daughter Linda to greet her on her birthday. They had a pleasant 27-minute chat with Linda and her husband over the phone.

PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia gave a formal dinner in Malacañang this evening in honor of United States Defense Secretary and Mrs. Neil H. McElroy, who paid a courtesy call on the President and the First Lady.

The dinner was held at 8 p.m. after a conference between President Garcia and Secretary McElroy.

The guest list follows:

Secretary and Mrs. Neil McElroy, Miss Nancy McElroy; Admiral Harry D. Felt, commander-in-chief, Pacific Fleet; Admiral and Mrs. James S. Russell, assistant chief of naval operations; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver M. Gale, special assistant of the Defense Secretary; Brig. Gen. Kerry Randall;

E. Bohlen, Secretary and Mrs. Jesus Vargas, Secretary and Mrs. Juan C. Pajo, Chairman of Senate Committee on National Defense and Security and Mrs. Emmanuel Pelaez, Chairman of House Committee on National Defense and Mrs. Bartolome Cabangbang;

MALACAÑANG forwarded to Brig. Gen. Pelagio Cruz, chief of the Philippine Constabulary, for comment and action the complaint of Manila Mayor Arsenio H. Lacson against the alleged act of encroachment by Philippine Constabulary soldiers within the compound of strike-bound National Marketing Corporation.

In endorsing the complaint of the Manila Mayor, Assistant Executive Secretary Mariano Logarta requested Gen. Cruz to give his comment or take appropriate action.

In calling the attention of President Garcia about the incident, Mayor Lacson cited the Revised Charter of Manila which provides that the Chief of Police of Manila "shall exercise exclusive police supervision over all land and water within the police jurisdiction of the city."

Mayor Lacson, in his letter to President Garcia, stated that Congress approved this proviso when he was still a Congressman taking into account the bloody incident between PC troopers and Manila policemen in Intramuros.

The strike, despite efforts of Labor Secretary Angel Castaño to help the strikers and the NAMARCO management to arrive at a mutually satisfactory solution, remains unsettled.

October 17.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning approved the recommendation of his Fiscal Policy Council reducing the ceiling on bond issues from ₱175 million as proposed in the budget message for fiscal year 1959 to ₱110.26 million.

The members of the Fiscal Policy Council who strongly recommended the approval of the initial ceiling on cash disbursements of the proceeds of bond issues for fiscal year 1959, were Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, National Economic Council Chairman Jose C. Locsin, Deputy Central Bank Governor Andres V. Castillo, and Deputy Commissioner Faustino Sy-Changco.

The report of the Fiscal Policy Council was submitted to the President shortly before the Cabinet meeting started.

The fiscal policy members told the President that the reduction in the ceiling on bond issues was made imperative by the developments in fiscal, monetary, and economic conditions. They agreed, however, to the proposition that the ceiling may be revised as soon as conditions warrant such adjustment.

They also said that the reduction must be taken in order to minimize the disrupting effects on price levels, money supply, and balance of payments of financing by the use of public credit.

Although the fiscal policy members believed that the amount of ₱110 million is not enough to implement the national development program for the current fiscal year, they said the ceiling on bond issues must be kept down because of the inflationary nature of the present system of development financing with the use of proceeds of bond issues sold to the banking system.

It was recommended in the report that the initial ceiling on bond issues must be kept down until such time as fiscal and monetary conditions would be more favorable.

The fiscal policy group informed the President that in line with the new ceiling on bond issues, the agencies concerned have been requested to submit to the Budget Commission their program of expenditures within the limits of the respective amounts allocated to them on the basis of a list of priority of their project.

It was emphasized in the report that the cash allocation for public works shall be used to pay for projects that are active and physically started and those which have already been completed.

The members of the fiscal policy group agreed unanimously in subscribing to the principle of utilizing non-inflationary source of development financing.

In line with the principle, the members recommended to the President that as much of new bond issues as possible should be absorbed by private savings.

The measure would involve tapping the savings in the hands of the GSIS and SSS initially, and later inducing private banks and other financial institutions, to invest actually their savings in government securities instead of resorting to the present inflationary practice of using their funds to buy government bonds as a means of increasing their lending capacity through the resale of the bonds to the Central Bank.

The fiscal policy council, however, said that should it be absolutely necessary to sell bonds through inflationary media, the maximum amount that may be sold through the banking system shall not exceed ₱75 million which is the amount of new money the CB Governor believes can be absorbed by the country without impairing monetary stability.

THE CABINET agreed today to the filing of a petition for declaratory judgment before the Supreme Court to determine the legality of the NAMARCO strike.

The petition, to be filed by Solicitor General Edilberto Barot, will specifically seek a final ruling on whether the state firm, is performing governmental or proprietary functions.

In arriving at the decision, as suggested by Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, the Cabinet took into account the conflicting opinions of Labor Secretary Angel Castaño, who wanted the President to certify the strike to the Court of Industrial Relations, and Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez, who maintained that the strike was illegal.

Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera rules that NAMARCO is performing governmental functions and, therefore, its employees may not join any labor organization which imposes the obligation to strike or to join in strike.

Secretary Barrera quoted the functions of the NAMARCO and said that the provisions of law “clearly indicate that the said corporation is performing a public or governmental function.” He said: “In opinion No. 264, series of 1956, this Office had occasion to state that said corporation is a service and stabilization agency of the government and not a business or industrial enterprise in the ordinary sense of the term.”

In seeking a declaratory judgment, the Cabinet also agreed that striking NAMARCO employees should voluntarily go back to work while the case is pending decision.

Secretary Hernaez, in his capacity as NAMARCO board chairman, gave the assurance that the board would” withdraw its ultimatum to the strikers to go back to work or be considered separated from the service.

The case of the NAMARCO strike was brought up by President Garcia during the Cabinet meeting after Secretary Castaño had insisted that the Chief Executive certify the strike to the Court of Industrial Relations.

Secretary Hernaez insisted that the strike was illegal as NAMARCO employees could not have the right to strike, citing the opinion of Justice Secretary Barrera.

To break the impasse and to avoid the implication that the government can be involved in a litigation, Secretary Serrano offered the suggestion to institute declaratory judgment proceedings and thus decide whether NAMARCO employees have the right to collective bargaining and to declare a strike.

Secretary Hernaez also gave the assurance that the strikers, including! the leaders, could go back to their former jobs and that the NAMARCO management would maintain the status quo.

PRESIDENT Garcia, in a proclamation issued today set aside the last week of October of every year as Nurses’ Week and authorized the Filipino Nurses’ Association to take charge of its proper observance.

The President deemed it essential that a period be dedicated to the members of the nursing profession in order to develop fully a consciousness and understanding among the people on the importance and availability of the nursing resources.

In spite of the progress that has been achieved in the field of health and nursing today, it has been noticed that there are still many people who do not utilize the services of nurses in times of their ailments.

To insure the success of the celebration of Nurses’ Week, President Garcia called upon all citizens and residents of the Philippines, irrespective of nationality or creed, to observe the occasion.

October 18.—THIS MORNING, the President paid tribute to private institutions and individuals who have voluntarily assumed their share of public responsibility, willingly and generously.

In his speech at the inauguration of the Convalescent Home and Administrative Building of the Philippine Band of Mercy in Quezon City, the President said that one of the most striking evidences of a nation's progress lies in the achievements of private institutions and individuals.

The President praised the members of the Philippine Band of Mercy "whose selflessness is manifest in their collective concern and unceasing solicitude for the unfortunates of our country."

The Chief Executive paid homage to the late Irving "Dady" Hart "whose almost single-handed efforts in founding this civic organization about 15 years ago are a testament to man's unbounded love for his fellow men."

During the inauguration ceremonies Dr. Emilio H. Javier, president of the PBM, awarded a plaque of appreciation to Mrs. Leonila D. Garcia for her services and contributions to the organization. The First Lady also attended the ceremonies.

Other PBM awardees included Rodolfo P. Andal, Mrs. Pacita C. Roces, Dr. Felix B. Acebedo, Col. Bernard L. Anderson, Miss Lourdes R. Caruncho, Ralph G. Hawkins, Col. Salvador T. Villa, and Mrs. Barbara B. Mariano.

PRESIDENT Garcia pledged government cooperation and support of the objectives enunciated during the labor-management congress which came to a successful end this evening at the University of the East auditorium.

Speaking extemporaneously, President Garcia congratulated both labor and management representatives for getting together and discussing ways and means of improving relations between them.

He also lauded them for their constructive discussions on the all-important subject of fighting off, unemployment, and expressed his personal view that the permanent solution to this problem is more productivity.

The President arrived at the congress hall with Labor Secretary Angel Castaño. The Chief Executive was earlier briefed by Castaño on the nature of the 27 resolutions approved during the three-day labor-management congress.

President Garcia assured the congress that, if he finds these resolutions meritorious, he will incorporate them into the labor program of the Administration. He also said he will leave an open mind to their propositions and will give them his most serious consideration.

PRESIDENT Garcia left at midnight tonight on board the presidential yacht Santa Maria for Tacloban, Leyte, where he will be the guest speaker during the ceremonies commemorating the landing of liberation forces in that island.

Sailing with the President are Mrs. Carlos P. Garcia, Senator Emmanuel Pelaez, Speaker Protempore Manuel Castañeda, Reps. Bartolome Cabangbang, Marcelino Veloso, and Maximo Garcia.

Representatives of metropolitan newspapers were also with the presidential party. The President is scheduled to return to Manila on Wednesday, October 22.

President's Week in Review: October 19-25, 1958

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

October 19.—PRESIDENT Garcia closeted himself the whole morning today in his cabin after hearing mass and after breakfast with the members of the presidential party.

Before lunch the President came out from his cabin and chatted with the members of the party. After lunch the President gave a press conference and then retired later to his cabin to study important state papers which he took along in the trip.

Some of the members of the presidential party, include SWA Administrator Amparo Villamor; Speaker Protempore Constancio Castañeda; Mrs. Paz Romualdez, wife of Speaker Daniel Romualdez; Mrs. Milagros Sumulong, wife of Rep. Francisco Sumulong of Rizal; Mrs. Edith Pelaez, wife of Sen. Emmanuel Pelaez; Mrs. Marcelino Veloso; and Reps. Lucas Paredes of Abra, Salipada Pendatun of Cotabato, and Laurentino Badelles of Lanao.

October 20.—PRESIDENT Garcia this noon extolled the Philippine resistance movement whose main task during the Japanese occupation was to preserve the morale and loyalty of the Filipino people to the United States.

The President was the guest of honor at a testimonial banquet, given by local officials at the Leyte Regional School of Arts and Trades in Tacloban City.

He disclosed that, after Leyte had been liberated, a group of American soldiers fetched him from Bohol and took him before General Douglas Mac-Arthur and President Sergio Osmeña, Sr.

President Garcia said he was then commissioned by President Osmeña to go to the United States and work for the release of war damage payments and funds for the rehabilitation of the Philippines.

Rep. George Miller of California, who attended the rites commemorating the landing of American liberation forces in Leyte exactly 14 years ago, was given a resounding ovation at the popular luncheon after President Garcia publicly acknowledged his "numerous and invaluable services" in the promotion of Philippine interests in the United States.

President Garcia and his party arrived in Tacloban City at 8 a.m. today to participate in the 14th anniversary celebration of the landing in Leyte of U. S. forces.

The strong rain this morning did not dampen the spontaneous enthusiasm of the people from all walks of life who went to meet the presidential party at the wharf.

Among those who welcomed President Garcia at the Tacloban City wharf were Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, Gov. Ildefonso Cinco, Rep. Marcelino Veloso, Tacloban City Mayor Artemio Mate, and other national, provincial, and city officials.

After debarking from the Sta. Maria, President Garcia proceeded to the Sto. Niño church, where a Te Deum was sang. From the church, the presidential party went to Red Beach in Palo where the commemorative program was held.

Before the plain tomb erected in memory of unknown Filipino and American soldiers who died during the battle for the liberation of Leyte, President Garcia and U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen laid a wreath each.

From the ceremonies at Red Beach, the President proceeded to the Leyte Regional School of Arts and Trades, where he was guest of honor at a testimonial banquet tendered by local officials.

After lunch President Garcia returned to the yacht to take a short rest. He ordered the parade scheduled for this afternoon cancelled because the heavy rain would endanger the health of the participants, especially the schoolchildren.

President Garcia spoke before national, provincial, and municipal officials and prominent Leyteños in the evening at the Leyte Normal School gymnasium.

October 21.—HEAVY RAINS delayed the departure of the presidential yacht, Sta. Maria from Tacloban today.

Early this morning, however, the rains stopped a little, increasing visibility, and the Sta. Maria steamed out from San Jacinto Strait only to encounter heavy waves in Samar sea.

A tropical depression with 30-knots an hour winds forced the vessel to seek shelter off the eastern coast of Masbate. Ten-foot waves lashed the Sta. Maria forcing most of the members of the presidential party to stay in their cabins.

Some of the members of the party could not go to their cabins owing to sea-sickness and spent the whole morning in lounging chairs. The President's personal physician, Dr. Antonio Guytingco, had a busy time passing some pills around before he himself got affected.

The Sta. Maria is steaming at midday towards Masbate harbor, where it will seek shelter to allow the tropical depression to pass or dissipate.

THE PRESIDENTIAL yacht Sta. Maria with President Garcia and his party abroad took refuge in Masbate harbor at 2:30 p.m. today after being battered by huge waves and strong winds created by a tropical depression east of Catanduanes.

The presidential yacht is anchored at Masbate harbor and is not expected to sail for Manila until tomorrow noon in order to avoid the path of the typhoon which developed strong winds and rains the whole day.

On board the yacht are the President, the First Lady, Social Welfare Administrator Amparo P. Villamor, Speaker Protempore Constancio Castañeda, Rep. Lucas Paredes, Rep. Badilles, Mesdames Emmanuel Pelaez, Francisco Sumulong, Marcelino Veloso, and others.

Capt. Heracleo Alano, Philippine Navy operations chief, and Lt. Comdr. Manuel C. Mardapat, skipper of the presidential yacht, stayed at the bridge of the ship since it sailed from Tacloban at 5 a.m. today because of battering huge ten-foot waves which tossed the yacht around. Capt. Alano ordered the yacht anchored at Masbate harbor and said the earliest time that the President could get to Manila is Friday morning.

The yacht is expected to stay in the harbor the whole night and even the whole morning tomorrow, depending on weather forecasts which are being received by radio regularly.

Even at Masbate harbor, the effect of the tropical depression is being felt. At sea and all around is foreboding darkness created by heavy clouds, torrents of rain, and lashing winds.

Mass was said by Fr. Juan Tugade before an improvised altar on deck at 7 a.m. today. After the mass some passengers had breakfast while others proceeded to their cabins because of seasickness. Many passengers stayed in bed and did not eat until about 2 p.m. when the yacht was already in Masbate harbor where the waves were comparatively calm.

PRESIDENT Garcia issued a proclamation declaring the period from February 14 to March 31 next year for the 12th annual fund campaign of the Philippine National Red Cross, it was announced by Malacañang today.

The President, in his proclamation, pointed out that the PNRC had, "through unstinted labor, proven itself an indispensable institution in the promotion of public welfare, especially in times of emergency, symbolizing our national spirit of compassion and our aspiration for world peace and understanding."

The Chief Executive urged all citizen and residents of this country, as well as all associations and organizations, to help actively in the campaign by giving generously of their means, time, and efforts to realize the aims and purposes of the organization.

He also authorized all national, provincial, city, and municipal government officials and school authorities to accept for the PNRC "fund-raising responsibilities," urging them to take the initiative and active leadership in their respective communities.

October 22.—PRESIDENT Garcia today directed all government relief agencies to extend aid to the victims of typhoon Kathy after getting reports on the extent of the typhoon damage.

The President instructed Social Welfare Administrator Amparo Villamor, who is on board the yacht, to contact the SWA office and mobilize personnel for relief work.

President Garcia expressed grave concern over reports that 16 persons were feared lost off Libertad, Capiz, when their fishing boat was sunk by huge waves and strong wind generated by the typhoon.

The yacht Santa Maria has been marooned in the Masbate harbor since 2:30 p.m. yesterday on account of bad weather.

In a brief conference with newsmen, the President brushed aside the Senate Blue Ribbon Committee's claim that most fishing ships from the Japanese reparations have been allocated to companies headed by Boholanos.

"That is ridiculous," the President said curtly.

The Chief Executive had a brief conference on board the vessel with Masbate officials. They reported to him on the local problems. The conference was held after lunch, before the President retired to his cabin for his usual afternoon siesta.

Earlier in the morning, President Garcia had breakfast in his cabin after hearing mass said by Father Juan Tugade, PN chaplain, at an improvised altar on deck.

After breakfast, the President closeted himself in his cabin and went over state papers he took along with him in his trip which took him last Monday to Leyte, where he attended the Leyte landing celebration.

The presidential yacht is expected to sail for Manila tomorrow morning, if the weather permits. However, from the Masbate harbor the sea still looks rough.

THE President issued a proclamation today declaring Thursday, October 23, as special public holiday in the province of Ilocos Norte, the birthplace of the Filipino painter, Juan Luna, whose first centenary year celebration terminates on that day.

October 23.—PRESIDENT Garcia said today he has not discussed with the Department of Foreign Affairs any move of the Philippines to bring the Formosa question before the United Nations.

The President pointed out that there is a standing agreement among UN diplomats that the world body will step into the picture only when all other steps have failed to settle the issue.

President Garcia commented on reports that the foreign affairs office was planning to instruct the Philippine delegation in the UN to start exploratory talks with other delegations in the UN on the possible move of the world body regarding the Formosa crisis.

At the same time, the Chief Executive said he will decide upon his arrival in Manila early tomorrow morning whether he will call members of his Cabinet for the regular weekly meeting.

In a brief conference with newsmen, the President also:

1. Admitted he received the request of Administrator of Economic Coordination Juan Concon for retirement and said he was seriously studying it;
2. Endorsed Lieut-Comdr. Marcelino Calinawan's plan to catch law violators through close examination of their income tax returns;
3. Made no comment on a reported disagreement between US State Secretary John Foster Dulles and President Chiang Kai-shek over the proposed demilitarization of the disputed offshore islands; and
4. Said the Cuenco ouster bid should wait until Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez arrives in accordance with a previous understanding among NP leaders.

The President made the last statement when asked to comment on a story that Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo supported a move to oust Sen. Mariano J. Cuenco from the Nacionalista Party.

Sen. Cuenco, who is chairman of the Senate Blue-Ribbon Committee, is now considered a "thorn on the side of peace" within the NP because of his investigations of venalities in the government.

On the story that the Department of Foreign Office was studying the possibility of inviting Dulles here for a discussion with Philippine officials of matters affecting US-PS relations, the President said it was rather too sudden.

President Garcia has been receiving regular reports from Capt. Heracleo Alano, Philippine Navy operations chief, on the progress of the rescue operations for the recovery of any survivor of the ill-fated m.v. Guesan.

The m.v. Guesan sanked with a crew of 16 off the coast Libertad, Antique, last Tuesday when it ran into rough seas in the wake of typhoon Kathy.

President Garcia expressed grave concern over the destruction wrought by the typhoon and over the lives lost in its wake.

The yacht left Masbate harbor at 8:30 this morning for the return voyage to Manila, and immediately ran again into rough seas.

However, ship officers said the yacht can tackle the rough seas and could proceed full speed toward Manila. The yacht, with the President aboard, was expected to arrive in Manila at 6 a.m. tomorrow.

October 24.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning appeared none the worse after his rough return trip from Leyte during which the yacht Sta Maria encountered typhoon Kathy and was forced to seek shelter in Masbate harbor.

The Sta. Maria, carrying the President and the members of his party, docked at the Philippine Navy landing at 6: 30 a.m. On hand to meet them at the dock were, among others, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, Labor Secretary Angel Castaño, Ambassador Manuel A. Adeva, and Sen. Emmanuel Pelaez.

From the PN landing President Garcia motored direct to Malacañang and held a closed-door conference with Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano and Ambassador Adeva, Philippine envoy to Japan.

No details were released as to the topics they discussed during the three-hour conference.

Labor Secretary Castaño briefed the President on the latest developments on the protracted NAMARCO strike. Castaño was accompanied by Rep. Lucas Paredes of Abra.

The Chief Executive told Secretary Castaño to advise the striking employees of the state firm to return to work pending decision by the Supreme Court on their petition for mandatory relief.

President Garcia was also informed this morning on the progress of the talks by members of the Philippine panel, discussing with officials of the US Development Loan Fund the procedures to be followed in determining priorities for the granting of development loans totalling $50 million.

Those who saw the President were Acting Public Works Secretary Marciano Bautista, panel chairman, and NEC Chairman Jose Locsin, CB Deputy Governor Andres Castillo, and Director Faustino Lozada of the Industrial Development Center, members.

After this afternoon's regular weekly press and radio conference, President Garcia received Isaac Grainger, president of the Chemical Corn Exchange Bank of New York, and Charles Love, assistant vice-president of the same institution, who paid a courtesy call.

They were accompanied by Alfonso Calabang, president of the Security Bank and Trust Co., and J. P. Jacinto and B. M. del Rosario, executive vice-president and vice-president, respectively, of the same firm, PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon announced he will leave on a ten-day "goodwill" visit to Japan on December 1 this year.

He made the announcement at his regular press conference, stressing that his trip "will be one of goodwill and in reciprocation of the state visit of Prime Minister Kishi to the Philippines last year."

However, the President indicated he may take up other matters of interest between the Philippines and Japan during his visit to Japan.

At the same time, the President said the government-controlled Philippine Air Lines will reopen its overseas service and would use jet planes for these lines.

PAL's foreign operations were suspended in 1954 shortly after President Magsaysay took over the administration.

During the press conference, the President:

1. Said he will inquire into the conflicting reports of the management and directors of the Agricultural Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration;
2. Spiked report that Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo will be relieved of his position in the Cabinet;

3. Had no comment on the reported relief of Lt. Col. Ramon Gelvezon as chief of the Constabulary criminal investigation service;
4. Disclosed he had asked Brig. Gen. Pelagio Cruz, coordinator of the Constabulary-Custom-Revenue team, and Lt. Cmdr. Marcelino Calinawan, head of the Palace fact-finding committee on customs affairs, to settle their dispute and threatened to step in if the two could not get together harmoniously;
5. Justified anew the government's acquisition of the ₱5 million yacht;
6. Hailed the Hungarian revolution on its second anniversary the other day as the "fight of the people;"
7. Denied he had officially endorsed the multiple reserves plan for the peso; and
8. Denied having received Justice Secretary Jesus G. Barrera's report on the "white paper."

"I have decided to accept the official invitation extended to me by Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi to visit Japan on the first 10 days of next December. This state visit will be one of goodwill and in reciprocation of the state visit of Prime Minister Kishi to the Philippines last year."

October 25.—THIS MORNING President Garcia received Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City.

Secretary Rodriguez reported on his observations of cattle-raising and agricultural techniques employed in Australia and on the extent of the use of irrigation in that country as a means of making available for agricultural purposes large tracts of arid land.

Rodriguez returned recently from a 10-day observation tour of Australia upon the invitation of the Australian Government. He was accompanied during his call on President Garcia by Salvador Cunanan, technical assistant in the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Rep; William Chiongbian headed a group of mayors from Misamis Occidental who saw the President to ask for the release of funds for the construction of feeder roads in their respective municipalities.

In the group were Mayors Angel Medina of Ozamis City, Agapito Yap of Baliangao, Francisco Paylaga of Jimenez, and Vice-Mayor Rafael Gurbuxani of Ozamis City.

Other callers were Stanley Hiller, inventor and manufacturer of Hiller machines for the processing of coconut, who was accompanied by Sen. Roseller T. Lim, and Ambassador Manuel A. Adeva, Philippine envoy to Japan.

PRESIDENT Garcia received this afternoon the Third International Scroll of Honor of the American Public Relations Association at a ceremony held at the Malacañang Social Hall.

At the same time, the President received the first and only plaque of the Philippine Public Relations Association.

In presenting the American award, Art Domingo, APRA member, said it was given for the highly successful visit of the President to the United States.

Mr. J. P. Roxas, PRSP president, presented the award of his association to President Garcia.

Present at the ceremonies were U.S. Ambassador Charles Bohlen, Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia, prominent members of foreign and local business circles, and other high government officials.

In his address the President said “the problems we face are common, to the government and business. The success we seek is common and commonly beneficial. There should be no line to split and divide government and business. There is no issue of partisanship here, no issue of politics—there should be none,” he pointed out.

In calling for “business statemanship” the President scored what he branded as “too-grasping” the business which places profit over and above public welfare.

He recalled that some businessmen have taken advantage of the Formosa crises to jack up their prices to the prejudice of the public welfare.

He said under these circumstances, it makes it imperative for the government to crack down on business.

“This is no blanket accusation of business, for we have great institutions here,” he said, “that have demonstrated their capacity to sacrifice for the public goods. But this country can certainly do more with more business statemanship,” he pointed out.

President Garcia stressed that “in the face of international uncertainties, with the weight of economic problems upon us, the need of the time is for faith-inspired business statemanship. “Our way of life,” he said, “our system of government, makes it imperative for government and business to work together with trust and confidence undismayed by temporary reverses. The trouble with some business, sometimes, is that it becomes too grasping; in its fight for existence, it often places the profit over and above the public welfare.”

He called upon the public relations men to take upon themselves to promote better understanding between the government and business “so that instead of carping criticism one way or the other, there would result a harmonious hammering of policies and practices that would redound to their common good and the country’s welfare.”

President's Week in Review: October 26- November 1, 1958

October 26.—PRESIDENT Garcia called today officials of the Central Bank and the NAMARCO to a conference at Malacañang early this week for the purpose of devising ways of insuring an uninterrupted supply of evaporated milk and some other essential commodities in the country.

The President's action was spurred by reports appearing in the metropolitan papers the past few days to the effect that unscrupulous merchants were jacking up the prices of evaporated milk which is being widely used, by Filipino mothers as an inexpensive supplementary infant feed.

Expressing concern over the health of infants adversely affected by the increased prices, the Chief Executive reiterated his warning to profiteers and hoarders to stop their nefarious practices, otherwise, the government might be forced to take punitive action against them to protect the nation's health.

The President today spent his Sunday quietly at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City. He did not receive any caller.

After the mass the President had breakfast with the First Lady. Then he repaired to his private study, where he spent some time going over the Sunday morning newspapers.

About 10 a.m., the President boarded his car and motored to Funeraria Paz in Manila to view the remains of Pedro C. Caunan, a friend from Tagbilaran, Bohol. Accompanied by the First Lady, the Chief Executive stayed at the funeral parlor about 15 minutes condoling with the bereaved family.

After lunch with the first Lady at their residence in Quezon City, the President had a brief rest. He spent the rest of the afternoon in his study working over state papers he had taken along with him from Malacañang.

October 27.—PRESIDENT Garcia reiterated this morning his directive to officials of the People's Homesite and Housing Corporation to stop buying lands and instead concentrate their efforts in the development of its low-cost housing projects in line with the policy of the Administration to provide homes for low-salaried employees.

The President decried the fact that the state firm had been actively playing the role of a realtor by purchasing estates for subdivision purposes, completely defeating its objectives.

At a conference held at Malacañang with Manuel T. Leelin and Enrique J. L. Ruiz, members of the PHHC board of directors, President Garcia stated that the PHHC should be the first government entity to implement the policy of the Administration to give land to the landless and home to the homeless.

At the same conference President Garcia inquired into measures adopted by the PHHC in order to straighten its finances.

The two PHHC directors informed President Garcia that the state firm had reduced its personnel in order to effect some savings. They added that in view of the drastic measures adopted by the PHHC, it is now able to liquidate partially some of its pending obligations, especially its accounts with the contractors.

In a letter he submitted to President Garcia, Director Ruiz suggested that the state firm be thoroughly revamped from top to bottom and subsequently revitalized with a system of management and administration patterned in a business way.

For his part, Director Leelin submitted a proposal to implement the policy of the Administration by constructing low-cost houses in rural areas for indigents, coupled with a program to develop cottage industries.

The construction of housing projects in rural areas, Leelin informed the President, would solve in part the unemployment problem in the areas and increase the per capita income of the rural masses.

The President also received Ramon V. del Rosario and his brothers Jesus, Francisco, and Mariano. They called on the President to invite him to the inauguration of the new Del Rosario building at the Sta. Mesa Boulevard.

Other callers were Col. Ben Valenzona, Edmundo Reyes, Protacio Caiialita, Jose Sabalone, Eduardo Manalo, Dr. Augusto Cortez, GAB Commissioner Manuel Nieto, Jr., and Tube Itoh.

THE President this morning ordered the Constabulary to provide adequate protection for Sen. Mariano J. Cuenco after reading a news dispatch that a live hand grenade had been found at the Cuenco home in Lahug, Cebu, yesterday.

The President also directed the Constabulary to submit a report on the matter as soon as possible.

A movie of the funeral of Pope Pius XII will be shown at the Palace projection room at 9:30 p.m. tomorrow. Invited to see the film were Cabinet members and their ladies and local church dignitaries.

The film which will last an hour was sent to the President by Ambassador Jose Ma. Delgado, Philippine envoy to the Vatican.

A delegation from the Philippine Association of Public School Superintendents will call on the President some time next week to inform him of the projected inauguration and unveiling of the historical marker of the Quezon-Roosevelt memorial building at the Teacher's Camp in Baguio.

The association plans to invite Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt to be guest of honor at the inauguration scheduled in May next year. If the former U. S. First Lady accepts, she may be house guest of President and Mrs. Garcia during her stay here.

IN THE EVENING the President received a number of northern Luzon solons who have been at loggerheads in connection with the controversial tobacco importation.

Eight Luzon solons urged the President to disapprove any proposal to import Virginia leaf tobacco, as it would incite the growers in northern Luzon against the Administration.

They claimed it would be "political suicide" for the Nacionalista administration to authorize the importation of Virginia leaf tobacco considering the fact that a responsible official of the Agricultural Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration has stated that there is surplus tobacco this year.

They also said that the House committee headed by Rep. Felipe Garduque found out that there are sufficient tobacco stocks in the country.

These solons were Reps. Godofredo Reyes, Faustino Tobia, Cipriano Primicias, Jr., Luciano Millan, Luis Hora, Garduque, Benjamin T. Ligot, and Manuel Agudo.

Rep. Lucas Paredes was the only congressman who went against the eight other House members and urged the President to authorize the importation of tobacco.

The Abra solon said many laborers were facing temporary lay-offs unless the cigarette manufacturers were given materials to carry on their business operations.

Earlier in the evening, the President received Maurice Pate, executive director of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF).

The President also received officials of the ACCFA and discussed with them the alleged discrepancies in their report on the shortage of tobacco stocks. Jimenez, general manager and chairman of the ACCFA board; Directors Joaquin Ortega and Arcadio Matela; Ben Labayan, Primitivo Tugadi, Fermin Malingbayan, Celso Dan, and Doroteo Toledo, Sr.

The President was informed that the BIR has been serving collection letters to market stall vendors, especially in the cooked food section, with amounts varying from ₱500 to ₱1,500.

The Manila solon also informed the Chief Executive that previous administrations never enforced the collection of the tax insofar as the market vendors were concerned.

The President also received Rep. Justiniano Montano of Cavite, who requested the release of at least ₱40,000 to be used in the implementation of Republic Act No. 2046, which created the Cavite Electricity Distributing Authority.

The Cavite solon informed President Garcia that his province, although with a good industrial potential in view of its proximity to marketing areas and the availability of raw materials, has been left behind in the development of industries owing to the lack of cheap electricity.

The President received visitors at his study from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Other callers included Agriculture Undersecretary Jose Trinidad, Sen. Reseller Lim, Mayor Leroy Broun of Basilan City, and Reps. Domitilo Abordo and Pedro Trono of Iloilo, Cesar Fortich of Bukidnon, Apolinario Apacible of Batangas, Canuto Enerio of Zamboanga del Sur, Lamberto Macias of Negros Oriental, and Francisco Sumulong of Rizal.

The President approved today the release of ₱400,000 to the Bureau of Plant Industry for locust scouting and control work in the provinces of Cotabato, Bukidnon, Davao, Bohol, Negros Oriental, and Masbate.

The President directed the immediate release of the money upon learning that swarms of locusts have already appeared in the six provinces.

The locust scouting and control work will be undertaken in order to prevent the pests from increasing in number and size and from spreading to other areas where they would be more difficult and expensive to combat and eradicate.

The presidential directive was issued through Assistant Executive Secretary Mariano R. Logarta. The ₱400,000 will be taken from the contingent fund.

The President this day proclaimed Saturday, November 1, as a special public holiday.

In declaring All Saints' Day a special public holiday, the President said that "paying homage to the dead on All Saints' Day is one of our cherished traditions."

The President calls Congress members to a weekly conference every Tuesday in order to strengthen the relation between Malacañang and the legislators.

'President Garcia, reacting sharply to the reports that a PHHC director had testified before the Senate Blue Ribbon Committee that the land purchases of the housing agency were made to boost the NP fund campaign, said, "That is a crude lie."

The President referred to an alleged testimony of Emmanuel Clave, PHHC director, who indicated that the various land purchases of the agency were made to swell the NP campaign fund.

About 26 solons attended the weekly conference with the President.

October 29.—THIS MORNING President Garcia conferred with Dempster McIntosh, managing director of the Development Loan Fund, on ways and means to insure the early approval of loans as well as the prompt assessment of all projects to be financed by the American loans.

It was understood that the conferees arrived at some basic agreements regarding the implementation of the $50 million development loans which President Garica was able to obtain during his state visit to the United States.

The American group led by Mr. McIntosh arrived recently to discuss with a Philippine committee all the applications for dollar loans under the Development Loan Fund.

“HIS HOLINESS

POPE JOHN XXIII

VATICAN CITY

“Please accept the warmest congratulations and sincere best wishes of the people of the Philippines and of my own on your Holiness election as the 262nd Supreme Ruler of the Holy See. The world has grown spiritually richer with your election and amidst our rejoicing we pray for your continued good health and blessings for the maintenance of peace and understanding among the peoples of the world.”

AT ITS REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING today the Cabinet approved a recommendation of the Department of General Services to raise the maximum price at which government cars may be purchased, from ₱10,000 to ₱12,000 each.

Acting General Services Secretary Serafin Salvador called the attention of the Cabinet to the fact that the ceiling price of ₱10,000 previously set by the Cabinet was already “obsolete” and recommended its modification.

In approving the increase of ₱2,000, the Cabinet reiterated that cars to be purchased for government use should be limited to low-priced ones, in line with the austerity program of the Administration.

The Cabinet started its meeting about 5:30 p.m., with Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez presiding. The President was then out fulfilling other engagements.

Gov. Juan Frivaldo of Sorsogon called on President Garcia to express his gratitude for the plane that was sent to Legaspi by order of the President to airlift him to Manila after the car in which he was riding fell into a ravine.

Mayor Macario B. Peña of Naic, Cavite, obtained aid amounting to ₱12,000 for the reconstruction of the Naic Home Economics Building which was damaged by recent typhoons.

"Mrs. Garcia joins me in extending to you our deepest sympathies on the passing of Mayor de la Fuente," the President said in his message.

"I remember him vividly as a towering figure in city politics whose physical proximity to the masses made him a well-loved public servant."

The President added: "There is no doubt that the city he had served so well will have fond memories of him. Again please know we share your loss."

THE PRESIDENT cancelled all his appointments for this afternoon in order to devote his time on pending state papers and decide on several important matters, among them, the long-drawn tobacco imbroglio.

Scheduled to see him this afternoon were Chairman Gregorio Licaros of the Development Bank of the Philippines, General Manager Leoncio Tan of the NARIC, and General Manager Bernardo Torres of the PHHC.

They were advised that their appointments to see the President today had been moved to tomorrow afternoon after the regular weekly press conference at 5 p.m.

President Garcia, however, took time out this evening to receive John Norris, a visiting correspondent of the Washington Post, who came to interview him on vital international issues. Norris was accompanied by Al Valencia, until recently director of the Philippine Information Agency in Washington and now assigned to the PIA office in New York.

October 31.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning directed NARIC officials to revise their corn-buying program in Mindanao and start buying from small farmers.

At a conference held at Malacañang the President bared before NARIC General Manager Leoncio Tan, Assistant General Manager Jose Drilon, and Director Ramon Enriquez that he had received complaints from small farmers that they could not sell corn direct to NARIC agents.

At the same time, President Garcia approved the proposal submitted by Tan of exporting 500,000 cavans of corn to Japan on barter for whatever goods the NAMARCO would require.

In their complaint to President Garcia, the small farmers of Mindanao alleged that alien middlemen bought at low prices the corn they could not sell direct to the NARIC. The same corn was later sold to the NARIC, the small farmers alleged, by the alien middlemen.

The NARIC head explained that the state firm had previously entered into an agreement with the ACCFA to purchase corn in Mindanao through FACOMA's.

Tan also informed President Garcia that the NARIC has plenty of corn in its warehouses in view of the bumper crop in Mindanao. The corn-buying program was started after the Philippine National Bank had extended a credit line of ₱5 million to the NARIC on orders from President Garcia.

In recommending the exportation of corn to Japan, Tan alleged that it would solve the corn marketing problem of the state -firm and would help NAMARCO acquire needed goods without depleting the dollar reserves of the country.

President Garcia approved the exportation of corn after receiving a verbal report of his legal adviser, Judge Salvador Esguerra, to the effect that there was no legal impediment to the proposal.

With respect to the public auction of the NARIC corn stocks in Cebu, Tan informed President Garcia that the state firm, had rejected all offers. The highest bidder offered a price of only ₱7.10 per bag of 200 pounds, which would mean a loss of about ₱1,200,000 to the NARIC for the 20,000 metric tons of Rhodesian corn it has in its possession.

The President also received William Martin, Jr., chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, and Andrew Overby, first vice-president of the First Boston Corporation and formerly undersecretary of the U. S. Treasury Department.

The visitors attended the recently concluded Monetary Fund Conference held at New Delhi, India, and are enroute to the United States via Japan. They were accompanied by Governor Miguel Cuaderno of the Central Bank; Mike Cross, U. S. Embassy attache; and Rizalino Mendoza of the Central Bank.

Another caller was Herman D. Nichols of the Tubbs Cordage Company of San Francisco, California, who was accompanied by Howard P. Strickler, chairman of the board of directors of the Manila Cordage Company, and Luis Concepcion.

Other callers were German Ambassador F. L. von Furstenberg, J. Antonio Araneta, Fr. Francisco Araneta, rector of Xavier University in Mindanao, Vicente Orosa, and a group of Laos officers who are taking courses in criminal investigation at the PC headquarters in Camp Crame.

Called to Malacañang for a luncheon-conference were Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, concurrently acting NP president, and Speaker Protempore Constancio E. Castañeda, who is being groomed to become NP secretary-general.

The three top administration officials were reported to have discussed recent political developments.

AT THE PRESS CONFERENCE this afternoon, the President said he is not bound by the findings of the Senate Blue Ribbon Committee in its investigations and will act only in accordance with his best judgment and discretion.

The President made the statement in commenting on reports that the Senate Blue Ribbon Committee had recommended a drastic reorganization of the People's Homesite and Housing Corporation.

At the conference, the President also:

1. Disclosed plans to write his decision on the controversial importation of Virginia leaf tobacco. He was reported to have previously abandoned plans of importing US Virginia leaf tobacco after he found out there actually was no shortage of the commodity here; and
2. Said that the $50 million development plan from the United States will be utilized to finance vital projects which are needed to boost the Administration's campaign for self-sufficiency in the basic requirements of the people.

As the press conference switched on Defense Secretary Vargas, the President said he had "no comment" on reports that the secretary of national defense was being boosted for the presidency.

The President indicated he had received reports that Senator Jose P. Laurel had said that Vargas was qualified for the “highest position” in the government.

Asked if he was contemplating to relieve Vargas from the Cabinet, President Garcia again demurred and stressed that he did not want to comment on the Vargas case.

The President later cautioned the people against “playing with fire” as he dismissed reports of a possible coup d’etat to be led by a military strongman.

“I don’t want to discuss subjects of such character,” the President said. The coup d’etat question was based on reports of a possible emergence of a military strongman similar to the recent political upheavals in Pakistan, Thailand, and Burma.

THE President administered the oath of office to Commodore Jose V. Andrada as general manager and chairman of the board of directors of the Home Financing Commission in a ceremony held this afternoon at the reception hall in Malacañang.

Other members of the board who took their oaths of office were Sixto L. Orosa, Jr., Judge Felix de la Costa, and Simeon A. Reyes.

Immediately after his regular weekly press and radio conference, the President received at 6 p.m. Leland Russell of the Scripps-Howard Newspapers. Later, the President conferred with Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas and Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, AFP chief of staff.

Then the President received Chairman Gregorio S. Licaros and Govs. Florencio Garcia and Bobby Benedicto of the Development Bank of the Philippines.

The bank officials took up with the President plans for the revitalization of the operations and functions of the DBP, in order to include within the scope of its benefits a bigger proportion of the population.

The Chief Executive received callers until 9 p.m.

PRESIDENT Garcia this evening called off the projected military mission headed by Secretary of National Defense Jesus Vargas to the United States.

At an-hour-and-fifty-minute conference in Malacañang, the President told Vargas he was suspending the departure of the military mission.

Vargas was originally scheduled to leave next week for the United States to follow up negotiations for increased arms assistance to the Philippines under the PI-US Mutual Assistance Pact.

President Garcia called Vargas and Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, chief of staff of the Armed Forces, to a closed-door conference in Malacañang. They discussed the projected mission to the United States and decided to suspend its departure.

The President’s decision was prompted by the reported arrival here of a committee of Pentagon officials on November 23 presumably to make a survey of the defense requirements of the country.

November 1.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia this morning joined people from all walks of life in the traditional pilgrimage to cemeteries to pay homage to the honored dead.

After hearing mass at the Malacañang chapel, the Chief Executive and his lady motored to the North Cemetery, where they first visited the tomb of the late President Ramon Magsaysay to say a silent prayer.

President's Week in Review: November 2-8, 1958

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

November 2.—PRESIDENT Garcia spent a quiet and busy day today in his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City.

With Mrs. Garcia and Maj. Jose A. Estrella, military aide, the Chief Executive heard an early morning mass before an improvised altar in the President's residence.

After breakfast, President Garcia read the morning papers and then retired to his study to go over pending state papers and prepare his decisions on vital issues.

He took his usual siesta after lunch and ate a light merienda upon waking up.

After partaking of supper, the President continued working on state papers until late at night.

November 3.—THIS morning President Garcia received Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chief of staff of the United States Army, who paid a courtesy call at Malacañang.

Gen. Taylor was accompanied by U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen; Brig. Gen. Charles Bonesteel III, secretary to the general staff, Department of the Army; Maj. Gen. William H. Nutter, JUSMAG chief; Col. Henry L. Miller, U. S. Embassy military attache; and Lt. Col. Bernard W. Rogers, aide-de-camp to Gen. Taylor.

Gen. Taylor arrived in Manila recently in the course of a world tour of major U. S. defense installations.

Rep. John F. Shelley (D. Calif.), a member of the U. S. Congress' appropriations committee, also came to pay a courtesy call on the President.

They had a pleasant 30-minute talk on various subjects including trade relations, the aid situation, and reparations.

The President did not receive any caller in the afternoon. He devoted his time going over some pending state papers, including the records of about 100 prisoners recommended for executive clemency by the Board of Pardons and Parole. The Chief Executive expressed his desire to act on the parole recommendations on the occasion of his birthday tomorrow.

President Garcia today started a series of studies on government assistance to farmers which would ease up two major problems facing the expected harvest of a bumper rice crop.

The President singled out the need of warehousing and transportation as the pressing problems which would face the farmers after the rice would have been harvested this crop year which ends about June 1959.

He will confer with government officials concerned on the matter, especially with those of the National Rice and Corn Corporation (NARIC) and the Agricultural Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration (ACCFA).

President Garcia expressed deep concern over both problems. He said he wanted to insure the gains made in his program for self-sufficiency in food.

The President may also consider the proposal to use Army trucks and Navy ships in transporting the rice from the inland farms to marketing centers or warehouses. The trucks and boats may be placed at the disposal of FA-COMA members.

This program scheduled improvements in 300,000 hectares of ricelands and 50,000 hectares in cornlands. The areas will be progressively increased by 350,000 hectares yearly through 1959, 1960, and 1961.

Among other direct support being extended by the Administration in food production may be mentioned the following:

(1) The ACCFA has during the last six months distributed 315,000 bags of fertilizers worth ₱3 million which will fertilize 100,000 hectares of ricelands and boost production by 800,000 cavans of rice worth ₱8 million;

(2) The government has provided ₱78 million in 1957 for irrigation of 500,000 hectares of ricelands and constructed 4,000 kilometers of feeder roads to facilitate marketing of rice crops; and

(3) Through the RFC and the ACCFA, the government has extended assistance to rice and corn farmers in the form of liberal loans totalling ₱172 million to enable the farmers to produce more.

It is hoped that with these aids to production, the rice crop for 1958-1959 will exceed 80 million cavans which is more than the national consumption.

The President this days designated Ambassador Jose Delgado as head of the delegation to represent the Philippines at the coronation of Pope John XXIII at the Vatican City.

Other members of the delegation are Sen. Oscar Ledesma, who is now in Rome, and Ambassador Roberto Regala, Philippine envoy in Italy.

PRESIDENT Garcia was feted this evening with an asalto by Congress members and Cabinet men to start the celebration of the Chief Executive's 62nd birthday tomorrow.

President and Mrs. Garcia stayed at home to receive their well-wishers who felicitated the Chief Executive at Malacañang.

The President and the First Lady went down to the Malacañang social hall where he joined his well-wishers to a dinner.

He will be at "home" at Malacañang to receive his well-wishers tomorrow morning.

The President this evening issued the following statement on the eve of his 62nd birthday:

"I wish to acknowledge with grateful appreciation the numerous messages of felicitation which I have received from our people throughout the country on the occasion of my birthday. I am deeply moved by these expressions of good wishes; they have given me comfort and fresh sources of inspiration.

"The task of making our country truly free, prosperous, and happy is great and arduous indeed. It cannot be accomplished by 'working at cross purposes, by mutual suspicions and recriminations. It needs sincerity of purpose, cooperation, and the hardening of our sinews and our spirits. I am confident that, in spite of clashes of opinion and misconception of motives, we will move steadily onward.

“I look forward, therefore, with hope and renewed enthusiasm to the years ahead, confident that, with the blessings of the Divine Guidance, all of us, in whatever walk of life we may be, will work together in a united effort to achieve earlier, prosperity for our country.”

November 4.—PRESIDENT Garcia woke up early this morning and started his 62nd birthday anniversary with a 30-minute meditation.

The first to greet the President this morning were his daughter, Linda, and son-in-law, Fernando Campos, who extended their greetings during a 15-minute conversation via radiophone from the United States.

Shortly after, he confessed to Fr. Domingo Niebres. At eight o'clock he went down with Mrs. Garcia to hear a pontifical mass sung by Msgr. Vicente Reyes, auxiliary bishop of Manila, who represented Archbishop Rufino Santos.

The little chapel was filled to overflowing with members of the Cabinet and their ladies, Malacañang officials, and close friends of the family who came early to greet the Chief Executive.

Members of the Cabinet who were on hand to extend their felicitations to the President were Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, SWA Administrator Amparo Villamor, Defense Secretary and Mrs. Jesus Vargas, Executive Secretary and Mrs. Juan C. Pajo, and Health Secretary and Mrs. Elpidio Valencia.

Relatives present at the early morning mass were Mr. and Mrs. Moises Ramos, Opon Mayor Mariano Dimataga, and Mr. and Mrs. Nino T. Ramirez.

Others present were Msgr. Rufino Santos, Cebu Gov. Jose Briones, Mrs. Jose Aldeguer, Customs Commissioner Eleuterio Capapas, Col. Godofredo Magallanes, Col. Geminiano Yabut, and Highway District Engineer Vicente Cabrera of Cagayan de Oro City.

As soon as the President and the First Lady entered the Palace lobby from the chapel, the Presidential Guard Battalion band played the song Happy Birthday and followed it with Tirso Cruz' popular Philippine theme song, Mabuhay.

After acknowledging the greetings of well-wishers, President Garcia, the First Lady, and their guests went upstairs to the family dining room where breakfast was served.

After breakfast, the President retired to his bedroom for a brief rest. While he was resting, Senator Claro M. Recto arrived to extend his personal greetings to the Chief Executive.

At 10:05 a.m., President and Mrs. Garcia proceeded to the reception hall to await the arrival of Philippine government officials and members of the diplomatic corps who were coming to felicitate the President on his 62nd birthday.

The first well-wishers went up the Palace stairs at 10:10 a.m. They were Acting Senate President Fernando Lopez and Senators Cipriano Primicias and Reseller Lim.

At 10:25 a.m., members of the diplomatic corps, led by Apostolic Nuncio Egidio Vagnozzi, went up the Palace stairs to greet the Chief Executive. They were introduced by Pedro Angara Aragon, protocol officer of the Department of Foreign Affairs.

The President and the First Lady took time out from their reception chores and joined the diplomatic corps in the State dining room where glasses were raised in a toast led by the dean of the diplomatic corps, His Excellency, Msgr. Egidio Vagnozzi, for the continued good health of President Garcia.

After the toasts, President Garcia and the First Lady returned to the reception hall and continued receiving government officials and people from all walks of life until noon.

At the stroke of twelve o'clock, the President administered the oaths to newly-appointed Brigadier Generals Oscar Rialp and Manuel Flores. Gen. Rialp is the commanding general of the first military area, while General Flores is the commandant of this Philippine Military Academy in Baguio.

After the oath-taking ceremony, Mrs. Betty Rialp and Mrs. Yvonne Flores removed the colonel's insignias from the shoulder pads on their respective husbands' white duck uniforms and then pinned on, with the assistance of President Garcia, their husbands' one-star, indicative of their new rank.

President and Mrs. Garcia then retired to their respective bedrooms to take a much-needed respite and prepare for lunch.

Other highlights at this morning's "at home" affair were:

Among those who felicitated President Garcia on his natal day today was a 28-year-old cripple, Dominador M. Carriaga, of San Juan, Rizal, who is employed as an assistant statistician in the Social Welfare Administration;

Members of the Bayanihan troupe of the Philippine Women's University also greeted the President and pinned on him and the First Lady a commemorative pin of the Brussels International Fair where they had performed;

Officers and members of the Philippine Law School Alumni Association, Alma Mater of President Garcia, presented to him a resolution of the association felicitating him on his birthday; and Vice-President Diosdado Macapagal was conspicuously absent during the reception ceremonies.

A continuous stream of congratulatory wires and letters kept pouring into Malacañang today. Among those received were from Mrs. Luz B. Magsaysay, Sen. and Mrs. Mariano J. Cuenco, Archbishop Jose Maria Cuenco of Iloilo, Auditor General and Mrs. Pedro M. Gimenez, Marcelo Balatbat, Fisheries Director and Mrs. Heracleo Montalban, Civil Service Commissioner Amado del Rosario, Gov. Isidro Rodriguez of Rizal, and Gov. and Mrs. Bienvenido Ebarle of Zamboanga del Sur.

President Garcia this morning also dispatched, a radiogram to Pope John XXIII congratulating him on his coronation today as the 262nd Pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church.

THIS afternoon the President was honored by the Armed Forces of the Philippines with a testimonial parade and review at Camp Murphy, Quezon City, on the occasion of his 62nd birthday.

The traditional testimonial review was originally set for last July 3, but owing to the tight schedule of the President who arrived on the same day from a state visit to the United States, it had been postponed to coincide with his birthday.

The President's speech lasted about five minutes. He was introduced by Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano.

A composite division, which included cadets of the Philippine Military Academy, marched in review before the President. Members of diplomatic corps, Congress, Cabinet, judiciary, veterans organizations, and high ranking AFP officers were present at the occasion.

Other units of the composite division were made up from the Presidential Guard Battalion, Philippine Army, Philippine Air Force, Philippine Navy, and the school for reserve commission.

The GHQ band under the baton of Lt. Col. Laureano Cariho made a hit when, in passing before the grandstand, it played For He's a Jolly Good Fellow and Good Luck, Good Health, God Bless You.

At the end of the review, the band again played Happy Birthday which everybody sang.

After the review, President Garcia was honored at the Officers' Clubhouse with cocktails. However, President Garcia, upon hearing that one of the Sabrejet planes that participated in the review had crashed, left Camp Murphy to visit the crash scene.

After trying vainly to locate the crash scene, President Garcia proceeded to the Sto. Domingo Church to attend the pontifical low mass and a solemn Te Deum to celebrate the coronation of His Holiness, Pope John XXIII. The President received holy communion.

From the Sto. Domingo Church, President Garcia returned to Malacañang to receive members of the Malacañang Newspapermen's Association.

In his brief speech at the testimonial parade and review, the President exhorted the Armed Forces to have "the people's trust and confidence."

He also urged them to "harden your muscles, strengthen your will, and above all discipline your heart and mind."

Significantly, President Garcia, in the course of his speech, reiterated his faith and confidence in the officers and men of the Armed Forces and in their leaders,

"I wish to assure you of my own faith and confidence in you and in your leaders and in your ability to carry out any mission assigned to you by our people," the President said.

The President's speech followed a strong, protestation of loyalty voiced by Lt. Alfonso Arellano, chief of staff of the Armed Forces, who branded the coup d'état reports as "baseless rumors and loose talk."

Arellano, in a challenging speech, accused those who started the coup talks as the "the same irresponsible and self-seeking persons who have lately been fanning the flames of confusion to sabotage the people's faith in the Filipino soldier."

The President paid tribute to the Filipino soldier who, he said, "has never failed his country and his people, that in the bitterest crisis he has come out with flying colors."

He pointed out that as commander-in-chief he reassured the people that the Armed Forces will forever keep faith with them; "that they will never betray the trust which you have reposed in them."

He said he is certain the Armed Forces will continue to remain the "defender of the weak, our bulwark against oppression, and the custodian of our hard-won liberties. There is no doubt about the loyalty of these men to our country," he added.

He pointed out that the need of the hour is unity and solidarity.

"We cannot allow divisive forces to rend our people asunder," he said.

He, however, reiterated his faith and confidence in the Army and "your leaders and in your ability to carry out any mission assigned to you by our people."

President Garcia, in an interview with newsmen, said the loyalty pledge of the Army was the “best gift” he had received on his 62nd birthday yesterday.

He said that a group of “young captains” had initiated the plot to overthrow the government through military action.

However, he considered the matter a “closed case.” He said a military coup will never succeed in the Philippines, as the “Army cliques could not get along together and stage a successful coup d’etat.”

In considering the petitions for clemency, the President took into consideration the number of years the prisoners had served. Out of 94 pardoned, over 60 had served 15 years or more of their sentences.

November 5.—PRESIDENT Garcia went to the Nichols Air Base this morning to view the remains of 2nd Lt. Luis C. Gatmaitan now lying in state at the PAF chapel there and to comfort his bereaved parents, Judge and Mrs. Magno S. Gatmaitan of the Manila court of first instance.

Earlier, he conferred with General Services Secretary Alejandro Almendras, who gave him a verbal report on the results of his mission abroad.

Almendras said President Garcia had agreed in principle with his proposal to purchase printing equipment worth $800,000 so that the printing of paper money of low denominations could be done here.

Secretary Almendras revealed that the government spends $600,000 annually for the printing of paper money of 5-, 10-, 20-, and 50-centavo denominations. He said it would mean large savings for our government if the printing could be done locally.

Almendras said he was going to consult officials of the Central Bank on this matter in order to expedite the purchase of the necessary equipment and materials.

Upon reaching the PAF chapel, President Garcia went straight to Judge and Mrs. Gatmaitan to express his personal condolence.

After offering a brief prayer before the flag-draped casket of the 21-year old jet pilot, the President talked with some old friends he found at the chapel.

He was escorted out of the chapel by Col. Manecio Reventar, chief of air staff, PAF.

From Nichols Air Base, President Garcia proceeded to an undisclosed place to seek quiet and rest after a busy day occasioned by his birthday celebration. He took along with him some pending state papers for study.

THIS EVENING the President received Justice Secretary Jesus G. Barrera and discussed the jailbreak staged by 18 hardened criminals at the New Bilibid Prison in Muntinlupa, Rizal.

Upon recommendation of Barrera, the President suspended Director of Prisons Alfredo M. Bunye and Assistant Director Eriberto B. Misa, Jr.

The President also conferred with Col. Nicanor T. Jimenez, chief of the National Intelligence Coordinating Agency. The President was briefed on the conditions obtaining in the country.

Minister Sardon, who was dressed in the colorful native costume of his country, presented a book about Malaya to the President.

The Malayan Cabinet member is the first recipient of a travel grant from the Magsaysay Foundation and, during his two-week stay in the Philippines, he will visit different places of interest all over the country. Ten Grotenhuis, manager of the local branch of the bank.

Albay Governor N. Maronilla-Seva, with a delegation composed of members of the provincial board, mayors, and other officials of his province, submitted a report of damages caused by the two recent typhoons and requested President Garcia to allocate the amount of ₱500,000 from his contingent funds for Albay.

He told President Garcia that five towns in his province had been under water for from three to seven days and considerable damage had been wrought by typhoon Kathy to the rice crop and public works in the province.

Gov. Dominador Chipeco of Laguna led two delegations to see the President. The first was composed of residents of San Pablo City who requested the Chief Executive to direct the Land Tenure Administration to expropriate the Azores hacienda for resale to occupants at cost while the second, made up of farmers, asked the President to order the expropriation of a large tract of land in San Pedro Tunasan.

The President today directed Budget Commissioner Dominador R. Aytona to release the sum of 1100,000 as aid to the Music Promotion Foundation of the Philippines.

The President directed Commissioner Aytona to release the sum upon request of the chairman of the MPFP who called the attention of the President to the said plight of the music scholars and trainees abroad and at the U. P. Conservatory of Music, as well, as the personnel of the foundation.

In her appeal to the President, Miss Fuentes submitted to the Chief Executive, through Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, a statement of the obligations that the foundation has to meet, as well as editorial clippings from various newspapers and magazines and a list of its achievements.

The release of the amount of ₱100,000 is specifically authorized under Republic Act No. 2086, which was unanimously passed by both Houses of Congress last June, on the strength of the Chief Executive's certification to its importance and urgency.

President Garcia this day gave positive assurance that tourists visiting the Philippines would be accorded "utmost courtesy and expeditious clearance" in Philippine harbors and airports.

"There shall be no frisking of visiting tourists nor harassing enforcement of customs laws," the President said. "On the other hand, we will strive to so relax existing regulations further as to make it easy and pleasant for tourists to come to our shores and render their sojourn a satisfying experience."

The Cabinet Executive expressed regret that efforts to bring about an efficient enforcement of customs regulations were being misrepresented in irresponsible quarters to create the impression that foreign visitors and tourists were now being subjected to unnecessary searches and harassments.

"This is an injustice that I cannot tolerate, and I wish to warn against misrepresentations that can only do us unnecessary harm," the President said.

November 7.— ALL APPOINTMENTS and engagements scheduled for this morning were ordered cancelled by President Garcia to give him time to study important state papers and to prepare for this afternoon's regular Cabinet session and tomorrow's breakfast conference with the Council of Leaders.

Earlier, he had ordered the release for publication of the names of three more prisoners who were granted absolute pardon on his birthday last Tuesday, November 4. The prisoners are Rufino Tomaneng y Corpus, Patrocinio Gonzaga, and Aurelio Pacis.

President Garcia signed today Proclamation No. 542 extending the 1958 national fund-raising and educational drive of the Philippine Tuberculosis Society to December 31, 1958.

In extending the society's fund raising campaign up to the end of the year, the President took cognizance of the vital role the society is playing in the country's fight against tuberculosis.

In a previous proclamation, the President had authorized the society to launch a fund-raising and educational drive from August 19 to September 30, 1958. However, the period expired without the society having achieved its goal of ₱600,000. The President, therefore, extended the period up to the end of the year so as not impair the activities of the society.

The President also proclaimed today the fourth week of November, 1958, as Business and Professional Women's Week.

The President issued the proclamation in cognizance of the important role being played by business and professional women in the promotion of the economic and social welfare of the country.

In proclaiming Business and Professional Women's Week, the President called upon all citizens and residents of the Philippines, irrespective of creed or nationality, to cooperate in the proper observance of this week to bring to the attention of the people the important contributions of business and professional women to the economic development of the country, as well as to their problems as homemakers and earners at the same time.

PRESIDENT Garcia received the painting showing the facilities of the proposed Mactan airport from Rear Admiral W. B. Short, director, Pacific Division, Bureau of Yards and Docks, U. S. Navy, when, the latter paid a courtesy call this afternoon at Malacañang.

The Mactan airport will cost an estimated ₱15 million when completed and will be an auxiliary international airport, second only to the Manila international airport. It will be capable of handling both civilian as well as military jet planes.

In presenting the painting to the President, Admiral Short said "he hoped that the painting will be a symbol of cooperation," and offered the assistance of the organization he heads in any construction project of the Philippine Government where its services may be needed.

President Garcia thanked Admiral Short for the painting and said he is proud that Filipino contractors are earning a name for themselves and their country in their chosen field.

President Garcia also received Al Valencia, director of the Philippine Information Agency in Washington, D.C., who came for final instructions prior to his return to his post this Sunday.

The Chief Executive then proceeded to meet the press at his regular weekly radio and press conference. After the press conference, the President proceeded to the Cabinet to preside over the Cabinet meeting.

THE PRESIDENT indicated this afternoon he will take action against the officers of the Armed Forces who had plotted to stage a coup d'etat.

At his press conference today, the President said he will confer shortly with Armed Forces brass and assess the evidence gathered in connection with the reported plan of the military to wrest control of the government.

While he earlier sought to discourage talks of a coup d'etat, President Garcia finally admitted he will review the evidence gathered so far and decide what course of action to take against those who participated in the abortive coup.

Asked if he would invoke command responsibility for the coup plan President Garcia said, "I will decide that during the investigation of the preliminary matters connected with the plot."

Earlier during the press conference, the President sought to discourage questions on the coup, saying he had considered the matter a "closed case."

"I want to discourage talks of a coup d'etat," the President stressed. He said that talks of a coup d'etat were disturbing the line of thinking of the people."

At the press conference, the President:

1. Said that he favored the exportation of rice through barter if the harvest this year would show that there is an excess in local production;
2. Refused to comment on reports that Sen. Mariano Jesus Cuenco may run for reelection under the Nacionalista Party next year;
3. Denied reports he was planning to relieve Commissioner of Immigration Emilio L. Galang;
4. Said he will release shortly his decision on the controversial importation of additional Virginia leaf tobacco from the United States to fill up a supposed shortage in the stocks needed by legitimate cigarette manufacturers; and
5. Denied reports of plans to open diplomatic relations with Russia.

Asked to comment on the disclosure of Rep. Salipada Pendatun that colonels were in the coup d'etat plot, the President said Brig. Gen. Pelagio Cruz chief of the Constabulary, had contacted Pendatun on the evidence he has in his possession.

He said that he has not been informed of the development of the case.

However, the President intimated that he would confer shortly with the Army brass and help evaluate the evidence.

He said he would go over the preliminary evidence by the Armed Forces which would serve as the basis for the action he would take against the plotters.

"I cannot anticipate now what action or degree of action I would take until I have been apprised of the evidence," the President told newsmen who inquired as to what steps he would take against those who participated in the coup plan.

At the same time, the President denied he will take up with the Council of Leaders the coup plot.

THE CABINET discussed extensively this evening measures to maintain the government price support of ₱11 per cavan in the purchase of palay by the National Rice and Corn Corporation as an incentive to farmers to increase their production.

The President decided to consult members of his Cabinet on ways and means to maintain the government price support, as the bumper crop may tend to bring down the cost of palay.

President Garcia was alarmed by reports that the price of palay has gone down owing to the increased harvest this year.

However, Malacañang said no definite decision was reached as the discussions were merely exploratory.

Jose Drillon, assistant Naric manager, was summoned to the Cabinet meeting to brief the members of the body on the financial condition of the government rice agency.

The Cabinet also approved a plan to amend the regulations promulgated recently by the Wage and Position Classification Office to correct inequities resulting from the promotions of some government employees.

Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona recommended a plan to amend the WAPCO regulations following complaints from several employees who* have protested against the alleged injustice in the implementation of WAPCO rules.

Malacañang explained that among the inequities cited were that a government official promoted to a higher position is required to receive the minimum salary for his new post first. It was explained that the minimum wage in his new post may sometimes be lower than the scale of salary he is actually getting from his former position.

Aytona said that under the new plan a government official promoted to a higher position will not receive a salary less in pay than his former job.

November 8.—PRESIDENT Garcia met with members of the Council of Leaders this morning at a breakfast conference at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City.

Present at the conference were Acting Senate President Fernando Lopez, Senate Majority Floor Leader Cipriano Primicias, Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, Speaker Protempore Constancio Castafieda, and Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo.

The conferees closeted themselves for almost three hours, but no details were available as to the subjects discussed. It was however intimated that they talked about party matters in view of the approaching return of Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr., from abroad.

After the conference which lasted until noon, President Garcia received Vice-Mayor Rafael Gurbuxani of Ozamiz City and Tudela Mayor Gregorio Gamotin and Tangub Mayor Alfonso Tan, both of Misamis Occidental. They were accompanied by Rep. William Chiongbian of the same province.

In the afternoon, the President worked on pending state papers. He also received former Speaker Jose B. Laurel, Jr., who has been mentioned as possible secretary of justice in the event Secretary Jesus G. Barrera is appointed to the Supreme Court to fill a vacancy.

President Garcia today signed an executive order relaxing and liberalizing WAPCO rules and regulations, particularly those governing salary increases and promotions of government employees.

The President issued the order following receipt by the Budget Commission of numerous complaints and criticisms from government officials and employees who felt prejudiced by the implementation of the WAPCO Position Classification and Pay Plans.

Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, who had recommended the liberalization of the WAPCO rules, informed the President that his office had experienced difficulties and encountered problems in the implementation of the WAPCO Position Classification and Pay Plans and in the enforcement of rules and regulations issued for the purpose, owing to certain circumstances, among which were:

1. The failure of Congress to authorize the second partial adjustment of 35 per cent which was included in the President's budget for the current fiscal year.

2. The prohibition against reclassification of positions, and consequent modification of salary ranges by WAPCO during this fiscal year which was inserted by Congress in the item authorizing the Salary Standardization Fund.

President's Week in Review: November 9-15, 1958

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

November 9.—PRESIDENT Garcia today took steps to boost further his program of increased rice production by creating teams headed by Malacañang technical assistants that will spread out to the provinces to propagate improved methods of rice production.

Spurred by consistent reports of a bumper crop expected this harvest year owing to stimulation provided by the Administration to rice producers, particularly the small farmers, the President expressed his determination to improve this year's rice production in succeeding years.

The President reiterated that barring typhoons, floods, and other unforeseen natural calamities, the country might realize this year its dream of self-sufficiency in rice, a goal which previous administrations had consistently sought to achieve.

Called the Malacañang Rice Production Teams, the task forces of trained personnel will stump the provinces. Their composition will vary according to the nature and sizes of the regions assigned to them. Their itineraries will include the remotest farm areas so that the most ignorant farmer could be indoctrinated with improved methods of rice culture.

Every member of the teams will be armed with letters of introduction to provincial governors seeking the cooperation of local officials in their assigned mission. Rural agriculturists will also be directed to assist the Malacañang task forces sent to their respective districts.

The work of the various teams will be coordinated by a Malacañang rice production office under the direct supervision of Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo and headed by Eugenio Margate, the Zamboanga farmer who discovered an improved system of rice cultivation.

A two-week seminar has recently been held for the benefit of the Malacañang task forces in the Margate method of rice planting preparatory to their being sent out to the field to intensify the implementation of President Garcia's program of achieving self-sufficiency in food.

President Garcia spent his Sunday quietly at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City. He did not receive any caller. He devoted much of his time going over pending state papers which he had taken along from Malacañang the day before.

He told the President that his company is willing to feed the integrated steel plant of the NASSCO all the iron ore they can use in order to develop more quickly the iron industry in the Philippines and to help the nation's economy.

The Sibuguey Iron Mines, Mr. Elizalde told President Garcia, produces annually 600,000 tons of high-grade iron ore, while the NASSCO steel plant has a capacity of only 300,000 tons annually.

Mr. Elizalde was accompanied by Capt. Hilarion Benedicto of the, Elizalde y Cia.

The President directed Labor Secretary Angel Castaño to investigate and render a complete report on the complaint of abuse against labor in the Santa Cecilia Sawmill in Tagcawayan, Quezon. The information received by the President mentioned the following: (1) violation of the Mini-mum Wage Law; and (2) the issuance of “chits” and profiteering in the company canteen.

President Garcia sent today a message to King Norodom Suramarit of Cambodia’ congratulating him on the occasion of the anniversary of Cambodian independence.

November 12.—THE PRESIDENT transmitted today to the Department of National Defense for implementation the recommendation of Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, AFP chief of staff, for the court martial of of two Army captains for supposed “indiscretion” in the premises of Malacañang.

Arellano had submitted last Saturday the findings of the preliminary investigation conducted by AFP authorities on the two erring officers and recommended their court martial.

President Garcia stated that he would act on the matter only after the court martial proceedings, if both officers were found guilty of the charges to be presented against them.

According to the recommendation of Arellano, Capt. Emilio Domingo will be charged for conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline.

In the case of Capt. Alfaro, Gen. Arellano had stated that there was lack of evidence to support a charge of conduct unbecoming an officer.

Meanwhile, President Garcia received members of Congress this morning, after receiving the report of Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno regarding the financing of important public works, like the Manila International Airport, and the improvement of the Manila harbor.

Three Samar solons, Eladio Balite, Felipe Yancha, and Valeriano Abrigo conferred with President Garcia regarding the fire that broke out in the center of Allen, Samar, last November 3 razing the town hall and the public market.

Upon representations made by the Samar Solons, President Garcia directed Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona to release the amount needed for the reconstruction of the two public buildings from his contingent funds.

Rep. Ricardo Yap Ladrado of Iloilo reported to the President his observations on his investigation of the situation obtaining in the Philippine General Hospital. Ladrado informed the President that the PGH director, Dr. Florencio Quintos, will retire from the government service next month.

Pedro Baculio, Marino Avancefia, Capt. Martiniano Chavez, Alex Velez, and Vidal Magto.

The President received callers at his study in Malacaflang continuously from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

PRESIDENT Garcia also directed today National Treasurer Vicente G. Gella to submit his answer to the 8-point charge filed against him by Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez under the over-all heading of “grave misconduct in office and conduct highly prejudicial to the interest of the service.”

The 8-point charge as contained in a complaint submitted to the President by Secretary Hernandez follows:

1. That Treasurer Gella had issued Philippine National Bank checks in payment of backpay claims involving millions of pesos without sufficient funds either at the PNB, the Central Bank, or the national treasury;
2. That as a result of such “indiscriminate and irregular” issuance of PNB checks, many of the checks amounting to ₱1,370,600.06 had been paid to claimants by provincial treasurers and postmasters, but were subsequently dishonored when remitted to the PNB for lack of necessary deposit; 3. That Gella, instead of providing the PNB with sufficient funds to cover the dishonored backpay checks, kept the dishonored checks as “cash items” in the treasury vaults in violation of General Auditing Office’s rules and regulations;
4. That notwithstanding the fact that the backpay checks were already dishonored by the PNB for lack of funds, Gella, despite repeated letters of the auditor general instructing him to stop the improper practice, continued to issue similar checks involving considerable amounts without sufficient funds, thereby placing the government in an embarrassing position and subjecting it to criticism by the public;
5. That checks amounting to ₱1,370,600.06 already paid to claimants by the provincial treasurers and postmasters and those cashed directly at the Bureau of Treasury in Manila had been authorized by the national treasurer to be charged and debited against the demand deposit of the National Treasury with the Central Bank, notwithstanding the fact that said demand deposit did not constitute the appropriate fund for the payment of backpay claims;
6. That the national treasurer issued treasury warrants in payment of backpay claims against the backpay sinking fund in the national treasury in excess of available cash balance in said sinking fund, resulting in overdrawing to the extent of ₱1,725,441.26;
7. That respondent Gella never kept in- the Bureau of Treasury or elsewhere an accurate, reliable, and up-to-date record of backpay depository account nor of the checks draw and disbursements made against said backpay depository account in the PNB.
8. That notwithstanding existing regulations and policy to give preference to the very numerous small claims (not more than ₱2,000.00 each) in paying backpay claimants, the respondent had issued checks and made payments to claimants of big amount (over ₱10,000.00 each) in preference over many unsatisfied and pressing small claims,

Secretary Hernandez, in his complaint also recommended: (1) That the National Treasury, after due hearing, be separated from the public service for cause; (2) that pending investigation of the complaint, the respondent be placed under preventive suspension; and (3) that the secretary of justice be requested to look into the violation of the Revised Penal Code “for such appropriate action as the facts and circumstances would warrant and justify.

THE President today sent a message of felicitation to King Gustav of Sweden on the occasion of the latter’s birthday.

THE PRESIDENT this evening signed the ad interim appointments of five provincial and municipal officials.

Appointed were Placido L. Lumbay as provincial assessor of Zambaonga del Sur; Jose Escalona as justice of the peace of La Paz, Tarlac; Marcelino Bueno as justice of the peace of Sitangkai and Sibutu, Sulu; Manuel de la Cruz as justice of the peace of Sto. Domingo, Nueva Ecija; and Cesar Paras as auxiliary justice of the peace of Angeles, Pampanga.

November 12.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning conferred with senators whom he consulted on various pressing problems of state. They also discussed party matters.

Also at the conference were Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez and Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez.

In the Course of the conference which started about 9 a.m. and lasted until noon, the President enlisted the assistance of the lawmakers in the campaign for increased food production.

The President said that senators and congressmen, through speeches and press statements, could do much in the provinces in encouraging the people, particularly the farmers, to continue increasing their rice and corn production.

Those present at the conference were acting Senate President Fernando Lopez, Sens. Francisco Rodrigo, Roseller Lim, Emmanuel Pelaez, Pedro Sabido, Alejo Mabanag, Domocao Alonto, Quintin Paredes, and Edmundo Cea. PRESIDENT Garcia disturbed by reports that No. 3 Huk leader Alfredo B. Saulo had successfully sought political asylum at the Indonesian Embassy in Manila, conferred this afternoon with Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano and Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas.

The President took up with the two Cabinet officials possible government action in an effort to bring the wanted Pluk leader before the courts and face charges of rebellion.

No official statement was issued by Malacañang except the fact that the President and the two Cabinet members conferred on the Saulo case. Press Secretary Jose C. Nable said the President was briefed completely on the developments of the Saulo case.

During the Cabinet meeting, the President read his written decision rejecting the bid of cigarette manufacturers to import Virginia leaf tobacco to fill up a supposed shortage of about two million kilos.

The President denied today the application of the Yuhangco Company, Inc., to import two million kilos of Virginia-type leaf tobacco on a no-dollar remittance basis.

In explaining his decision to deny the proposed importation at the regular weekly meeting of his Cabinet this afternoon, the President said he had taken into consideration the interest of both the tobacco growers and the cigarette manufacturers.

The President said that his decision had hinged mainly on the question of whether or not there was a shortage for the present fiscal year of locally produced Virginia-type leaf tobacco. He said his findings showed that there did not exist such sufficient amount of shortage as to justify the importation applied for.

He pointed out that, under existing laws, the authority to import might be granted by the President "only to the extent necessary to cover the shortage in the local production of said tobacco so as to maintain the manufacture in this country of tobacco products at a level sufficient to produce not less than the quantity manufactured in the preceding year."

The Chief Executive further explained that the shortage should be certified by the commissioner of internal revenue and reported to the President by the Agricultural Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration (ACCFA) on the basis of such certification.

Regarding the fears expressed by labor representatives that denial of the proposed importation might cause a shortage of raw materials in cigarette factories and throw out of work hundreds of factory workers, the President assured Labor Secretary Angel Castaño that the ACCFA had guaranteed that all cigarette manufacturers could now purchase from the stock of Harry Stonehill at only ten per cent above procurement cost to insure continuous work for these workers.

November 13.—HIS MORNING President Garcia discussed with top officials of the NARIC, ACCFA, and government financial institutions the incentives to be given farmers to enable them to continue producing more rice and corn.

The President took up with them the corn and palay procurement program as well as the food production campaign of the Administration.

During a conference in Malacañang, President Garcia created a committee that will determine the floor prices for palay and corn, as well as the financing requirements of the procurement program.

The committee is composed of Natural Resources Undersecretary Amando Dalisay, chairman, Labor Undersecretary Agapito Braganza, ACCFA Assistant Administrator Francisco Sakay, NARIC Assistant General Manager Jose Drilon, Mario Moreno, and Mrs. Remedios Fortich.

President Garcia gave the committee 48 hours to submit its report so that the government could promptly start to purchase cereals at floor prices for stabilization purposes. The President was informed by ACCFA Administrator Ernesto Jimenez that the food production campaign of the Administration has started to show results.

Jimenez stated that the construction of irrigation systems and the distribution of fertilizer and selected seeds to farmers had contributed a great deal in spurring the food production campaign.

President Garcia brought up for discussion some problems that will come up with the expected bumper crop this year, like the slump in price that will seriously affect the farmers.

While the government should protect the consumers by establishing a ceiling price of ₱0.85 a ganta for the ordinary variety of rice, the farmers have need for price support to encourage them to continue planting at a profit, the President stressed.

The conferees also took up the fertilizer problem and the plan of the NARIC to export corn as consumers' goods.

The NARIC has an excess stock of 30,000 tons of corn worth $2.4 million which it plans to export to Japan.

Jimenez proposed that the excess corn be bartered with fertilizers, sprayers, tractors, and agricultural implements for the food production campaign.

With respect to the corn procurement campaign of the NARIC, Gen. Leoncio Tan, general manager of the state firm, informed President Garcia that the NARIC is now buying corn direct from the farmers and that it is concentrating its campaign in Mindanao.

Those present at the conference were Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, PNB President Eduardo Z. Romualdez, DBF Chairman Gregorio Licaros, ACCFA Administrator Ernesto Jimenez and his assistant Dr. Francisco Sakay, NARIC Board Chairman Juan O. Chioco, NARIC General Manager Leoncio Tan and his assistant Jose Drilon, R. B. de los Reyes of the PNB, Augusto Espiritu of the Central Bank, and Benjamin R. Labayan of the ACCFA.

After the conference, President Garcia received Govs. Isidro Rodriguez of Rizal, Juan Trivino of Camarines Sur, Manuel Barretto of Zambales, Diego Ty Deling of Misamis Occidental, and Jose Cadiao of Antique. The provincial executives called at Malacañang to consult him on problems of their respective localities.

THE President directed Labor Secretary Angel Castaño today to expedite the investigation of complaints lodged by workers against the Sta. Cecilia Sawmill Company in Tagkawayan, Quezon, and to see to it that the workers were paid their just wages.

On orders from the President, Secretary Castaño had dispatched labor investigators to Quezon province to look into the complaints of the sawmill workers involving gross violation of the minimum wage law, such as nonpayment of wages on time and payment of wages in the form of "chits" which could only be exchanged with goods sold in the company stores at exorbitant prices.

Secretary Castaño reported to the President today that he had given the sawmill until November 22 within which to pay the back wages of its workers totalling about ₱100,000. Castaño said he would prosecute the company owners in court if they failed to satisfy the legitimate demands of their workers.

Meanwhile, President Garcia sent a message of congratulations to Brig. Gen. Isagani Campo, 2nd MA commanding general and 2nd PC Zone commander, congratulating him and his men for the successful rescue of the boy, Rogelio Malihan, and the arrest of the boy's kidnappers.

In a wire dispatched to the PC Zone headquarters in Canlubang, Laguna, the President said: "Congratulations to you and your boys on the successful rescue of Rogelio Malihan and the arrest of his kidnappers. Continue with the good work." Malacañang announced today that Porfirio Sevilla is no longer connected with the Office of the President. Sevilla had been a technical assistant in Malacañang with a compensation of ₱1 a year, but his services was terminated last October 14 in line with President's policy of dismissing assistants whose services are no longer essential.

November 14.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning was informed by officials of the Filipino Shipowners Association of their interest in acquiring at least four ocean-going vessels, in line with the presidential policy to implement Republic Act No. 1407, otherwise known as the Philippine Overseas Shipping Act of 1955.

The shipowners endorsed the project of the National Development Company to acquire twelve vessels.

The President informed the group that the Administration seeks the expansion of the Philippine Merchant Marine in order to compete in the overseas trade.

However, he asked the group to present a formal memorandum, stating its financial resources and other data that may be required by the government before considering its application.

The shipowners hailed the policy of President Garcia to develop the Philippine Merchant Marine as soon as possible.

In this respect, President Garcia stated that the NDC will pioneer only in the field, leaving it when private enterprise is ready and willing to take over in line with his established policy.

The shipowners informed President Garcia that the expansion program will be too slow if the government depends on Japanese reparations alone. They informed the President that normally they would advocate that shipping enterprises be left completely in the hands of private enterprises. However, owing to the heavy financial requirements, particularly in the establishment of overseas liner-services, the group said that it is practical for the NDC to undertake the initial acquisition.

The state firm proposes to avail itself of a deferred payment plan with the necessary government guarantee to purchase several vessels which will form the nucleus of a well balanced merchant marine.

The group was composed of Angel Concepcion, president of the Philippine Ace Lines, Inc.; Margarito Torralba, General Shipping Co.; A. A. R. Botelho, Botelho Shipping Corp.; James Chiongbiai, Eastern Shipping Lines; Gil Garcia, Escafio Lines; Espiritu Tan, William, Lines; Miguel Magsaysay, A. Magsaysay Inc.; Roberto Ho and Antonio Castillejo, vice-president and treasurer, respectively, of the Filipino Shipowners Association.

Earlier, the President received K. Ishiyama, chief representative in the Philippines of the Mitsubishi Companies, who invited him to visit the Mitsubishi factories and dockyards at Yokohama. Ishiyama was accompanied by Jose Mayuga and Manuel Leelin.

The President also received a group of visiting foreign university heads who recently concluded a conference at the Silliman University in Dumaguete City.

The group led by Dr. Henry Little, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Silliman University, was composed of Dr. Hachiro' Yuwasa, president of the Tokyo International Christian University; Dr. William, Feen and, Dr. Henry Palmer, executive secretary and treasurer, respectively, of the United Board for Higher Christian Education in Asia; Dr. Pauline Tompkins, special consultant of the Tunghai University of Taiwan; Dr. D. Y. Lin, president of the Chingchi College of Hongkong; Dr. P. Simondjuntak, president of the Indonesian Christian University; Dr. T. Y. Wu, president of the Taiwan Tunghai University; Dr. George Paid and Dr. Horace Underwood, president and treasurer, respectively, of the Seoul Yunsei University.

The President also received George S. Franklin, Jr., executive director of the Council of Foreign Relations; Sir Godfrey Ince, chairman of the Eastern Telegraph Extension Co. of London, and H. C. Baker, Hongkong representative of the company; Director Jose Alfonso of the Bureau of Telecommunications; Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez; Census and Statistics Director Leon Ma. Gonzalez; Civil Defense Administration Alfredo Eugenio; Dr. Romeo Atienza, president of the Philippine Medical Association; and Drs. Rodolfo Gonzales and Victorino de Dios, president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the Asian Medical Confederation.

PRESIDENT Garcia conferred this afternoon with Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, National Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, PC Chief Brig. Gen. Pelagio A. Cruz, and Col. Eugenio C. Torres, acting chief of police of Manila, on the stone-throwing incident at the Indonesian embassy last night.

Although the Chief Executive justified peaceful demonstrations demanding the surrender of Huk leader Alfredo B. Saulo as the natural reaction of a people who value their freedom and rights under a democratic form of government, he deplored yesterday's outburst of violence and issued a statement to that effect at his regular weekly press conference this afternoon.

The President also received Cres I. Richards and Jose Corominas, Jr., of the Corominas and Richards Company of Cebu, copra exporters.

Richards is vice-president of the Copra Exporters Association of the Philippines and was recently elected one of the five directors of the International Institute of Oil Seed Products at a recent conference of the organization held in San Francisco and Los Angeles, California.

The Chief Executive also met with the Rice Price Control Committee composed of Undersecretary Jose Trinidad of Agriculture and Natural Resources, chairman; and Labor Undersecretary Agapito Braganza, NARIC Assistant General Manager Jose Drilon, NARRA Administrator Remedios Fortich, ACCFA Assistant Administrator Francisco Sacay, and Mario Moreno, president of the National Rice and Corn Producers Association, members.

President Garcia bestowed upon Dr. I. Sanciangco of Ozamis City the Golden Heart Presidential Award in a ceremony held this afternoon in the ceremonial hall of Malacañang.

Dr. Sanciangco donated to the government a total of 28 hectares of land in Lanao and Zamboanga del Sur for use as school site and townsites and for a plant experimental station.

He was also cited for devoted service in the promotion of the welfare of our people in the rural areas in his capacity as president of the sanitary division and later as consulting physician in Misamis Occidental.

Among those present at the ceremony were Custodia and Marieta Sanciangco, daughters of the awardee, Mr. and Mrs. Raymundo' Garcia and Lutgarda Garcia, relatives, Sen. Jose P. Laurel, ex-Speaker Jose B. Laurel, Jr., Rep. Cesas Fortich of Bukidnon, Baguio Mayor Alfonso Tabora, Mrs. Josefa B. Capistrano, and friends of the family from Batangas and Mindanao.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon reiterated his confidence in the Army and its leaders as he spiked congressional agitations for the relief of Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas and Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, Armed Forces chief of staff.

At his press conference, the President said he has reaffirmed his confidence in the Armed Forces and its leaders at the "loyalty parade" given him by the Army on the occasion of his 62nd birthday last November 4.

He discussed the congressional agitations as an "independent movement of an independent body."

In the same token, the President branded as "speculative" reports of a projected reorganization in the Cabinet.

At the press conference, the President:

1. Said he was going to schedule for hearing administrative charges filed against Socorro Ke. Ladrera, chairman of the board of directors of the People's Homesite and Housing Corporation;
2. Defended the overseas trips of several government officials including members of Congress; 3. Indicated that the Chinese temporary visitors case is still in the process of negotiation; and
4. Said he is heartened by reports of a bumper rice crop and pointed out that, while the former problem in the cereal was deficiency, his headache now is how to dispose of the expected surplus in the production of the staple.

President Garcia told newsmen he has not received the so-called "whitepaper" on the coup d'etat prepared by Rep. Bartolome C. Cabangbang, chairman of the House committee on national defense.

He said, however, that he had read the contents of the so-called "white paper" in the newspapers.

He branded the move as the sentiment of a group of congressmen belonging to an independent branch of the government.

President Garcia today sent a message of condolence to Mrs. John Randolph Hearst, widow of the assistant general manager of the Hearst newspapers who died yesterday.

The President also issued today the following message on the occasion of Philippine-American Day tomorrow:

"Philippine-American Day which we celebrate today provides me with a welcome opportunity to greet the American people on behalf of Filipino people.

"A commemoration of the warm and tested friendship of the two peoples recalls for both of them experiences not often vouchsafed to many others. It evokes that special feeling whose wellsprings are compassion, understanding, and a sense of dignified and honorable unity. The changes of time serve only to underscore the fact that the relations of the two peoples occupy a special place in their present purposes. It is to be hoped that this special place and its special meaning, will grow even more.

"On behalf of the Filipino people, I wish on this occasion to renew pledges for the continuance of our spiritual and fraternal ties with the American people."

November 15.—THE PRESIDENT directed today his rice and corn committee to devise a system of financing the government's procurement program of these two most important staple commodities so as to keep it on a more stable and continuing basis.

In a communication directed to the committee this noon, the President expressed his desire for the setting up of a revolving fund for the palay and corn buying program to avoid the necessity of having to formulate anew ways of financing the project which had hampered or delayed its implementation every harvest season.

With the stimuli provided by the Administration in connection with its policy of increased food production, it is expected that the yearly yield would continue to improve. The President said he would like to put the financial requirements of the project on a more or less steady footing to assure rice growers of a ready market for their produce each harvest season.

The President recently created the committee to determine the maximum and minimum selling prices of palay and corn for the various regions of the country. He gave the body 48 hours within which to submit its report and recommendations.

Under Executive Order No. 319, the President explained, he was creating the committee for the purpose of extending protection to rice and corn producers throughout the country by assuring them the recovery of the cost of production, including a fair return from their investments, and of offering sufficient incentive for their continued efforts in improving the quality and quantity of the yields of their farms.

The committee is given the following powers: (1) to determine the minimum and maximum price per cavan of palay and corn for the various regions of the country producing these basic commodities; and (2) to determine the financing requirements of the government for the procurement of the commodities from producers at the minimum and maximum prices it may fix.

The committee submitted its report last night. The President, however, returned the report to the committee today with the instructions that a plan for a continuing and steady financing of the programs be included in the recommendations.

With agriculture Undersecretary Jose M. Trinidad as chairman, the committee is composed of Labor Undersecretary Agapito Braganza, Francisco Sacay of the AGFA, Jose Drilon of the NARIC, Mario Moreno, representing the producers, and Mrs. Remedios Fortich of the NARRA.

PRESIDENT Garcia authorized today the increase in the quarterly allotment for supplies of the Bureau of Prisons from ₱300,000 to ₱800,000.

The authorization was granted in line with the President's policy of improving existing conditions in the state penitentiary as a means of putting an end to outbreaks of violence in our prisons.

Considering that the program of the Administration is to increase the stock of uniforms of the 17,000 prisoners from one to three suits each and considering also the present high prices of other commodities, the Budget Commission recommended that the increase in the fund was necessary.

It was also stated that the bureau had increased its activities by opening and operating a new penal farm in Sablayan, Occidental Mindoro, and that the prisons population is on the upward trend with an estimated increase of 8 per cent annually.

The prisons industries and salvage warehouse revolving fund, however, will remain at the authorized amount of ₱140,000.

President's Week in Review: November 16-22, 1958

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

November 16.—PRESIDENT Garcia authorized today the release of ₱4,074,835.00 for the operation, maintenance, improvement, construction, and reconstruction of national and provincial roads and bridges.

Out of this amount, ₱3,994,835 which is to be utilized for roads and bridges will be made available from surpluses realized out of the authorized outlays for the fiscal years 1957 and 1958 from the Highway Special Fund.

The remaining ₱80,000 which is earmarked for the operation and maintenance of the Baguio-Bontoc national toll road will be chargeable against the Baguio-Bontoc national toll road fund.

The surplus had been realized as a result of the reduction of the shares of different provinces for the last two years. Their release has now been found necessary in order to provide additional funds to meet expenses for much-needed improvements, reconstruction, and construction of national and provincial, roads and bridges.

President and Mrs. Garcia headed the list of patrons at tonight's ₱100-a-plate Cena de Oro in the Winter Garden of the Manila Hotel in connection with the Tenth Boy Scouts' World Jamboree fund campaign.

Earlier in the evening, the President presented a handsome trophy to Hank Lockwood, captain of the Manila Yacht Club team that won the Dragon-class interport regatta over a visiting Japanese team. The presentation ceremony was held at the Manila Yacht Club building.

This morning, President and Mrs. Garcia heard mass at their Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City. After breakfast, the Chief Executive read the morning papers and then went to his study room to go over pending state papers.

The President took a siesta after lunch and, upon waking up, took a stroll around the garden of his house.

At 6: 30 in the evening, the President left his residence for Malacañang to pick up the First Lady and attend the presentation ceremony at the Manila Yacht Club.

November 17.—THIS MORNING President Garcia took cognizance of the plight of 2,300 shoe workers in Marikina and ordered NAMARCO General Manager Benjamin Estrella to release a shipment of imported shoe materials worth $250,000.

The order was issued upon representations made by officers and members of the Marikina Shoemakers Guild, Inc., who informed the President that, unless the shipment is released, these workers and their families would face the prospect of a bleak and empty Christmas.

Mariano Sta. Ana, president of the guild, told the Chief Executive that they have only a few weeks left to work on Christmas orders, and that they cannot accept any order unless they have the necessary raw materials.

Sta. Ana said these shoe materials have been held up in bodegas of the state marketing firm since August of this year.

Other members of the guild who sought the President's intervention in connection with the release of these raw materials were Romeo de Guzman, guild secretary; Cornelio Mariano and Mario Mejia, board members; and Agustin Lachica, adviser on cooperatives, Cooperative Administration Office.

THE President directed today the Department of Public Works and Communications to forward to Malacañang immediately the complete records of the case of small fishermen who had protested against fishpond owners in Bulacan.

Irked by the delay in the transmission of the records for review in Malacañang, the President ordered this noon Judge Salvador Esguerra, legal adviser, to get hold of the papers as soon as possible for prompt study and disposition of the case by the President.

The President's action came following the publication in one of the morning newspapers of an editorial seeking, presidential intervention on the complaint for the sake of hundreds of fishermen whose means of livelihood had been allegedly curtailed by the construction of dikes in the communal fishing grounds.

The case had previously been investigated by the Department of Public Works and Communications which, under the law, is charged with the enforcement of the law prohibiting the construction of obstructions in public streams and rivers. The department later came out with a decision that the dikes had been constructed legally in connection with applications for fishpond permits and lease of public lands.

The fishermen adversely affected by the decision had appealed the case to Malacañang and the President, forthwith, had directed the department to forward to him all papers on the case. That was two weeks ago, but until now the records had not yet reached the Office of the President.

PRESIDENT Garcia was named an honorary member of the Association of Management and Industrial Engineer of the Philippines when the newly elected officers of the organization called on him in Malacañang this morning.

They presented to the Chief Executive a testimonial pledging the full resources of the association in men and materials towards fuller industrialization of the Philippines and the solution of the unemployment problem in the country.

After expressing his acceptance, President Garcia administered the oath of office to the following officers of the association: Jesus Tanghal Dera, president; Hernani P. Estella and Magleo C. Those recommended by the two societies are Dr. Agerico B. M. Sison, Dr. Jose Barcelona, Dr. Florentine- Herrera, and Dr. Benjamin Barrera.

The organization also requested President Garcia to expedite the release of ₱300,000 to facilitate the construction of more operating reams in the PGH.

Dr. Benjamin Roa, president of the UP Medical Alumni Association, informed the President that the PGH which has a bed capacity of 900 has only two operating rooms while the North General Hospital, with a bed capacity of 450, has nine.

In the group were Dr. Isidro Benitez, secretary of the PGH Medical Association, Dr. Solita Camara-Besa, Dr. Lourdes Manahan, Dr. Marcos Fojas, Dr. Romeo Ibay, Jr., and Edigio Manto.

President Garcia this morning accepted an invitation extended to him by officials of the University of the Philippines to be the guest speaker at a special convocation marking the opening of the conference on higher education among Southeast Asian countries on December 15.

Dr. Enrique T. Virata; acting UP president, informed the Chief Executive that the conference will be held in connection with the Golden Jubilee celebration of the state university.

Dr. Virata was accompanied by Dr. Ricardo Pascual, Dean Gregorio Zamuco, Director Nazario Pidlaoan, and Prof. Jose Campos, Jr., secretary of the UP board of regents.

The President also received around 85 foreign students from 13 countries who are at present enrolled in the state university in Diliman and in Los Baños.

G. K. Chedah, spokesman of the students, invited President Garcia to be their guest of honor at the opening of the International Students' Festival on February 16, next year, which will be held in Diliman.

THE President this day issued Executive Order No. 320, prescribing the rules of procedure to be followed in the transaction of business and the performance of the duties of the Reparations Commission.

In issuing the executive order, the President laid down eight points to be observed by the Reparations Commission for the appropriate and orderly transaction of business as well as the performance of the duties and functions entrusted to the commission under Republic Act No. 1789.

PRESIDENT Garcia this evening received Col. Nicanor T. Jimenez, chief of the National Intelligence Coordinating Agency, but both cautiously avoided taking up the latter's plan to quit the NICA in protest against reports linking him with the abortive coup d'etat.

Jimenez limited himself to clearing his accounts with Washington when he went there at the middle of the year to pave the way for President Garcia's state visit to the United States.

Late this evening the President and the First Lady sailed aboard the Santa Maria for Cebu City.

The President will inspect the proposed Mactan airport and go over his speeches which he will deliver in Tokyo when he makes a state visit to Japan early next month.

Incidentally, the President and the First Lady will attend the town fiesta of Opon tomorrow.

PRESIDENT Garcia after consultation with the presidential cereal price committee today, approved the floor price of palay in a bid to support the rice producing industry in the country. The price support per cavan of palay was announced at from ₱8.50 to ₱10.00, depending on the place where the cereal would be purchased.

The presidential announcement was aimed at encouraging the rice producers and at the same time bringing down the cost of the cereal to benefit the consumers of this staple cereal.

President Garcia conferred for an hour and a half with members of his presidential cereal price committee composed of the following: Mrs. Remedios Fortich of the NARRA; Labor Undersecretary Braganza; Jose Drilon, NARIC assistant general manager; Francisco Sacay, assistant ACCFA administrator; and Mario Moreno, president of the association of palay producers.

The presidential decision setting the price support for rice was immediately followed by a directive to the NARIC to implement this decision.

Seven principal purchasing centers were agreed upon by the conferees. These are Cabanatuan City; Cawayan, Isabela; Iloilo City; Cagayan de Oro, Cotabato; Gen. Santos, Cotabato; and Manila.

November 18.—THE presidential yacht Sta. Maria left the Philippine Navy landing a few minutes before midnight last night with President and Mrs. Garcia on board.

The Chief Executive is bound for the South to make ocular survey of conditions obtaining in different places in Cebu and possibly even in Mindanao.

At daybreak the yacht was cruising at twelve knots off Batangas province with overcast sky, slight drizzle, mild wind blowing, and choppy seas.

The President, the First Lady, and members of the party heard early morning mass said before an improvised altar set up on the aft deck of the Sta. Maria.

After the mass, Lt. Cdr. Manuel Mandapat, skipper of the presidential yacht, ordered the ship to stay near Malabrigo Point in southern Batangas to enable passengers to take breakfast with only the slightest movements of the ship.

President Garcia retired to his cabin after breakfast and went over state papers and drafts of speeches he will deliver during his state visit to Japan early next month.

He gave a press conference after lunch and then returned to his cabin to take an afternoon nap.

The President came out of his cabin shortly, before dinner time and engaged Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia and newsmen on board the ship in informal conversation on general topics.

The President retired to his cabin after dinner and continued work on the drafts of speeches to be delivered in Japan until late in the evening.

PRESIDENT Garcia appeared elated this afternoon upon receiving official notification of Alfredo' B. Saulo's surrender to Philippine authorities.

In a general statement the President congratulated Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano, Indonesian Ambassador Nazir Dt. Pamontjak, the Army, the Constabulary, and the intelligence officials "for their capable and satisfactory handling of this case."

Viewing Saulo's capitulation on the international level, he said: "This is a reaffirmation of the close ties of cordial and friendly relations between both nations (Indonesia and the Philippines)."

In an interview with newsmen later, the President said he was instructing Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas to improve the Army intelligence work.

The President issued the statement from the yacht Santa Maria, which is taking him and Mrs. Gaitia to Cebu for "surprise visits to several localities." He has no itinerary for the trip.

November 19.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning made a surprise visit to the site of the Mactan auxiliary airport and expressed satisfaction when informed by Lt. Col. Augusto R. Roa, project engineer, that work in the project is ahead of schedule with almost 25 per cent of the construction finished.

Col. Roa briefed the President on the progress of the work and said although the deadline is still in 1961, he expects it to be ready to land aircraft by the end of February 1959.

When fully completed, the airfield will be capable of handling most modern civil and military planes. It will cost a total of approximately $25 million.

President Garcia was told that 723 hectares of land was reserved for the airport site and that paved runways alone will cover an area of 43 hectares.

He was also informed that major problems encountered by P. J. Keiner, airport contractors, are low supply of cement and shortage of spare parts for heavy equipment badly needed in construction work.

The President promised to look into these problems and find means of solving them in order to expedite completion of the project.

Accompanying the President on the inspection of Mactan airfield were Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia, Cebu Gov. Jose Briones, Cebu City Mayor Ramon Duterte, Opon Mayor Mariano Dimataga, and Gil Garcia.

From the airport site, the President motored to Mactan, barrio of Opon town, where he visited the Magellan monument and resthouse with a historical marker showing the exact spot where the Spanish conquistador was felled by Lapu-Lapu.

The presidential yacht docked at the Opon wharf at 9:30 a.m. The President and party proceeded to Mactan airfield.

Shortly after luncheon given in the residence of Mayor Dimataga, the President boarded the yacht and left for Ubay, Bohol, to make a surprise visit to Ubay stock farm, largest government stock farm in the country today.

President Garcia will stay overnight in Bohol and will return to Cebu tomorrow.

PRESIDENT Garcia declared today that his forthcoming trip to Japan was “necessary to restore the ruptured relations between that country and the Philippines brought about by the last world war.”

He gave the reasons for his trip during a radio-press interview in Opon, Cebu, hometown of the First Lady, in answer to criticisms that the trip was untimely and unnecessary.

“My trip to Japan is necessary to restore goodwill between these two countries that was ruptured during the last war, especially as there are still those who still nurture resentment against the Japanese,” he said.

“The war has passed. We have started to accept reparations from Japan and we have signed the San Francisco peace treaty which ended the state of war with Japan. It’s but fitting and proper that I go on a good will mission,” the President added.

The Presidential yacht arrived at Opon about 9: 30 this morning, stayed there until noon, and then proceeded to Ubay, Bohol. The First Lady remained in Opon to attend the town fiesta.

November 20.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning conducted a comprehensive on-the-spot inspection of government-owned Ubay stock farm as a first step in implementing his desire that the farm expand its activities and play a more important role in developing and improving the country’s livestock resources.

The Chief Executive was shown around the farm by Pedro M. Bautista, farm superintendent, who took him to corrals each holding different breeds of imported cattle.

Bautista informed the President of their stock available to the people under the cattle dispersal program whereby bulls are lent to them for crossbreeding with native cattle to improve local stock.

The Chief Executive was also told that those desiring to raise pure-breed herd may purchase stock from the farm after first securing permission from, the director of animal industry.

Among the breeds of cattle in the Ubay stock farm are red Sindhi, Tharparker, Braham bulls, Ongole, and brown Swiss.

The farm at present has approximately 500 head of pure-breed imported cattle, including 120 weanlings.

President Garcia visited the installations on the farm, including corrals, branding chutes, milking shed, heavy equipment garage, farm office, and pasture lands where different types of grasses suitable for cattle fodder are grown and raised.

The farm has also other livestock like swine, buffaloes, goats, etc.

It covers a total of 4,600 hectares and is the biggest stock farm in the country with good pasture and favorable year-round weather for stock raising.

After having lunch in the stock farm, the President and party returned to the wharf in barrio Triple Union, Ubay, where the presidential yacht Sta. Maria lay anchored, and boarded the ship for Cebu City.

In the party of provincial and municipal officials who met President Garcia upon his arrival in Ubay yesterday afternoon and who accompanied him on his inspection tour of the stock farm were Acting Gov. Timoteo Butalid, Board Member Lino Chato, Provincial Veterinarian Teofilo Cortez, District Engineer Magdaleno Camacho, Ubay Mayor Ricardo Boyles, Baliliban Mayor Getulio Calope, and Loay Mayor Paulino Inting.

The Sta. Maria docked at Cebu wharf around 4 p.m. after which President Garcia proceeded to the residence of his brother-in-law, Opon Mayor Mariano Dimataga, where he held conferences with Cebu provincial and municipal officials, among them Gov. Jose Briones, Cebu Mayor Duterte, and others.

President Garcia this evening sent a directive to Labor Secretary Angel Castaño to investigate and settle the stevedore's strike in Cebu piers.

The President was informed that the strike had caused a dip in revenues from foreign shipping. Foreign ships now tied up at Cebu wharf cannot load or unload in view of the picket line.

In his directive to Secretary Castaño, the President said "it is imperative that the matter be settled as soon as possible."

This evening the President and the First Lady attended the coronation ball held in connection with the town fiesta of Opon, and in response to public clamor danced once to the tune of the anniversary song.

November 21.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning signed the appointments of Capts. Jose Basa and Ruperto Abueva as members of the board of examiners for marine officers at a conference with Leoncio Piquera, secretary to the executive secretary.

The President also approved the appointments of Virginia Yaptinchay, Natalio Balboa, and Amado Brinas, all of the Central Bank, and of Aguedo Gepte as acting director of the supply coordination of the Department of General Services.

The President amended an executive order by segregating 1,000 hectares out of five thousand hectares of the government's Ubay Stock Farms for distribution to the landless, especially kaingeros.

At noon today, the President sailed for Cebu City from where he was expected to depart for Manila at about midnight tonight.

President Garcia and party are expected to be back in Manila by early morning of Sunday.

November 22.— ABOARD the yacht Sta. Maria sailing on calm waters, President Garcia continued to work at his cabin on a dozen speeches he expects to deliver in his forthcoming state visit to Japan.

The President is sailing towards Manila from a five-day inspection trip to Cebu and Bohol. The Yacht bearing the President and the First Lady is steaming back to Manila under good weather conditions.

Despite overcast skies and occasional drizzles, the sea was calm the whole day. The ship hardly moved when it passed Sibuyan seas where, on previous voyages, passengers of the Santa Maria were usually flat on their stomachs because of rough sailing.

At 4: 55 p. m.. while the yacht was cruising off tiny Camasa Island between Cebu and Masbate, the ship's engine were ordered stopped when a cable in the electrical steering mechanism suddenly broke loose.

The yacht proceeded on its course for about two hours on an emergency manual steerage. There was, however, no danger as the sea was then "glassy smooth" in the area.

The Presidential party left Cebu shortly before midnight last night and at the rate it is going, it will be in Manila by about 5 a.m. tomorrow.

President's Week in Review: November 23-29, 1958

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

November 23.—PRESIDENT Garcia returned to Manila this morning, aboard the RPS Sta. Maria from a five-day inspection trip to the South.

Docking at the Philippine Navy headquarters landing on Dewey Boulevard about 8 a.m., the President received on board Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, who consulted him on pending matters.

Then the President received Acting Commissioner Melecio Domingo, who rendered a full report on the cases of 48 BIR personnel who had no items on the BIR plantilla and yet are receiving salaries from the general fund of the office, as well as the cases of three other employees who hold more than one item each.

The President said that the cases of these employees were anomalous. He instructed Commissioner Domingo to remedy the situation right away.

Commissioner Domingo informed the Chief Executive that some of the personnel involved were ranking officials of his bureau. He said he had given the BIR personnel officer 72 hours within which to explain the anomalous arrangement. The period expires tomorrow.

Domingo, during his conference with the President, also recommended the transfer of BIR personnel from the central office to undermanned regional offices to increase the efficiency of the branch offices. The transfers contemplated involved some 200 personnel, most of whom are technical men, to complete the full complement of undermanned offices. The commissioner also recommended cuts in the personnel in other branches which he believed were overstaffed.

Another caller aboard before the President disembarked from the Sta. Maria was Commissioner John S. Graham of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, who called to pay his respects following his recent arrival in Manila to survey the local atomic research potentialities in connection with the $500,000 U. S. grant for the Philippine reactor project.

Commissioner Graham was accompanied by Neil D. Naiden, also of the U. S. AEC, Chairman Paulino J. Garcia of the National Science Development Board, and Acting Commissioner Pedro G. Afable of the Philippine Atomic Energy Commission.

THIS afternoon the President lauded the service that the Manila Railroad Company has been rendering to the country during its 66 years of existence.

The Administration, taking into account the role that the company is playing in the economic progress of the nation, has fully endorsed the expansion of the railroad lines to Cagayan Valley and Sorsogon, the President said.

The Chief Executive added that the realization of this project, despite financial difficulties, is one of the pet projects of his party.

Regarding the construction of a hospital for the employees of the state firm, the President stated that it was one of the social amelioration measures of the Nacionalistas.

Present at the cornerstone laying ceremonies were high government officials led by Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, Caloocan Mayor Macario Asistio, Vice-Mayor Mateo Lualhati, MRR Board Chairman Juan J. Carlos, General Manager F. F. Santiago, OBC Acting Administrator Pablo Cruz, and MRR Directors Salvador T. Villa and Francisco Calinawan.

At the ceremony, President Garcia was presented with a resolution of appreciation approved by the Senate Committee on Transportation and Public Services, the Committee on Railways of the House of Representatives, and the Board of Directors of the state firm for his assistance and encouragements which led to the immediate passage of Republic Act 1867, presiding for the extension of the railroad lines to the Cagayan Valley and Sorsogon.

November 24.—PRESIDENT Garcia today pledged the help of the administration to a Filipino inventor who is placing in the market a new rice-corn mill that is expected to revolutionize the milling industry in the Philippines.

The pledge was made to Felicisimo D. Reyta, who invented a machine that can simultaneously mill rice and corn, with a better grain recovery than other mills sold locally.

The President said that he is going to confer with NARIC and ACCFA officials to explore the possibility of purchasing the Reyta rice-corn mill for installation in rural areas, especially in the Visayas and Mindanao where it can operate continuously in both wet and dry seasons while other mills are idle.

Reyta, who was called to Malacañang by the President, was accompanied by Mayor Teodulo Bernados of Tanay, Rizal, and Patricio C. Carlay.

The President also received GSIS officials who called to deliver to him his dividend for this current year, as a policy holder. The GSIS officials were Francisco Raymundo, Federico Romero, Baltazar Guerra, and Cristino Ybañez.

The President this day proclaimed Thursday, November 27, this year, as a special public holiday for national thanksgiving.

In issuing Proclamation No. 545, the Chief Executive stressed the importance of setting aside a day each year on which to dedicate “our noblest thoughts in prayer and thanksgiving to God for all the blessings He has showered upon us.”

The President called upon all the people “to turn their thoughts on that day to the Lord and offer Him a prayer of thanks for all the blessings He has bestowed upon us.”

President Garcia also signed today a proclamation authorizing the Philippine Cancer Society to conduct a national educational, membership, and fund drive during the period from December 15, 1958, to January 15, 1959.

The Chief Executive has accepted to be present at the kick-off ceremonies of the drive to be held in the afternoon of December 15, this year.

The proclamation was signed in the presence of Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia; Earl Carroll, general campaign chairman of the third cancer drive; Felino Neri, chairman of the Philippine Cancer Society; Gen. Basilio Valdez; Drs. Ramon Paterno; Juan Z. Sta. Cruz; Col. Roman Salacup; R. R. de la Cruz; and Mrs. Lourdes Guillermo.

THIS afternoon the President received Japanese Ambassador Morio Yukawa, who came to Malacañang to make final arrangements regarding the President’s six-day state visit to Japan starting December 1.

Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez reported to the President on the results of his recent mission to Rome, where he attended the conference of the Food and Agricultural Organization. Rodriguez was elected first vice-chairman of the FAO council. He also informed the President of the tentative visit of B. R. Sen, director-general of FOA, which is scheduled for March 9 to 15, 1959.

Officers of the Philippine Sugar Institute also called on President Garcia to request an early decision of the President on their controversy with Commerce Secretary Hernaez regarding the filling up of the deficit in Class "D" Philippine sugar in the world free market.

Jose Mapa Gomez, president of PHILSUGIN and the National Federation of Sugar Planters, told the President that the groups he represents would like to use the milled sugar to cover the deficit in the country's Class "D" sugar quota.

On the other hand, Hernaez wants to use Class "C" sugar to fill this quota. The matter is now up for decision of President Garcia.

Gomez was accompanied by Ramon Nolan and former Ambassador Jose E. Romero, secretary and director, respectively, of the PHILSUGIN, and Ramon L. Pagua, PHILSUGIN administrator.

November 25.—PRESIDENT Garcia today decided to allow millers and planters to fill up their 1958 "D" quotas with early milled sugar corresponding to the 1958-1959 crop year.

The decision of the President was in part due to the fact that the declaration and allocation of the 1958 "D" quotas were quite delayed. It was understood that this policy will be effective for this year only.

The general policy shall be, as stated by the President, that sugar production of any year shall be used or applied only to cover the quota allotments for that year, except in the case of sugar carry-over or sugar reserve stocks.

Henceforth, declarations as well as allocations to mills and planters of Philippine "D" quota for world free market quota shall be made as early as practicable and that is when the majority have terminated their milling season.

However, the filling of "D" quotas will only be permitted at a time to be determined when the complete filling of U. S. export and domestic quotas is positively assured by the stocks of sugar deposited in the various warehouses.

The President's decision was made after a series of conferences with sugar planters and sugar quota administration officials, including Jose Mapa Gomez, Ramon Nolas, Jose Romero, and Sugar Quota Administrator Ramon L. Pagua.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon ordered the reorganization of the Backpay Unit of the Bureau of Treasury with the view to eliminating possible sources of anomalies and bringing about a more efficient and expeditious disposition of backpay claims.

The President issued this afternoon an administrative order creating a special committee charged with the introduction of such innovations and changes, in accordance with existing laws, in the personnel assignment, operational setup, office policies, and procedures of the Backpay Unit.

At a conference in Malacañang this noon, the President instructed members of the committee to look into reports of "fixers" allegedly victimizing backpay claimants, and expressed his desire to have this "evil practice uprooted right away."

He told the committee to check up the records of the Philippine National Bank to verify reports that certain persons were monopolizing backpay checks, that numerous claimants had only one address, and that claims were being sold at unreasonable rates of discounts.

The Chief Executive, in his Administrative Order No. 284, directed the committee to submit partial reports and recommendations from time to time to the secretary of finance, who shall advise the President on the progress of their work. The body was, however, given no more than three months to complete and submit a final report.

The national treasurer and all officials and employees of the Backpay Unit were enjoined by the administrative order to extend full assistance and cooperation to the committee. The special body was also authorized to call upon any department or agency of the government for such assistance as it may need in the performance of its work.

The committee is composed of Pedro V. Aguilar, chief supervising auditor in the General Auditing Office, as chairman, and the following members: Ruben de Castro, assistant chief of the management service in the budget commission, and Rodolfo Ocampo, secretary to the PCAPE chairman.

PRESIDENT Garcia formally opened to the public the "Atoms for Peace" exhibit sponsored by the National Science Development Board, in the Institute of Science and Technology building in a ceremony held this afternoon.

The President delivered the principal address at a brief program which marked the opening of the exhibit. Other speakers at the program were US Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen and Dr. Paulino Garcia, chairman of the National Science Development Board.

Among those present at the opening of the exhibit were members of the Cabinet, members of the National Science Development Board, ICA officials, and others prominent in the scientific and medical fields.

The President today expressed gratification over the numerous messages of support and encouragement received from various sectors of the population on his forthcoming state visit to Japan.

Such messages which continued to pour in Malacañang since the President had started preparations for the visit were received from provincial and municipal officials, mayors' leagues, municipal councils, barrio lieutenants' leagues, and from civic, veterans, and student organizations all over the country.

Santos, archbishop of Manila, on the occasion of the solemn blessing and consecration of the Metropolitan Cathedral of Manila to be held on the feast day of Our Lady of the Immaculate Conception on December 8. He also presented a plaque to the President in appreciation for his donation for the construction of the Cathedral.

Archbishop Santos informed President Garcia that the famed Sistine choir of Rome will be coming for the inauguration rites.

The Archbishop was accompanied by Guillermo Dy Buncio, Ernesto Lagdameo, Antonio Delgado, and Mrs. Rosita de la Concepcion. They were received at the President's Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City.

THE PRESIDENT and his Cabinet, at their regular weekly meeting this afternoon, approved the grant of Christmas bonuses to employees of government-owned or controlled corporations not to exceed seven per cent of their net profits.

The grant of Christmas bonus is subject to the following conditions:

- (1) That the total amount to be set aside for this purpose shall not exceed seven per cent of the net profits of the corporation for the last fiscal year;
- (2) That the schedule of bonus shall provide increasing percentage in favor of low-salaried employees;
- (3) That in no case shall the bonus exceed one month's salary;
- (4) That for employees and laborers who have served less than one year, bonus shall be in proportion to their length of service; and
- (5) That public utility corporations, like the National Power Corporation, the National Waterworks and Sewerage Authority, and the National Rice and Corn Corporation, may grant a Christmas bonus to their personnel in an amount not to exceed ₱50,000 if the corresponding seven per cent of their net profit is less than said amount.

The Cabinet started preliminary discussions on the proposed sale of the Maria Cristina Fertilizer Plant at its regular weekly meeting this afternoon.

The proposed sale is in line with the Administration's policy to dispose of government-owned industrial plants when private capital is ready, willing, and in a position to take over their operations.

The proposal is sanctioned by the National Power Corporation's board of directors and was recommended for the President's approval by the Office of Economic Coordination.

The appraised value of the property has been set at ₱18,311,994.78 and excludes the cost of the plant and housing site which are part of the land reservations of the government, reserved for the NPC for industrial purposes.

Among the proposed terms of the sale are: (1) the sale shall be through public bidding; (2) only Filipinos or Americans and/or corporations, partnerships, or associations at least 60 per cent of whose capital is owned by Filipinos or Americans, can participate in the bid; and (3) the successful bidder shall recognize and assume the obligations and acquire all rights of the National Power Corporation under its existing contracts with other parties in connection with the operation of the fertilizer plant.

The President expressed his desire to add another condition of the sale in that the purchaser should guarantee that fertilizer produced by the plant should be sold at a low price. This is to place the fertilizer within the reach of the small farmers.

Final decision on the matter was, however, deferred for future meetings.

After mass the President and the First Lady had breakfast with Fr. Tugade, Brig. Gen. Isagani Campo, II MA commanding general, and aides.

The first caller was Minister Octavio Maloles, who has been reassigned to head the Philippine legation in Mexico.

Gov. Diego Ty Deling of Misamis Occidental, in the presence of Col. Basilio Hernandez, executive officer of the Peace and Amelioration Fund Commission and of Provincial Board Member Lucas Naranjo, Mayor Ricardo Dumalangan of Plariden, Misamis Occidental, and David Dulanas, presented a check for ₱4,500 as partial contribution of his province to the peace and amelioration fund.

The President also received Assistant Executive Secretary Enrique Quema, Former Press Secretary Baldomero T. Olivera, PNS general manager, and his son Baldomero, Jr., who brought a collection of Philippine shells to be presented to Emperor Hirohito during the coming state visit of President Garcia to Japan.

Another caller was Gov. Manuel Barretto of Zambales, who conferred with the President on matters pertaining to his province.

THIS afternoon the President received NAMARCO General Manager Benjamin Estrella, who reported on reforms introduced by the management to minimize incidence of irregular trading practices on the part of NAMARCO distributors and retailers.

Estrella also briefed the President on the losses sustained by the corporation as a result of the 45-day strike which ended only last week.

Estrella reported to the President that the state marketing firm suffered losses totalling ₱800,000 owing to the strike. Of this amount, according to Estrella, ₱500,000 represented payroll losses and the remaining ₱300,000 was lost in warehousing fees.

He also told the Chief Executive that the directive issued by the President had the effect of abbreviating the duration of the strike.

President Garcia had directed that cash advances be given to employees of the strike-bound firm to be charged against their accumulated leave, pending decision by the Supreme Court of the appeal of the management for certiorari.

Estrella explained that if the Supreme Court decides in favor of the workers, their leave will be returned to them and the cash advances they had received will represent their strike duration pay.

Earlier, Indonesian Ambassador Nazir Dt. Pamontjak called on the President to extend personally his thanks for the many words of appreciation expressed by President Garcia with regard to the major role he had played in affecting the turnover of Alfredo B. Saulo, number 3 Huk, to the Philippine Government.

MPD Chief Telesforo Tenorio also reported to President Garcia on his observation during his two-month trip to the United States, during which he attended an international conference of chiefs of police.

At eight o'clock this evening, President Garcia left his Bohol Avenue residence and motored to Malacanang to pick up Mrs. Garcia on their way to attend the Big Ten alumni reunion held at the Winter Garden of the Manila Hotel. The President was the guest of honor at this meeting.

PRESIDENT Garcia this evening appealed for a moratorium on politics and exhorted the people "to close ranks and pull together" in a common endeavor to bring about self-sufficiency and prosperity to the country.

He made the appeal in his address before the annual celebration of the alumni of the "Big Ten," the Manila Hotel this evening. The so-called "Big Ten" is an organization of alumni of ten universities of the United States.

The Big ten members are the Illinois University, Indiana University, Iowa University, Michigan University, Michigan State University, Minnesota University, Northwestern University, Ohio State University, Purdue University, and Wisconsin University.

"This is no time for petty bickering and recriminations," the President stressed.

He declared that "Filipinos from all walks of life must close ranks and contribute their strength, learning, and wisdom to the attainment of our common objective of ushering in a brighter day for our country."

He pointed out that his administration is pledged to work for the welfare and happiness of the people. ‘

"In line with this objective," he said, "steps have been taken to improve the condition of our people not only in the urban centers but also in the rural areas."

The Chief Executive cited measures taken by the Administration to institute land reforms, the organization of cooperatives, the extension of credits, the harnessing of streams in order to provide the people with electricity for lighting and for power, the establishment of rural health units, the construction of irrigation systems and as well as that of highways and feeder roads, the sinking of artesian wells, and the extension of school facilities to the remotest barrios.

"All these," the President said, "have been motivated by the sincere and earnest desire of the Administration to raise the standard of living of our people."

He pointed out, however, that the successful implementation of this ambitious program of the Administration requires the earnest and wholehearted cooperation of all sectors and elements of the population.

"In the great and arduous task of nation building," he said, "the need is for unity of effort. We cannot afford to dissipate our energies and our strength by working at cross-purposes. I, therefore, call upon you to join us in the pursuit of our objective so that we may all pull together to the end that our Republic, which came into being after so many untold sacrifices, may live and endure until time shall be no more."

In appealing for national unity the President said "the problems ahead are many and they are difficult. But they are not incapable of solution."

November 28.—BEFORE MOTORING to the University of the East, President Garcia had a breakfast-conference this morning with Leyte and Samar politicians led by Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez and Sen. Decoroso Rosales.

The conferees discussed a long range road-building program for the two provinces, as well as the full utilization of Leyte asphalt in the construction of roads in the country.

Present at the breakfast-conference were Gov. Fernando Veloso of Samar, Reps. Nicanor Yniguez, Marcelino Veloso, Dominador Tan, and Alberto Aguja of Leyte, and Eladio Balite, Valeriano Yancha, and Felipe Abrigo of Samar, Tacloban City Mayor Artemio Mate, and Leyte Provincial Board Members Emiliano Melgazo and Jose Clemente.

President Garcia today lauded the objective of the Philippine Historical Association of rewriting Philippine history in order to make "a proper assessment of our past."

The President was the principal speaker at the opening session of the PHA annual convention held this morning at the auditorium of the University of the East.

The Spanish rule and the American tutelage are well documented, President Garcia said, but the historians will have difficulty with respect to the facts of Philippine history before the coming of Spain.

The historians, he added, must have the energy and patience to reconstruct the facts from obscure evidences, with the aid of related sciences like archeology, anthropology, and paleontology, and to dig into the records of neighboring nations in the East whose historians must have recorded the intercourse, both commercial and cultural, of the Philippines with their countries.

The session opened with a choral number by the Teachers' Chorus of the Division of City Schools, conducted by Mrs. Candida B. Bautista, after which Dr. Francisco T. Dalupan, president of the University of the East, delivered a welcome address.

After a vocal solo by Mrs. Irinea S. Jeremillo, Prof. Nicolas Zafra, PHA president, who earlier had delivered the keynote address, introduced President Garcia.

At HIS regular press conference this afternoon, the President spiked what he branded as "speculative" reports quoting Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona's testimony before a House committee that the government is on the brink of bankruptcy.

Visibly irritated by the report, the President assailed what he termed "speculative reporting" on matters affecting the solvency of the government.

He likewise indirectly hurled a broadside against some members of the House committee on good government, who had disclosed to the press Aytona's testimony which was made under "mantle of secrecy and confidence."

"I assure you," he told his regular press conference today, "there is no fund shortage."

President Garcia reassured the nation that the government is financially stable although he admitted that it is facing "financial difficulties."

At the press conference, the President:

1. Disclosed that Judge Salvador Esguerra, Malacañang legal adviser, has recommended the suspension of National Treasurer Vicente Gella, who is facing administrative charges filed against him by Secretary of Finance Jaime Hernandez;
2. Said that steps are being taken by Secretary Hernandez to expedite the release of P50 million from the Philippine National Bank to finance the rice support program of the Administration;
3. Allayed fears of mass lay-offs at the Bureau of Posts or other government offices before Christmas; and
4. Endorsed the move to have a Filipino named a cardinal. Bristling with indignation, the President denied Aytona had told the House committee on good government that the government is facing bankruptcy.

"Aytona did not make that statement and it is not fair for the budget commissioner to be quoted on the matter affecting the solvency of the government in his testimony which was given in an executive session under the "mantle of confidence and secrecy," the President said.

He recalled that the House committee had denied the story but deplored the fact that the newspapers had published it in inconspicuous columns. He said the rectification was printed "behind the eight ball."

Taking an indirect dig at the press, the President said the newspapers "should not speculate on matters which happened in a closed-door session."

He underlined the fact that the newspapers should not indulge in speculative reporting on the solvency of the government.

However, the President admitted at the latter part of the press conference that the government is facing "financial difficulties."

He said the budget commissioner is unable to release the P2 million needed by the Bureau of Posts, as the government is at present facing financial difficulties.

He attributed this state of affairs to the imbalance in the expected government income and the budgetary appropriations.

He assailed the failure of Congress to pass the tax measures Malacañang had recommended to boost the government income to be able to cover up all the authorized expenditures.

The President said that Aytona, when questioned by the House committee on this sum, asked for time to be able to raise the amounts.

President Garcia, however, spiked reports that government employees in the Bureau of Posts or in the other offices may be laid off en masse in view of the financial difficulties of the government.

He pointed out that he would not allow the laying-off of employees before Christmas.

PRESIDENT Garcia administered the oaths of office to four new members of the National Science Development Board in a ceremony held this afternoon in Malacañang.

The new members of the NSDB are Teodoro Evangelista, representing education; Oscar D. Mapua, industry; Jose J. Mirasol, agriculture; and Gre-gorio Y. Zara, technology.

The ceremony was witnessed by members of the scientific body and friends of the inductees, among them, NSDB Chairman Paulino J. Garcia, acting Chairman Pedro G. Afable of the Philippine Atomic Energy Commission, Dean Amando Clemente, Commissioner Joaquin Maranon of the National Institute of Science and Technology, Director Isidro Macaspac of the National Economic Council, Dr. Arsenio Regala, executive secretary of the NSDB, Mrs. Jose J. Mirasol, Ignacio Debuque, Deputy Commissioner Canuto Manuel of the National Science Institute of Technology, and many others.

After the regular weekly press conference, President Garcia made a taperecording of a message for a documentary film for the Armed Forces of the Philippines being prepared by Documentary, Inc., a local movie company specializing in documentary films, headed by Lamberto Avellana, well-known movie director.

Undersecretary Serafin Salvador of General Services accompanied Estanislao Macaraeg, a local boxing promoter, who requested President Garcia to donate a silver belt for the forthcoming match for the flyweight championship of the world to be held in Manila on December 15.

Macaraeg, who is sponsoring the fight, said the title bout will be between Dommy Ursua and World Champion Pascual Perez of Argentina.

This fight will be the first one to take advantage of RA 1812, fathered by Undersecretary Salvador when he was still a member of Congress, which provides that world title bouts to be held in the Philippines and in which one of the protagonists is a Filipino will be considered tax-exempt.

From Malacañang President Garcia motored to his Bohol Avenue residence, where he spent the rest of the evening poring over the speeches he will deliver during his state visit to Japan next week.

THIS evening President Garcia expressed appreciation to the Committee for American Relief Everywhere (CARE) for the projects they have initiated in the Philippines.

The President expressed his appreciation to Frank Gaffio, assistant director of (CARE), who paid a courtesy call at Malacañang. Gaffio was accompanied by Dr. Allan Kline, director of the CARE office in the Philippines.

Among the many projects set up by CARE in the country is the school-feeding program which is said to be the largest program of its kind in the Far East.

Gaffio revealed that CARE will soon launch in the Philippines, an ambitious medical program aimed at minimizing the incidence of intestinal parasites among our schoolchildren. He said three mobile health units, specially constructed for the tropics will soon arrive in the Philippines to administer to the health needs of our children.

Each mobile unit, Gaffio said, is capable of treating approximately 20,000 schoolchildren a year. The necessary arrangements for the implementation of this program have already been made with the Department of Education, which will provide two technicians and a driver for each of these units.

CARE has also started in the Philippines self-help projects in the fields of agriculture, health resettlement, and fishing. To promote further the development of agriculture in the country, it has donated a carabao to a veterans settlement in Iloilo and a tractor to farmers in Isabela.

Gaffio is leaving for Ceylon tomorrow in the course of an inspection tour of CARE offices in the East. He will visit ten countries.

The President created the municipality of Tukuran in the province of Zamboanga del Sur in an executive order he signed tonight in Malacañang.

The new municipality will include the barrios of Tukuran, Luya, Tino-tungan, Militar, and Tagolo, all formerly belonging to the municipality of Labangan, Zamboanga del Sur.

Tukuran has a population of 8,225 and an annual income of ₱24,000. Approximately 39 sitios and barrios are included in its territory.

November 29.—PRESIDENT Garcia today received Dr. and Mrs. J. Mark Heibert, who paid a courtesy call at the Chief Executive and the First Lady at the music room in Malacañang. Dr. Heibert is the president of the Sterling Drug, Inc., parent corporation of Winthrop Stearns and Sterling Products, well-known drug manufacturers.

Mrs. Garcia also accepted from Dr. Heibert a check for ₱1,000 representing the latter's personal contribution to the Christmas Festival fund campaign which is under the over-all chairmanship of the First Lady.

Dr. and Mrs. Heibert were accompanied by Paul C. Wren, vice-president and Far East regional director of Winthrop-Sterling, Inc., Mrs. Alvin Burridge, Mrs. Allen Routon, and Antonio L. Reyes, supervisor for Luzon of the Winthrop Stearns, Inc.

PRESIDENT Garcia this noon thanked the veterans' organizations, representing men who fought the Japanese Imperial Forces during the last World War, for endorsing his state visit to Japan.

The Chief Executive made public his gratitude for the veterans' endorsement at a "send-off" luncheon jointly tendered in his honor by the Philippine Veterans Legion and the Veterans Commanders League of the Philippines at the National Press Club.

The endorsement was considered significant by President Garcia because it came from men "who stood firm to the very end for the cause of freedom

The President pointed out that his trip to Japan is consistent with the wish of the people, as evidenced by the ratification of the San Francisco Peace Treaty and of the Japanese reparations agreement.

In approving the peace treaty and the reparations agreement, the Philippines, which was the aggrieved party in the last war showed that it had decided to forget the past for the higher interests of the nation, the President said.

The state visit to Japan, the President added, will usher a new era of friendship between the Filipino and the Japanese peoples.

“I go to Japan as a bearer of good will and friendship of the Filipino people to the Japanese and as friends we will face the future together, working for the mutual benefit of our countries,” he stated.

The President and officials of the veterans’ organizations who fetched him from his Quezon City residence arrived somewhat late at the National Press Club building as the presidential car had engine trouble

Legionnaire Jose Arañas, PVL national vice-commander for Luzon, introduced the President. The President spoke extemporaneously for 15 minutes. .

The President this day continued to receive overwhelming support of his state visit to Japan from all sectors of the population.

Popular endorsement of the President’s trip came in the form of telegrams, letters from private individuals, and resolutions passed by provincial boards and municipal councils throughout the Philippines. .

In his telegram to the President, Carlos T. Viniegra, president of the Cavite Bar Association, made of record the association’s unconditional support and endorsement of the President’s state visit to Japan “in order to enhance the prestige of the Philippines in the concert of nations.”

The president of the San Fernando Jaycees and the La Union Council of the Boy Scouts of the Philippines, wired the President saying that his two organizations are solidly behind the President’s Japan visit. He said he saw three benefits to be derived from the state visit; namely, goodwill, diplomatic, and economic advantages.

Mayor Felix T. Reyes of Malolos, Bulacan, on the other hand, pledged the support of the people of Malolos to the President’s visit and warned would-be detractors from dampening the spirit of the goodwill mission.

Similar telegrams also came from Gov. Conrado Estrella of Pangasinan; the people of Guiguinto, Bulacan; General Trias, Noveleta, Silang, and Rosa-no, Cavite; and Mayor Santos of Muñoz, Nueva Ecija.

Among the resolutions received were those of the provincial board of La Union and the municipal council of Imus, Cavite, which said that after weighing the pros and cons of the President’s state visit to Japan, the council saw the necessity for, and the benefits to be derived from, such trip

The municipal council of Concepcion, Tarlac, said that the goodwill mission of President Garcia to Japan was necessary if only to foster closer relations between the Philippines and Japan, and wished the President a very successful trip.

Among the letters endorsing the President’s trip came from Mayor Tomas Hembrador of Dasmarinas, Cavite; Mayor Dominador llano of Imus, Cavite, who is bed-ridden; Luis Tamayo of Olongapo, Zambales; Jacobo Musilina of Sta. Cruz, Zambales; and Macario Josafat of Iba, Zambales.

THIS afternoon Resident Garcia called upon the women professionals of the Philippines to venture into private fields of endeavor in order to assist more effectively the economic development of the Philippines

The President told some 300 women chemical engineers of the Philippines that this country is one of those blessed by Divine Providence with rich natural resources; such as, minerals, forest lands, and fishing grounds.

The President said that these resources are virtually untapped, awaiting eager hands to exploit them, and that the women professionals can play a major role in their development.

The President congratulated the women chemical engineers of the Philippines for their success in their chosen field and said that their example should be emulated by other women professionals of the Philippines.

President Garcia was the guest speaker at the inaugural program of the Women Chemical Engineers of the Philippines (WOCHEP) held at the Malacañang Social Hall Saturday afternoon.

During the program, Mrs. Leonila D. Garcia was awarded the first Gold Medal award of the organization for being the “first most distinguished woman” in the Philippines who holds a degree in the technological profession.

Mrs. Garcia holds the degree of Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy and was the first pharmacist from her hometown, Opon, Cebu.

President Garcia pinned the award on her.

The program, which climaxed the celebration of Women’s Week was emceed by Mrs. Celia Gallego Bantegui.

During the breakfast, Msgr. Santos informed President Garcia about the Solemn inauguration of the Manila Cathedral and the arrival of the Papal Legate, His Excellency, Gregory Peter XV Cardinal Agagianian.

From Malacañang, President Garcia motored to the residence of Dr. Jose P. Laurel in Mandaluyong, Rizal, to visit the Batangas statesman who had recently suffered a stroke.

The Chief Executive greeted Dr. Laurel, who was confined in bed and wished him a speedy recovery. Dr. Laurel thanked the President for his visit and expressed his concurrence in the objectives: of President Garcia's state visit to Japan.

President Garcia left the residence of Dr. Laurel at 10:15 a.m. and proceeded to his Bohol Avenue residence, where he plunged into work clearing his desk of pending state papers preparatory to his departure for Japan early tomorrow morning.

December 1—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia enplaned early this morning for a five day state visit to Japan amidst the cheers and well-wishes of thousands who went to the Manila International Airport to see them off.

In a brief extemporaneous speech at the airport, the Chief Executive exhorted the people to "consign to oblivion whatever hatred and rancor had been aroused in us during the bitter years of the war."

He said that as a country dedicated to world peace, the Philippines has declared that we will stand behind every move to further the cause of peace in this part of the world.

The President expressed his sincere belief that "we should show to the world and to Japan that, as we have not been beaten on the battlefields in the time of war, we will not be beaten in the show of magnanimity in peace."

He urged the people "to close forever the dark chapter in our history resulting from the outbreak of hostilities 17 years ago and enter into a new era of friendship with Japan, one of cooperation and faith, to our mutual advantage."

President Garcia said the "governments of the world look with favor on his mission to Japan as one step towards the furtherance of peace and good will among nations,"

After thanking members of the diplomatic corps and the large crowd for coming to see him off and wish him success, and bon voyage, President and Mrs. Garcia shook hands with the people and slowly made their way to the chartered PAL Viscount plane that would carry them on this historic trip to Japan.

Earlier, the President held last-minute conferences in Malacañang; with members of his Cabinet, among them, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, whom he had designated as “caretaker” of the government in his absence.

President and Mrs. Garcia left Malacañang at 6:15 a.m. after receiving and acknowledging the farewells and well-wishes of ranking officials of the government, close friends, and relatives of the family.

Preceded by an escort of Manila motorcycle cops, the presidential motorcade passed along Aviles, Sanchez, Ayala Boulevard, Taft Avenue, San Luis, Dewey Boulevard, and turned left to the Manila International Airport.

All along the route taken by the motorcade, pedestrians, motorists, and early-morning strollers stopped to wave good-bye to the President.

At the Pasay City boundary, near the corner of Dewey Boulevard and Vito Cruz, the motorcade was met and joined by a large delegation of officials and residents of Pasay City and nearby municipalities.

Among those on hand to greet the President on his arrival at the airport were Vice-President and Mrs. Diosdado Macapagal, members of the diplomatic corps led by Mons. Egidio Vagnozzi, ranking officers of the Armed Forces, and a composite honor guard battalion composed of elements from the different branches of the Armed Forces.

After saluting the colors and acknowledging the 21 gun salute given by an artillery battalion of the AFP, President Garcia reviewed the honor guard escorted by acting Senate President Fernando Lopez, Speaker Daniel Romualdez, and Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, AFP chief of staff, while an aerial cover of six PAF F-80 Sabrejet planes roared overhead.

At exactly 7:05 a.m., the four-engined Viscount taxied out to the runway preparatory to taking off for Okinawa, their first and only stop on the way to Tokyo.

PRESIDENT Garcia, in a dark woollen suit, with a Homburg hat to match, landed at 4:17 p.m. today at the Haneda airport, Tokyo, to be accorded one of the most lavish receptions in the Japanese capital.

The President was accompanied by the First Lady and a host of other government officials and three security officers.

Press dispatches from Tokyo said that virtually the entire royal family and practically every foreign diplomat in Japan was on hand to greet the visiting Philippine President.

The President and his party landed from a chartered Philippine Air Lines Viscount plane which took off five minutes behind schedule at the domestic airport in Manila this morning.

Mrs. Garcia wore a fur coat to protect herself against the gusty chilly winds which swept across the airport as the presidential party landed.

After the ceremonies at the Haneda airport, the President and Emperor Hirohito boarded an ancient maroon Mercedes Benz which was said to be 30 years old.

Conspicuous among the spectators who had jammed the airport to witness the arrival of the President was a streamer which read, “Mabuhay President Garcia.”

Crown Prince Akihito was the first member of the royal family to be at the airport. Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako followed a few minutes later. With the Emperor were Prince Yoshi, Prince Hiatsu, Prince Mikasa, Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi, and other members of the royal family, President Garcia was introduced to Prince Akihito. No report was available in Manila this evening on the meeting between the President and the crown prince.

From the airport, the President led a motorcade to the Geihinkan, the Japanese Guest House.

A few minutes after arriving at the Geihinkan, the President delivered his message over TV and radio.

IN THE EVENING, the President and members of his party attended an informal dinner.

From Manila, the PAL Viscount touched down at Naha for refuelling and engine check-up. Reports said that the trip was uneventful.

December 2—PRESIDENT Garcia today broke centuries-old tradition in Japan when he addressed the joint session of the Japanese Diet.

It was the first time a foreign head of state had addressed the two chambers of the Japanese Diet.

Previous plans called for a mere reception by the members of both Houses of the Japanese parliament in honor of the visiting Philippine Chief Executive.

In his address the Philippine President called for lasting friendship between the Philippines and Japan. He said that there was still lingering “ill-will” in the Philippines because of the Japanese occupation of the country.

In his first morning in the misty and cold Tokyo weather, the President and the First Lady boarded the imperial coach from the Guest House (Guinhinkan) to start his scheduled call on the Emperor.

The First Couple called on Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako at the Imperial Palace. They were guided by the Emperor’s younger brother, Prince Mikasa.

Emperor Hirohito, who was waiting for the presidential coach at the foot of the stairs, showed them to the third floor which houses the imperial suite. They met there Empress Nagako and Crown Prince Akihito.

Emperor Hirohito and the Empress later returned the visit. Governor S. Yasui of Tokyo also went to the Guest House to present the key of the world’s largest city.

In accepting the symbolic key to the city, the President said he would treasure it as a symbol of the growing friendship between the two countries.

After an intimate luncheon at the Guest House, the President went to the Diet, where he was greeted by Speaker Hosjima and Matsumo and the chairmen of the various committees.

From the Diet, the President broke off his itinerary and paid an unexpected visit to the downtown Philippine press headquarters set up to coordinate information on his state visit to Japan.

The President and Mrs. Garcia and their official party went from the Diet to the Nikkatsu Hotel to inspect the offices of the Reparations Mission.

From the Nikkatsu Hotel, the President attended the joint reception given by the governor of Tokyo and the president of the Philippine Society of Japan.

In the evening the President and the First Lady attended an imperial banquet and reception at the Imperial Palace.

December 3—PRESIDENT Garcia today went through the third day of his six-day state visit of Japan, drumming harder on his theme to “cast into oblivion” the rancor and hatred that has characterized the post-war relations between the peoples of the Philippines and Japan.

Inspecting the shipyard, the President saw a vessel earmarked for the Philippines, under the reparations program being constructed.

He also visited a bamboo factory and talked to the workers and officials.

Jokingly, the President said in one of his light moments, that he hoped that the Japanese Government had revoked its order for his arrest.

The President, a guerrilla leader, had been hunted by Japanese forces in Leyte and Bohol.

He recalled that the Japanese Imperial Forces in the Philippines had placed a price of ₱10,000 on his head.

Although he was a guerrilla leader, the President said he did not demand official recognition to collect his backpay.

Reports reaching Manila said that while the President was kept busy by a tight schedule and went through the process of switching ties four times, the First Lady, Mrs. Leonila D. Garcia, made the rounds of a Japanese department store where she admired Christmas gifts on display.

The First Lady also sampled the Japanese food, and saw a hospital and an orphanage.

Mrs. Garcia also addressed the nation on television—the first lady to make such a nation-wide speech on television.

The First Lady joined the President in seeking a more substantial reconciliation between the two peoples, saying that both nations should “live in peace and grieve no more because of war.”

President Garcia also addressed the Foreign Correspondents’ Club.

During the press conference, the President came out openly against devaluation and said the low dollar reserves do not show any indication of economic deterioration.

President Garcia also visited the Philippine embassy residence, where he was received by Ambassador and Mrs. Manuel A. Adeva.

An hour later, President Garcia attended a tea party given at the National Press Club of Japan.

IN the evening, the President and Mrs. Garcia honored Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako with a banquet.

After the reception, the President and Mrs. Garcia and the members of their party were scheduled to board a special presidential plane, leaving Tokyo at 11:20 p.m. for Kyoto, Nara, and Osaka.

THE President, before leaving on his state visit to Japan, issued Proclamation No. 548, declaring the period from December 7 to 13, 1958, as Government Employees Week.

The Chief Executive issued the proclamation in order to focus attention on the invaluable services rendered by government employees and thereby encourage them to achieve greater efficiency in public service.

The President called upon all citizens and residents of the country as well as schools and civic organizations to turn their thoughts to the honest, loyal, and devoted government employees in grateful appreciation of their services,

The President said the week should be devoted to the attainment of maximum efficiency, harmony, and cooperation between the public and the employees.

THE CABINET this afternoon voted to adopt further retrenchment measures to avert an expected deficit of ₱73.8 million in the current budget.

Meeting without President Garcia, the Cabinet today adopted a four-point measure calculated to trim further the authorized expenditures of various government offices.

The Cabinet action was prompted by a report of Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona that the government collections from the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Bureau of Customs have failed to reach the estimated income to cover up the authorized expenditures.

Aytona reported that this year's income showed a sharp reduction amounting to ₱73.8 million.

Malacañang sources said the Cabinet previously had agreed to adopt retrenchment measures, as the government was heading toward a huge overdraft amounting to ₱486 million.

However, in a previous meeting, the Cabinet authorized to freeze other projects in an effort to avert the expected deficit.

In the resolution unanimously adopted this evening, the Cabinet voted that:

- (1) All savings in the appropriations or balances of allotments of the various departments which have not been obligated as of November 30 this year should be frozen;
- (2) The secretary of finance, the budget commissioner, and the auditor general would constitute a committee to review the items of expenditures of the various departments to determine which items should be deferred, report of which to be submitted to the Cabinet with the fiscal officers of each previous consultation with each department;
- (3) A memorandum should be prepared jointly by the committee on the financial condition of the government for submission to members of Congress through the Senate President and Speaker of the House of Representatives, as well as to members of the Cabinet; and
- (4) The Tax Advisory Board under the chairmanship of the Secretary of Finance should be convened so that it can prepare recommended reforms in the tax system for submission to Congress in its next regular session.

Aytona submitted a two-page report of the "critical financial condition" of the government.

It was indicated that despite the retrenchment measures previously adopted to head off the expected deficit amounting to ₱486 million, the government was on the brink of another huge overdraft of ₱73.8 million.

This imbalance between the authorized expenditures and the income was disclosed in statistics submitted to the Cabinet by Aytona.

The budget commissioner said the government had expected a total collection of ₱806.4 million. However, latest reports indicated that the government might be able to collect only ₱732.6 million.

Aytona previously explained that the budget had authorized expenditures roughly amounting to ₱1.2 billion.

However, owing to the non-passage of the recommended tax measures in the last session of Congress, the Cabinet decided to freeze financing of new projects in an effort to make the government operate within its expected income of ₱806.4 million.

The budget commissioner reported to the Cabinet that figures reaching his office indicated that the expected income of ₱806 million may not be covered, thus forcing a vacuum of ₱73.8 million after the Cabinet had deferred authorized expenditures amounting to ₱486 million in its previous meeting.

Aytona said the customs collections registered the biggest drop in expected revenues and recorded a total of ₱68.4 million from its expected income.

He also said the BIR collections toppled from the expected figure of ₱411.7 million to ₱405.8 million, representing a decrease of ₱5.9 million.

At the meeting this afternoon, the Cabinet also agreed to release ₱118,028 from whatever savings the Defense Department might have made for the use of the intelligence unit of the Armed Forces of the Philippines.

Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas asked the Cabinet to authorize the release of five per cent of its reserves intended for the intelligence arm of the Army in an effort to strengthen the undercover work of the AFP.

Vargas pointed out that the failure of the Army to track down the activities of top Communist leaders is due to the lack of appropriations of the intelligence force of the Army.

He told a Cabinet member who had questioned the defense head on its apparently “weak” intelligence network “that if the AFP is given the recommended amount, it would now guarantee a strengthened and efficient intelligence work.

Vargas said “the Saulo case will not be repeated.”

At the same time, the Cabinet endorsed the disbursement of some ₱2.5 million from the reparations funds for the purchase of materials for the construction of prefabricated school building.

The Cabinet merely endorsed the bid of Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, chief of staff of the Armed Forces and concurrently chairman of a Cabinet committee to study ways and means of securing additional buildings to accommodate the expanding enrollment in the primary schools.

Arellano had recommended the release of ₱5 million from the reparations funds. The Cabinet, however, endorsed the release of only ₱2.5 million.

Malacañang explained that the Cabinet merely endorsed the release of the amount, as the final action of the disbursement of amounts from reparations rests with the reparations commission.

December 4—VISITING Philippine President Garcia today went on a sightseeing tour of southern Japan.

Taking a sleeper train from Tokyo last night, the President and the First Lady arrived in Kyoto at 9:30 o'clock this morning

Reports reaching Manila said that Kyoto gave the visiting Philippine Chief Executive a rousing welcome. An estimated 3,000 schoolchildren cheered and waved Japanese and Philippine paper flags when President Garcia arrived at the Kyoto station.

The President found the ancient Japanese city shrouded in a dense fog. The air was chilly.

Arriving at Kyoto, the President and members of his party toured three of the city's major sightseeing spots.

During the course of his tour, the President told newsmen: "I am propoundly impressed by these monuments of Japanese culture. They bespeak the old splendor and grandeur of ancient Japanese times. There is no parallel to this in the world," the President said.

President Garcia rested at the Miyako Hotel, and later boarded a special train en route to Nara.

At Nara the President viewed the famous park where deer were roaming freely.

The President also visited the Heian Shrine, a compound of brilliant orange-colored Shinto buildings in Kyoto.

In front of the altar, the President dug into his pockets for some coins and tossed them into a well. Commerce Secretary Pedro C. Hernaez gave the President some five 10-yen pieces.

After tossing the coins, President and Mrs. Garcia, true to the Japanese traditions, bowed slightly before the Shinto altar.

From Kyoto, the President boarded the special train at 12:57 p.m. and left for Nara. He arrived at Nara an hour later.

At Osaka the President gave a press conference to Japanese newspapermen and foreign correspondents.

IN the evening the President and the First Lady attended a reception given by the Osaka mayor and the president of the Chamber of Commerce at the New Osaka Hotel.

Later in the evening, the President attended an informal Japanese dinner given by the Philippine consul at the city.

EXECUTIVE Secretary Juan C. Pajo administered the oath of office to Commissioner Amado del Rosario of the Bureau of Civil Service as member of the board of trustees of the Government Service Insurance System in a ceremony held today in Malacañang.

With the induction of Del Rosario, the membership of the GSIS board of trustees is now complete. Composing the board are Gregorio S. Licaros, chairman; Capt. Rodolfo P. Andal, vice-chairman; Col. Vicente O. Tiongson, Martin Aguilar, Jr., and Del Rosario, members.

Del Rosario takes over the position left vacant by Casimiro Dacanay whose term of office expired recently.

December 5—PRESIDENT Garcia formally ended his state visit to Japan this evening by attending a dinner given by Prime Minister and Mrs. Kishi at their residence in Tokyo. He is flying home tomorrow.

The social affair, which was climaxed by a communique, ended President Garcia's successful state visit to the former enemy country.

The President spent almost the whole day aboard the train which took him and the members of his party back to Tokyo from Osaka.

He boarded the special presidential plane at 8 o'clock this morning.

The President stayed overnight at the New Osaka Hotel, where he addressed the members of the chamber of commerce of the city this evening.

President Garcia and the members of his party had lunch aboard the special train.

He arrived at the Tokyo station at 4:07 p.m. and immediately plunged into a conference with Premier Kishi.

Reports said the Garcia-Kishi conference lasted for 40 minutes and discussed the possible cooperation of the two governments for the economic development of both countries.

Upon his arrival at Tokyo, reports said, "only a handful of Japanese and Philippine officials, plus a few policemen and railway workers, were on hand to greet the President."

However, an estimated 1,000 office workers and businessmen were said to have lined up outside the station to watch the President drive off in the Emperor's Rolls-Royce limousine,

When the maroon-colored Imperial train ground to a halt and the President debarked, a 13-year-old Japanese school girl named Seki Atsugi handed him a brocaded Japanese doll. Seki is the daughter of a Japanese official.

While the President was busy winding up his state visit in Japan, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, concurrently "caretaker" of the government, presided over the weekly Malacañang press conference.

December 6—PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon returned from a five-day state visit to Japan and was accorded an enthusiastic welcome at the Manila Domestic Terminal and along the route to Malacañang by people from Manila, Pasay and Quezon cities, and neighboring provinces.

The Chief Executive later at Malacañang said he was extremely grateful to the Emperor and the Empress of Japan, as well as the members of the Imperial household, high Japanese officials, and the Japanese people who went out of their way to make his visit successful.

In going out of their way, the Emperor and the Japanese people showed their desire to bring about the restoration of the old friendship and esteem between the Philippines and Japan, the President said.

Speaking about his state visit, the President also said that it has broken tradition. The Emperor and the Empress broke precedents when they welcomed the President, and the Japanese Diet also broke a precedent when it allowed the President to speak before its members.

The PAL Viscount bearing the President and his party arrived at the Manila Domestic Terminal at 4:30 p.m., escorted by a flight of PAF jet planes.

The President and Mrs. Garcia were immediately greeted by Vice-President Diosdado Macapagal, Acting Senate President Fernando Lopez, Speaker Protempore Constancio Castañeda, Chief Justice Ricardo Paras, and Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo.

After greeting the chiefs of diplomatic missions, members of the Cabinet and Congress, and provincial executives and city mayors, the President, escorted by Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, AFP chief of staff, proceeded to a platform to receive full military honors.

Then the President and Mrs. Garcia proceeded to a stage where the Most Reverend Hernando Antiporda, D. D., Auxiliary Bishop of Manila, sang a Te Deum assisted by the choir of the Christ the King Seminary.

After the Te Deum, President Garcia spoke before the welcoming crowd and expressed his gratitude for the warm welcome.

The President said he was happy to report to the Filipino people that in Japan there is incontestible evidence of the desire of the people and government to be fully reconciled with the Filipinos, and to forget what had happened in the past and face the future together.

The President also reported that the Japanese high officials have agreed to furnish the Philippines within the framework of the reparations agreement with facilities with which to construct the Marikina multipurpose project and a nationwide telephone system.

He concluded his short speech by saying that he was happy that in a modest way he had done something to promote goodwill and friendship between the two nations.

The President also thanked members of the diplomatic corps whose presence at the domestic terminal, he said, showed their interest in the promotion of international peace and goodwill.

After his speech, the President boarded an open car and, with the members of his party and the welcomers, headed a motorcade to Malacañang.

Thousands of people lined all along the route of the presidential motorcade from the airport to Malacañang. The President had to stand on the open car throughout the way to acknowledge the cheers of the people.

PRESIDENT Garcia early this afternoon received Senate President and Mrs. Eulogio Rodriguez, who just returned from a four-month world tour aboard the APL luxury liner, the SS President Wilson.

Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, representing President Garcia, and Mrs. Leonila D. Garcia were among those on hand to welcome the Rodriguezes. From Pier 9, the Senate President and Secretary Pajo led a motorcade to Malacañang. Among those who joined the motorcade and accompanied the returning couple to the Palace were Speaker and Mrs. Daniel Z. Romualdez, Sen. Fernando Lopez, members of both chambers of Congress, Quezon City Mayor Norberto Amoranto, and others.

President Garcia waited for Rodriguezes in the study room of Malacañang, and when they entered the room, he got up to meet them and wish them a warm and hearty “welcome home!”

Senate President Rodriguez gave a brief summary of his observations during his trip abroad, and expressed to the Chief Executive a desire to work immediately on important party matters in order to clear the way for next year’s local elections.

After staying 15 minutes, the Rodriguezes left Malacañang to rest while President Garcia retired to his bedroom.

At four o’clock, President Garcia went to the Council of State room to preside over the regular Cabinet meeting.

THE PRESIDENT today instructed the Cabinet committee chairmanned by Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez to spare the essential services of the government in its determination of items for expenditures that should be reduced in order to meet expected deficits in the general fund during the current fiscal year.

The President’s directive was given at the regular weekly Cabinet meeting this evening during which the committee tendered a progress report of its accomplishments since its constitution last December 3.

In the course of the report, Auditor General Pedro Gimenez, committee member, who spoke for the body, disclosed that of the government offices and agencies heard so far by the committee the Department of Education had been proposed for the biggest cut totalling ₱22,800,000.

Upon learning that this proposed reduction would mean the closing of some schools for as long as three months, the President told the committee that that was going beyond the philosophy of the reduction project.

The President pointed out that only items that could be dispensed and deferred should be reduced. He reminded the committee that under the constitution the education of the youth is one of the prime concerns of the government.

“To sacrifice our educational system to remedy our present economic difficulties would be the height of irresponsibility,” the President said.

Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, another member of the committee, informed the President that the figures being cited in the committee report were tentative and were, by no means final. The Budget Commissioner expressed certainty that, when the committee had heard all departments and agencies and ready to render a final report, the committee would come up with practical recommendations.

The Cabinet meeting was devoted mainly to discussions reviewing the country’s economic setup. Commissioner Aytona contended that the present difficulties were mainly due to the nation’s inability to introduce tax reforms that would fit our changing economy. The Budget Commissioner also expressed the need of adjusting our tax system which had been revised in 1935.

The President during the meeting encouraged members of his Cabinet to speak freely on their views on the economy. He said that he would perhaps spend the rest of the month studying economic remedies and reexamining our tax system with the view to finding measures that could be recommended for enactment during the next congressional session.

Others who actively participated in the discussions included Undersecretary of Natural Resources Amado Dalisay and Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez.

December 11.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning enlisted the aid of provincial and city executives in the implementation of the rice procurement program of the Administration at a conference held at his Quezon City residence. At a conference which President Garcia jointly presided with Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr., and Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, the provincial governors and city mayors were urged to help wage a campaign to inform the farmers of the efforts of the government to raise enough funds to buy palay direct from small farmers at government minimum prices.

The President stated that to meet the new situation posed by bumper crops in rice and corn which for the first time in nearly half a century will make the country self-sufficient in cereals, the government is trying to raise enough funds to enable the National Rice and Corn Corporation to purchase palay price stabilization purposes.

The Agricultural Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration has been directed to help in the implementation of the rice procurement program and the amount of P3 million which it has available will be utilized for the purpose.

Dr. Francisco Sacay, ACCFA assistant administrator, said before the conferees that the government agency will raise an additional fund amounting to ₱12 million through the sale of its stock of 1.5 million cavans of palay.

During the conference, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo bared the difficulties of the NARIC to sell about P20 million worth of stocks on hand owing to the bumper crops.

He pointed out, however, that the NARIC has a balance of ₱14 million from the credit line extended by the PNB for the importation of rice which can be utilized for the procurement program, provided the Finance Secretary guarantees the payment of the loan.

President Garcia said that present plans of the Administration call for the improvement of the credit facilities to the small farmers and exert efforts to place the financing system of the rice and corn industries on the same footing as the sugar industry utilizing the services of the Philippine National Bank.

Naga City Mayor Monico Imperial proposed a drastic measure to eliminate the monopoly of alien merchants in the rice and corn industries by nationalizing both industries.

The Chief Executive counseled the provincial and city executives to go slow on this proposal which would cause serious consequences and international repercussions at a time when the Philippines is trying to boost its foreign trade.

After discussing the problem facing the rice and corn industries, the governors and city mayors, through Gov. Isidro Rodriguez of Rizal, who is the chairman of the League of Provincial Governors and City Mayors, presented problems of their respective localities to President Garcia.

The conference which was held at the President's Bohol Avenue residence lasted from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. About 50 NP governors and city mayors were present. ,

THE PRESIDENT issued an executive order today for the reorganization of the Social Welfare Administration, which is expected to result in an estimated savings of ₱608,000 in relief funds to the government welfare agency.

The executive order authorizes the social welfare administrator to make such changes in the organization, definition of functions, and distribution of work among entities in the SWA as may be necessary to reflect changes in legislation, conditions, needs, or workloads.

The reorganization which will be implemented in accordance with a plan prepared by the Government Survey and Reorganization Commission as provided in R. A. 997, as amended by Republic Act 1241, is in line with the Administration's policy of providing more and better welfare services to the people at lower cost and with increased efficiency.

Among other things, it will put a stop to the present practice of paying salaries and wages from appropriations intended for relief purposes.

Under the reorganization plan, 528 new and permanent positions will be added to the 471 positions currently authorized, and employees at present paid from relief funds, numbering approximately 800, will be considered for appointment to them. The streamlining of the SWA will also involve the transfer of the SWA clinic to the Department of Health and the transfer of the school facilities at Welfareville to the Department of Education.

IN THE AFTERNOON, the President received Justice Buenaventura Ocampo, chairman of the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency. Ocampo, together, with the PCAFE staff, briefed the President on the progress of its work.

IN THE EVENING, the President received at his Bohol Avenue residence the members of the Monetary Board of the Central Bank; namely, Gregorio Licaros, Eduardo Z. Romuladez, Gaudencio Antonino, and Roberto T Villanueva.

The Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency this evening reported that the country could maintain the stability of the peso, judging from the upward trend of the dollar reserves in the Central Bank.

The PCAFE headed by Justice Buenaventura Ocampo this evening submitted a bulky report to the President on the achievements of the Administration for the last six months.

Highlight of the report was the PCAFE finding that steady rise in production and employment augurs well for the strengthening of the country's economy and in the stability of the Philippine currency.

The PCAFE report virtually spiked the fears of some economists who had advocated the devaluation of the peso.

Ocampo, accompanied by Capt. Francisco H. Calinawan, PCAFE vice-chairman, submitted the progress report to the President this evening.

The report touched on the performance of various offices and hailed the "careful management of the Central Bank" which has resulted in the conservation of the foreign reserve, bringing about rise in production and employment.

The FCAFE officials also said "the real income is steadily going up." They pointed out that "gross national production increased by 62 per cent owing to expansion in major economic fields; employment increased from 89.3 per cent in 1949 to 112.4 per cent in 1958 owing to the new industries."

The Malacañang body also stressed that the price of rice had dropped from 100 per cent to 92.02 per cent.

December 12.—PRESIDENT Garcia today conferred with Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr., and Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez to map out a legislative program for the coming session of Congress with a view to presenting a more realistic and balanced budget.

The conferees discussed in general the legislative program, and the details, especially the balanced budget, will be threshed out with members of the ways and means and appropriations committees of the House of Representatives and the finance committee of the Senate.

It was agreed that the proposed budget will take care only of the essential needs and services of the government.

The conference held behind closed doors at the President's Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City, started about 9 a.m., and extended through lunch, until 3 p.m., with slight breaks to allow President Garcia to receive scheduled callers. Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo was present at the start of the conference but had to leave for his office later in the morning. After the conference, President Garcia announced that he had outlined to Senate President Rodriguez and Speaker Romualdez the salient points of the legislative measures that the Administration will propose to Congress in January.

The President also said that they reviewed the problems confronting the government, most of which have arisen during the absence of the Senate President, who returned recently from a round-the-world trip which lasted four months.

President Garcia likewise reviewed with the Senate President and the Speaker the achievements of the Administration during the current year and expressed satisfaction that the rice and corn production campaign had been a success.

Rodriguez gave his impressions of his world tour and reported that European nations were in favor of an expanded and reciprocal trade with the Philippines.

The President also received Pascual Perez, world flyweight champion, and Filipino challenger Dommy Ursua, who will meet in a title bout on Monday night at the Rizal Memorial track-football stadium:

In presenting his credentials, the new Burmese envoy said it will be his earnest endeavor to preserve and further strengthen the cordial relations already existing between his country and the Philippines.

In response, President Garcia said Burma and the Philippines are alike in that they are both newly freed Asian nations engrossed in the task of nation-building.

Minister U Ba Maung arrived at Malacañang at 4:30 p.m. accompanied by Col. Emilio Borromeo, senior presidential aide; Pablo R. Suarez, protocol officer of the foreign office; and U Ba Tay, third secretary of the Burmese mission.

December 13.—PRESIDENT Garcia today called upon government-owned and controlled corporations to reduce their operation expenses in line with the austerity measures adopted by the Administration.

In a communication directed to chairmen of government firms this afternoon, the President also said that luncheon board meetings of these firms should be limited to only ₱5 per cover and not to exceed ₱60 per meeting.

He said that the maximum amount set should be sufficient since directors of government corporations do not usually exceed 11 members, including the chairman.

The President issued the directive on being informed that board meetings of these corporate bodies were usually held through luncheons so that the directors could spend that much time attending to other important work in their offices during office hours.

The Chief Executive had also been informed that luncheon board meetings usually were held once or twice a week and entailed meal expenses from ₱100 to ₱150 per meeting, irrespective of the number of the members of the board.

The President also issued today a directive to all department heads to submit annual reports pertaining to their respective offices. The President said he needed the data in the preparation of his yearly state-of-the-nation message which he would deliver to Congress when it re-convenes next month.

He gave the department secretaries until the end of next week as the deadline for the submission of the reports.

The Chief Executive did not receive any caller the whole day. He spent most of his time today at his private study in his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City, clearing his desk of important pending papers which had accumulated during his recent six-day absence from the country.

President's Week in Review: December 14-20, 1958

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

December 14.—PRESIDENT Garcia congratulated the air forces of five nations which participated in an air show held in connection with the opening of aviation week today saying that their splendid showing was a demonstration “not only of their air potential but also of their genuine interest in cooperative international unity.”

In brief remarks delivered this morning at the domestic airport where he formally opened the observance of Aviation Week under the auspices of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, the President said that the air show was more than a display of what the modern flying machines of the participating nations could do, as it was also a demonstration of the willingness of those nations to cooperate with one another.

“This annual celebration brings to the attention of the public the important role which civil aviation is playing in our national progress and security,” the President said. “It is therefore fitting that we give a measure of recognition to civil aviation as one of the most important vehicles of human progress,” he added.

President and Mrs. Garcia was at the airport for more than three hours this morning and watched with admiration the aeronautical skill displayed by Filipino, American, British, Australian, and New Zealander pilots as they put their fast, jet-powered planes into difficult and highly complicated aerial maneuvers.

Mrs. Leonila D. Garcia cut the ribbons which released two hundred balloons into the air, signalling the start of the air show. The First Lady was assisted by Mesdames Urbano Caldoza, wife of the CAA administrator, and Mrs. Victoria L. Araneta of the Feati Institute of Technology.

The air show consisted of precision mass formation flying, sonic boom demonstrations, supersonic passes over the airfield, aerial refueling, afterburner climbs, and dive-bombing demonstration.

Participating in the impressive display were F-100 Super Sabrejets, B-66 Destroyers, KB-50 Tankers, Canberra jet-bombers, F-86 Sabre all-weather jet fighters, Avro Vulcan delta-wing jet-bombers, B-57 Light Bombers, AD5N Skyraiders, A3D Skywarriors. F2H-3 Banshees, F-3H Demons, and FJ-4B Furies.

The crowd was particularly impressed by two peculiar-looking Avro Vulcan delta-wing jet bombers from the British Royal Air Force which started their maneuvers by flying low over the trees and which seemed to touch the roofs of the plane hangars in the airport.

The President and the First Lady arrived at the domestic airport about 8:20 a.m. for the ceremonies. The speech of the Chief Executive opening the observance of Aviation Week lasted only five minutes. He was introduced by CAA Administrator Urbano Caldoza.

The President also spent some time going around the field, inspecting various types of military aircrafts parked in the area.

ABOUT 11:30 a.m., the President and the First Lady left the airport and motored to Sta. Ana where they were guests of honor at the cornerstone-laying ceremonies of the ₱150,000 edifice which will house recreation halls for workers of the Marcelo Enterprises, which observed its 20th anniversary today.

IN THE EVENING, the President and the First Lady was at the Manila Hotel where they were again guests at an affair held under the auspices of the Woman Pharmaceutical Association of the Philippines and in which the First Lady was conferred an award.

December 15.—THIS MORNING President Garcia called upon the delegates to the five-day conference of Asian universities on cultural cooperation to “bring about a renaissance of learning in Asia and hasten the return of cultural preeminence to the Orient.”

Speaking at the conference’s opening session in the conference hall of the UP library building in Diliman, Quezon City, the Chief Executive reminded Asia’s leading educators that the training of leaders who can safely steer the Ship of State and who can be called upon for counsel and guidance in times of stress is one of the important functions of an institution of higher learning.

The President noted that most of the countries in Asia are still in the period of rapid growth and that it is essential that the reservoir of leadership be replenished at all times.

President Garcia said the heavy demands on the modern leader’s wisdom and resourcefulness require a well-balanced education involving all powers of the individual; namely, intellectual, physical, aesthetic, and spiritual. For this reason, he added, the training for leadership must make provision for culture.

The President said he favored a cultural exchange among Asian countries, as it will go a long way towards promoting mutual understanding, closer relations, and lasting friendship among them.

He stated that the conquest and colonization of most Asian countries in the past has resulted in the development of their respective cultures along different lines. This diversity, he said, will make the exchange of culture among Asian nations highly beneficial and fruitful because every country has something to give to the other.

Quoting H. G. Wells who characterized human history as a race between education and catastrophe, President Garcia concluded his address by charging the educators with the “responsibility of strengthening the cause of peace by spreading culture as a unifying force in building the defense of peace in the minds of men.”

On the President’s arrival at the university campus, a 21-gun salute was fired while a guard of honor composed of select UP ROTC cadets stood stiffly at attention in front of the UP administration building.

After acknowledging the honors, President Garcia and UP President Vicente G. Sinco proceeded towards the library building with the honor guard leading the way.

They were met at the entrance to the building by officials of the Department of Education headed by acting Education Secretary Daniel M. Salcedo, Undersecretary Benigno Aldana, and Director Jesus E. Perpiñan of the Bureau of Private Schools.

Also on hand were delegates to the conference, UP faculty members, and members of the diplomatic corps, among them, U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, Chinese Ambassador Chen Chi-mai, and Japanese Ambassador Morio Yukawa.

Diplomats who were not able to attend the opening session of the conference were represented by their cultural attaches.

From Diliman, President Garcia motored to Malacañang where he went over pending state papers until lunchtime.

EARLIER this morning, the President held a breakfast conference with members of the Ormoc Sugar Planters’ Association and the management of the Ormoc Sugar Central. They were accompanied by Rep. Dominador M. Tan of Leyte.

Present at the conference were Agapito Pungos, Dr. Hermenegildo Serafica, Iñaki Larizabal, Enrique Garcia, Melchor Larizabal, Benjamin Pungos, William A. Paradise, Jorge Tan, Jr., Dionisio Torrevillas, Jesus Lladoc, secretary of the association, Tirso Revilla, manager of the Ormoc Sugar Central, and Gabriel Villanueva, legal counsel of the association.

Among the subjects discussed during the conference was their request for an increase in their sugar quota allocation in view of their increased production and their capacity to fill the quota assigned to them in the past.

THE President this afternoon launched this year's Philippine cancer fund drive by presenting a ₱1,000 check to Gerald Wilkinson, who represented Earl Carroll, chairman of the campaign sponsored by the Philippine Cancer Society.

PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia this evening motored to see the world flyweight title fight between champion Pascual Perez of Argentina and Dommy Ursua, Filipino challenger.

Malacañang said the President decided to attend the title fight to give his moral support to the Filipino challenger.

It was the first time the President went to the Rizal stadium to attend a sports event.

President Garcia mobilized today relief agencies of the government to extend immediate assistance to the passengers of the ill-fated M.V. Hiawatha, which sank off the coast of Surigao yesterday.

On instructions from the President, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo ordered the Navy near the scene of the disaster to rush to the area and help in the rescue operations of some 200 passengers.

The Social Welfare Administration and the Department of Health, which were likewise alerted, lost no time in dispatching relief workers and relief and medical supplies to the area.

Malacañang instructed the Navy to report on further progress of the rescue and relief operations.

December 16.—AT THE COUNCIL OF STATE meeting this noon, President Garcia reported on details of the loans obtained as a result of his state visit to the United States last June.

The President based his report on a summary prepared by Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, PNB President Eduardo Romualdez, and Gov. Miguel Cuaderno of the Central Bank. The trio had been left behind in the United States to work out the details of the loans.

President Garcia and the Council of State approved today the proposal to start talks on the working out of a treaty of amity, commerce, and navigation between the Philippines and Japan.

The talks will be conducted on a bi-partisan basis on the part of the Philippine Government.

The approval of the talks came after President Garcia had rendered a report on his state visit to Japan at the meeting this noon of the Council of State.

In the course of his report, the President called attention to that part of the joint communique issued by the President and Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi that "as it seems desirable that both countries should endeavor to ultimately place their relations on a more stable basis, they agreed to consider, at the appropriate time, the possibility of working out a treaty of amity, commerce, and navigation, and pending such treaty, they would endeavor to encourage greater trade and commerce between them by such measures as they may consider mutually beneficial to both countries."

The Council also:

- (1) Passed a resolution congratulating the President for his “signal success” on his visit to Japan;
- (2) Endorsed the loan from Japan to finance the Marikina River multipurpose project and the telecommunications expansion and improvement project within the framework of the Reparations Agreement;
- (3) Heard the final report of PNB President Eduardo Romualdez, Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, and Governor Miguel Cuaderno of the Central Bank, who had been left behind in the United States to work out details of the loans obtained by the President during his U.S. state visit; and
- (4) Heard Senate President Rordiguez report on his impressions during his recent trip abroad. While discussing his recent trip to Japan, the President emphasized that no commitment of any kind had been made in his dealings with Japanese officialdom and businessmen. He said he had expressed the desire of the Filipino people to resume their pre-war relations with Japan and that the Japanese people had responded enthusiastically.

The President explained that although his state visit was one of goodwill, some other matters had been taken up incidentally by the Japanese officials such as the financing of the Marikina River multi-purpose and the telecommunications projects. He said that Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno had been left behind in Tokyo to work out details of the negotiations and will report to the Council immediately after his return.

The President thanked members of the Council for passing the resolution congratulating him for the success of his trip. He expressed the hope that his “fruitful trip” would find expression in ever improving cultural, economic, and political relations between the Philippines and Japan.

The Chief Executive said that Japanese officials had welcomed his proposals for cultural exchanges between the two countries. He expressed the belief that the promotion of cultural relations would pave the way for better understanding and easier trade dealings between the Filipinos and the Japanese to the mutual benefit of both peoples.

The President convoked the council of state meeting shortly before 1 p.m., and it lasted up to 3:20 p.m. During the meeting, the President had Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano read the communique issued jointly by the President and Prime Minister Kishi in Japan.

Sen. Recto proposed that the declaration in the joint communique that the Philippine economy and the Japanese economy are complementary in character, should not be understood as making reference to the well known fact that Japan is a highly industrialized country, essentially a manufacturer of finished products, part of which is exported to the Philippines, importing at the same time from the latter a large quantity of raw material for her industries, while the Philippines is at present mainly an agricultural country, producing raw materials, agricultural products, and mineral which are exported in important quantities to Japan.

Not a single instance in history can be found, Sen. Recto added, where a trade arrangement between two nations, one industrial and supplier of processed goods, and the other, agricultural and supplier of raw materials, has benefited the latter, and inasmuch as the Philippines is determined to prosecute her industrialization program as fast as her means will permit, it is to be expected that her raw materials are primarily intended for her own industries. The words “complementary economy” appearing on the communique, should therefore be understood, Sen. Recto concluded, as meaning only that there are Japanese products that are, and can be sold, to the Philippines, and Philippine commodities, like sugar and coconut oil, that can be sold to Japan.

The President explained that such was the meaning intended in the communique, and the Council of State voted unanimously to approve and make of record Sen. Recto’s proposal.

EARLIER this morning, President Garcia conferred with Executive Secretary Juan C. Pa jo and Judge Salvador Esguerra, Malacañang legal adviser, on the interpretation of certain provisions of the Reparations Agreement.

Later, President Garcia held a closed-door conference with Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez and CB Governor Cuaderno after which he proceeded to the State dining room for the Council of State meeting.

IN the afternoon, the President received John J. Nelley, vice-president of the Chase Manhattan Bank, New York.

The banker was accompanied by Eduardo Z. Romualdez, president of the Philippine National Bank. The President also received Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, Manolo Elizalde, and Justice Buenaventura Ocampo, chairman of the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency.

December 17.—PRESIDENT Garcia received a continuous stream of congressional callers in Malacañang from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. today.

Sen. Domocao Alonto conferred with the President on political and economic matters and discussed with the Chief Executive the feasibility of entering into treaties of friendship and cultural cooperation with Asian and African countries.

Sen. Eulogio Balao and Rep. Felipe Garduque of Cagayan accompanied Mayor Lucilo Pascual of Lallo, Cagayan, who took his oath of affiliation as a Nacionalista before President Garcia in the study room of Malacañang.

Among those who witnessed the oath-taking were Mayors Jose Villegas of Alcala, president of the Nacionalista Party in Cagayan, and Venancio Morales of Amolong and Manager Peregrino R. Quinto, manager of the Philippine Tobacco Administration.

On representations by Rep. Ismael Veloso of Leyte, President Garcia directed Manager Eugenio Santos of the Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office to facilitate the release of ₱50,000 for the Leyte Provincial Hospital.

Rep. Apolinario Apacible of Batangas requested the President the allocation of several units of prefabricated school buildings for several towns in his district to replace those either damaged or destroyed by typhoons that had hit the province during the last few years.

Rep. Apacible was accompanied by Mayors Pedro Macalalag of Tuy and Luis Ramos of Balayan.

Rep. Delfin Albano of Isabela asked the President to issue a proclamation for the recovery of a lot previously reserved for the Armed Forces and granting it to the municipality of Ilagan as the site of their new municipal building.

Other congressional callers of the President this morning were Sen. Reseller Lim and Reps. Ricardo Ladrido of Iloilo, Faustino Tobia of Ilocos Sur, Leonardo Perez of Nueva Vizcaya, Alberto Q. Ubay of Zamboanga del Norte, Luciano Millan of Pangasinan, and Luis Hora of Mountain Province.

THE PRESIDENT acted today to beat the seasonal mail jam by releasing ₱200,000 to continue the service of wage employees of the Bureau of Posts in Manila and the provinces.

Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, who released the amount by authority of the President, said this move will not only relieve the Christmas mail jam but also the anxiety of the wage-earners who face the bleak prospect of being laid off this Christmas.

The amount of ₱200,000 was released by the President on recommendation of Deputy Budget Commissioner Faustino Sy-Changco, owing to the heavy volume of air mails arriving at the Bureau of Posts, which the regular employees are unable to tackle.

The amount released will be chargeable against the excess income of ₱590,355.60 over corresponding appropriation for the air mail services as of October 31, 1958.

AT THE CABINET meeting this afternoon, President Garcia reaffirmed the national policy enunciated by his administration of non-intercourse with communist countries, as he upheld the action taken by the Philippine Consulate General in Hongkong in refusing to issue a crew-list visa to the crew members of a Yugoslav vessel.

The matter was brought to the Cabinet meeting this afternoon when the Botelho Shipping Corporation, local agent of the Yugoslav ship, requested a reconsideration of the action taken by the Philippine Consulate General in Hongkong.

Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano alleged that as a matter of sound political and economic policy of the Philippine Government, his department holds the view that the government should not allow foreign vessels under the registry of communist countries to engage in any form of commercial transaction in the Philippines.

Serrano further alleged that the Yugoslav ship should not be allowed to be the carrier of Philippine products, as it will puncture the national policy of non-trade with communist countries. He further alleged that once punctured it will be taken advantage of by other communist countries.

In recommending that the request of the Botelho Shipping Corporation be denied, Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez also observed that shipping companies like the Botelho should know the Philippine policy of non-trade with communist countries.

Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, for his part, also recommended that the request be denied, alleging that for reasons of national security communist-registered vessels should not be allowed to call at Philippine ports.

The Yugoslav ship entered into contracts with two Filipino concerns for shipping 500 tons of copra to Europe and logs to Venice, Italy, but when the ship's agent applied for a crew-list visa for the crew members, the Philippine consulate general in Hongkong refused to act favorably on the application, saying that the Philippines has no diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia by reasons of the latter's non-recognition of the Independence of the Philippine Republic.

The ship was scheduled to leave Hongkong on December 13, 1958, and call at Cebu to load the copra and proceed to Surigao to load the logs, but the Bureau of Immigration was poised to fine the vessel in case it proceeded to the Philippines with a crew-list visa for its crew members.

The Cabinet restored the ₱22.8 million cut slashed by a three-man committee from the budget of the Department of Education to insure continuous classes in the public schools until March.

After restoring the slashed item, President Garcia authorized the release of ₱9 million from the reserves of the Department of Education to cover payment of the salaries of teachers up to the end of the school year.

The Cabinet reviewed the report of the three-man committee, headed by Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, which slashed the budgets of the different government offices in an effort to avert a ₱74 million deficit this year.

Significantly, the Hernandez committee turned about in its report and recommended the restoration of the ₱22.8 million cut it had proposed from the Department of Education.

The Cabinet review of the committee recommendations, will be resumed at a special meeting which the President will call before the end of the current year.

The President and the Cabinet, at their discussions this afternoon, agreed to restore the huge cut from the education budget.

The Cabinet also agreed to slash only ₱7 million from the budget of the Department of National Defense. The Hernandez committee had previously sought to prune ₱30 million from the budget of the defense department.

Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas objected to the slash of ₱7 million and appealed to the Cabinet to reduce the amount to ₱5 million.

Vargas claimed he would be forced to demobilize some 24,000 officers and men in the event the budget is cut by ₱7 million.

The Hernandez committee submitted today its report, recommending only a total slash of ₱16,081,560 from the budgetary appropriations of the different government offices.

Although the committee had previously outlined a total slash of ₱73.4 million from the different appropriations of government offices, the body re-considered its decision and reduced the amount it proposed to slash from the budget.

Malacañang said the Hernandez committee recommended adoption of other measures to cover up the expected deficit of ₱58 million. The committee proposed that funds be taken from special levies to cover up the expected gap between the appropriation and income figures.

PRESIDENT Garcia this evening called upon the press in the Philippines to maintain its freedom and fight the forces which threaten to enslave the newspapermen.

He was the principal speaker at the third annual award of the Manila Suburban Press Club held at the National Press Club's deck.

President Garcia said "we have in this country one of the freest and strongest press in the world today."

Turning to the provincial press, the President said the former has a grave responsibility, as the newspapermen should have the "highest integrity" in the exercise of their profession.

"By integrity," the President pointed out, "we mean the strict adherence to what is factual and true and the maintenance of a free and strong press. A news item slanted to serve the interest of one man, or an editorial designed to enhance the ambitions of an interested individual—compensated by political favors or promises of political opportunities are manifestations of servitude. Servitude is not freedom; it is a sign of weakness," he said.

President Garcia also paid tribute to the provincial press which, he said, is serving the greatest area in the country.

He called the provincial press as the backbone of public opinion. "Its collective strength," he said, "places it in a unique position as educator, informant, and guardian to millions of our people."

The President also pointed out that an "accurate report can serve not only your interest as reliable pressmen but what is more important the welfare of our people. An inaccuracy," he said, "can have disastrous effects to the country."

He urged the newspapermen to be fair and stressed that any "good journalist, true to his profession, knows that to report only one side of a story is not only being unfair to the individual concerned but he is guilty also of one-sided, biased, and prejudiced reporting."

President Garcia handed the certificate of award to 34 awardees.

December 18.— PRESIDENT Garcia conferred with Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano this noon on the proposed start of talks preparatory to negotiations toward a treaty of amity, commerce, and navigation between the Philippines and Japan.

The proposed talks had been approved at the Council of State meeting at Malacañang last Tuesday. It will be conducted in a bi-partisan basis.

Earlier this morning, the President received governors and mayors most of whom presented requests for financial aid for their respective provinces and municipalities.

Gov. Juan Triviño of Camarines Sur asked the Chief Executive to expedite the release of financial assistance for 10 towns in his province which were badly damaged by typhoon Nancy three months ago.

Gov. Leon Guinto, Sr., accompanied three mayors of Quezon province who likewise requested financial aid for the repair of damages wrought on their towns by typhoons. The mayors were Leon Ruidora of Gen. Nakar, Tomas R. Angara of Dingalan, and Edgardo Cabangon of Calawag.

Also with Gov. Guinto was ex-Rep. Tomas Morato of Quezon, who paid a courtesy call on the President.

Tarlac Gov. Arsenio Lugay requested President Garcia to direct the Land Tenure Administration to expedite payment of ₱324,000 for a 25 hectares of land belonging to the Hacienda Bautista-Sioco located in the poblacion of San. Manuel, Tarlac, for subdivision and distribution to tenants.

He also requested the release of ₱7,500 for the completion of the municipal building of San. Manuel and ₱10,000 for the town hall of San Clemente, Tarlac Gov. Lugay was accompanied by Mayor Amado Robles of San Clemente.

Pangasinan Gov. Conrado Estrella briefed the President on the political situation in his province and the problems confronting the locality, particularly the acute lack of school buildings to replace those destroyed by typhoons.

Gov. Vicente de Lara of Misamis Oriental requested the appropriation of ₱20,000 from the President's contingent funds to finance the repair of school buildings in his province damaged by typhoons.

Gov. Jose Dinglasan of Capiz sought the Chief Executive's intervention in securing the release of ₱100,000 for the completion of the airport in Roxas City.

Mayors Getulio Calope of Balilihan and Salustiano Baura of Tubigon, Bohol, also requested assistance from the President for the repair of certain public works installations in their respective municipalities which were damaged by typhoon Nancy.

Mayor Lorenzo Belarmino of Sta. Cruz, Marinduque, sought the aid of President Garcia in the completion of a ₱124,000 irrigation project in his municipality, work on which had already been started.

The President received callers until 2 p.m. After the last caller, President Garcia proceeded to his bedroom, where he conferred with Secretary Serrano over a late lunch on the text of a joint Philippine-Japan communique on the agreement for the Marikina multi-purpose dam and a nation-wide telecommunications system.

THIS evening the President stressed the need for forging closer relations with free Asian countries for the economic, political, and military survival of the Philippines from communist enslavement.

Addressing the annual "President's Night" dinner of the Manila Overseas Press Club, the President justified the new emphasis in the country's foreign policy toward Asia.

He denied, however, that there has been any fundamental change in the country's foreign relations with other countries.

“Racially and geographically,” the President said, “we are an Asian people. If for no other reason we should be making this effort to reach out for closer cooperation, for better understanding, for the cultural exchange which is the very essence of man’s constantly broadening spiritual and intellectual horizons.”

He said that his recent visit to Japan was the “forward step” towards the new emphasis in the country’s foreign policy towards Asia.

“There is a growing awareness in Asia that the relentless drive of Communism for world domination,” he said, “is something that cannot be ignored by any free Asian.”

The President, however, said that it is difficult to say at time exactly what form of collective Asian defense against communist economic and political aggression should take.

“Among the members of the free Asian community,” he said, “there must develop a broad and sympathetic understanding of each other’s thinking problems and national objectives. Only with such understanding can we explore the common ground upon which a common economic, political, and a spiritual defense may be based and collective action undertaken. To achieve this understanding for ourselves and to encourage our neighbors to seek it is what motivates the current emphasis of our foreign policy,” he added.

endency to put greater emphasis on the country’s relations with Asian countries tries, “we are fulfilling our own concept of the role of each member of the free world community in its defense . . . Our sovereign dignity,” President Garcia said, “demands that we make every contribution within our competence to the arsenal of freedom.”

The President denied that there has been any change in the foreign policy of the country, although, he pointed out, there is at present a tendency to put greater emphasis on the country’s relations with Asian countries.

He warned that the very bedrock of the Asian way of life—the family— has been shattered by the communist doctrines. He said that in the place of the family “has been imposed a fantastic militarized social system in which men and women, husbands and wives, live in separate barracks and eat in segregate mess halls, while their children are raised in state institution. No feudal despot, no imperialist conqueror, has ever dared attempt as complete an enslavement of a people,” he warned.

President Garcia likewise recalled that the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization was conceived as the answer of Asian countries to “the challenge of naked military Red aggression against peoples and states.”

He stressed that the communist military aggressions have been held at bay by the organization of the SEATO. However, he said that the communists have shifted their campaign to a policy of attraction cloaking the “tactic of deceit” described by Lenin as an orthodox element of Red policy.

December 19.—PRESIDENT Garcia instructed the members of the Philippine delegation to the world’s basketball championship games in Chile to do their best and “bring home the bacon.”

The PI cagers, accompanied by officials of the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation, called on the President in Malacañang this morning to pay their respects, say farewell, and receive instructions.

The President told them, “My instructions are for you to bring home the bacon. I wish you a fruitful trip and victory in your forthcoming games. Our people will be proud if our flag will be upheld in the field of sports. Congratulations for your victory in the last Asian Games. God bless you all.”

The members of the team who called on the President were Coach Virgilio Dalupan, Carlos Loyzaga, Loreto Carbonell, Emilio Achacoso, Geronimo Cruz, Constancio Ortiz, Ramon Manulat, Carlos Badion, Guillermo Baz, Edgardo Ocampo, Eduardo Lim, Kurt Bachmann, Mariano Tolentino, Roberto Yburan, and Alfonso Marquez.

Officials of the PAAF who accompanied the athletes were Antonio de las Alas, PAAF president, Sen. Ambrosio Padilla, Chito Calvo, Augusto Bautista, and Serafin Aquino, PAAF secretary-treasurer.

President Garcia presented the Philippine flag to Manuel B. Nolasco, assistant national boy scout commissioner and leader of the Philippine delegation to the 1959 Boy Scouts' Pan-Pacific Jamboree in Auckland, New Zealand.

Other members of the PI delegation to the jamboree are Ben Hur Lasam, scribe of Troop 21, Agusan Council, and Antonio Gonzales, junior assistant scoutmaster, Troop 310, Tarlac Council.

In presenting the flag to Nolasco, the President charged them with the duty of doing honor to it and wished them good luck in their mission.

Nolasco will go first to South Australia to undergo Wood Badge training, while the two scouts will remain in Melbourne where they will be the guests of the Australian boy scouts.

From Melbourne, the delegation will proceed to Auckland, New Zealand, to attend the 1959 Boy Scouts' Pan-Pacific Jamboree.

They are leaving tomorrow night and expect to be away 28 days.

Members of the Japanese Collegiate All-Stars basketball team that have been playing a series of benefit games here for the 10th Boy Scouts' World Jamboree fund campaign were among the President's callers this morning.

The members of the team are Setsuo Nara, Hideo Kanekawa, Reijiro Kawamoto, Fusao Yokoyama, Kumiyasu Oshima, Seiji Yamamoto, Sigeyoshi Kashara, Kaoru Wakabayashi, Sadao Sugawara, Atenosake Kimura, Shohei Uozemi and Shoji Kamata. They were accompanied by Seiichi Morisawa, head; Masami Kase, coach; and Michihiko Kunehiro, cultural attache of the Japanese Embassy.

The visiting team is returning to Japan tomorrow after playing a series of five games in Manila. They will make their final appearance tonight against the formidable NCAA selection.

Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez and Rep. Luciano Millan of Pangasinan were among the first callers of the President today. They took up with the Chief Executive matters pertaining to the functions and management of the Agricultural Tenancy Commission.

President Garcia also received Capt. and Mrs. Pat Bohling who were honored guests during the celebration of Philippine Aviation Week.

Capt. Bohling will be remembered as the intrepid flyer who established a world's record for a non-stop solo flight from Manila to Seattle aboard a light plane.

The American couple were accompanied by Col. Urbano Caldoza, CAA administrator, and Mike Campos, president of the Philippine Airmen's Association.

Brig. Gen. Pelagio Cruz, PC chief, called on the President to submit a report on the peace and order situation in the country which he described as "very good."

Maj. Constantino C. Navarro, deputy chief of the CIS, accompanied Gen. in his call on President Garcia.

President Garcia's last callers this morning were members of the board of directors of the Philippine Homesite and Housing Corporation with whom he conferred until almost 2 p.m.

PRESIDENT Garcia approved in principle a proposal to sell certain properties of the People's Homesite and Housing Corporation during a conference in Malacañang this morning with officials of the state housing firm.

The President's approval was given subject to the condition that the board submit a sound financing plan to insure the wise investment of the proceeds of the sales.

Present at the conference which was held in the President's study room were Manuel Leelin, Enrique J. L. Ruiz, Salud Parreño, Sergio Ortiz Luis, and Pedro Fernandez, members of the PHHC board of directors.

The sale of these properties was suggested as a means of enabling the PHHC to raise funds to finance the construction of low-cost houses for people in the low-income bracket in keeping with the Administration's program of social amelioration for the masses through shelter.

The PHHC officers told the President that a ranking official, without prior consultation with the board, had assured the employees of the government corporation that they would be given Christmas bonuses.

They said the board is not disposed to give bonuses this year because of the tight financial position of the PHHC. President Garcia backed their stand and cited a Cabinet resolution prohibiting losing government corporations from giving bonuses.

The President was also informed that they had stepped up their collections by holding project managers responsible for collecting the rentals of units in their respective areas.

They were told by the President to increase their earnings so that they could pay the amortization on their loan with the GSIS and secure the balance of their unreleased loan amounting to ₱11 million for the completion of their unfinished projects.

The PHHC directors suggested to the President that a reorganization of the firm be effected in order to cut down expenses and achieve maximum efficiency. They said the corporation is saddled with too many emergency employees resulting in an overlapping of duties and functions.

Director Ruiz showed President Garcia plans for a "core" house which he said would cost from ₱2,500 to ₱3,000 to build. It contains the minimum requirements for living and is designed to allow construction of additional rooms.

Ruiz also presented plans for a house built of local materials with an estimated construction cost of from ₱300 to ₱500 only. This type, Ruiz said, is easily within the reach of majority of the people, especially those in the rural areas.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon challenged his critics to come forward with evidence and substantiate charges of influence peddling contained in the "white paper." At his regular press conference—the last for the year—the President said he could not bet on charges which are based merely on "gossips and rumors."

He underscored his present campaign to weed out grafters when he launched his drive for a general "house-cleaning," but deplored the fact that those who raised charges could not present evidence to substantiate them.

Asked if Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr., who authored the "white paper" had submitted any evidence to substantiate charges of influence peddling involving men close to Malacañang, the President said: "Amang (Rodriguez) said he based his report merely on gossips and rumors and he could not prove them."

At his press conference, the President:

1. Reiterated his new policy to give greater emphasis on the country's relations with her Asian neighbors;

2. Justified the present budgetary imbalance;
3. Predicted a sweeping victory for the Nacionalista Party candidates in the coming elections;
4. Branded as “speculative” reports of an impending reshuffle in his Cabinet;
5. Disclosed he is still studying the administrative cases of National Treasurer Vicente Gella, Undersecretary of Finance Jose P. Trinidad, and Director of Animal Industry Laureano Marquez; and
6. Indicated that Miguel Cuaderno will stay as governor of the Central Bank.

Before answering newsmen’s questions, the President said he was giving the last press conference for the year 1958, as he plans to go out of town next week.

He greeted the newsmen with a “Merry Christmas and a happy new year,” for he said he may not be able to extend the season’s wishes until after the next press conference next year.

He observed that the press has made it “hot for me during the year.” and expressed the hope that he would get a “better temperature next year.”

December 20.—THE President received members of the Presidential Fact-

Finding Committee at a breakfast conference held this morning in his private residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City.

This morning’s caucus marked the last day of existence of the Calinawan committee, as the President said he considered their work of going into the venalities in the Bureau of Customs as “finished.” He thanked them for a job “well done.”

Lt. Cmdr. Marcelino Calinawan, PFFC chairman, submitted a report of their achievements, findings, and recommendations and informed the President that each of them considered it an honor and a privilege to have been of service to the country.

He also pledged the “unstinted support and undying loyalty” of the members to the Administration and said he hoped that their efforts had contributed in some way to the realization of the Administration’s goal of a clean and honest government.

THIS NOON, President and Mrs. Garcia motored to Baesa, Quezon City, to inspect the Damara Poultry Farm on the invitation of Don Andres Soriano, owner and operator of the farm.

The farm has an area of four hectares and is equipped with the latest in gadgets for producing and raising better breeds of fowls. It is used as a research center and a pilot project of the San Miguel Brewery, Inc.

The President evinced interest in the Chicktester which determines the sex of day-old chicks and which is reportedly 99 per cent accurate. Another machine on the farm is used for differentiating fertilized eggs from sterile ones.

After going around the farm, President and Mrs. Garcia took lunch with Don Andres Soriano, executives of the San Miguel Brewery, Inc., and their wives. They motored back to their residence on Bohol Avenue after resting a while in a model barrio home built within the compound of the farm.

IN THE EVENING, the President received Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, Armed Forces chief of staff, who called to press for the approval of his retirement. Gen. Arellano also took up with the President plans for the reorganization of the AFP general staff as a result of his retirement.

Official Week in Review: December 21 – December 27, 1958

December 21.—PRESIDENT Garcia appealed today to farmers to report cases of rice-buying by NARIC and ACCFA agents from traders under the rice procurement program of the Administration.

The President said he had directed the NARIC and the ACCFA to buy direct from farmers for whose benefit the program had been launched. He expressed his desire to have this directive strictly complied with and warned that violations would be dealt with accordingly.

Pointing out that the sum made available for the rice procurement program up to March next year was P15 million, the President said he would like to see this amount spread over among as many farmers as possible and encourage them to continue increasing their production in line with his policy of achieving self-sufficiency in this staple commodity.

The Chief Executive reiterated that for the first time in history, this country had produced more than it needed owing to improved methods of planting. He said that this was a new experience for the Philippines and that he hoped the financing system of the price support program would eventually be perfected.

The President had issued the directive for the NARIC and the ACCFA to purchase direct from farmers on receiving reports that government agents often obtain their stocks from traders. The President said that in such cases it was the middlemen who profited instead of the farmers.

The Chief Executive ordered NARIC and ACCFA officials to enforce his directive strictly. He also circularized all governors and mayors to cooperate in the enforcement of the order. The ACCFA will take care of the procurement of palay in places throughout the country where there are FACOMAs organized, in conjunction with the procurement effort of the NARIC.

The President spent the day at his Bohol Avenue residence working on some state papers and sorting various reports of department secretaries on the accomplishments and needs of their respective departments.

The President needs this data in the preparation of his state-of-the-nation message which he will deliver before a joint session of Congress when it convenes next month.

The Chief Executive started the day by hearing mass. With him at the mass were Mrs. Garcia, Lt. Melchor Fronda, and members of the household.

After breakfast with Mrs. Garcia and Fr. Tugade, the President spent some time reading the Sunday morning newspapers. He also took a brief stroll in the lawn where he watched a gardener put decorations on a small Christmas tree.

The President did not receive any caller the whole day.

December 22.—PRESIDENT Garcia today advocated the formation of an anti-graft court to try cases filed against government officials and employees in connection with the performance of their official duties.

The President this morning conferred with Sen. Quintin Paredes, chairman of the Senate Committee on justice, and Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera on the practicability of setting up such a court which would specialize on graft and corruption cases.

The Chief Executive instructed Secretary Barrera to prepare the draft of a bill providing for the creation of an anti-graft court which he will recommend for enactment in the next congressional session. The court, as planned, will be under the judiciary branch of the government.

The President today also:

(1) Convoked a special meeting of his Cabinet at 4 p.m. tomorrow to resume consideration of the fiscal committee report on proposed budget slashes as well as the rice and corn price support program; and

(2) Summoned Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno, Chairman Rodolfo Maslog of the Reparations Commission and Jose Laurel III at a breakfast conference tomorrow morning to discuss the financing of the Marikina River multipurpose project and the Telecommunications expansion project.

The fiscal committee which had been formed by the Cabinet to recommend reductions in the budgets of various offices in the executive department in order to meet expected deficits in the general fund during the current fiscal year, submitted its reports and recommendations at the Cabinet meeting last week.

The Cabinet did not finish consideration of the report owing to lack of time. The President then decided to call a special meeting to resume discussions on the matter. Last week's meeting was to have been the last of the Cabinet during the year.

Secretary Moreno and Laurel III had just arrived from Tokyo, where they followed up negotiations with Japanese officials for the financing of the Marikina multi-purpose and Telecom projects. Assistance by the Japanese Government for these two projects were among those promised to President Garcia during his state visit in Japan early this month.

The President also received Gov. Manuel Barretto and Rep. Genaro Magsaysay of Zambales.

In the afternoon, the President received Sen. Oscar Ledesma, who paid a call on the Chief Executive after his return from official missions abroad.

Last caller of the President today was Rep. Bartolome Cabangbang of Bohol. No details were released by Malacañang on the Garcia-Cabangbang conference.

December 23.—THIS morning the President received the verbal report of a three-man group which stayed in Japan after his State visit to negotiate with a Japanese panel the terms and conditions of the loan for the construction of the Marikina multipurpose project and the nationwide telecommunication network.

The conference, held at the Quezon City residence of President Garcia, started about 8 a.m. and lasted until about noon. Present were Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno, Reparations Commission Chairman Rodolfo Maslog, and Jose Laurel III. Also at the conference were Public Works Director Julian Buendia and Jose Alfonso of Telecommunications.

The President instructed the group to prepare a formal report to be presented to the Council of State at its next meeting.

The President discussed with the group the terms of agreement of the deferred payment formula, including the rate of interest of not more than the rate charged by the World Bank, which does not exceed 5.75 per cent per annum.

Regarding the modus operandi, Moreno, as head of the Marikina Committee, shall determine the goods and services required, and the Reparations Commission, through Maslog and Lanuza, shall take charge of the procurement in accordance with the Reparations Act. Evaluation of bids received shall be made by the Moreno committee, in behalf of the end-user agencies, before final terms and conditions of procurement are to be agreed upon by the Reparations Mission in Japan, and the Japanese suppliers or contractors. The loan agreement on the yen value of the procurement under the deferred repayment formula shall be signed by both Moreno and Maslog on behalf of their respective agencies.

The telecommunications project will provide extensive and modern telephone, telegraph, and radio facilities to the people of the Philippines as well as enhance the overall economic and industrial development of the country.

The expanded telecommunications system envisions the extension of technical aid by the Bureau of Telecommunications to all bona fide telephone franchise holders, especially the small Filipino privately owned telephone systems, in order to improve and expand their services in towns and provinces and to interconnect them with each other through the government's interprovincial transmission facilities.

The President also conferred with American Ambassador Charles Bohlen; Paul Summers, local ICA head; and Benjamin Baker Fogler, management consultant detailed with ACCFA who suggested the enactment of a law to improve the effectiveness of the work of the ACCFA in extending financial aid to small farmers.

President Garcia informed the American officials that he will consider the suggestion.

The President also received Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas and Rep. Pedro Venida of Camarines Norte.

Shortly before noon, the President and Mrs. Garcia motored to the residence of Don Ramon Fernandez to express personally their condolence for the death of Mrs. Fernandez.

President Garcia today proclaimed Wednesday, December 31, a special public holiday "in order to enable the people to enjoy an uninterrupted New Year's holiday, without prejudicing public interests."

Rizal Day, December 30, falls on Tuesday, while New Year, January 1, 1959, falls on Thursday, the days immediately preceding and following the proclaimed special public holiday.

The President also signed today Proclamation No. 551, extending further the period for the fund-raising campaign of the Boy Scouts of the Philippines for the Tenth World Jamboree up to June 30 next year.

In extending the period which expires on December 31 this year, the Chief Executive pointed out that the fund raising organization of the Boy Scouts of the Philippines needed additional time to raise sufficient funds for the successful holding of the jamboree.

The fund-raising campaign was originally set for July 1 to August 15 and was later extended up to December 31 this year by the President.

Meanwhile, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo this morning received Boy Scouts officials at his office, who called to thresh out details for the holding of the Tenth Boy Scouts World Jamboree.

The BSP officials also presented to the executive secretary, who is a member of the National Executive Board of the BSP and chairman of the finance committee of the Tenth Boy Scouts World Jamboree, the "National Council Flag" of the Boy Scouts of the Philippines.

The Tenth Boy Scouts World Jamboree will be held at the Makiling National Park, Los Bafios, Laguna, from July 17 to 26, 1959. Some 12,000 boy scouts representing 70 countries from all over the world are expected to attend the jamboree.

Those who called on Secretary Pajo were Antonio C. Delgado, executive vice-chairman, Tenth World Jamboree; Francisco "Koko" Trinidad, member, program committee; Jose A. Panlilio, national scout director, BSP; and Gregorio I. Estonanto, PRO-PRESIDENT Garcia awarded the Philippine Legion of Honor, degree of Commander, to Gen. Thomas D. White, chief of staff of the United States Air Force, in a ceremony held this afternoon in the ceremonial hall of Malacañang.

The award was given to Gen. White for “eminently meritorious and distinguished services rendered to the Republic of the Philippines while serving as deputy commander of the 13th US Air Force in the South Pacific theater of Operations.”

The visiting chief of the US air force was accorded full military honors upon his arrival at Malacañang by an honor guard composed of elements from the Presidential Guards Battalion.

After acknowledging the honors, Gen. White went up the Palace accompanied by US Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen; Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Moorman, Jr., 13th Air Force commanding general; Lt. Gen. Manuel F. Cabal, vice-chief of staff, AFP; Brig. Gen. Pedro Q. Molina, PAF chief; and Lt. Col. Emilio O. Borromeo, senior presidential aide.

President Garcia received Gen. White, Ambassador Bohlen, and Gen. Moorman in the music room and together they proceeded to the ceremonial hall where the presentation of the award was made.

Among those who witnessed the ceremonies were National Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas; Lt. Col. L. S. Nickodem, air attache of the US Embassy; T. I. Ahern, aide to Gen. White; Capt. J. O. O’Neal, assistant air attache of the US Embassy; and Mrs. T. D. White, Mrs. L. S. Nickodem, Mrs. T. J. Moorman, Jr., and Mrs. T. O. O’Neal.

In the evening, the President presided over the last meeting of the Cabinet for the year.

President Garcia called a special meeting of the Cabinet to take up the budgetary deficit brought about by the unexpected reduction in the revenue collections this year.

The President and the First Lady also attended the Christmas party of Malacañang employees held at social hall of the Palace this evening after the Cabinet meeting.

Troubled by a deficit of $16 million this fiscal year, the Cabinet at its four-hour meeting, last of the year, adopted at its meeting today. 11 alternative measures to wipe out the deficit.

With these measures, the Garcia administration expects to prevent layoffs next year and to continue with all the services as provided for in the original appropriations act.

During the year-end meeting, the Cabinet also:

1. Approved in principle the application of Batjak, Inc., an industrial firm with 80 per cent Filipino capitalization, to barter Philippine copra with five German oil mills to be set up in five different places in the Philippines. A condition calls for the shipment of 150,000 tons of copra a month, for 10 months, to cover the cost of the mills. The mills offered will be verified by the Philippine mission in Bonn, West Germany, and the shipment of copra will be subject to certain speculations set up by the government.

The incorporators of Batjak, Inc., are Tereso Dumon of Cebu, Cesar Seballos, James Keister, Alejandro Beltran, and Renato Bejar. Twenty per cent of the capital stocks are owned by Americans.

2. Mapped out the details of the support program for rice and com producers. President Garcia warned NARIC and ACCFA officials to keep their agents buying the cereals, at the price support schedule, directly from farmers and producers.

3. Passed a resolution expressing their best wishes for a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to President and Mrs. Garcia, and their thanks for the privilege of serving the Administration.

In addition to the restoration of the Department of Education appropriation, the fiscal committee of the Cabinet, headed by Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, also restored the originally proposed slash of P183,000 from the labor department budget.

The defense budget slash was thinned out from P30 million to only P7 million.

The cuts were urged in order to stave off the expected deficit of P73,896,560 this fiscal year ending June 30, 1959. Because of some protest and consternation from officials as well as private sectors, much of the original slashes amounting to P73 million, or the equivalent of the expected deficit, had been restored in the course of the protected series of studies by the Cabinet's fiscal committee.

As of this day, there was still a deficit of about P16 million.

The 11-point recommendation of the fiscal committee (composed of Hernandez, Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, and Auditor Pedro Gimenez), containing alternative measures to provide funds, was approved by the President and the Cabinet.

President Garcia last evening told the Malacañang employees that Christmas is an occasion not only for mercy-making but also a day of thanksgiving and prayer to the Good Lord that the many things He has bestowed upon the people shall continue to the end of the ensuing year, 1959.

The President said the people have a lot to be thankful for. He said the country has attained self-sufficiency in food, and will soon be self-sufficient in clothing. He pointed out that the nations' yearly importation of textiles had dropped from P300 million to about P100 million.

The President also told the Malacañang employees that the Philippines has the third largest iron deposit in the world, and that, once tapped and exploited, these deposits in Surigao, as well as the others in Sibuguey and Camarines, would be exporting finished iron products' instead of importing construction materials which this country can very well produce.

The President and the First Lady took their time out of a tight official schedule to enjoy a few moments of relaxation with their official family at the traditional annual Christmas party for some 1,000 Malacañang employees, held at the Malacañang social hall from 3 to 9:30 p.m.

The six-hour long Christmas program was full of suspense and excitement, not only because of the raffle which gave away 120 prizes to lucky ticket holders, but also because of participation of the Presidential Guard Battalion which contributed good and entertaining members.

The President and the First Lady awarded surprise gift packages. The First Lady's gift package went to Mariano while the Presidential prize went to Javier Aquino.

But the greatest and most welcome gift from the President was his message to the temporary employees that all those who had received notice of termination of service on December 31 will not be laid off.

The message was brought to the employees by Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, who took advantage of a brief recess in the Cabinet meeting to go downstairs and join his employees, not only to wish them a very merry Christmas but, more important, to bring the President's message.

The President and his lady also delighted the employees with the kuracha, their favorite dance, which they dance together only on very special occasions.

December 24.—THIS morning, the President went over the pardon papers of several prisoners and signed the conditional release of 50 inmates of the insular penitentiary.

The President likewise wrote his Christmas message to the nation key-noted on a nation-wide prayer for “World peace and universal brotherhood.”

“I wish to give thanks to Our Lord,” the President wrote, “for having guided us through the year.”

The President likewise conferred with Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo on pending state papers.

President Garcia this morning laid down the basis for the creation of a graft court free from pressure and independent from the executive and legislative branches of the government.

In a conference with House Majority Floor Leader Jose Aldeguer and Rep. Pedro Trono of Iloilo at Malacañang this morning, the President said the projected graft court will be the answer to the opposition’s charges of graft and corruption.

To assure the court’s independence, the President said, he will press for appointments of members of the judiciary and pattern the body after those in the appellate courts where the justices have definite tenure of offices, thereby eliminating all possibilities of political pressure.

The President said that if the opposition has complaints against any government official, including the Chief Executive, they will have an independent body to turn to. He said he does not intend to cover up for anyone no matter who he may be.

Stating that he wants a body that cannot be interfered with by anybody, the President added that the projected court, being in the judicial branch of the government, will foil any attempt at “whitewash”.

The President today authorized the release of a total of P150,000 for the establishment of three breeding stations by the Bureau of Animal Industry.

The amount of P150,000 was made in three separate releases as follows: P50,000, authorized under Republic Act No. 1995, for a breeding station in Gamu, Isabela; P50,000, authorized under Republic Act No. 1981 for another breeding station in Himamaylan, Negros Occidental; and P50,000 authorized under Republic Act No. 1960 for a third breeding station in Bobon, Samar.

These breeding stations will serve as demonstration centers for practical and scientific livestock and poultry production in these regions.

The President this day accepted the retirement of Lieut. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, chief of staff of the Armed Forces of the Philippines, effective December 31, 1958.

At the same time, President Garcia extended an ad interim appointment to Maj. Gen. Manuel F. Cabal as AFP chief of staff and promoted him to the rank of lieutenant-general.

To take the place vacated by the newly-appointed AFP head, President Garcia appointed Brig. Gen. Pelagio A. Cruz, who was also promoted to the rank of major-general.

Brig. Gen. Isagani Campo, commanding general of the 2nd military area, was appointed chief of the Philippine Constabulary.

The appointments of Cruz and Campo are both ad interim in nature.

President Garcia today appointed Capt. Francisco H. Calinawan, presidential performance officer and concurrently vice-chairman of the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency (PCAPE), as assistant general manager of the Manila Railroad Company effective January 1.

Calinawan's appointment was favorably endorsed to the President by the board of directors of the MRR in their resolution dated December 11, 1958, and is in line with the Administration's policy of rewarding public servants for meritorious services rendered to the government.

As presidential performance officer and vice-chairman of the PCAPE, Calinawan was awarded the Presidential Gold Medal for Leadership "in recognition of his distinguished and admirable record in the field of leadership and public administration."

The new railroad executive, who holds the rank of captain in the Corps of Engineers, AFP, has tendered his resignation from the Armed Forces to accept his new position. He lacks one more year to qualify him for optional retirement.

PRESIDENT Garcia this evening spent his second Christmas eve in Malacañang and his first in his new private residence in Bohol Avenue, Quezon City.

Earlier, the President and the First Lady entertained their close friends and relatives at a Christmas Eve dinner at their private residence in Quezon City.

A spokesman said the presidential family had a simple Christmas Eve affair.

From Bohol Avenue, the President and the First Lady motored to Malacañang chapel at 11:30 this evening for the midnight mass.

December 25.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia spent their second Christmas Day in Malacañang quietly.

They observed Christmas Eve with the traditional midnight mass at Malacañang and stayed at the Palace to receive new visitors, close relatives, and intimate friends.

Although they stayed up very late on Christmas eve, the President and the First Lady woke up early this morning to be able to greet their daughter, Linda, and their son-in-law, Fernando Campos, who are in the United States.

At 9 o'clock, the President placed an overseas phone call to his daughter and son-in-law, whom they located in New York City. The Camposes have decided to spend Christmas and New Year in New York City.

The President and Mrs. Garcia alternated at the phone in exchanging greetings with their only daughter and son-in-law. The phone call lasted for ten minutes.

After a late breakfast, the President received Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, whose retirement as chief of staff of the Armed Forces was accepted by President Garcia effective December 31, of this year.

The retiring chief of staff called on the President to express his gratitude for the approval of his retirement. Gen. Arellano had thrice applied for retirement although his tour of duty will expire next year.

Earlier this morning, Maj. Gen. Manuel F. Cabal, vice-chief of staff and incoming chief of staff of the AFP, joined the President and Mrs. Garcia at a midnight mass at the Malacañang chapel. Cabal is scheduled to be promoted in rank. He will get his third star upon his assumption of office as chief of staff of the Armed Forces.

December 26.—PRESIDENT Garcia and his party arrived in Baguio this afternoon after an almost five-hour uneventful trip from Manila.

Traveling at moderate speed, the party stopped twice on the way, first at Tarlac town for a five-minute break, and at Sison, Pangasinan, for refueling.

President Garcia was met at Sison by officials of the Baguio City police department, headed by Maj. Federico M. Mandapat, acting police chief, Lt. Vicente Crisologo, and Lt. Eusebio Bembo, who escorted the party up to Baguio.

The President had his lunch at 1:30 p.m. after a ten-minute rest, after which he gave a short press conference.

Later in the afternoon, after a brief rest, the President closetted himself in the Guest House and went over the reports submitted by the various department secretaries containing data which he may be able to use in his state-of-the-nation address before Congress when it convenes next month.

He did not receive any callers.

The President sent today the following message to Manila Mayor Arsenio H. Lacson on the occasion of the latter's birthday anniversary:

MRS. GARCIA JOINS ME IN WISHING YOU MANY HAPPY RETURNS OF THE DAY. KINDEST REGARDS.

PRESIDENT GARCIA

PRESIDENT Garcia today directed the National Rice and Corn Corporation and the Agricultural Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration to buy rice direct from farmers, and not from middlemen.

The directive of the President was made known to provincial governors and city mayors in a circular sent to them by Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo. Secretary Pajo enjoined all local officials to extend their cooperation to the NARIC and the ACCFA in the enforcement of the directive. He also requested the provincial governors and city mayors to transmit the contents of the circular to all local officials.

The President, at the same time, appealed to farmers to report cases of rice-buying by government agents from middlemen so that the guilty parties can be dealt with accordingly.

The President issued the directive upon receiving reports that NARIC and ACCFA agents often obtain their stocks from traders who buy the palay from the farmers at a much lower price. The President pointed out that the government program sought to benefit the farmers and not the middlemen.

The President pointed out that he had made available for the rice procurement program up to March next year the sum of P15 million and would like to see this amount spread as widely as possible to encourage the farmers to increase their production in line with the self-sufficiency program in rice.

The President pointed out that for the first time in its entire history, the Philippines will be producing more than it needs as a result of improved methods of planting. He said this is a novel experience for the country, and expressed hope that the price support program would eventually be perfected.

The President urged all provincial governors and city mayors as well as local officials, to extend their full cooperation to the NARIC and the ACCFA in the enforcement of his directive.

President's Week in Review: December 28- January 3, 1959

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

December 28.— PRESIDENT Garcia, in an extemporaneous speech in Laoag, Ilocos Norte, this morning gave the green light to Ilocano farmers to plant and produce more tobacco when he said the possibility of opening markets abroad for surplus Virginia tobacco is now under study.

The President flew from Baguio to Laoag where he attended the inauguration of the new provincial capitol and the Second Regional (Northern Luzon) Conference on Tourism.

The President was introduced by Rep. Ferdinand Marcos, House minority floor leader and executive vice-president of the Liberal Party. Marcos called on the people to unite and work in harmony for the common good regardless of differences in politics.

As minority floor leader of the House, Marcos said he had vigorously opposed proposed legislation which he feels would not be of benefit to the people. However, he added, when a bill is presented to Congress and he believes that it would redound to the benefit of the people, he fought for its passage regardless of whether it was sponsored by a Liberal or a Nacionalista.

Rep. Antonio Raquiza of the first district of Ilocos Norte, also a Liberal, praised the President for his concern for the welfare of the Ilocanos, particularly the tobacco farmers, which was proven when he rejected the proposed importation of 2,000,000 kilos of tobacco. He also credited the President for bringing prosperity and progress to the Ilocos region.

President Garcia heard mass at the guest house early this morning. December 30.—THIS morning, the President warned student leaders attending the CONDA meet in Baguio against dangers of communism which first destroys the spiritual moorings of the people and then effects mastery over individual through fear, intimidation, and deceit.

He cited the experience of Japan with Red China as an example and said the Japanese have now learned the lesson and refuse to deal further with the mainland of China.

The Philippines, the President said, is determined not to have any diplomatic or trade relations with the communist countries.

Other morning callers were Juan J. Carlos, chairman of the MRR board of directors, and Capt. Hilarion Benedicto.

After a late lunch the President gave a press conference and then retired to his room for a brief rest.

The Chief Executive studied pardon papers of prisoners recommended for pardon and release on New Year, January 1, until late in the evening.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon doused anew a congressional move to devalue the Philippine peso to strengthen the local currency in line with the monetary reforms instituted recently in Europe.

Reacting strongly to news reports that a group of lawmakers is sponsoring a resolution urging the peso devaluation, President Garcia said: "They will not get my consent."

The Chief Executive recalled that Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, in reporting on his observations in Europe, had disclosed that the currency devaluation has not helped solve financial and monetary problems in France and Great Britain.

The devaluation move was led by fiscal and economic experts of both chambers of Commerce who advocated the readjustment of the country's monetary policies in the face of the devaluation of the French franc and the partial convertibility of the English pound.

However, the President lauded the present monetary reforms in Europe as paving the way for the proposed adoption of the multiple currency reserve system.

In a brief press interview after lunch at the Guest House, President Garcia:

1. Directed the National Rice and Corn Corporation to look into the report of Sen. M. Jesus Cuenco that the price of corn had skyrocketed in view of a barter permit granted to Cebu businessmen. The President denied having received Cuenco's wire but he indicated that he will look into that report further.

2. Disclaimed knowledge of a report from Sen. Lorenzo Sumulong on the waning prestige of the Philippine delegation in the United Nations, saying he had not received reports from Solon returning from the world body sessions.

When asked by newsmen on the Solon's move to force him to devalue the peso, the President perked up and said, "They will not get my consent."

President Garcia had taken a strong stand against devaluation despite a clamor from bankers and economists to depreciate the value of the peso.

Asked to comment on news reports regarding Cuenco's protest against the corn baiter, the President replied that he had not received the telegram. But he said he will direct the NARIC to look into the price situation of corn in Cebu.

Sen. Cuenco said the price of corn in Cebu City has gone up from ₱5.50 a cavan to ₱7.50.

The President stated that the ideal price of corn would be ₱6.80 a cavan, adding that ₱7.50 is exorbitant for the cereal.

December 31.—PRESIDENT Garcia, looking hale and refreshed, returned to Manila at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The President was accompanied by the First Lady, who joined him in the Pines City last Sunday.

The President motored to Baguio last Friday and addressed the P.E.N. conference the following morning.

Upon arrival in Manila, the President proceeded to his private residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City.

At 5 o'clock, the President motored to Malacañang where he inducted the newly-promoted generals of the Armed Forces of the Philippines.

The President swore in Maj. Gen. Manuel F. Cabal as lieutenant general. Cabal will take over as chief of staff, vice Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, who retired.

President Garcia likewise added another star to Brig. Gen. Pelagio Cruz, who is the new AFP vice-chief of staff. The other general inducted was Brig. Gen. Dionisio Ojeda, who will take over the second PC Zone command, vice Brig. Gen. Isagani V. Campo, new chief of the Constabulary.

The President granted the traditional New Year's Day pardon to eight prisoners upon the recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Parole, Malacañang announced today.

The President also granted conditional pardon to 39 other prisoners, and commuted the sentence of eight convicts.

January 1.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia were "at home" today to government officials, the diplomatic corps, members of different organizations, and other well-wishers who called at Malacañang the whole day to greet the First Couple of the land and wish them "A happy and prosperous New Year."

Early this morning, the President, the First Lady, relatives, and close friends heard mass said by Mons. Rufino Santos, Archbishop of Manila, in the Malacañang chapel. After the mass, breakfast was served in the family dining room.

Earliest well-wishers at the Palace this morning were Don Manolo Elizalde and Capt. Hilarion Benedicto, who were received in the anteroom of the President's bedroom.

At exactly 10 o'clock, President and Mrs. Garcia went out to the reception hall to receive their scheduled callers.

First to go up the Palace stairs to greet the President and the First Lady were Vice-President and Mrs. Diosdado Macapagal and their children.

Mons. Egidio Vagnozzi, Papal nuncio, led the diplomatic corps in extending their best wishes to President and Mrs. Garcia.

The most picturesque among this morning's well-wishers were the wives of staff members of the Japanese and Indonesian embassies who came in their colorful native costumes.

After receiving the diplomatic corps, the President and the First Lady went to the state dining room for the traditional exchange of toasts.

Mons. Vagnozzi, dean of the local diplomatic corps, expressed the gratitude of the members for President Garcia's efforts to make their stay more pleasant.

He also wished the health and success of the President and the Filipino people in the coming year.

In his response the Chief Executive thanked the members of the diplomatic corps for their cooperation, conveyed his greetings to their government and people, and wished the continued health and happiness of the heads of state represented in the corps.

After the ceremony, President and Mrs. Garcia returned to the reception hall and continued receiving well-wishers until 12 noon.

About 12:30 p.m., President Garcia phoned his greetings to Mrs. Trinidad Roxas, widow of the late President Roxas, who was giving a luncheon at the old Selecta Restaurant to about 200 persons who remembered the 67th birth anniversary of Roxas.

After a late lunch, the First Couple rested. At 4 p.m. they went to the ceremonial hall to receive the general public until 5 o'clock. After receiving all the well-wishers, President and Mrs. Garcia rested until suppertime.

January 2.—PRESIDENT Garcia approved the purchase of 12 ocean-going vessels from Japan by the National Development Company after consultations with his economic advisers and top officials of the NDC in Malacañang today.

The purchase of these ships is in line with the Administration's aim to build up the country's maritime fleet in order to conserve our dollar resources and encourage the expansion of our foreign trade.

A further study of minor details of the contract will be made during the regular Cabinet meeting on Wednesday.

Under the terms of the contract, Japanese shipbuilders will build 12 ships of 11,500 tons each and with a speed of 18 knots an hour. The vessels will cost $293 per dead weight ton to build or a total of $3,600,000 each.

Payment for the vessels will be made on a seven-year installment plan and delivery will be made one year after the signing of the contract.

Present at the closed-door conference were Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez; Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera; Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo; Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona; CB Deputy Governor Andres Castillo; Jose S. Rodriguez, chairman of the NDC board of directors; Jose H. Panganiban, NDC general manager; Simeon Gopengco, NDC auditor; and Jose R. Platon, technical assistant to the board.

Today being the first Friday of the year, President and Mrs. Garcia received Holy Communion during an early morning, mass in the Malacañang chapel.

After the mass President Garcia had a breakfast conference with Secretary Pajo on pending matters. His subsequent meeting with economic advisers and NDC officials lasted from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

PRESIDENT Garcia disclosed this afternoon he was considering Sen. Alejo Mabanag and Dean Feliciano Jover Ledesma of the San Beda College of Law for appointment to the Cabinet.

He made this disclosure at his first press conference of the new year during which he deplored "defeatism and negative thinking" and appealed to the press to help him fight this gloomy outlook.

A Malacañang spokesman explained that the “defeatism and negative thinking” mentioned by the President referred to the pessimism in some quarters over the Administration’s efforts to salvage the country from its economic and financial difficulties.

At his press conference, President Garcia also:

1. Said he will confer with US Ambassador Charles Bohlen today on the Laurel-Langley agreement;
2. Defended his plan to organize by legislation an anti-graft tribunal;
3. Minimized the political effect of the defection of former Secretary of Labor Eleuterio Adevosio from the Progressive Party to the Liberal party; and
4. Called the flight of Cuban President Fulgencio Batista from Havana to the Dominican Republic as the “inevitable end of all dictators.”

The President opened his press conference by greeting newspapermen.

He expressed the hope that the press will cooperate with the Administration by reporting the achievements that will be achieved in his second year in Malacañang.

“I hope you will help the Administration,” he said, “in fighting the defeatism and negative thinking in the country.”

The President said he expects more optimism and would try to cope up with the problem that will confront his administration.

At the same time, the President said he was scheduled to confer with Bohlen today to take up the controversial points in the implementation of the Laurel-Langley Agreement.

Bohlen visited the President early this week in Baguio and sought clarification on some controversial points in the implementation of the agreement.

The President also admitted plans of reorganizing his Cabinet.

He made the admission when asked by a newsman as to whether or not he is considering Sen. Mabanag for the position of secretary of justice.

He likewise admitted that Dean Ledesma is among those mentioned for the position of secretary of education vice Manuel Lim, who resigned from the Cabinet effective sometime this month.

In confirming reports that he is considering Mabanag for secretary of justice, the President admitted that he had conferred with the senator in Baguio early this week. Secretary Jesus Barrera, Malacañang sources said, is groomed for appointment to the Supreme Court to fill up the vacancy left by Justice Alfonso Felix, who retired last year.

The President told newsmen he had finished studying the reports of Secretary Barrera on the administrative cases of Under-secretary of Finance Jose P. Trinidad and Director Laureano G. Marquez of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

He said he has made up his mind on these cases and will start writing his decision shortly.

President Garcia minimized the “political importance” of Adevosio’s decision to join the Liberal Party.

President Garcia recalled that Adevosos lost in his own town, Paranaque, Rizal, in the last senatorial elections. Adevosos was then one of the senatorial candidates of the Progressive Party in the Philippines.

The President defended anew his plan to create by legislation an anti-graft court.

He said that the tribunal will be under the Department of Justice and will have judicial functions.

Asked if he could not just fire erring government officials, the President said he has to do his "house-cleaning" work in accordance with the "due process clause" of the Constitution.

He pointed out that a judicial investigation of graft cases will preclude charges the Administration would "whitewash" the complaints against government officials.

The President also said he is studying recommending anew to Congress the adoption of price control measures in view of the upsurge of prices of prime commodities.

It was hinted that the upward trend in the prices of essential goods was spurred by the application of the new high tariff rates since January 1 in the implementation of the Laurel-Langley agreement.

January 3.— THIS MORNING, the President had breakfast with close friends who came to greet him a belated "Happy New Year."

Present at the breakfast held at the President's private residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, were Alfonso Calalang, president of the Bankers Association of the Philippines; Alfredo Montelibano, president of the Chamber of Agriculture and Natural Resources; Virginia Yaptinchay, head of the import division of the Central Bank; Juan C. The Chief Executive received the award temporarily pending legislative concurrence for him to accept formally the decoration.

President Garcia said he considered the Prime Minister's visit to the Philippines and the honor bestowed on him as "unmistakable signs of the desire of our peoples to build permanent and lasting bases for friendship, understanding, and cooperation between our two countries."

Prime Minister Rahman presented the award on behalf of His Majesty, the Paramount Ruler of the Federation of Malaya, "in recognition of President Garcia's championing the struggle for freedom during both war and peace and for his efforts towards the extension of international goodwill and cooperation."

Riding in an apple-green 1958 Cadillac convertible bearing plate number "1" and preceded by an escort of motorcycle cops, the Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary Felixberto Serrano entered the gates of Malacca at 12: 55 p.m., one hour after his arrival at the Manila International Airport.

An honor guard from the Presidential Guard Battalion rendered full military honors to the visiting dignitary.

After receiving and acknowledging the honors, Prime Minister Rahman and his wife, Puan Sharifah Rosiah, met and shook hands with President and Mrs. Garcia, who met the visitors in the lobby of the Palace front door.

In the ceremonial hall, the Prime Minister and his entourage met members of the Cabinet and their ladies.

During the investiture ceremony, Prime Minister Rahman read a letter addressed to President Garcia from His Majesty, the Paramount Ruler of the Federation of Malaya. After the ceremony, President and Mrs. Garcia and Prime Minister and Mrs. Rahman proceeded to the state dining room where they had their lunch in private.

IN the evening, the visiting dignitary and his lady were formally honored with a state dinner given by the President and the First Lady at the social hall of Malacañang.

The formal dinner was followed by the presentation of the decoration, “Raja of the Order Sikatuna,” on Prime Minister Rahman by the President.

President's Week in Review: January 4-10, 1959

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

January 4.—PRESIDENT Garcia spent the day quietly at his Bohol avenue residence in Quezon City going over annual reports submitted by members of his Cabinet, from which he expects to get data for his yearly state-of-the-nation message to be delivered before a joint session of Congress on January 26.

The President woke up early this morning at Malacañang following the state dinner he gave last night in honor of visiting Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman Putra of the Federation of Malaya.

The President and the First Lady heard mass at the Malacañang chapel. Also at the mass was Brig. Gen. Isagani V. Campo, new PC chief, with whom the President conferred briefly before breakfast.

About 9:30 a.m., the President boarded his car and motored to his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City. He was accompanied by Lit. Melchor Fronda, naval aide.

The Chief Executive spent most of the day closeted at his private study in his residence going over a pile of papers. He did not receive any caller.

PRESIDENT Garcia, through Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, upheld the City Mayor of Manila in two separate decisions, one dismissing from service an employee for grave insubordination, and another transferring a health officer from one division to another without change in salary.

In the first case, Mayor Lacson had found Vito Navales, time-keeper, department of engineering and public works of the City of Manila, guilty of insubordination and dismissed him from service for cause. Navales then appealed the order claiming it to be too severe and not commensurate with his crime.

In the other decision, Mayor Lacson had transferred Nazario A. Cantor, assistant administrative officer, from the administrative division to the division of veterinary service of the city health department. Cantor resented the Mayor's action and appealed it, claiming the order to be illegal and equivalent to removal from office without cause.

The President, however, said he saw no abuse on the part of the Mayor, adding that the Mayor's order in effect merely transferred him (Cantor) from one division to another, in the same department and without any change in salary.

The President said this power is expressly provided by sec. 11 (e) of Republic Act No. 409.

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY Juan C. Pajo sustained the decision of the commissioner of civil service holding that the mayor of Cebu City does not have the power to appoint officials and employees of the Osmeña Waterworks System.

On September 26, 1956, then Mayor Sergio Osmeña, Jr., relying merely on the opinion of the city fiscal that he had the sole power to appoint employees of the Osmeña Waterworks System and on the declaration by the Cebu court of first instance that Republic Act No. 1383, creating the NAWASA, was unconstitutional, extended the appointments of all but four employees of the said water system.

The services of the four employees, the superintendent, the general foreman, and two other permanent employees, all with a clean record of long service with the company, were considered terminated, their appointments not having been extended along with the rest by the City Mayor.

On December 20, 1956, the civil service commissioner issued a decision invalidating the appointments extended by Mayor Osmeña in the Osmeña Waterworks System on the ground that such power to appoint was not vested in the city executive but in the secretary of public works and communications, or the NAWASA.

Mayor Osmeña, in appealing the civil service ruling, contended that his power to appoint the men was provided for by Sec. 21 of the Charter of Cebu City, which states that “subject to the provisions of the Civil Service Law, the Mayor shall appoint all other officers and employees of the city whose appointments are not otherwise provided for by law.”

Secretary Pajo in upholding the ruling of the commissioner of civil service, said that Republic Act No. 1383 vested the ownership and control of the Osmeña Waterworks System in the National Waterworks and Sewerage Authority, of which it has become part. Thus, Secretary Pajo said, the personnel of the Osmeña Waterworks System ceased to be city personnel and became personnel of the NAWASA.

The Executive Secretary concluded that any vacancy in the said waterworks system is a vacancy that shall be filled by the Secretary of Public Works and Communications upon recommendation of the NAWASA, in accordance with Sec. 79 (d) of the Revised Administrative Code.

January 5.—PRESIDENT Garcia received today members of the Philippine delegation who are leaving tomorrow to attend the conference of the Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East which will start Thursday and wind up on January 19.

The President gave last-minute instructions to the Philippine delegation and urged them to find ways and means to improve trade relations of the Philippines with member countries of the ECAFE.

Members of the PI delegation leaving tomorrow are Undersecretary of Commerce Perfecto Laguio, chairman; Fernando E. V. Sison, vice-chairman; and A. B. Isip, Anastacio Bartolome, Gaudencio Antonino, E. V. Mendoza, Mrs. Inocencia Mendoza, and Roberto Garcia, members.

The President told the delegation to explore at the same time markets for Philippine products. He said that the members, while espousing the Philippine views on economics, should likewise plot ways to find markets for PI products.

The President also received Rep. Antonio Raquiza, who discussed with the Chief Executive plans to export surplus Virginia leaf tobacco.

Raquiza had recently lauded the President for his rejection of a proposal to import additional Virginia leaf tobacco to fill up an alleged shortage in the local tobacco stocks.

The President also conferred with Commodore Jose Francisco, commander of the Philippine Navy. President Garcia gave final instructions to the Navy commander prior to his departure for Australia.

In the afternoon, the President worked on pending state papers.

MALACANANG released today the names of 70 additional prisoners granted executive clemency by President Garcia on New Year's Day.

This brings to 125 the total number of prisoners pardoned by the President with the advent, of 1959. The names of 55 pardoned prisoners were announced by Malacañang last January 1.

January 6.—PRESIDENT Garcia conferred today with Congressional leaders and top fiscal advisers at his Quezon City residence for three hours and made a general review of the economic problems facing the country with the view to formulating remedial measures to be recommended for enactment in the forthcoming regular session of Congress.

The Chief Executive said after the conference that no conclusions have as yet been made but added that he has scheduled two or three more conferences with the same group, after which he expects that concrete decisions would be arrived at.

In this connection, the President said that the group will meet next Friday to speed up the work.

The conference started at about 9 a.m., after breakfast and broke up at 1:30 p.m. Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez did not attend the conference, as he was in Leyte.

Congressional leaders present were Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr., Senate President Protempore Fernando Lopez, Speaker Protempore Constancio Castañeda, Senate Majority Floor Leader Cipriano Primicias, Sr., House Majority Floor Leader Jose Aldeguer, Senate Finance Committee Chairman Gil J. The President approved today five scholarship grants in the University of the Philippines for students from the Republic of Malaya.

Press Secretary Jose C. Nable said the five fields of education to be offered by the State University are public administration, economics, Asian studies, statistics, and labor education.

The decision of President Garcia was transmitted to Vicente G. Sinco, president of the University of the Philippines, for implementation. An appropriation of about ₱3,500.00 per student will be earmarked for this purpose. This amount will provide for tuition expenses, books, and board and lodging during one academic year.

In approving the scholarship grants, President Garcia said that the courses offered by the University in these particular fields are on a level comparable to the programs of some of the best universities abroad.

The President's action on the scholarship grant may be interpreted as a positive step in furthering the pronouncements made in the Joint Communique which was issued simultaneously earlier today.

January 7.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia had breakfast with Malayan Prime Minister and Mrs. Tunku Abdul Rahman, Foreign Affairs Secretary and Mrs. Felixberto Serrano, and members of the official entourage of the visiting dignitary.

After breakfast, President and Mrs. Garcia exchanged gifts with Prime Minister Rahman and his wife, Puan Sharifah Roziah. After a few pleasantries, President and Mrs. Garcia accompanied the distinguished visitors to the Malacañang stairs to say goodbye and wish them a safe journey home.

The Malayan Prime Minister and members of his entourage left Malacañang at 8:45 a.m. and motored to the Manila International Airport. They departed at 9:30 a.m. on board a chartered Malayan Airways plane after a five-day state visit.

After the departure of the visitors, President Garcia had a closed door conference with Col. Nicanor Jimenez, NICA chief, and then received U. S. Ambassador Charles Bohlen at the Malacañang music room.

The President conferred with Ambassador Bohlen on the implementation of a special import tax on American goods.

The President informed the U. S. Ambassador that one of the measures aimed at stabilizing the Philippine peso calls for a 17 per cent special import tax.

Press Secretary Jose C. Nable said that the Philippine view would be transmitted to Washington by Ambassador Bohlen. Another meeting between the President and the Ambassador will be held immediately after word is received from Washington, Nable said.

The conference which lasted for 20 minutes was held in a cordial atmosphere.

NARRA general manager Mrs. Remedios Fortich, and Directors Valeriano Plantilla and Rafael Hilao saw President Garcia to ask for the early release of funds for the government agency

Other callers this morning were Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, Rep. Manuel Zosa of Cebu, Reparations Commissioner Juan Alberto, and SSS Director Danny Gaviola.

PRESIDENT Garcia this evening told the members of his Cabinet he would seek public participation in the formation of a private corporation to operate the 12 ocean-going vessels which the National Development Company intends to buy from Japan.

President Garcia made the announcement after the Cabinet had ratified the NDC plan to acquire 12 ocean-going vessels from Japan.

He told the Cabinet he would like the public to share in the formation of a private corporation to operate these vessels, as the government would not want to enter into business as long as private capital is willing to handle the business.

At the Cabinet meeting this afternoon, the President and his advisory body authorized the NDC manager to enter into negotiations with Japanese shipbuilders for the acquisition of the 12 ocean-going vessels.

In authorizing the NDC manager, the Cabinet imposed the following conditions:

1. That the price of the vessels should not be more than $313 per dead weight ton each;
2. That the price of each vessels should not exceed $3.6 million;
3. That the weight of each vessel should not be less than 11,500 dead weight ton each;
4. That speed requirement must be determined for the purpose of trial and service;
5. That in the event of a dispute, arbitration should be undertaken by a three-man committee to be composed of one representative each on behalf of the Philippine and Japanese governments and the third member to be determined by these two panel members;
6. That a final test must be made before delivery is made to the Philippines; and
7. That the President be asked to review the contract before it is finally signed by the parties.

The Cabinet approved the acquisition of the vessels and the conditions for their purchase after listening to representatives of the private shipping companies.

Generoso Tanseco, of the General Shipping Company and president of the Philippine Shipping Association, and Roberto Ho, of the Magsaysay Shipping Company and vice-president of the PSA, said that the prices proposed by the NDC were reasonable.

The Cabinet also reviewed the draft of a preliminary contract. It was explained that the contract proper will be prepared shortly to embody the conditions listed by the Cabinet.

President Garcia had previously approved the NDC plan to acquire 12 ocean-going vessels to serve as the nucleus of the Philippine merchant fleet. These vessels will be bigger than the Doña boats owned by the NDC and operated by the National Lines. The Doña vessels are 10,000 dead weight ton each.

In another move, President Garcia and the Cabinet disapproved a request of Jose Corominas for lowering the price of Rhodesian corn and directed the NARIC to hold another public bidding.

At the same time, the President directed Justice Buenaventura Ocampo, chairman of the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency, to investigate the bidding.

The President specifically directed Ocampo to inquire why the contract between the NARIC management and Corominas was different from the conditions announced during the public bidding.

The Cabinet was told that Corominas won the public bid at P186 per metric ton of Rhodesian corn but subsequently refused to go through with the purchase for certain reasons. Ocampo was asked to look into this.

The President expressed impatience and was angered when he received the preliminary report on the matter. NARIC Chairman Chioco was present during the meeting.

January 8.—THIS morning, the President had a breakfast conference with Sen. Pacita Madrigal-Gonzalez, chairman of the Senate committee on social justice, community development, and welfare, on means to update the social justice program of the Administration. Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo was present at the meeting.

Sen. Gonzalez submitted to President Garcia a report on the survey made by her group which contained the following recommendations:

- (1) More emphasis should be put by the government on the social justice projects which are the cornerstone of the Administration's economic development program.
- (2) Red tape and other unnecessary delays in satisfying the wants of people in community development and social projects should be minimized if not eliminated.
- (3) Centralization of the local cottage industries in one comprehensive agency of the government, should be effected unlike at present where several government offices are doing the same undertaking.
- (4) Emphasis should be given on more improved coordination among personnel of different government agencies working on social justice projects.
- (5) Construction of more feeder roads and setting up of more community projects should be undertaken.
- (6) There should be an increase of rural health units and community welfare projects.
- (7) Personalized service to the people should be extended. President Garcia today sat down with officials of the Social Security System to map out a program of expanded social services aimed at giving SSS members a better deal.

During the conference held at Malacañang, President Garcia expressed his determination to have the state firm embark on a low cost housing project to afford the lowliest daily wage earner a decent place to live in and at a range within his means.

The SSS officials were directed to gear their program of activities for the next fiscal year to the achievement of the project.

Officials of the state firm who conferred with President Garcia were Board Chairman Gonzalo Gonzalez, Administrator Emeterio Roa, and the following board members: Labor Secretary Angel Castano, SWA Administrator Amparo Villamor, Ramon Gaviola, Jr., GSIS General Manager Rodolfo Andal, and Ildefonso Remolona.

The Mindanao solon requested financial aid from the President's contingent funds for the purchase of chemicals to be used in killing the rodents with the help of the different agencies of the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Another presidential caller this afternoon was Rep. Fausto Dugenio of Misamis Oriental, who asked President Garcia to expedite the release of money from the contingent funds to repair the damage to public works caused by the typhoons that hit Misamis Oriental late last year. He also informed the President of the present political situation in the province.

Rep. Dugenio was accompanied by Major Tommy Chavez, Major Gerardo Roa of Salay of Misamis Oriental, and Dr. Florencio Du, representing the Florencio Reyes and Co., hardware importers.

President Garcia also received NEC Chairman Jose C. Locsin and members of the Philippine Sugar Planters Association headed by Jose Mapa Gomez, association president, who briefed the President on the reported unrest among the sugar workers in Negros Occidental.

THIS evening President Garcia directed Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo to go to Negros Occidental to investigate personally the cause of rampant burning of sugar cane fields in the province.

In dispatching the executive secretary, the President expressed concern over the effect of such rampant destruction of canefields on the sugar industry, one of the nation's main dollar-earning industries.

He said that this being the harvest season, it is important that the burning be stopped right away. He expressed fear that the cane destruction, if continued, might have adverse effects on the economy.

President Garcia's instructions to Secretary Pajo followed a briefing on the labor unrest, situation in Negros Occidental during a conference this evening with members of the Philippine Sugar Planters Association headed by Jose Mapa Gomez, association president.

Secretary Pajo will fly to Bacolod first hour tomorrow morning aboard a Philippine Air Force plane.

President Garcia accepted today the resignation of Socorro Ke. Ladrera as chairman of the board of directors of the People's Homesite and Housing Corporation.

Press Secretary Jose C. Nable said that the President will announce soon the successor to Ladrera. He said that President Garcia received Ladrera's letter of resignation late this afternoon and immediately instructed Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo to write the note of acceptance.

Secretary Nable spiked reports appearing in some metropolitan newspapers that Ladrera was being groomed for another government post. "There is absolutely no truth to this report," he stated.

THIS evening President and Mrs. Garcia motored to Diliman, Quezon City, to attend the Gala performance of the Le Theatre D'Art Du Ballet in the U.P. theater.

January 9.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning conferred with members of the Council of Leaders and economic advisers at his Quezon City residence and made a few conclusions which will be incorporated in his message to Congress when it convenes on the last Monday of this month.

The agreements, the President said after the conference, are aimed at strengthening the fiscal position of the government and improving the different social services already undertaken by the Administration.

These services, the President added, are low-cost housing projects, community development projects in rural areas, distribution of public lands for landless people in projects of the National Resettlement and Rehabilitation Administration, and other similar services.

In connection with the low-cost housing project of the Administration, it will be recalled that President Garcia last Thursday conferred with officials of the Social Security System and directed them to gear the program of the system for the coming fiscal year to the achievement of the project.

The President said that he had agreed with congressional leaders and his economic advisers on the following points:

- (1) The repeal of Republic Act No. 1410;

Primicias, House Majority Floor Leader Jose Aldeguer, Sens. Gil J. Puyat and Pedro Sabido, Reps. Tobias Fornier and Jose Roy, Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, National Economic Council Chairman Jose Locsin, Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno, Philippine National Bank President Eduardo Z. Romualdez, and Development Bank Chairman Gregorio Licaros.

Feeling very tired after some seven hours conference with the Council of Leaders, the President cancelled his regular press conference in the afternoon.

January 10.—THE Chief Executive resumed going over voluminous reports from his department secretaries at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City today. He closeted himself in his study where he worked on the outline of his state-of-the-nation message to congress on January 26.

About 10 a.m., the President took time out of his work to receive Lt. Gen. Manuel Cabal, AFP chief of staff, and Brig. Gen. Isagani V. Campo, PC chief. He conferred with the two generals for about an hour.

The Chief Executive did not receive any other caller the whole day.

Meanwhile, Press Secretary Jose C. Nable announced today that President Garcia will recommend to Congress the approval of a measure which will extend more responsibility and more autonomy to local governments.

The President's plan is in keeping with the clamour of provincial and city executive who had been agitating during the last years for more independence from the national government, Secretary Nable said.

The President feels that present laws regulating the relations of local governments to the Chief Executive are no longer responsive to the needs of the present age. He said that while he had all the intention to do so much for the localities, he could only do so on a limited scale.

Official Week in Review: January 11 – January 17, 1959

January 11.—PRESIDENT Garcia devoted most of his time today working on his state-of-the-nation message which he will deliver before a joint session of Congress when it convenes on January 26.

Early this morning, President and Mrs. Garcia heard mass before an improvised altar in their Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City.

After breakfast, the President went over the Sunday newspapers and then studied the recommendations contained in the reports submitted to him by the different department secretaries for possible inclusion in his message to Congress.

The Chief Executive took a brief rest after lunch and then resumed his study of the recommendations submitted for his consideration, pausing only to take a light merienda.

After an early supper, President and Mrs. Garcia motored to Malacañang to attend the belated Christmas party they were giving to officers and members of the Presidential Security Unit and their families in the social hall of the Palace.

From the party, President Garcia retired to his antechamber and worked until late in the evening on the preliminary draft of his report on the state of the nation.

The President reiterated today that he would push through this year a more vigorous implementation of his program of developing cottage industries as a means of increasing the earning capacity of the people in the rural areas and improving their living standards.

The President is considering the creation of an agency to coordinate all government entities concerned with the implementation to avoid duplication of efforts and to effect a more systematic planning of the project.

The institution of training program among the masses and the standardization of products are among the things being studied by the President to insure the success of the undertaking. He said he would recommend to Congress the enactment of some measures designed to promote certain aspects of the project including their financing.

In a report submitted to Malacañang, Salvador L. Pacis, a technical assistant who had made some studies on the subject, recommended the use by government offices of products of the cottage industries like bamboo baskets, saguran curtains, and other locally produced supplies for the Army and the schools.

The report pointed out that the Philippines imports millions of pesos worth of ceramic articles and that this importation could be radically reduced by the establishment of a ceramic processing plant to process clay which is abundant in this country.

The report also recommended the inclusion of nationalism in the curriculum of schools to encourage the use of homemade products.

January 12.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning expressed his desire to strengthen some of the country's laws and to seek the passage of certain revenue measures designed to remedy the present tight economic condition of the nation.

This was revealed at a breakfast conference with members of the Civic Assembly of Women of the Philippines held in the grand porch of Malacañang.

The President said he will recommend to Congress the amendment of the reparations law, particularly the provision granting beneficiaries of the law two years leeway before they start paying the regular amortizations on the goods obtained through reparations and the section requiring a 100 per cent capitalization for industries desiring to take advantage of the law.

He disclosed that during his conferences with the Council of Leaders and his economic advisers they devised a special tax whose proceeds will be used to put the school system of the country on a sound financial footing.

To supplement new revenue measures that will be presented for enactment when Congress convenes late this month, the Chief Executive told the women civic leaders that he will seek the elimination of all exceptions to the imposition of the 17 per cent special import tax and the imposition of an additional tax on luxury items like expensive cars.

At the conference, President Garcia was commended by the CAWP for initiating and supporting the following movements: (1) Filipino-first policy; (2) program of bringing about closer ties between the Philippines and Asia; (3) bi-partisan membership of important delegations abroad; (4) interest in and financial support given to cultural projects; and (5) interest in and financial support given to the National Family Life Workshop and the First Asian Seminar on Mental Health and Family Life.

The President also received from Miss Helen Z. Benitez, CAWP president, assurances of the unstinted support and cooperation, through individual and collective action, of the 41 member organizations affiliated with the CAWP.

Explaining the proposed amendments to the reparations law, President Garcia said that at present there is danger that users of reparations items may return them to the government before the expiration of the two-year leeway on the payment of amortizations and leave the government holding the bag.

He also said he is seeking a liberalization of the 100 per cent Filipino capitalization required by the law in order to entitle a corporation to reparations goods. This is to hasten the exploitation and development of the country's vast natural resources.

Others present at this morning's conference were Sen. Pacita M. Gonzalez, ex-Sen. Geronima T. Pecson, Mrs. Concepcion R. Gonzalez (CAWP 1st vice-president), Mrs. Josefina P. Ambrosio (secretary), Mrs. Leticia P. de Guzman (PRO), and Dr. Constancia Dumlao.

The President accepted today the invitation extended to him by General Services Secretary Alejandro Almendras and Sen. Emmanuel Pelaez to be the principal speaker at the opening of a seminar on the economic development of Mindanao, Sulu, and Palawan on January 31.

The seminar, which will be held in Cagayan de Oro City, will be under the joint sponsorship of the Mindanao-Sulu-Palawan Association and Xavier University.

The President was also invited by Sen. Eulogio Balao and Rep. Benjamin Ligot of the second district of Cagayan to visit their province on January 18 and 19.

Rep. Maximino Garcia accompanied Mayor Agaton Bertumin of Guindulman, Bohol, who presented to the Chief Executive a petition from the veterans of his town requesting the release of virgin forest lands in Agusan province for homestead purposes.

President Garcia also received ex-Senator and Mrs. Charles A. Sink of Michigan, who came to pay a courtesy call.

Another courtesy caller at Malacañang was Al Tegen, president of the General Public Utilities, parent company of the MERALCO. He was accompanied by Jose Carpio of the Philippine Association.

THE President today received the credentials of Bagner Smedslund as first envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of Finland to the Philippines in a ceremony held at the Malacañang ceremonial hall.

In accepting the accreditation papers of the first Finnish diplomatic representative to the Philippines, President Garcia said that the occasion marks a “great step forward in our mutual efforts to strengthen the bonds of understanding and friendship between our two peoples, especially because we are aware of the courage and tenacity with which you have fought for your liberty and for human dignity.”

The new Finnish minister, in presenting his credentials, said that he “spare no effort in order to promote the understanding and friendship between our two peoples, which although far away from each other, are inspired by the same ideals of liberty and justice.”

Upon arrival at Malacañang, the new Finnish minister received full military honors from a unit of the Presidential Guard Battalion. He was escorted by Lt. Col. Emilio O. Borromeo, senior aide-de-camp of the President.

Smedslund is also the accredited resident minister of Finland to Japan. He is accredited to the Philippine Government as Finnish non-resident minister.

Present at the ceremonies were Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, Assistant Executive Secretary Enrique C. Quema, and other high government officials.

PRESIDENT Garcia has recognized the Cuban government headed by President Manuel Urrutia. In a wire sent this afternoon to President Urrutia, President Garcia likewise conveyed the wishes of the Filipino people for the happiness and progress of the Cuban nation.

The decision to recognize the government headed by President Urrutia was made at a conference President Garcia had with Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano at Malacañang, after the presentation of credentials of the new Finnish minister.

January 13.—PRESIDENT Garcia and the Council of Leaders discussed the synchronization of elections and other proposed amendments to the Constitution at a breakfast conference this morning at the President’s Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City.

The proposed amendments sought to be introduced in the Constitution are those believed to receive general support, including the redistribution of senators by districts.

The special congressional committee on constitutional amendments headed by Sen. Arturo Tolentino and Rep. Dominador Tan, will draft the bills on the proposed changes for enactment by Congress when it convenes late this month.

The conferees first heard the report of the committee based on recommendations received and testimonies gathered in the course of several public hearings called by the committee.

Present at this morning’s conference were Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, Senate President Protempore Fernando Lopez, Sen. Arturo Tolentino, Sen. Lorenzo Sumulong, Speaker Protempore Constancio Castaneda, House Majority Floorleader Jose Aldeguer, and Rep. Ramon Mitra.

After the conference broke up at 1:30 p.m., President Garcia received Emiliano Melgazo, provincial board member of Leyte, and Dr. Gil F. Gadi of Kidapawan, Cotabato.

In the afternoon, the President received Gil Garcia of Cebu and then retired to his room where he worked until late in the evening on the preliminary draft of his state-of-the-nation message to Congress.

January 14.—PRESIDENT Garcia reviewed the sacada problem in Negros Occidental with Reps. Agustin Gatuslao, Vicente Gustilo, and Inocencio Ferrer of that province at a conference early this morning at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City.

The solons laid the blame for the current labor unrest among the sugar plantation workers on the contratistas, or labor recruiters, who allegedly exploit these seasonal laborers.

They informed the President that the best way to solve this recurring problem is to correct it at its source, that is, in Antique where the great majority of the sacadas are recruited.

The three congressmen decried the practice among sugar planters of hiring laborers through the contratistas instead of dealing directly with the workers.

Rep. Ferrer told the Chief Executive that they were preparing a bill to be presented during the coming regular session of Congress to regulate the activities of these contratistas so that the laborers will receive a fair share of what is due them.

President Garcia agreed to the need for protecting the sacadas from the alleged exploitation by the contratistas. He said he had sent Labor Secretary Angel Castaño to Negros Occidental to look into the case and to find out how the government could assist the workers.

The Negros Occidental congressmen called on the President to convey their belated wishes and those of their constituents for a “Happy and Fruitful New Year” and to reiterate their expression of loyalty to him and to his administration.

They also briefed the President on the latest political developments in their province.

Jose S. Zafra and Zosimo Falcon, CEPOC board chairman and production manager, respectively, briefed President Garcia on the strike at the cement plant in Cebu called by employees belonging to the Cement Workers Union, an affiliate of the Associated Labor Unions (ALU).

The strike was called last January 7 after the CEPOC management refused to grant the union’s demand for the ouster of Carlos Lopez, plant manager, for allegedly unfair labor practices.

Zafra and Falcon informed the President that they went to Cebu to conduct an on-the-spot investigation of the charge filed by the union against Lopez and found the accusation without basis and justification.

They assured President Garcia that they were doing their best to resolve the strike and expressed the belief that the CEPOC management and the union would reach an agreement soon and that the strikers would return to work in a day or two.

Rep. Delfin Albano of Isabela also called on the President to inform him of an allegedly anomalous sale in his province by the board of liquidators of materials they had classified as “scrap iron.”

The winning bid, Rep. Albano said, was P2,000 and the “scrap iron,” which turned out to be iron sheet piles, was easily worth $500,000. Furthermore, he told the President, the subject of the sale belonged to the province of Isabela and the board of liquidators had no right to dispose of it.

President Garcia requested the solon to file a case in court to invalidate the sale.

President Garcia also received Ernest Hoberecht, vice-president and general manager for Asia of United Press International, who paid him a courtesy call and interviewed him for 15 minutes. Hoberecht was accompanied by William P. Miller, manager of the UPI Manila bureau.

After receiving callers continuously from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., the President ate his lunch alone and then retired to his room.

THE President was informed today by Labor Secretary Angel Castaño that the labor, unrest which gripped several parts of the country during the past days has considerably eased.

Secretary Castaño reported that the strike of the laborers and employees of the Cebu Portland Cement Company in Cebu City was settled this noon and that all CEPOC strikers returned to work.

President Garcia was also informed that two other impending strikes were averted following the signing of collective bargaining contracts by representatives of management and labor.

Secretary Castafio mentioned the strike by the Puyat Steel Mill scheduled for tomorrow and that by the General Steel Mill as being called off owing to successful conciliation efforts by his department.

A sympathy strike by Iloilo farmers in connection with the labor strikes on sugarcane plantations in Negros Occidental was averted also by the labor department.

Secretary Castaño also said he will enplane this morning to look personally into the strike declared by workers of the Ormoc City (in Leyte) sugar central which flared into a shooting affray yesterday, resulting in five persons being killed and eight others seriously wounded.

The labor secretary will then proceed to Negros Occidental to look into the labor situation in that province.

The President stayed in his private residence in Quezon City the whole day today.

In the afternoon, the President motored to Malacañang where he presided over the weekly meeting of the Cabinet.

The Cabinet meeting started at five o'clock and broke up late in the evening.

THE CABINET this evening suspended the barter privileges of Sulu copra producers in a move to stop abuses which had resulted in the considerable reduction of the volume of copra exportation from the southern islands.

In suspending the barter privileges of the Sulu producers, the Cabinet, however, allowed them to export their products in accordance with established rules of overseas trade.

At the same time, the Cabinet:

1. Closed three sub-ports which had become gateways for smuggling of copra and other products in the South;
2. Approved a proposal of the National Economic Council to allow the Bataan Pulp and Paper Mills, Inc., to put up a pulp and paper mill in Bataan; and
3. Deferred action on the plan of Jose Lobrin to barter redried Virginia leaf tobacco with capital goods.

Malacañang said tonight the Cabinet decided to suspend the barter privileges of the Sulu producers after receiving reports of abuses and smuggling of copra from other regions to the Jolo ports.

These barter privileges were authorized in Executive Order No. 529, allowing Sulu producers to barter their copra with household necessities amounting to not more than P1,000.

The executive order was promulgated by the late President Quirino on September 5, 1952, in an effort to provide the producers in the southernmost island additional incentives to raise coconuts.

It was further explained that the late President Quirino issued the executive order to give the producers a decent price for their products.

However, the Cabinet was informed that the copra being bartered by the Sulu producers came from other provinces resulting in the drop in the volume of copra trade from Zamboanga by almost half a million dollars since May, 1958.

It was believed the copra from other Mindanao provinces were smuggled to Jolo in a move to take advantage of the benefits given by the executive order to the Sulu producers.

Malacañang said Commissioner on Integration Madki Alonto favored the suspension of the barter privileges after he was appraised of the abuses committed by unscrupulous traders.

Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas this evening opposed a move to cancel the barter privileges of the Sulu producers. He said the action would give rise to banditry and lawlessness in that province.

The Cabinet allowed the Sulu producers to export their product in accordance with regulations set up by the Administration.

The Cabinet also closed the sub-ports of Sitangkay and Taganak in Tawi-tawi and Cagayan de Sulu.

These supports were opened by the late President Quirino in 1952 to facilitate the exportation of copra and other products from, these far-flung islands.

However, the Cabinet allowed the two other sub-ports of Bongao in Tawi-tawi and Balabac, Palawan, to continue operations.

In closing the three sub-ports, the Cabinet said the government could exercise closer supervision over trading through these points and arrest rampant smuggling which have been carried in these places.

The Cabinet likewise approved a proposal to set up the Bataan Pulp and Paper Mill, Inc., in Bataan. The plan had been endorsed by the NEC.

The Cabinet, however, deferred action on the proposal of Jose Lobrin to barter redried Virginia leaf tobacco with capital goods.

January 15.—DR. Charles S. Rhyne, president of the American Bar Association and Chairman of the committee on international and comparative law of the association paid a courtesy call on President Garcia this morning.

The American barrister is here in the course of a Far East tour after attending the recently-concluded conference of the International Commission of Jurists held in New Delhi.

Dr. Rhyne was accompanied by Dr. Alberto R. de Joya of the Philippine Lawyers' Association; Julio D. Enriquez, president of the Batangas Lawyers' Association; Mrs. Amor Melencio Herrera and Judge Corazon Juliano Agrava, president and past president of the WILOCI; and Dr. Tomas B. Barnes, director of the Philippine Lawyers' Association.

President Garcia administered the oath of office to Maj. Teofilo A. Zosa, who had been recently appointed acting member of the board of directors of the Manila Railroad Company, vice Francisco H. Calinawan who is now assistant general manager of the MRR.

The simple ceremony, which was held in the music room of Malacañang, was attended by, among others, Rep. Manuel A. Zosa and Gil Garcia of Cebu.

Gregorio Abad, executive secretary of the Reparations Commission, called on President Garcia to explain further amendments to be proposed for the repair and reconstruction of public works in his district either destroyed or damaged by typhoons late last year.

Santiago Ramirez of Bansalan, Davao, called on the President to express his gratitude for ordering the mercy airlift of his wife, Teodora P. Ramirez, a public school teacher for more than 28 years.

Ramirez told the President that doctors at the Philippine General Hospital where she was taken for treatment, diagnosed her ailment as cirrhosis of the liver and pronounced her case as "hopeless."

President Garcia received his first visitor, NASSCO Director Ramon T. Jimenez, at 9 a.m. and continued receiving callers until two o'clock p.m. Jimenez conferred with the President on routine matters of the NASSCO. The President this noon denied the request of Rep. Dominador M. Tan of Leyte for the lifting of the Constabulary control over Ormoc City until he received the report of Brig. Gen. Isagani V. Campo, PC Chief, on the peace and order situation there.

The Chief Executive told Rep. Tan that he expected Gen. Campo to arrive from Ormoc City sometime today and report to him immediately on the results of his on-the-spot investigation of the outbreak of violence in that city resulting in the death of five persons and the wounding of eight others.

President Garcia told Tan that he had issued the order yesterday putting Ormoc City under Constabulary control to prevent the further deterioration of the peace and order situation there. He expressed the fear that Tuesday's shooting incident might lead to a more bloody one unless the disturbance is stopped at once.

The President impressed upon Rep. Tan the importance of first restoring peace in the place before a formal investigation of the incident could be undertaken to give the strikers a chance to air their grievances.

He told Tan he was not taking sides in the conflict and added that if the Constabulary soldiers were at fault, he would order them court-martialed. However, he said, if the strikers were to blame, then they will have their day in court.

Tan went to Malacañang this noon to protest the order placing Ormoc City under PC control saying that the pickets were behaving peacefully until a PC-escorted truck of the Ormoc Sugar Company arrived and tried to break through the picket lines.

He claimed that the pickets had no guns and that the shooting was started by PC troops who opened fire on them in order to break the human roadblock and create an opening so that the truck could enter the company compound.

He also requested President Garcia to send a team of NBI agents to Ormoc City to investigate the shooting incident and alleged that the Constabulary troops there were partial to the management of the sugar central.

PRESIDENT Garcia issued two proclamations today, one Proclamation No. 552, declaring the third Sunday of January of every year as Children's Day, and the other Proclamation No. 553, declaring January 20, this year, as a special public holiday in all municipalities and municipal districts throughout the country.

In declaring the third Sunday of January of every year, which falls on January 18 this year, as Children's Day, the President said a day should be dedicated to children so as to arouse greater concern for their welfare.

The President pointed out that the future of the nation demands that children be given utmost care and attention to make good and useful citizens.

He said the people should be vitally interested in the well-being of their children to keep them from straying away from the “straight and narrow path.”

In declaring January 20 a special public holiday in all municipalities and municipal districts, President Garcia said that in line with the Administration’s policy of giving greater autonomy to local governments, it was necessary that the barrio people be given full opportunity to participate in the elections.

January 20 was set for the holding of elections for barrio councils throughout the country, under Republic Act No. 1408.

January 16.—PRESIDENT Garcia today said he would do away with the NAMARCO if the establishment of the proposed Philippine National Cooperative Bank will enable retailers to stand on their feet.

This statement which received an extended ovation was made in his preliminary remarks before addressing the first assembly of the Philippine National Cooperative Bank this morning at the Youth Center building of the YMCA.

The proposed bank is a joint project of the Philippine Government and the International Labor Organization under the United Nations expanded technical assistant program.

The President started the day early this morning when a Korean solon and officials of Korean agricultural banks paid a courtesy call on President Garcia at 8 a.m. in his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City.

The visitors have completed their two-week observation of the operations of the ACCFA, FACOMAs, and rural banks and are returning to their country tomorrow.

They were accompanied by Korean Ambassador Lincoln Hoon Kim and Moon Chong Yul, embassy secretary.

Those who called on the President were Congressman Kim Byung Soon, Im Cha Joo, Yoon Yong Koo, Park Chang Wha, Cho Jung Ho, Kim Kyo Chul, Kim Hong Bom, Park Seung Heng, and Choi Hung Shik.

After receiving the Koreans, President Garcia held a conference with members of the committee on exchange premiums composed of Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera, PNB President Eduardo Z. Romualdez, and CB Governor Miguel Cuaderno. Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano was also present at the conference.

At 10 o’clock, President Garcia interrupted the deliberations and motored to the Youth Center building of the YMCA to open the first assembly of the Philippine National Cooperative Bank.

After delivering his speech, the President returned to Bohol Avenue and resumed the conference with the committee on exchange premiums until 1:30 p.m.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon scored Sen. Mariano Jesus Cuenco for choosing to be “spectacular” in threatening to expose during the coming Senate session the “influence peddlers” listed in the “white paper.”

At his regular press conference, the President said the Cebu solon wanted to be spectacular if he would expose names of alleged influence peddlers under parliamentary immunity.

President Garcia recalled that Sen. Cuenco was summoned by Secretary of Justice Jesus G. Barrera, Malacañang prober, but the solon failed to present evidence to substantiate the charges contained in the “white paper.”

The President said Barrera is winding up his inquiry into the cases of influence peddling and will submit his report to Malacañang sometime next week.

At the press conference, the President:

1. Upheld the right of the Central Bank to regulate the allocation of foreign exchange;
2. Reiterated his stand against the devaluation of the peso;
3. Claimed that the expose of a “food scandal” appearing in a news magazine as “rather exaggerated;”
4. Said he was standing pat on his decision to place the Ormoc City police under Constabulary control as a precautionary measure to prevent violence in the strike-bound hacienda of the Ormoc Sugar Central;
5. Gave his personal comments on the mass hearings and executions under the new Cuban regime; and
6. Refused to announce the decision he had reached with government fiscal advisers on the plan to restore the 25 per cent “premium fees” in the purchase of foreign exchange from the Central Bank.

Asked to comment on Sen. Cuenco’s dare the other day for announcing his plan to divulge the names of “influence peddlers” allegedly close to Malacañang, the President said the senator had not been cooperative in the inquiry conducted by Secretary Barrera.

Barrera was asked by President Garcia to investigate the cases of influence peddlers who had allegedly brought down the prestige of the Administration and the Nacionalista Party.

He said Sen. Cuenco, when called by Barrera to shed light into the cases of influence peddling, refused to present evidence.

President Garcia also upheld the authority of the Central Bank to regulate allocation of foreign exchange. He was commenting on reports that the CB had cut down the allocations of non-Filipino and non-American businessmen by 50 per cent for the current year.

He, however, said he will soon confer with businessmen to discuss the wisdom of the CB resolution.

“Whether wise or unwise,” the President said, “the Central Bank has that authority.”

The President pointed out that if the CB resolution was irregular, he would take steps to remedy the situation.

The President reiterated he is against the devaluation of the peso.

“I am not devaluating the peso if the decision rest with me alone,” the President told the newsmen.

Asked to comment on a magazine story on the “worst food scandal in the Philippines,” the President said the account was “rather exaggerated.”

He said Rhodesian corn which was imported to fill up the shortage of the local stocks arrived after a three-month delay and during the harvest of a bumper corn.

Informed that Gov. Juan O. Chioco has said that corn would have been secured from the United States to avert the delay in the delivery of the needed stocks, the President perked up and said:

“Why did he (Chioco) not suggest it then? he asked.

“I believe that is his second or third thought,” President Garcia added.

The President likewise said he was standing pat on his order placing Ormoc City police under Constabulary control. He said the chief of police of the city was related to some of the union men.

He said he had ordered the placing of the city police under the PC as a precautionary measure. The President had conferred with Eng. Gen. Isagani V. Campo, who had reported on his survey of the strike-bound hacienda in Leyte.

The President also gave his "personal comments" on the mass execution of followers of ex-President Fulgencio Batista in Cuba.

He said the execution of Batista followers were made in accordance with the decisions of the military courts.

However, the President said he wished the new regime would try the Batista followers before the regular courts.

"This is, however, my personal opinion," President Garcia said. "I do not want to be charged with meddling in the internal affairs of the new Cuban government."

The President said he had conferred with four of his fiscal advisers. He refused to disclose the decision reached at the meeting. Present at the meeting were Secretary of Finance Jaime Hernandez, Secretary of Justice Jesus G. Barrera, Governor Miguel Cuaderno of the Central Bank, and PNB President Eduardo Z. Romualdez.

The President admitted he discussed with his advisers the plan to restore the tax in the purchase of foreign exchange from the Central Bank.

President Garcia acting through Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo today directed the immediate release of P500,000 for PACD grants-in-aid projects throughout the country out of foreign PACD funds.

At the same time, the President directed the budget commissioner to study the possibility of transferring the P7.5 million appropriation of the Bureau of Public Highways for stocking, to the Department of Public Works and Communication so that the department's P8 million appropriation for stocking can be used for more important projects.

At the conference held with Highways Commissioner Nicolas Cuenca and Presidential Assistant on Community Development Ramon Binamira in Malacañang yesterday morning, Secretary Pajo told the conferees that the situation called for positive thinking on the part of the officials.

He pointed out that he had seen during his recent trips to Ilocos Sur, Pangasinan, and Samar, the pressing need of the barrio people for roads through which they could bring their produce to market.

Binamira told Secretary Pajo that the PACD budget of P1,000,000 for last year had been frozen by the General Auditing Office, and that its budget for the current year had been pending approval for over nine months.

Secretary Pajo told Commissioner Cuenca to send one bulldozer and one truck each to Capiz and Samar, for barrio road building projects, the labor to be furnished by the people free.

He also told Commissioner Cuenca to furnish Binamira with a list of idle road-building equipment as a result of stoppage of bond issue projects so that the latter could utilize them for PACD projects.

Secretary Pajo detailed Engineer Segundo Gracia of the PHHC to work with the PACD so that the programming of barrio roads can be expedited.

January 17.—PRESIDENT Garcia had breakfast early this morning with officials of Caltex, Inc., who paid a courtesy call at his residence in Bohol Avenue, Quezon City.

Executives of the oil company who called on the Chief Executive were W. E. Murray, general manager, Far East division of Caltex, Inc.; W. E. Menefee, general manager of Caltex (Phil.) Inc.; R. J. Monical, vice-president; R. R. Tollitson, and J. P. Roxas, chief of the Caltex public relations division.

After the visitors had left, President, and Mrs. Garcia motored to the Funeraria Paz on Misericordia Street to condole with Capt. Filomeno Gonzales, Malacañang performance officer, whose wife died early this morning.

President Garcia returned to Bohol Avenue after a 20-minute stay in the funeral parlor and worked on pending state papers until lunchtime.

Five thousand bags of fertilizer donated by the Marubeni-Iida Company, Inc., of Japan were turned over to the Philippine Government in a simple ceremony at Pier 9 today.

The fertilizer was presented by Ryoza Marofushi, general manager of the donor company, to Ramon P. Binamira, presidential assistant on community development, who represented the government. The PACD will distribute the fertilizer to barrio farmers.

The 5,000 bags of fertilizer were presented to President Garcia during his recent state visit to Japan when he met officials of the Marubeni-Iida Co., Inc., headed by S. Ichikawa, president; N. Mori, executive vice-president; and I. Kibodera, executive director. The last two officials of the company had been long residents of Cebu and Manila before World War II.

Among those present at the turnover ceremony were Chancellor of the Japanese Embassy Mayasuki Harigai, Customs Commissioner Eleuterio Capapas, MRR Chairman Juan J. Carlos, Manila Port Terminal Service General Manager Francisco Medrano, Juan Planas of the PCAPE, Customs Security Director James H. Keefe, and others.

Official Week in Review: January 18 – January 24, 1959

January 18.—PRESIDENT Garcia got a rousing welcome today from the people of Cagayan Valley upon his arrival in Tuguegarao, Cagayan, this morning on an inspection trip.

This is the Chief Executive's first visit there since the 1957 elections.

The President is on an inspection trip of the second district of Cagayan where he will inaugurate the P8,000 Solana municipal building, and break the ground for the proposed P250,000 Rizal–Lasam–Allacapan highway.

On hand at Tuguegarao airport to meet the Chief Executive were Gov. Marcelo Adduru, Rep. Benjamin Ligot, Tuguegarao Mayor Mateo Natividad, Brig. Gen. Oscar Rialp, 1st MA commanding general, national provincial, and municipal officials of the province, and friends and sympathizers of President Garcia in Cagayan.

With the presidential party were Senate Majority Floor Leader Cipriano Primicias, Sr., Sens. Eulogio Balao and Quintin Paredes, and Speaker Protempore Constancio Castañeda.

At the reception ceremonies President Garcia received from Mayor Natividad the symbolic key to Tuguegarao and was accorded full military honors by a unit of the Constabulary troops in the province.

The presidential plane landed 40 minutes behind schedule because of overcast above Tuguegarao. Pilots of three PAF planes had difficulty in finding a break in the clouds in order to land.

After the ceremonies at the airport the President led a motorcade to the Tuguegarao cathedral, where Te Deum was sung by Bishop Teodulfo Domingo.

All along the route, from the airport to the cathedral, the streets were lined by ROTC and PMT cadets and school children waving paper flags and cheering the President as he passed.

From the cathedral the motorcade proceeded to Solana for the inauguration of the municipal building, and crossed the wide Cagayan River on board a ferry.

The President cut the ceremonial ribbon assisted by Mrs. Pilar Caronan, wife of Solana Mayor Justo Cesar Caronan.

In a brief speech following the inauguration, the President promised the people of Solana that the bridge spanning the Cagayan River, will be given top priority as soon as the loan from the U.S. Development Loan Fund is received, amounting to P50 million.

From Solana, the presidential party motored to Cagayan Valley Agricultural School for lunch. After a brief rest at Piat, the President visited the miraculous image of Nuestra Señora de Piat in the town church.

After addressing a public meeting in Rizal town, President Garcia returned to Tuguegarao arriving at about 8:50 p.m.

In a mammoth rally at the Arranz Memorial Stadium later in the evening, the Chief Executive thanked the people of Cagayan Valley for supporting his administration's drive for increase food production.

After breakfast early tomorrow morning with national, provincial, and municipal officials, the President and party will return by plane to Manila.

January 19.—PRESIDENT Garcia woke up early this morning despite the heavy schedule of activities yesterday which was capped by a back-breaking 140-kilometer roundtrip over rough roads for the ground-breaking ceremony of a proposed P250,000 road connecting the remote towns of Rizal, Lasam, and Allacapan, and opening vast tracts of virgin lands in the Cagayan Valley.

During yesterday's overland journey from Tuguegarao to Rizal, Cagayan, the Chief Executive inaugurated a recently-completed P8,000 municipal building in the town of Solana, made a pilgrimage to the shrine of the miraculous image of Our Lady of Piat, and crossed three rivers by ferry.

The President was warmly received in all the towns he visited. Barefoot farmers and members of their families lined the presidential route and cheered him as he passed. They thanked him for having taken the trouble of visiting their God-forsaken localities and personally looking into their problems. The rural folks said it was the first time a President of the Philippines had ever set foot on those parts.

After hearing mass at the Tuguegarao cathedral this morning, the President went to the residence of Cagayan Gov. Marcelo Adduru, where he and members of his party were honored at breakfast.

Before going to the airport, President Garcia made an unscheduled sidetrip to the St. Paul's College in Tuguegarao, where he talked informally before students, members of the faculty, and townspeople who flocked to the school upon learning of his presence there.

A huge crowd followed the presidential motorcade to the airport where full military honors were accorded to the Chief Executive before he boarded the PAF C-47 Quezon on the return trip to Manila.

The plane took off from the Tuguegarao airport at 10:40 a.m. and landed at the PAF Base Operations in Nichols Field shortly after 12 noon.

From Nichols Field, President Garcia proceeded to Malacañang.

Upon his arrival in Manila, the President, though a little disappointed from the defeat and elimination of the Philippine team in the world basketball championship series in Chile, addressed a cable to Sen. Ambrosio Padilla, head of the PI team, and congratulated him and the players for their splendid showing.

Later in the evening, the President conferred with Press Secretary Jose C. Nable and other advisers to discuss the final draft of his state-of-the-nation message which he will deliver before Congress on January. 26.

January 20.—AT a breakfast conference this morning, President Garcia was assured by House leaders of a bi-partisan support for the proposed constitutional amendments, particularly the synchronization of elections.

The President was informed at the conference held this morning in his Quezon City residence with members of the Council of Leaders of a favorable reaction in the House of Representatives for all proposed constitutional amendments.

Liberal members of the House have openly come out in favor of the proposed constitutional amendments, according to House officers.

They recalled that Rep. Ferdinand Marcos of Ilocos Norte, House minority floor leader, said the other day that the opposition party stood in favor of (1) synchronizing elections, (2) creating senatorial districts, and (3) creating a more powerful and independent general auditing office.

During the meeting which lasted from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., the President was further informed that the sentiment in the Senate for constitutional amendments was not yet clearly defined.

Congressional leaders also reiterated their support to the proposal of President Garcia to create a graft court.

THE President today branded as absolutely baseless a news item that appeared in a metropolitan paper to the effect that Commissioner of Immigration Emilio Galang will be relieved of his position.

The Chief Executive stated that since 1957 he had not seen Mr. Julio de la Cruz, son of former Immigration Commissioner Vicente de la Cruz of Leyte who allegedly would replace Galang.

The story about the relief of Galang broke into print when De la Cruz himself reportedly announced to a reporter his designation as immigration commissioner before holding a conference with Galang at the immigration office.

THE President this day ordered the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency to investigate and institute the necessary court action against one Medrino M. Cruz, who had reportedly been advertising himself as promoter and chairman of an amusement group for a double stage show program supposedly under the sponsorship of Mrs. Leonila D. Garcia and tabbed as a "Malacañang Benefit."

In a memorandum sent this evening to the PCAPE, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo disclosed that he had been informed by both the President and the First Lady that they had not given any authority to Cruz to stage the benefit which has been advertised to be held on January 27 for indigent children.

Posters being circulated to advertise the supposed benefit show include an executive committee composed of Secretary Pajo as honorary chairman, Cruz himself as prompter and chairman of the amusement group, Mrs. Constancia C. Tolentino as chairman on invitations of a women's group, Genaro Visarra as chairman on invitations of government officials, Labor Secretary Angel Castaño as chairman on invitations for officials of government and private corporations, and Press Secretary Jose C. Nable as chairman on press and radio.

Press Secretary Nable had previously issued an announcement denying participation in the promotion of the supposed benefit show. In his announcement, Nable also recalled that Secretary Pajo had issued a similar denial. Secretary Nable said that his signature on a resolution to promote the show had been obtained on false representation, believing it really had the authorization of the First Lady for the Malacañang Children's Christmas Festival.

Assistant Executive Secretary Mariano R. Logarta today wrote Cruz informing him that the latter's request for endorsement of the benefit had been disapproved by the First Lady. Logarta also transmitted the desire of Mrs. Garcia that Cruz desisted from continuing with the unauthorized use of her name and the Malacañang Christmas Festival committee for Cruz' own personal purpose.

"Your unauthorized use of a facsimile of the Malacañang committee stationery wherein your name appears as promoter and chairman of the amusement group is highly misleading and irregular considering the fact that you have not been appointed as such by the committee, much less by the First Lady," Secretary Logarta said in his letter to Cruz. "You know fully well that you have never been connected with the Malacañang committee by virtue of any appointment nor authority from any member of the committee to act in their behalf," he added.

PRESIDENT Garcia called officers of the Philippine Air Lines Employees Association (PALEA) and representatives of management to a conference this afternoon in his residence in Quezon City to avert an imminent strike threatening the company.

Spokesman for the union was Roberto Oca, president of the Philippine Transport Workers Organization (PTWO), parent organization of (PALEA), while the management of PAL was represented by Daniel Me. Gomez, PAL executive vice-president, and Leonardo Siguion Reyna, PAL legal counsel.

The President expressed his desire to both parties that they thresh out their differences over a conference table and hoped that they would reach an agreement in order not to interrupt the service to the detriment of the riding public.

The Chief Executive assured Oca that labor would be given a proportionate share of the profits of PAL but at the same time requested the union to take into account that the air line would soon resume its international flights.

This fact, President Garcia said, will necessarily mean additional expenses since PAL will have to keep up with the latest developments in aviation.

Officers of the PALE A who attended the conference were Emilio F. Sanio, president; Miguel Blando, vice-president; Isidro Chavez, treasurer; Gregorio Cagilonia, secretary; and Pedro Nazareno, Prospero Miciano, Agustin Buco, and Ben Garcia, directors.

Jose Espinas, legal counsel of the: PTWO, was also present.

January 21.—PRESIDENT Garcia this day separated from the service Dr. Cristobal Santiago, member of the Board of Directors of the National Waterworks and Sewerage Authority, for having utilized government time, labor, and equipment in the repair and cleaning of the artesian well of his father-in-law in Suklain, Arayat, Pampanga.

In pursuing his house-cleaning job, President Garcia said that “this is a clear case of an official taking advantage of his position for private ends.”

An administrative order signed at a conference with Assistant Executive Secretary Sofronio C. Quimson also provides that the resignation of Dr. Santiago is without prejudice to the collection from him of the money value of the government labor and equipment utilized in the repairs and cleaning of the well of his father-in-law.

The President also signed another administrative order exonerating fiscal Gregorio S. de la Peña of Basilan City from several administrative charges, as recommended by Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera.

The President also signed the following appointments: Fidencio S. Raz, first assistant provincial fiscal of Capiz; Vicente Abalagon, second assistant provincial fiscal of Capiz; Roberto Madrid, assistant provincial fiscal of Iloilo; Luis Lagdameo, chairman of the Board of Assessment Appeals of Quezon Province; and Ciceron Guerrero, Demetrio C. Castillo, Regino Aro, and Diosdado Amado, members of the said board.

Earlier, President and Mrs. Garcia motored to the St. Francis Church near the provincial capitol of Pasig, Rizal, to hear mass said on the occasion of the birthday of Senate President Rodriguez.

After the mass, President and Mrs. Garcia gave the Senate head a birthday gift and then proceeded to the provincial capitol for breakfast. Then they returned to their Quezon City residence.

THE CABINET approved this evening the establishment of a $22 million petroleum refinery to be set up by the Philippine Investments and Management Association. The Cabinet decision was spurred by a resolution of the National Economic Council recommending approval of the plan.

At the Cabinet meeting, the President also:

1. Ordered the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources to send men to look into reports of locust infestation in Panada and Malalag, Davao; and
2. Directed the Reparations Commission to allocate P9,540,873.66 from the special economic development fund (50 per cent) to the Development Bank of the Philippines and P2.5 million to prefabricated houses fund, P1 million to the rural banks, and P1.2 million to the Land Tenure Administration for the other 50 per cent.

The refinery is expected to produce from 10,000 to 17,000 barrels of kerosene a day.

The Cabinet, however, deferred action on the plan to float P100,000,000 worth of bond issues to finance the purchase of 12 ocean-going vessels from Japan.

It shelved the proposal after the President counseled the Cabinet members to refer the plan again to the NEC for further study.

However, the Cabinet approved the PHIMA proposal upon the representation made by Ramon V. del Rosario, a local businessman, who appraised the President's advisory body of his business plan.

Del Rosario told members of the Cabinet that the PHIMA is capitalized at $22 million, 70 per cent of which is subscribed by Filipinos. He said $6 million would be subscribed by aliens mainly from the Gulf Oil Company of the United States.

In approving the PHIMA petroleum refinery, the Cabinet imposed the following conditions:

1. That the corporation should have at least 60 per cent Filipino capitalization;
2. Executive control of the firm must always be in the hands of Filipinos;
3. Foreign technicians, which would be employed at the start of the enterprise, should be replaced as soon as possible by Filipinos;
4. Dollar salaries of the foreign technicians should not be made out of the foreign exchange of the Central Bank;
5. That there should not be recurrent remittance in foreign exchange; and
6. That the initial $5 million requirement should be spread in three years.

Informed of the Ozamiz City fire, the President ordered the release of P50,000 from his contingent fund.

He ordered the release of the sum after hearing the report of Social Welfare Administrator Amparo P. Villamor, who had just returned from a flying trip to the scene of the fire.

January 22.—LABOR leaders and sugarcane planters arrived at an agreement on certain fundamental issues at a conference called by President Garcia today at Malacañang to solve the labor dispute in Negros Occidental.

As proposed by President Garcia, both parties laid the foundation for the elimination of so-called contratistas (labor contractors).

“Consent” elections will be held in haciendas where FFF officials claim to have a majority of the workers as members in order to decide if the labor union will be the one to enter into a collective bargaining contract with plantation owners in case of a favorable return.

Both parties also agreed on one election for both the migrant workers or sacadas and permanent plantation workers in haciendas where FFF officials claim the majority of the workers are affiliated to their union.

In other haciendas where the FFF has no majority, its officials proposed an election for migrant workers, to which proposition the sugarcane planters present objected vigorously.

It was also agreed upon that only workers included in the payroll of last December 18, when notices to strike were sent to 77 haciendas, will vote in the "consent" election, disallowing voting by proxy.

The "consent" elections will be conducted by the Department of Labor with the help of the Constabulary, whose sole function will be the preservation of peace and order during the occasion.

The farmers' federation will submit to the Department of Labor the list of plantations where they would like "consent" elections to be held.

The planters stated that they were for union recognition in their plantations and said that they pay the minimum wage to their agricultural laborers, as provided for by law.

However, even labor leaders acknowledged that labor contractors get a big cut in the workers' wages.

Secretary Castaño disclosed plans of his office to devise a method whereby plantation owners will pay directly to the migrant workers and thus eliminate labor contractors.

Both parties agreed to continue further talks to be presided by Secretary Castaño to iron out a few remaining kinks.

Senator Gonzalez, chairman of the Senate Social Justice Committee, appealed to the planters to provide better housing facilities to their migrant workers.

Present at the conference were Labor Secretary Angel Castaño, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, Sen. Pacita M. Gonzalez, Rep. Inocencio Ferrer of Negros Occidental, Gov. Josue Cadio of Antique, Jose Ma. Gomez, president of the National Federation of Sugarcane Planters; plantation owners Ciro Locsin, Roberto Llantada, and Ramon Nolan; Fr. Hector Mauri, S. J., Jeremias Montemayor, Jesus V. Ramos, and Tito Angudong, Jr., representing the Free Farmers Federation (FFF).

The President also conferred with Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez on undisclosed matters. Other callers were former Press Secretary J. V. Cruz, Carlos Nivera, John Keesing, John Keljikan, Joseph Keenan, vice-president, AFL-CIO of the United States, and J. Kaukonen, labor attache of the American Embassy in Manila.

Dr. Urbano Zafra, minister counselor of economic affairs of the Washington embassy of the Philippines, called on President Garcia to get final instructions before leaving for his post after a two-month home leave.

PRESIDENT Garcia honored Japanese Ambassador Morio Yukawa at a formal dinner this evening at Malacañang

At the dinner the President expressed his appreciation to the Japanese government and people for the warm reception accorded him and the members of his party during his recent state visit to Japan last December.

Chiefs of diplomatic missions, high government officials, and members of the presidential party to Japan were among the invited guests.

January 23.—PRESIDENT Garcia spent the whole day aboard the RPS Sta. Maria, working on his state-of-the-nation message which he will deliver before a joint session of Congress on Monday.

After informing Maj. Jose Estrella, a military aide, he was not receiving any caller, the President closeted himself in his cabin and proceeded to dictate page after page of draft copy to a Palace stenographer, Conrado Montales.

Pulling out of the Navy headquarters, landing about 9:30 a.m., the Sta. Maria cruised slowly for about four hours taking a zigzag course from Manila to Corregidor and back. The President, with the aid of a small table lamp in his cabin, worked uninterrupted on his speech.

About 12:30 p.m., the President took time out from his work to have a light lunch. He had it served in his cabin. Then he continued with his dictation again.

On its way back from Corregidor to Manila, the Sta. Maria was overtaken by an incoming U.S. aircraft carrier escorted by three destroyers. Apparently, recognizing the presidential ship a large formation of white-clad sailors turned out on the huge carrier's deck and smartly saluted as they passed about half a mile away.

Helicopters launched from the carrier hovered for some time close to the Sta. Maria and took pictures of the presidential ship and its escort.

The Sta. Maria was back in Manila about 1:30 p.m. It anchored at its permanent moorings a few hundred yards from the Independent Grandstand on the Luneta. The President kept working until late in the night.

THE President ordered today the suspension of a commodity loan agreement recently approved by the Monetary Board of the Central Bank permitting what appeared to be an indiscriminate barter of the nation's dollar-producing exports and the indiscriminate entry of Japanese goods to the detriment of the country's infant industries.

In a message dispatched this evening from aboard the RPS Sta. Maria anchored in Manila Bay, the President instructed Governor Miguel Cuaderno of the Central Bank to hold in abeyance the implementation of the agreement between the FIMCO of the Philippines and the Nippon Trading Co., Ltd., of Japan whereby Japanese goods would be imported to the Philippines in exchange with Philippine products, including copra.

The Chief Executive ordered the suspension of the agreement, pending determination of its legality and propriety so that a public hearing might be conducted on the question in which local industrialists and other citizens should be heard.

"Hold in abeyance the execution of this agreement until all concerned have had a chance to study the same," the President said in his court order to Governor Cuaderno.

The projected barter was brought to the attention of the President by Rep. Joaquin Roces of Manila, chairman of the House committee on good government, who had expressed serious doubts as to the legality of the act of the Monetary Board in approving the transaction.

According to Rep. Roces, all no-dollar remittance importations were supposed to be governed by Republic Act No. 1410; hence, under the administration of the Department of Commerce. He pointed out that if the Central Bank could authorize barter, its abolition through the scrapping of R.A. 1410 would be of little use since the Central Bank would still be able to grant it.

In a letter sent over to the presidential yacht, Rep. Roces also informed the President that the agreement practically constituted a "monopolistic privilege" in favor of the FIMCO and the companies owned and operated by the E. M. Ramos Development Company, but added that should similar companies be granted identical privileges, "it would open the way for indiscriminate barter of our dollar-producing exports and at the same time opening the flood gates for the indiscriminate entry of Japanese goods to the ruin of our local infant industries."

"Entry of Japanese textiles may well ruin our textile industry for which we poured much of our dollars during these last few years," the President said.

January 24.—THE PRESIDENT ordered the preparation of a number of welfare measures designed to improve the living conditions of the nation's workers for recommendation to Congress when it convenes in regular session on Monday, it was announced by Press Secretary Jose C. Nable today.

The proposed measures include:

- (1) Means of further reducing unemployment;
- (2) Extension of social security benefits to agricultural workers;
- (3) Intensification of the Administration's resettlement program;
- (4) Stepping up the government's low-cost housing projects for workers; and
- (5) Promotion of cottage industries.

The President said that although the rate of unemployment had gone down owing largely to the opening of new industries, ways should be found to further increase work opportunities in order to keep up with the increasing labor force. He instructed Labor Secretary Angel M. Castaño to draft a bill embodying his plans for employment.

The Chief Executive also pointed out that workers in government and private firms were already receiving social security benefits through the Government Service Insurance System and the Social Security System. Some such benefit should be extended to the agricultural laborers who constitute about 65 per cent of the nation's workers, he said.

Regarding the intensification of the Administration's resettlement program, the President stressed the advisability of relocating idle manpower in underdeveloped areas not only as a means of helping ease unemployment but also of increasing the nation's productivity.

In connection with his plan of facilitating the implementation of the government's low-cost housing projects all over the country, the President expressed his desire for a coordinated program aimed at providing homes only to deserving applicants and on an easy installment plan for a period of as long as 30 years.

The President is also considering the creation of an agency to coordinate all government entities concerned with the promotion of cottage industries as a means of increasing the earning capacity of the people in the rural areas and of improving their living standards.

Meanwhile, President Garcia remained aboard the RPS Sta. Maria the whole day today, polishing his state-of-the-nation message to Congress. He did not receive any caller.

Waking up early this morning, the President started his second day aboard the yacht by calling for a stenographer to whom he dictated some notes he had scribbled the night before for inclusion in the speech.

After a light breakfast, the Chief Executive continued with the tedious task of writing and re-writing portions of his message in the quiet seclusion of the presidential yacht, which remained at anchor in Manila Bay a few hundred yards off the Independence Grandstand on the Luneta.

President's Month in Review: January 25-31, 1959

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

January 25—EARLY morning, the President and the First Lady heard mass at the presidential yacht Santa Maria.

At 8 a.m., the President left the yacht which was anchored just off the Manila Bay breakwater and proceeded to an undisclosed place to complete the draft of his annual message to Congress.

The President finally okeyed the draft of his speech about 2 p.m., by which time he ordered that it be taken to the Bureau of Printing to be set into print.

President Garcia then motored to his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City at 5 p.m. He spent the night there.

THE President will recommend to Congress the further simplification of judicial procedures with the view to rendering more effective and expeditious the administration of justice, it was announced by Press Secretary Jose C. Nable today.

The President said that the nation's judicial processes, characterized by century-old formalistic rituals, often brought about interminable, delays in the settlement of litigations and the resultant clogging of court dockets.

The Chief Executive expressed desire to have unessential formalities dispensed with so that the presiding magistrate might get to the issues involved as soon as possible and effect prompt adjudication of controversies.

Noting the marked increase in the rate at which cases had been disposed by the courts during the past year, the President nevertheless saw the need for devising ways of insuring swift disposition of cases because of the steady Acreage in population and the proportionate increase in the number of litigations expected to be brought before the courts of justice.

He said that everyone seeking it should be given his day in court and accorded his right to a fair and speedy trial.

The President will also recommend to Congress the enactment of remedial measures to improve conditions obtaining in penal institutions and to put a stop to the apparent uneasiness among inmates of the state penitentiaries.

January 26.—THIS morning, the President received members of the joint committee from the Senate and the House of Representatives, who called on him at Malacañang to inform him that this year's session of Congress had been formally opened.

Composing the joint legislative committee were Sens. Lorenzo M. Tañada, Emmanuel Pelaez, and Pacita M. Gonzalez, and Reps. Ramon Bagatsing, Justiniano S. Montano, and Valeriano Yancha.

The legislators were ushered to the music room of Malacañang by Legislative Secretary Vicente Logarta, Assistant Executive Secretary, Enrique C. Quema, and Lt. Col. Emilio Borromeo, senior presidential aide.

President Garcia reviewed with his callers his pet administration bills which he wanted enacted during this session, particularly those on the synchronization of elections, habeas corpus, multiple currency reserve system, and revenue measures.

The President's first caller was Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo, who reported briefly to the Chief Executive. No details were released by Malacañang on the subjects taken up by Romulo with the President.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon delivered his state-of-the-nation message before a joint session of Congress, formally marking the opening of the regular session of the Congress.

The President was warmly applauded 12 times by the senators and congressmen, who listened intently to his recommendations for legislative implementation.

The First Lady accompanied the President to the session hall of the House of Representatives.

The President started reading his message promptly at 5 o'clock this afternoon and finished with it after an hour and thirty two minutes. As the President and the First Lady entered the session hall, the senators and the congressmen and the people who packed the galleries gave the First Couple a standing ovation.

From Congress, the President and the First Lady returned to Malacañang.

THE President today issued Proclamation No. 554, declaring the period from February 1 to 7 1959 as "Aid to the Blind and the Handicapped Week."

The President set aside the first week of February as an annual fund raising week for the benefit of the blind and the handicapped to be conducted by the Social Welfare Administration. The moneys to be raised during the week will be called the "Blind and Handicapped Fund" and will be controlled and administered by the Social Welfare Administrator.

In order to insure the success of the fund drive, the President called upon all citizens and residents and all civic-spirited organizations and associations to lend their support to the campaign.

January 27.—PRESIDENT Garcia this Morning congratulated executives of the Development Bank of the Philippines for having implemented one of the most important objectives of his administration; namely, helping the small farmers.

The Chief Executive was the principal speaker at the opening session of the three-day intra-agency conference of DBP officials, branch managers, agency heads, and agricultural appraisers held in the social hall of Malacañang.

Other speakers were DBP Chairman Gregorio S. Licaros, who outlined the bank's ₱50 million agricultural loan program for 1959 to help bolster the productive potential, of the rural areas, and NEC Chairman Jose C Locsin, who talked on the NEC-sponsored three-year socio-economic program for the masses.

In a 30-minute off-the-cuff speech, the President emphasized that the establishment of a sound agricultural economy was a requisite for the success of any country's program of industrialization.

He told the conferees that Congress and the Administration were aware that the success of this country's Agricultural development program rested principally upon the small farmers who comprised approximately 65 per cent of the population of the Philippines.

The-successful implementation of the new financial assistance program of the DBP specially geared for the small farmers will answer a long-felt need, he added.

He called oh bank officials to help the farmers by minimizing red tape in the processing of loan applications so that the farmers will receive the money when they need it most.

President Garcia also traced the evolution of the DBP from its predecessor, the Rehabilitation Finance Corporation, which, he said, had already accomplished its mission of helping the nation recover from the ravages of World War II.

The Development Bank, of the Philippines, lie said, is now charged with helping in the exploitation and development of the country's vast agricultural and industrial potential. For this reason, Congress has seen fit to provide the DBP with sufficient funds to carry out this objective namely, 50 per cent of the proceeds from the sale of reparations items accumulated through a period of 20 years.

DBP Chairman Licaros enumerated the objectives of the joint NEC-DBP overall economic development program as follows:

- (1) To accelerate development in agriculture through extension of readily available and adequate credit facilities to farmers;
- (2) To provide increased job opportunities in the provinces and thus prevent the influx of additional unemployed to urban centers of the country; and
- (3) To maximize the social and economic benefits accruing from every peso invested in this type of loans.

THE PRESIDENT received officials of the International Harvester Company and the Merck Sharp and Dohme International, who paid separate courtesy balls at Malacañang this morning.

Hugh A. Davies, vice-president of the International Harvester Export Company of Chicago, called on the President accompanied by Paul Wood, president of the IH Company of the Philippines.

Davies had helped in the preparation for the reception of President and Mrs. Garcia in Chicago during their state visit to the United States last year.

President Garcia received a standing invitation from Davies and Wood to view the display of IH farm equipment at the company's office on Marques de Comillas Street.

He was also informed of their appreciation for the cooperation of Philippine Machine Shop operators who turn out parts for IH equipment.

The President was told that the company had successfully tried this program in other underdeveloped countries of the world.

Antonie T. Knoppers, Huskel E. Kaireb, and Walter Peyer, president, vice-president, and director, respectively, of the Merck, Sharp, and Dohme International, well-known drug manufacturers, also paid a courtesy call on the President.

They were accompanied by Yao Shiong Shio, president of the drug laboratory bearing his initials and distributor in the Philippines of Merck Sharp, and Dohme products.

Minister Nicanor Roxas former Philippine consul general to San Francisco received final instructions from President Garcia prior to his departure for the Hague to assume his new post as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the Netherlands.

President Garcia, also received Cebu Reps. Sergio Osmeña, Jr., and Isidro C. Kintanar with whom he had an exchange of views on the economic problems of the country.

Other presidential callers this morning were Don Manolo Elizalde and Carl Landegger, and Provincial Board Member Lino R. Azicate of Catanduanes and Salvador Madarang of Zambales, who requested the Chief Executive to set aside a date for the officers of the League of Provincial Board Members of the Philippines to call on him.

PRESIDENT Garcia directed Commerce Secretary Pedro C. Hemae today to shelve all applications for barter allowed under Republic Act 1410, better known as the no-dollar import law.

The presidential directive was handed down less than 24 hours after his state-of-the-nation address was delivered before a joint session of Congress in which he strongly recommended the immediate repeal of the law. The presidential directive came a few hours after the Senate had unanimously voted to repeal the law in its session today.

The directive to freeze all applications for barter was made to strengthen. President Garcia's bid to save government revenues which dropped by about $80 million as a result of the implementation of the law last year.

The President took occasion to reiterate that the importation duty-free of personal effects by returning residents had not only deprived the government of substantial revenue but had also resulted in the commission of abuses and frauds.

This temptation to graft and corruption must be eliminated, the President said.

President Garcia underscored the importance of repealing the law when he said that its implementation had given, rise to over-shipment downgrading and under-pricing of exports, and overpricing of imports.

This procedure President Garcia said enabled the salting away of millions of dollars in foreign countries which should have gone to the government to boost its dollar reserves.

The repeal of Republic Act 1410 is one of 14 recommendations submitted by the President to Congress for congressional approval during its session which opened yesterday.

THE President certified today to the Court of Industrial Relations the labor dispute between the Philippine Air Lines management and the employees and workers affiliated with the Philippine Air Lines Employees Association (PALEA)

In certifying the dispute, the Chief Executive requested the CIR to take immediate steps under the law in order to effect a solution mutually beneficial to both the management and the employees.

The President pointed out that the existing strike with the attendant picketing is jeopardizing the national interest because the service of the Philippine Air Lines is indispensable to the postal service of the country, national defense, air transportation of passengers and cargo, including newspaper and general merchandise.

The Chief Executive stressed that the Philippine Air Lines was the only scheduled air carrier and the only carrier of air mail throughout the country.

The President also took cognizance of the role PAL plays in furnishing maintenance work, ground handling, food service for foreign carriers like Pan American World Airways, Scandinavian Airways System, KLM, Garuda Indonesian Airways, Air de France, and Vicil Air Transport, saying stoppage of work would seriously disrupt, if not paralyze, international transportation.

The President said the strike would, greatly handicap the country's defense potential since PAL also maintains and overhauls aircraft of the Philippine Air Force, the U. S. Air Force, and the U. S. Navy.

January 28.—MONSIGNOR Egidio Vagnozzi, Papal Nuncio to the Philippines, paid a farewell call this morning on the President at his residence on Bohol Avenue in Quezon City.

Msgr. Vagnozzi presented as his farewell gift to the President a priceless antique vase dating back to around 2 or 3 B.C. which had been found in the excavations near Foggia, Polie, Italy.

The apostolic nuncio is scheduled to leave Friday on board the S.S. Cambridge for Rome for consultation and to receive final instructions before proceeding to his new assignment in Washington, D. C. He served in the Philippines for almost ten years, having arrived in this country in 1949 as papal legate.

President Garcia will honor the departing dean of the local diplomatic corps with a despedida state dinner this evening at Malacañang on the eve of his departure.

Meanwhile, a five-man team from the Filipino Shipowners' Association called on President Garcia this morning to receive further instruction before leaving for Japan sometime this week to assist Chairman Jose Rodriguez and General Manager Jose Panganiban of the National Development Company in the preparation of specifications for the final contract to purchase 12 ocean-going vessels from Japan. The vessels will be the nucleus of the Philippines' merchant marine fleet, which is intended to boost local industries.

THE CABINET approved this afternoon the sale of the ₱14 million Maria Cristina Fertilizer Plant in Lanao at a public bidding in line with the Administration's policy of withdrawing from competitive business when private capital is willing to take over.

Malacañang said the plant was assessed at ₱14,643,955.48.

The Maria Cristina Fertilizer Plant will be the third government corporation to be disposed or placed in the market by the government.

The first corporation sold by the government was the Bacnotan Cement Plant, a subsidiary of the Cebu Portland Cement Company, and the government shares in the Philippine Electrical Manufacturing Company.

In approving the sale of the fertilizer plant in Lanao, the Cabinet-imposed the following conditions:

1. Sale must be made at a public bidding;
2. Only Filipinos and Americans or Filipino or American-controlled corporations can participate in the public bidding;
3. The successful bidder must enter into a contract with the National Power Corporation to purchase power and energy from the NPC at specified rates; and
4. Ordinary workers of the plant must be absorbed by the new owner. The Cabinet members said that in the sale of government corporations, the plight of the workers must be taken into account.

When asked to comment on the charges filed in court against Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, President Carlos P. Garcia said that he will study the matter in consultation with Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera.

THIS EVENING President Garcia directed the Department of Justice to study the possibility of suspending Secretary of Finance Jaime Hernandez following his induction in the Manila court of first instance for "possession of prohibited interest by a public officer."

Secretary Barrera conferred with President Garcia this evening on the prosecution of Secretary Hernandez before the Manila court of first instance.

In that conference, Barrera was instructed to study the case further and submit his recommendations on what action the President would take on the case

The President asked Barrera to study the legal aspects of the Hernandez case which is said to be the first of its kind to be filed with the Philippine courts

January 29.—PRESIDENT Garcia conferred with Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera about noon today regarding the case filed against Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez with the Manila Court of First Instance by City Fiscal Hermogenes Concepcion, Jr.

After the conference, President Garcia said he consulted with Secretary Barrera on certain aspects of the case and that he had called for mere facts in order to be in a position to determine the proper course of action he would take

Earlier, the Chief Executive received governors and congressmen from the Bicol provinces. Through Gov. Juan Trivino of Camarines Sur who acted as their spokesman, they expressed the faith and confidence of their group and of the people they represented in the integrity of Secretary Hernandez.

Gov Triviño said they did not wish to exert pressure on anybody but only wanted that the ordinary procedures in the administration of justice be respected, such as the customary raffle in the assignment of cases to judges.

The President was informed that they had no question regarding the choice of Judge Arsenio Solidum to try the case nor of Fiscal Concepcion who will handle the prosecution.

They said however, that there seemed to have been some-undue haste in the filing of the case inasmuch as ordinarily it took a week or two of preliminary investigations before, a case reached the court.

Composing the Bicol group that called on President Garcia at Malacañang this morning were Triviño; Reps. Agaton Ursua and Felix A. Fuentebella of Camarines, Sur, Pedro Venida of Camarines Norte, Emilio Espinosa of Masbate, Vicente Peralta and Salvador, Encinas of Sorsogon; Sens. Pedro A. Sabido and Pacita M. Gonzalez; Reparations Commissioner Juan Alberto; and: Gov. Juan G. Frivaldo of Sorsogon.

Several other provincial delegations from Sulu and Davao also went to Malacañang to present Resolutions requesting financial assistance, for the construction or reconstruction of public, works projects in their respective provinces.

The Davao delegation was accompanied by General Services Secretary Alejandro Almendras, Rep. Gavino Sepulveda, and Gov. Vicente Duterte. Among the members were Davao City Councilor Elias Lopez and Mayors Nonito Lianas, Felix Bandanas, Oswaldo-Barol, and Nestorio Cumabig. Aside from submitting requests for financial aid, the Davaweños also briefed the President on the political situation in the province and the city.

The delegation from Sulu was led by Sen. Domocao Alonto and Rep. Sahpada Pendatun of Cotabato and was composed of Abraham Rasul, Alawi Abubakar, Singh Abubakar, Hadji Nur, Miguel Ycaza, F. Sindayen, and H. Jayari.

Rep. Pendatun, who acted as spokesman, conveyed the gratitude of the people of Sulu for the temporary lifting of the ban on the special trade between Sulu and Borneo.

The ban was recently imposed following discovery that some Muslim traders and Kumpit owners had abused their privilege by acting as dummies of aliens and that their activities had caused the government a loss of thousands of pesos in revenues.

President Garcia was informed that the ban had caused hardships to majority of the people in Sulu, most of whom were dependent on the special trade for their livelihood.

Pendatun explained that because of the unstable peace and order situation in this southernmost province, many had abandoned their farms to engage in bartering locally produced copra for other goods available in Borneo.

He praised the government for taking the necessary steps to apprehend and recommend the prosecution to the fullest extent of the law of those unscrupulous traders who are dummies of alien businessmen.

The President also received from Abraham Rasul, representing the Mindanao Jaycees, a resolution passed during the third conference of different Mindanao chapter of the organization endorsing the Chief Executive's decision to lift temporarily the suspension of the special trade between Sulu and Borneo.

President Garcia told them he would direct that the Muslim traders be represented in the special committee organized to screen participants in the special trade in the Sulu ports of Jolo and Bongao to weed out undesirables.

He said he would study further the feasibility of appointing a Muslim representative to the Presidential Law Enforcement Unit in the Southern Philippines (PLEUSP)

The Chief Executive also received from 12 provincial governors and one city mayor checks totalling ₱25,672,00 representing funds they had raised in response to the government's peace and amelioration fund drive.

Among those who turned in their contributions were Cotabato Gov. Datu Udtog Matalan (represented by Rep. Pendatun), Govs. Josue Cadio of Antique, Amado Q. Aleta of Nueva Ecija, Tomas S. Martin of Bulacan, Conrado Estrella of Pangasinan, Bienvenido A. Ebarle of Zambanga del Sur, Marcos Resiña of Bukidnon, Feliciano Leviste of Batangas, Bernardino O. Almeda of Surigao, Esteban Bernido of Bohol, Francisco Infantado of Mindoro Oriental, Miguel Manguera of Marinduque, and Mayor Teves of Negros Oriental and Mayor Cipriano B. Colago of San Pablo City.

Officials of the Peace and Amelioration Fund Commission who attended the turn-over ceremonies were Manuel Elizalde, PAFC chairman; Col. Basilio Hernandez, executive officer; Oscar Mabilog, liaison officer; and Rodrigo Feria, PRO.

IN THE AFTERNOON, the President was the guest speaker at convocation in the Far Eastern University marking the start of celebrations commemorating the school's Silver Jubilee.

Nicanor Reyes, Jr., FEU vice-president, who delivered the opening remarks at the convocation, placed the resources of the university at the disposal of President Garcia in seeking solution of the country's "interminable problems."

LATER in the evening, the President honored Moris Egidio Vagnozzi, outgoing papal nuncio to the Philippines, at a despedida state dinner in Malacañang.

During the affair, the President conferred the decoration "Lakan" of the Order of Sikatuna on the apostolic nuncio for "extraordinary services" rendered in cementing the existing ties of friendship between the Holy See and the Republic of the Philippines and for his outstanding work in the development of a more cohesive and positive Catholic citizenry in the Philippines."

January 30.—SOME 200 students from the U.P. College of Agriculture in Los Baños, Laguna, marched today to Malacañang, to request the retention of Agriculture Secretary Juan de Rodriguez in the Cabinet.

Lt. Melchor Fronda, who had been sent by the President to meet the students, said President Garcia was busy preparing his budget and his message to Congress.

Fronda said he will transmit their sentiments to the President.

The delegation was headed by Prof. Andres Aglibot and Gudy Calleja and Ceciho Anda, president and vice-president, respectively, of the student body.

After the press conference, the President received Samar officials headed by Sen. Decoroso Rosales. With the group were Gov. Fernando Velos, Eladio Balite, and Felipe Abrigo. Rep Marcelino Veloso of Leyte was also with the delegation.

President Garcia then received a delegation of officials from Negros Oriental. The group was composed of Gov. Serafin Teves and Reps. Lorenzo Teves and Lamberto Macias.

President Garcia this afternoon said that the existing Philippine-American relations have been shaken by "irritants" and singled out the Time magazine as having "done more damage" the ties binding the two countries.

At his regular press conference, the President said that Philippine-American relations have not yet deteriorated but stressed he was seeking to "smoke out" the irritants" which had plagued the affinity of the two countries.

The President also unburdened himself against the weekly US news magazine which had twice, riled him and his administration.

"Bell is 'persona non grata' to many 'Filipinos,'" the President said. However, he underscored his policy of giving foreign newsmen free entry into the country.

In answer to questions fired by newsmen, the President said that Time would do well, if "it would change its correspondent in the Philippines."

Asked if he would favor the grant of a visa to Bell, the President-Waved aside the question saying the issue is before Consul General Eduardo Rosal in Hongkong.

Rosal had denied Bell entry visa to the Philippines and the newsman appealed to higher government authorities.

He would not comment on a scheduled anti-Bell rally this evening at Plaza Miranda.

At the press conference, the President:

1. Said that Philippine foreign policy with regard to the United States remains the hanged although the country has shifted its program towards mere Asian consciousness;
2. Reiterates his stand against accepting from Communist countries.
3. Stated that he will wait for the resolution of the Manila court of first instance on the motion quashing against Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez before acting on the Hernandez case;
4. Indicated he would present a balanced budget to Congress before the deadline next February 9; and
5. Clarified his stand on the repeal of the barter trade law

Asked if he ran a pro-American candidate in the last election, the President said he launched his candidacy under the Nacionalista Party and won mainly on the basis of his stand on purely domestic issues.

He debunked the U. S. magazine article's insinuation that a pro-American candidate would easily win an election in the Philippines, and observed that Filipino electors vote mainly on the basis of domestic issues.

He said it is not incompatible for the Philippines to maintain present relations with the United States and at the same time promote closer relations with Asian countries.

Moreover, the President said, he has not yet gone over the report of Secretary of Justice Jesus G. Barrera on his inquiry into the so-called "White Paper." He said he did not have time to go over the Barrera report.

The President said he will wait until the Manila court has resolved, the Cabinet member's motion to quash his case before he would take action on the Secretary of Finance.

As for the new national budget, he explained it would consist of two category which he listed as "A" and "B."

He said that the "A" budget would contain merely the operational expenditures of the government to be supported by present revenue measures.

The "B" budget will be outlays for economic and social services.

On his alleged interference in legislative matters regarding the repeal of Republic Act No. 1410, otherwise known as the barter trade law, the President said that his view had been asked by the Senate-House conference committee.

He denied he had sought to salvage some barter applications being processed by the no-dollar import office of the Department of Commerce.

He said that while he was in favor of scrapping the barter law, he reminded the solons that legislative action towards the abrogation of the law would not affect adversely "perfected contracts."

He did not want to expose the government, he added, to several damage suits which may arise from the impairment of already-established contracts.

January 31.—PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon delivered the keynote address at the opening ceremonies of the seminar on socio-economic development of Mindanao, Sulu, and Palawan.

The three-day seminar is sponsored jointly by the Mindanao, Sulu, and Palawan Association and the Xavier University.

Leaving early this morning by plane, the President stopped by Ozamis City to inspect the damage caused by the recent fire which razed eleven blocks in the slum and business sections of Ozamis.

The Chief Executive expressed satisfaction in the prompt distribution of relief supplies to fire victims at an impromptu rally held in the middle of the burned area. He also presented a check for ₱50,000 to City Mayor Angel Medina in payment of cash advance used in the purchase of badly needed construction materials for homeless, residents.

Considered the worst fire to hit Mindanao, it rendered 824 families homeless, caused damage amounting to hundreds of thousands of pesos, and resulted in loss of one life.

Accompanying the President in his walk through the burned area were Mayor Medina, Vice-Mayor Rafael Gurbuxani, Gov. Diego Ty Deling, Reps. Alberto Ubay of Zamboanga del Norte and Canuto Enerio of Zamboanga del Sur, Salipada Pendatun of Cotabato and Reynaldo Honrado of Surigao, Sen. Domocao Alonto, Brig. Gen. Locsin, General Services Secretary Alejandro Almendras, Social Welfare Administrator Amparo Villamor, DANR Under Secretary Amando Dalisay, Highways Commissioner Nicolas Cuenca, and Assistant Executive Secretary Sofronio C. President's Week in Review: February 1-7, 1959

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

February 1.— EARLY morning, the President heard mass at the Camp Philipps chapel in Del Monte, Bukidnon.

He and his party had breakfast in the camp at 8:30 a.m. At 9:00a.m. they took off for the return trip to Manila, arriving here at noon. At the Del Monte airport, the President talked to a group of pineapple planters who, upon seeing the Chief Executive, flocked to him. The President gave them a brief pep talk on the need for increased production.

In the evening he addressed the award affair of the Philippine Council of Industrial Editors held at the National Press Club.

The council is composed of press relations men and house organ editors of a number of government and private firms, including some whose executives are among the awardees of the council.

President Garcia in his speech expressed confidence that greater Filipino interest will boost the current economic emancipation movement in the country.

The President predicted that the United States' success in wresting her economy from alien control after political independence "will also happen here"

The Chief Executive said there is a crying need for greater Filipino participation in the improvement of the country's economic structure.

He expressed hope that, with greater Filipino participation, the 400 years of foreign domination of the country's economy will be turned over to local interests "on a wisely graduated scale."

However President Garcia urged patience in achieving this economic emancipation program saying that the country which had achieved independence from foreign domination could change right away its economic structure from that of the former ruler."

The President recalled that the US was able to wrest its economy from alien control only after many years following political independence. He added that such a pattern "will also happen here."

The Chief Executive also assailed what he called the prophets of disaster for painting bleak picture of the future of the country.

He lauded the leaders of industry here who, he said, with faith and confidence in themselves and in their government, did not listen to discouraging talks but instead forged ahead to help the economy of the country get on its feet.

The President pointed out that he was not very happy with the present situation where the country's minerals, such as iron ores, are being exported abroad for processing.

He said that this situation cannot and must not be allowed to continue. "We will have to process ore here and thus give birth to subsidiary industries," he said.

February 2.—PRESIDENT Garcia received today members of the Draper committee and gave them the green light to meet officials of the Departments of Foreign Affairs and National Defense.

Receiving the members during a breakfast Conference in his, Quezon City residence, the President, said that the meeting was more of a personal call.

He said that the technical phases will be discussed by technical men in the Departments of Foreign Affairs and National Defense.

The Draper committee, composed of Dillon Anderson; Gen. J. Lawton Collins, retired U.S. chief of staff; Charles Wolf, Jr., of the Rand Corp; and Cols. Victor Alden and Ed Lansdale, arrived last Friday. They are on a survey of U.S. military assistance in the Far East. The committee was named by President Eisenhower.

The President granted executive clemency today to six blind prisoners in connection with the observance of the "Aid to the Blind and Other Physically Handicapped Week."

The prisoners were turned over to the vocational rehabilitation office of the Social Welfare Administration for vocational training. They are all completely blind and had served minimum sentences.

The Aid to the Blind and Other Physically Handicapped Week had been proclaimed by the President to last from February 1 to 7, this year, within which to raise a trust fund for the handicapped. He had urged all citizens and residents of this country to support the fund drive.

PRESIDENT Garcia today tackled the proposed budget which he intends to send to Congress before the constitutional deadline on February 9.

Present at the conference were Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno, Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, and Chairman Jose C. Locsin of the National Economic Council.

A Malacañang spokesman said the conference started about 9 o'clock and broke up at lunchtime. The conference was resumed after lunch.

From his conference with his fiscal advisers, the President presided over the special meeting of his Cabinet, and took up anew his proposed budget.

THE CABINET in a special meeting this evening, approved a ₱973 million budget for the next fiscal year, including a "reduced" appropriation of ₱738 million for the current operating expenses of the government.

President Garcia will submit his budget proposal to Congress on or before Monday next week.

The President explained at his press conference last Friday that the proposed budget for the next fiscal year will carry two phases; namely, the "A" budget and the "B" budget.

The "A" budget will be financed by the present revenue laws while the proposed "B" budget of 235 million will be supported by the new tax bills which Malacañang will endorse to Congress as complementary legislation.

Significantly, the Cabinet increased the Army budget from the current ₱175 million appropriation to ₱179 million.

The new figure carries an allocation of ₱171 million from the "A" budget and ₱8 million from the "B" budget.

Malacañang explained that the appropriations under the "B" budget are contingent upon the approval of tax measures which will be endorsed to Congress.

The Department of Education registered the biggest leap in figures with an increase of ₱22 million.

The increase in the appropriation for the Department of Education was made because of the opening of 3,000 new classes. The increased appropriation will prevent the recurrence of a school crisis every opening of the academic year.

The Department of Foreign Affairs was also given a ₱1 million increase from its present ₱7 million appropriation.

The President's contingent fund was increased from ₱5 million to ₱8 million.

The Department of Health, however, recorded a reduction of ₱4 million from its present appropriation of ₱54 million, while the Department of Labor was given a raise of ₱1 million over its present allocations of ₱1 million.

The Department of Justice and Congress were given allocations of ₱22 million and ₱12 million, respectively, while the Department of Finance got a big increase from ₱73 million to ₱162 million.

The finance appropriation was broken, however, into ₱59 million in the "A" budget and ₱102 million in the "B" budget.

The office of the Vice-President's appropriation was given a ₱2 million raise while the office of the President has an identical item of ₱24 million.

President Garcia and the Cabinet passed two separate resolutions one condoling with the family of the late Undersecretary of Foreign Affairs Juan Alcazaren, and the other condoling with the family of the late Martin Aguilar, one time undersecretary of education.

February 3. — PRESIDENT Carlos P. Garcia received a warm indorsement today from the Council of State for a state visit to South Vietnam sometime next April.

The President's forthcoming trip, the second of its kind in Asia, was described as consistent with President Garcia's pronouncements to develop closer ties with Asian nations.

Congress leaders, led by Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, and majority floor leader Senator Cipriano Primicias, spoke warmly in favor of the proposed state visit of the President.

Former President Sergio Osmeña, Sen. Claro M. Recto and Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano took turns in indorsing the state visit describing the trip as worthwhile and in reciprocation of the state visit made to the Philippines last April by President Ngo Dinh Diem.

The Council of State also discussed freely the possibility of President Garcia visiting other Asian and Southeast Asian nations in the very near future.

They underscored the importance of developing educational, cultural, political and economic ties with Asian nations.

The invitation to visit South Vietnam was personally extended to President Garcia during President Diem's visit to the Philippines last year. It was reiterated in an official communication from Ambassador Trinidad Legarda to the Department of Foreign Affairs.

The exact date of the state visit will be decided by President Garcia. The council of State gave the President a vote of confidence in selecting the appropriate date of his departure. The trip may last only about five days.

The Council of State also approved the floatation of ₱100 million worth of bonds spread over a period of nine years to finance the acquisition of 12 ocean-going vessels which will form the nucleus of a Philippine merchant marine in connection with the implementation of the overseas shipping act.

In an unprecedented four-hour meeting at Malacañang this afternoon the Council of State also approved:

- (1) The request of the Civil Aeronautics Administration for the release of ₱250,000 to pay obligations in connection with the acquisition of privately-owned lands within the Lahug airport in Cebu;
- (2) The financing of the Marikina multi-purpose project and the improvement and expansion of the telecommunications system; and
- (3) The request of the Department of Education for the release of ₱2,350,000 for the current fiscal year for projects of the Jose Rizal National Centennial Commission.

In approving the acquisition of 12 ocean-going vessels, the President and the Council of the State agreed to the advisability of having an overseas shipping fleet so that this country could have at least a share in the freight charges of its imports and exports. It was pointed out that at present Philippine bottoms carry less than three per cent of the nation's exports and imports and the acquisition of these vessels from Japan would enable the country to handle about ten per cent of its shipping requirements.

The acquisition of the vessels involved the floatation of bonds worth ₱100 million over a period of nine years broken down as follows: 1959—₱6,480,00; 1960—₱12,052,000; 1961—₱13,357,000; 1962—₱13,348,800; 1963—₱12,830,400; 1964—₱12,312,000; 1965—₱11,793,600; 1966—₱11,275,200; and 1967—₱6,551,000.

The Marikina multi-purpose project is recognized to be vital to the economic development of the country. Among the benefits cited at the Council meeting were that:

- (1) It would generate 68,600 kw of power and 141,000,000 kwh of energy, for Luzon;
- (2) It would supply Manila and environs with an additional 270,000,000 cubic meters of water annually which will solve the recurrent water shortage problem;
- (3) It would provide sufficient water for the irrigation, of 6,200 hectares of productive agricultural lands on a year-round basis; and
- (4) It would solve Manila's flood problem attributed to the overflow of the Pasig River.

For this project, the government will secure $32 million credit line from the Export-Import Bank of Japan with which to pay for the necessary machinery, equipment, supplies, and materials. Repayment will be made after, a grace period of three years from the commencement of the project, extending through a period of 10 years thereafter, with reparations payments earmarked as guarantee.

Financing for the expansion and improvement of the telecommunications system will be under the same deferred payment formula and will involve the amount of $12, million. The Japanese Government will extend credit to Japanese firms which will supply goods and services by facilitating loans to Japanese firms to the extent of 80 per cent from the Export-Import Bank of Japan and 20 per cent from local banks.

The Council meeting lasted from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. with a detailed report rendered by Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno on the history of negotiations undertaken, with the Japanese Government on the Marikina and telecom projects taking a considerable portion of the time. During the meeting, the public works secretary was subjected to searching questions propounded by Sens. Recto and Primicias as well as by Vice-President Diosdado Macapagal and Rep. Cornelio Villareal on various aspects of the project.

The Vice-President abstained from voting on the proposed acquisition of 12 vessels from Japan and the Marikina multi-purpose project and the telecom expansion and improvement project. Among the reasons Macapagal advanced for his abstention was that the proposed floatation of bonds would contribute to inflationary pressure already affecting the nation's economy.

Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, however, explained that this would not be so, as the proceeds from the bonds would be utilized for the repayment of loans in Japan.

Former President Sergio Osmeña, Sr., endorsed the proposals for the benefits it would give to the national economy.

AFTER the Council of State meeting, the President received members of the Tax Advisory Board and took up with them the proposed tax measures which Malacañang will endorse to Congress to support the "B" budget in the fiscal plan of the year 1959-1960.

Present at the conference were Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Acting Internal Revenue Commissioner Melecio R. Domingo, BIR Board Secretary Elias E. Vega, Customs Commissioner Eleuterio Capapas, Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, Customs Legal Counsel Casimiro G. Caluag, Alfonso Calalang, and Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno.

In the morning, the President received members of the House of Representatives with whom he discussed the need to amend certain provisions, of the Reparations Act.

He reiterated his recommendation to Congress in his state-of-the-nation message, last, January 26 that the reparations law should be amended

The President said people engaged in the mining industry had complained that their enterprises could not benefit from the reparations, as some-alien investors had bought shares from the stock exchange.

The President explained to the solons that under the present set up as long as foreigners buy even a single stock of a Filipino enterprise, it is automatically excluded from the benefits of the Reparations Act which specifically provides that "entitles wholly owned by Filipino citizens" could apply for reparations.

The solons who saw the President were Reps. Tobias Fornier, Nicanor Yñiguez, Ramon Bagatsing, Manuel Zosa, Jacobo Gonzales, Delfin Albano, Lucas Parades, Vicente Gustilo, Apolinario Apacible, and Wenceslao Rancap Lagumbay

February 4.— THIS morning, the President did not receive any caller.

Before presiding over the weekly Cabinet meeting this afternoon, the President received the officials of the Philippine Base Metals Association who appraised him of the problems facing the mining industry.

They reported that they have always been set back with the problems of securing dollars to pay the transportation of their ores to other countries. They lauded the President's interest in developing the mining industry. Those who saw the President were Jesus Cabarrus, David Weinstein, Conrado Benitez, Sebastian Ugarte, Henry A. Brimo, Jose Robles, and H. G. Cawile.

THE CABINET this evening voted to restore the seventh grade in public schools in June and immediately created a five-man committee to tap sources of revenue to finance the seventh grade classes.

President Garcia named Education Secretary Manuel Lim as head of the committee, which will also study the establishment of an educational trust fund.

The seventh grade was abolished under the Educational Act of 1940. The grade was suppressed in the 1941 school year.

The grade was restored by legislation passed by Congress after the war, but its implementation by public schools has been deferred because of lack of funds for the additional classes, teachers, and teaching equipment required.

Some private schools, however, have already restored the seventh grade.

President Garcia favored the restoration of the seventh grade in an effort to improve the standard of education in public schools and raise the quality of their graduates.

Other members of the committee are Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, Secretary of Public Works Florencio Moreno, and National Economic Council Chairman Jose Locsin

Secretary Lim recommended the restoration of the seventh grade in one of measures he presented at the Cabinet meeting to improve the quality of the graduates and students in public institutions.

He pointed out that some private institutions had already implemented the law.

Lim also recommended the giving of uniform examinations to public school teachers by the Department of Education. He said this system of examination, will raise the standard of instruction in the public schools.

At the same time, Lim sought the allocation of ₱600 million for the budget of the Department of Education.

He said that the department has only 56 staffers although classes have increased and the curricula of public schools have become more complicated.

He said the department needs additional funds to increase its personnel.

Malacañang said the Cabinet studied the possibility of creating the educational trust fund as a source of money to finance public schools.

This fund will draw money from government revenues by increasing taxes on the residence, real estate, inheritance, and gift and documentary taxes.

It was learned that proposals were made to increase the rates of these various levies and channel the margin of collection to the educational trust fund.

President Garcia told the committee, members to have the proposed measure ready by the last week of the month in order that it would be submitted to Congress as early as possible.

President Garcia wants the restoration of the seventh grade to be effected at the opening of the academic year in June.

Lim also sought the early release of the 20 per cent of the proceeds from the reparations payments to finance the construction of more school buildings.

The education secretary said that although his department is allocated 20 percent of the proceeds from reparations payments he could not have the money available until five years.

He sought Cabinet authority to draw the amounts in advance in order that the school buildings could be constructed

Lim underscored the need of constructing durable buildings unlike the pre-fabricated schoolhouses which have been set up by Army engineers.

THIS EVENING, the President supported the decision of Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano denying the issuance of a visa to James Bell, Time magazine correspondent for the Far East.

The President emphasised that freedom of the press is not being curtailed in this country, as Time magazine is free to send to the Philippines any other correspondent.

In receiving the Serrano report, President Garcia took Occasion to reiterate that he will not tolerate such articles marring Philippine-American relations.

A Malacañang spokesman said the articles filed by Mr. Bell have followed a systematic pattern of character assassination, such articles being highly colored, biased, and one-sided.

Secretary Serrano imposed a perpetual bar on the entry into the country of Bell.

Serrano upheld a decision of Minister Eduardo L. Rosal, chief of the Philippine consulate general in Hongkong, denying Bell a PI visa because he was "persona, non grata" here.

The secretary informed all Philippine diplomatic and consular establishments abroad of his action, and directed them, in effect, to refuse Bell a PI visa wherever he applies.

February 5.—THE President this day moved to expedite, the exchange of notes between the governments of the Philippines and Japan regarding the construction of the Marikina multi-purpose project and the expansion of the telecommunications system when he discussed with his advisers on the final instructions to Minister Cesar Lanuza, head of the Reparations Mission in Japan.

The instructions will be relayed to Lanuza by Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, who was called by the President to the conference which lasted four hours at Malacañang today. The conference broke up at 2 p.m.

Also present at the conference were Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno, Reparations Commissioners Rodolfo Maslog and Alejo Santos, Public Works Director Julian Buendia, General Manager Filemon Zablan, the National Power Corporation, Executive Director Gregorio G. Abad of the Reparations Commission, and Pedro Afafe of the Department of Public Works.

Before the conference which started at 10 a.m., President Garcia conferred with Malacañang aides and Assistant Executive Secretary Sofronio C. Quimson.

President Garcia ordered today a closer scrutiny of all contracts involving ₱10,000 or more entered into between offices of the national government and other parties by requiring that they be submitted to the auditor general for examination and review before they are consummated or perfected.

This step was taken to protect the interests of the government and is expected to prevent collusion between unscrupulous officials and shady contractors.

The new requirement, contained in Administrative Order No. 290, signed by the Chief Executive, covers all bureaus and offices, agencies and instrumentalities, of the government, including government owned and/or controlled corporations.

The immigration case of Mrs. Elizabeth Cameron-Laguatan was elevated to Malacañang as President Garcia, instructed today Judge Salvador Esguerra, legal adviser, to study the case for comment and recommendation.

The President's directive was given following receipt of a letter from Immigration Commissioner Emilio L. Galang, who pleaded the case of the Australian woman who had been admitted into the country as a temporary visitor and subsequently married to a Filipino.

Galang recommended to the Chief Executive two alternatives, namely, that the President exercise his discretion to set aside the requirement of reciprocity in immigration, as this was more a matter of policy than a legal requirement, and grant Mrs Laguatan permission to reside here as a non-quota immigrant, or that he admit Mrs. Laguatan for an indefinite residence in the Philippines as an alien as long as her marriage lasts.

Judge Esguerra is expected to submit his report tomorrow.

February 6.— PRESIDENT Garcia said today that American capital is most welcomed in the Philippines. He made the statement before a group of American businessmen who are surveying new opportunities for American investments here.

He added that American capital is specially needed in the exploitation of Philippine mineral resources

The American businessmen were James Crafts, president of the Firemen's Fund Insurance Company of New York, James Nichols, president of the American Foreign Insurance Association; and Victor Bello, Far East supervisor of the American Foreign Insurance Association. They were accompanied to Malacañang by Vicencio Richards and Ramon L Abad, local businessmen.

The President also received Edward Michaelsen, vice-president of the Phelps Dodge Copper Products Corporation who was accompanied by Sebastian Ugarte, vice-president of the Soriano y Compañía, Lee Telesco, and Timothy Golden.

Other presidential callers were Rep Emilio Cortez, Dr Gil Gaddi, and Commodore Jose Francisco, Philippine Navy chief.

Earlier, the President had a breakfast conference with Secretary of Foreign, Affairs Felixberto Serrano. The conference was held at the President's Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City.

The Chief Executive motored to Malacañang about 10 a.m. where he received scheduled callers up to 1:00 p.m.

PRESIDENT Garcia today justified the ban on the entry here of James Bell, Time-Life correspondent, saying that even the United States has barred Filipinos from entering the American mainland for "lesser causes."

He issued the statement after inducting the new officers of the Business Writers Association of the Philippines, shortly after his regular press conference in Malacañang today.

The President said Philippine rejection of a visa to, Bell did not infringe the constitutional provision of the freedom of the press.

"The Time magazine," President Garcia told newsmen, "can send another reporter to cover the Philippines."

He recalled Secretary Hernaez was present and offered no objection during a Cabinet meeting when the plan seeking the repeal of Republic Act No. 1410, otherwise known as the No-Dollar Import Law, was brought up.

At the press conference, the President:

1. Said he is still waiting for Judge Salvador Esguerra's report on the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Cameron-Laguatan, an Australian temporary visitor who married a Filipino businessman.
2. Said that Rep. Manuel Cases of La Union missed the point in charging the Nacionalista Party with "ingratitude" for allegedly generating anti-American sentiment in the Philippines;
3. Said the Administration has endeavored and expressed optimism that it would be able to eliminate the "irritants" which had strained Philippine-American relations;
4. Admitted there are plans of reinstating the Jose Aranas as commissioner of internal revenue, although no formal order has been issued yet to that effect;
5. Appealed to the country against the "defeatist" attitude of some Filipinos in painting a bleak future of the nation's economy; and
6. Said he has not yet taken action on the administrative cases of National Treasurer Vicente Gella and Undersecretary of Finance Jose P. Trinidad.

The President stressed the Bell's writings have done much damage to Philippine-American relations, and that the "higher interest of the country is above the personal interest of the Time correspondent."

President Garcia said it had been ascertained that Bell wrote and was responsible for the two critical articles appearing in two separate issues of the Time magazine.

Asked to comment on reports that Bell would cover President's visit to South Vietnam, the President reported: "That is not for the government to decide."

However, he said he did not want Philippine-American relations to be "disturbed by articles like those appearing in the Time magazine."

When asked to comment on the possibility that Bell's successor would, write in the same vein as Bell's articles in the U.S. magazine, the President said: "We will make the decision later on."

The President said that although Philippine laws punish libel and derogatory articles, he said he did not want to sue the correspondent, but merely ban him from entering the country to spare him the efforts of getting prosecuted before Philippine courts.

In his talks with business writers, the President and even the United States government had banned Filipinos from entering the mainland for "lesser causes."

On the case of Hernaez, the President said the commerce secretary did not offer any objection as his opposition "would not have changed my message to Congress any way."

"I am not supposed to consult the members of my Cabinet," the President said. "However," he added, "I informed them of the contents of my state-of-the-nation message to Congress. Hernaez was present at that meeting."

Commenting on the charges aired by Rep. Cases that the Administration was generating anti-American sentiments to derail public opinion against the Nacionalista officials, the President said:

“We have been trying our best to improve the relations between the Philippines and the United States by seeking to eliminate the various irritants which had strained the ties between the two countries.”

He said there had been talks conducted between Philippine and U.S. representatives along many lines, in an effort to find a common ground of agreement and improve the Philippine-American relations.

President Garcia expressed optimism that the various issues which had stood on the way of Philippine-American relations could, be threshed out in a spirit of friendship.

He said his conference with Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano this morning dealt greatly on ways of stabilizing Philippine-American relations.

He said one of the subjects he discussed with the foreign affairs secretary was the Bell case. He said he also took up with Serrano reassignments and administrative matters, but excepted Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo from among the diplomatic officials who are up for reassignment.

In expressing his optimism on the successful conclusion of various negotiations to eliminate the “irritants” which had strained Philippine-American relations, President Garcia said, “I would like to think that even the United States government is desirous of improving the ties between the two countries.”

February 7.—EARLY this morning, the President discussed with Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona the proposed budget, including the presidential message which will accompany his fiscal plan to Congress.

President Garcia then conferred with the Council of Leaders and took up his proposed budget for the next fiscal year.

During the four-hour conference at his residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, the President explained his proposed budget which is composed of two items; namely, the “A” budget and the “B” budget.

He urged Congress leaders to support his tax measures which he proposes to submit to Congress tomorrow as complementary legislations of the budget.

The tax measures would support the “B” budget in an effort to avert deficit in the next fiscal year.

Malacañang said the President “discussed various measures with Congress leaders to insure congressional approval of pet administration bills.”

Present at the conference were Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr., Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, Speaker Protempore Constancio E. Castañeda, and Senate Majority Floor Leader Cipriano P. Primicias.

IN THE AFTERNOON, the President had merienda with publishers and editors of the various Manila newspapers and magazines.

It was learned the President took up the controversial case of James Bell, Time magazine correspondent who was banned from entering the country.

President Garcia, it was learned took up the Bell case because of the petitions being received from foreign correspondents in Tokyo and Manila seeking a reconsideration of the Bell case.

The President stressed during his talks with the publishers and editors that the decision of the secretary of foreign affairs supporting the denial of Bell's visa by Consul General Eduardo Rosal in Hongkong, did not violate the constitutional guarantee of the freedom of the press.

In the evening, the President went over the final draft of his budget message.

The President authorized today the release of ₱99,000 from his contingent funds to the Bureau of Plant Industry to intensify the current campaign against rat infestation in Lanao.

In a letter to the President requesting the release of funds, Plant Industry Director Eugenio E. Cruz stressed the urgent need for immediate action to save the rice crop in Lanao and to check the spread of the rodents to neighboring areas.

Director Cruz said more than 10 per cent of the total land area planted to rice has been attacked by rats.

Of the amount released, Cruz said ₱66,000 will be used for the purchase of chemicals and ₱33,000 for the payment of wages of laborers.

Official Week in Review: February 8 – February 14, 1959

February 8.—AFTER breakfast at his Bohol Avenue residence where he spent the night and heard mass this morning, the President read the Sunday papers.

Shortly before noon, he and the First Lady motored to the residence of Sen. Claro M. Recto on España extension to felicitate the “Father of the Constitution” on the occasion of his 69th birthday anniversary.

PRESIDENT Garcia directed today Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona to release P50,000 from his discretionary funds for the printing and publication of the records and pertinent papers of the constitutional convention of 1934–35.

The printing and editing of said materials will be undertaken by a committee composed of Sen. Claro M. Recto, chairman; and Dr. Jose P. Laurel, Manuel I. Abella, Camilo Osias, Jose M. Aruego, and Miguel Cuaderno, members.

The presidential directive was signed at a get-together given by the Chief Executive this afternoon in the ceremonial hall of Malacañang in honor of delegates to the convention on the occasion of the 24th anniversary of the promulgation of the Constitution.

In a brief extemporaneous speech before the delegates, the President solicited their support in affecting important amendments to the Constitution, particularly with regard to the synchronization of elections.

Stressing the importance and need of synchronizing elections, he said that elections every four years will give politicians financial and political respite and will enable them to carry out and realize the goals of their administration.

President Garcia also told them that the selection of senators should be readjusted so that they will be elected by districts and half of the body will be up for reelection every four years.

He requested the delegates to study the proposed amendments to the Constitution so that they can recommend the changes they believed necessary.

Dr. Jose P. Laurel, who spoke on behalf of the delegates, said the delegates knew at that time that the instrument they were preparing was not perfect and that amendments would be necessary to keep it up-to-date as the years passed.

He expressed satisfaction that their work had contributed much to the realization of the ideals of the people and to the government for which it stood.

Dr. Laurel also dwelt on the need for the publication of the proceedings of the Constitutional convention for posterity and as a help to lawyers and bar reviewers.

Dr. Manuel I. Abella, one of the delegates, acted as master of ceremonies at the impromptu program during the party.

February 9.—PRESIDENT Garcia gives five reasons to justify increased expenditures in the proposed budget for the fiscal year 1959–1960.

The proposed budget will be submitted to him tomorrow by Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona and transmitted to Congress on the same day.

President Garcia, in his message to Congress, advances the following reasons to justify the rise in government expenditures:

- (1) Increasing demands of rapidly growing population for more and improved public services;
- (2) Requirements of accelerated economic and social development;
- (3) Need for maintaining the Armed Forces to safeguard the democratic institutions;
- (4) Cost of general government operations; and
- (5) Fund requirements for servicing past and current debts.

The President is also expected to underscore the fact that the Administration is pledged to a policy of economy and that government expenditures always return to the people in terms of expanded services.

President Garcia cancelled all his appointments scheduled for this morning so that he could devote his time to his budget message which he will deliver to Congress tomorrow.

Immediately after breakfast in his Bohol Avenue residence, the President was closeted with Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona and they reviewed the P1.15 billion budget which the President will present to Congress along with proposed revenue measures to support it.

Based on existing laws and tax measures, P738,024,256 has been recommended for operating expenses and capital outlays in the 1960 "A" budget. This amount is less by P56,009,107 than the sum appropriated last year.

Premised on the passage and enactment of proposed revenue bills to be recommended to Congress, a supplementary, or "B" budget, has also been prepared totalling P235,426,754.

The lesson learned from last year, when Congress approved the P1.26 billion budget presented by the President but failed to act on the accompanying proposed tax measures designed to finance it, led to the preparation of the "B" budget proposed for the next fiscal year.

In the proposed 1960 budget, the Department of Finance is given the biggest increase in appropriations amounting to P88,447,402. The sum of P162,041,588 is set aside for the department in the 1960 budget while the appropriation for 1959 was P73,594,186.

The principal reason for this, finance officials explained, is the necessity for strengthening the collection arm of the government in order to insure a wider coverage of revenue sources and to increase the national government's income.

On the other hand, the Department of Health suffers the biggest cut in the new budget totalling P3,504,479. Appropriations for 1959 amounted to P54,440,929 while in the 1960 budget it is given only P50,636,450.

The Chief Executive was informed by Secretary Vargas of the plight of walking soldier-patients with service-connected wounds and ailments who are facing discharge from the V. Luna General Hospital for lack of funds.

The defense secretary requested the President to authorize the release of P1 million from the P2 million which was slashed from the Defense Department's appropriations to help offset an impending deficit of P72 million in the national government's budget for 1959.

Shortly before noon, the President motored to Malacañang where he continued working on his budget message the rest of the day.

THE PRESIDENT granted today the application of Mrs. Elizabeth Cameron-Laguatan for admission into the country as a non-quota immigrant provided she left the country and obtain the corresponding visa from a Philippine consular office as required by law.

The President's decision was recommended by Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera and Judge Salvador Esguerra, Malacañang legal adviser, to whom the Chief Executive had transmitted the case for study.

In a memorandum submitted to the President today, Judge Esguerra explained that the case of Mrs. Laguatan, who had come to this country as a temporary visitor and later got married to a Filipino posed two problems; namely, whether she could be considered a Filipino citizen or whether she could seek permanent residence under the non-quota provision of the immigration law as the wife of a Filipino citizen.

As for the first question, Judge Esguerra agreed with a previous opinion issued by Immigration Commissioner Emilio Galang that Mrs. Laguatan might not be admitted permanently in this country as a Filipino citizen as she did not become such by virtue simply of her marriage to a Filipino. Esguerra pointed out that marriage to a Filipino did not automatically confer citizenship upon an alien woman unless she herself might be lawfully naturalized and Mrs. Laguatan could not be lawfully naturalized as the laws of Australia do not permit Filipinos to be naturalized as Australian citizens.

The Malacañang legal adviser, however, pointed out that the Philippine immigration act contains no provision that only citizens or subjects of countries which admit Filipinos as quota or non-quota immigrants might be admitted to the Philippines as such. This is only a matter of policy that has been observed by the government as a guiding principle in the admission of aliens as immigrants and, according to Esguerra, the President may waive this policy in the case of Mrs. Laguatan.

Judge Esguerra concluded that as Mrs. Laguatan had entered the country as a temporary visitor, she could not change her status to immigrant or permanent resident unless she left for a foreign country and applied for a visa as such with a Philippine consular officer there. This is required under existing Philippine immigration laws, he said.

February 10.—PRESIDENT Garcia submitted his proposed budget to Congress today after almost two weeks of going over the figures in his fiscal plan and revising his budget message which accompanied his budgetary program for the next fiscal year.

He handed the proposed budget to Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona after a four-hour conference with Nacionalista congressmen at Malacañang this noon.

He signed the budget and the accompanying message in the presence of the NP solons, who had earlier voiced their "enthusiastic support" to the proposed fiscal program.

IN the afternoon, the President received Frank Metcalfe, president of the Columbia Rope Company of New York, accompanied by Merle Robie, vice-president of the same company in the Philippines. The two businessmen were joined by Antonio Floriendo of Davao.

Other callers were Robert O. Philips, an executive of the American Legion, Philippine department, and Inocentes Dineros of the Department of National Defense.

The President's last caller was Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo. It was believed that Romulo briefed the President on the conflicting reports on the fate of the Philippine "omnibus" claim of $900 million with the United States Government.

PRESIDENT Garcia this evening recommended to Congress ten new tax measures intended to meet a P241.6 million general fund deficiency for the Administration's (B) budget for fiscal year 1960.

The tax proposals were contained in the President's budget message which was read to members of the House of Representatives during the session this evening. They were measures:

1. Requiring tax-exempt industries to pay normal income taxes;
2. Increasing specific tax on gasoline by two centavos;
3. Eliminating exemptions to the special import tax;
4. Updating rates of berthing, port service fees, and tonnage dues which were fixed in the administrative code many years before the war;
5. Granting partial amnesty on past tax delinquencies;
6. Increasing personal income and corporate taxes;
7. Increasing the rates of taxes on firecrackers;
8. Restoration of the 1950 specific tax rates on distilled spirits, wine, and fermented liquor;
9. Improving customs and revenue administration to effect efficient enforcement of customs and revenue laws; and
10. Creating a tax on "wealth" which would complement the existing residence taxes in order to adjust proportionately the taxation on income and property holding of taxpayers.

In urging the enactment of these new measures, the President stressed that of the total P980.3 million general fund needs, only P738 million will be covered by existing taxes, leaving a deficiency of P241.6 million.

Expenditures to be financed from these additional revenue sources were contained in "B" budget in order to facilitate elimination of certain government activities in the event these additional revenues are not realized.

The President anticipated that with the elimination of exemptions to the special import tax, the government would be able to raise P68 million.

He also estimated an additional income of P17 million from the measure inquiring tax-exempt industries to pay normal income taxes and another P2 million from the proposed specific tax on gasoline.

February 11.—PRESIDENT Garcia received three officials of the Assembly of Captive European Nations (ACEN) who are here in the course of a friendship and goodwill tour of Asian countries and who paid a courtesy call at Malacañang this morning.

The callers were Stefan Korbonski, ACEN chairman; Joseph Kovago, vice-chairman; and Dr. Vilis Masens, former chairman of the Assembly of Captive European Nations, the "Voice of the Silenced Peoples."

Kovago was mayor of Budapest when the Communists took over control of his country in 1947 and he held the same position when the Hungarians rose up in arms against the Soviet invaders late in 1956.

Dr. Masens took an active part in national Latvian resistance groups during the occupation of Latvia from 1941 to 1944. In exile since 1944, Dr. Masens has always played an important role in the activities of exile organizations.

Korbonski participated in the organization of the Polish anti-German underground and in 1944 was appointed secretary of the interior of the Polish provisional government after the Warsaw uprising.

Dr. Masens conveyed to President Garcia the best wishes and admiration of the captive peoples for the Philippines and considered the Filipinos as comrades-in-arms because of the stiff resistance they put up against the Japanese from 1942 to 1945.

The tour of Masens, Kovago, and Korbonski is being sponsored by the ACEN. Their purpose is to enlist the support of the free peoples of the world for the restoration of freedom and independence in the nations belonging to the organization.

Member nations are Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, and Romania.

Other callers of President Garcia this morning were Sen. Roseller Lim, Rep. Salipada Pendatun, and Mrs. Jose de Vera, Dr. Jose Perez, and Mrs. Azucena Vera-Perez.

At 11:45 a.m., President and Mrs. Garcia left Malacañang to attend a solemn high mass said by Mons. Rufino Santos, archbishop of Manila, in the Lourdes church. After the mass, at 1 p.m., President and Mrs. Garcia returned to Malacañang.

THE PRESIDENT approved today the recommendation of Justice Secretary Jesus G. Barrera to retain in office Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez during the pendency of the criminal case recently filed against the finance chief in the Manila court of first instance.

In a five-page opinion submitted to the President this evening Secretary Barrera advanced several reasons, both from the legal and the economic standpoints to support his recommendation for retention. Among the reasons were:

- (1) That the President's power to remove at will a department head does not carry with it the authority to suspend;
- (2) That there was little likelihood that the accused, if retained in office, could obstruct the normal course of the judicial investigation of his case;
- (3) That the act of removal is penal in character and to remove Secretary Hernandez simply because of the pendency of criminal charges against him would amount to a pre-judgment of his case and an impairment, in effect, of his right to be presumed innocent until, by due process of law, a competent tribunal pronounces otherwise; and
- (4) That in view of the present vacancy in the office of the undersecretary of finance, it; would indeed adversely affect public service if an executive department would be left without a head familiar with its affairs.

The President had previously announced that he would act on the case after a motion to quash, which was to be filed by Secretary Hernandez, was resolved by the court. However, lawyers of the finance secretary subsequently filed a motion for a bill of particulars instead of a motion to quash.

THE CABINET this evening approved the establishment of a P20 million paper and pulp plant either in Bataan or in Negros Occidental as a joint enterprise of two well-known firms. The move is aimed to help stop the drain of the country's foreign exchange in the importation of newsprint and other paper materials.

Malacañang said the Cabinet's action was spurred by a recommendation of the National Economic Council urging approval of the proposal of the Elizalde & Co. and the Parsons & Whittemore to put up a paper and pulp plant.

The two firms are planning to set up the plant either in Bataan or in Bago, Occidental Negros. The plant will use bagase and boho as raw materials.

In approving the establishment of this plant, the Cabinet imposed the following conditions;

1. That the corporation will not be allocated dollars beyond the ten per cent requirement imposed by the Central Bank;
2. That the salt and China clay requirements will be purchased locally; and
3. That payment for the machinery and other equipment will be paid on a deferred payment basis for ten years and under conditions acceptable by the Central Bank.

Malacañang said the owners of the plan will be allocated $137,000 annually for the purchase of alum and resins abroad.

In the establishment of this plant, the investors said they would bring in $1.6 million in dollar capital which will be subject to Central Bank regulations.

Malacañang said the Cabinet approved the establishment of this paper plant in line with the Administration's program of industrialization.

It was pointed out the plant will absorb a number of the unemployed and would help save some $35 million dollars which are allocated for the acquisition of newsprint and paper materials annually.

February 12.—THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady left Tutuban MRR station on board the presidential coach at 9 a.m. today for Damortis La Union, bound for Baguio City.

With the President were Capiz Gov. Jose Dinglasan, MRR Board Chairman Juan J. Carlos, Maj. Teofilo Zosa, board member, MRR General Manager F. F. Santiago, and Gapt. Francisco H. Calinawan, assistant general manager. The presidential train stopped at San Fernando, Pampanga, to pick up SWA Administrator Amparo Villamor.

The party arrived in Damortis at 12:45 p.m., transferred to cars, and arrived in Baguio shortly after 2:00 o'clock.

Baguio City Mayor Alfonso Tabora and Zambales Gov. Manuel Barretto were among the government officials who met President Garcia and his party at Damortis.

At the outskirts of the city, the presidential entourage was met by officers of the Baguio City Rotary Club and Rotary Anns.

Upon arrival, President Garcia proceeded to the Guest House where he gave a press conference to newsmen with the party. After the conference, he retired to his room.

PRESIDENT Garcia this evening defended his administration against charges of inaction and of allegedly dragging the country to extreme deterioration.

“The Administration,” he said, “has endeavored to give the people a fair share by allowing them the conveniences of modern living.”

The President branded as defeatism the charges of his opponents that the country is being faced with a low dollar reserves. He stressed that these dollar reserves are being used to finance the various industries of the country.

President Garcia said that as a result of the austerity measures adopted at the early state of his administration, the country suffered a drop in its dollar reserves of only $63 million while those of other countries declined by $1.1 billion.

Discarding a speech prepared for delivery before the Rotary International Convention in Baguio, President Garcia cited figures to emphasize the achievements of his government in economic and social development.

He claimed that in 1953, there were only 135 new industries, but that as of last year, this figure has risen to 1,000 new industries.

He also said that under his administration, the national income rose to 13.5 per cent in 1958 over the level in 1956, and the per capita income increased by P68 over that of 1953.

President Garcia justified the proposed increase in the budget, saying that the Administration has embarked on sound social and economic programs.

The President also cited increases in agricultural and industrial production, and stated that a great number of unemployed persons had been absorbed by 800 newly established industries.

According to the Chief Executive, industrial production increased by two per cent while the agricultural output soared 19.4 per cent over that of 1954. He stressed that exports had also increased by P96 million over the 1950 figures.

Turning to education, the President said his administration was doing more for the nation in this field than previous administrations.

He likewise justified the increase in the budget of the Department of Education by citing that this is needed to fight the literacy problem of the country.

“Ignorance is the father of poverty,” President Garcia stated. We should not begrudge the increase in the education budgetary appropriations because of a big annual growth in the school population,” the President stressed.

He disclosed that the number of schoolchildren increases by 690,000 every year. He said that the hike in the school appropriations is intended to meet the increase in the school population this year.

February 13.—PRESIDENT Garcia held a four-hour conference this morning in the Guest House with Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo, Sen. Lorenzo Sumulong and Rep. Ramon Mitra, chairmen of the Senate and the House committees on foreign affairs, respectively, and Counsellor Manuel Collantes of the Department of Foreign Affairs.

They discussed the omnibus claims of the Philippines against the United States at the conference which started at 10 a.m. and lasted until past 2 p.m.

In a communique issued after the conference, it was agreed that the Philippine Government should prosecute its claims against the U.S. with the end in view of obtaining early and conclusive settlement.

Earlier this morning the President and the First Lady heard mass celebrated at the chapel in the Guest House, today being first Friday of Lent.

Among the guests of the President at breakfast were Reparations Commissioner Alejo Santos, Capiz Gov. Jose Dinglasan, Zambales Gov. Manuel Barretto, and Baguio City Mayor Alfonso Tabora.

After breakfast, the Chief Executive signed papers presented by Gov. Barretto authorizing the release of P30,000 for the completion of the Cadmang irrigation project in Cabangan, Zambales, and P40,000 for the construction of the municipal building of San Felipe, Zambales.

The President this morning designated the RPS Lapu-Lapu as flagship of the Philippine Navy and at the same time ordered that it be made available for use by the proper authorities for mercy mission and humanitarian purposes.

The designation was contained in an executive order signed this morning by the President upon recommendation by the Secretary of National Defense.

The order also provided that the ship may be used for mercy missions, such as for sending aid and relief to areas in the Philippines stricken by disaster, public calamities, and other fortuitous events causing widespread damage to property and life and injuries to human life.

It was further provided that it could be utilized for humanitarian purposes like transporting needy settlers to their place of resettlement.

In the afternoon President Garcia received the following: Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Sen. Domocao Alonto, and former Secretary of Labor Primitivo Lovina.

February 14.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning held a four-hour conference with Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Dr. John Van Genhoven, representative of a group of New York investment bankers, former Labor Secretary Primitivo Lovina, and Sen. Domocao Alonto.

No details were released on the subjects discussed except that they talked about further measures that could be adopted for peso stabilization.

The conference started at 8:30 a.m. at breakfast, interrupted an hour later to allow the President to receive callers, and then resumed at 10:30 ending at 1:30 p.m.

Before the breakfast conference with Hernandez and others, the President went to Mrs. Garcia in the dining room and presented to her his valentine present, a brooch locket accompanied by the following note: "Inday Dear, please accept this little token of undying love which I dedicate to you on this day of love. With warm kisses as in our younger days when our romance was in flower, Carlos."

After the presentation, male members of the presidential party including newsmen offered small bouquets to the First Lady as a symbol of affection.

Everybody in the Guest House, including some callers, had pinned on their shirts and dresses small red hearts cut out from cartolina in observance of Saint Valentine's day.

The presidential callers this morning included members of Cabanatuan City delegation to the Rotary district conference led by Mayor Leopoldo Cucio and Gaudencio Antonino; Robert A. Ross, management engineer from New York who paid a courtesy call; William Dunkum and George Merton, executives of Reynolds Aluminum, Inc.; and Ramon Dedel, J. T. Quiambao, and M. Montenegro.

General Services Secretary Almendras also conferred with the Chief Executive regarding disposition of government properties in Manila.

President Garcia agreed in principle to his proposal that such properties should be sold and the proceeds used to finance construction in Quezon City of buildings to house various departments and offices.

Almendras explained that the government is now spending much for rent of private buildings in Manila occupied by government offices.

He also informed the President of the need for revoking the lease of the Pines Hotel to the Manila Hotel, Inc., for one peso a year.

The lease followed a verbal order issued by the late President Quirino.

After lunch, President Garcia gave a press conference to newsmen with the presidential party and then retired to his room to go over state papers.

Later in the afternoon, the party watched a colorful presentation of Philippine folk dances performed by students of the Baguio Colleges at the Guest House. The Baguio Colleges glee club under the direction of Mrs. Nenita Rico rendered several songs.

President Garcia retired to his room after partaking of light supper and continued working on important papers until late in the evening.

Asked to comment on the reports that the MB members, were not disposed to reconsider their stand, the President said the Monetary Board has agreed to conduct public hearings.

He said it would be inconsistent with the MB members' stand to hear the cross-section of the business community if they do not have an "open mind" on the controversial resolution.

However, the President said he was fully supporting the Filipino First movement. He said that even alien traders should not begrudge the movement.

The President pointed out that alien traders had protested mainly the implementation of the policy.

The Filipino First policy was first enunciated by the National Economic Council and was later on implemented by the Monetary Board in its recent resolution slashing by 50 per cent the dollar quotas of non-American alien importers.

Official Week in Review: March 8 – March 14, 1959

March 8.—PRESIDENT Garcia today expressed gratification over the role played by the Japanese reparations fire engines in the Administration's efforts to minimize fire losses in the country.

In a report submitted to Malacañang today, it was disclosed that within two years after the arrival of the Japanese reparations fire-fighting equipment, around P13 million worth of property and a considerable number of lives were saved.

The report was based on the results of a nation-wide survey conducted by the Reparations Commission to determine the effects of the 300 fire-fighting units which had been distributed by the National Civil Defense Administration to different towns in the country.

The report was made on the occasion of the conclusion of the Fire Prevention Week celebration this year.

While this trend of fire losses was considered remarkable, both the Reparations Commission and NCDA officials, however, believe that "there still exists a great need for at least 900 additional units in order to bring about an adequate fire-fighting force all over the country.

The report stated that with the present strength of around 500 fire-fighting units all over the country taking care of 22 million Filipinos, safety index could be boiled down to 44,000 citizens for every fire-fighting unit.

A comparison of these figures with Japan would show that the country must be equipped with around 23,000 fire-fighting units. Japan has a safety index of 978 persons for every unit.

It was also pointed out that fire units, aside from fighting fires, also provide employment to thousands of fire-fighting men. The addition of 900 units would mean that around 5,000 persons would be trained as crews for these units.

The President recalled that in his speech before a joint session of the American Congress during his state visit in the U.S. last year, he had expressed his desire that the Philippines achieve closer relations with other Asian countries so that the U.S. would be better understood in this part of the world.

The best way to achieve this end, according to the President, is to make friends first with Asian neighbors of the Philippines.

He said the Filipinos are an amalgam of the Malay, Latin, and Anglo-American cultures and that they could very well act as the bridge for the promotion of closer ties and understanding between the countries of the East and the West.

In turn, he added, the Filipinos could also interpret Asia to the West by virtue of their unique position.

This observation was accepted by the American business executives who said that American businessmen are fast learning that Filipinos could better impart ideas to other Asians.

Paul Wood, president of the International Harvester Company (Phil.) and of the American Chamber of Commerce of the Philippines, informed President Garcia that the American business community is advocating increased trade participation by Filipinos.

A statement of the association’s favorable cash position was also contained in the report which declared total cash assets in the amount of P178,795.12.

The association started in 1958 with P165,615.76 broken down as follows: P108,088.43 current account with the China Banking Corporation; and P57,527.33 savings account with the China Banking Corporation.

During the year the association received donations from various sources in the Philippines amounting to P11,434.05. This sum plus P13,179.36, representing the interest earned on their savings deposit, add up to P178,795.12.

PRESIDENT Garcia thanked the Japanese Government for the movie films taken of his state visit in Japan last December which were presented to him by Japanese Ambassador Morio Yukawa this evening "as a token of the appreciation and affection of the Japanese people."

The visit of President Garcia had been filmed and produced by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Japan.

In presenting the film to President Garcia, Ambassador Yukawa read a letter which stressed that the state visit of the former had made "a deep impression on the entire Japanese people, whose ardent wish for closer friendly ties with the Filipino people found great encouragement in your personal presence in their land."

"These films," Ambassador Yukawa added, "are hoped to serve as a lasting memento of the amicable link between your people and my fellow countrymen, the link you and Mrs. Garcia so successfully strengthened. Likewise, they will be a reminder to the Filipinos of the present and future generations that you have done so much in enhancing the cordial relations between our two countries."

After the presentation ceremonies President Garcia invited the Japanese Ambassador to attend the showing of the film at the Malacañang dining hall. Mrs. Garcia also viewed the film.

Others who saw the film included Press Secretary Jose C. Nable, Assistant Executive Secretary Sofronio Quimson, Second Secretary Satoshi Kinase of the Japanese Embassy, Third Secretary Hiromu Fukada, and the secretary to the Japanese Ambassador, Michihiko Kunihiro.

March 11.—THIS morning, President Garcia conferred with Judge Salvador Esguerra, Malacañang legal adviser, on amendments sought to be introduced in the special trade arrangement allowing Moro copra producers to barter their products directly in Borneo.

No details of the conference which was held in the President's workshop in Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, were available.

Capt. Pastor Viado, PN, incoming chairman of the Presidential Law Enforcement unit in the southern Philippines, called on the Chief Executive to receive last-minute instructions before proceeding to Jolo to assume his new position.

Capt. Viado, former commander of Task Force 11 in Jolo, will replace Col. Vicente O. Luna, outgoing PLEUSP chairman.

The President reviewed the accomplishments of the PLEUSP in anti-smuggling campaign of copra in southern Mindanao and said he was very much pleased with the results of the drive.

It had been reported to the Chief Executive that the exportation of copra from the mainland of Mindanao and from the Visayas has been reduced to a minimum and limited to natives of Jolo who are enjoying special trade privileges.

The President also received General Manager Bernardo Abrera of the National Shipyards and Steel Corporation, who reported to the President upon his return early this morning from a nine months' stay in Europe and the United States.

In the U.S. Abrera represented the Philippine Government in negotiations for the acquisition of an integrated steel plant which is proposed to be established in Iligan City.

The President said Abrera's recall was necessary, as his technical knowledge was essential to enable the Cabinet to deliberate on the proposed steel project of the government.

After his meeting with Abrera broke tip at 12:30 p.m., the President motored to the Manila Hotel to open the second Philippine-British Trade Show.

PRESIDENT Garcia showed great interest in the products of English industries now on display in the second Philippine-British Trade Show which he formally opened early this afternoon.

The PI-British Trade Exhibit is sponsored by the Manila Lions Club in cooperation with the British Embassy. It will be open to the public from March 11 to 17. It features the different British products carried by the British firms in the country.

The President was also attracted by the display of rare English coins representing the reigns of all the British monarchs from Elizabeth I to Elizabeth II.

The President delivered a brief message on the significance of the exhibit at the regular luncheon meeting of the Manila Lions Club. He was introduced by MLC President Leony P. Lopez.

The other speaker at the meeting was British Ambassador George L. Glutton who was introduced by Ted Stewart.

From the Manila Hotel, President Garcia proceeded to Malacañang for the regular meeting of the Cabinet this afternoon.

AT THE WEEKLY meeting of the Cabinet today President Garcia deferred action on the proposed sale of the government-owned textile mills in view of a petition presented by more than 3,000 employees of those mills.

The proposed sale of the textile mills of the National Development Company as proposed by the NDC management is premised on the ground that the government should withdraw from this enterprise, as private parties have shown their willingness to invest heavily in the textile industry.

While he reiterated the policy of the government to withdraw from the fields where private capital is willing to enter, President Garcia decided to defer action on the proposed sale of the NDC textile mills in order to study ways and means to insure that the workers be employed by prospective buyers, retaining the present wages which are higher than those paid by private mills.

Officials of the National Textile Workers' Union, led by their president, Leovigildo de Castro, were allowed by President Garcia to read the resolution during the Cabinet meeting as well as to present their views.

The NTWU officials headed a big delegation which invaded Malacañang grounds to protest the sale of the NDC textile mills. The delegation claimed to be part of the 3,000 workers who face separation from the service in case the sale of the mills materializes.

Other union officials who accompanied De Castro were Eulogio Gozon, Bonifacio R. de Luna, Luciano Jimenez, Francisco Gregorio, Fortunato Nicolas, Ester Tolentino, and Vicente Abueg, Jr.

The President today proclaimed the period from March 16 to 22 this year, as Lions Week.

In his proclamation, the Chief Executive lauded the efforts of the Lions Organization for its civic work in making the community a better place to live in.

The week coincides with the 10th anniversary of the founding of the Lions Organization in the Philippines which falls in the third week of March.

President Garcia, through Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, authorized today the purchase by the Civil Aeronautics Administration of P154,535.90 worth of plane spare parts, equipment, and supplies.

Approval of the purchase which will be made through the U. S. Civil Aeronautics Administration and the International Cooperation Administration, was recommended by the Departments of Public Works, General Services, and Justice, and by the auditor general.

In their recommendations, the department secretaries and the auditor general pointed out that the purchase, without public bidding, may be allowed because of the urgent necessity for the materials, and because the purchase will not be made through private parties but through agencies of the U. S. Government.

Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, by order of President Garcia, today directed the release of P133,000 as additional contribution for the maintenance of the Laguna provincial hospital.

The release was authorized under Republic Act No. 2080, and was made through the request of Rep. Wenceslao R. Lagumbay.

Other releases made were: (1) P10,000 for feeder roads in Tagcauayan, Quezon; (2) P12,000 for the Sabit causeway in San Narciso, Quezon; and (3) P21,000 for feeder roads for the towns of Maayon, Panitan, and Pilar, Capiz.

The President, through Secretary Pajo, also directed the Philippine Coconut Administration (PHILCOA) to set aside P100,000 out of its collection of P.10 per 100 kilos of copra exported, for the organization of cooperatives in the coconut-producing provinces.

The organization of cooperatives was proposed by some congressmen in the coconut regions, led by Rep. Leon Guinto, Jr., of Quezon.

Later in the morning, Secretary Pajo administered the oath of office to Lucio Libarnes, as chief of police of Zamboanga City.

The ceremony which took place at Malacañang was witnessed by Sen. and Mrs. Roseller T. Lim, Rep. and Mrs. Canuto Enerio, Fr. Hilario Lim, Mrs. Lucio Libarnes, and friends of the inductee.

PRESIDENT Garcia this evening justified his plan to restore “premium fee” on foreign exchange as his remedy to save the peso from any possible devaluation.

The President was the principal speaker at the dinner of the Management Association of the Philippines held last night at the Manila Hotel.

The occasion was the formal induction of Andres Soriano, Sr., and Manuel Elizalde as honorary life members of the MAP. The two businessmen were cited as the only business and industrial management leaders who were voted for the honorary distinction by the MAP board this year.

In analyzing the economic problems of the country, the President recalled that “we knocked off the fiscal props too early. We allowed the 17 per cent foreign exchange tax, the higher rates of income and excise taxes, and the control committee on expenditures to lapse too soon,” he added.

After junking these revenue measures, the President observed that “we mounted massive public and private expenditures on a scale and at a rate disproportionately beyond the capacity of internal savings alone to finance.”

He likewise said the country embarked on an extensive social amelioration program without creating the sources of revenue with which to pay the bill.

“In short,” he pointed out, “we over-reached ourselves in our desire to do more, to grow faster and to spread the benefits of our newly found prosperity wider and sooner.”

He said that the economic situation was the fruit not of stagnation but by over-extended action.

He said the solution to the problem is “either to provide more real resources immediately, or to encourage a temporary slowing down in the use of what is available until the supply builds up again or both.”

March 12.—PRESIDENT Garcia honored three out-going members of the diplomatic corps at a breakfast this morning in the family dining room of Malacañang.

The honorees were Ambassador Keith Charles Owen Shann of Australia, Ambassador Mahindra Singh Chopra of India, and Minister Jens H. P. A. Mailing of Sweden. They are returning to their respective countries for reassignment following the termination of their tours of duty here.

Present at the breakfast were Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano and British Ambassador George Lisle Clutton, dean of the local diplomatic corps.

President Garcia presented a box of Philippine cigars to each of the honorees as a token of his friendship and high esteem for them before they left the Palace.

Dr. Paul Bernecker, president of the International Union of Official Travel Organizations (IUOTO) and high commissioner of tourism of Austria, paid a call on the Chief Executive at Malacañang this morning. He was accompanied by Tourism Commissioner Modesto Farolan.

Dr. Bernecker informed the President that he is in Manila to check on the facilities and preparatory arrangements for the coming World Tourist Conference here from November 17 to 24.

President Garcia was informed that the IUOTO is composed of 67 member countries and is one of the largest international organizations operating as a consultative organ under the United Nations.

This conference, according to Dr. Bernecker, has been held outside of Europe only three times and only once in the Americas. This is the first time it will be held in the Pacific area and the Orient, and it will effectively focus world travel attention on the Philippines and its tourist potentials.

Commissioner Farolan assured President Garcia that the Board of Tourist and Travel Industry and the Philippine Tourist and Travel Association are already well advanced in their preparations for the coming conference.

Later this morning, President Garcia received provincial governors and mayors most of whom presented requests for release of funds for the construction and repair of irrigation projects, school buildings, roads, and other public works projects.

Gov. Manuel Barretto of Zambales requested the release of P50,000 for the construction of an irrigation system for the municipality of San Antonio. He was accompanied by Mayor Mariano Evangelista of San Antonio, Federico Yambao, former assistant general manager of the NARIC, and Carlos Ysmael.

Baguio City Mayor Alfonso Tabora submitted a statement of accounts receive against the Office of the President amounting to over P10,000 for advances made by the city in connection with repairs made in the Mansion House and the Guest House.

He also requested a follow-up of the results of the investigation by the PCAPE on alleged irregular sale of two public lots situated in the market area in Baguio City.

Another caller was Sen. Quintin Paredes, chairman of the Senate Committee on Justice, who took up with the President two bills now pending in Congress; namely, the creation of the Court of Public Functions or the so-called "anti-graft" court, and the proposed reorganization of the judiciary. No details were available on the outcome of their conference.

Mayor Esteban Dorwello of Pigkawayan, Cotabato, presented a request for the release of P47,000 for the construction of roads and municipal building.

Mayor Federico Muli of Dinalupihan, Bataan, sought the release of P50,000 to be used in the rehabilitation of that town's dilapidated central school building.

The League of Mayors of Misamis Oriental, represented by their president, Mayor Felicisimo E. Aguilar of Medina, submitted a request for the allocation of a defibering machine and a bamboo-splitting machine from Japanese reparations in order to increase the earning capacity of the people in this coconut producing province.

They also requested that a bulldozer and a grader be allocated to every three towns in the province, their maintenance and cost of operation to be borne by the municipalities concerned.

General Services Secretary Alejandro Almendras accompanied a delegation of mayors from Davao who asked for financial assistance for their respective municipalities and for their locust campaign.

Members of the delegation included Mayors Daguman of Babak, Simplicio Obinza of Peñaplata, Ramon de los Cientos of Bansalan, Gregorio Dujale of Panabao, Gonzales Palamos of Hagonoy, and Nonito Llanos of Digos, and Remedios Ponfirada, president of the Leyte-Samar Association in Davao.

Gov. Francisco Infantado of Mindoro Oriental sought the release of P100,000 for the completion of irrigation projects in the towns of Pinamalayan and Calapan.

President Garcia received callers until well past 1:30 p.m. after which he retired for a late lunch.

Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, upon instructions of President Garcia, directed Public Highways Commissioner Nicolas Cuenca today, to divert some airport building equipment to Samar.

The Executive Secretary gave his directive to Cuenca upon appeal of Samar Gov. Fernando Veloso, who had informed him that the Marinduque Mining Company promised to build an airport at Pikit, Samar, without cost to the government provided heavy equipment such as turnapulls were made available to them.

The mining company is interested in building the airport because it has a mill in Sibuguey and the airport would greatly improve transportation facilities in the locality.

Commissioner Cuenca informed Secretary Pajo that some turnapulls were available in Mindanao but are at present being used for road-building purposes.

THIS evening President Garcia stated that any amendment to the reorganization act as it pertains to the Department of Health must be designed to enable the department to expand and improve its services to the people.

The Chief Executive made this remark at a conference with Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia and five bureau directors of the department who sought his support to the proposed amendment.

The bureau directors vigorously objected to the reorganization plans of the Department of Health which converts the bureaus under it into mere consultative bodies without line authority over operating entities.

The bureau directors pointed out that the expanded health services has extended to all municipalities, barrios, and sitios of the entire country, leading private practitioners to believe that the government is leading towards socialized medicine.

The reorganization plan of the Department of Health aims to decentralize operations to field offices, thereby bringing public services as close as possible to the people.

However, the bureau directors objected to the elimination of line authority from them and placing it under eight regional directors, as recommended by the Government Survey and Reorganization Commission.

The bureau directors were Pedro Mayuga of medical services, who acted as the group spokesman, Jose N. Rodriguez of disease control, Jesus A. Nolasco of health services, Jesus Azurin of quarantine, and Wilfredo de Leon of research and laboratories.

The President also received officials of the Philippine Overseas Line who presented for the consideration of government authorities the contract for the purchase of 12 fast ocean-going cargo vessels from Holland and France in line with the policy of the Administration to augment the Philippine merchant marine.

The vessels will cost more than $43 million with top speeds ranging between 17.3 to 20 knots per hour, which the group said is comparable to vessels built in Japanese shipyards.

POL officials who saw the President were Antonio de las Alas, Elpidio O. Isip, Segundo Esguerra, Santiago de la Cruz, and Mrs. Salud Brown.

March 13.—PRESIDENT Garcia received the assurance of Senate and House leaders today for the early enactment of revenue measures supporting the Chief Executive's stabilization program.

Meeting with President Garcia were Sen. Gil J. Puyat, chairman of the Senate finance committee; Rep. Jose J. Roy, chairman of the House committee on ways and means; Sen. Pedro Sabido, and Legislative Secretary Vicente Logarta. The breakfast conference lasted almost three hours.

The President certified as urgent four revenue bills upon the suggestion of Rep. Roy and the indorsement of Sen. Puyat. The bills sent to Congress with the President's stamp of urgency were: (a) H.B. No. 2844, increasing registration fees of private automobiles; (b) H.B. No. 2004, removing exemptions from the payment of tariff duties on personal and household effects; (c) H.B. No. 2544, increasing specific taxes on cigars and cigarettes; and (d) H.B. No. 2771, forestalling abuses by returning alien residents to the Philippines under the guise of tourists to avoid payment of corresponding taxes.

The conferees took occasion to discuss all the revenue bills pending action in Congress. These bills were mentioned by the President in his budget message to Congress in connection with his stabilization and fiscal program.

Sen. Puyat and Rep. Roy gave their assurances to the President of expediting action on the revenue measures in their respective committees.

H. F. Frioleau, president of the Standard Vacuum Oil Company of America, paid a courtesy call on the President. He was accompanied by J. V. Pickering, director and regional vice-president in charge of the Far East, and C. A. Larsen, general manager of the Stanvac (Philippines).

President Garcia likewise received Dr. Direck Jayanama, SEATO exchange lecturer from Thailand, who paid his respects to the Chief Executive. Dr. Jayanama has lectured in Manila and will deliver lectures in Cebu, Tarlac, and Baguio on Thai laws, customs, culture, and history.

Other callers were Cipriano Luna and Florentino Cadigal, Potenciano Ilusorio and Fred Hagedorn, ex-Rep. Fernando Fajarillo, and ex-Rep. Luis Cabarroguis.

THE President postponed all his afternoon and evening engagements today including a meeting with Senate and House leaders, owing to a slight rise in temperature.

Press Secretary Jose C. Nable said that Palace doctors kept the President in bed after finding him with a temperature of 37.5 late this afternoon, caused by “a heavy cold.”

Palace physicians said they expected the President to be up and well during the weekend.

March 14.—THE President cancelled all his scheduled morning appointments to be able to continue resting.

He wanted to become more fit for his afternoon schedule, an address before the graduating students of the Ateneo de Manila at Loyola Heights.

Dr. Antonio Guytingco, the President’s personal physician, said the Chief Executive’s temperature was down to normal this morning. However, the President was bothered by occasional coughs and a bad cold.

Mrs. Garcia substituted for the President at the 51st anniversary celebration of the Philippine Manufacturing Company held at the PMC compound this morning. She was accompanied by Social Welfare Administrator Amparo P. Villamor and Senator Pacita Madrigal Gonzalez.

After a light breakfast, the President went over the morning papers and then worked on the final draft of the speech he was to deliver in the afternoon at the Ateneo de Manila.

President Garcia slept in the afternoon and then at 5 o’clock motored to Loyola Heights to address this year’s graduates of the Jesuit college.

From the Ateneo, the President proceeded to his private residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, to spend the night there and prepare for the start of his annual two-week Lenten fasting tomorrow.

With him were the First Lady and some intimate friends and Palace aides.

This day is the beginning of his second week of his Lenten fasting. President Garcia started taking orange juice today. He had spent the first week of his fasting by taking water with sugar.

The President stayed the whole day in his private residence going over pending papers.

Press Secretary Jose C. Nable said the President wanted to clear his desk of backlogs of state papers before enplaning tomorrow for Baguio City where he will spend the Holy Week.

March 23.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia arrived this afternoon in Baguio to spend the Holy Week there. With the President were Press Secretary Jose C. Nable, Palace aides, and a group of newspapermen.

The party left Tutuban station at 9 a.m. and arrived in Damortis at 1 p.m. On board the train were MRR General Manager Feliciano F. Santiago and Assistant General Manager Francisco Calinawan. Baguio City Mayor Alfonso Tabora with police escort met the presidential party at Damortis and accompanied them to the Mansion House where the President and the First Lady rested.

After lunch the President gave a press conference and then chatted with the newsmen until the train arrived at Damortis. He disclosed that he will prepare his speeches for his coming state visit to Vietnam during his stay in Baguio.

In his conference with newsmen President Garcia threw his supports behind a Senate resolution upholding Philippine sovereignty in United States military bases.

He said that Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano has to take into account the Senate resolution in his exploratory talks with U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen on the question of jurisdiction.

President Garcia, however, refused to comment further and excused himself by saying he does not prefer to discuss the bases questions while secret talks are still underway.

The President expressed optimism that the jurisdiction question will be successfully hurdled in the Serrano-Bohlen talks.

Asked to appraise the current Serrano-Bohlen talks, President Garcia said: "They are gaining headway."

March 24.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning received at the Mansion House Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, who asked for instructions concerning the SEATO Ministerial Conference to be held in New Zealand next month. Secretary Serrano, who is scheduled to attend the conference, was accompanied by Manuel Collantes of the Department of Foreign Affairs. He conferred with the President for more than one hour.

The President also received Assistant Executive Secretary Sofronio Quimson and signed several appointments of minor officials. He also received Assistant Executive Secretary Mariano Logarta and discussed with him several pending state matters.

His physician, Antonio Guytingco, examined the President this morning and found him in good health. Dr. Guytingco said the President's blood pressure was normal.

President Garcia lost six pounds after fasting for one week. Yesterday was the last day he took orange juice and today he started taking milk.

In the afternoon the President relaxed. He read the Bible and in the evening he studied several pending state matters.

March 25.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning received U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, who reported on the progress of his talks with Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano on the bases issue. The American diplomat reported earlier than planned because he had to go down to Manila to meet an old friend.

The President also received the members of the Philippine delegation to the SEATO military advisors meeting scheduled to open in Wellington, New Zealand, on April 2-4. The Filipino delegates led by Lieut. Gen. Manuel Cabal, AFP chief of staff, were Brig. Gen. Marcos Soliman and Cols. Jonas Victoria, Rigoberto Atienza, Florentino Cardenas, and Dominador Garcia. Gen. Cabal and his companions are leaving on Saturday.

President Garcia conferred briefly with Legislative Secretary Vicente Logarta and vetoed three bills: (1) transferring the barrio of Sta. Monica from San Policarpio to Oras, Samar; (2) transferring the barrio of Catumsan from Lapinig to Arteche, Samar; and (3) creating the municipal district of Real in Quezon province.

Main reason for the veto was financial, as the separation of the barrios and the segregation of seven barrios from Infanta to create the town of Real would reduce the income of San Policarpio, Lapinig, and Infanta and render them unable to finance essential public services according to the recommendation of Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez.

The President has up to March 27 to act on 33 other bills of similar nature. Logarta was told by the President that he would allow them to lapse.

Other unscheduled callers were Pangasinan Gov. Conrado Estrella, who discussed with the President the rice price support and procurement program of the Naric as well as the problems of the farmers of Pangasinan, Senate President Protempore Fernando Lopez, Rep. Benjamin Ligot of Cagayan, and Ben. Salvosa.

March 26.—THIS morning President Garcia issued an executive order fixing the office hours in all government offices during the summer season from 7:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. during the period from April 1 to June 15.

The five-hour office hours from Monday to Friday will apply to all departments, bureaus, offices, agencies, and instrumentalities of the government, including provincial, city, and municipal governments and all corporations owned or controlled by the government. The executive order, does not apply to the government offices in the city of Baguio.

It was also specified in the executive order that the head of any department, bureau, or office is not obliged to reduce the office hours as provided, but is given the discretion subject to the requirements of the service and provided that the usual volume of work is not diminished by the reduction of office hours.

After breakfast, the President summoned Press Secretary Jose C. Nable and dictated a wire to Speaker Sam Rayburn of the United States House of Representatives expressing the gratitude of the Filipino people and his own for the approval by the U.S. Lower House of the gold devaluation payment bill.

The President then received Ramon Gaviola and went over a list of prisoners recommended by the Board of Pardons and Parole for pardon.

George Peabody, public relations officer of the Philippine Association, also called on the President.

The President today took a glass of milk every two hours. Tomorrow he will start taking one glass of milk every hour and half.

The President was elated upon reading the speech made on the floor of the United States House of Representatives by Congresswoman Rogers in support of her resolution seeking the creation of the Veterans' Commission for the settlement of Filipino veterans claims.

March 27.—PRESIDENT Garcia spent most of Good Friday in meditation on the suffering of Jesus Christ on Calvary and recalled the agony and death of the Man-God by reading a book on the "Seven Last Words."

When he woke up this morning, the President drank a glass of milk and waited for Mrs. Garcia, who was then having her breakfast, to invite her for a stroll around the garden of the Mansion House to look at and enjoy the beautiful sight of the flowers that are now in full bloom.

In the garden, Segundo Gaila, Mansion House caretaker, proudly pointed out to the Chief Executive and the First Lady a certain species of the begonia family which he had recently developed and named after them. President and Mrs. Garcia were accompanied by Malacañang aides and newspapermen during their walk around the garden.

After their stroll, the group went to the Mansion House where vacationists and sightseers had a field day taking pictures of the President and the First Lady and posing with them for souvenir pictures.

At three o'clock in the afternoon, President and Mrs. Garcia went to the Holy Ghost Hill chapel where they attended Good Friday Services.

Dr. Antonio Guytingco, the President's personal physician, gave the Chief Executive a physical checkup and found his bodily functions normal, including his blood pressure.

Despite having lost nine pounds since he started his annual Lenten fast thirteen days ago, President Garcia walked briskly during the garden stroll this morning to the amazement of newspapermen who had a hard time keeping up with the President.

March 28.—LOOKING hale and hearty despite almost two weeks of fasting, President Garcia presided over the cabinet meeting held today in the international conference room of the Mansion House in Baguio City.

The meeting is the first of its kind to be held outside Manila during the administration of President Garcia.

Starting at 9:45 a.m., the Cabinet members heard Sen. Emmanuel Pelaez report on his recent trip to Jakarta and other parts of Indonesia upon the invitation of the Indonesian Government.

Barring a short break for lunch at noon-time, the meeting has been going on continuously with Bernardo Abrera, general manger of the NASSCO, taking the floor after Sen. Pelaez, to explain the comparative merits of the Von Roll and the L-D (Lintz-Donnowitz) processes in the manufacture of steel in connection with the Philippine Government's plan to establish an integrated steel mill in the country.

After taking a glass of milk for breakfast earlier this morning, President Garcia held a closed-door conference with Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo. No detail of the conference was immediately available.

From his conference with Secretary Pajo, the President proceeded to the Mansion House to preside over this week's session of the Cabinet.

The Cabinet meeting broke up at 6:35 p.m. after which President and Mrs. Garcia motored to the Baguio Cathedral to hear a pontifical mass. They were accompanied by other members of the presidential party and newspapermen.

President Garcia had a good night's rest last night, according to Dr. Antonio Guytingco, the President's personal physician. After the daily physical checkup this morning, Dr. Guytingco reported that the President was in very good health.

Tonight, the President had chicken broth, or pospas, as he gradually starts to break his fast.

The Cabinet today passed a resolution inviting Rep. Ocampo and other oppositors to appear before the body at its next meeting on April 1 to air their charges against NDC officials who had negotiated with the Japanese firms.

At the nine-hour Cabinet meeting held today in the international conference hall of the Mansion House, the President also created a committee composed of General Services Secretary Alejandro Almendras, chairman, and Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera and Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, members, to draft rules and regulations governing the purchase of government supplies, materials, and equipment.

In creating the special committee, President Garcia instructed that the rules should be drafted in such a way that responsibility for the purchases could be determined and pinpointed.

The Chief Executive also expressed the desire to arrest reports of collusion between government purchases and suppliers which had caused overpricing and losses to the government.

It was hoped that relations between the Department of General Services and the various procurement agencies of the government would be crystalized with the adoption of the set of rules and regulations to be prepared by the committee.

During today's Cabinet meeting, which was considered the third longest under the present administration, Labor Secretary Angel Castaño clarified that the President's certification to the Court of Industrial Relations on labor disputes in Negros Occidental had been based on his (Castaño's) recommendation involving 70 unions which had been on strike at that time or had already given notice to strike.

President Garcia this morning rescinded the Malacañang endorsement of the payment of P16,000 in back salaries to Rosauro "Rosie" Cruz following the latter's reinstatement by Manila Mayor Arsenio H. Lacson to his City Hall position.

President Garcia's action was made in a conference with Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo during a recess of the Cabinet meeting in the Mansion House this noon.

Official Week in Review: April 5 – April 11, 1959

April 5.—PRESIDENT Garcia is considering the creation of an industrial promotions bureau to coordinate the activities of all government agencies charged with the promotion of locally-made goods and with indoctrinating the people into patronizing local industries.

Organization of the new bureau is aimed principally at the encouragement of cottage industries with the view to providing the people, particularly those in the rural areas, sources of income and improving their standards of living.

The President said he would confer shortly with Commerce Secretary Pedro Hernaez on the organizational details of the bureau whose creation is authorized under the Reorganization Plan No. 27–A of the Department of Commerce and Industry.

Salvador L. Pacis, Malacañang assistant who made studies on the subject, previously rendered a report to the President on steps to be taken to increase production in cottage industries and provide more income to the rural earners.

Pacis who conferred with the President this evening had presented the need for more promotions activities on the part of the government to encourage absorption of more locally-made goods in the country and to help guide the flow of home-made articles from areas of production to areas of consumption.

He pointed out that the activities of the NAMARCO, the NDC, and the Bureau of Public Schools on home industries should be synchronized. The AFP and the public schools should set the example by starting to utilize locally-made towels, blankets, mosquito nets, and other such products, he said.

The President spent a quiet Sunday at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City. He did not receive any caller.

The President started the day by hearing mass at the living room of his residence. After the mass, the President spent some time reading the Sunday morning papers. Then he went over a pile of pending papers he had brought over from Malacañang.

The President spent a great part of the day in his private study at his residence working on state papers.

April 6.—PRESIDENT Garcia went to an undisclosed “hideout” today where he conferred with Malacañang officials.

The President received at his “hideout” Legislative Secretary Vicente Logarta with whom he discussed the progress of his legislative agenda in Congress.

The President was informed that some tax measures had been “pigeon-holed” prompting him to call several House leaders to a breakfast conference tomorrow morning.

President Garcia likewise received Assistant Executive Secretary Sofronio Quimson, who brought pending state papers for presidential action.

Press Secretary Jose C. Nable also saw the President and helped him in the preparation of speeches which he will deliver before the University of the Philippines tomorrow afternoon and before the National Assembly of South Vietnam when he visits Saigon late this month.

April 7.—THIS morning President Garcia emphasized before Congress members the importance of balancing the budget by approving administration tax measures.

In a breakfast conference on board the RPS Lapu-Lapu with 11 House members led by Speaker Romualdez, the President reiterated his stabilization program which is based on nine tax bills.

He was informed that seven tax measures were approved by the lower chamber of Congress and two others were pending. Among those approved by the House and pending action in the Senate are:

(1) The proposed amendment to the income tax law increasing the tax rate on the higher income tax bracket and easing the load on the salaried employees; and

(2) The elimination of the exemptions on new and necessary industries.

Discussion of the conferees centered around the two pending tax measures in the Lower House. These are (1) the proposed imposition of berthing fees, and (2) the proposed increase on registration fees on motor vehicles, the costlier cars to bear a heavier tax rate.

All tax measures must originate from the House of Representatives.

Present in the conference were Speaker Romualdez, Speaker Protempore Constancio Castañeda, Reps. Justiniano Montano, Ramon Mitra, Jose Roy, Vicente Peralta, Lamberto Macias, Domitilo Abordo, Natalio Castillo, Lucas Paredes, Jose Nuguid, and Jose Leido. Legislative Secretary Logarta was also present.

The President last night worked late on state papers, provincial and city appointments, and speeches to be delivered in the course of his four-day state visit to South Vietnam.

From the Lapu-Lapu, the President returned to Malacañang in the afternoon to meet his appointment as guest speaker at the University of the Philippines.

Arriving at the University of the Philippines' campus at 4:30 p.m., the President was met by UP President Vicente G. Sinco; Lt. Col. Hernando Castillo, UP ROTC commandant; and Jose C. Campos, Jr., UP budget director and brother of the President's son-in-law.

President Garcia was conferred the honorary degree of doctor of laws. Education Secretary Manuel Lim placed the hood for the doctorate degree assisted by Sen. Decoroso Rosales, chairman of the Senate committee on education and member of the UP board of regents. Lim is the chairman of the UP board of regents.

April 8.—PRESIDENT Garcia this day continued conferring with Congress leaders on the speedy enactment of tax measures aimed at stabilizing the national economy.

In his Quezon City residence the President conferred with Sen. Pedro Sabido and Reps. Jose J. Roy of Tarlac and Dominador Tan of Leyte for over three hours and obtained their support for the approval of the tax measures recommended by the Administration.

Sens. Gil J. Puyat, chairman of the Senate finance committee, and Cipriano Primicias, majority floor leader, were invited to the conference but excused themselves after informing the President that the tax measures to be taken up were reported out by Puyat and were calendared for floor discussion.

The tax measures reported out by Puyat were the 17 per cent special import tax and the specific tax from which sources the government expects to collect a yearly levy of from P100 to P160 million.

The President also received Sen. Domocao Alonto, Rep. Canuto Enerio of Zamboanga del Sur, and Gregorio Licaros, chairman of the Development Bank of the Philippines.

In the afternoon the President motored to Malacañang, where he signed into law House Bill No. 330, creating the sub-province of Biliran in Leyte in a brief ceremony held in the reception hall.

Present at the signing were Rep. Marcelino Veloso of the 1st district of Leyte, author of the bill, and prominent residents of the new sub-province of Biliran.

President Garcia also took time out to accept from Inocencio Gallemnit, sculptor from Dapitan, Zamboanga del Norte, a relief done in plaster of paris of the historic "Blood Compact" between Chief Sikatuna and Legaspi.

The relief was presented as a personal gift to the Chief Executive from the people of Dapitan and Zamboanga del Norte. Accompanying Gallemnit were Rep. Alberto Ubay and Mrs. Candelaria Gallemnit.

After these early afternoon appointments, President Garcia proceeded to the Council of State room where he presided over the regular meeting of the Cabinet.

THE CABINET this afternoon approved the controversial purchase of 12 ocean-going vessels from Japan to expand the Philippine maritime fleet.

Malacañang said the deal would cost the Philippines $45 million. The first ship would be delivered one year after the signing of the contract.

Cabinet approval of the deal was made after the House committee on good government had endorsed the plan of the National Development Company to purchase the vessels from Japan.

The vessels will be purchased from the proceeds of government bonds which will be floated shortly.

Acquisition of these ships is authorized by the Overseas Shipping Act and by Republic Act No. 100, otherwise known as the law authorizing the Chief Executive to float bonds for public works improvement and for the purchase of maritime craft.

In approving the purchase, the Cabinet, however, directed Justice Secretary Jesus G. Barrera to go over the draft of the contract which will be signed shortly by the shipbuilders and representatives of the NDC. The Cabinet approved the purchase of the ships at $3.6 million each.

Rep. Joaquin R. Rocas, chairman of the House committee on good government, appeared today before the Cabinet meeting and said that his group failed to secure evidence to substantiate charges that the vessels had been overpriced.

"It would be quite unfair for the committee to make conclusions based on nothing more than loose talks and gossips," Rocas said.

Rep. Felicisimo Ocampo, member of the House committee, was expected to shed further light on his charges that similar bids had been offered lower prices. However, Ocampo failed to appear before the Cabinet. He sent a letter to the Cabinet saying "it is regrettable that one week proved inadequate to complete our inquiry into the matter."

The Nueva Ecija solon testified before the Cabinet meeting last week and brought out a letter purporting to show that a Japanese firm was willing to construct the vessels at a price lower than that recommended by the NDC.

President Garcia this evening congratulated Rep. Roces for endorsing the purchase of the 12 ocean-going vessels after his committee had failed to secure evidence to substantiate charges which the solon said had been based from "loose talks and gossips."

The Cabinet, at its meeting last week, decided to postpone action on the deal to give one-week time to Rep. Ocampo to prove his charges that the boats were overpriced.

President Garcia, in approving the postponement of the Cabinet action last week, said he wanted the deal to be fully scrutinized before it was acted upon by the body. He, however, warned that the contract with the Japanese shipbuilders had to be signed on or before April 14.

April 9.—THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady today observed Bataan Day by hearing mass at the Malacañang chapel.

Shortly after the mass, the President ordered wreaths sent to the cemetery in Mt. Samat; Libingan ng mga Bayani in Fort William McKinley; the cemetery in Camp O'Donnell, Capas, Tarlac; and the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Fort Santiago.

The President also conferred with Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo and Press Secretary Jose C. Nable. President Garcia discussed with them the daily tirades launched by Sen. Arturo M. Tolentino against the acquisition of the new presidential yacht, Lapu-Lapu.

Secretary Pajo immediately issued a statement answering point by point Tolentino's charges.

After his conference with the two Malacañang officials, the President motored to his private residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City. At his residence, the President was reported to have gone over the draft of his speeches which he will deliver in South Vietnam.

The President also cabled a war widow in Chicago, Mrs. Marjorie Gibson, informing her that a Philippine Air Force helicopter flew over the former battlefields of Bataan and sprayed the ashes of her late husband, Lt. Emmet Gibson.

"The millions of Filipinos who paid homage to the heroes," the President wrote, "should comfort you."

This evening the President felicitated Crown Prince Akihito on the eve of his wedding.

The Japanese crown prince will marry Michiko Shoda tomorrow at a royal wedding in Tokyo.

President Garcia expressed gratification over the readiness of private investors to accept the challenge of establishing an integrated steel industry in the Philippines.

A special Cabinet committee, created by the President to interest private sector to participate or take over the NASSCO integrated steel plant project, reported today that the response of individual financiers as well as investors in the present rolling mill industry has been very encouraging.

The committee is composed of NEC Chairman Jose C. Locsin, as chairman; and Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Justice Secretary Jesus G. Barrera, Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno, and Economic Coordinator Pablo Cruz, members.

President Garcia was also informed that representatives of private financiers and investors have formed a committee among themselves to draft the organization papers, estimate the minimum capitalization required, and study and select the most suitable steel plant and other relevant matters.

At a formal conference called recently to determine the reaction of private enterprise to the proposal that they take over the task of putting up an integrated steel plant in the country, Chairman Locsin made known that the government is willing to withdraw completely and turn over the venture to private firms.

If private enterprise so desires, he said, the government is willing to carry on a joint venture basis with private enterprise as a minority.

The private sector may purchase at a negotiated price the existing facilities of the NASSCO, but should total private resources be inadequate the value of such facilities will be credited to the government's participation in the project.

Reasonable support by the government was assured the conferees, particularly in the way of guaranteeing the needed dollars for importation of capital goods and other necessary equipment.

Chairman Locsin further told them that all technical studies now in the hands of the government will be made available to the private group for their reference.

At the meeting of the Cabinet last April 4, discussion was resumed on the projected establishment of an integrated steel mill to implement the President's policy of achieving self-sufficiency in shelter. Among the questions the Cabinet sought to resolve were: (1) whether the government should adopt the Von Roll process or continue with the oxygen-blown or conservative process; or (2) whether the plan of organizing the industry with the government as center should be continued or the venture be entirely to private enterprises.

April 10.—THIS morning the President directed ACCFA officials to submit to his office the measures or safeguards instituted by the management to preclude the commission of irregularities, especially in the weighing and grading of Virginia tobacco.

The President said that if it becomes necessary, he will direct the National Bureau of Investigation and the Constabulary to detail men in vulnerable areas of the ACCFA to further strengthen the measures adopted by the government agency.

At the same time, President Garcia directed that the program of financing the price support of Virginia leaf tobacco during this crop year out of Central Bank funds be also submitted to his office, as well as the detailed mechanics of the buying operation from the farmer levels up to the stage when tobacco becomes ready for allocation and withdrawal by the cigarette factories.

The President issued the directives at a conference with PCAPE officials led by Chairman Buenaventura Ocampo and Vice-Chairman Maximo Maceren.

PCAPE officials drew a picture of the problems facing the ACCFA and pointed out that it faces a bigger problem this crop year in the purchase of Virginia tobacco in view of an expected surplus of 12 million kilos.

Earlier, the President received provincial and city treasurers and assessors who are in Manila for their annual convention and enlisted their help in the sale of government bonds.

In reply to the appeal of the President, Rizal Provincial Treasurer Pedro Coronel, president of the group, pledged the help of his colleagues in the sale of bonds.

The President, in the afternoon, held his regular weekly press conference.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon justified his acquisition of the P5 million yacht Lapu-Lapu as "needed in the performance of essential public services."

At his regular press conference, the President said his action in the procurement of the yacht was based on the Reparations Agreement and the Reparations Act, otherwise known as Republic Act 1789.

The President's defense was in reply to the charges aired recently on the floor of the Senate by Sen. Arturo M. Tolentino, who questioned the legality of the Philippine acquisition of the yacht under the reparations terms.

He said the President of the Philippines can acquire goods from Japan under the reparations whether or not they are in the schedule by making a request directly with the Japanese Government.

Quoting a provision of Article 3, paragraph 2, of the Reparations Agreement, the President read: "The products to be supplied by way of reparations shall be capital goods. However, products other than capital goods may, by agreement between the two governments, be supplied by Japan at the request of the government of the Republic of the Philippines."

He stressed that the "President can request any product or goods even if they are not listed as procureable in the annex of the Reparations Agreement.

Lapu-Lapu was requested from the Japanese Government on the second-year of the Reparations Agreement.

During the press conference, the President:

1. Branded as a "novel idea," Vice-President Macapagal's claim that the President should be responsible for the venalities committed under his administration. "No President will escape getting jailed if we have to follow that theory," the President remarked.

2. Said he was organizing the fact-finding committee to look into the charges and counter-charges filed with the President against each other by the manager and governors of the ACCFA;

3. Expressed optimism that the greater number of the Filipinos will not accept the "Godless ideology of the communist;"

4. Commented that the Tibetan disorders is a typical example that the communists preach co-existence but do the other things; and

5. Announced the members who will compose the presidential party leaving for a five-day state visit to South Vietnam on April 22. They are Mrs. Garcia, Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano, Education Secretary Manuel Lim, Press Secretary Jose C. Nable, Sen. Lorenzo M. Sumulong, Rep. Ramon P. Mitra, Pablo Suarez, Mayor Alfonso Tabora of Baguio, and Lt. Col. Emilio Borromeo, presidential aide.

Asked to comment on Macapagal's observation that democracy is losing out to the communists in the latter's parliamentary struggle, the President remarked that the "democratic way of life is so deeply engrained in the national soul" and expressed optimism that the greater majority of the Filipinos will not "accept this Godless ideology."

The President, however, said there are a few Filipinos who had been misguided by communist propaganda.

Commenting on the Tibetan disorders, the President said "it is another example where the communists after preaching the principle of co-existence and brotherhood, do other things."

Official Week in Review: April 12 – April 18, 1959

April 12.—PRESIDENT Garcia spent a quiet day today in his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City, working on state papers and going over the drafts of the speeches he will deliver in Vietnam when he goes there for a state visit late this month.

The President and Mrs. Garcia heard an early morning mass at their private residence. After a hearty breakfast, the Chief Executive pored over the morning newspapers. Then he retired to his room to work on pending state papers and clear his desk before he leaves for Vietnam.

He interrupted his work to receive Minister Daniel Lewin of Israel, who paid a courtesy call on the President. Minister Lewin was accompanied by Ernest Simke and David Golan.

After lunch, President Garcia continued his work on state papers and later called for the drafts of his Vietnam speeches.

As part of the regular exercise prescribed for him by Dr. Antonio Guytingco, his personal physician, the Chief Executive went down to the garden for a short brisk stroll.

Later in the evening, President and Mrs. Garcia motored to the Fisher Avenue residence of Senate President Protempore Fernando Lopez to extend their personal greeting on the latter's natal day.

PRESIDENT Garcia is considering a move to place the National Rice and Corn Corporation (NARIC) and the Agriculture Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration (ACCFA) under the supervision of one department, either the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources or the Office of Economic Coordination.

This was one of the recommendations made after a study of the activities of the NARIC for the fiscal year 1958 which was contained in a report submitted to the President today by acting Economic Coordinator Pablo Cruz.

Closer coordination between the NARIC, the ACCFA, and the NAMARCO was suggested, particularly as regards the production, milling, and distribution of rice and corn and their by-products to prevent over-lapping of functions and conflicts among them and for effective attainment of national policies and government objectives. Greater coordination of the distribution or marketing activities of these three agencies will contribute to the stabilization of prices, it was reported.

At present these three agencies are under separate offices: the NARIC is under the OEC, the ACCFA is under the Office of the President, while the NAMARCO is under the Department of Commerce and Industry.

Closer coordination among all government agencies concerned was also recommended by the OEC Head to the end that their efforts will be concentrated towards increasing production of rice and corn at reduced costs.

April 13.—PRESIDENT Garcia discussed with C. Douglas Dillon, U.S. under-secretary of state for economic affairs, subjects of common interest to the people of the Philippines and the United States when the latter paid a courtesy call at Malacañang this morning.

Undersecretary Dillon was accompanied by Mrs. Dillon, J. Frederick Reinhardt, newly designated assistant secretary of state for far eastern affairs, US Ambassador and Mrs. Charles E. Bohlen, and Counsellor James Graham Parsons.

Mrs. Leonila D. Garcia helped receive the President's distinguished visitors by receiving Mrs. Dillon and Mrs. Bohlen in the music room of Malacañang, while the Chief Executive exchanged amenities with the four American diplomats in the study room.

After receiving the envoys President Garcia administered the oaths of office to the officers of the newly-formed Pulp and Paper Manufacturers Association headed by James L. Chiongbian, president.

The President urged the members of the Pulp and Paper Manufacturers Association of the Philippines to direct their efforts to the manufacture of newsprint in order to stop a big drain in the dollar reserves of the country.

The President made the appeal after the induction of the newly elected officers of the association this morning.

Chiongbian informed President Garcia that the group, representing 14 pulp and paper manufacturers, is now supplying one-third of the needs of the country. He further informed the President that in the foreseeable future the association members can supply all the needs of the Philippines and export part of their production to foreign markets.

The other officers of the organization are Salvador T. Villa, 1st vice-president; Lim Se Keng, 2nd vice-president; Ty Liang Kue, treasurer; Leon Cuunjieng, secretary; Pedro T. Ramirez, 1st vice-president; Pacifico Velilla, 2nd vice-president; Regino Oyco, secretary; Mrs. Rosario Capistrano, treasurer; and Roman Lorenzo, Pablo Garcia, Arturo Soriano, Mario Reyes, Jose del Castillo, and Esmeraldo de Leon, directors.

They were accompanied by IDC Directors Faustino Lozada.

No detail of the conference was given out but the President said he will refer the problems they discussed to the Nacionalista Party executive committee.

From the breakfast conference with the Mindanao solons, the Chief Executive proceeded to his study room to receive his callers.

First on the list of his congressional visitors was Sen. Quintin Paredes, who accompanied ex-Senator Enrique Magalona of Negros Occidental.

The former senator extended the invitation to the President to be the guest of honor at the inauguration of the new municipal building in his hometown of Sarabia. The inauguration rites will coincide with the centennial anniversary of that municipality.

Reps. Godofredo Reyes and Faustino Tobia of Ilocos Sur saw the President to ask him to place the town of Sta. Cruz, Ilocos Sur, under Constabulary control to avert further violent incidents arising as a result of the ambush-slaying of a prospective candidate for mayor of that town.

They also requested the President to order the expeditious release of more funds to enable the ACCFA to continue its tobacco-purchasing operations.

Rep. Ricardo Yap Ladrido accompanied Cezar L. Legayada, president of the PAL Supervisors' Association (PALSA), who invited President Garcia to be the guest of honor at the organization's convention on Sunday, April 19.

President Garcia expressed his regrets in view of a previous commitment to be the commencement speaker at the graduation exercises of the Philippine Military Academy in Baguio.

The President, however, said he would ask Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo to be his personal representative at the PALSA convention.

Rep. Jose M. Laurel IV requested the Chief Executive to authorize the Land Tenure Administration to purchase a certain property in Tanauan, Batangas, his hometown, and resell it to the tenants in order to abort an impending agrarian problem.

April 15.—PRESIDENT Garcia led the nation in commemorating the 11th death anniversary of the late President Manuel Roxas today.

This morning, President and Mrs. Garcia motored to the Manila North Cemetery to lay a wreath at the tomb of the late Chief Executive. The President ordered another wreath to be placed at the San Miguel church, where a special mass will be said in memory of the departed leader.

Last evening the President dispatched an order to Col. Romeo Honasan, commander of Presidential Guards, to detail honor guards at the tomb of President Roxas from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. this day.

On hand to meet the President at the North Cemetery were the following relatives of the late President: Rep. Gerardo Roxas, Mrs. Ines P. Gatmaitan, Mrs. Ana Bellosillo, Luis de Leon, and Leopoldo Picazo.

Mrs. Trinidad de Leon-Roxas, widow of the late President, was not around as she was hearing a requiem mass for her late husband which was being celebrated at that time in the San Miguel church.

Others present at the tomb of President Roxas were former Sen. Geronima T. Pecson, ex-Finance Secretary Pio Pedrosa, Col. Jose Razon, and other close friends of the family.

After laying a wreath at the tomb, President Garcia led those present in offering a one-minute silent prayer for the eternal repose of the great Filipino leader. He chatted for a while with members of the family and friends of the late Chief Executive and exchanged reminiscences about President Roxas.

At a little after 10 a.m., President Garcia left the North Cemetery to fulfill a speaking engagement at the opening session of the PPSTA annual representative assembly.

After delivering his speech, the President returned to Malacañang where he spent the rest of the day preparing his commencement speech for the graduation exercises of the Philippine Military Academy on Sunday, April 19, and studied pending papers.

President Garcia this morning defined nationalism as “love of country, the kind of love which makes one willing to sacrifice one’s self in the defense of its rights and its integrity.”

Addressing the opening session of the 11th annual representative assembly of the Philippine Public School Teachers’ Association (PPSTA) at the P. Gomez Elementary School, the President differentiated the kind of nationalism which ennoble the history, traditions, and culture of one’s race from the kind of nationalism which fosters hatred toward other peoples and races.

He said the latter should be avoided so as not to sow the seeds of prejudice and increase the tensions that plague the world today.

The Chief Executive said the school is a convenient place for the inculcation of sane nationalism and advised the teachers to look inward, examine the Filipino soul, and search for the mainsprings of Philippine culture from which to draw the materials to be taught to their students.

In their zeal to provide conditions favorable to the development of nationalism, President Garcia warned the teachers against the banning of all foreign material from the schools because “knowledge is universal and knows no boundaries.”

President Garcia, after consultation with his Cabinet, approved the establishment of three additional flour mills in order to boost local production and at the same time cover the needs of the people for this commodity.

One of the projected flour mills will be set up in Eastern Visayas, another in Western Visayas, and a third in Mindanao. No flour mill has been approved for Luzon, as the two mills already operating in this island are considered adequate to meet the Luzon requirements.

The President instructed the National Economic Council to screen about seven firms which had applied for permits to establish the mills and determine their capability to undertake the enterprise. The NEC was authorized to make the awards to deserving companies.

As reported to the Cabinet, the applicants are the Progressive Flour Mills, the General Milling Corporation, the Republic Flour Mills, the G. Puyat & Sons, the Liberty Mills, the Aboitiz & Co., and the Universal Corn Products, Inc.

The President at tonight's Cabinet meeting, also:

(1) Postponed consideration of the proposed rules and regulations governing the proposal of Filipinos residing in the United States to invest in the economic development program of the Philippines until after action in Congress has been ascertained on the projected repeal of Republic Act No. 1410, the Barter Law; and

(2) Instructed Labor Secretary Angel M. Castaño to take up with the Court of Industrial Relations the strike at the Batangas-Tayabas transportation company.

The President disclosed he had received reports that the strikers were armed and that representations had been made to him to certify the dispute with the Court of Industrial Relations to avoid possible bloodshed.

Castaño, however, informed the President that the CIR would first decide whether this strike is an extension of the strike started about six months ago in the same firm and which had already been certified to by the President. Castaño said he would confer with CIR officials tomorrow and ask them to decide on this question.

April 16.—PRESIDENT Garcia administered the oath of office to Ambassador to Korea Eduardo Quintero in a ceremony held this morning in the President's study room in Malacañang.

President Garcia directed the Department of Foreign Affairs to bring home immediately the body of Jornado. He also directed other government agencies to extend help to the family of Jornado.

The President was informed of the tragic death of Jornado by Oscar Arellano, chairman of Operations Brotherhood, and he cancelled all his appointments this afternoon in order to visit Mrs. Jornado.

The OB male nurse, a native of Sibalom, Antique, died according to sketchy reports received by Arellano when strong winds tumbled the building which served as the OB office, about 45 miles from the Red China border.

Another nurse, Raquel Tolentino, suffered head wounds according to the sketchy reports. Arellano informed President Garcia that OB field administrator Mel Granada went this morning to the scene of the tragic accident.

The Jornados have two children, Adele, 14 years, and Abner, 11.

April 17.—PRESIDENT Garcia tonight interrupted his trip to Baguio to attend to the needs of 36 persons injured in Malasiqui, Pangasinan, owing to the derailment of the Ilocos Express train.

Accompanied by Mrs. Garcia, the Chief Executive alighted from the special train which carried him and his party from Manila, and proceeded to San Carlos where the 36 accident victims were being treated.

The President directed local officials to provide the victims with the needed medical aid, while Mrs. Garcia gave each of the injured persons money for his subsistence while recovering.

President Garcia was on his way to Baguio to fulfill engagements there when the special train carrying him and his party was blocked in Malasiqui by the derailed Ilocos Express.

The President was informed at the station that one was killed and 36 others were injured, five seriously, on account of the derailment of the train which was on its way to Manila.

It took station hands and volunteer helpers two hours to clear the path of the presidential train.

When the President was informed that the injured victims of the accident were hospitalized in San Carlos town, he directed train engineers to stop the vehicle at Dagupan so that he could be with the victims. He took a car to San Carlos with Mrs. Garcia.

The President returned to Dagupan City tonight to resume his interrupted trip to the Pines City.

President Garcia is scheduled to address the graduation exercises of the Philippine Military Academy on Sunday. He will be back in Manila Monday noon.

April 18.—PRESIDENT Garcia today instructed Manila Railroad Company Board Chairman Juan J. Carlos to create a committee to investigate the train disaster in Malasiqui, Pangasinan, yesterday with a view to pinpointing responsibility and avoiding recurrence of the tragedy. The President expressed concern over the condition of injured persons and at the same time signified his desire to maintain the faith of the people in the safety of railroad travel. Yesterday's mishap is considered one of the worst in six years.

Chairman Carlos formed a committee composed of Maj. Teofilo Zosa, MRR board member, as chairman; and MRR General Manager F. F. Santiago and Vidal Mata, MRR chief engineer, as members. Carlos transmitted to the committee the instructions of the President. He also instructed them to submit their findings as soon as possible.

The President meanwhile received few callers at the Guest House today.

Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano reported on his recent trip as well as his talks with U.S. Deputy Secretary of State C. Douglas Dillon.

Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez called to receive instructions prior to his departure on a Far East tour as the personal representative of the President with the Philippine Floating Exposition aboard the RPS Lapu-Lapu.

Other callers at the Guest House this noon were Brig. Gen. Oscar Rialp, PCAPE group headed by Justice Buenaventura Ocampo, and Rep. Jacobo Gonzales of Laguna.

In the afternoon, the President devoted his time writing his commencement speech at the Philippine Military Academy graduation exercises tomorrow which will be broadcast over nationwide hook-up through Station DZFM.

The President today wished officials and members of the Philippine Floating Exposition a successful mission in their economic and cultural trip to South East Asian countries.

Describing the Exposition's personnel as "the people's ambassadors of goodwill," the President underscored the importance of such a trip which is being held for the first time.

His statement, released prior to the departure of the RPS Lapu-Lapu, and addressed to the Exposition's officials and members follows in full:

"For the first time, a Philippine Floating Exposition will be held in South East Asian countries. The sailing tonight of the RPS Lapu-Lapu is a significant milestone in our nation's march towards progress. With this trip, the government has once again shown its deep interest in boosting foreign trade with her neighbors.

"It is my ardent hope that the exposition will improve further the close ties existing between our country and other nations in this part of the world.

"I therefore wish the officials and members of the Exposition—who are leaving the Philippines as their people's ambassadors of goodwill—good sailing and all the success in this important mission."

President's Week in Review: April 19-25, 1959

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

April 19.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning plugged anew for the development of national discipline among all sectors of the population to enhance the progress of the country.

The Chief Executive pointed out that national discipline is “not only for us who have been charged with running the affairs of the government, but also for various groups and for all without exception.”

President Garcia spoke at the graduation exercises of the Philippine Military Academy in Fort Del Pilar, Baguio City. He was introduced by Brig. Gen. Manuel Flores, PMA superintendent. In calling for the fostering of national discipline, the President stressed that PMA graduates could very well fit in the attainment of this goal because of the training they have had in the academy.

He said, “In the fostering of this form of discipline (national) you as members of the military establishment, steeped as you are in an even more exacting form of discipline, play a very important role.”

President Garcia explained that “national discipline is the price of progress, and considering our present state of development, the strengthening of our national economy will, indeed, call for the highest form of discipline among our people.”

The President said that, while one of the tenets of democracy is that the government should be a government of laws and not of men, the enhancement of national discipline calls for “model or exemplary lives” such as PMA graduates can provide.

“So at this juncture of our national development we need less of laws and more of men—men of principles, men of moral courage, loyal, upright, God-fearing, and faith-inspired men to enforce the laws of this Republic and perpetuate the institutions of government of the people, by the people, and for the people,” he said.

At the same time, the President exhorted the PMA graduates to “fight unrelentingly the influences of legislative thinking” and fill their minds with positive thinking.

President Garcia explained that he wants the PMA graduates to be faith-inspired “because in these materialistic terms the faith of the youth is being undermined every day in the press, radio, and television by negative thinking.”

The Chief Executive also urged the PMA graduates to dedicate themselves to the cause of perpetuating democracy and the defense of it against all threats of godless ideology.

“Let our national institutions build up ramparts against an ideology which cancels the human liberties and the inalienable rights of citizens and which convert them into herded peons of a totalitarian state,” the President urged.

As his special message to the graduates, the President called on the PMA to bear in mind that as future Armed Forces leaders “you have to accept a higher form of loyalty” than the mere loyalty to instructors or school.

LATER in the afternoon, the President signed an executive order granting the Baguio Press Club a lot for the site of proposed BPC building. The signing were witnessed by Manila newspapermen and members of BPC.

The Chief Executive also was briefed on the findings of the PCAPE regarding controversy between the ACCFA board of governors and the management.

Among recommendations submitted to the President by Chairman Buenaventura Ocampo were acceptance of all resignations and amendment of ACCFA charter to define the powers and authority of board and management.

THE President this evening expressed grave concern over problems facing the Agricultural Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration, particularly the collection of ₱120 million in loans which he described as lagging into uncollectible accounts.

The Chief Executive met with officials of the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency on the bitter controversy which had rocked the ACCFA management and board of governors.

Those who conferred with the President were Justice Buenaventura Ocampo, FCAPE chairman, and Vice-Chairman Maximo Maceren.

They took up the proposed overhaul of the ACCFA to prevent discords that would shake the efficiency of the farmers' agency and drive it into bankruptcy.

President Garcia also:

- (1) Disclosed he had no plans of replacing Commissioner Jose Arañas of the Bureau of Internal Revenue;
- (2) Pointed out he will meet with leaders of the Senate to expedite enactment of the measure scrapping the no-dollar import law, otherwise known as the barter trade law; and
- (3) Underscored his five-day state visit to Vietnam as purely a goodwill tour in return to the visit here of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

The President said he will order shortly the formal investigation of charges and counter-charges filed against the ACCFA administrator and governors.

He said the PCAPE officials merely constituted a fact-finding body to gather facts and report their findings.

Before meeting with the officials, President Garcia had asked all the governors to resign and give him a free hand in conducting the inquiry into the ACCFA mess.

He also said there was nothing new in the diplomatic talks over United States bases here.

However, he said the conferences between Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano and US Ambassador Charles Bohlen were exploratory.

He said he will shortly meet with Senate leaders on the passage of the barter trade law.

He likewise scotched reports he was relieving Arañas. "I have no plans to retire him," he said.

Commenting on his forthcoming state visit to Vietnam, President Garcia said he merely would return Diem's call.

April 20.—PRESIDENT Garcia returned to Manila by train early this afternoon after a two-day stay in Baguio City during which he was guest speaker at the commencement exercises of the Philippine Military Academy at Fort Del Pilar.

The presidential party left the Mansion House at 8 a.m. for Damortis, La Union, where he boarded a special train for Manila.

On board the train, the Chief Executive held conferences with Commissioner Madki Alonto of National Integration; officials of the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency (PCAPE); and board members and other officials of the Manila Railroad Company.

Commissioner Alonto reported to the President on the living conditions among the non-Christian Filipinos in Bontoc which he had just visited on a routine inspection trip.

He requested President Garcia to direct the speedy release of funds appropriated for his office so that it will be able to assist in elevating the standard of living of the Filipino minorities.

The President discussed with PCAPE officials possible solutions to problems confronting the ACCFA which were brought to his attention during an extensive four-hour briefing yesterday afternoon at the Guest House.

Those who sat in on the ACCFA discussions were PCAPE Chairman Buenaventura Ocampo, Vice-Chairman Maximo Maceren, Francisco Salvador, statistical researcher; and Alfredo Flores.

President Garcia also received a preliminary report from the committee he had created to look into the causes of, and pinpoint responsibility for, the Ilocos Express derailment last Friday afternoon resulting in the death of one and injuries to many others.

The committee members were unanimous in their conclusion that the accident was caused by "human error" as a result of overspeeding as the train entered the Malasiqui station.

They vigorously denied that it was due to rotten ties which caused the tracks to give way when the Ilocos Express turned into the side-tracks, a theory presented by Lt. Col. Eladio S. Isleta, Pangasinan PC provincial commander.

The committee formed by MRR Board Chairman Juan J. Carlos is composed of Maj. Teofilo Zosa, MRR board member, as chairman; and MRR General Manager Feliciano F. Santiago and Vidal Mata, MRR chief engineer, as members.

At 9: 50 a.m., the special train carrying the President slowed down as it passed by the scene of the disaster at Malasiqui to pick up Capt. Francisco H. Calinawan, MRR assistant general manager, who was supervising the work of clearing the tracks of the wrecked coaches and scattered parts.

As of this morning, four out of the seven coaches derailed had been set upright. Work on clearing the tracks was delayed as MRR engineers had to wait for the arrival of heavy equipment sent for from as far south as Sipocot, Camarines Sur.

Upon arrival at Tutuban Station in Manila, President Garcia proceeded to Malacañang where he spent the day putting the finishing touches on his speeches for Vietnam.

THE President through Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, directed Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona to facilitate the payment of some 2,628 disabled veterans from the reserve fund of the Armed Forces.

A big delegation accompanied by Dominador Realon, technical assistant on veterans' affairs, and headed by officials of the United Disabled Veterans Association of the Philippines sought the aid of the President in the payment of the balance of their pensions from June, 1958.

Secretary Pajo, upon instructions of the President, immediately directed the Budget Commission to use the reserve fund of the AFP for the purpose.

The pensioners claim that ₱650,000 will be needed to pay all pensions due up to June, 1959, under Republic Act No. 610. The average pensioner gets a monthly pension of ₱100 under the act.

The delegation was headed by Silvino G. Matias, president of the board; Alejandro Costales, vice-chairman; and Wilfredo Montano, PRO of the United Disabled Veterans Association of the Philippines.

April 21.—THE President today presided over a special meeting of his Cabinet at the Council of State room.

He called a special meeting of the Cabinet to take up the long-drawn fishing controversy in the Bulacan shorelines.

Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo invited Gov. Tomas Martin of Bulacan and Lt. Col. Felizardo Tanabe, provincial commander of the province, to help shed light on the controversy which had heightened tension between the contending groups of fishermen in the area.

At 12:30 o'clock, the President suspended the Cabinet meeting and motored to the Palm Grove, formerly the Aristocrat Beach Resort, in Las Piñas, Rizal, to attend the 14th anniversary luncheon of the Manila Chronicle.

He then addressed the crowd and lauded the Manila Chronicle on its 14th anniversary. He recalled that the newspaper "is one of the frontiersmen of the freedom of the press and of nationalism."

"I can say that the Filipinos rejoice with the publishers, editors, and personnel of the Chronicle for having achieved its 14th anniversary with flying colors," the President said.

He pointed out that a democratic Philippines "welcomes the existence of a paper that will speak out its minds on national and public issues fearlessly and frankly, for it is only when we speak thus that the leaders of the government can choose their course of action in the task of leadership."

The President disclosed he devotes an hour every morning reading the metropolitan newspapers.

He said his daily reading of the newspapers is prompted by his desire to know the pulse of the public opinion, and added that he has been guided by the newspapers in the formulation of his policies.

In hailing the Chronicle, the President said that it is "one of those newspapers that contribute to the formulation of plans and help chart the course of government action."

After his speech, the President motored immediately to Malacañang to resume the special Cabinet meeting which wound up at 7 o'clock this evening.

President Garcia and his Cabinet today ordered the demolition of illegally constructed dikes and fishpond levees in Bulacan, Bulacan. The Cabinet action settles a controversy which has raged for years, and which many times in the past threatened to explode into violence.

President Garcia, on the advice of his Cabinet, decided to approve the report of the PCAPE which recommended modifications in boundary lines. The President decided to provide 200 small fishermen sufficient communal fishing grounds to help them in their livelihood.

It has been recognized that certain private parties have introduced certain improvements on the lots they have applied for. But it has also been found that the lots they applied for are part of the sea and therefore are not subject to the commerce of man.

Some of the fishpond constructions are encroaching on public streams and coastal waters.

The presidential decision will, in effect, result in:

1. The restoration of some 3,000 hectares of communal fishing grounds to the poor fisherfolk along the shores of Bulacan who depend on shallow-water fishing for their sole means of livelihood; and
2. The removal of illegal fishpond works at present obstructing traffic in the mouth of the Maycapiz River.

The President conferred this afternoon with officials of the People's HomeSite and Housing Corporation headed by ex-Governor Bernardo Torres, PHHC general manager and chairman of the board of directors.

The President discussed with the housing officials ways and means of improving the finances of the government agency.

This evening President Garcia and the First Lady received some 80 Nacionalista congressmen who trooped to Malacañang to greet the Chief Executive and Mrs. Garcia on the eve of their departure tomorrow morning for a five-day state visit to South Vietnam.

The President and the First Lady chatted with their guests and well-wishers. The President and the solons did not discuss official matters but exchanged views lightly.

The group was organized by Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez to wish the President and the First Lady "bon voyage."

April 22.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia and eight members of his official entourage took off from the Manila International Airport at exactly 7 o'clock this morning for Vietnam.

He was cheered by a fair crowd which woke up early in the morning to give him a rousing send-off.

The ceremonies were cut short, and President Garcia failed to deliver a prepared speech. The speech, however, was circulated among the newsmen to be able to spread the President's message before his scheduled departure for a five-day state visit to South Vietnam.

Before taking off, the President conferred with Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, who was designated as government "caretaker" during President Garcia's absence from the country.

With the official entourage of the President were the First Lady, Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, Education Secretary Manuel Lim, Sen. Lorenzo Sumulong, Rep. Ramon P. Mitra, Pablo Suarez, and Lt. Col. Emilio Borromeo, presidential aide.

The chartered PAL plane also bore other members who decided to join the President to South Vietnam.

Before motoring to the airport, the President and Mrs. Garcia and other members of the official entourage heard an early morning mass at the Malacañang chapel.

President and Mrs. Garcia landed at the Tan Son Nhut airport near Saigon at 10 o'clock this morning and waded through elaborate welcome ceremonies, believed to be the warmest accorded a visiting chief of state in South Vietnam.

The President was welcomed by South Vietnam President Ngo Dinh Diem, Philippine Ambassador Trinidad Legarda, and high government dignitaries of the host country.

President Garcia and President Diem exchanged brief speeches dwelling on a common theme of mutual crusade against communism.

The President said he was looking forward to four days of fruitful meetings with President Diem.

President Garcia's five-day visit to South Vietnam was in return to President Diem's visit to this country last year.

The Philippine President said that the Vietnamese Chief Executive has progressive leadership.

President Garcia was presented the key to the city by Saigon Mayor Nguyen Phu Hai. The President reviewed an honor guard of Vietnamese troops before driving three miles to the Gia Long Palace.

At noon time the President had a private luncheon with Philippine Ambassador Trinidad Legarda at the latter's official residence in Saigon.

In the afternoon the President made a formal call on President Diem at the latter's palace.

April 23.—PRESIDENT Garcia today, on the second day of his five-day state visit to South Vietnam, addressed the Vietnamese National Assembly and debunked the communists' propaganda of peaceful coexistence in the light of developments in Tibet.

Reports reaching Manila said the President was given a standing ovation and was interrupted by several applause as he ploughed through his prepared speech.

The President started his second day in Saigon by visiting the headquarters of the South Vietnam armed forces where he was honored with a colorful military parade and review.

In the afternoon, the President was conferred with the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the University of Saigon.

Addressing the student body and the faculty of the institution, the President urged cultural cooperation among the Asian nations so that they "may be heard in the councils of free nations."

Earlier, the President addressed the Jaycees of South Vietnam who honored the Philippine Chief Executive at a luncheon.

In his address at the occasion, the President said, aside from cultural collaboration among Southeast Asian countries, there should be closer cooperation in the fields of economics.

President Garcia and members of his official party also visited the presidential yacht Lapu-Lapu which is in Saigon bearing the Philippine floating exposition.

The President was impressed with the various Philippine-made goods exhibited aboard the yacht.

In the evening, the President lauded the leadership of President Ngo Dinh Diem at a state dinner given by the latter in honor of the Philippine Chief Executive.

Capping his speech, the President invited all those present to offer a toast for the health of the South Vietnam President.

The state dinner was held at the Gia Long Palace in Saigon.

April 24.—ON the third day of his state visit to South Vietnam, President Garcia toured Vietnam's seat of ancient culture at the historic royal tombs at Hue. It was his first trip out of Saigon. The President toured the area and went through the development center. He had dinner in Hue.

In the evening President Garcia and President Ngo Dinh Diem went aboard the presidential yacht Lapu-Lapu where they were treated to a command performance of the Barangay dance troupe. They were reported to have enjoyed the command performance of the young Filipino dancers.

The dance troupe is touring aboard the presidential yacht which is bearing Philippine-made products.

Even in Saigon where he is busy following a crowded five-day schedule during the course of his state visit to South Vietnam, President Garcia today took occasion to assail Vice-President Macapagal, president of the opposition Liberal Party.

President Garcia was apparently perturbed by reports that the United States had "sat down" on the Philippine claim for $23 million resulting from the U.S. devaluation of gold in 1934.

The President asked his press secretary, Jose C. Nable, to issue a statement expressing the belief that the U.S. Senate would not be influenced by an "unfortunate statement by Vice-President Macapagal."

The Vice-President had allegedly said that the United States Government has been lukewarm in granting the Philippine claims because of the rampant graft and corruption here.

In the absence of President Garcia, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo this morning swore into office Ex-Governor Perfecto Fayon of Ilocos Sur as member of the board of directors of the National Resettlement and Rehabilitation Administration.

The new NARRA director was mayor of Vigan for ten years and governor of Ilocos Sur for six years. At present he is technical assistant to the President.

Later in the morning, Secretary Pajo received a Mindanao legation accompanied by Secretary Alejandro Almendras of General Services and Governors Vicente Duterte of Davao and Salvador Lluch of Lanao.

Among those in the delegation were Davao City Mayor Carmelo L. Porras, and Mayors Florencio Gonzalez of Baganga, H. Boloya of Tagum, P. Dijale of Panabo, A. Interino of Mabini, Ricardo Ipong of Maquilala L. Sajulia of Governor Generoso, M. Pichon of Caraga, and Angel Rodriguez, president of the Nacionalista Party chapter in Davao.

The delegation came to request the release of sums of money from the contingent fund for feeder roads, irrigation projects, schools, and artesian wells.

In the afternoon, Secretary Pajo presided over the regular weekly press conference, in the absence of the President.

April 25.—PRESIDENT Garcia concluded his five-day state visit to South Vietnam this day with the signing of a treaty of friendship, commerce, and navigation between the representatives of both countries.

The President and members of his party are returning this afternoon after a "successful" five-day state visit to South Vietnam.

The President had gone to South Vietnam on a purely good-will visit. He toured three key cities in a move to forge closer ties between the peoples of the Philippines and Vietnam.

The President returned this morning to Saigon from a day's trip to Hue, the seat of South Vietnam's ancient culture. Hue is on the northernmost part of the country bordering Communist North Vietnam.

After resting for a few hours in Saigon, the President again flew to Dalat where he received honors at the famed Dalat University. He also visited Bien Hoa, about 30 miles north of Saigon during the day.

This evening the President gave a press conference in Saigon and capped the day with dinner at the Gia Long Palace.

He stayed at the Gia Long Palace for the night.

President's Week in Review: April 26 – May 2, 1959

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

April 26.—IN a short speech at the Manila International Airport delivered a few minutes after he stepped down this afternoon from a Philippine Air Lines Viscount plane that brought him home from a successful-four-day state visit to the Republic of Vietnam, President Garcia urged the development of Southeast Asia into a bastion of peace, freedom, and prosperity by the forging of the free countries in the region through closer social, cultural, and economic ties. He said this would be a means of insuring a life of continuing peace and freedom for the peoples of Asia.

As early as two o'clock in the afternoon throngs of welcomers started streaming into the MIA to greet the returning Chief Executive and the First Lady.

Among the welcomers were members of the diplomatic corps headed by British Ambassador George Lisle Glutton, members of Congress led by Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Cabinet members and their ladies, ranking members of the judiciary headed by Chief Justice Ricardo Paras, top government executives, and ranking officers of the Armed Forces of the Philippines.

The Plane bearing the President and his party was first sighted over Manila Bay at 3:05 p.m., escorted by four F-86 Sabrejet fighters of the Philippine Air Force and an SA-16 Albatross amphibian plane of the PAF air-sea Rescue Center.

A few minutes before the scheduled time of arrival, the presidential plane swung into the runway of the domestic terminal and taxied towards the eagerly waiting crowd of welcomers on its inboard engines followed closely by several fire trucks of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

First to emerge from the plane was President Garcia, who was Welcomed with shouts of Mabuhay from the people. He was followed by Mrs. Garcia, Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano, and Sen. Lorenzo Sumulong, and Reps. Ramon Mitra, chairman, of the Senate and House committees on foreign affairs, respectively.

The Chief Executive then received and acknowledged military honors, including a 21-gun salute accorded him by an honor guard battalion consisting of elements from the different services of the Armed Forces.

A Te Deum for the safe arrival of President and Mrs. Garcia and party was sung by Col. Nicolas Ortega, chief of the AFP chaplain corps, assisted by members of the corps before an improvised altar upon an elevated platform in the airport apron.

After he was presented to the public by Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, the President gave a brief report on the outcome of his four-day, state visit to the Republic of Vietnam.

Riding in an apple-green Biarritz Cadillac open convertible, President Garcia and Mrs. Garcia led a long motorcade from the MIA terminal to Malacañang passing through Quirino Avenue, Taft Avenue, Ayala Boulevard, Gral. Solano, and Aviles.

At Malacañang the President and the First Lady chatted briefly with close friends and relatives before retiring to their respective rooms to rest. Later, the President motored to his private home on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, where he spent the night.

PRESS Secretary Jose C. Nable this morning released a statement issued by President Garcia on the occasion of the merging into one unified labor center of major labor, federations and leading industrial unions in the Philippines.

Nable said that newly elected officers of this labor center would be inducted in a ceremony to be held in Manila tomorrow.

The full text of the Philippine President's statement as released by his press secretary was as follows:

"I wish to congratulate our country's major labor unions in their determined efforts to forge a unified group intended to work for the betterment of our masses. May their chosen leaders continue to work unselfishly for the welfare of their members and thereby foster harmonious labor management relations."

The statement was released this morning shortly before the Philippine Chief Executive boarded a Philippine Air Lines Viscount plane for the return trip to Manila at the conclusion of his four-day state visit in the Republic of South Vietnam.

April 27.—PRESIDENT Garcia today asked the law-enforcing agencies of four provinces and four cities to exert more efforts to improve their record in the solution of case and the enforcement of peace, and order in their respective jurisdictions.

The President at the same time commended the provincial governors and city mayors that showed a rating of 90 per cent or more in the solution of crimes committed in their localities.

In a consolidated report on the activities of police agencies all over the country, submitted today by Col. Crisanto Alba, Malacañang adviser on police matters, 33 out of 53 provinces and 15 out of 29 chartered cities scored a percentage rating of 90 per cent or over in the number of cases solved.

Provinces and cities whose ratings fell below 80 per cent are: Baguio, 67 per cent; Quezon City, 75 per cent; San Pablo City, 75 per cent; Tagaytay City, 50 per cent; Albay, 74 per cent; Cayite province, 67 per cent; and Sulu, 55 per cent.

The President, meanwhile, spent the day quietly at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City. He did not receive any caller.

He spent the day working on some papers which had piled up during his absence. He also rested from the grueling schedule he had followed during his five-day hectic state visit to South Vietnam.

Among the papers signed by the President today was a proclamation declaring April 30 this year as Women's Rights Day. He said the proclamation was in recognition and in appreciation of the important role being played by the women in the economic, social, and political progress of the nation.

President Garcia rested the whole day and did not receive any callers. He received only Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, who briefed the Chief Executive on the problems which have cropped up during the latter's absence.

Feeling tired from the grueling five-day state visit which he just had completed in South Vietnam, the President stayed in Malacañang where he went over pending state papers to clear his desk of the backlog of pending state papers which had piled up during his absence.

April 28.—PRESIDENT Garcia resumed his normal schedule of activities today by receiving congressional callers this morning.

Rep. Wenceslao R. Lagumbay saw the Chief Executive to request five hectares of public land in the barrio of Callos, Sta. Cruz, Laguna, be reserved for a school site.

Rep. Lagumbay was accompanied by Laguna Gov. Dominador Chipeco and Agriculture Undersecretary Jose Trinidad.

President Garcia also received Roberto Oca, newly-elected president of the Katipunang Manggagawang Filipino, a national labor organization composed of 13 major labor federations and industrial unions.

Oca went to Malacañang to pay his respects to the President. He was accompanied by Rep. Augusto Francisco of Manila. At the request of Oca, the Chief Executive agreed to meet KMP officers at a breakfast conference in Malacañang tomorrow morning.

President Garcia expressed satisfaction that the labor front was comparatively quiet in 1958. The industrial peace that prevailed last year, the President told Oca, contributed much to the great progress made by the country in the economic field.

The President reiterated his firm conviction that, in the nation's struggle towards economic development, no administration can be progressive unless there is harmony between labor and management.

Explaining his sympathetic attitude towards labor, the Chief Executive said, "Labor is occupying a major part of my time because I believe it is a very important factor in our march towards economic and industrial development. Besides, I came from that class."

Rep. Leon Guinto, Jr., of Quezon presented a resolution signed by 40 congressmen from coconut-producing provinces asking the President to direct the Philippine Coconut Administration (PHILCOA) to provide funds for the organization of cooperatives to wrest control of the copra trade from alien middlemen.

With Rep. Leon Guinto, vice-president for Luzon of the Phil. Coconut Producers Federation, Inc., were Gov. Juan F. Trivino of Camarines Sur, president of the federation; Rep. Manuel Zosa, vice-president for the Visayas; and Reps. Alberto Aguja, Salvador Enemas, Eladib Balite, Maximino Noel, Felipe Abrigo, Valeriano Yancha, Agaton Ursua, Gaudencio Abordo, and Mayor Felipe M. Mabilangan of Tagkawayan, Quezon.

President Garcia tentatively accepted an invitation extended by Rep. Francisco Sumulong of Rizal to be the guest of honor at a conference of vice-mayors and councilors of the province to be held in Taytay on May 16.

In his Bohol Avenue residence earlier this morning, the President received Commissioner Ramon Gaviola, Jr., of the Social Security Commission who took up with the Chief Executive matters pertaining to the SSS.

The President also received Reps. Godofredo Reyes, Canuto Enerio, and Dominador Tan.

April. 29.—PRESIDENT Garcia expressed admiration for the close cooperation and coordination between the sea-air forces after viewing a display of striking power aboard the 60,000-ton aircraft carrier USS Ranger during a Leader's Cruise around Manila Bay this morning.

Other ranking Philippine government officials who Witnessed the exhibition of the powerful potential of the latest in fast carrier striking forces were Vice-President Diosdado Macapagal, Sens. Eulogio Balao and Emmanuel Pelaez, Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas, Reps. Bartolome Cabangbang and Ramon P. Mitra, Lt. Gen. Manuel F. Cabal, Maj. Gen. Pelagio Cruz, Brig. Gen. Isagani Campo, Commodore Jose Francisco, and Capt. Heracleo Alano, PN.

President Garcia arrived at the US. Embassy landing at 9 a.m. where he was, met by US Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen; Adm. Edgar Cruise, commander of US naval forces in the Philippines; Vice-Admiral Frederick N. Kivette, commander of the 7th Fleet; and Rear Adm. Howard Caldwell, commander of Carrier Division One.

Full military honors, including a 21-gun salute, was accorded President Garcia on the hangar deck of the carrier by an honor guard of marines shortly after he was piped aboard the ship.

The air demonstration was opened with a series of sonic booms by four F8U Crusaders flying at supersonic speeds over the carrier. Other aircraft that participated in the show were 16 FJ Furies, six A30 Skywarriors, four F4D Skyrays, and 13 AD Skyraiders.

Except for the AD Skyraider which is propeller-driven, all the planes aboard the USS Ranger are jet-propelled. Among the most thrilling events of the show was the low-level in-flight jet refueling conducted by an F8U Crusader, an AD tanker, an FJ Fury, and an FJ tanker.

But the visitors were impressed most by the accuracy of the Sidewinder guided-missile fired by a Crusader at a rocket target released by the same plane a few seconds of each other.

After the two-hour demonstration, lunch was served on board the ship and then the guests were taken on a tour of the Ranger and shown a static display of the different types of aircraft it carried.

The aircraft carrier returned to its anchorage outside the breakwater at 3 p.m., and after receiving and acknowledging full military honors; President Garcia left the ship to return to Malacañang.

The regular Cabinet meeting scheduled in the afternoon was postponed, as the President was too tired to preside.

Earlier this morning, the Chief Executive received Alfred T. Zodda, vice-president of the Olin Mathieson International Corp., who paid a courtesy call at Malacañang. Mr. Zodda presented a Winchester model 50 automatic shotgun to the President during the visit.

Among those who accompanied Zodda to Malacañang were Herb G. Wolf of the same corporation, Lt. Gen. Manuel F. Cabal, PNB President Eduardd Romualdez, and Jack W. Bohnel and Dr. Paulino M. Taningco of the E. R. Squibb & Sons (Phil.) Corp.

Before disembarking from the USS Ranger President Garcia issued the following statement:

I have just witnessed a wonderful air show put up by this mighty attack carrier, the USS Ranger, the biggest aircraft carrier currently assigned in the Pacific area.

Such an impressive display of aerial might could, indeed, serve as a deterrent to any scheming enemy of the Free World. It is a convincing demonstration of the determination of the great American people to preserve just and honorable peace in this part of the globe. A few hours aboard the Ranger, one cannot but realize the massive striking power potential of this mighty instrument of peace.

I was very much impressed by the coordination and the clocklike precision with which the 3,500 officers and men, equipped with the most modern weapons of warfare, performed their assigned tasks. I congratulate the officers and men of the USS Ranger for a job well done.

April 30.—PRESIDENT Garcia told officers of the Katipunang Manggagawang Pilipino when they paid a courtesy call at Malacañang this morning that social justice should govern the relationship between labor and capital.

The President expressed concern over reports that about a dozen ocean-going vessels were tied up at the harbor and remained unattended alongside the piers owing to the refusal of some 1,200 pier workers to load and unload cargo on these vessels.

The President, meanwhile, spent the day quietly at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City. He did not receive any caller.

The President started the day by hearing mass at the living room of his home. Also at mass were Mrs. Garcia, some close relatives and friends, Maj. Jose Estrella, presidential aide, and members of the household help.

As envisioned by the President, the creation of the Commission will provide employment to thousands of Filipinos and raise the standard of living among the masses.

In expressing interest in the enactment of the measure, the President pointed out that this venture could be a source of dollars not to mention the fact that it would further develop native skills in the arts and crafts.

The proposal will be carried on a national scale. President Garcia also underscored the possibility that the project would develop new and diversified uses for local raw materials.

Cabinet members were agreed that there is an abundance of local productive talents and skills, and an unlimited supply of raw materials for home industry and that increased productivity in the homes will promote a richer family economy.

The appropriation of P5 million for the first year of operation is earmarked for this purpose. It was agreed that additional appropriation would be asked when needed in subsequent years.

May 7.—PRESIDENT Garcia directed GSIS General Manager Rodolfo Andal to study the feasibility of a financing plan proposed by about 4,300 heads of families for the construction of a housing project in Paranaque.

A total of 129 hectares of land has been allocated by the People's Homesite and Housing Corporation to members of the National Press Club and the employees of airline companies, the Tariff Commission, and the Central Bank.

The parties concerned suggested that the GSIS and the SSS, of which they are all members, advanced the purchase price of the lot to the PHHC. Then they would borrow individually from the two government agencies to pay for the lot and the construction of homes with the guarantee of the Home Financing Commission.

Led by Jesus Poticar, Max Mejia, and Francisco S. Rivera, presidents of the housing associations of the airline companies, the Tariff Commission, and the Central Bank, and with the concurrence of Tesoro G. de Guzman, chairman of the NPC housing committee, the proponents of the financing plan expressed their gratitude to President Garcia for his prompt action in view of the fact that the option to purchase the land from the PHHC expires on May 18, 1959.

The project, according to the proponents, is in line with the recommendations of the President in his state-of-the-nation message to the Fourth Congress of the Republic, and will help liquidate the outstanding obligation of the PHHC to the GSIS.

The proponents of the plan alleged it will be a living symbol of the accomplishment of the Administration.

The President also received Cabanatuan City Mayor Elpidio O. Cucio, who reported that the LP-PPP coalition has caused PPP leaders in Nueva Ecija to bolt the minority party.

The President took steps today to insure a sufficient supply of fertilizers to the nation's farmers in the forthcoming planting season as he directed the Central Bank to give priority in the allocation of dollars for the importation of ammonium sulfate under the rice and corn production program of the Administration.

The President warned that further delay or failure of the Central Bank to allocate the dollars needed would adversely affect the rice and corn production program.

The Chief Executive sent the communication to the Central Bank following representations made by the Acting Agriculture Secretary Amando Dalisay and on recommendation by the department secretaries during the regular weekly Cabinet meeting yesterday.

The President received this afternoon officers and members of the board of directors of the NARIC who briefed him on problems of the corporation and submitted recommendations for their solutions.

Present at the conference were Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, Majority Floor Leader Jose M. Aldeguer, and Iloilo City Mayor Rodolfo Ganzon.

Before he left Manila this noon for Baguio, the President attended to two major activities; namely, the immediate expansion of the Manila International Airport and Nacionalista Party matters.

The President received a group of managers of 12 airlines doing business in the Philippines. The group was accompanied by Modesto Farolan, tourism commissioner.

The airline managers urged the President to facilitate the immediate expansion of the international terminal of the MIA in Balagbag in order that modern airport facilities could be installed.

They said that this move is aimed at keeping the Philippines in step with the jet age from which the country could profit in terms of goodwill, tourism, and dollar income.

The Chief Executive pledged to give serious consideration to their proposal.

President Garcia arrived in Baguio at seven o'clock this evening following an uneventful trip by train from Manila to Damortis, La Union, and by car from Damortis to Baguio.

The Chief Executive went to Baguio to fulfill a speaking engagement tomorrow morning before superintendents of the Bureau of Public Schools now gathered for their yearly convention in the Pines City.

May 9.—PRESIDENT Garcia today batted for the Philippine public schools as he certified as urgent a House bill seeking to stabilize the financing of public schools.

The Chief Executive signed the message certifying the bill after addressing the golden jubilee convention of the Philippine Association of School Superintendents this morning in the Quezon-Roosevelt Memorial Hall in the Teachers' Camp.

After his speech, the President viewed the exhibits of tools used by vocational schools on display in the lobby of the Benitez Memorial Hall. He was accompanied by Mrs. Garcia, Education Secretary Manuel Lim, and Dr. Pedro Guiang, assistant director of public schools.

The President returned to the Guest House towards noon. After lunch, he gave a press conference to Manila newspapermen who went to Baguio with him.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Garcia was the guest of honor and principal patron at a scholarship tea given by the Baguio chapter of the Philippine Association of University Women to raise funds for the schooling of native student nurses at the Baguio General Hospital.

The First Lady lauded the efforts of members of the association to raise funds, particularly of Mrs. Leonora San Agustin, club president, because of the country's great need for more trained nurses.

Official Week in Review: May 10 – May 16, 1959

May 10.—PRESIDENT Garcia today enjoyed a restful day, limiting his callers to Rep. Leon Guinto, Jr. (N-Quezon), with whom he discussed the problems facing the coconut industry.

Upon the suggestion of Guinto, the Chief Executive agreed to certify to the urgency of enacting immediately a bill establishing coconut banks throughout the coconut-producing regions of the country.

Guinto told the President he would revive in Congress a bill establishing such banks. The bill was introduced by Guinto last year.

The Chief Executive then conferred with Major Arturo Sevilla, presidential adviser on aviation, on the expansion and improvement of the Manila International Airport.

The President inquired from Sevilla on the status of a P10 million loan application with the Export-Import Bank. He recalled that he was assured of the approval of the loan during his state visit to the United States last year.

President Garcia called in Sevilla for the conference because of the representations made by international airlines doing business in Manila for the immediate expansion of the MIA.

The airline executives saw the President last Friday and told him that the Philippines should, by improving the MIA, be able to march along with the jet age and take advantage of the benefits coming as a consequence of jet travel.

Following his conferences with Guinto and Sevilla, the President started considering certifying to Congress as urgent a bill creating a bureau of vocational educational in the Department of Education.

The creation of such a new bureau was opposed by Education Secretary Manuel Lim.

May 11.—PRESIDENT Garcia returned to Manila early this afternoon following a five-hour trip from Baguio where he addressed the golden jubilee convention of the Philippine Association of School Superintendents.

Accompanied by Mrs. Garcia, the President left the Guest House in Baguio about 8 a.m. today after a light breakfast. They motored down to Damortis, La Union, where they boarded a special train for Manila. They were escorted up to the Pines City boundary by a large delegation of city officials headed by Mayor Bienvenido Yandoc. They were back at Malacañang about 1:30 p.m.

The President did not receive any caller this afternoon. After a brief rest, he spent most of his time at his study in Malacañang working on a pile of papers brought over to him by Malacañang assistants.

President Garcia declared the period from May 10 to 16, 1959, as national 4-H Club Week and called upon the people to turn their thoughts during the week to the great service that the organization is doing for the country, economically and socially.

In issuing the proclamation declaring observance of the week, the President paid tribute to the 4-H Club, an organization of young boys and girls from the rural areas “who pledge their heads to clearer thinking, their hearts to greater loyalty, their hands to larger service, and their health to better living for their club, community, and country.”

The President said the 4-H Club has been found to be one of the major forces in improving the standards of living in the rural areas. He added that through the organization more than 120,000 boys and girls in and out of school have been developed into more useful young citizens and future leaders, thereby minimizing juvenile delinquency.

May 12.—PRESIDENT Garcia today directed the board and management officials of the Manila Railroad to explore ways and means of maintaining present improvements in operating condition of the MRR after a conference with Major Teofilo A. Zosa, MRR director, in Malacañang.

The President also told the MRR officials to make a thorough study for the early release of funds appropriated under R. A. 1867 for the Cagayan Valley extension project and the quarterly allotments for the rehabilitation of the Cabanatuan line for use in these projects.

President Garcia's schedule of callers this morning was called off shortly after 12 o'clock noon.

The President complained of a slight headache. He told Legislative Secretary Vicente Logarta to cancel the rest of his morning appointments.

Before retiring to his room, the President assured a delegation of members of the Philippine Library Association he will look into charges filed against Ernesto Rodriguez, Jr., officer in charge of the Bureau of Public Libraries, before withdrawing his nomination of the latter for directorship of said bureau.

Through their spokesman, Gabriel Bernardo of the UP Library and association president, the delegation informed the Chief Executive of the charges against Rodriguez which ranged from lack of special training in library science, and incompetence and maladministration, to persecution and harassment of subordinates during Rodriguez' incumbency as officer in charge of the bureau.

The delegation was accompanied to Malacañang by Sens. Alejo Mabanag and Quintin Paredes and was joined later by Reps. Aguedo Agbayani, Cipriano Primicias, Jr., and Luciano Millan.

In the evening, the President honored Ambassador Cao Thai Bao of South Vietnam with a dinner held at Malacañang in appreciation of the ambassador's contribution in making President Garcia's recent state visit to the Vietnamese Republic a success.

May 13.—PRESIDENT Garcia stayed in his private residence in Quezon City, where he spent his time going over a thick pile of pending bills endorsed to him for certification.

This is the rush hour in Congress and, unless the President certifies a measure, it could not be acted upon.

Legislative Secretary Vicente Logarte had stood at the door of the President's bedroom almost throughout the day, waiting for papers that President Garcia had gone over.

In the afternoon, the President received Defense Secretary Jesus Vargas and discussed with the latter the upsurge of criminality in Luzon.

The President observed that police stories have been dominating the columns of the daily newspapers indicating a deterioration in the peace and order condition.

He told Vargas to conduct a survey of the peace and order condition in Luzon and to attend to the provincial commanders' meeting today in Tuguegarao, Cagayan.

Vargas was asked to study the possible reshuffle of provincial commanders and the removal of misfits from provincial stations. The President also told the defense secretary that most provincial commanders are frequenting nightspots in Manila and Pasay City.

Vargas assured the President he will shortly confer with Brig. Gen. Isagani V. Campo on the relief of PC commanders who have not been able to preserve peace and order in their respective provinces.

Secretary Vargas said he would ask Gen. Campo to keep track of the movements of his PC commanders who had been reported to have been "slipping" to Manila frequently without the knowledge of the main headquarters in Manila.

The President likewise conferred with Labor Secretary Angel Castaño, who assured the Chief Executive that the long-drawn strike at the pier would be finally settled on Friday.

President Garcia cancelled the scheduled Cabinet meeting this afternoon. He was reported busy going over the pending bills needing presidential certification.

May 14.—PRESIDENT Garcia today gave Congress the green light to the immediate consideration of two bills designed to help him eliminate graft and corruption.

In a special message to the Senate and the House of Representatives, President Garcia pointed out that Congress could enact a good and effective bill after taking into account the good provisions of House Bill 3265 and Senate Bill 293.

The President was of the opinion that the objectionable portions found in the Senate and the House bills should be eliminated in order to assure its smooth passage in the Congress.

Particular praise was made by the President to a provision in the Senate bill providing for the submission of a statement of assets and liabilities by government officials. However, this particular provision was already being complied with by officials working in Malacañang.

The President discussed in detail the merits of both bills with Legislative Secretary Vicente Logarta. He set aside other state matters during the afternoon to study the requests for certifications of urgency presented by Secretary Logarta.

President Garcia's observations made on the anti-graft bill in Baguio City last week was misinterpreted as opposition to the entire bill. On the contrary, the President at that time expressed his support of the bill in principle.

The President merely pointed out an apparent void in the proposed bill which failed to provide for sufficient safeguards against political presecution and harassment of government employees by unscrupulous politicians,

President Garcia was informed by Speaker Romualdez that the House version of the anti-graft bill was approved a week in advance of the Senate bill.

Other bills certified to as urgent by President Garcia are as follows:

1. HB 2416—An Act authorizing the President of the Philippines to sell a certain parcel of land of the public domain of the national government to the Ramon Magsaysay Award Foundation;

2. SB 441—An act to amend certain sections of Commonwealth Act Numbered 446, otherwise known as the National Internal Revenue Code, as amended (Re exemption from the payment of fixed and percentage taxes by retailers in public markets);

3. HB 3633—An act authorizing the reclamation of submerged lands off the shoreline of Manila Bay for the extension of the Dewey Boulevard to the City of Cavite and of Bonifacio Drive to the municipality of Navotas, province of Rizal, as well as the simultaneous construction of the related health, recreation, and economic facilities and the reservation of areas for other public uses;

4. HB 2185—An act appropriating annually the sum of P205,600 as aid to the Philippine Normal College for the equipment, operation, and maintenance of its community-school health education center; and

5. 2418—An act to authorize the printing and issue of semi-postal stamps and a souvenir sheet to commemorate and help raise funds for the Tenth Boy Scouts World Jamboree.

This evening the President commended the presidential fact-finding committee headed by Lt. Commander Marcelino Calinawan in helping the administration in its campaign against graft and corruption.

At a conference with Calinawan and his group on the occasion of its first year of work, President Garcia stated that he is proud of the achievements of his administration which in one year alone has surpassed the record of eight years of the Liberal regime with regard to the campaign against graft and corruption.

Showing his determination to face the people with that proud record, President Garcia also stated his administration has suspended or removed from office one undersecretary, two bureau directors, one assistant bureau director, and suspended 72 minor officials, as well as filed in court or had pending preliminary investigation before the fiscal's office 25 criminal cases against government officials and employees.

The President said that he has reasons to believe that in the second year of his administration, the campaign against graft and corruption, will be no less a success than the first year.

In expressing his appreciation to the PFFC members for helping rid the government of corrupt elements, the President singled out Calinawan for his zeal in the performance of the task assigned to him.

The President said that the government has increased its revenues while the committee had uncovered dollar smuggling, economic saboteurs, and rackets in the government.

Present at the conference which was held at Malacañang were Col. Vicente Novales, Edgardo Villavicencio, Fiscal Leonardo Lucena, Narciso Angeles, Capt. Clemente Antonio, Maj. Enrique Galang, Alfonso Faliare, Felipe Rey Hipolito, and Amando Padilla.

May 15.—THIS morning, the President received in his private residence on Bohol Avenue Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, who conferred with the Chief Executive on the proposal to resume the international flights of the Philippine Air Lines.

Romualdez consulted the President on the position of Rep. Bartolome Cabangbang of Bohol, who wanted the international flights to be manned by Filipino pilots after 18 months of operation.

The President also received Chairman Rodolfo Maslog of the Reparations Commission, who briefed the President on the government plan to purchase 12 ocean-going vessels from Japan.

Sen. Pedro Sabido also saw the President and asked the latter to certify the bill seeking to encourage the investment of foreign capital in the country.

At noon, the President had lunch with members of the House ways and means committee headed by Rep. Jose J. Roy.

Committee members assured the President of the passage of the bill seeking to impose 25 per cent premium on the sale of foreign exchange.

In the afternoon, the President signed a proclamation declaring the period from June 1 to June 15 for the 11th annual fund campaign of the Community Chest.

In the evening, the President and Mrs. Garcia motored to the residence of Rep. and Mrs. Joaquin Roces who observed their wedding anniversary in Quezon City.

President Garcia indicated today he may call Congress to a special session to take up unacted measures needed to shore up the country's shaky economy.

At his regular press conference, the President told newsmen a special session was a "possibility." The current regular session will wind up on Thursday.

At the same time, the President reiterated his decision to call Congress to another special session primarily to discuss proposed amendments to the constitution, especially the plan to synchronize the elections every four years.

"If Congress is ready to take up these amendments," the President said, "I am ready to call a special session."

He said the special session may be convened early next month. He pointed out he did not want to call Congress immediately to a special session." "I want to give the senators and congressmen a breathing spell," he added.

During the press conference, the President:

1. Branded as speculative the reports that he would not maintain a "status quo" in the Agricultural Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration;
2. Stressed that the approval by the American Senate of the Philippine gold devaluation claim of $23 million "has strengthened the belief of the Filipinos in the sense of justice and fairness of their brother across the Pacific;"
3. Disclosed an assurance made by Congress leaders of the passage of the proposed 25 per cent premium to be levied in the sale of foreign exchange; and
4. Said he had sent Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona and Solicitor General Edilberto Barot to the United States to press for the release of the $125 million credit line promised him by U.S. President Eisenhower last June.

President Garcia refused to make a premature assessment of legislative work with six more days remaining before the end of the regular session.

Pressed by newsmen to comment on the congressional output this year, the President said, "I would prefer to make the assessment after the close of the regular session."

Before answering questions from newsmen, the President asked Press Secretary Jose C. Nable to read a prepared statement which President Garcia wrote in connection with the U.S. Senate approval of the PI gold devaluation claim for $23 million.

He said he was thanking the members of the US Congress for their favorable action in approving finally the PI devaluation claim.

“I expressed my confidence in the American Congress to do justice to a legitimate claim. Their action now, “he said, “has confirmed that expression of confidence and trust which I publicly stated during the early stages of the claim’s discussion on the floor of Congress.”

The President also averred that “this gesture of the American people, through their elected-representatives in Congress, has strengthened the belief of the Filipinos in the sense of justice and fairness of their brothers across the Pacific.”

May 16.—PRESIDENT Garcia today sounded an appeal for unity in the Administration’s efforts towards the economic development of the country.

The Chief Executive was the principal speaker at the closing day of the Rizal Vice-Mayors and Councilors League luncheon held at the Villa Lolita, in Taytay, Rizal.

Speaking in the national language, the President lauded local officials for forming an association with members coming from both parties which, he said, was “necessary to enable the officials to work effectively for the welfare of the people.”

The President revealed that 14 months from now 15 ships of approximately 10,000 tons each will be acquired by the Philippine Government through Reparations and another 12 ships of similar tonnage, through the NDC, thus increasing the present 47,000 tons of Philippine bottoms by 270,000 tons.

The President continued by citing the achievements of the Administration. He informed the people of Rizal that construction of the Marikina multi-purpose project will soon be in full swing. He said the project will provide for more industrial power for future industries, help farmers increase their production of rice and other products, and may solve the permanent water-shortage problem in Manila and suburbs.

The President earlier heard Misa Rezada, a special mass dedicated to the President and the First Lady celebrated by Mons. Vicente Fernandez, parish priest of Antipolo, Rizal. He was fetched from his Quezon City residence by Rep. and Mrs. Francisco Sumulong.

At the entrance to the Antipolo church, the presidential party was met by town officials headed by Mayor Isaias Tapales and Taytay Mayor Manuel Santos.

After the mass the President and his party motored to the Juan Sumulong Elementary School in Antipolo, where a delegation of parents and teachers headed by Lamberto San Esteban, principal, and Dr. Antonio M. Santos, president of the PTA, presented to the Chief Executive a petition to grant the municipality P50,000 from his contingent fund to replace the school building totally destroyed by a freak tornado. The President promised to give P25,000.

From Antipolo, the President motored direct to Taytay, the site of the convention, where the presidential party was met with brass bands at the entrance to the Villa Lolita. The President and his party were welcomed to the Villa by Mr. and Mrs. Antonio C. Esguerra, owner of the Villa and host of the conventionist.

The President certified to Congress today the urgency of House Bill 3570, providing for the expropriation of the Tatalon Estate in Quezon City and its resale and distribution to present tenants.

In his message to both Houses of Congress, President Garcia said that the approval of the bill will benefit about 1,500 heads of families residing in Tatalon Estate and is in line with the policy of his administration to give land to the landless.

President Garcia took this step in order to restore peace in the estate. Tenants of the Tatalon Estate who requested the certification alleged that a state of tension continues to prevail in the area, brought about by the efforts of the estate owners to eject the tenants and the repeated refusal of the tenants to budge from the lots they are occupying.

President Garcia this evening directed Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo as head of the recently created relief committee to assess the extent of damage wrought by the recent conflagration which razed three blocks of Lipa City's commercial center and to administer immediate aid to the victims.

On receiving reports of the fire which had rendered some 500 persons homeless, the President promptly mobilized the Constabulary health units and government relief agencies, directing them to coordinate their efforts towards extending the fire sufferers immediate assistance.

The President from his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City ordered SWA Administrator Amparo Villamor to render a report on the amount of foodstuffs, medicines, building materials, and other relief goods already given to the sufferers and to inform him what further aid are needed by the victims.

The radios, he said, will help immensely in the efforts of the government to stop subversive elements from misleading the rural people and thus maintain the democratic way of life which American instilled in the Filipino people.

The barrio of Mapulang Lupa in Pandi was selected by a special committee created by President Garcia as a model rural community for its advancement and progress through self-help. The barrio was formerly a hotbed of subversive activities where the Huks used to terrorize the residents.

In his thank-you speech delivered in Tagalog, President Garcia pointed out the role that radio plays in keeping the people enlightened, and added that an enlightened citizenry is the best 'insurance in the fight against communism.

The other act which takes effect on July 4, 1960, divides the province of Lanao into two, with Iligan City as the capital of Lanao del Norte and Marawi City as the capital of Lanao del Sur.

The Lanao act was signed in the presence of Sen. Domocao Alonto, Rep. Laurentino Badilles, and Lanao Gov. Salvador Lluch.

The President conferred with General Manager Bernardo Torres and Board Director Manuel Leelin and agreed to the sale of PHHC properties which are not needed by the state firm He also reappointed Enrique J. L. Ruiz as director of the PHHC.

K. Ishiyama, chief Manila liaison representative of Mitsubishi Shoji Kaisha, Ltd., and Jose Mayuga called on President Garcia to inform him that 55 multi-purpose tillers donated by the Mitsubishi Heavy Industries Reorganized, Ltd., are due to arrive in Manila on board the M.S. Samar on May 27.

The tillers, which are self-powered mechanical farm implements, will be formally turned over to President Garcia immediately upon arrival.

The gift was symbolically presented to President Garcia during his state visit to Japan last year as a gesture of friendship from the Mitsubishi enterprises to the Filipino people.

The tillers, worth about $25,000, are especially designed for field conditions in the Philippines and are equipped with complete interchangeable accessories for plowing, harrowing, tilling, cultivating, and weeding.

President Garcia had as luncheon guests the members of the Senate and the Congressional Press Clubs.

In the afternoon the President enjoined members of the Philippine Association of Broadcasters to help mold a healthier public opinion by leading it along avenues of positive, constructive thinking rather than overemphasizing faults or imperfections.

The Chief Executive said that good, progressive thinking should prevail in all radio programs.

The members of the association led by Henry Canoy, president, called at Malacañang to invite the President to be their guest speaker during their third annual convention. The group was accompanied by Assistant Secretary for Radio and TV Angelo Castro.

Other callers in the afternoon were Gov. Jose Briones of Cebu and Rep. Benjamin Ligot and Gov. Marcelo Adduru of Cagayan.

In the evening, the President motored to the Quezon City residence of Rep. Justiniano S. Montano, where he and the First Lady were special guests at an affair given in honor of senators and representatives.

President's Week in Review: May 22-28, 1959

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

May 22.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning called on the officers and men of the Philippine Constabulary to uphold the glorious tradition which the men in “Khaki and Red” have established during the past half-century.

The President was main speaker at the inauguration of the new PC headquarters in Camp Crame, Quezon City, which replaced the old building that was burned down over a year ago.

The ceremonial ribbon was cut by Mrs. Garcia, assisted by PC officers' ladies, after which a mass was celebrated and blessings bestowed by Rufino Cardinal Santos.

In his short impromptu speech the President recalled that of all the services of the Philippine armed forces, the Philippine Constabulary is the most battle-tested, and it holds the longest glorious record since its inception during the early days of American occupation.

The President recalled that the Constabulary as the biggest national police agency has not only successfully maintained peace in the country but also contributed its share of life and blood in the defense of the country against foreign aggression.

Thus, the President said, the organization has a dual role—to maintain peace and order and to ward off aggression to defend the country and to preserve democracy.

The President expressed confidence that present and future officers and men of the Constabulary will keep its tradition untarnished by devoting their utmost to the successful prosecution of this role.

The President and the First Lady, who were fetched from their Bohol Avenue residence by Brig. Gen. Isagani V. Campo, chief of the PC, arrived at Camp Crame for the ceremony at 8:20 a.m.

They were greeted by Cardinal Santos, who later said the mass and bestowed the blessings, Defense Secretary Alejo Santos, Defense Undersecretary Mariano Yenko, Jr., JUSMAG Chief Maj. Gen. Derril Daniel, Brig. Gen. Ricardo Papa, Mrs. Manuel Cabal, Justice Sotero Cabahug, former PC chief Brig. Gen. Guillermo Francisco and Brig. Gen. Alberto Ramos (both retired), and many others.

After the mass and blessings of the building, the guests, headed by the President and the First Lady were entertained at the breakfast.

The President and Mrs. Garcia left Camp Crame at 10:15 and returned to their Bohol Avenue residence, where the President took a short rest and then start working on the speech which he will deliver tomorrow evening at the Winter Garden, Manila Hotel.

The President will be the guest of honor and main speaker at the closing ceremony of the 1960 annual convention of the League of Provincial and City Health Officers at dinner tomorrow evening.

May 23.—THIS morning the President followed a heavy schedule of callers lasting up to 2 p.m.

Arriving at Malacañang at past 10 a.m. from his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City, where he usually spends his weekends, the President received a big delegation of clothing manufacturers.

Then the President received Ivan Knops and M. C. Fitzgerald, technical director and Far East director, respectively, of the De La Rue Security Printing Co. of London. The President and De La Rue officials discussed business for half an hour. The De La Rue Co. is handling the printing of Central Bank notes for the Philippine Government.

Later, the President received the annual report of the Boy Scouts of the Philippines, and rallied the BSP behind the government drive against graft and corruption.

After receiving the local scouters, the President received Postmaster General Enrico Palomar, who reported to the President on the First Philatelic Congress in Barcelona, held March and April, 1960, at which he represented the Philippines.

The President also received officials of the Church World Services, which had been engaged in relief work in the Philippines since just after liberation and during the big earthquake in Lake Lanao a few years back.

Other callers were Sen. Alejandro Almendras and some Davao mayors and Agusan Gov. D. O. Plaza, who requested the reallocation of the Manobo reservation to the Agusan provincial government as a jail site.

President Garcia expressed gratitude to the officials of the Church World Services on their decision to resume charity and relief operations after a lapse of three years in the Philippines.

The CWS officials told the President that their organization is deeply concerned with the social welfare of peoples all over the world and has decided to resume operations as a direct expression of its concern for the Filipino people.

According to the officials, the organization will distribute approximately 900,000 pounds of powdered milk, corn meal, flour, clothing, medical supplies, and other items during the fiscal year 1960-1961.

The organization will try to reach approximately 20,000 indigents through schools and colleges, hospitals and clinics, social centers and children's homes.

In addition, the CWS also plans to put up agricultural improvement and research projects, a youth center in Tondo, a children's home in Mindanao, and self-help projects in Cebu.

When the officials informed the President that the CWS has not yet been recognized by the Department of Foreign Affairs as a charitable organization and that it has been encountering official red tape, the President directed Acting Foreign Secretary Fructuoso Cabahug to facilitate recognition so that the operations of the organization can proceed smoothly.

Those who call on the President were Bishop Isabelo de los Reyes, of the Philippine Independent Church, CWS chairman; Paul Nelson, CWS director; and Dr. Gumercindo Garcia and Dr. Jose Yap, president and executive secretary, respectively, of the Federation of Christian Churches.

The President directed Finance Secretary Dominador R. Aytona today to re-examine the decontrol policy on remnant goods with the view to helping Filipino clothing manufacturers who claimed they were being forced out of business.

The President showed deep concern for the plight of some 100,000 small Filipino clothiers and craftsmen depending on the remnants imports who reported that they are unable to procure the raw materials because of the Central Bank ruling classifying remnants under the free market rate of ₱4 to $1.

The two-hundred man delegation representing five clothing manufacturers, associations under the leadership of Roberto S. Rivera told the President that the present set-up will lead to mass lay-off, loss of income to barrio people, and the return of the industry to alien control.

They also claimed that there will be a rise in prices of clothings and all other commodities, a drop in the purchasing power of the peso, and a general agitation for higher wages and unemployment.

President Garcia rallied the Boy Scouts of the Philippines behind the government in the fight against graft and corruption.

The President also appealed to the local boy scouts organization to help the government in its campaign to stop wanton waste of forest and marine resources as well as the preservation of the national patrimony.

The President made this appeal during the presentation to him, as honorary president of the Boy Scouts of the Philippines, of the annual report the organization's national and regional operations during 1959.

Speaking before the BSP executives this morning at the Malacañang reception hall, the President said that the BSP efforts to eradicate youth delinquency run parallel to the Government's drive against graft and corruption, and that they, too, can do a lot to help the government in this drive by cooperating in every way in the discovery and prosecution to all forms of anomaly in the government.

The President appealed to the local boy scouts to reinforce the scanty government personnel charged with the preservation of forests and marine resources in order to avert a national catastrophe in the future.

The President also accepted his nomination as honorary patron of scouting in the International Boy Scouts Organization because, he said, after the BSP has placed the Philippines on the international map, he can do no less than to try to keep it there.

The BSP delegation was headed by Jorge B. Vargas, president and chief scout executive of the BSP; H. B. Reyes, vice-president and international commissioner; Vitaliano Bernardino, Cecilio Putong, and J. Plaridel Silvestre, members of the BSP national executive board;

Regional representatives Alfredo Cuchapin, Region 1; Enrique Hernandez, Region 2; Johnny Frivaldo, Region 3; Fructuoso Tiangzon, Region 4; Cesar Climaco, Region 5; Juan S. Tismo, Region 6; and Jose Y. Tuazon, Region 7.

In his conference with Postmaster General Enrico Palomar, the President said he will seek easing of Central Bank restrictions on the sale of Philippine stamps abroad because it is an economical and feasible means publicizing the Philippines.

The President was elated to learn from Palomar that of 90 participating countries in the First International Philatelic Congress in Barcelona last March and April, at which Palomar represented the Philippines, only the Philippines had been requested by the Spanish Government to extend its exhibits owing to the unusually great interest being shown by people in Philippines stamps.

Palomar, however, informed the President that Philippine stamps are not available anywhere abroad because of tight restrictions imposed by the Central Bank on their sale.

Palomar said there is a rich market for Philippine stamps because there are some eight million collectors all over the World and if each buys only Philippine stamp per issue, the Philippine stands to earn ₱20 million with the cost of printing as the only expense.

Palomar proposed that CB restrictions be eased and Philippine stamps be put on sale to collectors at all Philippine embassies, legations, and consulates abroad.

The delegation of clothing manufacturers who called on the President was headed by Roberto S. Rivera, president of the Association of Philippine Clothing Manufacturers; Rep. Rogaciano Mercado of Bulacan, Rep. Benedicto

Padilla of Rizal, Rep. Francisco Sumulong of Rizal; Rizal Gov. Isidro Rodriguez, Bulacan Gov. Tomas Mertin, and several town mayors from Batangas.

This afternoon the President directed postponement of the public bidding for the construction of the Marikina multi-purpose dam to enable him to review Congress recommendations on the same project.

Until late this afternoon, however, the President had not yet received the report and recommendation of the House special committee and the Senate Blue Ribbon committee, both reportedly asking postponement of the public bidding for certain reasons.

President Garcia set new date for the public bidding for June 14 on recommendation of public works Secretary Florencio Moreno. The bidding would be held simultaneously in Manila and Tokyo, Japan.

Secretary Moreno subsequently cabled the chief of the Reparations Mission in Japan, Cesar Lanuza, to postpone the public bidding in Tokyo. The original date for the simultaneous public bidding had been scheduled for tomorrow, May 24.

Secretary Moreno said three companies to date had signified their intention to participate in the public bidding. These are (1) Filipino Contractors Co., led by Juan B. Carlos and teamed up with the Kajima, Kumagai Gumi, and Nisi Matsu Gumi companies; (2) Valdez Construction Co. with Maeda Construction Co.; and (3) L. Sarmiento Construction Co. with Obayashi Gumi.

He said there may be a total of four companies participating in the public bidding on June 14.

This is the second time that President Garcia has agreed to the postponement of the public bidding.

May 24.—THE PRESIDENT and the First Lady started the day by hearing mass at the Malacañang chapel and taking holy communion from Fr. Juan Tugadi, navy chaplain.

After the mass the President and the First Lady received friends and relatives at a simple breakfast, during which the President gave the First Lady a big kiss, a gold necklace with a pendant consisting of three pearls and a love missive in commemoration of their wedding anniversary.

Among their guests were Rep. Bartolome Cabangbang of Bohol, Finance Secretary and Mrs. Dominador Aytona, Rep. Manuel Zosa of Cebu, Executive Secretary and Mrs. Natalio P. Castillo, Assistant Executive Secretary and Mrs. Enrique C. Quema, SWA Administrator Amparo Villamor, DBP Governor Gregorio S. Licaros, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Isagani Campo, and others.

Other well-wishers who arrived later in the day were Speaker and Mrs. Daniel Z. Romualdez, Sen. Roseller T. Lim, Rep. Faustino Tobia of Ilocos Sur, Rep. Leon Guinto, Jr., of Quezon, Rep. and Mrs. Ramon Mitra of Mt. Province, Justice Buenaventura Ocampo and Major Teodulo Natividad, and many others.

President Garcia today gave Pacifico L. Velilla, president of the Philippine College of Commerce, 72 hours within which to answer charges filed against him by the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency.

The President, who was having a quiet wedding anniversary celebration with the First Lady and a circle of close relatives and friends in Malacañang this morning, excused himself for a few minutes to hear the report of his graft-busting assistant, PCAPE Chairman Buenaventura Ocampo.

Justice Ocampo and Major Teodulo Natividad, PCAPE chief investigator, after complimenting him and the First Lady on their anniversary, read to the President their findings on the Velilla case and recommended Velilla's outright suspension and immediate filing of an administrative case against him.

The Chief Executive, however, always for giving the other fellow a chance to present his side, told Justice Ocampo to hold his charges for 72 hours while Velilla answers the charges.

The PCAFE, which had been ordered by the President through Executive Secretary Natalio P. Castillo to look into numerous reports against Velilla, listed the charges as follows: (1) notoriously disgraceful or immoral conduct; (2) grave abuse of discretion or favoritism; (3) willful failure to pay just debts; (4) borrowing money from subordinates; (5) accepting gifts of substantial value; (6) incompetence or laxity in the performance of his duties; and (7) disreputable or dishonest conduct prior to entering the service.

The PCAPE officials informed the President that they had strong evidence to support these allegations, particularly the first and the last.

Justice Ocampo also informed the President of a court decision dissolving the conjugal partnership of respondent and his wife to save the conjugal property from being “squandered away by Velilla, who was gambling and losing heavily, paying off his debts from the sale of the conjugal property and issuing rubber checks to his creditors.”

May 25.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning signed H. B. No. 1569, nationalizing the medical and dental services in the public schools throughout the Philippines.

Enactment of the bill will lift the burden of paying for children’s dental and medical fees from the poor people and will transfer it to the national government.

Support for these two services since 1946 came from the ₱.50 voluntary contribution collected from each pupil by the school teachers.

Nationalization of the two services will also permit school physicians and dentists to enjoy all the benefits of regular government employees, such as sick and vacation leaves, and they would no longer be forced to go on forced leave, as they are now doing, when the funds for their salaries are exhausted.

After his caucus and luncheon with the senators and congressmen at the Palace social hall, the President also signed into law two bills: H. B. 4177, increasing the jurisdiction, salary (from ₱10,000 to ₱11,600 p.a.), and the number (by one) of municipal judges in the city of Manila; and H. B. 4979, appropriating ₱1 million and ₱200,000 for the relief and aid of fire victims in Cavite and Butuan cities, respectively.

Present at the signing of the bill nationalizing medical and dental services in schools at the Malacañang reception hall were Education Secretary Jose Romero, Public Schools Director Benigno Aldana; Sens. Arturo M. Tolentino and Decoroso Rosales; Reps. Wenceslao R. Lagumbay of Laguna and Agaton Ursua of Camarines Sur, sponsors of the bill in the Senate and the House, respectively; and some 200 school physicians and dentists. Later, the President received outgoing French Ambassador Georges Cat-tand, who came to say goodbye. Cattand was called back to Paris for re-assignment.

President Garcia’s plan to call a special session ran into unexpected opposition this afternoon among Nacionalista senators at a joint caucus with NP congressmen and tied up the administration program to push through six important amendments to the constitution this year.

The President decided to call NP senators to a separate caucus early next month in an effort to whip up solid support for his special session plan.

While the NP House members supported the President’s views, three NP senators were mentioned as opposed to the special session plan. There were 63 NP representatives and eleven senators at the caucus.

Sen. Arturo M. Tolentino mentioned the names of Sen. Lorenzo M. Sumulong, Quintin Paredes, and Pacita Madrigal-Gonzalez as not favoring the convocation of a constitutional convention instead of a special session. While the President can call a special session on his own initiative, the opposition of the three NP senators and of the Liberal members of the upper chamber to the proposed amendments would defeat the purpose of the session.

For this reason, the President desires to line up the solid support of his own party before calling Congress to an extra meet to consider the proposed charter changes.

All the affirmative votes of the 18 Nacionalista senators were necessary to approve a constitutional amendment.

Significantly, Nationalist-Citizens Senators Claro M. Recto and Lorenzo M. Tañada, who are counted with the NPs, were not present at the caucus.

May 26.—PRESIDENT this morning took a direct hand in the settlement of the jeepney drivers' strike in Malabon by ordering strict enforcement of the Public Service Commission policy to discourage the boundary system.

President Garcia authorized Gov. Isidro Rodriguez of Rizal to enforce strictly PSC rulings, especially as regards the boundary system which is not legally recognized by the PSC.

Gov. Rodriguez informed the President during the conference that he had official information that the PSC had abolished the boundary system and had instituted a new ruling directing jeepney operators and owners to pay drivers on a daily wage basis.

When contacted, however, the PSC administrative officer said the Commission never did recognize the existence of the boundary system; hence, it had no way of abolishing such system. Mr. Molina, the administrative officer, added the PSC is trying to discourage the boundary system and has recommended wage pay for drivers.

Gov. Rodriguez, who had been summoned to Malacañang, Caloocan Mayor Macario B. Asistio, and Navotas Mayor Roberto Monroy, told the President that the strike was confined to the so-called Seventh. Fleet, a combination of seven operators who own over 200 units in Malabon, each owning 21 to 40 units.

The mayors informed the President the root cause of the strike was the increase in the boundary rate charged by the Seventh Fleet from ₱25.60 to ₱38.60 a day.

They said small operators with two or three units each, charge only ₱25.00 daily per unit.

The President was worried over the strike owing to the reported terrorism, maulings, and intimidation obtaining in the three suburban towns, and the difficulties commuters are encountering owing to the strike.

President Garcia today proclaimed June 4, 1960, as special holiday in the provinces of Sulu, Cotabato, Zamboanga del Norte, Zamboanga del Sur, Davao, Lanao del Norte, Lanao del Sur, Bukidnon, Palawan, Agusan and Surigao, and in the cities of Zamboanga, Basilan, Davao, Iligan, Marawi, Butuan, and Cotabato.

The President declared the date a special holiday in connection with the National Feast of EID-UL-ADHA which Muslims celebrate annually throughout the world.

The presidential proclamation exempts from work all Muslim officials and employees of the government whether or not they are performing their duties outside the provinces and cities mentioned above.

The President today told Gov. Telesforo S. Paredes of Palawan to discuss with Reparations Commissioner Juan Alberto the needs for the development of cottage industries in Palawan.

The President was impressed by Gov. Paredes, who submitted to him a detailed plan of developing various industries to provide employment to the people in his province.

The President told Paredes, however, that the plan was too big to start all at once, and advised him to begin with modest project, paying particular emphasis to the development of rattan furniture manufacturing, fishing, and cottage industries.

Later the President motored to the Loreto church in Sampaloc to pay his last respects to Mrs. Mercedes Pedrera Santiago, mother-in-law of his brother Cosme, whose remains lie in state in the church.

The President also received several groups of callers, among them Rep. Jose Alberto and Gov. Jorge B. Almojuela of Catanduanes; Lt. Gov. Jose Neri of Camiguin with Mayors Antonio Luspo of Manbajao, Enerito R. Acain of Initao, Paulino Gng of Naawan, and Francisco Abarrientos of Talisayan; and Mayor Indanan-Anni of Siasi, Sulu.

Most of the callers asked the President for the release of funds for typhoon aids, public works, and other projects.

The President and his party left for Talibon at 2 p.m. aboard the RPS Lapu-Lapu, after a two-hour's delay owing to the typhoon reportedly brewing in northern Mindanao area.

May 27.—SINCE leaving Manila at 3 p.m. yesterday and up to this morning the RPS Lapu-Lapu carrying the President proceeded under fine sailing weather conditions with a very smooth sea. About 9 p.m. today, however, the ship slightly rolled and winds became more brisk under completely overcast sky, but this is considered normal in the Sulu Sea. The ships movements which continued the whole day, failed to disturb passengers who went about as usual.

The sea started to calm down again at 7 p.m. as the ship rounded the southern tip of Negros, protected by nearby small islands.

At 9 p.m. the RPS Lapu-Lapu was skirting around Siquijor Island f off the southern tip of Cebu and turning back toward Bohol, maintaining its normal cruising speed of 16.5 knots. The presidential party is expected to arrive in Talibon at the northwestern part of Bohol at 7 o'clock this morning after skirting off the western part of the island. The President's arrival is twelve hours behind the original schedule owing to the delayed departure from Manila as well as the roundabout route the RPS Lapu-Lapu had taken to avoid tropical storm Lucille that lashed the Luzon provinces.

May 28.—THE PEOPLE of Talibon turned out enmasse to greet the local town boy who made good. Accompanied by Mrs. Garcia the President was warmly greeted with a fluvial parade and swamped by the townsfolk and provincial and municipal officials upon stepping off the motorboat which ferried him from the RPS Lapur-Lapu, anchored three kilometers offshore.

The President surrounded by close and boyhood friends, recalled his boyhood and student days in his hometown of Talibon.

After landing at the wharf, the President and Mrs. Garcia greeted the welcomers led by Rep. Maximino Garcia, Acting Governor Timoteo Butalad, and Mayor Lazaro Evardo and, preceded by a brassband, went to the Talibon Catholic Church where a pontifical mass was sung by the parish priest, in honor of the Blessed Trinity, patron saint of Talibon. Along the route, welcome arches and paper buntings lent a festive air to the reception.

After a light breakfast at the convent, the President and the First Lady proceeded to the new ₱100,000 Talibon Emergency Hospital, where lady physician Fe Evangelista presented an indigent patient, Mrs. Nemesia Cabrijos, who just gave birth to triplets.

Already the mother of ten and wife of an unemployed laborer, Mrs. Cabrijos drew the pity of President and Mrs. Garcia, who gave her ₱50 from their own funds after instructing the hospital staff to extend free medical services and medicines to the mother and babies Teresita, Cleofe, and Lourdes.

The President and his party were feted at luncheon at the residence of Rep. Garcia. Merienda was served at the residence of Capt. Vidal Cresencio and Dr. Pastor Boiser.

President and Mrs. Garcia and the rest of the party attended the religious procession at 5 p.m. After dinner at the residence of Mayor Evardo, the party attended the coronation ball in honor of Miss Talibon of 1960, (Miss Trinidad Aguja), where the President declaimed a balak (poem) after the First Lady had crowned Queen Trinidad.

After the ball the presidential party boarded the Lapu-Lapu for Tagbilaran, where they are scheduled to arrive at 8:30 a.m. Sunday.

President Garcia today expressed deep concern upon learning of the casualties and the extent of the damage wrought by the flood brought about by typhoon Lucille in Manila and suburbs and the provinces.

The President, who is now in Bohol, learned of the calamity from the reports of Malacañang officials. He immediately instructed Assistant Executive Secretary Enrique C. Quema to release an initial amount of ₱10,000 to Social Welfare Administrator Amparo P. Villamor to be distributed among the stricken families in Manila and the suburbs.

The President also directed Mrs. Villamor to coordinate relief work with the Philippine Constabulary, the Philippine National Red Cross, and all other government relief agencies. Social workers started canvassing flood victims early this morning. The SWA has been distributing cash and material aid to the victims.

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

May 24.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia observed their 26th wedding anniversary today. The celebration was “simple and quiet” with a few close friends and relatives invited.

The Chief Executive and the First Lady started the day by hearing a mass and receiving Holy Communion at the Malacañang chapel.

After the mass, the First Family led their well-wishers to the grand porch of Malacañang where breakfast was served.

An orchestra organized by the Presidential Guard battalion headed by Lt. Ambrosio Ordoña played Anniversary Waltz as the celebrants emerged from the chapel.

Among those who called at Malacañang to greet the President and the First Lady were Executive Secretary and Mrs. Juan C. Pajo, Health Secretary and Mrs. Elpidio Valencia, Social Welfare Administrator Amparo Villamor, Rep. and Mrs. Manuel Zosa of Cebu. Lt. Gen. and Mrs. Manuel F. Cabal, Brig. Gen and Mrs. Isagani V. In the evening, the President motored to the Guevara compound in Parañaque, Rizal, where he was dinner guest of the Association of the Philippine Broadcasters.

May 25.—PRESIDENT Garcia today joined world officialdom in mourning the death of former U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. From his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City, the President dictated a message of condolence which was dispatched from Malacañang to the widow of the American official.

In a message sent to Mrs. Dulles by Malacañang this morning, the President said:

“The freedom loving peoples of the free world have lost a staunch friends with the passing of Mr. John Foster Dulles. His bold determination for the preservation of world peace won for him the admiration not only of his countrymen but of all the Democratic nations of the free world.

“I was personally associated with your late distinguished husband in such tasks as the founding of the SEATO and in our annual meetings we had to make this regional organization an effective force for peace not only of Southeast Asia but of the entire world.

“I personally feel the loss of a great friend.

“The Filipinos will long remember him.

“Please accept, madam, our heartfelt condolence for the irreparable loss and be assured that we will remember him in our prayers.”

Aside from former President Sergio Osmeña, Sr., and Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez Sr., the President did not receive any caller this morning. The two Nacionalista Party stalwarts called in the Chief Executive at his Quezon

City residence shortly before noon. Among the matters they discussed during the call were the forthcoming special session of Congress and party matters.

The President cancelled all his scheduled morning callers in order to devote his time to some pending matters brought over to him from Malacañang for immediate action.

In the afternoon, the President received a delegation from the Philippine Government Employees' Association which presented a petition registering their opposition to the demands of the employees of the GSIS who recently staged a strike.

Headed by Artemio E. Gesmundo, PGEA vice-president, the group included Jose M. Manglicmut, national secretary, Bienvenido C. Olarte chairman of the board of directors, and the following board members; Mariano Ledesma, Gregorio Aq. Linjoco and Alfonso Llamas.

May 26.—PRESIDENT Garcia today called Congress to a special session starting June 1, 1959, to legislate on the administration-sponsored bill on marginal tax on foreign exchange.

The President emphasized that the number of days of the special session will be determined by Congress leaders but in no instance will it exceed 30 days the maximum period provided for in the Constitution.

President Garcia made no mention of other administration bills which may be sent to Congress at a later date, thereby giving full emphasis to the urgency and importance of the marginal tax on foreign exchange bill.

His message to Congress, however left the door open for other administration measures to be forwarded to Congress for legislative action.

Press Secretary Jose C. Nable said the President's signing of proclamation No. 512 calling the Congress to a special session implements a previous decision made by the President immediately after the adjournment of Congress from its 100-days regular session which ended last May 21.

Earlier, the Chief Executive received the Cabinet committee studying the legality of the GSIS is a proprietary body not immune to strikes and that the strike called by its employees was legal.

After the conference, the President went to his study where he received his callers for the day. Among his callers were Sen. Pacita M. Gonzalez, who accompanied Col. Gaudencio Sakay to invite the Chief Executive to be the principal speaker at the graduation rites of the 492 trainees and 20 officers from the Bicol region, to be held at Fort William McKinley. Sen. Gonzalez also brought a letter from the Youth Welfare Coordinating Council composed of 33 public and private agencies organized to coordinate effort to combat juvenile delinquency requesting him to be their honorary chairman.

Other callers were Reps. Faustino Tobia of Ilocos Sur, who came to ask for release of additional funds for Virginia tobacco industry, Alberto Ubay of Zamboanga del Norte, Ramon Bagatsing of the third district of Manila, Emilio Cortez of Pampanga, Francis Sumulong of Rizal, Vicente L. Peralta of Sorsogon, Godofredo Reyes of Ilocos Sur, and Felipe R. Garduque of Cagayan.

The President also received Pampanga Gov. Rafael Lazatin, who sought the appointment of Board Member Rosbe Henson as acting governor during his absence, and Dr. Gil Gadi, who requested that Cotabato be declared a free zone in this coming election.

The President signed today an executive order creating an anti-economic subversion force to be known as the Constabulary-Revenue Customs Service Group in order to minimize the violation of revenue and customs laws which threaten the economic stability of the country.

The joint team shall be composed of the Chief of the Constabulary or any other person as the President may designate, as chief coordinator; an executive coordinator to be designated by the President upon recommendation of the Chief of the Constabulary; three chief operations officers from each of the Constabulary, Bureau of Internal Revenue, and Bureau of Customs, and a Constabulary intelligence officer.

Detail of these officers with the group shall be subject to approval by the President upon the recommendation of each of their respective heads of offices, and of other officials and employees of the Constabulary, Bureau of Internal Revenue, and Bureau of Customs who from time to time may be designated by the respective heads of officers concerned.

May 27.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning did not receive any scheduled callers but confined himself at his residence on Bohol Avenue Quezon City.

There were callers, however, including Rodolfo P. Andal, general manager of the Government Service Insurance System. Andal saw the President on the decision of the five-man Cabinet committee which decided against the GSIS management.

Andal had previously asked a reconsideration of the Cabinet committee findings.

The committee reviewed its findings but reaffirmed its ruling finding the strike called by GSIS workers justified.

In the afternoon, the President motored to Malacañang where he received the letters of credence of Shri S. N. Maitra as the new Indian ambassador to the Philippines. Maitra replaced Ambassador Mohindar Singh Chopra.

During the ceremony held at the Malacañang ceremonial hall, the President and the new Indian envoy pledged to promote the ties of friendship, understanding and cooperation between their countries.

Among those present at the ceremony were Secretary of Foreign Affairs Felixberto M. Serrano, Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, and Lt. Col. Emilio Borromeo, presidential aide.

In welcoming the India ambassador, the President said that his predecessor, Ambassador Chopra, “not only succeeded eminently in building up a reservoir of goodwill between our peoples but also bringing them closer together in the spirit of mutual respect and cooperation.”

Ambassador Maitra arrived at Malacañang riding in the presidential car accompanied by Pedro Angara Aragon, chief protocol officer of the Department of Foreign Affairs.

He received full military honors from a unit of the Presidential Guard Battalion.

After receiving the letters of credence of the new Indian envoys the President presided over the regular meeting of the Cabinet.

The President met the old members of his Cabinet, including those who had been relieved like outgoing Education Secretary Manuel Lim. And outgoing Justice Secretary Jesus G. Barrera.

May 28.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning signed into law three bills enacted during the recently-concluded regular session of Congress.

The bills are:

- (1) House Bill No. 3647, granting Filipino citizenship to Paul Reeves;
- (2) House Bill No. 1197, authorizing the President of the Philippines to sell at a normal sum of one peso, a lot in Manila to the Rural Bankers Associate of the Philippines; and
- (3) House Bill No. 2828, increasing the salary of the Auditor General.

The Bill granting Filipino citizenship to Paul Reeves, a U.S. Army retired general and public relations counselor, was enacted by Congress in recognition of his valuable service to the Philippines, which includes 21 articles inserted in the U. S. Congressional Records, a lengthy reply to the attacks of High Commissioner Paul V. McNutt against the late President Manuel L. Quezon, published in the Washington Star issue of December 3, 1939, and another article inserted in the U. S. Congressional Records calling the attention of that body on the just claims for benefits of the Filipino veterans resulting in the passage of the Rogers Bill.

For this, Reeves recalled having a handwritten personal letter from the then Congressman Ramon Magsaysay, thanking him and saying that the article helped a lot in its work for the extension of benefits to the Filipino veterans.

Immediately after he signed the bill, the Chief Executive administered the oath of allegiance making Reeves a Filipino "with all the rights privileges, and prerogatives appurtenant thereto," in the presence of Senate President Protempore Fernando Lopez, Sens. May 29.—THE PRESIDENT and the first Lady left Manila at 6 a.m. on a Philippine Air Lines regular Viscount flight to Cebu. Alighting at the Mandawe airport about 7:30 a.m., the President found waiting for him a delegation of local officials headed by Gov. Jose Briones who accompanied him to the wharf where he boarded the Philippine Navy tugboat RPS Ifugao for crossing Bohol.

During the five-hour crossing, the ship came upon heavy rain which drove members of the presidential party to crowding few shelters available on the ship. The ship usually utilized by the Navy for towing and rescue operations and commanded by Lt. David Cruz, had to anchor about a mile off Talibon owing to shallow waters.

The President and party landed at the wharf about 2 p.m. A big cheering crowd at the wharf refused to take shelter despite a slight drizzle which developed as the launch carrying the President and the First Lady approached the shore.

The quiet fishing village of Talibon went all out today to welcome its favorite son who had come to join them in commemorating the Feast of Santisima Trinidad, town's patron.

People turned out in holiday clothes and welcomed their distinguished townsman with colorful fluvial parades, brass bands, and fireworks. Cheering welcomers were led by local officials, including Rep. Maximo Garcia and Mayor Lazaro Evardo.

Wherever he could, the President traditionally came to Talibon for its fiesta and this is the second fiesta he attended since assuming the Presidency. He was unable to come last year owing to the preparations for his state visit to the United States.

President Garcia went direct to the town church for the Te Deum sung in his honor. Then he repaired to the nearby guest house, where he received endless stream of people until late into the night.

President Garcia today took official cognizance of the success of the "Bayanihan" troupe of the Philippine Women's University in the promotion of Philippine culture.

In a letter of commendation, President Garcia lauded the troupe for having represented the Philippines fittingly in the Brussels International Fair on May 30 of last year and for cooperating with Philippine missions in the presentation of cultural programs abroad from May 6 to July 4 1958.

The President also lauded the troupe for creative leadership, preserving and promoting Filipino folk arts and ways, particularly the customs of cooperative endeavor known as bayanihan, thus promoting the best interests of Philippine culture as a means to attain international good will.

Secretary Pajo, who entertained the troupe with a merienda in Malacañang, told the troupe, in behalf of the President and the First Lady that their performances which drew record crowds at the Brussels International Fair, have added more prestige to the Philippines abroad.

Secretary Pajo assured the troupers that they can expect the full support of the government because they have done a wonderful job as ambassadors of goodwill for the country.

The presidential commendation was read and later personally handed to the head of the group, Miss Helen Z. Benitez, by Commerce Secretary Pedro M. Hernaez.

Also present at the ceremony besides the members and organizers of the Bayanihan Folk Arts Center of the PWU were Assistant Executive Secretary Enrique C. Quema; William Morris, cultural attaché of the U. S. Embassy, Belgian Minister Ferdinand Buckens Salvador Peña, Philippine Tourist and Travel Agency representative; Dean Conrado Benitez; and Luis Araneta.

The Chief Executive went to Bohol with the First Lady to attend the Talibon town fiesta, but he seized on the occasion to meet with provincial and municipal officials of Bohol.

In his speech before the municipal and provincial officers, the President sounded a general appeal for local officials to lay special emphasis on improvement of health and education facilities for people in their respective jurisdiction in anticipation of eventual implementation of the local autonomy act. President Garcia pointed out that the autonomy bill would confer greater powers and greater responsibilities to local executives towards people in their communities and that it is for them to strive harder to promote the welfare of the masses.

The Chief Executive devoted a considerable part of his speech to defending issues currently raised against the Administration, including increased rates of taxation and the acquisition of the RPS Lapu-Lapu. He assured his audience that increases taxes would apply only to the rich for the benefit of the poor and that the yacht has been acquired for economy and efficiency. He also enumerated the accomplishments of the Nacionalista administration in the establishment of power projects, nationwide construction of roads, etc.

He said the NP records was unmatched by the Liberals during all of the eight years of their administration.

THIS evening the President directed Secretary of Labor Angel Castaño to meet labor leaders and allay their fears that the marginal tax on foreign exchange would bring about industrial chaos throughout the country.

The President summoned Castaño to Malacañang after reading news report this afternoon that the labor secretary had gone on record as opposing the passage of the controversial foreign exchange bill.

Castaño, according to the report, told newsmen that if the bill become a law, “strikes would increase as management would be forced to reject concessions by labor.”

Labor had already gone on record as opposed to the enactment of the controversial foreign exchange measure.

The President conferred with Castaño and discussed with him the latter’s views in, opposing the measure.

Castaño, it was learned told the President he merely expressed the sentiment of labor in opposing the passage of the bill.

The labor secretary pointed out the laborers feared that prices of some essential goods are already spiraling to prohibitive levels.

President Garcia explained that the bill, if enacted, would not only stabilize the nation’s finances but would also provide funds for essential social services which would redound mostly to the benefit of the labor class.

Castaño, after a three-hour conference with the President, decided to issue a statement, turning about from his previous position.

Castaño called upon the workers to rally behind the measure, as the bill would “stabilize our financial situation and half of the proceeds will be used to provide funds for essential social services, which projects would redound mostly to the benefits of our laboring class.

June 3.—THIS morning President Garcia stayed in his private residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City.

The President had for breakfast guests, former President and Mrs. Sergio Osmeña, Sr., and Justice Sotero Cabahug, brother of the new Foreign Affairs Undersecretary Fructuoso Cabahug.

While no announcement was made at the breakfast conference, it was hinted that the President took up the alleged distrust of Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto M. Serrano for his new undersecretary.

Undersecretary Cabahug, who is former President Osmeña’s protégé, seemed to have peeved the head of the foreign office when he issued a statement to a newsmen that the Department of Foreign Affairs was shot through and through with venalities.

It was learned that the President also had a telephone conversation with Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez on the pressure of some scions to include some of their pet measures in the current special session.

At the Cabinet meeting was the new member of the President’s advisory body, Education Secretary Jose E. Romero.

President Garcia, at tonight’s weekly Cabinet meeting, whipped into action four government offices to combat a locust menace in the South.

The President directed the immediate release of ₱260,000.00 from his contingent fund for this purpose, placing the disposition of the funds directly under the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Three other government offices directed by President Garcia to lend direct assistance to the Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources are the Departments of Defense and Education and the Social Welfare Administration.

Municipal and provincial officials will be asked to render assistance to the National Government's efforts.

President Garcia was informed by acting Agriculture Secretary Amando Dalisay of the critical locust situation in several provinces in Mindanao, particularly in Cotabato.

Dalisay told President Garcia and the Cabinet that reports had been received that the locusts are now in the "flying stage" and could spread out not only to most provinces in Mindanao but also to the Visayan provinces unless the Administration acts to eradicate them.

Education Secretary Romero, who is attending his first Cabinet meeting, and acting Defense Secretary Mariano Yenko pledged to the Chief Executive the support of their respective departments. Realizing the gravity of the problem, Secretary Romero said he would even order the suspension of classes in locust-infested localities to enable teachers and schoolchildren alike to help in the campaign against the winged menace.

June 4.—PRESIDENT Garcia today directed President Vicente Sinco of the University of the Philippines to admit conditionally some 700 student-veterans who were denied admission by UP authorities for nonpayment by the Philippine Veterans Board of the amount of ₱883,096.71 representing school fees of the veterans from 1946 to 1958.

The Chief Executive took a direct hand on the matter at a conference held at Malacañang with acting Defense Secretary Mariano Yenko, who informed him that classes at the state university begin on Monday.

At the same time, President Garcia directed PVB authorities to confer with Sinco and work out a formula of payment.

The veterans board had not paid fees since 1946 when the late President Manuel Roxas had overruled the auditor general who insisted that the board pay the fees. President Roxas with the concurrence of his Cabinet at its meeting on March 20, 1947, expressed his belief that student veterans should not pay to public schools, alleging that he was personally acquainted with the background of Republic Act No. 65, which grants educational benefits to veterans and their dependents.

The law provides that the PVB pay 70 per cent of the school fees of the student veterans while the colleges or universities absorb the remaining 30 per cent but Sinco maintained that the UP charter only exempts those with scholarship grants from the payment of school fees.

Meanwhile, President Garcia directed Manuel Castaneda, chairman of the Land Tenure Administration, to reduce the selling price of the lots in the Mabalacat Estate in Pampanga in order to honor a commitment made by the late President Magsaysay.

The LTA had previously fixed the selling price of P0.74 a square meter to which the tenants vigorously objected in view of the commitment of the then President Magsaysay.

Castaneda alleged that to break even, the LTA can sell the land at P0.50 a square meter but President Garcia, upon representation of Rep. Emilio Cortez, directed that the price be reduced to only P0.35 a square meter.

After the ceremony, the President signed into law a bill appropriating more than P23 million to enable the Philippine Air Lines to resume its suspended international flights.

The President's speech thus answered the doubts raised in American circles regarding the rising wave of nationalism sweeping the country and its effects on foreign nationals and investments.

He started his speech by saying that the United States and the Philippines have divergent views on questions of jurisdiction on bases, trade, international problems, and on many other things.

But the Chief Executive reminded the American veterans that "all these can be solved and will be solved to the satisfaction of both nations under the principles of justice and equality and understanding which characterize the relations of friendship between the Philippines and the US."

President Garcia declared that he is positive the American Veterans Legion understands that Philippine nationalism, which is sweeping the country, "is a friend and ally of American and a fearless foe of communism."

He continued: "I am certain that you understand that Philippine nationalism seeks to spread the gospel of freedom and democracy in Asia and aims to make the Philippines politically and economically as self-reliant and self-sufficient as possible to maintain material dignity and self-respect."

The President emphasized in his speech that "Philippine nationalism hates dictatorship in any form. It seeks to be free of the bondage of colonial mentality and seeks freedom to work out the country's destiny."

President's Week in Review: June 7-13, 1959

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

June 7.—PRESIDENT Garcia had a relatively quiet day today free from callers in the privacy of his residence and workshop in Bohol Avenue, Quezon City.

He spent most of the day going over important papers of state and studying correspondence and documents requiring presidential attention which were forwarded to him for consideration.

Early this morning, President and Mrs. Garcia heard an early morning mass before an improvised altar in their residence.

After partaking of a hearty breakfast, the Chief Executive went over the morning papers and then retired to his study room to work on state papers.

The President had lunch with Mrs. Garcia and then saw her off for Los Baños, Laguna, where she unveiled a 50-foot concrete marker for the coming 10th boy scouts world jamboree. The marker which will serve as the monument to the scouting movement in the Philippines.

Late in the afternoon, President Garcia took a break from his paper work to heed the advice given him by Dr. Antonio Guytingco, his personal physician, to take some exercise.

The President took a brisk walk around the compound of his residence, accompanied by Lt. Melchor Frond a, naval aide to the President.

After a light supper, the Chief Executive returned to his study and continued his work until late in the evening.

June 8.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning reiterated the vital and urgent need for national discipline “as a most potent element in our efforts at national construction and in our desire to enjoy the bounties of a free and democratic life.”

Addressing about 500 twenty-year-old trainee-graduates of the Bicol region at their graduation exercises at Fort William McKinley parade ground, the President urged them to participate actively in community projects, particularly those with national significance.

The Chief Executive reminded them that, when they attain the voting age, it will be their responsibility as free citizens of a democracy to analyze carefully the issues that are raised before them and to vote for the men who can give a government that is truly responsive to the needs of the community and the nation.

President Garcia described the youth as the source of the strength of a nation and said the dynamic spirit among young people is “the strength that builds the pillars of our industries, which advances our national aims and objectives and builds the destiny of our people.”

The President arrived at Fort McKinley at 9 a.m. and was accorded full military honors, including a 21-gun salute, by a guard of honor that met him at the entrance of the camp.

Upon arriving at the parade ground, President Garcia reviewed the trainee-graduates. and then witnessed demonstrations on platoon fancy drill performed by Alfa Company, unarmed defense by Baker Company, and rifle exercises by the 4.2 Mortar Battery.

Everyone in the grandstand was pleasantly surprised when the Chief Executive concluded his address in the National Language. They looked at each other with wonder on their faces, as if they could not believe they were hearing right.

Trophys and banners were also presented to the organizations that participate in the ceremonies by Brig. Gen. Marcos P. Soliman for their exceptional performances during the parade and review.

From Fort McKinley, President Garcia returned to Malacañang to devote the rest of the morning going over state papers.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon conferred with Labor Secretary Angel Castaño, who appraised the President of an agreement he had reached with officials of the Katipunan ng Manggagawa (KMP) to hold in abeyance their proposed general strike in protest against passage of the foreign exchange measure.

The President was heartened by this development, as he is confident he would be able to stave off the proposed general and nationwide strike if he meets the labor leaders.

Castaño said the labor leaders are coming to Manila this weekend to meet the President.

The President conferred with Castaño after he had inducted Ramon Gaviola, Jr., as administrator of the Social Security System.

Gaviola formerly SSS commissioner, replaces Emitterio Roa, who resigned from the body.

The President said he knew Gaviola very well and is confident the new SSS administrator would be able to acquit himself creditably in his new position.

Before inducting Gaviola this afternoon, the President received Sen. Eulogio Balao and Northern Luzon solons who urged the Chief Executive to approve the bill giving the Philippine Tobacco Administration the power to engage in the purchase and sale of native tobacco.

Although the President was scheduled to sign the bill in the presence of these solons, he found out that he did not have a copy of the bill.

Legislative Secretary Vicente Logarta told the President the bill was still in the Bureau of Printing.

Balao also accompanied a group of PC and AFP pensionados and the widows of Generals Climaco Pintoy, Benito Ebuena, and Patricio Borromeo to urge the President to sign House bill No. 344, otherwise known as the Armed Forces Retirement measure.

IN the evening, the President motored to his private residence on Bohol Avenue in Quezon City for a conference with some unidentified political leaders.

President and Mrs. Garcia also wired their son-in-law Fernando Campos and congratulated him for having finished his studies leading to the degree of master of laws at the Harvard University.

Campos will be conferred with master's degree sometime this month.

June 9.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning declare that his faith in the UP College of Agriculture has been fully justified by its achievements during the past 50 years.

The President was the guest speaker at the golden jubilee celebration rites and alumni homecoming day of the UP College of Agriculture in Los Baños, Laguna.

The Chief Executive said the college has faithfully and satisfactorily worked up towards the ideals set up by its founders. He credited it for the improved varieties of foodstuffs, livestock, and poultry in the country, saying that these are the results of the judicious research being conducted in the laboratories of the institution.

President Garcia declared that the attainment of surplus production of rice and corn in pursuit of the goals set by the Administration in order to achieve self-sufficiency in food, shelter, and clothing should inspire the people to exert greater efforts in other fields. He also stressed the importance of the progress of agriculture in the advancement of the nation and underscored the role played by the College of Agriculture in the training of agricultural leaders, teachers, and researchers for the neighboring Asian countries.

“Their education has set the pace for closer ties with our Asian neighbors”, the President said, “and it is my expectation that this policy will continue to be implemented by this institution.”

President Garcia and members of his party boarded a special train for Los Banos, Laguna at 8:30 a.m. at the Sta. Mesa MRR station.

The presidential train arrived at the college depot at 9:50 a.m. On hand to greet the President at the Los Bahos railroad station were UP President Vicente G. Sinco, Dean Leopoldo B. Uichanco, UP Regent Gonzalo Gonzalez, Brig. Gen. Dionisio S. Ojeda, 2nd MA commanding general, UP Vice-President Enrique Virata, and members of the faculty and student body of the agricultural college.

Upon arrival at the college campus, the Chief Executive was accorded full military honors, including a 21-gun salute, by a guard of honor made up of local units of the Constabulary.

Also on hand to witness the celebration were Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez, Undersecretaries Amando Dalisay and Jose M. Trinidad, Reps. Wenceslao R. Lagumbay and Jacobo Gonzales, ICA Director Paul Summers, and NAMARCO Director German Neri.

During the program held at the Baker Memorial Hall, a one-minute silent prayer was offered for “departed” alumni of the school. Dr. Alexander Gordon, Class ’23, acted as master of ceremonies.

Welcome addresses were delivered by Dean Uichanco on behalf of the college, and by Jose F. Zamora for the alumni. President Garcia was introduced by UP President Sinco.

After the program, luncheon was served at the department of home technology building.

President Garcia boarded the special train at 2 p.m. for the return trip to Manila. He gave an informal press conference to representatives of Manila dailies who accompanied him on the trip.

The President was back at Malacañang about 4 p.m.

June 10.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Carlos P. Garcia launched formally the first Philippine-made 1600-ton vessel in a colorful ceremony attended by national and foreign dignitaries in the national shipyards in Mariveles, Bataan, today.

Filled with pride and emotion at the launching of the Motor Vessel General Roxas, first built vessel in the Philippines since 1521, the President discarded his prepared speech, and in an extemporaneous address, stressed the need for, and importance of, a ship-building industry in the Philippines.

With the launching of the vessel M/V General Roxas, the Filipinos have proven their capacity and ability to build ships, President Garcia said, adding that this is only the first of a series of vessel that will be constructed by the NASSCO at Mariveles.

The President deplored the fact that approximately 97 per cent of Philippine imports and exports are transported aboard foreign ships. The President however expressed the hope that this situation will be remedied soon with the building up of the country's overseas merchant marine fleet.

He said that contracts have been finalized for the purchase of 12 oceangoing vessels from Japan and that 15 other ships of various types will soon be acquired by the Philippines through Reparations, all these having a total tonnage of 240,000. These will form the nucleus of the Philippine overseas fleet, he emphasized.

The Chief Executive declared that despite the country's facing serious economic problems the people could be assured of the Philippines' march to progress.

He also expressed the hope that a decision would soon be reached regarding the country's application for a loan for the establishment of an integrated steel industry.

The President was introduced by NASSCO General Manager Bernardo P. Abrera.

President and Mrs. Garcia arrived at Pier 9, South Harbor, at 8 a.m. and were met by Chairman Ulpiano Sarmiento and other members of the NASSCO board of directors.

On hand to witness the historic ceremonies were members of the diplomatic corps, Cabinet members, officers and directors of various government corporations, and ranking government officials. Other guests of the NASSCO were accommodated in the M/V General Malvar, a sister ship of the M/V General Roxas.

After the christening and launching ceremonies, Col. Generoso Tanseco, general manager of the General Shipping Co., Inc. presented to Mrs. Garcia the special hatchet she used in the rites as a souvenir of the historic occasion.

The President and members of his party returned to the RPS Lapu-Lapu after the ceremonies for the return trip to Manila. They arrived at Pier 9, South Harbor, shortly before three.

President Garcia remained on board the yacht for the regular weekly Cabinet meeting.

President Garcia today directed Justice Buenaventura Ocampo, chairman of the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency (PCAPE), to prosecute three local drug importers believed to have illegally shipped out of the country millions of dollars intended for drug importation.

Justice Ocampo said that the firms in question had anomalously obtained large amounts of dollar allocations for decontrolled drugs but instead brought into the country worthless cotton, catgut, and pinewood which were left unclaimed at the piers.

One firm alone, which was virtually new in the importing business capitalized at ₱18,000 only, and therefore not qualified to the grant of dollar allocations, obtained a total of $2,311,845.12 allocations for importation of drugs and medical supplies.

Patient sleuthing covering several months by agents of the PCAPE, Central Bank, and Bureau of Customs, headed by Major Teodulo Natividad, chief of the PCAPE Investigation and Legal Division, uncovered the widespread activities of a syndicate in salting away dollars by the simple ruse of shipping to the Philippines token imports marked and manifested as drugs and medical supplies but actually containing worthless items which could be, and were actually, abandoned without incurring losses.

PCAPE findings, after consultations with Philippine diplomatic and consular posts abroad, revealed that the supposed shippers were not even registered, and it was generally believed that the manifests and invoices used were printed in Manila.

The activities of this large syndicate, it was pointed out by the PCAPE chairman, resulted not only in a sharp dip in the country's dollar reserves but also in the current acute shortage of drugs and chemicals not locally manufactured.

It will be recalled that only recently, President Garcia constituted a committee of drug specialists to seek ways and means of relieving the acute shortage of drugs which is being felt everywhere in the country.

In the meantime, hearings have already started on the administrative charges filed against seven ranking and minor officials of the Central Bank believed responsible for the anomalous grant of dollar allocations to one of the importers in question.

One of the seven employees, according to NBI findings, actually forged the certification and juggled the records of the drug importer, on the basis of which it was able to get dollar allocations with unusual frequency.

The other six officials and employees are being held to account for their failure to detect the spurious insertion in the application for dollar allocations and other inconsistencies in the dates appearing therein which an otherwise reasonably alert official should have detected.

THIS evening the President directed the Department of Education to study the feasibility of increasing from 40 to 60 the number of school children in each class in the public schools as an immediate remedy to solve the present school crisis.

The President issued the directive during the Cabinet meeting after hearing the report of Education Undersecretary Daniel M. Salcedo on the number of children of school age who were turned away from the public schools.

Salcedo said that reports reaching his office indicated that about 160,000 school children were barred for lack of accommodations.

The President pointed out that under the arrangement of increasing the enrolment in each class, the public schools would be able to absorb some 400,000 more pupils.

President Garcia shelved Salcedo's proposal to certify an education bill seeking the appropriation of ₱10,371,200 to finance some 4,000 additional classes.

The President said he would study the plan, as the government is at present beset with financial problems.

The President took up the recurrent school crisis during the Cabinet meeting held aboard the yacht Lapu-Lapu.

According to the proposed measure, the non-admission of these children may bring about two adverse consequences: (1) the protraction of their schooling and (2) the accumulation of the number of children who will not be accommodated in school in the succeeding years. Therefore it is necessary to organize 4,000 additional extension classes in order to enrol these 160,000 children, the measure stated.

June 11.—PRESIDENT Garcia met with House leaders headed by Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez on board the RPS Lapu-Lapu this morning and discussed with them proposed exemptions under the proposed 40 per cent marginal levy on foreign exchange.

The conference was attended by Reps. Vicente Peralta, Jose Leido, Jacobo Z. Gonzales, and Aguedo F. Agbayani. Also present were Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez and CB Governor Miguel Cuaderno.

Other matters taken up at the two-hour conference, which lasted from 9 to 11 a.m., included the necessary measures to insure the speedy approval of the proposed bill and complementary legislation to prevent the unjustified increase in the prices of prime commodities as a result of manipulations by speculators and hoarders.

President Garcia, who spent the night on board the RPS Lapu-Lapu after launching the MV General Roxas at Mariveles, Bataan, yesterday noon and the subsequent Cabinet meeting held on the RPS Lapu-Lapu last night, received Samar and Leyte solons and provincial officials this morning at a breakfast conference on the yacht anchored at Pier 9, South Harbor.

In the group were Speaker Romualdez, Reps. Alberto T. Aguja, Dominador M. Tan, Marcelino R. Veloso, and Nicanor Yniguez of Leyte; Gov. Ildefonso Cinco; Board Members Emiliano Melgazo and Enrique Granados; Sen. Decoroso Rosales; Rep. Valeriano Yancha, Felipe Abrigo, and Eladio T. Balite, and Samar Governor Fernando Veloso.

They briefed the President on the local political situation, informed him about the low buying price allegedly being offered by the NARIC for rice and corn, and later witnessed the signing of a bill dividing Samar into three engineering districts and the signing of the nomination of Assistant Director Jesus Perpihan as director of private schools.

Other presidential callers this morning were Ambassadors Jose Imperial and Salvador P. Lopez, who are here on home leave, and a delegation of newly-elected officers of the Rural Bankers of the Philippines composed of Jose Desiderio, Acting president of the association, Baguio City Mayor Alfonso Tabora, Dr. Procopio C. Reyes, Licerio Florendo, Eduardo Barretto and Jose R. Platon, technical adviser of the association. They were accompanied by CB Deputy Governor Andres Castillo and Director Augusto Es-piritu of the CB Rural Banks Administration.

THIS evening the President signed the native tobacco bill which is expected to estabilize the price of Philippine leaf tobacco and be a boon to small farmers, especially those in the Cagayan Valley.

The President affixed his signature to the pet measure of the Northern Luzon bloc in the presence of Sen. Eulogio Balao, Reps. Benjamin Ligot, Felipe Garduque. Luis Hora, and Delfin Albano, and Gov. Felix T. Caro of Isabela.

Also present at the ceremony were municipal mayors and provincial officials of the provinces of Cagayan and Isabela.

The new law aims to wrest from alien control the purchase, sale, and distribution of native tobacco, amending to this effect Republic Act No. 1135, which established the Philippine Tobacco Administration.

The law gives the PTA the power to buy, process and age, and sell all native tobacco leaves, as well as stabilize and guarantee prices of just cured tobacco leaves, based on grades, and to promulgate such rules and regulations governing seed selection, pest control, culture, irrigation, and the marketing of native tobacco leaf.

Sen. Balao lauded the President for signing the measure and stated that this is the first time since the Spanish regime that a law has been enacted to help the small native tobacco farmers.

Earlier this afternoon, the President inducted Alejo Santos as secretary of national defense at the Malacañang reception hall in the presence of Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, former Secretary Jesus Vargas, Defense Undersecretary Mariano Yenke, ranking officers led by Lieut. Gen. Manuel Cabal, AFP chief of staff, Bulacan Gov. Tomas Martin, Rep. Rogaciano Mercado, and a host of friends and relatives of the new defense head.

The President also signed the appointment papers of Gregorio Abad as a member of the Reparations Commission, vice Alejo Santos.

Among the last callers in this evening were Sen. Roseller T. Lim and a delegation from Zamboanga del Sur, with whom the President discussed local problems.

June 12.—EARLY this morning, President Garcia received executives of the Ford Rockefeller Foundation who paid a courtesy call at Malacañang accompanied by Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez.

They were Dr. Tom Forest Hill, vice-president of the Ford Foundation; Dr. J. G. Harrar, vice-president of the Rockefeller Foundation; and Robert Chandler, also of the Rockefeller Foundation.

When informed that they were in the Philippines to lay the ground work for the establishment here of a research center for rice and other staple agricultural products, President Garcia thanked them and at the same time emphasized that rice experts from other countries are agreed that the best conditions for the growth of the cereal are found in the Philippines.

President Garcia and congressional leaders agreed in principle to the exemption of 10 commodities from the proposed marginal levy on foreign exchange after a four-hour luncheon-conference on board the RPS Lapu-Lapu today.

The commodities exempted from the proposed margin are the following: drugs and medicines; medical, dental, and hospital supplies; fertilizers; textbooks; paper and newsprint; canned salmon and canned sardines; milk; containers; unassembled pressure lamps; and explosives and dynamite.

The conferees agreed to include canned salmon and sardines in the list of exemptions to keep these goods within the reach of the masses. Containers, including materials for the manufacture of tin containers used by the importer himself in the manufacture or preparation of local products for consignment or export abroad, was also included in order to protect newly-established industries.

They also decided to exempt unassembled pressure lamps for the benefit of people living in the rural areas where there is no electricity.

The commodities exempted are, with four exemptions, the same as those exempted from the special import tax provided for in the recently enacted bill H. B. No. 2365, revoking certain exemptions from said tax.

Present at the conference were Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr.; Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez; Senate President Protempore Fernando Lopez; Senate Majority Floorleader Cipriano Primicias; House Majority Floorleader Jose Aldeguer; Sens. Roseller Lim, Gil Puyat, Pedro A. Sabido, Quintin Paredes, and Edmundo Cea; Reps. Lamberto Macias, Jose Leido, Jose Roy, Justiniano Montano, Bartolome C. Cabangbang, Manuel A. Zosa, Aguedo Agbayani, Jacobo Gonzales, and Luciano Millan.

The conference was also attended by Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, and CB Governor Miguel Cuaderno.

Before the meeting started, President Garcia signed two bills, one creating the City of Legaspi and the other amending R. A. 2046, changing the name of the Cavite Electricity Distribution Authority to Cavite Electricity and Communications Development Authority.

President Garcia today mobilized immediately all available Army planes to combat the locust menace in Cotabato and other provinces in Mindanao.

Acting swiftly on reports that some 27 towns in Cotabato alone, covering 2,524 hectares were heavily infested with locusts, President Garcia immediately ordered Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez and Defense Undersecretary Mariano Yenke to fly personnel and supplies with all available planes to the infested areas.

In the last Cabinet meeting, President Garcia directed the release of ₱200,000 for the purpose of combating the locust menace and placed the secretary of agriculture at the head of the campaign, assisted by the Departments of National Defense and Education.

The President expressed deep concern over the locust threat, because it will greatly affect the continuing success of his campaign to make the Philippines self-sufficient in food, especially in rice and corn.

June 13.—PRESIDENT Garcia today summoned Education Secretary Jose Romero to report on studies made by his department on the feasibility of increasing the number of pupils from 40 to 55 or 60 per class as a means of solving the reported classroom shortage at the opening of the current school year.

At the last regular Cabinet meeting held last Wednesday on board the RPS Lapu-Lapu, the President expressed concern over reports that thousands of children of school age seeking admission in the public schools had to be turned off owing to lack of classrooms. He directed the Department of Education to study a proposal to increase the number of pupils in a class.

The President had given the directive after it was pointed out during the meeting that increasing the size of classes would riot necessarily lower the standard of education in the public schools. It was observed that a few months after the opening of classes, many pupils usually drop off and deplete the size of the class considerably. It was also pointed out that some classes had to be closed about halfway during the school year because of big drop-offs and the remaining pupils absorbed by other classes.

The President is also expected to confer with Congress leaders on the perenial school problem with the view to finding out how the government could provide more funds for this schoolyear, if necessary. This, however, will depend on the outcome of his talks with Secretary Romero, who is expected to submit his recommendations. The newly-inducted education secretary is currently on an orientation tour of the country.

The Chief Executive this morning expressed hope that the proposed levy on dollar exchange would pass Congress to enable the government to generate additional funds with which to expand its social services, including education.

The President spent the day quietly at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City. He did not receive any caller. He spent most of his time in his private study where he went over bills passed during the last regular session of Congress and submitted to him for approval.

About noon today, the President called up Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo and instructed him to get Secretary Alejandro Almendras of General Services to authorize overtime work in the Bureau of Printing for the printing of bills. The President ordered a 24-hour work at the bureau, if necessary.

The Chief Executive expressed his desire to get hold of bills as soon as possible to give him ample time to go over them before the 30-day period allotted him by law expires on June 20.

Of the more than 500 bills passed by Congress during the last regular session, more than 100 had already been signed, vetoed, or allowed to lapse into law by the President. Thus, he has about a week within which to study and act on some 300 measures.

The law gives the President 20 days after submission to act on measures submitted to him during sessions. The President has 30 days from adjournment within which to act on bills submitted after the session.

President's Week in Review: June 14-20, 1959

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

June 14.—PRESIDENT Garcia spent the whole day today studying various bills passed by Congress and submitted for his approval or disapproval, as the deadline fixed by the Constitution for his action on them approaches.

In order to allow himself sufficient peace and quiet in going over these proposed pieces of legislation, the President did not receive callers.

To continue his work, President Garcia likewise decided to cancel all his appointments for tomorrow and to keep the whole day open for possible conferences with congressional leaders.

At the same time, the Chief Executive directed his aides to check up if the Bureau of Printing personnel are working overtime in the printing of bills which have been submitted to Malacañang for the President's action.

June 15. — PRESIDENT Garcia spent this day at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City going over bills passed during the last regular session of Congress and submitted to him for consideration. He did not receive any caller.

After breakfast this morning, the President sought refuge at his private study and started reading about 60 measures brought over to him by Legislative Secretary Vicente Logarta.

Of 553 bills enacted by Congress last regular session, only about 160 have so far been approved, vetoed, or allowed to lapse into law. The President thus have only five days within which to act on about 400 bills before the 30-day period allotted to him by law expires at midnight on June 20.

Legislative Secretary Logarta informed the President this morning that with the exception of the voluminous budget and the public works bills, all the measures passed by Congress last session have already been printed.

The President instructed his legislative secretary to distribute the bills among his department secretaries for their comments and recommendations. At the same time, the Chief Executive directed the members of his Cabinet to have the bills returned to him as soon as possible to give him ample time.

In the evening the President took time out from his work to meet Labor leaders who had a scheduled conference with him arranged by Labor Secretary Angel M. Castaño.

PRESIDENT Garcia sought to win the support of workers affiliated with the Katipunang Manggagawang Pilipino for his 25-40 per cent marginal tax on foreign exchange.

A three-hour defense of his pet measure before a delegation of 25 officers and high ranking members of the KMP at his Bohol Avenue residence, Quezon City, this evening failed to get for the President a categorical endorsement

The delegation told President Garcia that they viewed the President's proposal with an "open mind," but that they will have to hold a consultative meeting among themselves before making a definite stand.

The KMP leaders advanced the following arguments against the tax

- 1 There will be a general rise in prices of staple and essential articles, irrespective of the selective exemptions.
- 2 The bill will result in the curtailment of marginal enterprises which are now developing or beginning to develop in the country.
3. The bill will restrict, if not paralyze, the domestic economy.

4. The bill will inflate the cost of industrialization, by adding cost to the bringing in of machinery, part, and general heavy equipment.

President Garcia revealed he would expand the agenda of the present special session and ask Congress to grant him powers over trade and price controls to prevent prices from spiraling when the tax measure is passed.

Among the KMP officers and leaders who saw the President were Eulogio Lerum, acting KMP president and president of the National Labor Union; Ignacio Lacsina, KMP treasurer and head of the National Trade Union; Felixberto Olalia, KMP vice-president; Geronimo Cuadra of the Confederation of Government Corporation Unions; Pedro Castro, president of the Union of Stevedores; Antonio Policarpio of the KMP and National Labor Union; and Cipriano Malonso of the Mindanao Federation of Labor.

Labor Secretary Angel Castaño was not present.

During the conference, the President recited before the labor leaders the benefits that the nation will derive from the marginal tax.

He said one-half of the tax proceeds, amounting to roughly ₱350 million (computed at the 25 per cent minimum), will be used to stabilize the currency. The other half will be spent for social services, public works, and other community and rural development projects this year.

Another idea behind the tax, the President explained, is to force idle capital out of the banks and private vaults, and put this in circulation so that the people, particularly those in rural areas, will benefit from wider monetary circulation.

The independent labor leaders who met the President this evening, according to Secretary Castaño, represents some four million laborers in Mindanao, East and West Visayas, Bicol, and Luzon.

Although the Grand Old Man of Cebu was not scheduled to see the President, President Garcia cleared the way for an important meeting with the old Osmeña.

It was learned the former President gave President Garcia a fill-in on the political situation brought about by the Osmeña-Cuenco merger.

Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez was called to the meeting and joined the conference.

Romualdez, it was learned, reported on the move started by Rep. Bartolome Cabangbang to bar young Osmeña from the Nacionalista caucus the other day.

Earlier in the morning, the President received his new senior aide, Col. Jorge B. Delarmente, who has replaced Lt. Col. Emilio Borromeo, who retired from the army.

Col. Delarmente assumes the position of senior aide-de-camp to President Garcia today.

Col. Delarmente had been the senior aide of President Garcia when he was still the Vice-President while Col. Borromeo has been senior aide since the time of the late President Magsaysay.

IN the evening the President received some 60 labor leaders in his residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, in an effort to convince them on the merits of his controversial foreign exchange measure.

The President had received some of them the other day, but the labor leaders did not commit themselves, saying they came with an “open mind” and would meet shortly to take up the President’s views on the matter.

Eleven major labor federations in the country this evening gave President Garcia a vote of confidence on the controversial 40 per cent foreign exchange levy.

The confidence vote, which virtually meant an endorsement of President Garcia’s pet tax measure, was made by the federations even as the Katipunang Manggawang Pilipino prepared to meet tomorrow to decide on whether to support or oppose the measure.

Labor Secretary Angel Castaño gave the President the confidence vote on behalf of the representatives of the labor groups who met with the President at the latter’s Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City this evening.

Through Castaño, the heads of the federations, however, presented to the President a four-point proposal designed to offset the feared adverse effects of the measure on the working men.

The proposal:

1. An effective enforcement of the Price Control Law;
2. Creation of a Price Control Commission to be headed by Castaño “so as to ensure a strcig labor representation in the commission;”
3. The exemption of three main items from the levy; namely, the prime and essential commodities, raw materials for existing industries, newsprint and related items; and
4. Government agencies like the National Marketing Corporation should be fully geared to bring about the needed economic atmosphere.

President Garcia opened the conference with the labor leaders by assuring them that the tax measure would be the immediate remedy to balance the budget of the government.

The President reflected that he could not be ill-motivated in batting for the measure because, for during the 34 years that he has been serving the public, he has never been identified with any business interest.

He said that if the finances of the country were to be stabilized, it should be done so now and not later on, for then it might be too late.

PRESIDENT Garcia today signed a proclamation declaring June 17, this year as a special public holiday in several provinces and cities in Mindanao.

The President signed the proclamation to enable the Muslims in the country to observe the feast of Hidul Adha, one of the most important holidays for Muslims.

The holiday will only be observed in the provinces of Sulu, Cotabato, Zamboanga del Norte, Zamboanga del Sur, Davao, Lanao, Bukidnon, and Palawan and in the cities of Zamboanga, Basilan, Davao, Iligan, and Marawi.

Muslim officials and employees of the government, both national and local, performing their duties and functions outside of the provinces and cities above stated, shall be exempted from duty, pursuant to the proclamation.

June 17.—THE PRESIDENT did not receive any caller this morning because he was very busy going over bills passed by Congress.

In the afternoon, the President signed the following bills in Malacañang:

1. Converting the Philippine School of Arts and Trades into the Philippine College of Arts;
2. Authorizing the Philippine Charity Sweepstakes to hold a lottery for the benefit of the Association de Damas Filipinas; and
3. Authorizing the President to sell a piece of land in Malate, Manila, to the Ramon Magsaysay Foundation.

The President also received Reps. Luis Hora, chairman of the House committee on minorities, and Rep. Lucas Paredes, who recommended the allocation of a sizable amount to finance the studies of some 400 minorities. The President immediately authorized the release of ₱150,000 to cover the obligations of these pensionados.

President Garcia also received two German technicians; namely, Kurt G. Rosenbaun, chief engineer of the Inter-Consulting, Ltd., and Gunter Heinpze, chief metallurgist of the Von-Roll Iron Works, Ltd.

They were accompanied to Malacañang by Sen. Gil J. Puyat, Eugenio Puyat, and Mrs. Schenkel, representative of the Von-Roll firm in the country.

THE Cabinet this evening abandoned plans of packing primary grade classes from 40 to 60 pupils and decided instead to create immediately 3,000 new classes to accommodate some 160,000 new pupils.

The Cabinet authorized the release of ₱9 million from the current budget to finance the creation of 3,000 first grade classes.

The President took up the controversial plan of increasing the enrolment in the primary grades following the storm raised by the proposal.

The Philippine Public School Teachers Association hit the proposal claiming it would set back the standard of instruction in the public schools.

At the same time, the President this evening authorized the release of ₱50,000 to finance the studies of 400 pensionados from the minorities.

The release of the amount was sought by the House committee on minorities and by the Commission on the National Integration.

Commissioner Madki Alonto said the pensionados have been refused admission by the schools because of their financial obligation.

Education Secretary Jose E. Romero recommended the opening of new classes to absorb 160,000 new pupils, during the Cabinet meeting.

He said that the present budget authorizes the financing of these classes in the event of so-called school crisis this year.

The President also adopted Romero's plan to institute double single sessions in the primary grades to be able to accommodate other pupils who were turned away for lack of funds.

Under this arrangement, a school teacher will handle two classes of 40 pupils each. He will handle the first in the morning and the second in the afternoon.

It was learned that aside from the 160,000 first graders turned away, there are still some 200,000 pupils out of school.

Romero said that he had just returned from what he called an “orientation tour of the southern islands” and found out that the school crisis was only talked of in Manila.

He said, in some provinces, teachers had to go on a house-to-house campaign for pupils.

He also observed that, in some cities, the problem is not lack of funds but lack of buildings to house the classes.

During the course of Romero’s report on his “orientation tour,” lights went off in Malacañang. Romero continued with his oral report during a 20-minute blackout.

Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno observed that some school buildings are not well situated, giving rise to a situation where there is overcrowding in one school and a comparatively sparse enrolment in another.

Moreno suggested the centralization of school buildings in order to have an equal distribution of pupils in a locality.

From the Cabinet meeting, the President motored to the yacht Lapu-Lapu where he spent the night. He may stay there the whole day tomorrow.

Malacañang said the President is going over 300 bills which had been approved by Congress. He has up to midnight Saturday to sign or veto the bills.

President Garcia signed today a proclamation declaring the 98th birth anniversary of Dr. Jose P. Rizal on Friday, June 19, as a special public holiday.

In calling the country to commemorate the birth anniversary of the Philippines’ national hero, President Garcia described Dr. Rizal as “our greatest hero and patriot.”

The President emphasized that June 19 should be a day for the Filipino people to be given the full opportunity to celebrate the date with appropriate ceremonies in keeping with Dr. Rizal’s ideals and teachings.

June 18.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia boarded the RPS Lapu-Lapu last night after the Cabinet meeting and stayed aboard the yacht the whole day today.

Although he did not want to receive callers, many visitors boarded the yacht in an effort to see the President.

After his conference with the two solons, the President asked himself to be excused from callers. He retired to his bedroom where he went over the bills,

To give the President complete seclusion Lcdr. Manuel C. Mandapat, skipper of the Lapu-Lapu, sailed away from the harbor.

He signed 11 bills up to press time this evening, including the bill scrapping exemptions from the payment of tariff duties on the personal effects brought in by returning residents.

Before the signing of the bill into law, returning residents could, bring in ₱500 worth of personal effects.

The President is staying aboard the yacht until he has acted on all the 300 bills.

On the eve of the 98th birth anniversary of Dr. Jose P. Rizal, President Garcia emphasized that nationalism and racial dignity are the main factors that would lead our country towards progress and prosperity.

In two statements, one to the nation and the other in the form of a special radio broadcast inaugurating the distribution of transistor radios in Jolo, Sulu, the President extolled the achievements and conduct of our national hero thereby showing that the Filipinos are the equal of any race in the world. (See Historical Papers and Documents, pp. 4627-4629, for the radio message to Mindanao and Sulu residents.)

President Garcia also underscored the significance of the nation's celebration of the Rizal centennial in 1961.

The President's statement to the nation follows in full: Ninety-eight years ago today, the Pride of the Malay race was born. Dr. Jose P. Rizal died at the young age of 35 but in that short life span, his achievements and his conduct showed the world that our race, which at that time was much maligned, was the equal of any other in the world. Not only did he live a hero's life as patriot, doctor of medicine, linguist, sociologist, and scholar but he also died a hero's death, martyr to the cause of freedom for his native land.

As we celebrate his 98th birth anniversary, we are also working on great preparations for his centennial birth anniversary in 1961. No stone is being left unturned to make the celebration of his centennial year truly worthy of his place in our galaxy of heroes.

With the realization that we must live up to the teachings to Rizal to be a great nation, Congress has made it a law that these teachings of our national hero be part of the formal educational curriculum of our land. Our people can do no less. Nationhood and independence are nothing if not upheld by economic stability and national dignity.

But this year's observance of his birthday is more significant than just looking forward to his hundredth year or merely looking back to his historic past.

For the Filipino people today is conscious more than ever that the nationalism and racial dignity that goaded Rizal on the road to martyrdom are the same propulsive forces that will hurry the Filipino people towards their meeting with destiny.

President Garcia today authorized the use of the R P S Lapu-Lapu to transport 1,500 boy scouts from Mindanao and the Visayas to Manila for the Boy Scout World Jamboree.

President Garcia today issued executive order No. 341, prescribing the rules and regulations for the appointment of reserve officer pilot graduates and technical men into the regular force of the Philippine Air Force.

In his executive order, the President emphasized that it is to the best interest of the military service that such appointments be made on a fair and equitable basis depending on the demonstrated fitness of officers, taking into consideration the necessity of giving reasonable security to regular officers.

He made the plea as guest speaker of the confederation at an international dinner this evening at the Manila Hotel. The GCWC convention is the first to be held in Manila and in Asia.

The President pointed out that the world problem is how to conserve manpower and this has become a "challenge to the womanhood of the world," he said.

The President made this statement at the conclusion today of command post exercise dubbed Handa participated in by units of the U.S. 25th infantry Division and the Philippine Army. Handa is a bilateral command post exercise conducted under the joint directorship of Major General John Theimer of the U.S. 25th Division and Brigadier General Marcos G. President Garcia, praised the attendance of foreign military observers during the whole period of the exercise. Foreign military observers who attended the exercise came from Argentina, Australia, China, France, Italy, and Thailand.

President and Mrs. Garcia inaugurated the San Miguel-Gapan line of the Manila Railroad Company in ceremonies held at the Gapan station in Gapari, Nueva Ecija, this morning.

In an extemporaneous speech, President Garcia assured the people of Nueva Ecija that his administration will not stop until the present railroad lines are extended up to Aparri, in the North, and to Matnog, Sorsogon, in the South.

He said he will make the MRR the instrument for achieving national progress and securing the best interest of the people by opening up vast tracts of fertile land in the country and making these accessible to markets.

When the Nacionalista Party took over the reins of government in 1954, the President said, Nueva Ecija was the center of widespread social problem. He cited the agrarian unrest that rocked Central Luzon, to solve which the government instituted a program to provide land for the landless.

During his incumbency, the Chief Executive told the people, the government has purchased through the Agricultural Tenancy Commission several vast estates in Nueva Ecija and subdivided them among the tenants and farmers working on the land. Among the estates purchased by the government, he said, were the De Leon, Halili, and Jaen properties.

To implement further this "land for the landless" program of the Administration, President Garcia announced that he will release 15,000 hectares of land belonging to the Fort Magsaysay military reservation in Papaya, Nueva Ecija, and have them subdivided and sold to the tenants and occupants of the estate.

Immediately after his speech, the President signed a proclamation releasing said land from the military reservation and transferring it to the ATC for distribution.

The Gapan MRR line is part of the MRR project for the rehabilitation of the railroad line from Plaridel, Bulacan, to the City of Cabanatuan, a distance of 81 kilometers. With the inauguration of this line, 56.5 kms. of rehabilitated line will be put to operation for the service of the people of Bulacan and Nueva Ecija.

Mr. Murray, who is president of the Philippine-American Chamber of Commerce in New York for the fourth consecutive year, was accompanied to Malacañang by W. E. Menefee, general manager of CALTEX (Philippines) and J. P. Roxas, public relations manager of CALTEX (Philippines.).

THIS afternoon the President announced he would seek from Congress "standby powers" to crack down on profiteers and hoarders and check the rise of prices of essential commodities.

At his regular press conference the President showed concern over reports that prices of commodities have soared even as the controversial marginal bill was being discussed in both chambers of Congress.

"It is an act of bad Faith," the President said as he explained his decision to seek the necessary authority from Congress as a complementary measure of the controversial foreign exchange bill.

"I want stronger powers and stern penalties," the President said, as he gave a warning against blackmarketers and speculators who are reportedly cornering the market in an effort to manipulate the prices of essential goods.

At the same time, the President disclosed he would inquire into reports that even prices of goods of the National Marketing Corporation have skyrocketed. He also promised he would ask for the cancellation of the dollar allocations of importers who are found guilty of profiteering.

"There is absolutely no justification for this," the President said when inform that price of corned beef has almost doubled.

The President, however:

1. Expressed gratification over the House approval of his embattled exchange measure and said he hoped the Senate would pass the same bill before July 3;
2. Said he was not calling a second special session, as politics have crept into the deliberations of both chamber of Congress, this being an election year;
3. Definitely killed the move to push through the dollar-retention bill of a powerful bloc of House members, as it carried the same provisions as the celebrated Senate Bill 167, which he vetoed two years ago;
4. Left to the NP executive committee of the Nacionalista Party, which meets tomorrow, to decide on the cases of Sen. Mariano Jesus Cuenco and Rep. Sergio Osmefia, Jr., and also the three-cornered fight for the mayoralty of Manila among Mayor Arsenio H. Lacson, Vice-Mayor Jesus Marcos Rocas, and Rep. Augusto Francisco; and
5. Indicated his readiness to meet the opposition leaders on the controversial marginal bill this coming elections.

The President admitted that there are existing price control measures but pointed out that under their provisions, “it is hard to prove a case of profiteering.”

He said he wanted Congress to invest him with “standby powers” which he would wield in going after importers and traders who have unreasonably jacked up their prices.

Informed that the prices of essential commodities, including NAMARCO goods, have already soared, the President said “there is no reason for those increases.”

He charged these traders and importers with “bad faith” as the marginal bill is not yet enforced.

In seeking congressional special authority, the President said he wanted stern measures which he would use against unscrupulous traders who threaten the economy of the nation.

The President, however, said he would allow traders only a “fair profit.”

He said he would go to the source of the sky-rocketting prices by inquiring into the invoices of the importers.

The President said he was in favor of the automatic deportation of alien traders who are found guilty of unnecessarily padding their prices.

“I will go after these profiteers until they would listen to reason,” the President vowed.

June 27.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia played hosts to chiefs of diplomatic offices in Manila and their ladies at a cruise on board the RPS Lapu-Lapu around Manila Bay this morning.

The diplomats, headed by their newly-arrived doyen, Papal Nuncio Msgr. Mandapat, skipper of the RPS Lapu-Lapu, gave the order to shove off. Destination was Sisiman Cove, an isolated pocket ringed by mountains with a white-sand beach just outside the mouth of Manila Bay, on the Bataan coast.

The yacht lifted anchor at 2 p.m. for the return trip to Manila and after a slow and leisurely trip docked at Pier 3 at 5 p.m.

President and Mrs. Garcia saw the guests off and then remained on board the rest of the day.

The President received today an assurance from Roberto Oca, president of the Katipunang Manggagawang Pilipino, that the latter was in favor of giving the Administration a chance to test the effectivity of the proposed marginal bill as an economic remedy so long as adequate safeguards were provided to protect the interest of the nation's workers.

In a conference on board the RPS Lapu-Lapu today, Oca informed the President that he would meet the KMP board of directors tonight for the purpose of reexamining their stand on the issue and giving the President a vote of confidence. He said he still stood by his commitment previously made when he had testified before the Senate and House committees that he had no objection to the marginal bill provided it did not work hardship to the laboring class.

The KMP president said that the bill, in its present form, would be sufficient to protect -the interest of the workers, as certain exemptions has been made on commodities basically needed by the workers.

Oca called on the President on the RPS Lapu-Lapu following his arrival from Geneva where he attended a conference of the International Labor Organization. Accompanied by Labor Secretary Angel Castaño, the KMP president heard the Chief Executive explain the objectives sought to be achieved by the proposed law. The Chief Executive also gave reassurance that he would personally initiate its abrogation if the measure could not remedy the economic ills sought to be remedies.

President's Week in Review: June 28- July 4, 1959

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

June 28.—THIS morning President and Mrs. Garcia boarded the RPS Lapu-Lapu for their first long trip aboard the new vessel. They were headed for Leyte where they will attend the annual fiesta of Tacloban City.

The yacht was scheduled to pull off at 10 o'clock this evening but was a little delayed on account of President Garcia's previous engagement with the Manila Symphony Society at the Manila Hotel.

The President and the First Lady attended the "black and white" dinner of the Manila Symphony Society at the Manila Hotel.

The President and the First Lady heard mass this morning at the dining saloon of the yacht.

After the mass the President conferred with Gov. Valeriano Gatuslao of Negros Occidental. He discussed with the President the political situation in his province.

President Garcia likewise received Legislative Secretary Vicente Logarta, who briefed the President on the progress of the controversial foreign exchange bill in Congress.

The President said he was elated with the approval of the measure in the Lower House and hoped that the bill would go through the Senate this week.

He left the yacht at 8 o'clock this evening to attend the "black and white" reception and ball given by the Manila Symphony Society.

From the Manila Hotel, the President and the First Lady motored directly to the PN headquarters to board the RPS Lapu-Lapu for the trip to Tacloban City.

June 29.—PRESIDENT Garcia today belittled the newly-announced coalition senatorial ticket of the coalesced minorities branding it as "not impressive."

The President told newsmen he was confident that the coalition could easily be bested by the senatorial slate the Nacionalista Party will form shortly.

The Chief Executive, accompanied by the First Lady, a host of Manila newspapermen, and government officials, is proceeding on board the RPS Lapu-Lapu to Tacloban City.

The President will attend the Tacloban City fiesta and meet mayors and political leaders from Cebu who are crossing over to Leyte.

He is scheduled to plot with them a fool-proof strategy that is calculated to minimize the effects of the recently formed alliance between the age-old rival factions of Sen. Mariano J. Cuenco and Rep. Sergio Osmeña, Jr.

The Lapu-Lapu is scheduled to dock at the Tacloban wharf early tomorrow morning.

Speaker Daniel Romualdez, who saw the President off in Manila late last night, will head a large delegation of Leyte officials in welcoming the Chief Executive to the island province.

June 30.—PRESIDENT Garcia today predicted major victory for the Nacionalista senatorial and local candidates in the coming elections at a conference of national, provincial, and municipal officials in the new Tacloban City Hall.

The President also dared the Liberal Party to raise the Lapu-Lapu issue. He justified the acquisition of the ship.

In a lengthy extemporaneous speech in the dialect during the conference, the President explained the huge budget, the dollar marginal bill, and the economic development program of the Administration.

In explaining the budget, he compared the Philippines to an infant and said the country's requirements and expenses increase through passage of years.

President Garcia said the marginal bill on foreign exchange was necessary for currency stabilization purposes and to provide more essential public services which have increased as a result of the tremendous growth of population in recent years.

The Chief Executive told the conference that the Philippines had achieved three first:

- (1) The country has become self-sufficient in rice and corn and is even exporting these cereals;
- (2) The just recently launched NASSCO ship, the first ship built in the Philippines by Filipinos; and
- (3) For the first time the country sent an international floating exposition which visited eight Southeast Asian countries and enhanced Philippine prestige in this part of the world.

Towards the end of his address, President Garcia called on local officials to work for the victory of the majority party's candidates, among them incumbent Gov. Ildefonso Cinco for governor, Ramon Torres for vice-governor, and incumbent board members Enrique Granados and Emiliano Melgazo for board members.

The President was introduced at the conference by Speaker Daniel Ro-mualdez. Other speakers were Samar Gov. Fernando Veloso, Samar Rep. Valeriano Yancha, Bohol Rep. Bartolome Cabangbang, Leyte Reps. Marcelino Veloso, Alberto Aguja, Dominador Tan, and Nicanor Yñiguez of Leyte, and Rep. Felipe Abrigo of Samar.

Earlier, the President presented to Gov. Cinco 16 transistor radio sets donated by the Cooperative for American Relief Everywhere (CARE) to the Philippines during President Garcia's state visit to the United States last year.

The sets were among the first batch of 1000 sets from 19,000 pledged to this country.

In a brief talk the Chief Executive said these sets are gifts of the American people to Filipinos in rural areas to keep them posted on international and local events as effective means of combating communism.

The presidential party arrived at Tacloban City aboard the RPS Lapu-Lapu at 9 o'clock this morning and was met at the wharf by a huge crowd.

After acknowledging military honors tendered by the provincial Constabulary honor guard, President and Mrs. Garcia motored to the Sto. Nino Church for a Te Deum offered by the Tacloban City parish priest.

President Garcia then proceeded to the City Hall for the turnover ceremony of the 16 transistor radio sets and for the conference with local officials.

After the luncheon, President Garcia returned to the RPS Lapu-Lapu to hold a closed door conference with 39 Cebu mayors and over 200 political leaders on board the yacht.

Meanwhile, thousands of people from all walks of life went aboard the RPS Lapu-Lapu for a whole day sightseeing tour.

Later in the evening the Chief Executive and the First Lady went to St. Pauls College where Mrs. Garcia crowned Miss Leyte.

The RPS Lapu-Lapu was met this morning at the entrance to San Juanico Strait by several brightly decorated boats escorted it to the Tacloban City wharf. On board the boats were Governor Cinco, Tacloban City

Mayor Artemio Mate, PHHC General Manager Bernardo Torres, Ramon Torres, Mayor Alfredo Bantug, and Antonio Benedicto. Speaker Romualdez and Rep. Marcelino Veloso boarded the vessel early this morning before the ship entered San Juanico Strait.

July 1.—PRESIDENT Garcia emphasized at a press conference today on board the RPS Lapu-Lapu that he will not tolerate political interference in consideration of Army promotions.

The President, in answer to questions of Manila newsmen, declared there will be no extension of the present special session of Congress which will end July 3.

The Chief Executive joined members of the presidential party at breakfast this morning and appeared unaffected by the hectic and strenuous schedule in Tacloban City yesterday.

The President retired to his stateroom after giving the press conference and worked until late in the evening on pending state papers, including finalized drafts of speeches he will deliver before the Manila Rotary on July 2, and the Civic Assembly of Women of the Philippines on July 3.

The RPS Lapu-Lapu left Tacloban early this morning and negotiated the narrow difficult San Juanico Strait shortly after sunrise.

The sea was very calm and smooth. The weather was excellent in spite of slightly cloudy sky. At 2 p.m. the ship passed abreast of Ticao Island traveling at service speed of 17 knots per hour. The presidential party is expected to arrive in Manila early tomorrow morning.

PRESIDENT Garcia today slammed the door on the possibility of another special session and told newsmen that Congress has to make up its minds within the 30-day period ending Friday.

In a brief interview on board the yacht, the Chief Executive said that the elections are fast approaching and that politicians could not move because of the congressional sessions.

President Garcia indicated he would leave the fate of his pet measure to the two chambers of the legislature.

“I hope they will make up their minds before the 30 days are over,” the President answered when asked if he would call another special session if the 40 per cent margin bill is not passed by Friday.

The President, however, expressed optimism that the measure would go through before Congress adjourns its present special session.

He recalled that Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr., had assured him that the margin bill will go through before adjournment. In the same interview, President Garcia also:

1. Said he will look into the gas shortage, if the House committee on good government would not proceed with its inquiry;
2. Assailed disgusted Armed Forces colonels for indulging in political talks on promotions as brought about by the reported promotion of Col. Antonio de Veyra to brigadier-general;
3. Said creation of the Virginia Leaf Tobacco Administration will delay action on the reorganization of the Agricultural Credit and Cooperatives Financing Administration; and
4. Left the door open to the possible affiliation of Nationalist-Citizens Party leaders to the Nacionalista Party.

When asked to comment on the proposed decontrol measure whose inclusion as an amendment to the Senate version of the margin bill might snag the approval of the foreign exchange measure, the President said he had not been advised officially on this development.

He stressed that he was not inclined to call another special session, as the elections are fast approaching and politics has crept into the congressional deliberations.

Turning to Manila Mayor Arsenio H. Lacson, the President lampooned the city executive for his charge that President Garcia was gagging radio commentators, including the mayor, from the air.

"I don't even know they are getting out of the air," he said when told that Lacson had charged that Melchor Aquino and other commentators will eventually be deprived of their radio time.

He added that he did not even know "they are radio commentators." The President said he believes in a free market of ideas, as "truth will win in the market of free ideas and falsehood will go to trash."

July 2.—PRESIDENT Garcia this morning returned from a four-day trip to Tacloban City where he fired the first political salvo which is expected to swing the voters of the province behind the Nacionalista candidates in the coming elections.

The President also conferred with more than 30 mayors from Cebu and rallied them behind the NP, following the formation of an anti-Garcia Osmeña-Cuenco alliance in that province.

Asked about the big number of Cebu politicians who rallied behind the President in the latter's fight against the Osmeña-Cuenco combine, the President said, quoting former Senator Jose P. Laurel, "They (the Cebu political leaders) are my people."

The President went to Tacloban City to attend the town fiesta, which he said has become significant to him, as it was on June 30, 17 years ago, when he got the ultimatum from the Japanese soldiers to surrender. President Garcia was then a guerrillero holding out in Leyte.

Upon his arrival in Manila, the President conferred with ex-President Sergio Osmeña, who reported to the Chief Executive the political developments in Cebu. The conference was held aboard the yacht Lapu-Lapu.

At 12 o'clock," the President motored to the Manila Hotel, where he addressed the Manila Rotary Club.

THIS AFTERNOON the President outlined his plans for a four-year program of decontrol to bring the country's economy back to the operation of a free market enterprise.

He disclosed his plans in a speech he delivered before the inaugural luncheon-meeting of the Manila Rotary Club at the Manila Hotel this noon.

The President, in the course of his speech, gave what he called a “frank appraisal of the situation which should convince us of the urgency to act quickly if we are to avert the danger that our problems grow to Unmanageable proportions.”

He cited inflation and the low international reserves as “the most critical problems facing the country’s economy today.”

He said these two problems “have arisen as a consequence of rapid economic development characterized by expansionary fiscal and monetary policies.

“That we have indeed made economic progress is attested by the rise of real per capita income from ₱308 in 1953 to ₱377 in 1958,” the President pointed out.

President Garcia outlined his program of decontrol as follows:

“In the first year, all commodities falling under the ‘essential consumer’ category of the Central Bank classification will be added to the present ‘decontrolled’ category.”

In the second year, the President said, “about 20 per cent of the essential category will be decontrolled, with another 35 per cent to following the third year.”

In the fourth year, President Garcia expected all essential producers and essential consumers goods and about one fourth of the semi-essential producers import to be decontrolled.

The President bared his decontrol program as he took cognizance of an agitation in the Senate to lift controls.

However, the President said that a general licensing of foreign exchange for non-essential producers and consumers capital accounts and invisibles would continue.

He pointed out that the licensing of foreign exchange would likewise be lifted “to insure the channeling of resources to productive enterprises.”

In planning to carry on with the controls on the foreign exchange the President said the unregulated transfer of capital accounts abroad may result in another large and immediate drop in the reserves “on account of the existence of a large reservoirs of blocked funds.”

“If the stabilization program is successful, as I hope, by the fourth or fifth year, we should also be able to remove the import controls and rely solely on regulation by the tariffs,” he said.

The President explained that by January 1, 1962, the tariff charge on U.S. goods, which have traditionally comprised the bulk of the country’s imports, will be 75 per cent of the normal tariff.

“At this level,” the President said, “we may expect the tariff to become usable as a normal and effective weapon of economic order.”

The President also disclosed that concurrent with the gradual decontrol program, credit policies will also be liberalized to allow the private sector a fuller development under conditions of greater stability and freedom.

At the same time, he said, the government during this period, can pursue an accelerated economic development program without the danger of a resurgence of inflationary pressure inasmuch as there would be available new non-inflationary financing for such outlays.

“Thus,” he reasoned out, “the more aggressive government program will more than offset whatever hardships these stabilization measures have caused the masses in the form of greater social benefits and greater employment.”

He also justified his program of tapping foreign credit to supplement domestic resources.

“With the recent steps we have taken to bring about international stability in our economy,” the President said, “we can hope that more credits will be forthcoming, since we have demonstrated our willingness and capacity to take the necessary, if unpalatable, measures to keep our economic house in order.”

Moreover, the President added, “nationalism means that we have the pride to be relatively self-reliant and self-sufficient to stand on our own feet and paddle our own canoe and be a contributing member of the great community of free nations.”

In explaining the country’s economic problems, the President said that inflation and low international reserves are common to underdeveloped countries today.

He deplored the fact that the peso is now worth only 98.8 per cent of its 1955 value.

He likewise loathed the fact that the country’s reserves “has been hovering around $150 million for the past year and a half now.”

However, he traced these problems to the expansionary expenditures from both the public and private sectors of the national economy.

“To satisfy the aspirations of our people for economic and social development, public and private credit have been utilized to finance investment projects,” he said.

The President also touched on his controversial foreign exchange bill which is now in Senate-House conference committee.

He said he had sought the enactment of the unpopular bill to check “the origin of domestic inflation and add the drain of our international reserves.”

He pointed out that the margin bill over the selling rate of foreign exchange is expected to exert deflationary impact on money supply so as to bring about a balance between demand and supply of goods and services.

“At the same time,” he added, “the margin proceeds will provide the government with funds which shall be used to retire a part of the public debt, as well as to augment the Securities Stabilization Fund, the Account to Secure the Coinage, and to finance social and economic projects in rural areas.”

The President observed that “we are grappling with serious, often perplexing, problems inherent in a young and developing nation. We know that the solution to these problems necessarily entails sacrifices of some form or another. There is no royal road to national success. But history eloquently attests to the fact that the Filipinos, with their spirit of sacrifices, have survived through four centuries of bondage, and with the instrumentality of freedom, the same spirit of sacrifice will carry us through new and thrilling saga of growth, of achievement of success and happiness,” he added.

The President addressed the Manila Rotary Club shortly after he returned from a trip to Tacloban City.

He also inducted the new officers of the Rotary Club, namely: Ramon Ordoveza, president; John L. Leach, vice-president; Jose Y. Orosa, M.D; Arnold, Jose M. Barredo, Charles Graeminger, and Joaquin Preysler, directors; R. R. de la Cruz, secretary; Jesus Jacinto, treasurer; Alexander Sycip, sergeant-at arms; and Rafael S. Dedal, assistant secretary-treasurer.

THIS EVENING President Garcia took up with his Cabinet anew the sale of the 12-ocean going vessels to private companies and the applications of a firm to put up a coconut mill in the country.

The Cabinet failed to arrive at a definite decision on these matters, as the discussions shifted to varied subjects touching on the controversial foreign exchange bill and politics. The President will take up these subjects again at the next Cabinet meeting.

The President called the Cabinet to a meeting this evening following his failure to meet the members last Wednesday.

President Garcia accepted the credentials presented by Ambassador Walter Hofer of the Swiss Confederation during a simple ceremony held in the ceremonial hall of Malacañang this afternoon.

In accepting the letter of accreditation of Ambassador Hofer, the President said the elevation of the Philippine Legation in Berne and the Swiss Legation in Manila to the rank of embassies proves the desire of the people and government of both countries for the establishment on the highest level of diplomatic relations and to strengthen further the bonds of friendship existing between the two nations.

Ambassador Hofer declared in his address that the elevation is a clear manifestation of the fruitful collaboration in the past between the two countries and of their sincere wish to strengthen the bonds which link them. It is also an expression of the mutual respect and esteem which binds both countries, he added.

The Swiss diplomat arrived at Malacañang promptly at 5 p.m. accompanied by Pedro Angara-Aragon, protocol officer of the Department of Foreign Affairs; Maj. Jose Estrella, junior military aide to the President; and Werner Wahl, attache of the Swiss Embassy.

After acknowledging military honors accorded him by an honor guard composed of elements from the Presidential Guards Battalion, Ambassador Hofer entered the Palace and was met at the head of the stairs by Col. Jorge Delarmente, senior aide-de-camp to the President, and together they proceeded to the ceremonial hall.

The presentation ceremony was attended by members of the Cabinet and officials of the Department of Foreign Affairs, among them, Ministers Enrique Garcia and Juan Arreglado. Basi, the Malacañang ceremonial wine, was served after the ceremony.

From the ceremonial hall, President Garcia went to the music room and received four Japanese newsmen who covered the latest attempts of their government to secure the surrender of two Japanese stragglers believed to be holding out in Lubang Island, Mindoro.

The Japanese newspapermen who paid a courtesy call on the President were Yutaka Tsuji, Asahi Shimbun; Koichi Fujii, Yomiuri Shimbun; Teizo Hamada, Mainichi Shimbun; and Hisao Inomata, staff writer of the Kyodo News Agency. They were accompanied by Satoshi Kinase, press attache of the Japanese Embassy, and Ramon V. Mitra of the Department of Foreign Affairs.

After receiving the Japanese newspapermen, the Chief Executive proceeded to the Council of State room to preside over the weekly Cabinet meeting.

July 3.—PRESIDENT Garcia directed the ACCFA authorities to continue buying Virginia tobacco produced in the Ilocos region pending the organization of the Philippine Virginia Tobacco Administration.

The directive was given today following a breakfast conference with Congress leaders at Malacañang. Present at the conference were Speaker Protempore Constancio Castañeda and Sen. Quintin Paredes, Reps. Delfin Albano of Isabela, Jose Roy of Tarlac, and Manuel Zoza of Cebu.

The President also authorized the Philippine Tobacco Administration to continue buying native tobacco used as fillers by local cigar factories.

At the same time, President Garcia certified to the urgency of enacting Senate Bill No. 350, proposing the creation of anti-graft courts and Senate Bill No. 368, which seeks to amend the Judiciary Act of 1948.

Senate Bill No. 350 proposes to create a Court of Public Functions with original and exclusive jurisdiction to try and decide all criminal cases involving offenses committed by officers and employees of the Government, including those of government-owned or controlled corporations, in connection with their official duties, and private individuals conniving with said officers and employees.

It also proposes that the Court of Public Functions will have exclusive jurisdiction in cases involving offenses against national security, escheat proceedings under Republic Act No 1379, all electoral protests involving provincial and municipal officials, and all other cases concerning the extent of powers of public officials or titled to public office.

Senate Bill No. 368, on the other hand, seeks to amend the Judiciary Act of 1948 by increasing to over ₱200,000 the minimum value of the controversy in civil cases over which the Supreme Court shall have exclusive appellate jurisdiction.

It also provides for an additional judge each in the Courts of First Instance of Ilocos Norte, Pangasinan, Zambales, Rizal, Camarines Sur, Misamis Oriental, Misamis Occidental, Cotabato, and Basilan City, and group the province of Marinduque with the province of Romblon under one judge.

Meanwhile, the President received Miss Leticia Quintal who reigned as Miss Philippines at the recent Fiesta Filipina held recently in Honolulu in connection with the first convention of Filipino Community Association of Hawaii.

Miss Quintal delivered to the President a letter from Governor William F. Quinn of Hawaii, who greeted him and conveyed to him the Aloha of the people of Hawaii.

Gov. Quinn reported that since the time President and Mrs. Garcia passed by Hawaii during their state visit to the United States last year, the Filipinos in Hawaii have gained much in stature and prestige. He added that "we can be proud of them," especially at a time when Hawaii is about to become the 50th state of the Union.

Two Cebu mayors saw President Garcia and pledged their loyalty to the Administration and to the Nacionalista Party. One of them, Mayor Pedro Cabaron of Moalboal, informed the President "that it's hard to follow Serging (Osmeña, Jr.), because he keeps jumping from one party to another and from position to position." Mayor Cabaron formerly belonged to the faction headed by Rep. Osmeña in Cebu.

Mayor Panfilo Montecillo of Tuburan, who formerly belonged to the Cuenco faction, informed President Garcia that he cannot support the candidates of the faction of Rep. Osmeña even though Sen. Mariano J. Cuenco has combined forces with them.

Other callers this morning included Col. Francisco Katigbak, SSS Administrator Ramon Gaviola, Jr., Sens. Reseller Lim and Eulogio Balao, and Govs. Romulo Garrovillo of Zamboanga del Norte, Valeriano Gatuslao of Negros Occidental, and Arsenio Lugay of Tarlac.

THIS afternoon President Garcia called upon the women of the Philippines to start the early training and discipline of their children to bring about the wholesome growth of a good citizenry.

Addressing the 13th annual assembly of the Civic Assembly of Women of the Philippines (CAWP) in the Malacañang social hall, the President assured his hearers it is his personal concern and that of the Administration to insure a high moral integrity among public officers.

During the affair, the Chief Executive conferred upon Miss Helen Z. Benitez and Dr. Herberto Zipper presidential award medals in recognition of their outstanding work in international cultural relations.

President Garcia also conferred presidential medals of merit to the following CAWP awardees: Felicisimo Reyta for invention; Dr. Miguel Cañizares for contribution to national health; Anastacia Giron Tupas for nursing education; the family of Pablo Campos for the distinguished contribution of their children and grandchildren in various fields of activity.

The Chief Executive thanked the women for their commendation and assurances of cooperation and support for the following programs of the Administration:

1. The "Filipino First" policy;
2. Program of bringing about closer ties between the Philippines and Asia;
3. Bipartisan membership in important representations abroad;
4. Interest in, and financial support given to, cultural projects; and
5. Interest in, and financial support given to, the National Family Life and Workshop, the first Asian seminar on mental health and family life.

After a late lunch, President Garcia went over the records of deserving prisoners recommended by the board of pardons and parole for executive clemency.

After due consideration, the President extended clemency to 114 prisoners on the occasion of the observance of the 13th anniversary of Independence Day.

At exactly 5 p.m., President and Mrs. Garcia went to the Malacañang social hall for the 13th annual assembly of the CAWP.

After the program, the Chief Executive retired to his room and went over the final draft of the speech he will deliver at the July 4 celebration at the Independence Grandstand on the Luneta tomorrow afternoon.

On the eve of the celebration of Philippine and United States Independence, President Garcia sent a special message to United States President Eisenhower hoping "that the special relationship between our two countries be further strengthened as we rededicate ourselves today to the continuing defense of the dignity and the liberty of man."

The Chief Executive, on behalf of the Filipino people, conveyed to the "great American people my most sincere greetings and felicitations on the Anniversary of your Independence Day."

"It is quite meaningful that our two countries have a common Independence Day, because we share the same ideals of freedom and democracy for which our gallant soldiers have fought and died," President Garcia said.

Following is the full text of President Garcia's message: "On behalf of the Filipino people and of my own I wish to convey to your Excellency and to the great American people my most sincere greetings and felicitations on the Anniversary of your Independence Day.

"It is quite meaningful that our two countries have a common Independence Day, because we share the same ideals of freedom and democracy for which our gallant soldiers have fought and died. It is my fervent hope that the special relationship between our two countries be further strengthened as we rededicate ourselves today to the continuing defense of the dignity and the liberty of man."

July 4.—PRESIDENT Garcia rededicated the Philippines and the Filipino people to democracy and the democratic way of life in his address at the 13th independence anniversary celebration rites at the New Luneta this afternoon.

Addressing one of the largest crowds ever assembled on the Luneta, the President painted a bright picture of the country's economic progress during the last 13 years and cited the remarkable gains made in agricultural production, manufacturing, and mining. He expressed concern, however, in that most of its benefits have become concentrated in the hands of a few.

In pursuance of the Administration's program to attain a symmetrically balanced economy, the Chief Executive called upon the people, nationals and foreigners alike, to give their unstinted cooperation to the efforts of the government in this respect.

President Garcia also pledged free, clean, honest, and democratic elections this coming November in consonance with the democratic principle of free and untrammelled expression of the popular will.

President and Mrs. Garcia arrived at the Independence Grandstand on the Luneta promptly at 3 p.m., together with defense Secretary Alejo Santos, chairman of the 13th independence anniversary celebration committee who fetched them from Malacañang. The two-and-a-half hour long military and civic parade started a few minutes after their arrival.

The seeming monotony of the parade which dragged for hours was broken when Miss Leticia Quintal, voted "Miss Philippines" of Hawaii, descended in front of the grandstand from the Filoil Refinery Corporation float she was riding, went up to President and Mrs. Garcia, and presented them with leis and then kissed them.

The slight shower that fell during the early part of the program failed to dampen the spirits of the crowd who surged close to the grandstand to hear the President's address.

Estimates of the attendance at this afternoon's 13th independence anniversary celebration ranged from 500,000 to 700,000 people.

After delivering his speech, President and Mrs. Garcia returned to Malacañang where they were hosts at a state dinner in Malacañang in commemoration of Independence Day.

Earlier this morning, President and Mrs. Garcia heard mass at the Malacañang chapel. Among those present at the mass were members of the Cabinet and ranking government officials and their ladies.

After breakfast, the Chief Executive retired to his study where he worked on the final draft of his speech he delivered this afternoon at the Luneta.

On receiving the appointment signed by Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo by authority of the President, Judge Esguerra promptly took his oath of office before Assistant Executive Secretary Enrique C. Quema.

Judge Esguerra also filed a manifestation with the Supreme Court suggesting that his acceptance of the position constituted an abandonment and renunciation of his office as judge of the court of first instance of Iloilo, and prayed that this circumstance can be taken into consideration in the final disposition of the writ of mandamus pending before the high tribunal seeking to compel him to assume the Iloilo post.

July 7.—PRESIDENT Garcia early this morning received Vice-President Sarvepalli Radhakrishman of India at breakfast in the state dining hall of Malacañang. With them at breakfast were Foreign Affairs Secretary Felixberto Serrano and Indian Ambassador Naker Nath Maitra.

Dr. Rocha was accompanied by Dr. Francisco Roman, Dr. Mariano M. Alimurong, Dr. Oscar Liboro, and Dr. Antonio Guytingco, the President's personal physician.

Among the first callers was Rep. Guillermo Sanchez of Agusan, who briefed President Garcia on the political situation in his province. With Rep. A delegation from Misamis Oriental headed by Rep. Fausto Dugenio called on the President to apprise him of political developments in the province.

This afternoon the President received Belgian Minister Ferdinand Buckens, who is leaving on Thursday for Brussels for reassignment. The Belgian minister, who served in the Philippines for the last four years expressed his full confidence in the future of the country.

President Garcia expressed his regrets that the local diplomatic corps will lose a very able member. He said that his government will extend all possible help and cooperation to the successor of Minister Buckens.

Before proceeding to his home office, Minister Buckens will pass by Saigon where he is concurrently assigned as Belgian minister.

The President also received Alfonso Ponce Enrile and Dr. Jose Locsin, chairman of the National Economic Council.

In the evening, President and Mrs. Garcia motored to their Quezon City residence.

The Chief Executive signed 34 ad interim appointments including that of Col. Antonio V. de Veyra as brigadier general in the Armed Forces of the Philippines shortly after lunch today.

The President adopted today positive measure to curb the reported increase of prices of prime commodities pending his signing into law of the price control bill.

The Chief Executive at the same time reiterated his stern warning to profiteers against disposing prime commodities at unreasonable prices.

In twin moves, the President directed the Central Bank of the Philippines to allocate additional dollars to the NAMARCO for the immediate purchase of prime commodities in addition to the ₱3.5 million earmarked for the immediate importation of milk.

Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo was directed likewise by the President to look into the delay in printing of two major administration bills; namely, the price control bill and the margin measure.

Secretary Pajo in turn directed the Director of the Bureau of Printing to rush the printing of both measures. The implementation of the price control law is being delayed by the non-delivery of said bills for President Garcia's signature.

July 8.—THIS morning, the President discussed with President Vicente G. Sinco of the University of the Philippines the proposed expanded program of the UP in scientific and agricultural research in line with the Administration's policy of encouraging technological studies.

The Chief Executive also received Indian Ambassador S. N. Maitra, who presented personal gifts to him and to the First Lady from Vice-President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan of India, a recent visitor to the Philippines.

The gift to President Garcia consisted of an intricately carved chess table made from sandalwood and chess pieces of ivory and ebony. The President requested Ambassador Maitra to convey his thanks and appreciation to Vice-President Radhakrishnan. He said the gift will be a welcome addition to his collection of chess sets.

President Garcia will invite officers of all chambers of commerce, importers, and heads of various civic organizations for the purpose of enlisting their cooperation in the government's efforts to arrest the reported spiraling of prices of prime commodities.

He directed General Manager Benjamin Estrella of the NAMARCO to call to a general conference representatives of all NAMARCO distributors and retailers all over the country to impress upon them the necessity of reconciling the profits motive with their obligation as beneficiaries of the NAMARCO law to serve the public.

Concerned over persistent reports of increasing prices, the President this morning summoned Estrella and Governor Miguel Cuaderno of the Central Bank to a conference at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City. He directed Cuaderno to furnish the state marketing firm with the necessary dollars with which to import prime commodities which are in short supply.

The President expressed hope that with these importations, the price of essential commodities would be stabilized and go down to a reasonable level. He said that the new price control law would give him sufficient weapon to go after unscrupulous traders but that he would not do so unless it became necessary.

Estrella said that he would set his general meeting with NAMARCO distributors and retailers for Saturday. Also at the conference this morning was Miss Virginia Yaptinchay, special assistant to CB Governor Cuaderno, Estrella reported that in an ocular survey of retail stores he made in Manila and suburbs, he had noted a considerable increase in the prices of foodstuffs, particularly evaporated and condensed milk, corned beef, and other canned goods in short supply.

The President directed Estrella to flood the market with these prime commodities so that their prices would go down within the reach of low-salaried employees and wage earners. Estrella recommended an initial release of $10 million for the importation of these goods. He also proposed that a total of $30 million be set aside for this purpose.

After his conference with Cuaderno and Estrella, the President felt light headache. He cancelled a luncheon engagement at the residence of Justice Buenaventura Ocampo on the occasion of the birthday anniversary of the PCAPE chairman.

Shortly before 5 p.m., President Garcia motored to Malacañang to receive the credentials of newly-arrived Ambassador Anthony T. Stirling

The President postponed his regular weekly meeting with the Cabinet scheduled for this evening, as he was not feeling well.

President Garcia and Australian Ambassador Alfred Stirling this afternoon exchanged pledges for the further enhancement of the good relations existing between the Philippines and Australia.

The mutual pledge was made at the presentation of credentials of Ambassador Stirling held at the Malacañang ceremonial hall in the presence of members of the Cabinet and ranking officials of the Department of Foreign Affairs.

The President in his remarks recalled that both countries stood together in steadfast alliance through the dark days of the last World War.

He also expressed recognition of the usefulness of the membership of the Philippines to the SEATO and the Colombo Plan in which Australia plays a leading role.

The President said that the Filipinos are deeply appreciative of the generosity of the Australian Government in extending grants of twilight aid scholarships, and donations of useful publications to the Filipinos.

The New Australian Ambassador, who replaces Ambassador Keith Owen Shann, opened his remarks by stating that he was happy to begin his mission with the feeling that he was among friends.

He said that the Philippines and Australia will share the same ideals, being partners in the Colombo Plan and allies in the common cause of the South East Asia Treaty Organization. He added that this cooperation is undoubtedly increasing the close relations and understanding between the peoples of both countries.

After the presentation of credentials, President Garcia and the new ambassador exchanged toasts with basi, which has become the ceremonial beverage in Malacañang.

Ambassador Stirling, upon arrival at Malacañang, received full military honors given by a select unit of the Presidential Guards Battalion under the command of Capt. Felixberto Damian.

After the military ceremony, Col. Jorge Delarmente, senior aide-de-camp to the President, escorted the ambassador to the ceremonial hall.

It was learned that the President was not serious but was advised to rest.

The President returned to his private residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, from the V. Luna Hospital where he rested the whole day.

July 10.—PRESIDENT Garcia today took up the cudgels for Manila's commuting public and ordered the indefinite postponement of a demand by bus operators to hike their fares from one centavo to one-and-a-half centavos per kilometer.

The President also authorized the release of ₱25,000 originally intended for transporting members of the notorious Sigue-Sigue gang from Muntinlupa to the San Ramon penal colony, and utilizing the money for the construction of a separate stockade in the New Bilibid Prisons compound to house the troublesome convicts.

At a conference in Malacañang this morning with Commissioner Alejandro Galang of the Public Service Commission, President Garcia asked that final action be deferred on the petition for increased rates filed by members of the Bus Operators Association of the Philippines with the commission.

Commissioner Galang informed the President that the increase requested by the BOAP is still within the maximum of two-and-a-half centavos per kilometer authorized by the PSC.

The rising prices of spare parts and the resulting higher cost of maintenance and operation, Galang said, have forced bus operators to take this move in order to remain in business.

Approval of the transfer of funds for the construction of a new stockade in the New Bilibid Prisons compound in Muntinlupa followed representations made by acting Justice Secretary Enrique A. Fernandez, concurrently acting director of prisons.

Secretary Fernandez informed the President that conditions in Muntinlupa have improved considerably and that there have been no violent incidents in the prison during the last four months since he took over.

President Garcia also directed the NARIC board of directors to include 1,000 metric tons of corn produced by NARRA settlers in the quota of 8,000 tons authorized for export by the Cabinet.

The directive was issued after a conference with Mrs. Remedios O. Fortich, NARRA board chairman and general manager. Also present at the conference were Bruno O. Aparri, assistant to the general manager and NARRA coordinator; and Maj. A. Lotho, NARRA financial adviser.

Other presidential callers this morning were John C. Lipham and Mrs. Lucas Paredes, Fr. Mariano Gaviola, Gov. Florencio Garcia of the Development Bank of the Philippines and his brother, Recio Garcia, Gov. Juan Triviho of Camarines Sur, Ceferino Tavora, Venancio Makiling, Jr., and Daniel Vizco.

President Garcia received in the name of the Filipino people symbolic gifts of the peoples of the United States and Japan which he obtained during his state visits to both countries, at separate colorful ceremonies held at Malacañang this afternoon.

In the first turn-over ceremony, President Garcia received three mobile medical units donated by the American people through CARE. These units will be used by the medical and dental services of the Bureau of Public Schools in a nationwide health program to combat intestinal parasite diseases found among the school children in the rural areas.

In the second ceremony, President Garcia received from K. Ishiyama, chief Manila liaison officer of Mitsubishi Shuji Kaisha, Ltd., 55 complete units of Mitsubishi multi-purpose tillers specially designed for field conditions in the Philippines.

High ranking government officials attended the ceremonies, among them Education Secretary Jose Romero, Education Undersecretary Daniel Salcedo, Sen. Pacita Madrigal-Gonzalez, Defense Secretary Alejo Santos, Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno, and Press Secretary Jose C. Nable. Others present included Salvador Neri, vice-president of the Farm and Factory Machinery Company, exclusive distributors in the Philippines of Mitsubishi; Press Attache Satoshi Kinase of the Japanese Embassy; S. Morahasi, T. Shimada, and K. Kawamura, of Mitsubishi; PHHC Director Manuel Leelin; and Jose Mayuga.

Dr. Allan Kline, Manila head of CARE, in presenting the mobile medical units to President Garcia, said that this is the second time that the U.S. agency has cooperated with the Philippine Government in a nation-wide project. The first time, it was in connection with CARE's rural information and education program wherein some 2,000 transistor radios were turned over to the President for distribution to the barrios.

Each mobile unit will carry a physician, two laboratory technicians, and a driver and will treat approximately 20,000 pupils a year. It is equipped with medical and laboratory apparatus, a self-contained electric power plant, and an electric refrigerator, and has a full range of audio-visual components including a 16 mm. movie projector with accessories, a tape recorder, a film-strip projector, and a public address system. One of the units was donated by Graham French of Philadelphia.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon said he is in favor of the formation of a strong opposition party to better preserve democracy in the Philippines.

He made these remarks during his weekly press conference, as he denied charges that he was responsible for the present discord which is plaguing the coalesced Liberal and Progressive Parties.

At his regular press conference, the President said he "hoped that they (the minority leaders) would be able to put their house in order."

President Garcia denied charges aired recently by Vice-President Macapagal, LP president, that the President had been responsible for the announcement of conflicting Senate slates.

“I did not know” the President mused, that “I have great influence in the Liberal Party. I could use as tools Sen. Ambrosio Padilla and Sen. Rogelio de la Rosa, if we have to believe Macapagal’s charges.”

Asked on the effects of the rift within the coalesced LP-PP, the President said, “That is something.”

In a sarcastic tone, the President said: “It’s too bad I could not help Mr. Macapagal as I have problems of my own.”

Asked on the problems plaguing the majority party, the President said he preferred to indulge in “generalities.”

At the same time, the President refused to comment openly on the new move of Nacionalista leaders to expel Rep. Sergio Osmeña, Jr., from the administration party.

“I would rather wait for the committee looking into the case, to render its report before I make any comment,” he said.

President Garcia, however, recalled that there are “loyalist groups in Cebu” who have deplored Osmeña political conduct and are seeking to defeat him in the coming elections.

The President obviously referred to the meeting of more than 40 mayors of Cebu province aboard the yacht Lapu-Lapu in Tacloban City last week.

He said the Osmeña followers are now referred to in the NP ranks as the “rebels from Cebu.”

During the press conference, the President:

1. Denied reports that Sen. Edmundo Cea is being groomed for the position of ambassador to Jakarta to eliminate him from seeking a berth in the NP senatorial slate;
2. Branded as a “restraint of employment” the supposed “pact” entered into between the Chief Executive and members of Congress to share on a 50-50 basis the filling up of new positions in the budget;
3. Vowed to mete out drastic penalties against officials allegedly linked with smuggling syndicates;
4. Said he would sign the two bills on price control and the margin on the foreign exchange as soon as he receives the printed copies from Congress;
5. Justified the threat of Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno to cancel the dollar allocations of importers who would jack up the prices of their goods; and
6. Refused to comment on the move of the United States Government to suspend the exportation of- U.S. surplus goods to the Philippines after Congress had approved the foreign exchange bill.

July 11.—THE PRESIDENT discussed with members of the Council of Leaders the implementation of the dollar marginal levy and reviewed the overall political situation in the country at a meeting in his private residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, this morning.

The meeting, which was attended by Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr., Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, Senate President Protempore Fernando Lopez, Speaker Protempore Constancio Castañeda, Senate Majority Floorleader Cipriano Primicias, and House Majority Floorleader Jose Aldeguer, started with a breakfast conference and was continued later in the President’s study and lasted until almost noon.

President Garcia interrupted the conference at 10:30 a.m. to receive Miss Malinda Diggs Berry, America's 1959 "Maid of Cotton," who paid a courtesy call on the Chief Executive.

Miss Berry was accompanied by Jesus Yujuico, president, and P. L. Lim, vice-president, of the Textile Mills Association of the Philippines; Carl Campbell, executive director of the Cotton Council International; Jose Aspiras, executive secretary of the Textile Mills Association of the Philippines; and other officers and directors of the association.

After receiving Miss Berry, President Garcia returned to his study and resumed the conference with members of the Council of Leaders.

The President did not receive any callers in the afternoon. He spent most of his time in his study where he went over some state papers he brought over from Malacañang.

President's Week in Review: July 12-18, 1959

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

July 12.—PRESIDENT Garcia spent another quiet Sunday today, as he was freed from the string of callers that usually marks his other days as Chief Executive.

He heard mass with Mrs. Garcia at an improvised chapel at his Bohol Avenue residence in the morning.

Members of the household staff also heard Sunday mass with the President and his lady.

After a light breakfast, the President went to his study room and read the Sunday morning newspapers. He glossed over important state papers which he had brought over from Malacañang.

In the afternoon, he rested briefly and then tackled again pending state papers.

In the evening, he prepared to attend with the First Lady the Cotton Ball, sponsored by the textile industry of the Philippines, at the Manila Hotel.

July 13.—PRESIDENT Garcia today expressed hope that he would not be driven by circumstances to wield the powers provided under the price control bill as he appealed to importers and local manufacturers of prime commodities to keep the prices within reasonable bounds.

At a conference held at Malacañang this morning, President Garcia warned that he would not hesitate to use the stand-by powers granted him by Congress should he find it necessary to protect the interest of the consuming public.

The President showed his concern over the reported rise of the price of prime commodities. He debunked the claims of certain traders that it was due to the passage in Congress of the margin fee for foreign exchange.

In the course of the conference, President Garcia took occasion to explain the objectives of the dollar margin fee stating that it was absolutely necessary to stabilize the government's fiscal position and prevent a runaway inflation.

Such a kind of inflation, President Garcia said, would prejudice the masses and might cause a social upheaval.

At the same time, President Garcia reiterated his opposition to the devaluation of the Philippine peso, saying that it would only benefit a few and cause hardships to the great majority of the people, particularly the salary and wage earners.

Several representatives of importing firms stood up to voice their opinion during the conference on the invitation of the President.

Alfredo Burgos, representing the Connell Brothers, local importers of Carnation evaporated milk, pointed to the imposition of the 17 per cent special import tax as the cause of the rise of price of the commodity.

Dick Hoog, representing Filipino, local indentors of Señorita, condensed milk, backed up the claim of Burgos and added that milk is not exempted from the payment of the import tax, forcing the indentors to pass to the consumers the increase of the landed cost of the commodity.

J. M. Lontoc, who also spoke at the conference, urged the importation of Australian cattle in order to ease the sudden rise in the price of beef which is proving to be so attractive to local cattlemen that it would deplete the cattle population of the country.

Lontoc said that the Department of Agriculture had adopted a policy of curbing the importation of cattle which is influencing the rise in the price of beef in the local market.

H. Eugene Davidson, representing the Armour Company, explained that the rise of price of certain commodities can be traced to the shortage of dollars.

Other traders who spoke attributed in part the spiraling of prices to the rise of prices in the world market which affects the Philippine market.

Practically all the 200 businessmen present at the conference, representing big companies supplying the country with imported prime commodities, promised the President they would cooperate in keeping prices at reasonable levels.

Ben Estrella, NAMARCO general manager, submitted to President Garcia a memorandum of the price trends of food items from late January to the first week of July.

The price trend of canned goods like milk, corned beef, and sardines showed increases ranging from 6.7 to 20 per cent, according to the memorandum of Estrella.

Earlier this morning, President Garcia inducted the officials of the Asian Anti-Communist League in the Philippines, headed by Col. Cirilo D. Ledesma, president. Other officials are Mrs. Felicidad Manuel, first vice-president; Carlos R. Lazo, second vice-president; Prof. Jesus Tanghal Dera, third vice-president; Capt. Bienvenido Molero, secretary; Dr. Domiciano L. Alcazar, treasurer; and Andres Lodovico, auditor.

The President also received Austrian Minister Anton M. Harting, who is returning to his post in Bangkok, where he is concurrently minister for his country.

Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, commander-in-chief of the Pacific Air Forces, paid a farewell call on President Garcia. Kuter is being reassigned to a more important job as commanding officer of the North American Air Defense Command.

Gen. Emmet O'Donnell, who saw service in the Philippines at the outbreak of the last World War, will soon take over the post vacated by Kuter.

The President also received Fiscal Demetrio Vinson, Mr. and Mrs. Democrito O. Plaza, Rep. Tobias Fornier, and Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona.

IN THE EVENING, the President inducted Lugum Uca as commissioner of national integration vice Madki Alonto, who was appointed governor of the new province of Lanao del Sur.

He also conferred with Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno, Capt. Ernesto Jimenez, manager of the Agricultural Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration, and Auditor General Jimenez.

President Garcia was interviewed this evening by Lourdes Jimenez of the Maryknoll College.

Miss Jimenez said she was interviewing the President for her school paper, Knoll.

July 14.—PRESIDENT Garcia discussed with top advisers the financing aspect of public works and economic development projects in order to facilitate the construction of top priority ones.

Present at the conference held at the presidential anteroom were Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno, Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, Public Works Director Julian Buendia, General Manager Filemon Zablan of the National Power Corporation, and General Manager Susano Negado of the NAWASA.

The President was particularly interested in the early completion of projects given high priority, especially the integrated steel mills in Iligan City and the Marikina multi-purpose project.

The financing of both projects, either through bond issue or through loans obtained from abroad, was thoroughly discussed by the conferees.

Negado informed the President that he expects the construction work of the Marikina multi-purpose project to start in January.

At the conference, President Garcia gave the Marikina project technical committee the power to evaluate the bids to be submitted for the construction of the project.

Negado informed the President that a technical mission is soon leaving for Japan to pave the way for final negotiations in order to expedite the construction of the project.

The conferees also discussed several alternative financing schemes submitted by foreign parties for the construction of the Iligan integrated steel mill.

Moreno informed the President that he has observed a favorable climate abroad regarding the loan solicited by the Philippine Government for the completion of the Iligan mill.

After the conference, President Garcia inducted Sen. Alejo Mabanag as secretary of justice, in place of Justice Secretary Jesus Barrera, who was elevated to the Supreme Court.

The Malacañang Reception Hall was almost filled to capacity by members of the Senate led by Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, members of the Cabinet, high government officials, and friends and relatives of the Pangasinan legislator.

Ligot of Cagayan, Francisco Ortega of La Union, Wenceslao Rancap Lagumbay and Jacobo Gonzales of Laguna, Gaudencio Abordo of Palawan, Emilio Cortes of Pampanga, Ramon Bagatsing of Manila, Pedro Venida of Camarines Norte, and Faustino Tobia of Ilocos Sur.

The President today issued a proclamation suspending the reduction of the rate of the special import tax to 11.9 per cent and, in lieu thereof, increasing the rate of said tax to the previous rate of 15.3 per cent applicable to all goods imported into the Philippines during the current calendar year, starting from the start of the year.

IN THE AFTERNOON, the President received Col. and Mrs. Constantino Navarro, formerly with the criminal investigation service of the Constabulary to try his luck in politics. He is going to Surigao where he had been proclaimed official candidate of the Nacionalista Party for governor.

The President also conferred with Governor Bernardo Torres of the People's Homesite and Housing Corporation on PHHC affairs.

July 15.—THE PRESIDENT'S signing into law of the margin bill and the price control measure which was set for today was postponed until after the top level conference tomorrow of the President and Congress leaders with members of the Monetary Board.

Preparatory to implementing the margin law, President Garcia discussed with Monetary Board members in a conference this morning the different aspects of the margin bill.

They discussed in particular the proposed rules and regulations to be issued by the Central Bank in the implementation of the margin law.

President Garcia and Congress leaders will confer with monetary board members tomorrow morning to determine the proper starting margin rate which should be imposed on the sale of foreign exchange.

The conference between President Garcia and congressional leaders with Monetary Board members tomorrow morning will climax the series of conferences of the President with government and non-government sectors.

Only last Monday the President called to a conference to Malacañang Filipino and alien importers. In this meeting the President heard the different views of the business communities in connection with the margin bill.

A statement by President Garcia is scheduled to be released simultaneous with the signing into laws of the margin bill and the price control bill.

The President is expected to emphasize the importance of the margin law and its immediate effects upon the country's economy. The new law, designed primarily as a stabilization measure, would transfer the burden from the labor and farmer classes to the wealthier sector in our country.

The President is also expected to specify the benefits to be derived as a result of the margin law. He had already emphasized that the foremost benefits would include social security services and continued support of the Administration's economic development program.

Present at the conference this morning were the following members of the Monetary Board: Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, chairman, and CB Governor Miguel Cuaderno, DBP Chairman Gregorio S. Licaros, PKB President Eduardo Romualdez, Col. Jaime Velasquez, Gaudencio Antonino, and Roberto Villanueva.

Also present at the conference were Rep. Vicente Peralta, one of the principal sponsors in Congress of the dollar margin bill; Deputy CB Governor Andres Castillo, and CB Special Assistant Natalio Balboa.

The President this morning appealed to the striking employees of the Government Service Insurance System to return to work pending final determination by the courts whether the state firm is exercising governmental or proprietary functions.

The GSIS union members went on strike demanding higher pay and other benefits.

The President made his appeal at a conference with labor leaders headed by Roberto Oca and leaders of the GSIS strikers.

However, after the conference GSIS strike leaders announced that they were not going back to work unless their demands are granted by management.

GSIS General Manager Rodolfo Andal and the strike leaders agreed to abide by the decision of the court on two main issues, namely, whether the GSIS is exercising governmental or proprietary functions and, in case the court decide that it is exercising proprietary functions, whether they are entitled to strike-duration pay.

The labor dispute is now pending before the Court of Industrial Relations and the Court of First Instance.

This is the second back-to-work appeal made by the President to the GSIS strikers. In a memorandum sent to Labor Secretary Angel Castaño on July 7, 1959, President Garcia issued the same appeal under the following conditions: (1) That upon their return to work, there would be status quo in their employment; and (2) That their right to strike-duration pay would be held in abeyance until after the courts have decided finally on the question of whether the GSIS is exercising proprietary or purely governmental functions.

AT A CONFERENCE in Malacañang this afternoon, President Garcia met members of the newly-created Council on Administrative Management to implement reorganizational plans of the government.

The council, created under Executive Order No. 339, is composed of Education Secretary Jose Romero, chairman; and Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, General Services Undersecretary Serafin Salvador, Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, Civil Services Commissioner Amado del Rosario, U.P. President Vicente G. Sinco, and Carlos Ramos, members,

Among the functions of the council as specified in the executive order the following: (a) to formulate and recommend to the President management improvement policies and programs and specific needs for legislation effect efficiency and economy in the government and (b) to review and coordinate management improvement programs of the various government entities for the purpose of determining their effectiveness.

Secretary Romero informed President Garcia that to perform these functions, the council adopted a program of action based on the identification of problem areas in management at various levels of the government service.

The organization of the Council on Administrative Management replaces the government advisory board on in-service training which was created on February 13, 1953.

The responsibility of the board for establishing policies in the development or training of government personnel has also been taken over by the new council.

President Garcia congratulated the members of the council and told them that he expects plans for the reorganization of the government to be implemented soon in order to effect efficiency and economy in the government service.

FOUR YOUNG FINNISH scouts paid a courtesy call on President Garcia in Malacañang this afternoon and presented to him a puukko and a Lapland knife used for whittling and woodcurving.

The scouters, who are delegates to the 10th Boy Scouts World Jamboree which will start on July 18 in Makiling Park, Los Baños, Laguna, are Eero Martino, 17; Ilpo Santala, 18; Asko Kuoppamaki, 27; and Keijo Kekola, 27.

THIS EVENING President Garcia ordered a general reduction of government expenditures by ₱80 million compared with the President's budget as submitted to Congress in order to avoid possible budgetary deficit during the current fiscal year.

The President's action was prompted by the change in the fiscal outlook for the general fund as originally embodied in the President's 1960 budget in view of congressional action on appropriation authorizations and revenue sources.

Rather than adopt deficit spending, the President ordered drastic cuts in the program of expenditures originally recommended for various departments and offices in the executive branch of the government. He instructed department heads to adhere strictly to the revised plan of expenses to preclude financial difficulties this fiscal year.

The new plan which was adopted by the Cabinet at its regular meeting this evening, includes the following major changes:

1. Public works obligations reduced from ₱47.9 million to ₱ 37.3 million;
2. Repayment of treasury notes under Republic Act No. 245 to be retired from proceeds of the dollar margin bill reduced by ₱60 million; and
3. "Forced savings" increased from ₱20.3 million to ₱23.9 million. Other reductions were distributed among the various departments in the government. Recommendations for the Department of Education have however been left intact because of the necessity of accommodating school children seeking entry into the public schools.

The decrease in the originally expected income from new sources was due generally to the modifications made by Congress on proposed revenue bills which reduced their income potential. Following are some of the specific changes:

1. The amusements tax with an estimated revenue of ₱2 million was not passed;
2. The proposal to require new and necessary industries to pay full income tax (H.B. 2363) designed to realize an additional income of ₱17 million was reduced to ₱4 million;
3. The recommended higher rates for income tax of individuals and corporations (H.B. 1825) which had been expected to yield ₱16 million in additional revenue had been reduced to ₱8 million; and
4. Premiums on the sale of foreign exchange under the dollar margin bill was reduced from ₱145 million to ₱70 million in view of additional exemptions.

The plan which was adopted by the Cabinet was recommended by Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona. The President said that the policy of austerity in government expenditures which had been started by his administration some two years ago should be continued through this fiscal year in order to stabilize the financial position of the government.

He urged department heads to issue the necessary directives to their subordinate officials.

July 16.—PRESIDENT Garcia together with Congress leaders and Monetary Board members today fixed at 25 per cent the margin on the sale of foreign exchange.

Presidential signature into law of the margin bill and the price control measure came swiftly after a top level conference was held in Malacañang this morning.

It also came 17 days ahead of the deadline set in the Constitution for presidential veto or approval of any measure enacted by the Philippine Congress.

Simultaneous with the signing into law of both administration bills, President Garcia directed top government fiscal and monetary officials to synchronize all government expenditures and activities.

His directive led to a heavy and drastic cut of about ₱67 million from the Administration's bond issue program which had been originally set at ₱126 million for the fiscal year 1959-60.

Press Secretary Jose C. Nable said the government's belt-tightening effort received its first shot in the arm when the Cabinet reduced government expenditures by about ₱80 million in its weekly meeting yesterday.

In a statement issued upon signing into law the margin bill and the price control measure, President Garcia reiterated his plea for cooperation from government and the private sector as he emphasized the urgency of the margin law to the general economy of the country.

He underscored the vital importance of this measure as a stabilization factor to the country's economy. The President also said this was aimed at shifting the burden from the labor and farmer classes to the wealthier sector of the population.

President Garcia likewise stressed the benefits which will be derived from the new law, mentioning in particular that the proceeds from the margin on the sale of dollars will go into social security services and at the same time support the country's growing financial needs for economic development. In signing into law the price control measure, President Garcia referred to it as the companion bill of the margin measure.

He expressed the hope that he would not be compelled to resort to strong-arm methods to keep the price of prime commodities at a low level. He apparently referred to the pledge made by Filipino and alien businessmen in a conference with them in Malacañang last Monday.

Emphasis was made by the President to the danger that run-away unreasonable increase in prices would have on the people, especially the working class. He underscored the fact that he would not hesitate to use his stand-by powers granted him under the new price control law should he be forced into it.

In determining the margin rate to be fixed, the President heard a thorough discussion of all the aspects of the law from Congress leaders and Monetary Board Members.

The discussion lasted for three hours. Certain Monetary Board members recommended a higher rate than the 25 per cent. Congress members, however, reminded Monetary Board officials that it was their understanding that the margin rate would start from 25 per cent and not more.

Both chambers of Congress are usually responsible for the formulation of such major policies, it was said.

The conferees revealed that the total amount of exemptions granted under the new margin law would reach ₱266 million, such exemptions to include invisible items. This figure was reached by the conferees after consulting tabulations from the Central Bank.

About $483 million will be subject to the margin rate of 25 per cent. As an offshoot of the conference this morning, Central Bank officials announced that rules and regulations would be issued soon by the Central Bank in connection with the new margin law.

An executive session of the Monetary Board was scheduled for tomorrow, July 17. Monetary board officials advanced the proposal exemptions to be granted under the new margin law would be extended only when end-users are benefitted.

Present at the conference were Senate President Eulogio Rodriguee; Senate President Protempore Fernando Lopez; Speaker Protempore Constancio Castañeda; Sens. Cipriano Primicias, Gil J. Puyat, and Pedro Sabido; Reps. Jose Aldeguer, Vicente Peralta, Aguedo Agbayani, and Jose Leido; and MB members Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, CB Governor Miguel Cuaderno, Col. Jaime Velasquez, PNB President Eduardo Romualdez, DBP Chairman Gregorio Licaros, Roberto Villanueva, and Gaudencio Antonino.

Also present were Budget Commissioner Dominador Aytona, CB Deputy Governor Andres. Castillo, and Natalio Balboa, and Mrs. Fanny Garcia of the Central Bank.

THIS AFTERNOON, the Chief Executive and the First Lady motored to Manila International Airport at Balagbag to welcome their children, Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Campos, who returned in time for Mrs. Garcia's birthday tomorrow.

Nanding and Linda Campos stayed for a year in Cambridge, Mass., where Nanding obtained his Master of Laws degree from Harvard University.

A large crowd was on hand at the airport to welcome the couple, and police and security officers had a difficult time holding back the crowd when Nanding and Linda emerged from, the door of the Air France plane that brought them home.

From the Balagbag terminal, President and Mrs. Garcia returned with their children to Malacañang for the reception in honor of the boy scout delegates.

President and Mrs. Garcia were hosts at a reception in honor of delegates to the 10th Boy Scouts World Jamboree at the ceremonial hall of Malacañang this afternoon.

Heading the reception line composed of ranking international and Philippine scout executives, the President and the First Lady were greeted by foreign and local delegates to the jamboree in the reception hall. Also present at the reception were members of the diplomatic corps headed by Papal Nuncio Salvatore Siino.

The reception was highlighted by the presentation to Mrs. Garcia of a bouquet of red roses on the eve of her birthday anniversary. The flowers were presented to the First Lady by scouters Julius Villarme of Pampanga, Egbert Abiad of Quezon City, and Allen Dimataga of Cebu.

After receiving the delegates, President and Mrs. Garcia led their guests to the ceremonial hall where light refreshments were served. Before the close of the reception, the boy scouts sang "Happy Birthday" to Mrs. Garcia and wished her many happy returns on her natal day tomorrow.

IN THE EVENING, the President and the First Lady attended an asalto given by Congress ladies, headed by Mrs. Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr., and Mrs. Daniel Z. Romualdez, in honor of Mrs. Garcia on the eve of her birthday anniversary.

The President received this morning H. N. Harilela, vice-chairman of the World Health Organization, who was accompanied by his wife, his father-in-law M. Hiranand, and Edgardo Sindico.

Other callers this morning were the members of the Bisan municipal board led by Mayor Atilano Nolasco. The councilors were Dr. Jaime Bautista, Dr. Librado Espiritu, Dr. Pedro Colcol, Engineer Juan Florentino, and Florentino Puzon.

July 17.—PRESIDENT and Mrs. Garcia, together with their children, Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Campos, early this morning heard a Pontifical low mass and received Holy Communion at an improvised altar in the State Dining Hall of Malacañang.

For the First Family the mass which they heard together for the first time in over a year, assumed double significance. It commemorated the birthday anniversary of the First Lady and served as thanksgiving for bringing the First Family together, the children having arrived only yesterday from their studies in the United States.

Immediately after the mass the Chief Executive and the First Lady received their well-wishers, composed of some 200 close friends and relatives and high government officials, at breakfast at the Malacañang grand porch.

After breakfast the President and Mrs. Garcia took their guests to the ceremonial hall where the birthday cake, overlaid with flower designs of sugar icing, complete with lighted candles, awaited them.

The First Lady, in the presence of the President, Senate President and Mrs. Eulogio Rodriguez, and friends, blew out all the candles in one long breath, and began cutting up the cake for her guests.

From the ceremonial hall the First Couple and their guests proceeded to the music room where a life size painting of the First Lady was unveiled in the presence of her guests.

Friends and admirers swamped Malacañang with cakes, candies, and flowers for the First Lady the whole day. The First Lady sent the cakes and candies to children's wards of hospitals and offered the flowers at the altars of the different churches in Manila and suburbs.

The President today declared Thursday, July 23 of this year, a special public holiday in the province of Batangas and the city of Lipa, to commemorate the birthday anniversary of Apolinario Mabini, the "Brains of the Philippine Revolution."

In another proclamation, President Garcia authorized the Philippine Tuberculosis Society to conduct a national fund and educational campaign from August 19 to September 30, this year.

In proclaiming July 23 a special public holiday in Batangas and Lipa, the President pointed to the desirability of giving the Batanguenos an opportunity to celebrate properly Mabini's birthday anniversary.

The fund raising and educational campaign of the Philippine Tuberculosis Society will focus once more the attention of the people on the grim but necessary task of combating the white plague which causes not only heavy losses in life but also in the economic field annually.

The President, in issuing his proclamation, called on all the people regardless of race or creed to give generously to the common fight, and authorized all provincial, city, and municipal treasurers as well as school officials to receive contributions and donations in the name of the society and to issue corresponding official receipts.

DURING the press conference this afternoon, President Garcia scored the laxity of the Board of Pardons and Parole in screening prisoners' applications for executive clemency and disclosed he had returned "for further study" all unacted papers recommending the freedom of convicts.

The President admitted that he was not aware of all the circumstances of the case of Ang Chio-kio when he signed the conditional pardon of the plane hijacker.

He told his regular press conference he did not know that Ang was the infamous plane hijacker who had killed a Philippine Air Lines pilot and purser.

However, the President said he could not rescind the pardon, as it was already a fait accompli.

President Garcia was apparently incensed by the testimony of Mrs. Pilar Hidalgo Lim and Dr. Leopoldo Pardo, board members, before the Senate Blue Ribbon Committee for admitting that they did not know the circumstances of Ang's case.

Asked if he would sign Ang's pardon papers if he had known the prisoner was the plane hijacker and the killer of the pilot and purser, the President replied:

"I would have tabled the case for further study."

President Garcia's press conference was dominated by questions on the hijacker's pardon, which had stirred the country and the Senate Blue Ribbon Committee.

He indicated he was holding in abeyance the reorganization of the board until after the Senate Blue Ribbon committee had completed its inquiry into the case.

The President, however, said most of the members of the board, including Mrs. Lim and Dr. Pardo, have been with the body since President Roxas.

“They have been chosen for their integrity,” the President said.

The Chief Executive, however, observed that there had been laxity in the screening of prisoners’ applications for executive clemency.

President Garcia said that Ang had accepted the condition of his pardon and had been transferred to Engineering Island preparatory to his deportation.

He said the prisoner will be deported to Hongkong, his place of origin, before entering the country.

The President scouted charges of “misrepresentation by the board” in recommending Ang’s pardon.

He made the statement when confronted with the threat of Justice Undersecretary Enrique Fernandez to resign if the President believes he was misled to approving Ang’s conditional pardon.

The President said Fernandez presided over the board and certified to the fact that, that body had approved the application of listed prisoners for executive clemency.

In deploring the laxity of the board, the President said he had returned some hundreds of papers from the body recommending executive clemency to some prisoners.

He said he directed the board to review “further” the cases to prevent the approval of cases similar to the plane hijacker.

Asked if he was planning to reorganize the board, the President said “that would depend on the findings of the Senate Blue Ribbon Committee.”

The Senate body had started inquiry into the conditional pardon of Ang. Members of the Board of Pardons and Parole and the prisoner himself had already testified before the body.

President Garcia said he did not want to judge the board members on the basis of their testimony before the Senate body but that he would want to wait for a report on the inquiry.

President Garcia held his usual press conference this afternoon in spite of earlier reports that it would be postponed on account of Mrs. Garcia’s birthday.

After the press conference, members of the Malacañang Newsmen’s Association headed by Bulletin’s Amante Bigornia, association president, proceeded to the ceremonial hall and waited for the First Lady so as to greet her on her natal day.

The newsmen presented a bottle of Spanish perfume to the First Lady and then individually wished her a “happy birthday.” A continuous stream of well-wishers continued to flow into Malacañang, all of them eager to see Mrs. Garcia and felicitate her on her birthday.

Meanwhile, President Garcia retired to his room immediately after the press conference to work on the draft of the speech he will deliver tomorrow afternoon at the formal opening of the 10th Boy Scouts World Jamboree in Makiling Park, Los Baños, Laguna.

Later in the evening, President Garcia joined the First Lady in receiving members of the Boholano community in Manila who came to greet Mrs. Garcia on her birthday.

July 18.—THIS MORNING President Garcia received. U. S. Secretary of Interior Fred A. Seaton, who earlier had arrived enroute to Cambodia to represent President Eisenhower in an important ceremony Wednesday.

Earlier, the President discussed informally with some members of the Council of Leaders the political situation in the country as well as the coming NP national convention.

Present were Senate President Protempore Fernando Lopez, Speaker Daniel Romualdez, Speaker Protempore Constancio Castaneda, Senator Claro M. Recto, Rep. Jose Aldeguer, and Antonio Araneta.

Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Senator Cipriano Primicias, and other members of the Council were not present owing to previous engagements; so the discussions were held informally.

President Garcia scheduled for coming Tuesday a breakfast conference with the Council of Leaders for formal discussion of the political developments.

President Garcia signed the diplomas of honor of Valeriano Calma, Cristobal Manalang, Gaudencio Reyes, Anastacio Teodoro, Marcos Alicante, Carlos Locsin, Gregorio Zara, Felipe Adriano, and Manuel Felizardo for their contribution to science, in connection with the annual celebration of the National Science and Technology Week.

President Garcia formally opened the 10th Boy Scouts World Jamboree in Makiling Park, Los Baños, Laguna, this afternoon. Enroute to Makiling Park, the President took time out to inaugurate the PI million super-highway linking Buendia Extension on Highway 54 to Alabang, Rizal. Construction of the 14-kilometer shortcut, Bureau of Public Highways officials said, will considerably relieve the traffic congestion on the Manila south road.

Present at the brief inauguration ceremony and ribbon-cutting formally opening the super-highway to vehicular traffic were Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno and Highways Commissioner Nicolas Cuenca and other officials of the Department of Public Works and Communications and the Bureau of Public Highways.

Arriving at the jamboree site at exactly 2: 30 p.m., the President reviewed some 12,000 foreign and local scouts representing 54 out of 68 member nations of the international scouting movement.

At the program for the opening ceremonies, Most Rev. Vicente P. Reyes, chairman of the national Catholic committee on scouting, delivered the invocation while Jorge B. Vargas, BSP president and chief scout, welcomed the delegates.

The delegates to the jamboree were presented to President Garcia by Prudencio Langcauon, jamboree camp chief, and then the 10th World Jamboree flag was unfurled and raised up the flagpole by Maj. Gen. D. C. Spry, director of the Boy Scouts International Bureau, while everybody stood at attention.

A one-minute silent prayer was also said in memory of Lord Baden Powell, chief scout of the world, and of departed scouts and scouters. Dr. Vitaliano Bernardino, deputy camp chief for program, acted as master of ceremonies.

Among the well-applauded foreign contingents were the Poland, Russian, Venezuelan, and Hungarian delegations. The 600-strong delegation from Nationalist China was the biggest, whereas Russia and Venezuela were represented by only one delegate each.

As the United States contingent came within view of the grandstand, the AFP GHQ band broke into the familiar strains of “God Bless America” and later switched to “Swanee River.”

Slight intermittent rains fell during the two-hour long parade, but the scouts took the weather in stride and stuck by their posts in front of the grandstand until the program was over.

The rain turned the already soggy jamboree arena into a field of mud and created a problem for motorists and pedestrian alike. Surprisingly, the rain stopped shortly before the President’s turn came to deliver his address and formally open the international scouting’s biggest event.

President and Mrs. Garcia were fetched from their Bohol Avenue residence for the trip to Makiling Park by Chief Jorge B. Vargas and Rep. Jacobo Gonzales of Laguna. Others who joined the presidential entourage to the Jamboree site were Defense Secretary Alejo Santos, General Services Secretary Alejandro Almendras, Sen. Pacita M. Gonzalez, Rep. Manuel A. Zosa of Cebu, Brig. Gen. Isagani Campo, and NEC Chairman Jose Locsin.

After the jamboree opening, the President and the First Lady returned to their private residence in Quezon City.

President's Week in Review: July 19-25, 1959

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

July 19.—AFTER breakfast, the President went over the Sunday morning drill papers and then retired to his study to finalize the speech he would deliver this evening before Filipino scientists in the Manila Hotel.

Earlier President and Mrs. Garcia heard an early mass said before an improvised altar in their Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City.

After partaking of a light lunch, President Garcia again returned to his room to work on pending state papers.

Early this evening, the Chief Executive was fetched from his residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, by chairman Dr. Paulino J. Garcia of the National Science Development Board for the awards ceremony and dinner at the Manila Hotel honoring Philippine men of science.

THIS EVENING President Garcia challenged Filipino scientists to pool and gear their knowledge and skills towards the development of a sturdy economy that will insure national prosperity.

The President said that the task of Filipino science men is to “make our farms and our factories produce more food, more materials for shelter, more clothing, more medicine, and more of the necessary commodities to meet the growing needs of growing population.”

The Chief Executive spoke at a dinner held at the Manila Hotel climaxing the observance of National Science and Technology Week. He also presented awards to nine top Filipino scientists of the year.

The President stressed that the demands of independent nationhood call for among others the development of a sturdy economy, as the stability of a nation depends on it in the long run. He said, “We have come to a critical time when we must diminish our dependence on other countries for the supply of necessities, because such practice is sheer economic folly.”

National prosperity is an item that cannot be imported. We have to build it for ourselves,” the President stressed.

He pointed out that, in the task of building a sturdy national economy, it will be the scientists, along with engineers and technologists, who will be in the forefront, for it is they who have command of the knowledge and skills with which to extract the riches of the country's resources.

He said, “It is they who can exploit the marvelous discoveries of modern science to increase our nation's productivity and to raise our people's living standards. It is they who can put science to the service of the people.”

At the same time, the Chief Executive said that the government is not wanting in its contribution towards the full utilization of the scientific resources of the country to develop the economy.

President Garcia said his administration “is solidly committed to a vigorous program of scientific development,” and in keeping with that program, it encouraged the enactment of the Science Act of 1958.

The act created the National Science Development Board and empowered it to conduct scientific and technological researches which are geared to satisfy the most urgent needs of the country's economy.

But, the President said, scientific research is not and should not be the work of the government alone. It was for this main reason that he was calling for the cooperation of scientists in the development of the economy.

He took note of the fact, however, that various sectors in private enterprise have already given much of their time, effort, and facilities to scientific research.

As for the industries, the Chief Executive said that they are “in a happy position to engage in the search for new scientific methods and new technological techniques not only in increasing but also in diversifying production.”

On the other hand, the universities have a distinct and special role to play in the development of the country’s scientific potential, for they have always been the fountainhead of scientific knowledge and the training ground for scientific minds, the President said.

At dinner, the President was presented by the United Technological Organizations of the Philippines with a memorial plaque.

The top scientists he presented with awards were Dr. Gregorio Y. Zara, pioneer worker in aeronautical construction using bamboo and other local materials; Dr. Felipe T. Adriano, pioneer researcher in foods and food chemistry; Dr. Marcos M. Alicante, foremost investigator of Philippine soils and fertility; Dr. Valeriano C. Calma, for achievement in improved farm practice; Manuel I. Felizardo, for valuable contributions in the development and production of industrial chemicals; Carlos L. Locsin, pioneer sugar technologists; Dr. Cristobal Manalang, for studies in tropical diseases; Dr. Gaudencio M. Reyes, for studies in biology and control of cereal and other crop diseases; and Dr. Anastacio L. Teodoro, for studies in the use of alcohol as fuel for combustion engines.

These outstanding Filipino scientists were chosen by a panel of judges composed of Leopoldo Uichangco, chairman; and Patrocinio Valenzuela, Dr. Walfrido de Leon, Dr. Joaquin Maranon and Dr. Canuto G. Miguel, members.

July 20.—PRESIDENT Garcia discussed with Agriculture Secretary Juan de G. Rodriguez the research institute in rice and other staple crops proposed to be established in the Philippines by both the Rockefeller and the Ford Foundations, at a breakfast conference at Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, this morning.

Secretary Rodriguez informed the President that these two organizations will invest from $5 to $6 million for buildings and equipment and will provide $1 million annually for the maintenance and support of the research institute.

The President also received this morning Andres Soriano, Jr., first vice-president of the Philippine Air Lines, who paid a farewell call on the Chief Executive before leaving for the United States.

The President left his private residence shortly after 10 a.m. and proceeded to Malacañang to receive the courtesy call of Prof. Charles Moraze, French SEATO lecturer. Prof Moraze was presented to President Garcia by French Ambassador Georges Cattand and Dr. Rafaelita H. Soriano, chief of the SEATO affairs division of the Department of Foreign Affairs.

Members of the American Association of the United Nations headed by Prof. Warren Tomlinson of the University of Washington also paid a courtesy call on the President in Malacañang.

The 27-man group, composed of university professors and school teachers, are now in the Philippines in the course of a two-month round-the-world tour observing United Nations projects in foreign countries and the effects of American foreign aid programs.

Later, the President was briefed by members of the board of directors of the National Shipyards and Steel Corporation (NASSCO) on the progress of the firm’s ship-building program.

Present at the conference were Chairman Ulpiano Sarmiento, General Manager and Vice-Chairman Bernardo Abrera, and Directors Ramon T. Jimenez, Aniceto Crisostomo, Hilarion Henares, Jr., and Eligio Herrera.

Other presidential callers this morning were Ananias Garcia, Valeriano Toledo, and Alfonso Fallarme.

THIS afternoon the President signed Senate Joint Resolution No. 2, which seeks to create a temporary Philippine commission to work with a U. S. commission to be established by the American Government to study the veterans program in the Philippines.

The President also signed the bill which authorizes him to negotiate and contract for a loan with the Export and Import Bank of Japan or any other foreign bank or manufacturing corporations to finance the nationwide telecommunication system, and the bill amending the Reparations Act.

The creation of a temporary commission would pave the way for the approval by the American Congress of the joint resolution introduced by Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts on March 12, 1959, for the establishment of a temporary commission to study the veterans' program of the United States in the Philippines.

After signing the veteran bill, President Garcia authorized the trip to the United States of some members of the Philippine Department of the American Legion to work in Washington for the enactment into law of the resolution of Congresswoman Rogers.

The mission will also work for the amendment of the Rogers Act (PL 85-461) so as to grant to Filipino veterans the same hospitalization benefits as those authorized U. S. veterans at the Veteran Memorial Hospital, and the enactment into law of a bill which would repeal the provisions of a U. S. law which requires that payments be made to Filipino pensioners in pesos for each American dollar.

The mission will be composed of Defense Secretary Alejo Santos and the following officers of the Philippine Department of the American Legion: Alberto de Joya, commander, Inocentes Dineros, acting adjutant; Roberto Philips, national executive committeeman; Rev. Fr. Thomas Cannon, S. J., chaplain; Mrs. Juanita Santos, auxiliary; Marina Lopez de Joya, auxiliary.

The expansion and improvement of the telecommunication system is expected to be completed within five years and will involve an outlay of $12.3 million of capital equipment and services to be charged to the Japanese reparations, and ₱24 million for the peso' counterpart to be used for the installation of capital equipment, construction of buildings, purchase of sites, telephone and telegraph poles, and other materials procurable in the Philippines.

Present at the signing of the veterans commission were Defense Secretary Alejo Santos; Sen. Lorenzo Sumulong; Reps. Ramon Mitra, Jacobo Gonzalez, and Francisco Ortega; Gen. Dionisio Ojeda; Cols. Jose M. Barredo, Agustin Marking, and Vicente Umali; and war widows.

Earlier this afternoon, President Garcia administered the oath of office to Melecio Domingo as ad interim commissioner of internal revenue, succeeding Jose Arañas, retired.

Present at the induction ceremony held at the Malacañang reception hall were Finance Secretary Jaime Hernandez, former BIR commissioner Bibiano Meer, Judge Felix Domingo, high ranking officials of the Department of Finance and the Bureau of Internal Revenue, relatives and friends of the new BIR head.

The President also inducted the following officials of the Philippine Standards Association: Roberto Villanueva, president; Cesar Concio, vice-president for administrative affairs; Joaquin Maraño, vice-president for technical affairs; Mariano Ramiro. Gabriel Daza, and Gil Opiana, directors; and Jose Mene. Magat, executive secretary.

PRESIDENT Garcia today directed three of his Cabinet secretaries to proceed to the Tala Leprosarium to look into the needs of the community with the view to affording a new deal to the inhabitants, most of whom are afflicted with leprosy.

The President expressed deep concern upon hearing the report of Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo about conditions in the leprosarium after the latter's surprise visit there last week.

As a result of Secretary Pajo's first visit, the President directed the opening of a post office in the town, the release of $3,000 for an additional elementary school building, and the complete screening of all windows in the wards to keep out flies and mosquitoes.

Secretary Pajo motored to Tala, together with Health Secretary Elpidio Valencia, Public Works Undersecretary Nicolas Cuenca, Caloocan Mayor Macario Asistio, Presidential Backpay Committee Member Rodolfo V. Ocampo, Director Jose N. Rodriguez of the Disease Control Section of the Department of Health, and other officials of the Bureau of Posts and the Bureau of the Treasury, to make on-the-spot solutions to problems of the community.

Among the problems presented by the Tala Leprosarium authorities was the congestion and the resultant insanitary conditions, especially on the plaza, which had been set for future study and planning by Undersecretary Cuenca and his staff.

It was pointed out that there are around 2,300 patients in the leprosarium, consisting of men and women, veterans, and servicemen in addition to the town population which descended from former inmates and consisted for the most part of healthy citizens who have come to consider the 800-hectare colony as their home.

The original town lay-out has therefore been congested and needs wider streets, proper canals and drainage, and other facilities including accommodations for children born of leprous parents. At present a nursery operated by sisters of Our Lady of the Star takes care of some 200 children of various ages who have to be kept away from sick parents.

The group of officials also brought with them the checks of some 51 backpay claimants who had made representations with Secretary Pajo for their early payment. The checks were distributed by treasury officials who were with Secretary Pajo.

Other problems presented to Secretary Pajo for further study were:

- (1) Request of veterans and servicemen patients for participation in the hospitalization benefits given veterans in Army and veterans hospitals under R. A. 1362;
- (2) Veterans' request for payment of cash ration differential of ₱1.00 to which they claim they are entitled;
- (3) Additional pension of pensioners of ₱50.00 a month under Republic Act No. 1920; and
- (4) Rehabilitation of crippled patients and release of funds for physical medicine and reconstructive surgery.

Secretary Pajo told the huge crowd which packed the town center that he will make his report to the President and assured them that President Garcia will always be receptive to their requests.

The President today sent a message of condolence to the family of Don Roman Santos, a Manila businessman, who died of heart attack at the Doctor's Hospital last night.

The President today ordered the suspension of Francisco G. H. Salva, city fiscal of Pasay City, pending final disposition of the administrative charges filed against him by a private party.

The charges which involve irregularities and misconduct in office are being investigated by the Department of Justice.

Preliminary investigation of the case had been conducted by Baldomero Villamor, chief prosecutor. Villamor had recommended the suspension of Salva pending final disposition of the case by Department of Justice.

THIS evening the President deferred the imposition of price control following reports from, four government agencies that prices of prime commodities were as a whole within the normal reasonable range of fluctuations.

The President at the same time took two precautionary measures to assure that the level of prices would be maintained within the normal range of fluctuation. He directed the Central Bank to earmark $10 million more to the NAMARCO as standby allocation, thereby increasing this agency's allocation to $40 million this year.

The President also prepared the machinery with which to implement the Price Control law, should level of prices goes out of control. The machinery could be put into action in a moment's notice.

President Garcia was informed by NAMARCO General Manager Benjamin Estrella of huge shipments of prime commodities to flood the market. He said some $6 million worth is due to arrive the first week of August. Five hundred thousand cases of evaporated milk and 100,000 cases of corned beef are included in the huge shipment, it was said.

Meeting with Central Bank, NAMARCO, Bureau of Commerce, and Constabulary officials at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City, the President discussed the stern provisions of the price control law which, when strictly implemented, could be tough with businessmen.

The President reiterated his hope that alien and Filipino businessmen would cooperate in keeping the level of prices down. He said that he would not use the powers granted him under the price control law as long as prices were kept at reasonable levels.

The Chief Executive added, however, that he would not hesitate to use these powers if forced to do so in order to protect the interest of the consuming public.

President Garcia was informed by Central Bank and Bureau of Commerce officials that only a few prime commodities had gone beyond normal range of price fluctuations and that the general tendency was for maintained prices in Manila as well as in the provinces.

Particular attention was called to provisions which provide for imprisonment of not less than two years nor more than ten years and or a fine of not less than ₱2,000 nor more than ₱10,000 of any person who:

- (1) Sells at retail or wholesale any commodity in excess of the maximum prices established by the President of the Philippines;
- (2) Purchases any commodity in excess of the established maximum prices unless he makes a denunciation of the act to the proper authorities within seven days or unless it can be shown by satisfactory proof that the purchase was done under circumstances of compelling necessity or in good faith;
- (3) Refuses to sell any commodity under price control which he keeps either as an importer, manufacturer or producer, wholesaler or retailer in his establishment, store, or stall, whether displayed or not;
- (4) Having in stock merchandise the price of which is under control will transfer the same or make a false or fictitious sale of all or any portion thereof so as to defeat the purpose of this Act; and

(5) Fails or refuses to file with the Agency or Board or its duly authorized representative an inventory of his stock or to transmit bills of lading or bills of sale.

In the case of alien violators, in addition to the penalty provided in the law, the offender shall, upon conviction, be subject to immediate deportation without the necessity of any further proceedings on the part of the Deportation Board. If the offender is a naturalized Filipino citizen, in addition to the penalty, his naturalization certificate shall be cancelled.

Present at the conference were Brig. Gen. Isagani Campo, PC chief; Col. Flaviano Olivares, PC chief of staff; Labor Secretary Angel Castaño; NAMARCO General Manager Benjamin Estrella; Acting Director Rizalino Pablo; Graciano Salonga, chief of the market division; and Felipe Fernandez, all of the Bureau of Commerce; Margarito Araña of the Department of Labor; and Mrs. Fanny Garcia of the Central Bank.

July 21.—PRESIDENT Garcia discussed with members of the Council of Leaders the agenda for the national convention of the Nacionalista Party scheduled for Sunday, July 26, at a conference on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, this morning.

The four-hour long conference, which started at 8:30 a.m. with a breakfast, was attended by Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez, Sr., Senate Majority Floorleader Cipriano Primicias, Sr., Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez, Speaker Protempore Constancio Castahada, House Majority Floorleader Jose Aldeguer, and Sen. Claro M. Recto.

The conferees also discussed final plans for the proposed coalition of the Nacionalista-Citizens Party with the Nacionalista Party for the local elections this November.

This morning President Garcia congratulated Filipino farmers for the massive effort they had exerted to attain self-sufficiency in food and expressed confidence that in the near future his twin-goal of self-sufficiency in clothing and shelter will also come true.

President Garcia, who had a long conference with the Council of Leaders this morning, was represented by Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo as guest speaker at the awarding of prizes to the winners of the National Rice and Corn contest at Malacañang Park.

In his brief address, Secretary Pajo pointed out that the success of President Garcia's self-sufficiency in food drive was largely due to the all-around support given by all sectors of the population, the press and radio, and government as well as private civic agencies.

Secretary Pajo told the model farmers and the large crowd which attended the ceremony that the Philippines can comfortably support 60 million people and that it is paradoxical that there is a food shortage annually when the population is only 24 million people.

President Garcia, he said, had been worrying about this food shortage because since time immemorial, although the Philippines was an agricultural country, it had always been importing rice and other cereals from other countries, as local production was not enough to meet local demand.

He said President Garcia came up with a bold solution by increasing production through modern methods, the use of fertilizers and irrigation, and mechanized farming, and the feasibility of his program caught immediate popular support which resulted in a huge bumper crop this year.

Winners in the contest were:

Lowland Rice, Category I (1 to 2 hectares)

1st Prize, ₱2,500, Reymundo Saños, San Agustin, Libon, Albay, 241.78 cavans per hectare.
2nd Prize, ₱1,250, Cirilo Tañedo, Sanggalang, San Antonio, Nueva Ecija, 240 cavans.

A week ago, a delegation of tobacco farmers marched to Malacañang to request the release so that they could collect payment from the ACCFA for their tobacco which had been purchased from them and was already stored in the redrying plants of Agoo, La Union.

The President told newsmen that, when he signed Ang's conditional pardon, it was with the understanding that he would leave the country voluntarily.

President Garcia rejected Ang's reported reason that he could not leave immediately because he had been refused a visa to Hongkong and to Taipei.

THE CABINET this evening agreed, to institute annulment proceedings to rescind the sale to a private person of the controversial 46 hectare Sari Pedro Tunasan estate in Laguna which the government tried to purchase two years ago.

The Cabinet action was prompted by the petition of 33 families residing in the estate to the Land Tenure Administration to expropriate the land from its present owner and to distribute it at cost price to the petitioners.

At the same time, President Garcia directed the People's Homesite and Housing Corporation to liquidate its outstanding obligations amounting to several millions of pesos.

During the Cabinet meeting, the PHHC was directed to submit an itemized sheet of its outstanding obligations and proposal to liquidate them.

The President decided to take a hand in the liquidation of the accounts of the housing firm following complaints of workers of private contractors who have not been paid their wages.

In seeking the annulment of the sale of the Tunasan estate, the Cabinet believed that the Colegio de San Jose could not sell the hacienda to a third person, while the government was negotiating to acquire the property.

Press Secretary Jose C. Nable said the government had sought to acquire the property two years ago owing to the unrest in the area stirred up by the residents' desire to acquire the property.

He said the government had asked for the acquisition of the land at ₱38,000.

The Colegio de San Jose had asked for ₱46,000 for the property.

The Malacañang spokesman added that while negotiations were underway, a private landowner, Zoilo Alberto, purchased the property at ₱37,000.

In approving the proposal to seek the annulment of the sale to Alberto, the Cabinet based its decision on the opinion rendered by the Department of Justice that third parties should not intervene in negotiations being conducted by the government.

Earlier, President Garcia received former President Sergio Osmeña, who called to say goodbye before returning to Cebu.

In the afternoon, President Garcia received Senator Eulogio Balao who briefed him on the political situation in his home province of Cagayan.

The President also conferred lengthily with Gov. Esteban Bernido, who called at Malacañang for final instructions before returning to his province.

Gov. Bernido was accompanied by Loay Mayof Paulino Inting and, Balilihan Mayor Getulio Calope, also of Bohol.

July 31.—PRESIDENT Garcia will create a fact-finding committee to study the Tatalon expropriation case to help him decide as to what action he should take on a bill, passed during the special session of Congress providing for the purchase of the Tatalon Estate in Quezon City and its sale at cost to bona fide occupants.

The President's decision to create a committee came after a conference with Rep. Pedro A. Venida of Camarines Norte, sponsor of the bill, with whom he discussed some legal impediments to the expropriation of the property.

Rep. Venida informed the President that more than 1,500 landless persons would be benefitted by the expropriation and resale of the estate, in line with the land-for-the-landless policy of the Administration.

Earlier this morning, the President received Minister Rogelio Tristany of Argentina, who is returning soon to his country after completing his tour of duty in the Philippines.

The President also received Ambassador Salvador P. Lopez who is returning to his post in Paris.

PRESIDENT Garcia this afternoon dared Sens. Emmanuel Pelaez and Francisco "Soc" Rodrigo to quit the Nacionalista Party, calling them "political hypocrites" for joining the so-called Grand Alliance without shedding first their political identities as NPs.

At his regular press conference, the President hit the two NP senators who had joined the Grand Alliance and scored them for not bolting the party which they had repeatedly criticized.

They (Pelaez and Rodrigo) say the Nacionalista Party is not good, but why don't they bolt it?" the President asked.

The President made the remarks when asked to comment on the formation, of the new political group which presented recently a complete senatorial ticket.

Asked in the national language on the new political alliance, the President replied in halting Tagalog.

He branded the Grand Alliance ticket as "irresponsible" for not allowing the people to fix party responsibility for the misdeeds of the members.

At the regular press conference, the President:

1. Said he will stop the dismissal of several thousands of ineligible employees in different government offices and government controlled corporations in the course of what he called a "premature" implementation of the new civil service law;
2. Refuse to comment on Frank Pick's analysis of the economic situation in the Philippines;
3. Disclosed he had ordered an inquiry into the purchase of tobacco leaf by the Agricultural- Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration by the Presidential Committee on Administration Performance Efficiency;
4. Favored the holding of a majoralty convention in Manila to select the NP candidate; and
5. Tossed the responsibility for accepting or rejecting the proposed coalition between the NP and the Nationalist-Citizens Party to the NP executive Committee.

Commenting on the formation of the new Grand Alliance, the President said, "It is neither grand nor is it an alliance.

He claimed that candidates in order to win an election must present a concrete political stand and identify themselves with a party which will be responsible for the people.

In challenging Pelaez and Rodrigo to bolt the NP, the President said that if these NP senators believed that the Nacionalista Party is bad, "why don't they bolt it?"

At the same time, the President allayed the fears of several thousands of ineligible employees who are facing ouster from their government jobs in connection with the implementation of the new civil service law.

The President; appeared surprised over the reported plan to sweep the unclassified employees out of the government. He said he had not received any report on the matter.

He pointed out that there are certain mechanics Which should be followed before the government could enforce the new law.

He explained that the Civil Service Commission is enjoined by the new law to promulgate rules and regulations which should be published in the Official Gazette. He added that the new law could only be enforced 30 days after the publication of these regulations in the Gazette.

The President refused to comment on Pick's economic diagnosis of the country. He said "I don't think the article is worth my attention, "except that Pick has professed to be an expert on our economic affairs after staying herefor three days.'

The President also said he had ordered an inquiry into the so-called irregularities in the purchase of Virginia leaf tobacco by the ACCFA. The PCAPE is "silently probing into the matter," he said.

The President also said unless government agents could seize substantial evidence, he was not ready to forward the cases to the courts.

Touching on the Manila political situation, the President said he was in favor of holding an NP convention in the city for the purpose of choosing the official mayoralty candidate of the party.

The President disclosed he had received the resolution of more than 3,000 ward leaders from four districts of the city, urging him to support the move to hold an NP convention.

"The mayoralty convention," the President said, "would only complete the work already started."

On the proposed NP-NCP coalition, the President said the Council of Leaders had already "agreed in principle" on the political partnership between the two parties.

However, he said, "the proposal is now being discussed by the NP executive committee."

The President said the proposed coalition may eventually lead to the integration of the NCP members into the majority party.

"It is the natural evolution," he said "that coalition will eventually lead to integration or disintegration like two parties which had coalesced.'

President and Mrs. Garcia received 332 members of the Cebu delegation to the recently-concluded 10th World Boy Scouts Jamboree who paid a courtesy call at Malacañang this afternoon prior to their return to the province.

They were accompanied by officers and members of the Cebu boy scouts provincial council headed by Gil Garcia, president; Eusebio Sevilla, treasurer; and Pedro Soon, Opon Mayor Mariano Dimataga, Leocadio Monongan, Jose Moran, Col. Roque Ancajas, and Fr. Gerardo Jamaoas, spiritual adviser of the delegation.

The President gave the lads a short talks on the lesson to be learned from the jamboree, particularly on world peace and international brotherhood, and exhorted the boys to live- up to the lofty and nobel ideals of the boy scout organization.

After holding his regular weekly press conference, President Garcia inducted into office the new set of officers of the Rural Bankers Association of the Philippines.

Among those sworn into office were Jose Rodriguez, president; Jose Desiderio, vice-president for Luzon; Virgilio M. Garcia, vice-president for Visayas; Licerio D. Floirendo, vice-president for Mindanao; Eduardo Barretto, secretary-treasurer; and Juan T. Baun, Sergio Naguiat, Nestor Jalandoni, Rep. Guillermo Sanchez, Procopio Reyes, Sergio Ortiz Luis, Leon. F. Castillo, Oscar Cosculluela, Jose Segismundo, Mayor Alfonso Tabora, and Joyito Francisco, directors.

The induction ceremony was attended by, among others, Central Bank officials headed by Governor Miguel Cuaderno, Deputy Gov. Andres Castillo, and Director Augusto F. Espiritu of the Rural Banks administration division of the Central Bank.

The Chief Executive also received a check for one peso from the bankers and signed the deed of conveyance for the transfer of a property in Intramuros to the association as the site of their future national headquarters.

President Garcia also presented to Ramon O. Pates, provincial revenue officer of Rizal, a plaque awarded to him by the Capitol Press Club for being the most outstanding provincial revenue officer of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The award was given to Pates in the presence of Jose Pastor, who acted as representative of Benedict Samonte, president of the Capitol Club.

August 1.—PRESIDENT Garcia today conferred with Congress leaders and took up the impasse which marked the first meeting of the Nacionalista executive committee yesterday.

Present at the conference held at the President's private residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, were Speaker Daniel Z. Romualdez and Sen. Gil J. Puyat. Puyat represented Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez.

Malacañang was silent on the result of the conference but authoritative sources said the President took up the formation of the eight-man senatorial slate of the administration party.

The NP committee yesterday nominated only Senate President Rodriguez and decided to meet anew Tuesday to take up the nomination of the seven others.

The President, it was learned, had expressed concern over the issue of the proposed coalition of the Nacionalista and the Nationalist-Citizen Parties. He had told a press conference yesterday that the Council of Leaders in its last meeting approved in principle the partnership between the NP and the NCP.

However, the President said he was tossing the responsibility of finalizing the coalition to the NP executive committee.

PRESIDENT Garcia retired to his private residence on Bohol Avenue, Quezon City, this morning to catch upon a backlog of state papers needing presidential action that piled up on his desk during the week.

A heavy schedule of callers at Malacañang this week, made up mostly of delegates from various provinces to the NP national convention last Sunday and foreign and local contingents to the recently-concluded 10th Boy Scouts World Jamboree, gave the President little time to study and act on important papers of state.

After a light breakfast this morning, the President read the morning papers and then retired to a room and buckled down to work. No callers were scheduled for today; so the Chief Executive expected to work sans interruption on the papers brought to him by Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo.

President Garcia returned to his study after lunch and continued working until late afternoon. A flash rainstorm kept him indoors and prevented him from taking his daily stroll. He instead relaxed by reading the afternoon papers and later chatted with Palace aides until almost dinner time.

After dinner, the Chief Executive started preparing the first draft of a speech he will deliver at the annual birthday anniversary celebration of President Manuel L. Quezon in Quezon City on August 19.

President Garcia today commended former Internal Revenue Commissioner Jose Aranas for the increase in revenue collections during the last four months of the latter's incumbency.

In a report to the Chief Executive shortly before his retirement, Aranas revealed an increase of ₱27,347,785.83 in revenue collections from February to May, 1959.

The report also stated that the collections overshot budgetary estimates by ₱16,184,731.99.

The presidential commendation included personnel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The increase in revenue collections emphasizes that BIR personnel are stepping up tax collections in line with the Administration's tax collection program. It also shows the healthy attitude of tax payers to settle their obligations to the government on time, he stated.

The Aranas report does not include collections from four provinces and two cities, because until the time that the report was submitted to the President, these were still under preparation.

The provinces are Misamis Oriental, Masbate, Palawan, and Sulu. The cities are Bacolod and Ozamis.

The increase in tax collections are based on February to May, 1958, collections as compared to those of the same months this year. The smallest increase registered was in February, 1959, with ₱4,773,856.66; while the highest increase was in May, 1959 with ₱10,040,888.14. The collections during the months of March and April, 1959, averaged over ₱6 million a month.

President's Week in Review: August 2-8, 1959

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

August 2. — PRESIDENT Garcia woke up early this morning in spite of the fact he had stayed up to 2 a.m. the night before at the residence of Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, where he headed an anasalto staged by Malacañang officials and employees on the eve of his secretary's 55th birthday.

The President and the First Lady had enjoyed the rollicking affair with ranking Malacañang officials being asked to contribute in an impromptu program. With Assistant Executive Secretary Enrique C. Quema as master of ceremonies, Malacañang officials were individually called upon to sing songs, recite poems, deliver speeches, or play musical instruments.

The President climaxed the affair by proclaiming Secretary and Mrs. Pajo "king" and "queen" for a day. He placed on them colorful crowns fashioned out of colored paper and carboards. The mock ceremony was held amidst the explosive bangs of a fireworks display and the howls and of the cheers of Malacañang personnel.

It was a noisy, slambang family affair with everybody apparently enjoying every minute of it despite an intermittent drizzle.

President Garcia spent a quiet day today at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City, devoting most of his time to clearing his desk of pending state papers.

Early this morning, President and Mrs. Garcia heard mass before an improvised altar in their residence.

After partaking of a light breakfast, the Chief Executive read the Sunday morning newspapers and then closeted himself in his study until noon, working on papers.

The President resumed his work shortly after lunch and relaxed in the late afternoon by reading one of several books on chess given to him by friends and wellwishers last Christmas.

After a late supper, President Garcia stayed up until late in the evening preparing the preliminary draft of his speech for the forthcoming Quezon Day celebration in Quezon City.

The President approved the award of the Philippine Legion of Honor (Legionnaire) to Capt. Geferino S. Firaza, chief of police of Tabaco, Albay, and Antonio Villaos, barrio lieutenant of Pasipis, Lopez, Quezon, Malacañang announced this day.

In granting the award, the President cited Capt. Firaza for especially meritorious conduct and outstanding service to the cause of peace.

Sometime on December 19, 1958, upon learning of the presence of "Colonel" Pedro Borja of the Anderson's Fil-American Guerrillas, in Tiwi, Albay, Capt. Firaza mobilized the Tabaco police force and, together with some PC elements, engaged Borja in a gun fight resulting in the killing of two AFAG men and the wounding of two others.

Antonio Villaos, on the other hand, was cited for especially meritorious and invaluable service. Upon learning of the presence of Borja at Sumacab, Cavinti, Laguna, and without considering his personal safety and that of his family, Villaos informed the PC detachment in Quzeon province, resulting in the apprehension of Borja and 39 others.

Borja was alleged to be the mastermind in the Gancayco murder on San Miguel Island, Tabaco, Albay, and was reported to have been stirring up the people in the region to overthrow the government.

August 3.—PRESIDENT Garcia stayed in his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City and cancelled all appointments scheduled for today to devote his time studying five remaining bills passed during the last special session of Congress and whose deadline for presidential action falls at midnight tonight.

Early this morning, the President called for Legislative Secretary Vicente Logarta and Judge Salvador Esguerra, Palace legal adviser, to assist him on the bills.

Starting with a breakfast conference, the Chief Executive discussed the merits and demerits of the bills with Logarta and Esguerra until past 2 p.m. Defense Secretary Alejo Santo was later invited to the confab to clarify certain provisions of H.B. 2970, which sought to raise the ranks of certain officers in the AFP.

EARLY this afternoon, President Garcia summoned to Bohol Avenue J. Antonio Araneta, proprietor of the Tatalon Estate, to explain his side in the proposed expropriation of the vast Tatalon Estate.

President Garcia today directed Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo to issue twin directives calculated to ameliorate the plight of tobacco farmers in northern Luzon provinces.

Secretary Pajo's first directive to Central Bank Governor Miguel Cuaderno was for the immediate release of ₱24,500,00, which had been authorized by Auditor General Pedro Gimenez for payment of Virginia leaf tobacco purchased by the ACCFA as of June 19.

The second directive was dispatched to ACCFA Administrator Ernesto T. Jimenez, ordering him to resume immediately operations of the ACCFA redrying plants.

The attention of President Garcia and Secretary Pajo were called in a petition of tobacco farmers led by Gregorio V. Gonzales, Jr., reporting the rotting of Virginia leaf tobacco awaiting redrying processes.

About ₱12 million worth of Virginia leaf tobacco are aboard freight trucks at redrying plants exposed to the elements.

It was pointed out that farmers are paying demurrage fees as high as ₱40 a day and the tobacco is deteriorating to the great disadvantage of the farmers. The degeneration by only one grade could mean at least a difference of ₱2 per kilo in the selling price.

It will be recalled that ACCFA purchases for the tobacco season ending August 1, were stopped owing to a controversy that arose over the creation of the Philippine Virginia Tobacco Administration which will eventually take over the tobacco trading functions of the ACCFA.

August 4.—PRESIDENT Garcia woke up early this morning in spite of the fact that he had retired at 3:30 a.m. after finishing a lengthy memorandum embodying his reasons for allowing H.B. 3570, providing for the expropriation of the Tatalon Estate in Quezon City to lapse into law.

Beating the midnight deadline for presidential action on the remaining five measures passed during the last special session of Congress, the Chief Executive vetoed H.B. 2970, raising the ranks of certain officers of the Armed Forces, and approved the following:

(a) H. B. No. 3082, creating a national council on rehabilitation and providing for the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of the blind and other handicapped persons and their return to civil employment.

(b) S. B. No. 368, increasing the number of judges of the Court of First Instance to cope with the volume of undisposed cases in certain provinces; and

(c) S. B. No. 380, extending the retirement benefits enjoyed by justices of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals to judges of the courts of agrarian relations, industrial relations, tax appeals, first instance, and juvenile and domestic relations.

Rep. Justiniano S. Montano and his son, Gov. Delfin N. Montano of Cavite, accompanied Arcadio Alarcon, division superintendent of schools for Cavite, and other provincial school officials to Malacañang to request the expeditious release of ₱200,000. The money, they explained, will be used for the construction of an athletic field in Cavite City for the Southern Tagalog Athletic Association (STAA) meet early next year.

President Garcia accepted an invitation to open the nationwide, anti-tuberculosis drive in a ceremony to be held at the Malacañang social hall on August 18 in connection with the celebration of Anti-Tuberculosis Week from August 19 to 25 this year.

The invitation was extended by Pedro Lopez, executive secretary of the Philippine Tuberculosis Society, who was accompanied by Rep. Tobias Fornier of Antique. In the course of the call Rep. Fornier also briefed the President on the political situation in his province.

Rep. Leon Guinto, Jr., of Quezon proposed that a coconut mission be sent to the United States to follow up matters vital to the local coconut industry.

Rep. Guinto informed the Chief Executive that the price of copra had gone down during the last few months following receipt of reports that the U. S. was going to unload its stockpile of coconut oil on the world market.

The mission, Guinto said, could also work for the extension of the suspension of the coconut excise tax and seek a refund of some $150,000 in excise taxes paid by Filipino coconut producers since 1946.

Other congressional callers in Malacañang this morning were Reps. Gaudencio Abordo of Palawan, Francisco Sumulong of Rizal, Wenceslao R. Lagumbay of Lagutia, Dominador Tan of Leyte, Apolinario Apacible of Eatangas, Faustina Tobia of Ilocos Sur, Ramon Mitra of Mt. Province, Fausto Dugenio of Misamis Oriental, Alberto Ubay of Zamboanga del Norte, Agaton Ursua of Camarines Sur, and Ricardo Y. Ladrido of Iloilo.

They presented their requests for financial releases for the construction of schools and various public works projects and for the repair of public buildings and installations in their respective districts which were either damaged or totally defrayed by storms.

The President today expressed the hope that the forthcoming exchange of visits between President Eisenhower and Mr. Khrushchev would bring about a great era of world peace which is the dream and prayer of the entire humanity.

The President, who was vice-president and concurrently foreign affairs secretary during the incumbency of the late President Magsaysay, underscored the significance of the exchange of visits.

He pointed to these events as fraught with tremendous possibilities and significance.

The President today directed Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo to conduct an on-the-spot survey of damages wrought in Cotabato farms as a result of a reported locust infestation in nine Cotabato towns.

Secretary Pajo, who is chairman of the Emergency Relief Coordinating committee, will enplane to Mindanao tomorrow morning. He will be accompanied by Agriculture Undersecretary Amando Dalisay, PC Chief Isagani V. Ocampo, and other members of the committee created recently to handle relief work for victims of natural calamities.

The President expressed his concern over reports of ravages wrought on some 5,000 hectares of crops, principally upland and lowland rice, in at least nine Cotabato towns. He instructed his executive secretary to look into the reported forced suspension of the anti-locust campaign due to lack of funds.

The President recalled that a few weeks ago, he had authorized the release of funds from his contingent fund and had ordered the Air Force to have planes available for the locust operation. He emphasized the necessity of checking the infestation in time before it could do further damage and spread to other localities in Mindanao and other nearby provinces.

THIS evening the President summoned Justice Secretary Alejo Mabanag to Malacañang and directed him to utilize additional personnel of his department in order to expedite the disposition of pending criminal cases in Ilocos Sur.

Informed that there are about 500 criminal cases involving murder and homicide, as well as attempted murders and homicide, President Garcia directed the justice head to dispatch two additional judges and three special prosecutors to Ilocos Sur, with definite instructions to expedite the pending criminal cases.

After the conference, President Garcia announced that Judge Dollete will leave for Ilocos Sur on August 10, and Judges Romero and Domingo on August 17. The three judges had previously been alerted to be in readiness to help the two judges of the court of first instance of Ilocos Sur. clear the court docket. They will stay in the province for only three months.

Earlier, President Garcia received Canadian Consul General Henry L. E. Priestman, who accompanied the contingent leaders of Boy Scouts of Canada who attended the Tenth World Jamboree in Los Baños.

The Canadian Boy Scouts contingent leaders who are returning tomorrow to their country are Fred J. Finley, J. L. Watson, Leonard May, and Barry Dewil from Ottawa.

August 5.—PRESIDENT Garcia today, appointed Simeon M. Gopengco as ad interim government corporate counsel and Loreto C. Señorán as ad interim member of the board of examiners for architects.

Government corporate counsel is a new position created by Congress during this year's regular session. Duties of the position were formerly discharged by the solicitor general.

Gopengco, the new government corporate counsel, was a ranking official in the Solicitor General's Office before his new appointment.

The President received very few callers this morning at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City. He spent most of his time with Assistant Executive Secretary Sofronio Quimson, who brought to him some papers pending presidential action. He also went over the agenda for the regular weekly meeting of his Cabinet scheduled for this afternoon.

About 9 a.m., the President conferred with Public Works Secretary Florencio Moreno, who reported on the progress of construction work on various public works projects all over the country.

Gov. Valeriano Gatuslao of Negros Occidental also called to brief the President on political developments in the former's province.

Shortly before noon, the Chief Executive conferred with J. Antonio Araneta, head of the law firm administering the Tatalon Estate, in Quezon City. They discussed some legal aspects of the new law authorizing the expropriation of the estate and its subdivision and distribution to bona fide residents.

Other callers included Sen. Pedro Sabido and Rep. Lucas Paredes of Abra. They discussed political matters.

IN THE AFTERNOON the President motored back to Malacañang where he presided over the weekly meeting of his Cabinet.

President Garcia and members of his Cabinet this evening discussed proposals of six private firms who have offered to take over the government-sponsored integrated steel mills in Iligan.

The six companies are Larap Mines and Smelting Co., FUDCO, Engineering Development Corporation of the Philippines, Gonzalo Puyat & Sons, Jacinto Steel, Inc., and Associated Management Co.

The six firms offered to take over the proposed government steel mills after the Cabinet announced that it would consider private offers to take over the steel mills.

The Larap firm said it would be controlled by Filipino-capitalists on a 60-40 basis.

The FUDCO, on the other hand, said it is putting up the Rosar-Philippines Smelting Co., to be capitalized at $100 million with a paid-up fund of $85 million in the first year.

The Engineering Development Corporation, headed by former Chairman Filemon Rodriguez of the National Economic Council, said it would put a capital of ₱170 million or $85 million which is $25 million less than the amount fixed by the National Shipyards and steel Corporation.

The Gonzalo Puyat & Sons said it is putting up a steel plant with a capital of $76.9 million. This amount will be advanced at $48.5 million and the balance will be paid in pesos.

The Puyat offer is $33 million less than the NASSCO estimates.

The Jacinto firm is expected to put up ₱120 million as capital while the Associated Management Co. said it will establish the St. Agnes Iron and-Steel, Inc.

Bernardo P. Abrera, NASSCO general manager, objected to the six proposals saying that he doubted whether the firms could comply with the specifications if the amount is pared down. The NASSCO had estimated that a private firm, before it could comply with the specifications should have at least $110 million operating capital.

No decision was reached on the six applicants.

The President this evening directed the Department of Foreign Affairs to seek a reconsideration of the decision of the US Government turning down 15 items in the Philippine omnibus claims.

Serrano, officially informed the President of the rejection of 15 claims of the Philippine Government amounting to some $950 million.

The President pointed out that the claims were valid and sought a re-examination of these, items.

Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo wired Malacañang to report to the President on the US action on the PI claims. Romulo said that he had received, the US check amounting to $23,862,751 representing PI claims arising from the devaluation of the US dollar in 1934.

President Garcia hailed the payment of the $23 million devaluation item as a recognition of the “validity of PI cases.”

He expressed the hope that a review of these claims may bring about a recognition of all the items and their eventual payment by the US Government.

The US Government, have already recognized four other Philippine claims, including the $37 million war damage payments.

President Garcia and Secretary Serrano discussed this evening the official position of the United States on the Philippine omnibus claims.

The Chief Executive conferred lengthy with Serrano after the Cabinet meeting on the $900 million omnibus claims, the bulk of which was rejected by the US Tuesday, and on other matters in the field of PI foreign relations.

It was understood that the President and Serrano also took up the status of the present PI-US controversy over the failure of Clark Field authorities to yield documents pertinent to the killings of Filipinos inside the base.

August 6.—THIS morning, the President received Vincent A. Grantham, chairman of the board of directors, of the Chartered Banks of London, who paid him a courtesy call. The British banker was accompanied by Robert Roger Johnston, Manila branch manager of the Chartered Banks. President Garcia disclosed today that the board of directors of the Manila Railroad Company is concurrently studying the possibility of opening bids for the construction of the MRR extension lines to Sorsogon and the Cagayan Valley.

The disclosure was made in the course of his conference with Gov. Juan Frivaldo of Sorsogon, who called at Malacañang this morning and inquired about the projected extension of railroad facilities to the southern and northern tips of Luzon. The President said that the MRR intended to undertake both projects simultaneously as soon as the firm was ready to do so.

The Chief Executive also received in his study room, 24 governors and mayors who came to ask the President for the release of funds for feeder roads, school buildings, irrigation and waterworks projects, and to report on the political situation in their respective localities.

Later at noon, the President conferred with Judge Salvador Esguerra, Malacañang legal adviser, on the implementation of Republic Act No. 2616, providing for the expropriation of the Tatalon Estate in Quezon City.

President Garcia was advised by Judge Esguerra that the government could not institute expropriation proceedings on the Tatalon Estate in Quezon City, as the new law passed during the last special session of Congress authorizing the expropriation has failed to appropriate funds for the payment of the property.

Judge Esguerra informed the President that section 2 of Republic Act No. 2616 requires the appropriation of funds by Congress for the payment of "just compensation" for the estate before expropriation proceedings could be instituted.

Judge Esguerra pointed out that section 7 of the act merely authorizes the future appropriation by Congress of funds up to ₱10 million for the purchase of the estate. He said that Congress should make an outright appropriation as required in section 2 of the act before expropriation proceedings could be maintained by the government.

"Unless and until such appropriation shall have been made," Judge Esguerra added, "the government cannot legally stay the action for ejectment instituted against tenants by the owners of the property."

The President had summoned Judge Esguerra to a conference upon receipt of a letter from C. S. Ruperto, counsel of Tatalon tenants, urging the Chief Executive to intervene in stopping the demolition of houses of the tenants on the estate.

The President then received Col. Bernard Anderson and conferred with him on Philippine veterans affairs. Col. Anderson was accompanied by Sen. Eulogio Balao, who made representations for the immediate release of funds for the construction of various community development projects in Cagayan.

Judge Feliciano de Gala, general manager and board chairman of the, Philippine Coconut Administration (PHILCOA), reported to the President on his attendance in the recent congress of the Internal Association of Seed Crushers in Cannes, France, and on the result of his trade survey of various countries in Europe to observe trading and processing conditions there.

The Chief Executive received callers at his study from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

THIS AFTERNOON the President branded as "premature" the dismissal of non-eligibles from public offices and shifted the responsibility of rehiring these employees back into the service to the department and bureau heads.

At his regular press conference, the President reiterated that the new civil service law could not be implemented until the Bureau of Civil Service has promulgated rules and regulations on the new statute.

Asked to comment on the letter of Director Zoilo Oastrillo of the Bureau of Lands, who had allegedly laid off several unclassified employees in accordance with civil service law, President Garcia said he had not yet received the Director's communication.

However, the President emphasized that the civil service commissioner could not implement the new law until after the latter had issued rules and regulations which should be published in the Official Gazette.

He said that the law could only take effect 30 days after the rules have been published in the Gazette.

At the press conference, the President also:

1. Said the locust infestation in Mindanao, has worsened and now threatens the self-sufficiency program of his administration;
2. Stated that he had directed the foreign office to take steps to salvage the rejected 15 items in the Philippine omnibus claims with the United States Government; and
3. Admitted the helplessness of his administration to stop the eviction of squatters in the Tatalon Estate following the failure of Congress to enact ₱10 million for the appropriation of the 96-hectare Quezon City Lands.

The President admitted that the locust infestation in Mindanao, especially in Cotabato province, has worsened.

He conferred with Executive Secretary Juan C. Pajo, who reported that the situation is serious and threatened to "upset the President's Program of self-sufficiency in food."

Secretary Pajo returned from a survey of the infestation in Cotabato.

The Executive Secretary reported that he was met by a general clamor for more sprayers and chemicals to combat the pest upon his arrival at the provincial capitol yesterday morning.

This evening the President discussed the locust infestation with National Defense Secretary Alejo Santos.

Santos said that Army planes had been scouring the infested area and spraying chemicals in an effort to exterminate the swarms of locust which had threatened the rice plants.

The Defense Secretary, however, said that his program is faced with difficulties, as Army planes could not swoop low in rugged areas in Mindanao.

Touching on the PI claims, the President said he had ordered the Department of Foreign Affairs to take steps to salvage the rejected items.

He refused to disclose the Government plans for a reconsideration of the U.S. stand on the 15 rejected claims.

The President reiterated that the Philippine claims are “valid and legitimate” demands from the U.S. Government.

The President also admitted Government’s helplessness to help the Tatalon squatters who are facing eviction. He said the Government could not now seek expropriation of the estate, as it does not have the needed appropriation of ₱10 million.

He pointed out that the eviction of the squatters and tenants are in accordance with court decrees.

However, he express the hope that the owners of the estate would not sell the property until after Congress has appropriated the required amount for the expropriation of the estate.

MEANWHILE, Commissioner Amado del Rosario of the Bureau of Civil Service allayed fears of a mass layoff of government employees when the new civil service law takes effect.

He said the fear is “without foundation in fact.” He pointed out that he had written the auditor general urging the retention of skilled and semi-skilled laborers “because there are no laborer eligibles available for certification.”

Del Rosario also said that non-eligibles could not be retained until they are replaced by “appropriate eligibles on the local register.” He, however, said that there are eligibles for clerical, jobs.

He stressed the need of replacing the ineligible in the clerical groups, as there are qualified men to take over their positions.

Del Rosario said the replacement of the unqualified clerks by eligibles is not in accordance with, the new civil service, law but in accordance with statute “since the first Civil Service Act No. 5 was enacted by the Philippine Commission on September 19, 1900.

He said that the new law only repeals those which are inconsistent with that civil service statute.

“There is absolutely no doubt that the previous laws on the subject of certification of eligibles and replacement of non-eligibles are not inconsistent with Republic Act 2260. As a matter of fact,” he added, “said Act reenforces such provisions and makes non-compliance therewith a punishable offense.”

August 8.—PRESIDENT Garcia today enlisted the assistance of Nacionalista Party leaders in Ilocos Sur in the Administration’s efforts to restore peace and order in their violence-ridden province.

Summoning the NP leaders, to a conference at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City this noon, the President expressed his determination to have a peaceful and orderly elections in the province this year. He urged them to cooperate closely with Defense Secretary Alejo Santos and Constabulary authorities and to recommend means of arresting the fresh wave of killings in their respective localities.

The President informed the Ilocano NP leaders that according to findings of investigators sent to the field, the killings had been due to personal grudges and family feuds, rather than to political differences. With the aid of influential leaders and men of good standing in the communities, it should not be very difficult to stamp out violence and lawlessness in the province, he said.

The President said he had given Secretary Santos plenary power to handle the situation there. He reiterated, however, that the imposition of martial law would be too drastic and that conditions actually obtaining in the province did not warrant the curtailment of basic individual liberties.

The 80-man delegation from Ilocos Sur was composed mostly of municipal mayors, councilors, and official candidates for local positions as well as chairman of local NP chapters. Accompanied by Assistant Executive Secretary Enrique C. Quema, the group included Reps. Tobia and Godofredo S. Reyes, ex-Gov. Perfecto Faypon, and Mayor Nicolas Bello of Santa.

Earlier this morning, the President had a prolonged conference with Senate President Eulogio Rodriguez with whom he discussed ways of setting factional rivalries among NP leaders in the provinces, particularly among those aspiring for the same positions.

The two conferees also discussed the result of the NP executive committee meeting yesterday and assessed the chances of victory for the party in this year's elections. The conference lasted from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Other callers at the President's Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City this morning included Sen. Domocao Alonto and Gov. Madki Alonto of Lanao del Sur, who gave the President a fill in on the latest political developments in the newly created province, and Rep. Wenceslao Rancap Lagumbay of Laguna.

The President did not receive any caller in the afternoon. After a late lunch, he retired for a brief rest. Then he closeted himself in his study, where he went over some pending state papers brought over to him by Assistant Executive Secretary Sofronio Quimson.

IN THE COURSE of his conference with various callers at his Bohol Avenue residence in Quezon City this morning, the President has occasion to explain his veto of House Bill No. 2970, saying that the country could ill afford one lieutenant general, six major generals, and 14 brigadier generals, considering the tendency of Congress to reduce AFP appropriations.

As a direct consequence of the promotion of the rank of the chiefs of the major services as provided in the bill; their respective deputies will have to be also promoted to the rank of brigadier general, thus adding four more one-star generals, to the AFP roster, the President explained;

Another probable consequence of these promotions in rank would be that the present zone and area commanders of the Army and the Constabulary whose rank is now colonel may be expected to ask for a raise of their rank to brigadier general in order to establish the balance of rank based on responsibility, the President added.

The Chief Executive also said that if this happens, and counting the Laur commander of the standing division as well as the commandant of the Philippine Military Academy, there would be a total of 14 brigadier generals.

In short, the President stated, the AFP with a personnel of less than 50,000 men would have 21 generals, which the Philippine Government at present can ill afford to pay.

The President pointed out that the present tendency of Congress is to reduce the appropriations for the Armed Forces of the Philippines, with the possible exception of the Philippine Air Force and the Philippine Navy.

President's Week in Review: August 9-15, 1959

OFFICIAL WEEK IN REVIEW

August 9.—EARLY this morning, the President heard mass said at his Quezon City residence with members of his family. Following the mass, the President had breakfast with Mrs. Garcia, his children, Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Campos, and Maj. Jose Estrella, junior military aide.

The President did not receive any caller the whole day. He spent most of his time at his study going over some papers, including the ACCFA report. He also dictated the outline of a speech he is scheduled to deliver Tuesday evening at the induction of board members of the Chamber of Commerce of the Philippines at the Winter Garden of the Manila Hotel in which he will be guest speaker.

President Garcia today summoned Administrator Ernesto Jimenez of the Agricultural Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration (ACCFA) to a conference tomorrow on the early creation of the Philippine Virginia Tobacco Administration, which will take over the functions currently being performed by the ACCFA in promoting the interest of tobacco farmers.

The President will enlist the assistance of the ACCFA administrators in the organization of the new office. He will ask him to submit in the Recommendations to improve various aspects of the undertaking, like the tobacco purchasing program, the proper grading of tobacco leaves and other matters designed to advance the welfare of the small farmers.

The Chief Executive will also instruct the ACCFA manager to liquidate outstanding obligations of the ACCFA in connection with its tobacco purchasing activities as Republic Act No. 2265 creating the PVTA provides that such outstanding liabilities should first be settled before the creation of the new office.

The President today went over a voluminous report recently submitted by Jimenez on the ACCFA's tobacco purchasing program. Contents of the report have not, however, been disclosed pending the President's conference with Jimenez.

The President said he was enlisting the assistance of Jimenez in the creation of the new office, as he wanted the PVTA to profit by the experience of the ACCFA. The conference will be held tomorrow morning at the President's residence in Quezon City.

August 10.—PRESIDENT Garcia today directed Ernesto Jimenez, administrator of the Agricultural Credit and Cooperative Financing Administration, to start paying right away the purchases of Virginia leaf tobacco it had made for the last six months.

The presidential directive stemmed from the complaint of farmers from the Ilocos provinces that they had not been paid yet and that they needed money in view of the advent of the rainy season.

The other day, President Garcia had directed the Central Bank to release ₱30 million to the ACCFA for the payment of Virginia leaf tobacco purchased from farmers.

The President discussed lengthily with Jimenez the advisability of organizing immediately the Philippine Virginia Tobacco Administration, as provided for by a new law.

The conferees also discussed the problems facing the local Virginia tobacco industry. Jimenez informed President Garcia that the primary problem of the local Virginia tobacco industry is the marketing of the surplus which has been accumulating for the past two years.

Jimenez pointed out that unless the surplus is disposed of, especially the sun-dried variety, the ACCFA will not be in a position to liquidate its outstanding obligation with the Central Bank. The state firm borrowed money from the Central Bank to engage in the purchase of Virginia tobacco irrespective of kind, in accordance with the provisions of law.

The payment of Virginia leaf tobacco purchase will be made, according to Jimenez, in close coordination with personnel of the Central Bank and of the General Auditing Office. The ACCFA purchasing season for this year will end within two weeks, Jimenez informed the President.

As of today, ACCFA has purchased 20.9 million kilograms of Virginia leaf tobacco this crop year, according to Jimenez, while private parties have bought 7.5 million kilograms. About 8.5 million kilograms of Virginia leaf tobacco are in redrying plants in FACOMA warehouses or in hands of farmers.

Jimenez was directed by President Garcia to exert every effort to dispose of the surplus pending the organization of the Philippine Virginia Tobacco Administration. The law creating the PVTa requires that all outstanding obligations of the ACCFA in connection with its tobacco purchasing activities, should first be liquidated before this function is transferred to the PVTa.

Earlier this morning, the President had separate conferences with General Services Secretary Alejandro Almendras and Justice Undersecretary Enrique A. Fernandez, who called to consult him on matters pertaining to their respective departments. Almendras had been one of those nominated by the NP executive committee for the party's senatorial slate for this year's election.

The President also conferred with Sen. Domocao Alonto, Gov. Madki Alonto, and other political leaders from Mindanao who briefed him on the latest political developments in Mindanao provinces.

Other callers this morning included Manuel Nieto, Jr., chairman of the Games and Amusements Board, some governors, and municipal mayors from nearby provinces who sought financial assistance for pet public works projects in their respective localities.

THIS evening the President met Ilocos Sur political leaders anew and decided to break the stalemate in the selection of an NP gubernatorial candidate for the province.

Aspirants for the position are Rep. Godofredo Reyes and Mayor Nicolas Bello of Santa town.

The President decided to select Rep. Reyes as the NP gubernatorial candidate. He said that according to a straw vote he had made from among the delegates who saw him last Saturday, the choice was the congressman.

At the same time, the President said that Mayor Bello could be the vice-gubernatorial candidate.

The political leaders who saw President Garcia were Reps. Faustino Tobias and Reyes, Assistant Executive Secretary Enrique C. Quema, Mayor Bello, and former Governor Perfecto Fayon.

August 11.—PRESIDENT Garcia said today he would bring to the attention of the executive committee of the Nacionalista Party the "strong representations" made by more than 20 NP members of the House of Representatives for the inclusion of Rep. Vicente Peralta of Sorsogon in the senatorial line-up.

A protest against the non-inclusion of their colleague from Sorsogon was signed by the congressmen in spite of the objection of Rep. Peralta, who announced that he was not in favor of the move.

The President who received his callers at Malacañang this morning also took up with senators and congressmen the political problems in their respective localities.

Following the successful mediation efforts of the President in the gubernatorial squabble in Ilocos Sur, Domocao Alonto requested his intervention in the gubernatorial row in Sulu in order to preserve party unity.

Contesting the post of governor are the incumbent Gov. Leon Fernandez, who is running for reelection, and District School Superintendent Salu Ututalum, both of whom were summoned to Malacañang for a conference by the President.

At the same time, Rep. Francisco Lecaroz of Marinduque requested the help of the President to have his province declared a free zone among the NP candidates. In this connection, Rep. Lecaroz boosted Maj. Arturo Sevilla, presidential adviser on aviation, for the top provincial post, stating that Sevilla could preserve party unity.

The move boosting Peralta for the Senate was spontaneously spearheaded by Reps. Marcelino Veloso of Leyte, Benjamin Ligot of Cagayan, and Delfin Albano of Isabela, and backed by Reps. Wenceslao Lagumbay and Jacobo Gonzales of Laguna, Leon Guinto, Jr., and Manuel Enverga of Quezon, Salvador Encinas of Sorsogon, Bartolome Cabangbang of Bohol, Cesar Fortich of Bukidnon, Laurentino Badelles of Lanao, Ramon Mitra of Mt. Province, Gaudencio Abordo of Palawan, Guillermo Sanchez of Agusan, Leonardo Perez of Nueva Vizcaya, Alberto Aguja of Leyte, Reynaldo Honrado of Surigao, Francisco Lecaroz of Marinduque, Francisco Sumulong of Rizal, Aguedo Agbayani and Luciano Millan of Pangasinan.

President Garcia, however, told the congressmen that they should have initiated the move, which was alleged to count with the solid support of 60 members of the Lower House, before the NP executive committee made the selection of the NP senatorial candidates.

Earlier this morning, the President had a closed door conference with Rep. Peralta in his bedroom. Then he received Speaker Daniel Romualdez, Rep. Genaro Magsaysay, Senators Fernando Lopez, Domocao Alonto, and Eulogio Balao, and Reps. Tobias Fornier and Jose Aldeguer. Another presidential caller was a former congressman and governor, Dr. Fermin Caram of Iloilo.

The President received callers from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

In the afternoon, he motored to the Winter Garden of the Manila Hotel, where he was guest of honor at the induction of officers of the Chamber of Commerce of the Philippines.

President Garcia received official notice today that over $37 million was approved by the Development Loan Fund for public works projects and private enterprise.

Reporting on his trip from the United States, Public Works Undersecretary Marciano D. Bautista was highly optimistic on the approval of another $33 million by the Export-Import Bank for national projects.

A total of $18,750,000 was approved in loans for the construction of public highways and $19 million was approved by the Development Loan Fund for private loans, including $5 million for small industrial loans.

Addition to the substantial loans awarded to the Philippine government and private sector, Undersecretary Bautista was successful in negotiating better terms in payment.

President Garcia congratulated Undersecretary Bautista for a job well done. The latter left for the United States for the official mission in May and returned August 2, 1959. The President was informed today that the killing of Prudencio Sales, 44, at the height of a political meeting last Sunday night in Moalboal, Cebu, was not politics-inspired.

A radio message received by Malacañang from Camp Lapu-Lapu, 111 PC Zone headquarters, said that Sales, reportedly a political follower of Rep. Sergio Osmeña, Jr., was under the influence of liquor and was creating trouble.

He was shot down by Mateo Duaya, after Sales had fired his gun at four persons, and hit an innocent bystander. The message was intended to clarify newspaper reports attributing the death of Sales to politics.

August 12.—THIS morning the President signed two proclamations first declaring August 19 as a special public holiday throughout the Philippines and the second setting aside August 29 as a special' holiday in San Juan, Rizal.

The first proclamation, numbered 607, was issued to give the people full opportunity to render homage to the memory of the late President Manuel L. Quezon, whose 81st birthday anniversary falls on that day.

The President enjoined the people to observe the day with appropriate ceremonies designed to inculcate upon them, especially the youth, the rights and duties of good citizenship to the end that they will consecrate themselves to the ideals and traditions of the Republic.

The other proclamation, numbered 608, commemorates the 63rd anniversary of the Battle of Pinaglabanan in San Juan, Rizal, an important event in the Filipino people's struggle for freedom.

The historical event is of particular significance to the residents of San Juan, Rizal, and the day was declared a special holiday in that municipality to enable them to celebrate the occasion with appropriate ceremonies.

The President today denied he had given unconditional support to Hernando Valmores' gubernatorial aspirations in the forthcoming- elections in Misamis Oriental.

The President's clarification was issued following reports appearing in. certain metropolitan newspapers that he was indorsing fully the election of Valmores.

THE CABINET this evening agreed to delay implementation of the new civil service law to prevent the mass layoff of temporary and unclassified employees in different government offices.

The President and the Cabinet gave Commissioner of Civil Service Amado del Rosario "reasonable time" to promulgate the necessary rules and regulations covering implementation of the new statute.

Malacañang did not specify the length of time needed by the civil service commissioner.

At the same time, the President directed Del Rosario to study ways and means of giving a general examination to give the temporary employees an opportunity to gain permanent status.

Before the new statute could be enforced, these rules and regulations should first be published in the Official Gazette.

Del Rosario was summoned to the Cabinet meeting this evening to explain the program of his office in connection with the implementation of the new law.

He told the Cabinet that he was in favor of the gradual displacement of the temporary employees in order to avoid disruption in the public service.

The Cabinet decision cleared up the confusion created by the premature dismissal of unqualified employees by several government offices.

August 13.—PROVINCIAL governors and city and municipal mayors called on President Garcia this morning and renewed their pledges of loyalty and support to his Administration.

The President was gratified to hear the pledge of support of three municipal mayors of Misamis Oriental. The mayors formerly die-hard supporters of Sen. Emmanuel Pelaez said they choose to remain in the NP fold and promised to support all eight senatorial candidates of the party.

The mayors were Felipe Arcenas of Kinoguitan, Ismael Labos of Alobihid, and Enerito R. Acain of Initao. They were accompanied to Malacañang by Maj. Tommy Chavez, NP candidate for governor of Misamis Oriental.

The President also received pledges of support from Gov. Emilio Naval and former Press Secretary J. V. Cruz, both of Bataan. Gov. Naval announced that he is supporting the gubernatorial bid of Cruz.

Mayor Telesforo A. Unas of Maragondon, Cavite, requested President Garcia the early release of ₱120,000 for the construction of the Mambog Communal Irrigation System and the Tuma Communal Irrigation System in his town.
